ARE AFTER NIGHT RIDERS

Tennessee Militia Seeks the Slayer of Captain Rankin.

Colonel Taylor, Supposedly Killed, is Alive and Unharmed.

Union City, Tenn., Oct. 21.—After having ordered out troops to pursue the night riders who murdered Capt. Rankin, and who, supposedly, murdered Col. R. Z. Taylor, Governor Patterson learned today that Taylor was not slain, but escaped from the assailants and has arrived safely at Tiptonville. Taylor says the night riders must have fired as many as 500 bullets after him.

Governor Patterson, who arrived here last night was early astir this morning directing operations leading to the apprehension of those concerned in the murder. One hundred and fifty militiamen arrived today and were distributed throughout the district. Governor Patterson gave out the following statement today:

"I have offered the largest reward the law will permit for the arrest and conviction of the assassins, and have ordered out troops. I have believed that the militia should be the last resort in a state governed by law, but the time has come when it is my duty as governor, to use all the power at my command to restore order in the region where these assassinations have occurred, and to assist the courts in the apprehension and punishment of the perpetrators.

"We have had enough of lawless acts, of threats, intimidation and other methods of terrorizing citizens and communities. This must be stopped, if the consequences will have to be accepted."

ARE FORCED INTO COURT

Two British Cabinet Members Haled in Suffragette Cases.

Lloyd-George and Gladstone Examined by Woman Lawyer.

London, Oct. 21.—The suffragettes succeeded in bringing two members of the British cabinet, David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, and Herbert Gladstone, secretary of state for home affairs, as witnesses to the Bow street police court this morning.

The occasion was the hearing of the cases against Mrs. and Miss Pankhurst and Mrs. Drummond, who were tried for inciting to disorder, when they appealed early in the month to the public to help them "rush" the house of commons, and seventeen other women, who were arrested Oct. 13, charged with disorderly conduct.

A large crowd, including many suffragettes, had gathered. Miss Pankhurst examined the two cabinet members. The purport of her questions, many of which were disallowed by the judge, was to show that if the government gave women "their rights," the disorders would come to an end.

BRYAN SCORES BIG BRIBERS

Newark, Ohio, Oct. 21.—"I say to you that the little ward heeler who goes around and bribes a man for five dollars is a moral character beside the man who attempts to use his power to threaten those who work for him and to buy them by a promise of increase or threaten them by a promise of decrease."

Thoroughly aroused by what he termed a "new menace" through the publication today of a dispatch stating that the officials of the New York Central lines had summoned their workmen and informed them that if the Democrats won the election there would be a ten per cent reduction in wages, but that if they lost there would be an increase, William J. Bryan, in a before-breakfast speech to a vast throng, poured a volley of criticism into the Republican party for its campaign tactics.

CLEVELAND'S CABINET RALLIES AROUND THE BRYAN STANDARD

RICHARD OLNEY.

JOHN BIGELOW.

JUDSON HARMON.

New York, Oct. 21.—All in support of William Jennings Bryan for president of the United States, four ex-members of the cabinet of the late President Grover Cleveland were heard from last night at a giant Democratic demonstration in Carnegie hall—three being on the platform and one, ex-Secretary of the State Richard Olney, telegraphing his regret that he could not be present, but expressing his warm espousal of the Bryan cause. The ex-secretary of the treasury, Judson Harmon, Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio and ex-attorney general in the Cleveland official family, and ex-Secretary of the Navy Hilary A. Herbert of Alabama. All spoke enthusiastically for Bryan and Kern. In addition, John Bigelow, one of the oldest newspaper men in New York city and former friend and supporter of Abraham Lincoln and Samuel Tilden, came out with hearty fervor for Bryan and "that Indiana patriot and statesman, John W. Kern." Said Mr. Herbert to the cheering thousands: "The Democratic party is a united party, and today is as strong and compact a fighting organization as under Tilden. We will win a victory this year."

WOMEN TO FIGHT WITH POSTERS

Suffragists Decide on Country-Wide Campaign on Billboards.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 21.—The closing day of the fortieth annual convention of the National American Women's Suffrage association, finds the routine work cleared up and the delegates well pleased with what is conceded to have been one of the most successful gatherings the association has ever held.

The delegates will carry home with them to every state in the union thousands of large posters printed in heavy black type with which to inaugurate a "poster campaign."

An effort will be made before election day to place one or more of these posters at every election booth in the country, or as close to them as the law allows.

The posters give the names of states and foreign countries in which women are entitled to cast a ballot, followed by the query: "Are women of this state less entitled to a vote?" and the word "Why?" in type several inches high.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Dressed in men's clothes, Miss Hazel Main, 17 years of age, who says her home is in Milwaukee, was found wandering aimlessly about the street in the vicinity of Wabash avenue and Twelfth street today and was taken to the Harrison street police station.

The girl was astonished when told that she was in Chicago and it was some time before the police could convince her she was not in Milwaukee.

She told a story of having been kidnaped and brought here, where she was held a prisoner.

ANCHORS DRAGGING; FLAG HALF-MASTED.

Galilee, N. J., Oct. 21.—With an American flag half-masted and union down flying from her fore-rigging, a three-masted schooner, name unknown, is anchored off this city. Her anchors are dragging before a high northeast wind and sea, and unless assistance is soon given, may come ashore on the beach. The life-savers at this station are watching the vessel and will go to the aid of the crew if the vessel should near the beach.

SCRATCHED!

FOUR DIE; SHIP BURNS

Since the end of the day line season the New York had been moored at the shipyard. Soon after midnight the fire was discovered aft. The Newburgh fire department was called, but the firemen were unable to stay the destruction. There was no steam in the boiler when the fire broke out and the steamer's pumps were useless.

One of the victims is Joseph Matthews, who, when fleeing with his companions, learned that some of them had been left behind. He insisted on returning to rescue them. Rushing through the flames and smoke, he disappeared from view and never returned.

The fire was caused by the explosion of an oil lamp. The steamer cost more than $500,000, and was lengthened at a cost of $40,000.

He will then go down into the Second district, his old home, to talk for W. S. Hammond. He speaks at Springfield the Saturday night before election, and at Mankato Nov. 2, the night before election, thus repeating his performance of two years ago.

J. J. HILL ENTERS INTO CAMPAIGN

Chicago, Oct. 21.—During the past week the Republican national campaign fund has been enriched by contributions of several hundred thousand dollars, and James J. Hill is the man who has raised the money, says Walter Wellman in the Record-Herald. Mr. Hill has thus taken the place in the Taft campaign which "my dear Mr. Harriman" held in the Roosevelt campaign four years ago. For the first time since the opening of this year's battle the Republican national committee feels comfortable financially, and able to push the work with vigor during the last fortnight of the campaign.

President Roosevelt's influence was enough to get $100,000 from Andrew Carnegie, and some one stirred up Mr. Hill. It was James J. Hill who came to the rescue of Mark Hanna during the dark days of the first Bryan-McKinley fight. Mr. Hill used his personal influence among the rich men of New York and procured for Mr. Hanna a considerable part of the $6,000,000 fund that was used in that campaign. Now he has come to the rescue of Mr. Hitchcock in a similar way. He has spoken the words in the right ears in New York, which have resulted in a surprising increase of the funds in the war chest.

It is said the amount raised by Mr. Hill was about $300,000.

MORSE ICE POOL IN MANY NAMES

Evidence Shows It Operated One Hundred Eleven Accounts.

New York, Oct. 21.—Evidence was introduced at the joint trial of Charles W. Morse, financier, and Alfred H. Curtis, ex-president of the defunct National bank of North America, who are charged with conspiracy and violation of the national banking laws, which made it appear that in the eighteen months between June, 1905, and November, 1907, "The Morse Ice Pool"—so known in financial circles—bought and sold stock of the American Ice company through fifty-nine brokers and operated 111 accounts, slightly differentiated as to names, and that the pool brokers earned commissions during that period of upwards of $1,000,000.

Harriman Is Re-elected.

New York, Oct. 21.—Directors of the Union Pacific Railway company and of the Oregon Short Line re-elected their officers, including E. H. Harriman, as president of both companies.

HEROINE, 19, SAVES PUPILS

Pass Night in Field, Surrounded by Wild Animals.

Alpena, Mich., Oct. 21.—Among the most thrilling experiences of survivors of the Presque Isle county forest fires was that of Miss Grace Barber, a school teacher of 19, whose school in Krakow township was in session when the flames swept down upon the building. A terrified farmer had rushed into the building to give the alarm just as the rear of the schoolhouse caught fire.

The young teacher marshalled her pupils in a double row, the largest at the head and ordered them to remain in close order and not to break the line. She then directed the leaders to head for a plowed field nearby, and the column started on a run, Miss Barber bringing up the rear to prevent straggling.

Burning embers fell thick, but the teacher kept the children crowded together and every ember was extinguished the instant it fell upon any child's clothing. The fire burned steadily for some time as the blaze in the tops of the trees ate its way down.

Soon animals began to appear upon the edge of the field and during the night two bears made their appearance. A fox came slinking in, as did also a wild cat, rabbits, partridges and other game. But the animals kept well away from the children, not even the bears offering hostile demonstrations.

Miss Barber kept her charges in the field all Thursday night and in the morning sent them in groups, piloting the smaller ones herself.

MONNETT MAKES CHARGE AGAIN

Tells How Oil Trust Corrupted Ohio Supreme Court.

Salt Lake City, Oct. 21.—Frank S. Monnett, ex-attorney general of Ohio, addressed a large delegation of Utah Democrats at Salt Lake theater. After discussing the principal issues of the campaign, he said:

"The reason I left the Republican party and advocate the election of Mr. Bryan is due to the fact that while I was prosecuting Standard Oil in Ohio, and with every reason to expect a successful issue, the Republican campaign fund of Ohio was swelled by contributions from Standard Oil, and in return that company was allowed to name the personnel of the supreme court of Ohio, whereupon all of the Standard Oil cases were promptly dismissed.

"Then," said Mr. Monnett, "I became a Democrat."

THE BUSY WHIRL OF POLITICS

AN ENEMY TO LABOR

Jacobson's Record in Legislature on Union Labor's Bills.

He Has Consistently Fought Them on Every Occasion.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Republicans are making persistent efforts to persuade the workingmen of the state that J. F. Jacobson is their friend; that he has been their friend in the past, and that his legislative record has been marked with efforts in the behalf of organized labor. A glance at Mr. Jacobson's record will convince the average laboringman that Jacobson has fought and opposed organized labor throughout his entire legislative career.

During Mr. Jacobson's career in the state legislature there were a number of bills presented at the instance of the State Federation of Labor. Mr. Jacobson opposed most of these bills and earned the name of being a persistent enemy of organized labor. An examination of the house journal for the time Mr. Jacobson was a member of the state legislature discloses the fact that Mr. Jacobson voted against the efforts of organized labor consistently.

In 1889 Mr. Jacobson voted against the employers' liability bill. This was a bill to define the liability of employers to their men engaged in dangerous employments, and to amend chapter 13 of the General Laws of Minnesota for the year 1887. The bill came up in April and the house journal shows that Mr. Jacobson voted "no" upon the bill.

In March, 1893, Mr. Jacobson introduced a substitute for house file 29, a bill intended to establish the number of hours constituting a day's work for all county, state and municipal work. The bill was defeated in the house, and Mr. Jacobson voted "no" upon the question. A move to reconsider the bill was opposed by Mr. Jacobson. This motion was carried, but the bill was again defeated upon its second consideration, and Mr. Jacobson again voted against the passage of the bill.

Opposed Eight-Hour Bill.

In 1891 a bill was introduced to limit the number of hours of service of laborers employed in public work done by the state of Minnesota to eight hours. The labor organizations of the state had been advocating the passage of this bill since 1889, and were particularly anxious to have it passed at that session of the legislature. The bill was passed by a vote of 66 to 32, through the efforts of the state labor organizations. Mr. Jacobson voting against its passage.

Governor Van Sant went on record as favoring the bill. It was at the solicitation of the governor that Mr. Jacobson reluctantly agreed not to speak against the bill, at the same time refusing to vote for its passage.

In 1897 Mr. Jacobson voted against the passage of the barbers' license bill. A bill to regulate and define employment agencies, originated by the State Federation of Labor, was passed in April, 1897, Mr. Jacobson voting "no." Mr. Jacobson voted against the passage of a bill to regulate the practice of horseshoeing in the state of Minnesota. The bill was proposed at the instance of the State Federation of Labor. It was voted upon in March of the 1897 session.

In 1895 Mr. Jacobson opposed and caused the defeat of an amendment to provide that no convict cut stone should be used in state buildings. The amendment was proposed at the instance of the St. Cloud Granite Cutters' union, which worked with the trades and labor assembly to secure the passage of the amendment. It was through the opposition of Mr. Jacobson that the desired amendment was defeated.

Mr. Jacobson voted for the anti-boycott bill. This was a bill to prevent laborers from boycotting any lawful business. Mr. Jacobson voted against a bill, introduced by the State Federation of Labor and the Railroad brothers, requiring an employer to furnish to a discharged employe the reason for such discharge, and to allow the employe a hearing upon request. The bill was to prevent blacklisting, but Mr. Jacobson opposed the bill with all his influence.

In the legislative session of 1895 senate file No. 243, known as the "personal liberty bill," was introduced in the senate by Senator Morgan. The bill made it a misdemeanor for any company or its employer to require as a condition of employment that the employe should withdraw from or refrain from joining any labor organization. It was amended by its enemies to provide that no employe or member of any labor organization should try by force to persuade or influence any other employe or candidate for employment to join any labor organization. Upon the amendment to the bill the only fight was made. Representative Jacobson spoke against the bill, holding that 75 per cent of labor was unorganized and that 75 per cent would be discriminated against unless the amendment was adopted. Mr. Jacobson stated that if the Republican party made rash promises it had no right to fulfill them. He stated that the only sensible way was to legislate in favor of the majority, meaning unorganize dlabor.

Convict Labor.

In the session of 1895 Mr. Jacobson opposed placing at 20 per cent the maximum number of state prison inmates who could be employed at any one employment. The binding twine department was excepted from this. The bill was drawn at the request of the Shoe Workers' union and the State Federation of Labor. Mr. Jacobson fought the bill, asking that the limit be placed at 33 per cent of the convicts. As it was finally passed the limitation was put at 10 per cent of the number of free laborers employed in any one industry throughout the state. The competition resulting in the manufacture of shoes by convict labor of this state has been the cause of operating against the manufacturer and causing consequent trouble for the wage earner. As a result of the opposition of Mr. Jacobson and others opposed to organized labor, the shoe factory department of the state penitentiary employs 80 per cent more laborers.

The Barber Bill.

In the session of 1901, a bill was introduced at the instance of the journeymen and employing barbers, seeking relief from the barber schools, which were turning out barbers who were inexperienced and worked for a lower wage. Many shops were opened by these graduates which were unclean and insanitary. The bill was a matter of self-preservation to the barbers, who were seeking to regulate and supervise the barber schools of this state. The bill had the backing of organized labor, the support of journeymen, but was opposed and voted against by Mr. Jacobson.

In 1897 a bill was introduced to prevent all kinds of combinations, which was particularly vicious in regard to labor organizations. The State Federation of Labor attempted to have the bill amended to exempt labor unions, but Mr. Jacobson opposed this amendment.

This, in brief, shows Mr. Jacobson's attitude in regard to organized labor. He has opposed its interests at every opportunity, and should he be elected governor, the laboring man has every reason to believe he would oppose the hopes of organized labor for remedial legislation and place every obstacle in his power in the way of securing any legislative benefits for organized labor, for he "stands upon his record."

Thousands of Voters Have Not Yet Gone to Polls.

More than 1,300 voters registered yesterday, and with one more day of registration, it is safe to say that at least 12,000 voters will be registered in the city at the November election.

This will make Duluth's vote a fairly heavy one, as the usual city election does not bring out more than 9,000, but there are still thousands of voters not registered.

Saturday is the last registration day, and no doubt many will take advantage of it to get their names on the books.

WERE ANXIOUS FOR NEW STATION

Troyer Says Police Did Not Buck West End Station.

Chief Troyer is far from pleased over a report relative to his position toward the West end police station. Chief Troyer says that the police department would be more than pleased if the station were to be erected, as it is one of the urgent needs of the growing city.

The chief says the councilmen are wholly to blame, and that they were the ones to "spill the cold water over the proposed station."

"It was only after it was seen by the police department that the station could not be obtained that they petitioned the council for the automobile patrol," said the chief today.

"We would gladly give that up at once if there was any chance of getting the station, but when we found that it was impossible, we asked for the buzz wagon.

"We find that one run out to the West end tires out the horses so that it is almost impossible to start them out on another hard run until they have had a rest, and as the automobile is not supposed to need a rest, we thought that it would improve the police department to have the new fangled contrivance on hand.

"I insist that this department never bucked the West end station, that we have pulled for the station to the best of our ability, and that we will still continue to do so."

Pike Lake, Saturday, Oct. 24. Speakers, Albert Overton, L. A. Sulcove, James A. Wharton and W. J. Bates.

Tower, Saturday, Oct. 24. Speakers, Lyndon A. Smith, Richard F. Grant and others.

Armory, Thursday, Oct. 29. Speakers, J. F. Jacobson, Republican candidate for governor, and others.

Today was a busy day at both party headquarters. At the Democratic headquarters the office force was busy sending out additional literature to the outlying precincts of the county, while Chairman Andrew Nelson was very busy in arranging for meetings that will be held at McKinley, Sparta, Buhl and Floodwood, some time next week.

At the Republican headquarters, Senator W. E. Culkin was equally busy with the Republican state central committee. The itinerary of Mr. Jacobson is being arranged, and the members of the committee who have the tour under their supervision, were telephoning to the chairman of the local county Republican committee most of the morning.

It is expected that the itinerary of Mr. Jacobson will be known here some time today. According to Mr. Culkin, Jacobson's tour of the range will include every town upon the range. He will leave Duluth upon the morning of Oct. 28, returning here late the evening of the next day.

Ex-Lieutenant Governor Lyndon A. Smith, who has given his services to the St. Louis county Republican committee, was a caller at Republican headquarters this morning.

In discussing the outlook, Mr. Smith did not seem to take a very optimistic view of the situation. He stated that things were not looking any too bright for the Republican head of the ticket in Swift, Stevens or Bigstone counties. Mr. Smith admitted that Jacobson stood very little chance in the cities, saying that the city vote of Minnesota would go for Johnson.

Mr. Smith expressed the belief that the southeastern portion of the state would give Jacobson a good vote. He inferred that the southern part of the state would not give the Republican candidate a very heavy vote.

However, Mr. Smith stated that he believed that the country districts would give Jacobson a large enough plurality to enable him to overcome the lead that Johnson would get in the three principal cities and the large towns of the state.

Local labor sentiment is unanimously in favor of Johnson. The members of the state political committee of the State Federation of Labor for the Eighth congressional district, in looking over the labor record of Jacobson, discovered that he has consistently opposed the objects sought, through legislation, by organized labor and the friends of organized labor.

The members of the Eighth district state committee have gone on record for Johnson and Bryan, and have so notified both candidates of their choice. It is stated that the labor vote of this county will support Johnson heavily. It is expected that the governor will receive an overwhelming proportion of not only the Duluth laboring vote, which is almost unanimously for Johnson, but also a very large percentage of the range laboring votes.

The next week will be a busy one with members of the two party committees. It will be in the big wind up. Each committee chairman is planning to throw the full strength of its speakers into the campaign. George Fred Williams will be the headline offering of the Democrats this week speaking at the armory Friday evening. The Republican committee stakes its all upon the Duluth appearance of Jacob F. Jacobson upon Oct. 29. The members of the Republican county committee are busy preparing for this event.

"Bob" Dunn, editor of the Princeton Union, former state auditor and one time candidate for governor upon the Republican ticket, was in the city last night. Mr. Dunn, the man who more than any other Republican, had to do with the breaking of party harmony, is now in the field in the role of peace-maker and bearer of cheerful tidings.

Mr. Dunn is considered a thorn in the side of the party by many voters of this state. He is classed as a party ruler; not as a man who has worked in the interests of the people. Yet Mr. Dunn is speaking impressively of the interests of the people. He is predicting that Mr. Jacobson will be elected by a vote of large proportions, and reiterates that Jacobson is a candidate of the people.

Mr. Dunn left this morning for Princeton. The members of the Republican committee, after the statement of Mr. Dunn, regarding Jacobson's chances, eagerly urged upon him the advisability of making some speeches in this county. Mr. Dunn has not made any decision as yet, but will give the members of the committee his answer in a few days.

LIE NAILED BY HOWLEY

Says Johnson Has Been Friend of Organized Labor.

He Personally Investigated Conditions During the Strike.

"The Jacobson supporters down here in the Twin Cities are spreading stories detrimental to Governor Johnson, and calculated to injure him with organized labor," said President George B. Howley of the State Federation of Labor, in talking with The Herald over the long distance telephone this morning.

"They are claiming that the governor was responsible for the strike on the ranges, and took a stand opposed to organized labor on that occasion. One of the Twin City morning papers has a story to that effect this morning.

"The report is absolutely false. On the first Sunday in September, 1907, the federation authorized me to investigate the strike conditions and make a report. I did so, and looked into the matter thoroughly at the time. I found, not only that Governor Johnson was not opposed to the workingmen, but that he did everything in his power to bring about a settlement of the trouble, and to avert violence. There was no act of his with which labor could find a fault.

"The Jacobson people also spread a report that Mr. McEwen tried to get an indorsement of the governor from organized labor here in the Twin Cities, and failed. The truth of the story is that Mr. McEwen himself opposed the step. The committee felt that it would be going beyond its jurisdiction in giving such an indorsement, and Mr. McEwen was one of those who opposed it, warm friend of the governor's though he is.

RUSSIA IS ASKED FOR NEW TREATY

New York, Oct. 21.—A letter from Secretary of State Root to Jacob H. Schiff of New York was made public today, dealing with the attitude of the government in securing equality of treatment for American citizens visiting Russia, and also explaining the government's position in the case of Jan Janoff Pouren, a Russian refugee now detained in New York city by the Federal courts.

Root's letter brings out for the first time that the United States has asked Russia for a complete revision and amendment of the treaty of 1832, which provides for reciprocal rights of residence and travel on the part of the citizens of the two countries.

SENTENCED FOR CHEATING WIDOW

Frank G. Marrin Sent to Prison After Thirteen Years.

New York, Oct. 21.—Frank G. Marrin, formerly a well-known Brooklyn man, who was convicted of swindling Mrs. Caroline Barry, a widow, out of $80,000, was today sentenced to from fifteen to twenty years in prison.

The swindle took place thirteen years ago, and Marrin left the country. He was finally traced to Honduras and later he came to Philadelphia and engaged in extensive operations in cotton.

He was recently convicted in the United States court in Pennsylvania of fraud in connection with these operations, but appealed his case, and while out under bond, came to New York and was arrested on the Barry charge. His counsel made a strenuous fight against detention in New York state, on the ground that he was immune from prosecution here while his appeal from conviction in the United States court was pending.

MARKET FOR ZINC ORES

Butte & Superior Company Seeks to Show Value of Products.

Dry Process of Concentration is Explained by Witness.

The plaintiff in the case of the Butte & Superior Copper company vs. John McAlpine continues its efforts to show that the Butte & Superior company has ore values in its properties at Butte, not only in copper, but in zinc and other products. Zinc occupied the center of the stage this morning, the testimony tending to show that the zinc in the ore could successfully be separated from the other products and that there is a market for it.

W. Sutton of Butte, who has the sole rights for Montana of the dry process of concentration, exemplified in the sampling plant of Sutton, Steele & Steele at Dallas, Tex., was called to the stand to identify the carload of ore from the Butte & Superior properties, mentioned by Victor Rakowsky in his testimony a few days ago. Mr. Sutton testified to sealing the car and billing it to Dallas and then to the process, by which a portion of it, about 9,000 pounds, was treated.

The officloth, on which the concentrate was taken from the concentrating table at Dallas, was again produced and on Mr. Sutton's identification, was placed in evidence.

Mr. Sutton testified that by the dry process, the ingredients of the ore are separated into three groups on the tables, zinc and copper being in one, lead and iron in another and the waste material in the third. The silver is distributed through the first and second groups, the greater part going with the lead and iron.

After leaving the tables, the zinc and copper are separated by an electric process, the silver going with the copper.

A. B. Wolvin was called to the stand after Mr. Sutton was excused and he testified to a market for zinc. He said the Butte & Superior company had offers for all the zinc ore it could produce, salable zinc ore being 38 per cent zinc or greater. He said 38 per cent zinc ore would bring $12 a ton and one offer, providing for delivery at Chicago, was for 40 cents per unit, or 1 per cent to the ton, a percentage of 38 being required.

Efforts yesterday afternoon were concentrated by the plaintiff on attempts to prove that copper had been taken in merchantable quantities from claims north of the Sepculator shaft of the North Butte company. Dwight E. Woodbridge, the Duluth mining expert, Charles A. Duncan of the North Butte Mining company, and H. V. Winchell, geologist and metallurgist of Minneapolis, formerly with the Amalgamated Copper company, were called to the stand for the purpose. They testified that large quantities of copper brought up through the Speculator shaft of the North Butte company was obtained through cross-cuts and drifts to the north. Mr. Winchell was brought to Duluth as a witness for the defense and the calling of him by the plaintiff was something of a surprise.

R. C. Davis, superintendent of the Butte & Superior properties, was recalled to the stand yesterday afternoon to testify as to the veins on the properties. He was put under cross-examination by Mr. Richards yesterday afternoon and again this morning his testimony being along general lines.

Small Stockholders Absent.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Retiring directors, with the exception of John C. Cutting, who was succeeded by John G. Shedd of Chicago, were re-elected today at the annual meeting of stockholders of the Illinois Central Railroad company. The small stockholders formerly came to the meetings on passes, but the Hepburn act did away with that.

How to Wash Cut Glass.

It is best to use a wooden tub for washing cut glass, but if one is not at hand, pad the metal dish sink with soiled glass linen towels or any soft pieces of cotton. Wash the glass in warm suds, made by dissolving a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder in a pan of warm water; use a soft brush to clean the surface, rinse in water of the same temperature. After the glass has been carefully dried on glass linen, use a camel's hair brush to polish the cut surface. To clean the inside of water bottles, insert a very thin glass linen towel and force to all parts of the bottle with a wire holder that can be purchased at any five cent counter.

MINNEAPOLIS CHILDREN SING.

Nearly 50,000 Celebrate Anniversary of Song Writer.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—In honor of this being the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Samuel Francis Smith, the author of "America," nearly 50,000 school children of this city today filled the air with strains of the patriotic anthem. Simultaneously with the singing of "America" this morning, the school children participated in enacting patriotic scenes, flag raising and other acts.

Interest attaches to the honor paid the author of "America," because the original manuscript, written seventy-six years ago by Mr. Smith, is in the possession of Harry W. Jones, a local architect, who holds it in trust from the author, who was his maternal grandfather.

FOOTBALL AT FARGO.

Plenty of Games Planned for Immediate Future.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be plenty of football here the latter part of the week. The crippled Aggies are in worse shape after their contest with St. Thomas, last Saturday but they will tackle the South Dakota Agricultural College here, Friday afternoon. The contest will be for the championship of the two Dakotas and is expected to be an exciting one.

Saturday afternoon the high school teams of Fargo and Valley City meet here in a championship contest. The only line of work in comparison is that Valley City defeated Enderlin, 11 to 0, while Fargo won, 11 to 6. Valley City has a far heavier team and the chances are regarded as slightly in their favor.

A game may be arranged for early next month between the Fargo College team, which defeated Macalester so overwhelmingly, and the local Aggies for the city championship.

THE OLD AND THE NEW

The success of modern methods is perhaps more clearly defined in the practice of medicine than in any other line of human endeavor.

For instance: Years ago remedies of various kinds were used in treating consumption and nine-tenths of the patients died. Today little medicine is prescribed and they recover. The doctors have learned that the best way to combat most ills is by the indirect method of stimulating the body's natural power of resistance. Consumption is much easier to prevent than to cure. Neglect of a common cold is often the starting point of this dread disease.

At the first indication of a cold every effort should be made to check it at once. It is claimed that a half-ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, mixed with two ounces of Glycerine and a half pint of good Whisky, taken in teaspoonful doses every four hours, will break up a cold in twenty-four hours and cure any cough that is curable. Get the ingredients separately and mix them yourself.

This formula has been in use for years. It was the favorite remedy of the old mountaineer, who would macerate the shavings of a pine knot in whisky. Modern science has combined the active principles of the Pine and Santal-wood trees which is known under the name of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure. This preparation is put up for dispensing only in half-ounce vials, each vial securely sealed in a round wooden case, with an engraved wrapper, showing plainly the name and guarantee of the manufacturer, as follows: Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906, Serial No. 451, prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, O.

CASE GOES TO JURY.

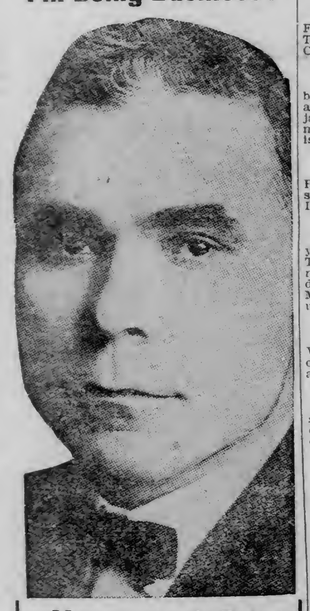

A jury in district court retired this afternoon to consider the verdict of the case of the Independent Brewing association vs. C. B. Burt.

The taking of testimony was concluded and the arguments made this morning. Two cases were brought as the result of a contract between Mr. Burt and the brewing association, under which he was to sell their beer in Duluth. One case was to recover on a promissory note, which was indorsed by Mrs. Burt. The other was for non-payment for goods claimed to have been delivered.

In his answer, Burt admitted $700 still due on the note, claiming that he had paid $1,000 on it. He put in a counter claim for about $15,000 for damages claimed to have been sustained on account of poor quality of the beer furnished him. The aggregate amount sued for by the brewing association was slightly in excess of $2,000.

The court directed a verdict of $747.50 in the first case, in which Burt admitted his indebtedness, but the jury is considering the second case.

I'm Doing Business!

My new store in Duluth is making a hit and is "taking the wind out of the high-priced tailors."

Everybody is talking.

The people of the Zenith City have "caught on."

My prices are for suit or overcoat made to order from Scotch goods, $15; from English goods, $20, and from special materials $25.00.

How I am side-tracking the tailors in Duluth is a caution. Their fancy prices have made some of them rich. But they can't stick them on any more. I am here. Right in the town, with the finest store and better goods. I have come to stay. My prices will give all the tailors in Duluth and all of the ready-made, hand-me-down stores a run for heir lives, as well as for their money. I know how to do it.

Since opening my store in Duluth, the tailors and clothing dealers alike are squirming and up against it. I am getting the business from the very start. No other concern here ever opened with such a large business from the day of the opening. You can't keep it away from me. Good goods, and fine workmanship at my prices is what counts. Now listen:

Genuine Scotch goods, a fine suit or overcoat, made to order for $15 worth $30 of anybody's money. English materials made to order with a guarantee of satisfaction for $20, equal to any other $40 suit. Special goods, (the goods that are made for me), at $25, asked $50 for elsewhere in town.

Come on with your prices. I'm here.

Proprietor Scotch and English Woolen Mills Co.

CLAD ONLY IN PAJAMAS

Like the prodigal son, who came home very empty handed, Harry Nelson, assistant superintendent of the sleeping and dining car service of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company, hit Duluth this morning clad only in his pajamas.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic's train from Duluth and the 10:20 night train from Houghton pass between here and that point. Last night Mr. Nelson, with garments intact, was upon the train that steamed out of Houghton. He intended to return to Houghton upon the train that leaves this city at 5:20 in the evening.

At the point where the trains pass, Mr. Nelson was in his pajamas. He put on his shoes, threw his overcoat over his shoulders and told the porter to place his clothes and his grip in the sleeper that was going back to Houghton. Then in some way Mr. Nelson missed his train. He found himself bound for Duluth, the city of conventionality, minus trousers, coat, vest—everything that adds so much to the appearance of a man.

The case was desperate. He found an empty berth and crawled into it to cogitate deeply upon the situation. Then he borrowed a pair of trousers from Conductor J. B. Mason and some other wearing apparel from some other members of the train crew, who looked upon his plight with a feeling of deep sympathy.

Finally he was able to leave the train without fear of being arrested. His clothes did not fit him very well, 'tis true; some of them were too small and other garments were too large, but the man without clothes is not in a position to be critical, and Mr. Nelson gladly accepted the contributions of his friends.

Mr. Nelson walked the streets of Duluth with his pajamas nestling underneath the borrowed outer garments. He is probably wearing them at the present time. He has wired Houghton and expects to recover his clothes. But he will never forget that wild feeling of fear that comes to a man who discovers he is far from friends and home, with nature's garb but thinly disguised in a pair of fancy patterned pajamas.

GIVEN CHANCE TO REFORM

"I'm tired of this city life. At first I liked it—then it grew monotonous, and now I am tired of it all and disgusted with myself. I want to go home, settle down, and try to behave myself."

All this and more is the hard-luck tale told to Judge Cutting, in municipal court this morning by Stella Halquist, who was arrested on a charge of drunkenness in company with two men late Tuesday evening.

She stated that for some time past she had been trying to scrape up the necessary funds to get home, but it seemed as though something always turned up to prevent her. This is the second time she has been in court, the first time she was given a suspended sentence providing that she leave town. This she did for a time, but finally came back to work in the Royal hotel.

She made such a plea, that after a stiff lecture by the judge, a policeman was sent with her while she got her belongings, and after being helped to the extent of half a dollar, which she lacked in the required amount for railroad fare, by the police department, she boarded an afternoon train for St. Paul. She says that never again will she venture beyond the limits of her father's farm, and says that she has reformed this time permanently.

"Lived Happily Ever After."

The charge of having abandoned his child brought against George Bahoff was this afternoon dismissed, and another charge, that of not supporting his wife Ada, was brought against him. This was also dismissed, both husband and wife agreeing to live together again. Both husband and wife had nothing but good words to say about each other while on the witness-stand.

SUES FOR SALARY.

The case of Harry Silver vs. The City of Eveleth, an appeal from the municipal court of Sparta, was called before Judge Dibell in district court this afternoon. Silver sued for about $75 back salary as an official of the fire department at Eveleth, and in the municipal court, the verdict was against him.

The trouble dates from the first of the year, when William Neilson replaced Silver as chief of the fire department and Silver, it is claimed, was appointed assistant chief. He claims that he was prevented from assuming the duties of the latter office and his suit is for salary claimed to be due for portions of the months of January and February.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

COMMITTEE SEES WOODS

Evidence Gathered in Nearby Town From Lumber Concerns.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The congressional committee composed of Congressman J. R. Mann of Chicago, Congressman W. J. Ryan of Buffalo, John Norris of New York, J. W. Shedd of Chicago, and J. L. Bennett of Chicago, appointed by the last congress to thoroughly investigate the woodpulp supply of the country, arrived in this city from Duluth yesterday afternoon and began an immediate survey.

The plant of the Northwest Paper company, one of the largest woodpulp paper factories in this section of the country, was visited, and later a number of the chief lumbermen and timber magnates of this city were interviewed and figures on the amount of pulpwood standing in the large timber tracts owned by the Cloquet companies and an estimate of the amount consumed by the Cloquet plant were obtained.

This morning a party composed of the committee and a few local lumbermen left on the Duluth & Northwestern railroad for the seemingly endless timber tracts north of here, where they will see for themselves and be able to furnish the lawmakers at Washington, the conditions in the Northern Minnesota pine forests.

BEMIDJI LAWYER DECLINES.

Will Not Defend Colored Man Accused of Murder.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Henry, colored, slayer of Ellen Fulton, does not know what course to pursue. He had a conference with State's Attorney J. B. Wineman in which he stated that he left it all to the state's attorney. The latter told him that he did not need to do that—if he wanted an attorney he could have the court appoint one. Henry brightened up somewhat when he learned of this and he will shortly take steps to secure counsel.

Attorney Scrutchin, colored, of Bemidji, has decided that he will not defend Henry, after investigating the case.

Henry has no money and so there is nothing left for him to do but have the district court name an attorney for him. It is planned to hold a jury term for the trial of criminal cases in November and so there is not a great deal of time left to prepare a case.

COREYS END OUTING.

Ironwood, Mich., Oct. 21.—William Ellis Corey, president of the United States Steel corporation, Mrs. Corey and party who have been enjoying an outing at the shooting lodge of the steel magnate near here, have departed for New York.

Although they arrived on a special train bringing along an orchestra, some sermons, a trained nurse and other accessories to a pleasant outing they departed on the regular train for Chicago, where they took the Twentieth Century limited Tuesday for the Eastern metropolis.

Previous to leaving the party expected to visit Gary, the new town being built by the steel trust, just across the Indiana line from Chicago.

DEMENTED ACTOR LEAPS TO DEATH AT HUDSON.

Hudson, Wis., Oct. 21.—H. Richard Atherton, a patient at a sanitarium here, escaped from his nurse Monday evening during his temporary absence, and wrenching the bars from the window of his room, leaped from the second story window. He sustained injuries from which he died soon after. Mr. Atherton was an actor whose home was at Newport, a suburb of St. Paul. He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Isabel Bailey of Newport. Mr. Atherton was suffering from nervousness caused by hard work and had been in the sanitarium for about ten days.

IRON MOUNTAIN MAN RECREANT TO HIS WIFE.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Oct. 21.—Mrs. Mary Johnson and her 4-months-old child have arrived in the city. Mrs. Johnson, whose home is in Iron Mountain, Mich., is traveling from city to city, in search of her child's father, Frank Johnson. She had heard that Johnson was working in a cigar factory here and applied to the police to assist her in finding him.

Mrs. Johnson handed Officer Roberg Johnson's photograph and he made the rounds of the cigar factories and learned that Johnson had left the city and that he probably was at Spooner.

WINE IN PROHIBITION STATE.

Shocking Use of Liquor in Christening New Boat.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Red River Transportation company's second new barge for this season was launched in the waters of the "Raging Red" Monday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies and was duly christened the Governor John Burke, the name being given as a token of appreciation of the governor's efforts in behalf of river navigation. After everything was in readiness for the launching but the removing of the last of the supporting blocking, Miss Helen McGraw, daughter of Col. W. H. McGraw of the governor's staff, christened the craft with a bottle of wine. The young lady's remarks were brief. She said: "I christen thee Governor John Burke, in honor of the governor of the state of North Dakota."

The launching was witnessed by quite a company of invited spectators.

BULL ATTACKS FARMER.

Would Have Killed Him, But for Man's Wife.

Eau Claire, Wis., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Peterson, a well known Caryville farmer, is laid up at his home with very serious, and maybe fatal injuries, as the result of a terrible encounter with an angry bull on his farm Monday morning. Had his wife not become alarmed at her husband's continued absence and gone to look for him, it is quite probable that he would have been killed, but she secured help immediately and drove the animal away from its victim.

The injuries consist of a broken shoulder blade, a broken upper rib, terrible bruises and contusions about the body, head and limbs and maybe internal injuries. So badly was he injured that the attending doctor almost gave him up, but his condition improved somewhat today and hopes are now held out for his recovery.

DULUTH MAN INJURED.

George Northal Jumps a Moving Train Near Waconia.

Waconia, Minn., Oct. 21.—A man about 25 years old, believed to be George Northal, a carpenter bound from Duluth to Madison, Minn., fell from the 10 o'clock passenger train two miles east of here Monday night. A rescue party, conducted by Conductor Beattie, found him where he had struck in the marshy ground, and he was brought to town on a handcar.

Dr. Martel accompanied him to a Minneapolis hospital for treatment for internal injuries. He is said to have been under the influence of liquor.

GREET NEW BISHOP.

Reception Held in Honor of Bishop McIntyre in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many people were present from points as far distant as Duluth last night at the reception given in the Auditorium to Bishop Robert McIntyre, of the M. E. church, newly assigned to Minnesota. A local orchestra furnished some excellent music, after which there was a program of speaking and other exercises, Rev. E. C. Clemans of Duluth, district superintendent of the M. E. church, rendering the invocation. Rev. George H. Bridgeman was chairman. Mayor Lawler of St. Paul and others spoke.

SHERIFF PREVENTS SUICIDE.

Catches Prisoner in Act of Hanging Himself.

Ontonagon, Mich., Oct. 21.—John Baakka, an insane man from Mass City, came near ending his earthly troubles at the Ontonagon county jail. He had rigged up his suspenders in such a shape that he had attained a very good start on long stretch when he was detected by Sheriff O'Rourke and brought back to the land of the living. He was confined in a cell and the sheriff had left him only a few minutes previous, hearing a racket the officer returned to the cell and found the man strangling.

Baakka has been working at the Mass mine about two months and previous ot his coming there was located at Ishpeming for five months. He has been in this country but fourteen months and has a wife and children in Finland. When brought to the jail he was getting over a hard drinking bout. He will be held here for a week or ten days and if his condition does not improve he will be sent to the asylum.

GOES WITH LA FOLLETTE.

Editor of University Publications to be With Senator's Paper.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 21.—Fred W. MacKenzie of Milwaukee has resigned his position as editor of the publications at the state university to accept an editorial position on Senator R. M. La Follete's new weekly, to be issued this month.

His resignation will be acted upon by the board of regents at their monthly meeting today.

It is understood that Charles Gillett of Superior of the class of 1907, now city editor of the Superior Telegram, will be appointed to fill the vacancy.

HUNTERS' GRIM FIND.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—While hunting, about a mile south of McCarthy's place, on the Odanah road, Frank Sidio and Otto Reick, of this city, came across a human skeleton, in weather-beaten and decayed clothes.

The head was gone, no part of it being found. However, the clothes were in such a state that they gave some clew to the character of the deceased. Judging from these the man must have been of fair circumstances.

Forest fires have been raging all through this region but did not touch the body, due mostly to the fact that it was protected on one side by a rotten log. From the state of the body it must have been there since last winter. All that was found on the body was a few matches and 50 cents. Part of the arm was found at quite a distance from the main portion. On account of its condition, the name most likely will never be known.

There is a strange coincidence about the case. Last November, a note was found on a telegraph pole along the Northwestern line, two miles from the roundhouse, saying the body of James King, an employe of Ryan's camp, near Mellen, would be found half a mile directly south. While the body found yesterday does not warrant that it was this King, the case is very peculiar, with an air of mystery surrounding it.

TO HONOR BOSTON SMITH.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Baptists of Minnesota will erect a monument to the late "Uncle" Boston W. Smith, who came to Minnesota in 1880, as a representative of the American Baptist Publication society. For years he was the Sunday school missionary in this state, and, became very well known and much loved by hundreds of boys and girls, now men and women. Though since 1893 he had been manager of the chapel car work of this society in the United States at large, his home was always in Minneapolis, and he had done much evangelistic work in the Sunday schools and churches of Minnesota.

MINISTERS IMPORTED TO MEET UNUSUAL DEMAND.

Munising, Mich., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Presiding Elder Collins of this district of the Detroit conference has recently imported ten English ministers to supply Methodist church pulpits in Upper Michigan. There was a time when the local supply exceeded the demand, but under new conditions of church policy the ministry apparently is not a very attractive calling to the average young man. The Munising church has not had a pastor for some weeks, nor is it known who will be assigned here.

Nervousness Completely Cured

Mrs. Roan of Rolling Fork, Miss., Tells of the Wonderful Restoration to Health of Her Husband and Herself—Mr. Roan Had Consumption and Mrs. Roan Nervousness and Constipation.

MRS. T. C. ROAN.

Mrs. T. C. Roan was a chornic sufferer from constipation and nervousness for over ten years. She says she tried everything that she could think of and was treated by several doctors, but nothing seemed to relieve or help her until at last she employed Dr. Shivers of Greenville, Miss., who prescribed Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, to be taken regularly four times a day—dessert spoonful in a glass of milk—and a few bottles made a complete cure.

Mrs. Roan writes that her health is better than it has been for years, and she heartily recommends Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as the greatest family medicine and tonic stimulant, as it has cured her.

She also states that her husband, who had consumption, was completely cured after taking one and a half dozen bottles of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Any doctor who has ever treated lung trouble and tuberculosis or any one who has ever had a touch of it can realize what a wonderful thing this was; for a case to be cured with one and a half dozen bottles of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, taken as ordered by a doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Roan are anxious to have their statement, published broadcast, so that others who are suffering as they have may read it and be benefited, and they will be only too glad to answer any letters of inquiry they may receive in regard to their cure.

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens and sustains the system, is a promoter of health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's an absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey, and is sold in large sealed bottles only—never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price $1.00. Write Consulting Physician, Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., for a free illustrated medical booklet and free advice.

LETTERS HEARST READ STOLEN FROM STANDARD OIL BY NEGRO; ALDRICH AND PENROSE NEXT

New York, Oct. 21.—The John D. Archbold Standard Oil letters, involving Senator Foraker, Congressman Sibley and others, which William Randolph Hearst has presented to the public during the present campaign, were stolen from the Archbold files by a negro in Mr. Archbold's office, and sold by him to the Hearst papers through a white man, a confidential messenger of the Standard Oil company, according to an article in a weekly paper for Oct. 24.

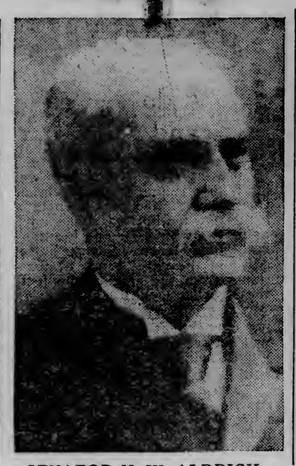

The negro and the white man are said to have made a tridle over $12,000 out of the transaction. The white man, in his interview with the writer for the weekly, hints that the best of the letters are yet to be used—and that those which have been held in reserve have to do with Senator Aldrich and Senator Penrose.

In Archbold's Office.

The article is headed, "Mr. Hearst's Thieves," and is written by one Arthur H. Gleason. One of the men who, according to Mr. Gleason's story, got the letters for Mr. Hearst, is William W. Winfield, colored, file clerk, messenger and door tender in Mr. Archbold's office, and step-son of Mr. Archbold's negro butler, James N. Wilkins, who has been in Mr. Archbold's family for twenty years.

William Winfield's brother John is porter in the National Bank of Tarrytown. Winfield had been in the Standard Oil office ten years when he was dropped in 1905. The other man was Charles Stump, white, in the Standard Oil office for six years, when he, too, was dropped in 1905. Winfield is represented as furnishing the brains of the combination, while Stump was merely used by him as a white go-between to arrange the negotiations with the Hearst people.

Mr. Gleason quotes Charles Stump:

SENATOR N. W. ALDRICH.

SENATOR BOISE PENROSE.

"Mr. Hearst hasn't begun to read the best of the letters. He's beginning easy. Wait till you hear him read the Senator Penrose and the Senator Aldrich letters. Then there will be a sensation. What's happening now is nothing. He hasn't the originals, you know. These were returned to the Standard Oil files.

"Photographic copies were made and those are the ones Hearst is using. He hasn't originals except a few Hanna letters, which may not come out at all. After the photographic copies were sold to the Hearst people, some of the letters were returned to Mr. Archbold by a friend of mine. Mr. Archbold had offered us $1,000, but he didn't pay it after he got his hands on the letters."

KNOX DECLARES BRYAN HARKS BACK TO TIME OF WASHINGTON FOR AN ISSUE

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 21.—Addressing a Republican rally in the Academy of Music, last night, United States Senator Philander C. Knox, of this state, emphasized the importance of the pending general election, declaring it an extremely surperficial view of the campaign, to hold that the sole issue involved was the choice between the characters and characteristics of the Republican and Democratic nominees. Such a choice, the senator contended, would be easy and he implied that "the intelligent and conscientious American" would of course vote for Mr. Taft. Senator Knox contended that, wholly ignoring the personalities involved, the choice was as easy and the duty as clear "for right minded men" as he said it was in the elections of 1860 and 1864, or in any of the elections since, the cardinal issues in which, he pointed out from the Republican point of view. And he asserted that "no more staggering blow could be dealt the cause of good government than to repudiate the Republican party by the rejection of its pre-eminently qualified choice for the continuance of the constructive policies to which the party has committed itself and by the acceptance of the opposing candidate, to approve the political and economic theories he advances."

"No country in modern times," said Senator Knox, "at an important period in its history has been so nearly dominated and controlled by a political party during the last half century. Within that period it has met the demands of humanity and the responsibilities of legislation and administration unassisted and unaffected for the most of the time, as a dominant party often is, by any cohesive, consistent and intelligent opposition. The party has been practically free to deal with the problems of these years as its conscience, its patriotism and its intelligence guided it, and I believe it is true that during no similar period in the history of any country has more been accomplished to effect the real purposes of human government than stands to the credit of the Republican party in nation and state, and that at no period has its service to the people been more conspicuous for the people's good than during the last ten years."

SENATOR P. C. KNOX.

Senator Knox then went on to enumerate soe of the national achieveents under Republican administration, beginning with "our assumption and creditable discharge of wider international obligations and by our generous humanity and charity toward the downtrodden, helpless and unfortunate people of other lands."

Knox cited the record of the party as "evidence of its ability and willingness to keep its promises for the future." He went on then to say:

"You are asked to reject the work of the party because no exception can be taken to the personality of our candidates. They represent poise, dignity, moderation, ability and experience in all the intricacies of our complex government.

"If you reject them what are you asked to accept and affirmatively approve? In lieu of Mr. Taft and his sound record of normality, frankness and great public usefulness, you are asked to accept Mr. Bryan with his vagaries, his inexperience and his disingenious efforts to fool the American people with phrases."

The senator declared that Mr. Bryan's proposed issue, "Shall the People Rule?" was settled through misery and starvation at Valley Forge, through glorious victory at Yorktown, and confirmed upon the bloody field of Gettysburg. No pretense could be less candid or more demagogic than the assertion that such an issue is in this capaign."

Senator Knox declared that the question "Shall the People Rule?" was "a curious one to ask anywhere in the civilized world in the twentieth century, and an especially curious one to ask here in this year of the independence of the United States of America."

In the course of his conclusion, Senator Knox said:

"I am not unkindly disposed toward Mr. Bryan. His personality is engaging, his industry is prodigious, his talents are remarkable, but his statesmanship is hopeless. * * * I refrain from other comment upon him as a candidate, except to quote the language of the prophet Hosea, who said: 'Ephraim is joined to idols; let him alone.'"

MEXICO MUST GET A NEW PRESIDENT

PRESIDENT DIAZ.

Mexico City, Oct. 21.—That President Diaz has determined not to be a candidate to succeed himself as president of Mexico at the coming presidential election in 1910, was stated in an article published by El Rio Del Hegar in its issue of yesterday.

NARROWLY ESCAPES BEING BURIED ALIVE

Ellis, Kan., Oct. 21.—The timely intervention of a physician, who was not satisfied with the appearance of the body, prevented the burial alive of Mrs. Thomas Chapman.

Mrs. Chapman, whos is 60 years of age, was supposed to have died suddenly from heart disease Saturday.

The body was prepared for burial, but was not embalmed.

The funeral was to have taken place at 2:30 yesterday. A few minutes before the casket was sealed, a physician requested permission to examine the body, after which the woman was removed from the coffin and placed in bed. While her heart is very weak, it is believed Mrs. Chapman will recover.

MRS. ROMADKA NOT OUT.

Woman Who Figured in Sensational Case, Still in Jail.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Contrary to expectations of her relatives, Mrs. Evelyn Caine Romadke, the former Milwaukee woman now serving an indeterminate sentence in the state prison in Joliet, Ill., for burglary, was not released yesterday, although she has served a year. Her sentence was from one to twenty years and efforts were made to have her released.

Monday night a telegram was received from the prison officials, saying that the only way Mrs. Romadke can secure her release is to have her case acted upon favorably by the pardon board.

Inquiry developed that no formal plea had yet been made before the board in her behalf. Her father, Thomas Caine, of Oshkosh, will make an immediate effort to have his daughter released, it is said. It is possible that Attorney John F. Donovan, of Milwaukee, who defended Mrs. Romadka at her trial, will be retained.

WIND DESTROYS THAT TAFT BANNER

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 21.—A severe wind storm finished the work of destruction of the large Taft banner, which has occupied a conspicuous place on one of the prominent business streets of Lincoln. The stringing of the banner by the Republican state central committee just about the time Mr. Bryan was nominated at Denver, when Lincoln was the mecca of visiting Democrats, caused a political commotion here, and vandals, late one night, succeeded in partially destroying it. Mr. Bryan at that time denounced the act. The banner was replaced and has remained undisturbed until the elements took a hand in its destruction.

KIPLING TELLS YOUNG MEDICS OF THEIR POWER

POET EMERGES FROM RETIREMENT, TALKS

London, Oct. 21.—Rudyard Kipling emerges so seldom from the retirement of his rural retreat near Tunbridge Wells nowadays that his public appearances especially when they are in the role of a speaker—are looked on as events. Therefore when it was known that the Poet of the Empire was to make an address to the Middlesex Hospital Medical school there was quite a throng to hear him.

Mr. Kipling's speech was clever and characteristic. He spoke without notes and what he said was replete with strength and humor. He caught his audience at once when he started by the original division of the world into two classes—doctors and patients.

"Every sane human being is agreed that this long-drawn fight for time that we call life is one of the most important things in the world. It follows, therefore, that you who will reinforce it, must be among the most important people in the world.

"Certainly the world will treat you on that basis. It has long ago decided that you have no working hours that anybody is bound to respect, and nothing except your extreme bodily illness will excuse you in its eyes from refusing to help a man who thinks he may need your help at any hour of the day or night.

"Nobody will care whether you are in your bed or in your bath or in the theater. If any of the children of men have a pain or hurt on him you will be summoned, and, as you know, what little vitality you may have accumulated in your leisure will be dragged out of you again.

"And in all time of flood, thaw, famine, plague, pestilence, battle, murder and sudden death it will be required of you that you report for duty at once, that you go on duty at once, and that you stay on duty until your strength fails or your conscience relieves you, whichever may be the longer period.

"You and kings are the only people whose explanation a policeman will accept if you exceed the legal limit. On presentation of a card you can pass through the most turbulent crowds unmolested, even with applause.

"If you fly a yellow flag over a center of population you can turn it into a desert. If you fly a Red Cross flag you can turn a desert into a center of population.

"You can forbid any ship to enter any port in the world. If you think it necessary to any operation you can stop a 20,000-ton liner with mails in mid-ocean till the operation is concluded.

"You can tie up the traffic of a port without notice. You can order streets of houses to be pulled down or burnt up, and you can count on the warm cooperation of the nearest troops to see your prescription properly carried out.

"We poor patients do not even dispute doctors' orders unless we are frightened or upset by a long continuance of epidemic diseases. In that case, if we are uncivilized, we say you have poisoned the drinking water for your own purposes, and we turn you out and throw stones at you. If we are civilized we do something else, but civilized people can throw stones, too."

MARY BAKER EDDY TELLS A NEW JOKE

Boston, Mass., Oct. 21.—In spite of all that has been said about the physical and mental condition of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science faith, it appears she is still able to get off humorous digs at scoffers against her cult. This was told at one of her latest audiences—an anecdote about a friend of hers.

This friend, a thin and nervous woman, could not sleep. She visited her physician, and the man said:

"Do you eat anything just before going to bed?"

"Oh, no, doctor," the patient replied.

"Well," said the physician, "just keep a pitcher of milk and some biscuit beside you, and every night, the last thing you do make a light meal."

"But, doctor," cried the lady, "you told me on no account to eat anything before retiring."

"Pooh, pooh," said the doctor, "that was three months ago. Science has made enormous strides since then."

BIBLE STUDY FOR DULUTH BOYS

The Bible study committee of the boys' department Y. M. C. A. met at the boys' building last evening for dinner. The following members were present: Archie Glass, Rex St. Clair, R. C. McLean, David Wanless, Frank Whipple, Griffith McConaughy, Ledru Bevis, Perry McLaughlin, Roy Forbes, Mr. Burrell, J. R. Batchelor and N. D. McLeod.

The Bible study committee has planned to enroll 150 boys in the various classes this year, and from present indications they will reach the goal. Two classes were organized last night with twenty-four boys, and three classes will be organized Saturday. Dinner will be served at 12:15 every Saturday for the benefit of boys living at a distance from the club. On Monday the high school class will meet for organization. Dinner will be served every Monday at 6:15. The class will begin at 6:45 and will be finished by 7:30. Last year fifty high school boys were enrolled. This year the committee is hustling for eighty. On Tuesday at 7:20, the class for the evening seniors will be organized, and later in the year two suburban classes will be begun. The committee decided to give a silk banner to the class having the best attendance. The banner will have the names of the members of the classes painted on it, and it will be hung in the clubroom. Later in the season there will be an aquatic meet, and in April the classes will take the international Bible study examinations. Every boy getting 75 per cent or more will receive a diploma. Last season fifty-seven boys were successful, and Duluth won the seventh place on the roll of honor of North America.

Tonight at 6:30 the social and entertainment committee will meet for dinner and to plan for the Halloween social, also the opening reception to be given to the boys of the city. The building has undergone extensive repairs, and the committee is anxious to have every boy in the city see what an attractive place it is.

Better Mail Service.

Secretary H. V. Eva of the Commercial club yesterday received word from the postmaster general at Washington stating that if it could be shown that mail going direct to Winnipeg over the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg and Canadian Northern roads would be delivered more quickly than it is at the present time over the route via Crookston, that the Canadian postal officials would consent to having the route of the mail changed. This, it is believed, can easily be done.

CHEWING OVER OLD STRAW.

We fear that the News Tribune doesn't quite catch the point. It seems to have some vague idea that Governor Johnson is the only candidate for governor, and that the fight is between him and the News Tribune. So it continues to split invisible hairs in the attempt to pull the wool over the eyes of a people that can see Governor Johnson far more clearly than the morning paper can through its yellow glasses of spite and envy.

For instance, we have this morning a long and labored "History of Iron Land Taxation," which shows that though Jacobson has always fought for a tonnage tax, under Governor Johnson the valuations of the iron mines have been raised so that every taxpayer in St. Louis county has received relief. Nobody, surely, complains of this move; the iron companies do not, and if they don't care surely the News Tribune oughtn't to be disturbed about it.

Also, the News Tribune shows that Jacobson introduced a tonnage tax bill in the session of 1899. This is perfectly true. He did introduce a 5-cent tonnage tax bill, and withdrew it in favor of an 8-cent bill. But surely this isn't that "single reason why Jacobson should receive a single vote in Northern Minnesota." If that is a reason, there are others. Jacobson introduced another tonnage tax bill as late as 1902, hammered it through the house by bulldozing methods, and refused to let State Auditor Dunn explain to the house why it wasn't a good bill. Also, Jacobson was on hand during the session of the legislature of 1907, two years ago, and gave his assistance to the tonnage tax bill then menacing St. Louis county. He is running today on a platform which calls for the adoption of the tax amendment. The News Tribune says that the tax amendment means only a tonnage tax, and Jacobson is saying not a single word to the contrary. He stands for the tonnage tax, and he has never repudiated it.

On the other hand, though the Democratic platform also declares for the tax amendment, which as everybody knows would open up the way for a tonnage tax law, Governor Johnson is fairly and squarely on record. In his message to the legislature two years ago he said that the tonnage tax method is objectionable because it would not provide a steady, reliable revenue; and in his speeches in St. Louis county he said flatly that he should veto a tonnage tax bill or any other measure that would take away a single penny from the local governments.

Jacobson, running upon a record which makes him the father of the tonnage tax idea, and running upon a platform which declares for the tax amendment, which means a tonnage tax law, is pursuing his policy of saying nothing about live issues, but is pointing to his record. That record shows him to be an advocate of the tonnage tax, and he has never denied it. He awaits only the chance that the governorship would give him to resume his campaign of plunder against Northern Minnesota.

Governor Johnson, with his usual frankness, has said what he believes and what he will do. The issue is clear, and no amount of falsifying, based on a belief that the people of Northern Minnesota will swallow whatever the News Tribune tells them, can change it. But—

Won't the News Tribune please try to give a single reason why Mr. Jacobson should receive a single vote in Northern Minnesota? It persists in refusing to do this, with singular avoidance of its duty as the advocate of a traditional enemy of its home community.

SUPREME COURT AND THE PRESIDENCY.

By no means the least thing to be considered in connection with the presidential canvass is the fact that the man whom the people choose Nov. 3 will have to appoint several justices of the supreme court during his term—probably five out of the nine.

Every voter should consider, in making up his mind between Bryan and Taft, which he would rather have appoint these justices. If the appointment is made by Mr. Taft in accordance with the traditions of the Republican party since it achieved the mission that gave it birth and became the advocate of property interests, the new judges that he will appoint will be men zealously favorable to property—which, under present social and economic conditions, involves placing property on a higher plane than humanity whenever the two interests clash.

On the other hand, if Mr. Bryan fills the coming vacancies in accordance with the traditions of his party, the chances are that he will select men who, without minimizing the proper rights of property, will hold humanity as a finer and higher thing than insensate property, and give judgment accordingly.

Much depends, in the coming years, upon the attitude of the United States supreme court. Mental habit has much to do with mental view, and judges with differing mental habits producing different mental views will honestly disagree upon the interpretation of fundamental law. The mental habit of the judges to be appointed will depend to a large degree upon the mental habit of the president that appoints them. It should not be forgotten, of course, that there should enter into this consideration not only the traditions of the two parties, but the mental bias of the respective candidates for president.

The justices of the supreme court are allowed to retire on full pay after reaching the age of 70, provided they have served for ten years. Those eligible to retirement during the four years from March 4, 1909, will be Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Peckham, Democrats; and Justices Harlan, Brewer and Holmes, Republicans. There is no compulsion about it, and some may remain on the bench because they prefer activity to retirement; others will no doubt leave the bench to spend the winter of life in peaceful retirement.

Should all five retire, the next president of the United States will have the opportunity to fix the complexion of the highest court of the land for many years, as he will have the appointment of a majority of the justices. At present six of the nine members—Harlan, Brewer, McKenna, Holmes, Day and Moody—were Republicans when appointed, and Fuller, White and Peckham—all Cleveland appointees—are Democrats. Two Democrats and three Republicans will soon retire. If Bryan fills the vacancies, there will be six Democrats and three Republicans; if Taft makes the appointments, there will be eight Republicans and one Democrat. That, however, is not so significant, in these days of Foraker and Roosevelt Republicans and Bryan and Ryan Democrats, as the mental bent of the individuals appointed.

JACOBSON AND THE MILITIA.

At the risk of making the catalogue wearisome to its readers, The Herald would like to add one more item to the list of things Duluth and Northern Minnesota wanted and Jacobson opposed, and of things that Northern Minnesota and Duluth didn't want but that Jacobson was determined they should have.

The list is a long one already, but there is more to come. At this late date in the campaign it is easy to see how the task of reminding the people of Northern Minnesota what Jacobson's legislative record, upon which he is running for governor, meant to them, might have been simplified. It could have been covered in a sentence: he was for everything this section didn't want, and against everything it did want. It could have been covered by paralleling two lists: one of the things Northern Minnesota asked the legislature for during the twelve years of Jacobson's legislative career, and another of the things Northern Minnesota had to fight during that time. Against every item in both lists it would be possible to place Jacobson on the wrong side.

Take the establishment of the naval militia, for instance. Maybe you think that isn't important, but it is. The naval militia isn't a plaything; it is designed for service, and the fact that it hasn't recently had any service is just our good luck. But for the matter of that, it has had service: the settlers of the north shore of Lake Superior would have been in a very evil plight if it hadn't been that Governor Johnson ordered the naval militia to go up there and rescue the afflicted and imperilled and help them fight fire. But beyond that, the naval militia, like the land militia, is organized that it may be drawn upon by the national government when the dread exigency of war demands its service.

But Jacobson couldn't see anything in it except that it was going to take a little money out of the state treasury, and he was particularly bitter against it because, obviously, Duluth was the most likely place for the organization of this branch of the state's military service.

So when Senator Pugh, then a member of the house, introduced a bill authorizing the state to establish a naval militia in the session of 1899, Jacobson opposed it. It was explained to him that the bill called for no expenditure of money, that it merely authorized the establishment of the naval militia in order that the federal government might be induced to help defray the expense of getting it going. "No," he said, his shrill voice rising to the rafters of the old capitol building, "but it will call for state money later!"

He opposed it then, and he opposed it whenever it showed its head. Also, he opposed new expenditures for the land militia whenever they were proposed. "Stuff and nonsense," he called it; though until the dawn of universal peace the man who fights against keeping his country in a state of preparedness is no patriot.

He didn't prevail; the naval militia is established, and it is one of the best in the land. The state spends some money on it, it is true, but the federal government is glad to bear its share of the expense, because it does not know what day it may be necessary to call it into service. But Jacobson's opposition was characteristic of his notions of statesmanship and of sectional economy: economy which grudges a penny that would save a dollar.

A COLLEGE COURSE IN AIRSHIPS.

In adding to its curriculum a course of graduate instruction in aerial navigation Columbia college is showing itself very enterprising; almost as enterprising as a yellow newspaper which issues its Sunday paper Thursday and reports Monday's events Saturday.

We should imagine that the chief difficulty with a college course in aerial navigation would be that it would be obsolete by the time it is completed.

Progress in the study of air travel is making very rapidly. It is by no means beyond the possibilities that people of this generation may yet navigate the air as freely and as safely as they do the land and water; though it must be admitted that it is scarcely within the probabilities. But recent advances in air navigation have been so rapid that if they continue at their present rate the young man who was graduated from a course of aerial navigation would be very likely to find that immediately after his heel had spurned the front steps of his alma mater for the last time, all he had learned had, during the night, been cast into the rubbish heap by progress in its forward march.

Besides, what has any college to offer in the way of such instruction? Though the progress made is very promising, it is as yet rather barren of fruits. Certainly there are no prescribed rules for building and navigating airships, because none has yet been built that is entirely practicable. It is true that men like the Wrights, who are willing to take their lives in their hands in the cause of science, are making frequent perilous trips in the air machines they have devised, but there is as yet no great popular desire to ride with them; calamitous ends to these air journeys are yet too frequent for that. No airship yet offers itself to passengers, promising to carry them safely from here to you at a fixed price.

At any rate, Columbia college shows that it is determined to keep abreast of the times at any hazard; and it will have established that intent even if its airship course doesn't take on a single passenger. Not very many years ago colleges didn't produce anything but scholars, professional men and business men who had carefully to forget a good deal that they had learned before they were much good at business; now they produce people that know how to make dynamos, telephones, bridges, railroads, steam engines, houses and tunnels. There is no reason whatever why they shouldn't try to produce men who can build and run airships—if they wish to do it.

Only thirteen days left of the campaign.

If you didn't register yesterday, don't forget it Saturday.

Those who continue to attack Governor Johnson on the tonnage tax issue, after his emphatic and straightforward statement of his stand, must think the people of St. Louis county are easily fooled.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

After the pulpwood hearing had been adjourned yesterday at the Spalding hotel, Congressman James R. Mann, chairman of the congressional investigating committee, and L. B. Arnold, assistant land commissioner of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, fell into a discussion regarding the nature of the swamp lands of this part of the state.

"When you gentlemen came down from the range," said Mr. Arnold, "you might have noticed the place where the Great Northern railway approaches the Missabe road. That was one of the typical boggy pieces of ground. You can observe the ridge that was created by the weight of the two roads. The ground has been raised by the filling that it was found necessary to place there to make the foundation for the rails.

"I have heard it said that one time eight steel ore cars, own by the Great Northern, ran off the track at this point. They have never been found. They are today some place in that boggy spot. That is an example of the kind of murky ground we have. In some places that kind of soil extends for forty feet into the earth. It may be possible that those ore cars are that far under the surface of the ground. When this ground, or rather the vegetable matter begins to decay, you have a land excellently fitted for agricultural purposes. But you can readily see that in its present condition, the swamp ground is unsuited for any such purpose."

"That reminds me of something that happened in Cuba," said Congressman Mann. "It was the last time I was there. We were riding along a road that had been built for over fifty years. It was one of the old roads of Cuba. We had just passed a certain spot, when the road began to sink into the earth. It began to sink gradually, and then just kind of fell slowly into the earth. That road bed sank fifteen feet. I have often wondered what would have happened, should the road begin to sink when the train was on it.

"There was no explanation for that. The ground was supposed to be solid, and, as I have stated, that road had been constructed half a century. It was a very close call, and you may be sure that I did not forget the experience for some time. I have never learned what they did to reconstruct the road, but you may be sure that were I to travel over that road again, I would have an uneasy feeling that we were going to call into the surface of the treacherous earth at every turn of the wheels."

Did you ever see a person grow? That is, have you ever seen any one shoot up, so that the upward progress was visible to the eye? Such an exhibition was given by William Doss at the Lenox hotel last evening.

Mr. Doss is a man who stands about five feet and ten inches in height. When he got through growing, his height was over six feet four inches. This is not a nature fake story. The event was really pulled off. After he had given his exhibition of growing, Doss gave an exhibition of lengthening his arm. He lengthened his arm fully a foot.

He told the guests of the hotel that there had never been a satisfactory medical explanation given of his power of making his body expand or shrink. A number of years ago Doss traveled with the old Barnum & Bailey circus. He was with the show when it toured Europe. According to his statement, he was examined by many physicians while in Europe, and he says that they were never able to offer a satisfactory explanation of his freakish power.

According to Doss, the nearest to an explanation that has been offered of the means used to thus increase his height, is the expansion of the cartilage. He was examined at a clinic at Rochester, N. Y., upon his return from Europe, according to his statement, and the physicians in attendance believed that the ability to increase his height was due to the expansion of the cartilage. According to Doss, many physicians took up this study with a view of discovering some means of making people grow. However, this effect has never been crowned with any degree of success.

J. E. Smith of Warroad, at the St. Louis yesterday, states that when the people of Warroad and the other towns west of the international boundary line receive better mail service, they will thank Duluth.

At the present time the mail goes to Winnipeg before it is delivered to Warroad. Under the plan, which the citizens of Roosevelt, Baudette and Warroad have asked for, the mail will be delivered direct from this city and other points to the citizens of these towns.

Mr. Smith says they are obliged to wait two days for mail and that forty-eight hours are lost through the present indirect method of mail delivery.

THE WEATHER.

It was a beautiful rain, more than an inch of it; and it settled the dust and the forest fires once more. This morning, though the wind has ceased its boisterous ways, it was cloudy and foggy and damp; and the weather man says it will be partly cloudy tonight and tomorrow, with more rain in all probability. Last night's lowest temperature was 48 degs., and yesterday's highest was 52 degs. A year ago today fine weather prevailed.

The sun rose this morning at 6:35 and sets tonight at 5:11, making 10 hours and 36 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The North Dakota storm has advanced its center from Saskatchewan, where the barometer continues very low. A secondary depression overlies Texas. During the past twenty-four hours these disturbances caused light to copious rains over Western Canada, Minnesota, Western Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Northern Texas, New Mexico, Utah, Oregon and Florida. Temperatures continue mild in the western lake region and Mississippi valley, but freezing weather prevails from Nevada, Utah and New Mexico northward to and including Alberta and Western Saskatchewan. The barometer continues high over the North Atlantic and North Pacific dbricts. The easterly movement of the Western Canada disturbance favors occasional rains at the Head of the Lakes tonight or Thursday."

GOVERNOR JOHNSON.

Sauk Center Herald: If what the traveling men say about matters political counts, John A. Johnson has a cinch on a re-election. Of all the traveling salesmen that the publisher of the Herald has talked with thus far during the campaign, he has found only one who is for Jacobson, and that one appeared here Tuesday afternoon. He said he felt rather lonely.

Fairmount Sentinel: What public official has brought the greatest honor and distinction to Minnesota? With one accord they all say, "John A. Johnson."

Crookston Journal: If the Republican party can advance one valid reason why a citizen should at this time vote for its candidate as opposed to Governor Johnson, we would like to hear it. The only reason that has thus far been advanced has been the necessity to vote the party ticket and resume fealty to organization. The question is, will such a reason be taken in opposition to such conspicuous service as the present governor has rendered to the state? We believe not.

Albert Lea Standard: What man of all men has rendered the ablest, cleanest and best official service and conferred the greatest honor upon Minnesota? Everybody knows—John A. Johnson.

Winona Independent: Eighteen spellbinders for the Republican state ticket, besides Jacobson, who really should not count because he is said to be making votes for Johnson, will scatter over the state next week and attempt to turn the tide for Jacobson. But four times eighteen couldn't do it. The people are for Johnson, the pride of Minnesota.

Wabasha Herald: The machine that nominated Jacobson and is now trying to elect him, has but one issue, and that is that no matter how incapable Jacobson may be that it is the duty of the Republicans to elect him since he has been nominated. Turn down, they ask you, Johnson, the man who is eminently qualified for the position, for Jacobson, the man who is entirely lacking in all of those finer qualities that we admire in a public man, and do this just for the reason that Jake is a Republican.

Middle River Pioneer: A large Johnson club of young men, the most of whom are Republicans, was organized a few days ago in Crookston. Thus it is all over the state. Men not bound by narrow partisan prejudice who recognize sterling worth and ability will vote for Johnson, regardless of their partisan sentiments.

Eveleth News: Governor Johnson's position is the same as when he discussed taxation in January, 1907, and as when he assured Charles Jesmore of this city when the latter was a members of the local committee, the other members of which were Neil McInnis and P. E. Dowling, which went to St. Paul last year to protest against the tonnage tax, that he would never sign a bill which would deminish the proportionate revenue of any town.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore (Rep.): The Republican machine of Minnesota, which is trying to replace Governor Johnson with a man selected and anointed by Bob Dunn, has attempted to make much political use of the tonnage tax plank in the Democratic platform, and has pushed it as a consuming bugaboo before the voters of the iron ranges and other parts of St. Louis county, but the governor steps in and tells the people what he will do in the event of such a dangerous measure threatening this section of the state. Mr. Johnson has made promises to the people before and has never failed to redeem them, therefore the confidence in the governor's honesty and integrity has not been shaken by the attempt of the machine to discredit him in this part of the state.

"OUR GOVERNOR."

C. D. I. in Cass Lake Times: He came, we saw, we listened, and he conquered. And while listening, this impressive thought came to us—how much this man has made of his life. We likened our thought to a block of freshly quarried marble on which the sculptor begins to chisel his ideal. With patience, and courage unlimited, he hews this granite into the shapely form of his conception of a Man. Not without many discouragements, many hesitating moments, when he fails to grasp his true ideal, which at times is so elusive, he never falters, but with increasing deftness of manipulation the sharp edges and rough corners give way to a smoothness of texture, and the graceful lines of natural beauty, strength and admirable poise soon appear. While his work is still incomplete, we who look and listen cannot fail to catch the idea and the enthusiasm of this artist, and looking and listening, we believe that only time and a continuance of the courage, which reaches the sublime in its honest integrity, will make of this piece of living marble a glorious masterpiece, to which the people of Minnesota will point with pride so long as time exists.

The Censor.

Washington Star. Prof. Barrett Wendell of Harvard was laughing the other day at the British censor's refusal to allow the "Edipus Rex" of Sophocles to be performed in London.

"Censors," said the noted teacher and critic, "are always like that. Why, there was a censor once in Rome"

He smiled.

"This censor licensed a play called 'Widows and Septuagenarians.' The second act of the play took place in a restaurant. It opened with the words:

"'Waiter, a beefsteak.'

"Well, to this speech the censor appended the following marginal note:

"'When the piece is performed during Lent the actor, instead of calling for a beefsteak, will order an omelet or fish.'"

DEMOCRACY SINCERE, SAYS PERRY BELMONT

New York, Oct. 21.—Perry Belmont, president of the National Publicity Law organization, says:

"Both political parties and organized labor being represented in the active membership of our organization, it has always pursued a non-partisan course, and fidelity to the objects for which it was formed compels at this time, from the most impartial standpoint, a statement of facts that are of record, even should they reflect unfavorably upon either party.

"The publication of contributions and expenditures by the Democratic national committee is the best possible evidence of the great reform which has been accomplished since the last presidential election, and will be welcomed as such by every fair-minded man. The action taken by that committee is not a mere campaign maneuver; it is the logical outcome of the resolution favoring such publication unanimously adopted last December by the committee and of the declaration to the same effect by the Denver convention.

"It is the result of active work of such men as Norman E. Mack, now chairman of the Democratic national committee, who became a member of the executive committee of the organization at its formation in 1905, and of Herman Ridder, treasurer of the national committee, also one of the original members of the New York State and the National Publicity Law organizations. It accords with the strong position taken by the Democratic minority in congress under the leadership of Mr. Williams in the house and Senator Culbertson in the senate.

"It is in harmony with the patriotic letter of Mr. Kern, the Democratic candidate for the vice presidency, written on joining the organization three years ago, and above all it indicates the success of the organized movement to which Mr. Bryan has given his constant and powerful support since its inception."

PERRY BELMONT.

SITUATION IN EUROPE

Indications of Reviving Business All Over the United States.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—While the United States is not in any manner mixed up in a European situation, the administration is watching all the developments with the closest attention. All the press dispatches which come in over the wires referring to the condition of affairs in the Balkans and in Europe generally, are promptly transmitted to the White House and the president and his cabinet hold a great many informal conferences, at which these dispatches are carefully considered and discussed. The general opinion among those best posted in diplomatic matters appears to be that some arrangement will be made which will result in a settlement of this most difficult of all problems, without recourse to war. Still it is realized that the situation is delicate and that the most careful diplomacy will be necessary to prevent a conflict. That such a conflict would be far-reaching is easy to understand. It is not likely, however, that the United States can be drawn into the matter, and it is hardly probable that a situation should arise which would make it desirable for this country to offer its services as a mediator, as done in the case of the war between Russia and Japan.

Whatever the outcome of the troubles in the Balkans may be, it is regarded as certain that all efforts to bring about a disarmament agreement between the powers is now useless. On the contrary it is more than probable that the embroilio will be followed by an expenditure of enormous sums of money in military and naval preparation. England will, of course, attempt to maintain its supremacy as a naval power, and Germany will be likely to stretch her credit to the limit in order that she may not take a backward step.

Russia has been quietly rebuilding her navy for the past several years, while Austria is known to be in negotiations with ship-builders with a view to increasing her naval strength. It is therefore considered quite probable that the United States, while in no way embroiled, will materially benefit from the volcanic action among the states of the Near East. American shipbuilders have already taken initial steps toward securing some of the business, and it is hoped that the American ship yards will before many months, begin the construction of numerous vessels of war for European governments. During the troubles between Japan and Russia, American firms contracted for a large number of sub-marine boats, and it is certain that if there should be hostilities that some of these little American vessels will be heard from. In any event, American manufacturers of war material will not let the opportunity slip by to obtain some of the business which will result from the troubles in Eastern Europe.

From all over the United States come indications of reviving business. This is particularly true of that great steel country stretching from Pittsburg to Cleveland, where six months ago cold smoke stacks were the rule. From Pittsburg, Youngstown, Niles, New Castle and Cleveland comes word of the employment of thousands of men who, for months, have had little or no work. The manager of one big manufacturing corporation in Youngstown, Ohio, in a letter to its representative here, this week, says the situation is very, very much brighter.

"Business is certainly picking up; trucks are coming in, and our force is almost at its full strength.

This is but an indication of what appears to be going on in all the manufacturing centers, and within the next four weeks, when the political pot shall have stopped its seething, manufacturing conditions will be almost normal.

President Roosevelt is as cosmopolitan in his musical taste as he is in sports and amusements generally. He cheers "Die Wacht Am Rhein" impartially with the "Marsellaise," and last week he had another thrill. A number of gentlemen from Pennsylvania, of Welsh extraction, called to pay their respects to the executive and their introducer mentioned the fact that there were some excellent musicians in the party. That was enough for Mr. Roosevelt. He led the way to the music room and within five minutes, Dr. Jones was seated at the piano and Mr. Phillips was singing the March of the Men of Harlneck. That old song which caused "Hinds Knights and Yeomen" of the Saxon army to bite the dust before Cambria got a prince which she didn't want, stirred the president again. He insisted on repetition—and then some more. No man shows the effect of music more readily than the chief magistrate, and a stirring battle song in any language is certain to result in rel applause from Mr. Roosevelt.

There are indications in the air that a vigorous fight will be made in congress at the coming session to secure the establishment of a parcels-post in this country. The fact that Postmaster General Meyer has initiated several parcels-post treaties which have enabled the people of this country to send a twelve pound package, by mail, to Europe, has furnished the advocates of the parcels-post proposition a very effective weapon with which to proceed to obtain their desires from congress. It is absurd to think that there is any justice in allowing a shipment of a twelve pound package, by mail from San Francisco to London or Berlin, while the same shipper is prevented by law from shipping a like package from San Francisco to New York. The advocates of parcels-post are preparing to be heard and the opponents of the proposition are going to be equal to the advocates. It is not true that this opposition comes entirely from the express companies, for the most active among the opponents are the small dealers in the Western states, who fear that the big mail order houses will absolutely ruin their business. If given any better facilities for supplying their trade, than they have now. But that parcels-post as well as postal savings banks will some day be provided for, is the firm opinion of practically all the officers of the post-office department.

Where Bullets Flew.

David Parker, of Fayette, N. Y., a veteran of the civil war, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: "The good Electric Bitter have done is worth more than five hundred dollars to me. I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried Electric Bitters, and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c at all drug stores.

FORK IN HEART OF COW.

Curious Discovery Made by Butchers After Slaughtering Animal.

Philadelphia, Oct. 21.—One of the queerest cases ever handled by the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was reported to the organization through the slaughtering of a cow at the West Philadelphia stockyards. After the animal was quartered it was found that her heart was abnormally large, being the size of an ordinary bucket. But a metal fork was found lodged in the tissues of that organ. Employes of the yard declare that during her incarceration at the stockyards she was continually moaning as though in great pain. Thinking it was due to her being separated from her calves, no attention was paid to it. When she was being led to the slaughter she appeared content, as though realizing that death would bring relief. Agent Kaufman of the Society to Prevent Cruelty to Animals, after an investigation was unable to ascertain who were the owners of the animal and from what point she was shipped. It is known that she arrived from the West, but he was unable to get any explanation of the fork being in the animal's heart.

RAFFLES COW FOR BRYAN.

Clarksdale, Miss., Oct. 21.—The Hon. Sam Ham of Bobo, Miss., sends a check for $75 for the Bryan fund, being the proceeds from a fine Jersey cow he raffled off at Clarksdale, Miss., at $1 a chance. Mr. Ham got up early Saturday morning, ate breakfast by candle light, tied the cow to his buggy and led it fourteen miles through the woods and canebrakes to Clarksdale and immediately offered it to the public for the Bryan campaign fund at $1 a chance, and within a short while seventy-five chances were obtained. The cow was then raffled off and Dr. J. W. Gray of Clarksdale won it.

QUESTION OF ENDURANCE

Deadlock Between the Railroads and the Tie Companies.

But Few Ties Will be Cut During Coming Winter.

"Hardly a tie will be cut this winter by the larger tie companies in Duluth," said a Duluth tie dealer yesterday, in speaking of the present conditions of the business.

"It is an endurance contest between the railroads and the tie companies. After the tie contracts with the railroads were filled last winter, no more were let. The railroads were looking for cheap ties, and they kept out of the market. No more contracts of any size have been let, and things are still at a deadlock. The tie dealers are holding off for higher prices and the railroads are looking for cheap ties. The result is that the principal tie dealers in Duluth will not cut many ties this year. Last year we had nine camps going. This year we won't have more than one at the outside, unless conditions change quickly.

"It stands to reason that men who have tracts of tie timber won't market it at forty-five or fifty cents a tie, when by holding off a few months they may be able to get sixty-five cents. That is about the situation.

"The railroads in this part of the country are going to be up against it for ties in a few months. There is a lot of work planned for this district. With the extension of the Wisconsin Central and the Soo roads to Duluth, the new branch of the Soo from the Cuyuna range, and possibly the extension of the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg road from Virginia, there will be a big demand for ties next spring. And this does not tell the story, for the other roads will have to do a lot of work next year. The Northern Pacific will probably have to double track its system to compete with the Soo extension to the Cuyuna range, and the Great Northern has a lot of repair work to do. This road will also have to build extensions in Dakota if it competes with the Soo road. The Soo road is one of the most energetic, enterprising roads in the country, and when it enters any field, you generally see the other roads sit up and take notice. It is a kind of free lance, isn't afraid of competition, and it goes after the business. When it gets into Duluth, you will find the other roads repairing their roadbeds and double tracking wherever it is needed.

"The outlook, therefore, is that there will be a scarcity of ties next spring, since practically none are being cut this winter, but meanwhile there is a deadlock."

PLANS INSPECTED.

Commercial Club Building Committee Inspects Details of New Building

At a meeting of the building committee of the Commercial club yesterday afternoon, plans and specifications of the new building that will house the club upon its completion were submitted to the committee members.

The building arrangements are in the hands of N. J. Upham & Co., and call for a building three stories in height. The first floor will be occupied by the Duluth Water & Light company, the second and third floors being occupied by the club. The new quarters will be nearly twice as commodious as the present quarters, and will be thoroughly modern and adapted to the needs of the club.

It is expected that the club will be in its new home by May 1. The cost of the new building has not been definitely determined as yet. The plans call for a general dining room, a ladies' dining room, a large assembly room and pool and billiard rooms.

BANK GUARANTY CASE IS HALTED

Federal Supreme Court Disproves of Being Mixed With Politics.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The supreme court of the United States has practically indicated its disapproval of the efforts to bring that court into politics at this time, by denying the motion to advance the hearing in the case of the Noble State bank against Governor Haskell and others, involving the constitutionality of the Oklahoma bank deposit guaranty law.

A special plea was made for the advancement of the case because of the prominence of the campaign question of guarantee of bank deposits, but the court declined to act upon the suggestion.

FORGER PLEADS GUILTY.

Charge Against Him Reduced and He Gets One Year.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Haynes pleaded guilty to the charge of forgery in the third degree, committed in Nelson county, before Judge Templeton in district court here Monday and was sentenced to one year in the state penitentiary.

Haynes cashed a check at Michigan City on Oct. 3 for $30 made payable to his order on the Michigan City bank and signed by J. Shurtell. Mrs. D. Weller cashed the check.

State's Attorney Fleming allowed the change in the charge from forgery in the first degree to forgery in the third degree, to which charge Haynes pleaded guilty with hesitancy, making no remarks when asked if there was any reason why sentence should not be made.

Flowers.

Flowers are among the luxuries of life for which a steady demand has been created as civilization has advanced. Our forefathers were content to cultivate them for a brief season of the year to enjoy them while the summer lasted; but the present generation demand them the year around. There is also a growing demand for golden grain belt beer, which is the greatest home beverage ever known. It is brewed from the best materials, in a better way than other beers, and should have a place on your home table. Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing Co.

DIAPEPSIN EFFECTIVE

Harmless Digestive and Antacid Cures Stomach Trouble.

You Can Eat Your Favorite Foods Without Fear.

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas; biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take some Diapepsin.

FEAR INDIANS HAVE SLAIN ENGLISHMEN.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 21.—H. Phipps and Matt Tummon, well-known Englishmen, have disappeared in Northern British Columbia. The men have not been heard from since they left June 8 for the Injenika gold fields, and it is feared they have been killed by Indians.

Schooners Reported Wrecked.

Marshfield, Or., Oct. 21.—Two gasoline schooners, the Enterprise and the Osprey, with ten men aboard, are reported wrecked off Gold Beach, on the Curry county coast. Whether any lives have been lost cannot be ascertained, all telephone communication to the south being shut off. The last wire went down after a brief message of the disaster reached here last night.

Proctor is for Johnson.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In a recent issue of the News Tribune they claim the organized labor of Minnesota is opposing the re-election of Governor Johnson. You may state for the benefit of the News Tribune that the vote of Proctor (at least 90 per cent organized labor) will not give Jacobson one-fourth as many votes as Johnson will get. We can give reasons "why Jacobson should not and why Governor Johnson should be elected." Yours truly,

STAGE CLOTHES NO LONGER HELD AS TOOLS OF TRADE

Opera Singers Must Now Pay Duty for Their Costumes, When Coming Into United States.

OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN.

Opera company, which play only in this country could not possibly be included in such a category."

New York, Oct. 21.—Oscar Hammerstein has been unable to make any arrangement by which the singers of the Manhattan Opera house will be able to bring in their costumes free of duty. The most that the custom officials may consent to do will be to set aside a part of the opera house as public stores in order that it may not be necessary to take the trunks to the public warehouses. Duty will have to be paid on all costumes, although ball and street costumes will be admitted free on the declaration of the singer that she intends to take them out of the country next spring.

"The theory that costumes are tools of trade and may be brought into the country under bond," one of the appraisers said, "no longer holds good except in the case of a company that has been engaged as a company in Europe, has acted as a company there and entered this country intending to leave it as a company. ALPHONSE-GASTON CAMPAIGN IN WISCONSIN AGAINST AYLWARD, GOVERNOR DAVIDSON'S DESIRE

J. A. AYLWARD.

Portage, Wis., Oct. 21.—Governor Davidson opened the Republican campaign in this city at the courthouse before a large audience, many coming from the country districts.

"Mr. Aylward, my opponent," the governor said, "and other Democrats, who have never been in sympathy with progressive work prosecuted in Wisconsin since I have been in public life, and of which I have been a part, charge me with being a reactionary, that I am in combination with others to control future nominations for myself and others. Once and for all, I want to say emphatically that I have never been, am not now, and will not in the future, enter into any combination or scheme for or against any man in the Republican party.

"I am a candidate for governor by will of Republicans in Wisconsin. I am a candidate for no other office. I make this statement for the information of my party associates, not for the gratification of the Democratic candidate for governor, nor to reply to his usual unjust charges. I will not attempt to reply in any sense to personal and political misrepresentations made against me by the Democratic candidate for governor further than to say they are neither dignified nor truthful.

"Mr. Aylward is my neighbor. Personally, I respect him. I shall not say anything discreditable to him as a candidate for the high office he seeks. I would prefer to meet defeat rather than make any attack upon him in this campaign, which ought to be a clean and dignified contest, and above personalities and misrepresentations."

WEST END

CANDIDATES ARE HEARD

Argue for Benefit of West End Hillside Improvement Club.

Oredson and Grant Have a Lively Oratorical Tilt.

The West End Hillside Improvement club held an old-fashioned political meeting last evening, giving candidates of both the Democratic and Republican parties a chance to present their arguments and enlist supporters from their ranks.

The greatest diversion of the evening was furnished by Dr. O. A. Oredson, Democratic candidate for the legislature in the Fiftieth district, and Richard F. Grant, Republican candidate for the same office to which the man of medicine aspires.

Both of them repudiated the tonnage tax, as a measure which would take from St. Louis county revenue which was rightfully hers.

In the course of his remarks, Dr. Oredson intimated that Mr. Grant was a great friend of the "heavy interests" and that he was practically their candidate. Mr. Grant denied the connection and said he was working in the interests of the heavy taxpayers, and the small ones, too.

J. W. Reynolds, Democratic legislative candidate, also spoke. He spoke in favor of an employers' liability law and argued against the tonnage tax and the mortgage tax.

J. W. Cumming and J. J. O'Brien, Republican and Democratic candidate for county commissioner, were present and made speeches.

Last night's meeting of the club was given over entirely to political discussions.

The session was held at Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street.

OREDSON HEADS BEMA CLUB.

Dr. O. A. Oredson was elected president of the Bema club at the annual meeting of that West end debating and social society last evening. Dr. Oredson was one of the organizers of the club, more than a year ago, and succeeds as president George M. Jensen.

Dr. A. Osterberg was elected vice president, Will Anderson, secretary, and Frank Swanstrom treasurer.

Dr. Oredson gave a short talk on the tonnage tax and George M. Jensen also contributed to the political aspect of the meeting by giving a short address, extolling the virtues of Jacob J. Jacobson.

A committee comprising the officers was delegated to arrange for a banquet on Thanksgiving day.

West End Shortrails.

Will Howe left yesterday for Arizona, where he will remain during the winter on account of his health.

Y., Oct. 21.—With a large attendance of men and women devoted to the welfare of peoples over whom the United States government exercises the right of guardianship, the annual Lake Mohonk conference of friends of the Indians and other dependent peoples was begun here today. Many men and women prominent in educational and philanthropic circles of the country will deliver addresses.

Today was devoted to Indian affairs, and in addition to an opening address by Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, United States commissioner of education, several men and women closely associated with the government's work in caring for the American Indian were scheduled to speak.

You May Enjoy Your Meals

If You Will But Equip Your Stomach With The Right Means to Handle The Food.

If you go into a restaurant, cafe or hotel, where all your environments, the lights, dazzling linen, silver, cut glass, music, chatting and laughing women, seem to foretell a pleasant meal, your stomach should not revolt when you read the menu card.

Heavy steaks, soups, oysters, entrees, salads, etc., should hold no terrors for the healthy stomach and they do not.

A small box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets placed in your vest pocket will be sufficient guard against the mad revels of a worn-out stomach.

A tablet taken a few moments after a copious meal will remove any ill effects of food from your stomach and you may eat as generously as those about you.

One of these little tablets will of itself settle all questions of indigestion for that meal and will place your stomach and digestive organs in a better condition for the next.

Your blood will be enriched, and the depleted gastric fluids will be rebuilt.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are natural, active digestive agents which give to the gastric juices the elements they lack, which ease the stomach, remove irritation and enrich and stimulate the blood.

All of these statements may be verified if you will take but a little of your time to prove them.

Every druggist carries Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in stock and will tell you of their merit. These tablets sell for 50c per box, or send us your name and address and we will send you at once by mail a trial package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Pupils Singing "America."

GETAWAY WITH WINTER OUTFITS

Unknown Men Take Wearing Apparel From Clothing Store.

Burglars broke in through the back door of the Morterud & Koeczny clothing store at 1931 West Superior street last night, and got away with about $100 worth of winter wearing apparel without leaving the slightest clew to their identity.

Among other things they took winter underwear, mittens, caps, two suitcases, two sheepskin overcoats, and a number of smaller articles.

Policeman Sullivan saw them leaving the store, and gave them a chase up Twentieth avenue west.

The police are working on the case, but as yet have been unable to locate their men.

It has been quite the style of Duluth prowlers the past few weeks to lay in stocks for the long winter months, and it is just possible that the same men who have so persistently kept after the grocery stores, are the ones who have now turned their attention to winter clothing.

HAS MATRIMONIAL MANIA.

Chippewa Falls Girl Wants to Marry Every Good Looking Man.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Oct. 22.—Miss Mary Clark, 19 years old, pretty, vivacious and educated, was adjudged insane by Judge Lebeis here and ordered committed to the asylum at Mendota. Her mania is that she thinks she is in love with almost every good looking man she meets and proposes immediate marriage. When she came here a week ago to visit her parents she informed them she was about to begin branch of promise proceedings for $10,000 against a Minneapolis man, whom she had met in coming here from North Dakota.

They went to consult Dr. Williams, who at once decided that she was mentally unbalanced. Before leaving his office she proposed to him and suggested that the event be celebrated with a large dancing party.

Miss Clark was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Clark of North Dakota eleven years ago. About a year ago she developed a fancy that she was ill. Leading North Dakota physicians were consulted and later she went to Minneapolis to receive treatment. Next came the matrimonial mania.

REGULATES THE HACK NUISANCE

Chief Troyer has issued a recent order which is intended to regulate carriage and hack traffic around the Lyceum theater, to avoid congestion at busy times when audiences are entering or leaving the playhouse.

The space directly in front of the theater will be kept free excepting for vehicles to drive up and depart, and for patrons entering or leaving the theater. Hacks and other public vehicles will stand in the space east of the entrance on Superior street, and private rigs are alloted the space west of the entrance and around the drug store corner on Fifth avenue. This order was given to adjust, if possible, the frequent crowding of private carriages and public hacks. The complaint of the former seemed to be that the hacks would take their position in front of the theater and remain there, regardless of whether they had loads or were in the way of private carriages. The hackmen were of the impression that they should take the most convenient place on a public street for their stand to solicit business.

SPORTS OF THE DAY

BIG GAME SATURDAY

Minneapolis East Side Coming to Duluth Full of Confidence.

Saturday Biggest High School Football Day of Present Season.

There is going to be some game Saturday afternoon, when Central lines up against the champion East side team of Minneapolis, in a contest that is apt to decide the championship of the state.

East side has without doubt the fastest team in her history. Her students realize this, and many of them are coming to Duluth with the team to cheer their gladiators on to victory.

Down in Minneapolis, South will meet Cenetral, and North and West will clash, while the East side game is going on here. It will be the biggest football Saturday for the high schools in the state, and all the games will be closely followed.

The Duluth students are making great plans for the biggest local game of the year, and it is safe to say that when the two teams line up they will be greeted by one of the largest crowds ever assembled in this city at a football game.

Automobile parties, tallyhoes, brakes and buckboards are at a premium. Everyone seems to be planning to go to the game.

All the noise-making contrivances ever made will be brought into play, and the din will be terrific.

East is coming to Duluth full of confidence, and they seem to think the game will be easy. A Minneapolis paper says:

"East high, now a powerful factor in the fight for the championship, held practice yesterday on their old grounds. Coach Bandelin has a strong backfield, and 'Babe' Thompson is a terror at quarter. The team will spend a strenuous week getting ready for the Zenith City game, and then will come the series of final conflicts that will decide definitely just where the teams will stand."

AGAIN TIGERS ARE THE VICTORS

FERTILE PLAYERS LOSE.

Much Football Rivalry in the Red River Valley.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local high school football team won a hard earned victory by a score of 16 to 0. The visitors were the heavier men, but the superior playing of the local boys secured for them the game. The Thief River team will play Red Lake Falls next Saturday, and Fosston the following week.

FITWELL TEAM WINS EASILY

Jacksons of Superior Beaten Three Straight Games by 331 Pins.

The Jackson bowling team of Superior was defeated last night on the Central bowling alleys by 331 pins. They lost three straight games to the Fitwells, who clearly showed their superiority over the team from across the bay.

On Friday evening the Fitwell team will bowl with the same team on their alleys in Superior, when they hope to wipe out the defeat of a week ago sustained on the occasion of their last match in that city.

LITTLE FELLOWS READY FOR BOUT

Packey McFarland and Leach Cross to Battle Wednesday Night.

New York, Oct. 21.—Packey McFarland and Leach Cross will meet for the first time this afternoon, when they weigh in. Cross never happened to meet Packey and Packey has been a stranger to New York until now. It will be his first appearance here when he steps into the Fairmont arena tonight.

Packey was hard at work today, but did no boxing because of an injury to his lip, caused by coming into contact with Joe Thomas' elbow. The blow sent one of Packey's lower teeth through his lip. It was an ugly little gash and it is doubtful whether it heals properly before the fight.

Packey laughed it off and said that he guessed that Leach wouldn't hit him often enough to bother the sore spot any.

"I will fight my usual whirlwind battle and will hop into Cross from the very first," he said.

JEFFRIES MAY FIGHT BURNS

Result of Latter's Match With Johnson Will Decide.

New York, Oct. 21.—Willis Britt, manager of "Battling" Nelson, is responsible for the statement that, should Burns defeat Johnson in Australia, Jim Coffroth will pull off a Burns-Jeffries fight on the first of the year. Britt says: "Coffroth is the only man who can get Jeff back into the game. The big fellow has on several occasions given Coffroth his word to fight if the public demanded a battle. Many people will laugh at this statement, but stranger things than that have happened. Who could have predicted several years ago that I would be the manager of Battling Nelson? This is an age of surprising things. If Burns whips the big negro, just watch the developments and see.

"Jimmy Britt has at last secured a match from the National Sporting club of London. Jimmy will meet Johnny Summers before that club some time next month. Jimmy thinks he can clean up all they have on the other side of the water.

WILL THE KAISER CHALLENGE U. S.?

German Emperor Greatly Interested in American Yacht Racing.

New York, Oct. 21.—Henry Howard, chairman of the German-American race committee of the Eastern Yacht club, who has recently returned from Germany, where he had a twenty-minute informal yacht talk with the German emperor, said the other day that while the emperor showed wonderful familiarity with American racing as a whole, he was not inclined to discuss the possibility of his challenging for the America's cup in 1909.

"His majesty is, however," said Mr. Howard, "intensely interested in the sonder class, which he believes is the best type of small yacht for racing purposes, and he looks upon the matches that have been sailed at Kiel and Marblehead as an important means of bringing about more cordial relations between the people of the United States and those of Germany. In the coming match, he said, he hoped that the American boats would prove a truly national team—one from the West, one from the South and one from the Atlantic coast."

Building Large Schooner.

One good reason why the emperor would not care to challenge for the America's cup the coming season, Mr. Howard said, is that he is having built a large schooner, which it is his ambition to make the fastest schooner in Europe. She is from designs by Max Oertz, of Hamburg, a celebrated designer of sonder class boats, who entered the field last season with his first large racing schooner, the Germania, which was built for Kerr Krupp von Bohlen. She proved to be the fastest schooner of the year in European waters, thereby pleasing the emperor, whose ambition is to see the Germans turn out as fast large yachts as they do small ones.

The emperor's new schooner will have German fittings. All large German yachts hitherto have had English or American fittings and sails.

"Should the new schooner prove a success," said Mr. Howard, "the emperor may turn his attention to the America's cup."

BASEBALL DRAWS LARGEST CROWDS

Beats Every Other American Sport as to Attendance.

New York, Oct. 21.—Baseball has again proved its right to the title of the American game, its popularity over any other branch of athletics having been attested during the 1908 playing season by attendance figures far in advance of those recorded in any year past. The gain over last year in the National league attendance figures is estimated at something like 776,500, due in all probability to the fact that the race in the league was never the one team affair it had been in years previous.

The gain in the American league figures is estimated at about 156,000. While this gain was not so great as that made by the senior circuit, the game was more remunerative from a financial viewpoint in the American league, the total attendance figures in this league being estimated at nearly 3,555,000 as against 2,514,000, or thereabout, in the National league. These estimates are unofficial.

881,000 Paid Admissions.

The Giants' great fight naturally brought more people to the Polo grounds than the American league park here, some 881,000 paid admissions being recorded at the field where McGraw's men played, while the Yankees attracted but 313,000 fans.

The Giants were by far the best drawing attraction in other cities, the Chicago Cubs being second in this respects, with the Pirates third. Chicago, Pittsburg and Brooklyn in order were the best drawing cards at the Polo grounds. Although the Yanks finished in last place, they proved the third best attraction about the circuit, only Detroit and Cleveland doing better. On the Hilltop, Detroit, Cleveland and the Athletics drew best.

Brooklyn proved a better card abroad than either Philadelphia or St. Louis, while at Washington park the Giants were far and away the favorites with the Cubs, Reds and Cardinals following in order.

Games Wanted.

After winning from Cass Lake, and a number of other teams this season, the Grand Rapids team is unable to get games enough to satisfy the football loving public and would like to hear from any Duluth team averaging up to 160 pounds. They are without a game on the 25th and a contest can be arranged by writing Joe O'Day, at that place.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.

Fast Game Sunday.

The Adams alumni football team and the Longfellows of West Duluth will meet Sunday at Athletic park. The game promises to be a fast one, as both teams have won all their games up to date.

The Adams team would like to arrange a game with the Irving Tigers, or any other team in Duluth or Superior.

BIG TEAMS HAVE A DAY OF REST

Minnesota, Chicago and Wisconsin Have Open Date Next Saturday.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—While the three contenders for the Western football championship, Chicago, Minnesota and Wisconsin, are preparing for the crucial games to be played one week from next Saturday, interest will center around the Northwestern-Beloit, Indiana-Rose Polytechnic and Iowa-Morning Side college contests. The Hoosiers and Hawkeyes should win, but the Purple may have a task in disposing of the husky team from Wisconsin. Michigan, also, is to play, Ohio state being its opponent.

Chicago and Minnesota will meet one week from Saturday, and both coaches in arranging their schedules did not care to take a chance of injuring some of the players by scheduling a game a week before the contest which will eliminate one from the race. Both teams can improve on their play, and the two weeks will afford the opportunity, therefore both elevens should take the field in grand condition.

Wisconsin also has an open date this week, and will prepare for Marquette game the following Saturday. Marquette is coached this year by Juneau, the old Badger end, and he has gathered together a formidable aggregation of stars.

Northwestern will play its first game in three years next Saturday with Beloit at Evanston.

The game of the week which will attract the attention of football enthusiasts is that to be played on Franklin field, Philadelphia, between Pennsylvania and the Carlisle Indians. For both the elevens this will be next to a championship affair and will give the intercollegiate world the first real test of strength of the two elevens. That the game will be for blood also is well recognized. For the last two years the Indians have simply overwhelmed Pennsylvania.

When Fullback Houser of the 1907 team was lost it was thought the Indians would be weak in the kicking game, but this year Coach Warner has developed a man in Thorpe who seems to possess a better toe than Houser, or even the great Hudson. In the last two games Halfback Thorpe has done all the Indians' scoring with the place kick. Against the Pennsylvania State college he scored three goals from the field to a single touchdown for the state team.

The success which Thorpe is having with place kicking suggests the query as to whether the coaches devote too much attention to drop kicking and not enough to placement kicking. It will be remembered that Pennsylvania and the Indians come west next month to meet Michigan and Minnesota, respectively, and the outcome of the Eastern game will be watched with interest by Westerners.

KLING MAY BE MANAGER.

Rumor That He Will Take Over Kansas City Aggregation.

Kansas City, Oct. 21.—John G. Kling, Chicago's star National league catcher, may become manager of the Kansas City team of the American association. It is said Kling will take $25,000 worth of stock in the team.

"If I can get control of the Kansas City club, I am willing to give up my job with Chicago," said Kling today.

Shono and Prof. Gamop of Tokio, appointed by the emperor of Japan to investigate industrial conditions in the United States and Europe arrived here from Seattle, their visit here having principally to do with the railway industry. Prof. Gamop is investigating particularly American industrial schools and colleges. Mr. Shono, who is one of the most prominent traffic managers in Japan, in speaking of American and Japanese methods of conducting railroads, said:

"Although it is generally conceded that in America you have the most admirable railroad systems in the world, I believe that our management by the government possess greater possibilities than those of private.

A pleasing feature of the trip was the repeated calls for Mr. Bryan, who shared in the handshaking with her husband. She was overwhelmed with attention at every place where a stop was made, and was the recipient of many handsome floral pieces.

KERN SUMMONS VOTERS TO CRISIS

Likens Present Struggle to Time of the Civil War.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 21.—"The spirit of commercialism was not stronger or more dominant in this land in the days when Phillips and Garrison were mobbed in the streets of Boston for protesting against human slavery, than it is today," said John W. Kern, Democratic vice presidential candidate in a speech here in which he likened existing conditions to those which preceded the Civil war. Mr. Kern spoke at the first big Democratic mass meeting of the campaign, in the Alhambra rink.

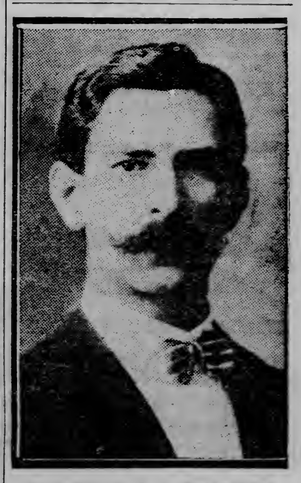

Men of the present generation, the speaker said, cannot understand why the conscience of the nation was not stirred by the evils and horror of human slavery until after years of war had desolated the land. But, on investigation, he said, it is found that "then, as now, the spirit of commercialism was rampant and dominant, and under its influence the conscience of the people was dormant.

"The true stories of the traffic in human life," he said, "fell upon deaf ears, for they were met by the oft-repeated declaration that the agitation of the slavery question would result in disturbing business and would certainly bring financial panic and disaster.

"The secular press of the country, then as now, cringing before the mighty financial interests, thundered forth denunciations against agitators who were disturbing business interests by seeking to save the republic from the shame of slavery. Then as now, ministers of the gospel, influenced, imperceptibly, perhaps, by large contributions received from the rich found many Bible texts from which to preach powerful sermons, justifying existing conditions. Then, as now, many of the great institutions of learning, looking to the rich and mighty for financial aid, were filled with instructors who were hired to devise new codes of morals and systems of political economy under which the crying evils of the day might be justified."

GIVES DINGLEY LAW A VICIOUS BLOW

New York, Oct. 21.—That the American workingman is "30 per cent worse off since the Dingley tariff bill was passed" was the declaration of Governor Claude A. Swanson of Virginia, in an address before the Commercial Travelers' league here yesterday.

GOVERNOR C. A. SWANSON.

"Since the law was enacted the cost of living has increased 40 per cent, while the wages of workingmen have increased only 19 per cent. The workingman, therefore, is 30 per cent worse off now since this bill was passed."

"NOT TO BE POSTED" SIGNS EXPLAINED.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Fred Zimmerman, assistant general freight agent of the Michigan Central road, was cross-examined in the government's suit to dissolve Standard Oil, concerning his interpretation of the freight rates in effect on oil and oil products between Olean, N. Y., and New England points. He declared that the words "not to be posted," appearing on tariff sheets, meant that the sheets should not be hung on the wall in different stations, but did not bar them from the files of the station agents for billing purposes.

Frank P. Eyman, assistant general freight agent of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, was questioned concerning the custom of the railroads in regard to filing state rates prior to the passage of the Hepburn act, and declared that the general custom of all railroads prior to that time was not to file state tariffs used in through shipping.

He testified that the railroads always used local state tariffs between two points when the sum of the locals was less than the through rate, regardless of whether the different tariffs on freight were filed with the interstate commerce commission or not.

HENRY CLEWS OPPOSES BANK GUARANTY PLAN.

Detroit, Oct. 21.—In an address here, before the Detroit chapter of the American Institute of Banking, Henry Clews, of New York, strongly opposed government guaranty of bank deposits. He objected to government or state guaranty of deposits as too paternalistic, and "an uncalled for interference with legitimate banking."

"If a guarantee system is ever established," Mr. Clews said, "it should be by the banks of their own initiative, free from all compulsion."

S.S.S. THE CURE FOR SCROFULA

Swollen glands about the neck, weak eyes, pale, waxy complexions, running sores and ulcers, skin diseases, and general poor health, are the usual ways in which Scrofula is manifested. The disease being deeply intrenched in the blood often attacks the bones, resulting in White Swelling, or hip disease, and the scrofulous and tubercular matter so thoroughly destroys the healthful properties of the blood that Scrofula sometimes terminates in consumption, an incurable disease. The entire circulation being contaminated, the only way to cure the trouble is to thoroughly purify the blood and restore the circulation to a strong, healthy state. S. S. S. is the very best treatment for Scrofula; it renovates the entire blood supply and drives out the scrofulous and tubercular deposits. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and it not only goes right down to the very bottom of the trouble and removes the cause, but it supplies the weak, diseased blood with the healthful properties it is in need of, and in this way builds up weak, frail scrofulous persons and makes them strong and healthy. S. S. S. is a gentle, safe, vegetable preparation. Book on the blood containing information about Scrofula and any medical advice free.

ESCAPES WHILE CAPTORS ARGUE

Tiptonville, Tenn., Oct. 21.—Col. R. Z. Taylor, the Trenton lawyer who was taken from a hotel at Walnut Log at the same time Capt. Quinten Rankin was lynched by night riders, explained today how he escaped from them, an hour after Rankin was hanged.

The masked men got into a dispute among themselves as to what to do with Taylor, some favoring killing him, while others wanted to hold him so as to force a concession to demands for free fishing on Reel Foot lake, and while the riders disputed, Taylor slipped from between his guards and despite his years, dashed to the edge of a bayou leading from the lake and plunged in, swimming across.

He was fired upon many times by the night riders, but escaped in the darkness.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Dr. N. I. Rubinkam, in a prologue to his ninth lecture to the Twentieth Century club this morning, gave a detailed description of the Kennedy drama, "The Servant in the House," as it was played before the professors and students of the Michigan state university of Ann Arbor last Sunday afternoon, and declared it one of the significant marks of progress in American civilization. He then took up the Ibsen play of "Rosmersholm" and said, in part, as follows:

"The motif of Rosmersholm is a variant of one of Ibsen's favorite ideas: the peril of foisting new ideals upon a fixed and conservative community. Do not deceive yourself that the mists of old superstitutions and institutions will immediately clear away before your new thought. Institutions change slowly. Universities, churches, political cannons, old establishments, like Rosmersholm, are pretty hard and fixed substances against which you may dash out your brains. If you are a prophet, you may be on the right track, but do not expect the world of custom to swing at once into your way of thinking. Conclude rather that you will be neglected, or crucified for your audacity. What is worth having is worth the crucifixion.

Rebecca West converted Pastor Rosmer intellectually, but the old establishment with its old pictures on the walls, with its hoary traditions, the beautiful and spiritual character of Rosmer, converted her ethereally. The spirits of the dead clung to Rosmersholm. The conservative, age-long opinions would not easily succumb to the radical ideas of such parvenus and upstarts as Ulrich Brendel and Rebecca West. Rebecca West is one of Ibsen's most brilliant woman characters, but he shows that her views were not yet a part of the blood. Strong as she is in her intellect, she succumbs to the older spirits, to Beata the wife of Rosmer, whom she had wronged and brought to her death, and now she herself goes down, a sacrifice to expiate her sin—and on offering to the ancestral ideas she supposed she could supplant.

"The world's evolution is slow. There are no leaps. The thoughts of men are widened only by the process of the suns."

FASHION NOTES.

Modified Jumper Still in the Style.

Women, especially young women, who like to dress becomingly and yet be in style, will be glad to hear that the jumper in a modified form, will be fashionable again this season. It is apparent from some of the French models recently imported and is prettier than ever in its preesnt form. It is attached to the skirt of the three-piece suit. The waist line is moved up 3 inches from the normal, the skirt is cut on a close circular in two to four gores, and the straight line down front and back is emphasized by two bands of white embroidery or braid, and is made with wide shoulder pieces, usually covered with three shaped flounces, and has a 3-inch cap following a pear-shaped armhole.

This arrangement is worn over an elaborate guimpe of Turkish, Irish or filet lace run with silver or gold thread. When the color of the material will permit, filet net is used instead of lace, and is heavily darned in and out with Persian colored floss. In either case the sleeves extend down to the knuckles and fit the arm closely. They fasten from elbow to wrist with tiny fancy little buttons that can be picked up. Over this frock goes a coat in the directoire style, loose enough not to crush the gown, but slender enough to be graceful and fashionable.

A handsome model of that kind was of gray green liberty broadcloth with a clinging high-waisted skirt with two rows of wide black silk braid down the center back and around the hem. The jumper, which was only a small affair, was attached to the skirt just below the bust and went over the shoulders in wide bretelle shape with cap sleeves. It was edged with wide silk and finished at the back with a flat bow and a green enameled buckle. The coat for this suit was long, quite flat and straight in its lines, and was cut into a deep-pointed scallop at center, back and front and at each side. It came to within 16 inches of the ground. Braid was also used on the coat, running in two straight lines from shoulder to hem. The collar was a wide turnover one cut to triple points and made of black satin. There were no cuffs and the long sleeves were shaped to points over the hands and edged with black braid.

Many of the newest fall dresses show a touch of trimming or piping of checked material. A handsome dress shown in a fashionable shop, for instance, was beautifully trimmed with a tiny piping of black and white and white checkered serge. Another dress, of plain material, was handsomely trimmed with bands of checkered taffeta. Even in a comparatively old-fashioned dress a new and modish effect may be produced by such a touch in the trimming, which brightens the whole and adds to its attractiveness.

The Sash.

It is worn with all sorts of frocks from street suit to ball gown.

This is doubled with the raw edges caught together and is made sufficiently wide to go around the waist from the front; it then crosses in the back, where the ends are brought to the left side and knotted.

Nearly all the directoire sashes are trimmed with buttons back and front; they are also weighted with tassels and fringe and are sometimes designated as a "belt" or "girdle."

Evening sashes are made from the exquisitely printed crepe de chines and chiffon cloths; pompadour ribbons, too, are still much in demand for this fascinating accessory.

RETURNS AFTER EUROPEAN TRIP

Augustine Murphy Saw Olympic Games in London Stadium.

Augustine Murphy returned last evening from a trip to Europe lasting more than five months. Mr. Murphy sailed last May from New York city, on the White Star liner Cedric, and says he had a very pleasant trip across the Atlantic. Visiting first his old home in Ireland, he later went to London to see the Franco-British exhibition and to witness the Olympic games at the Stadium.

"There was a very large attendance of American visitors and they were delighted with the success achieved by the American competitors in all the events," said Mr. Murphy.

"While at times there was some question as to the fairness of the decisions of the judges in the various events, the Americans proved themselves athletes of the first class in everything that they entered. The London Graphic, in an editorial after the conclusion of the games, paid a very high compliment to the American teams, and said that the British athletes would certainly have to change the high opinion they had of themselves in the athletic field. However, when all is said as to the games—and there has been a great deal—the United States has every reason to be proud of the glorious record made by its representatives."

After spending some weeks at the exhibition, Mr. Murphy sailed for Holland, visiting Rotterdam, The Hague and Amsterdam. Germany was the next country he visited, stopping at Hanover and Berlin. While in Berlin he witnessed the arrival of the automobiles in the New York to Paris race. The German car was the first to arrive, and was followed two days later by the American car. While the latter had the lead, for many days the Americans experienced a great deal of trouble in Siberia, and for this reason lost the race. Mr. Murphy says that Berlin is a beautiful city, and one of the finest on the continent. Hamburg and Kiel were also visited by him.

"There is a great deal of talk at present across the water of a war between Germany and England," said Mr. Murphy. "All the leading newspapers of Great Britain discuss the question daily, and many of the statesmen of the empire also see trouble ahead for England in the future. Why Germany is building such a large number of battleships the English government cannot understand. That Germany has designs on England is the firm belief of the English people, and Lord Cromer, in a recent speech, warned England. The feeling between the Germans and the English is not at all friendly."

Mr. Murphy left Germany for Denmark stopping at Copenhagen for a few days. He then went on to Stockholm, and while in the city witnessed the reception of the emperor and empress of Germany in the Swedish capital. The next point of interest visited by him was Christiania, the capital of Norway, and he spent a week viewing the fjords which surround it. Sailing from Christiania to Hull, England, he went to Liverpool, and then to Dublin, Ireland. He says that while there has not been much change in the conditions in Ireland, there has been a slight improvement for the better.

With the advent of the colder months comes the period when toast, orange marmadale, and coffee makes a breakfast that is welcome. The season of making marmadale is not yet here, but forehanded folks, rather comfortable and still rather hard to live with, have rows of marmalade on the shelf and you have but to mention it when, lo, it is before you. Yellow things, except in character, are a delight at this time of year, marmalade or grape fruit or chrysanchemums or five-dollar gold pieces.

OPERATORS WORK FOR 36 HOURS

Dallas, S. D., Oct. 21.—At the time of stopping work last night, 4,300 names had been announced in the Tripp county land drawing, and Judge Witten announced that he proposed to finish the work tonight.

Yesterday the plan of drawing was changed, the envelopes being all placed in mail sacks and a boy taking them out as he came to them. There was some objection to this by men who had failed to draw farms, and Judge Witten decided to resume the original plan of scattering the envelopes on the floor as at first. Up to midnight two Western Union operators here had been working continuously thirty-six hours, sending reports of the drawing to newspapers and others.

RELIEF FUND BEING PROBED

St. Paul people have a wrong idea concerning the condition of affairs of the Chisholm fire sufferers.

Some time ago the information was given out that more then enough money had been subscribed, and that there was no need of sending any more. Many of those who had put their name on the St. Paul list in view of this fact, refused to pay their money subscribed. They said they were willing to pay it if the fire sufferers needed it, but that they had information that such was not the case.

J. H. Beck and Joseph Kibbin of St. Paul are in Duluth today talking the situation over with Mayor Haven. The St. Paul people, they say, are anxious to pay the money if it is needed, but that they simply want to know the conditions.

The mayor said this morning that they will need all that has been subscribed, and maybe more. He would have made another trip to the range today to look the situation over had it not been for the meeting with the committee from St. Paul.

According to the committee there is much trouble in getting some of the money that was subscribed by Duluth people due to the fact that the report had been circulated that enough money and more than could be used, had been subscribed.

The representatives from St. Paul have gone thoroughly over the situation with the Duluth committee, and they have expressed themselves, as satisfied that the money that has been subscribed should all be paid.

From the station she drove to the palace, through streets lined with immense crowds of people.

At the palace the duchess was received by the emperor and empress and fifty visiting princes and princesses. Her coming was followed by a family dinner, at which the marriage contract was signed.

Prince Auguste William is 21 and a lieutenant of the first regiment of foot guards. His future bride is the second daughter of Prince Frederick, duke of Schleswig-Holstein. She is three months younger than the prince.

RUNAWAY IS LOCATED

She and Her Mother Disappeard Ten Days Ago.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—After a search lasting ten days, detectives last night found Anita Flynt, 15 years old, daughter of Mrs. James Flynt of Duluth, Minn., who ran away from home Oct. 10. She was working in a Greek restaurant. The girl left her home after she had taken a diamond ring belonging to her mother. She came to Chicago with Theodora Coran, 17 years old. Here the Flynt girl pawned the ring for $25. The money lasted until yesterday, when the Coran girl went to the home of relatives and the Flynt girl found employment.

Miss Flynt and her mother, Mrs. M. E. Flynt, boarded at 320 West Third street until nearly two weeks ago, when both of them disappeared. A postal card was received from Mrs. Flynt at the boarding house a few days after her departure, asking them to hold her piano and other possessions until they heard again from her. It is thought that she left for Chicago in search of her daughter.

At the Pantorium, where Mrs. Flynt worked prior to her disappearance, they said she had left suddenly without giving them any notice, and they had no idea where she was.

Miss Flynt is said to have caused her mother a great deal of anxiety. Though the friends of the Flynts did not know of Miss Flynt's escapade until told this morning, they have little doubt but what her mother went to search for her. Their friends had grown rather anxious about the Flynts and their unexplained absence.

FRANCE HELD WEARY OF DREYFUS SCANDAL.

Paris, Oct. 21.—By a vote of 438 to 47, the chamber of deputies condemned the campaign the anti-Dreyfusards are conducting against the decision in the case of Maj. Dreyfus, handed down by the court of cassation in 1906. Pierre Bietry, member from Finisterre, led in the assault and caused a violent scene. He was temporarily suspended. Minister of Justice Briand, after defending the decision of t he court, said the country was sick of this scandal and that those who were trying to reopen it were making themselves ridiculous.

Five Canal Diggers Killed.

Davis, engineer in charge of a steam shovel, George E. Goodley, a cranesman and a pit foreman whose name was not learned and two negroes. The steamshovel struck a charge of dynamite which had failed to explode when planted.

ON THE IRON RANGES

CITY WILL BE GAINER

Virginia Council Sees Profit in Establishing Municipal Court.

Passes Resolution Establishing Court Over Veto of the Mayor.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the city council believes in putting the city in the best possible way to master any conflagration was shown at the meeting last evening, when the members instructed the mayor and city clerk to enter into a contract with the American-La France company to supply the city with one of their latest improved hook and ladder trucks, with chemical attachment. The truck will be forty feet in length and will cost $1,750.

The bids to furnish the city a steam fire engine, and submitted by the Ahrens Fire Engine company, the American-La France Fire Engine company and the W. S. Nott company, were all rejected. In the advertisement for bids for a fire engine the specifications called for a first-size engine, but as the committee appointed to investigate these engines reported that this engine would be too large and heavy for use in this city, the council, upon their recommendation, rejected the bids and instructed the clerk to return the certified checks which accompanied these bids to their makers. No further action was taken in regard to the matter of purchasing an engine at this time, as the aldermen wish further time to look into the mechanism and merits of the different fire engines. Mayor Hawkinson, Alderman Boylan and Citizen Pollock, who went to St. Paul and Minneapolis to investigate fire engines, made a report on their visit, and this it was that caused the aldermen to vote in favor of the rejection of all bids.

A bill for the construction of a sidewalk across the tracks of the Great Northern railroad was presented to the council in the sum of $33.75. Upon instructions from the council the clerk was ordered to send this bill to the company, with the request that it remit the amount.

The matter of the purchase of galvanized iron recepticles to be placed in the alleys for the reception of garbage was referred to the health committee.

Renewal liquor licenses were granted to John Nelson and Patrick Sullivan, and a new license was granted to Logan & Lindsay. The latter firm will conduct a saloon in the Hovland location, in the old Fay block.

A resolution to build a sidewalk along the east side of Central avenue, between Locust and Hemlock streets, was passed by the council.

Want Municipal Court Act.

A reconsideration of the resolution recently passed by the council, placing the municipal court under the legislative act of 1905, and which was vetoed by the mayor, was unanimously passed by the council, after quite a lengthy discussion by the aldermen and Attorney H. C. Pickering and City Attorney Shea, who were present at the meeting. The mayor was still of the opinion that the compensation of the judge, the resolution providing for a salary of $2,400 per year, was in excess and thought it ought to be cut to at least $2,000 per year. Attorney Pickering stated that he had found on investigation, that the receipts of the office would amount to far more than the salary as provided in the resolution, and that by making this change the city would not only be making money, but would have a court of which it could be proud, and that the change would also benefit those business before it and would save the people of Virginia hundreds of dollars which otherwise they would be obliged to spend for expenses in carrying cases for trial to Duluth, provided they were to enter into litigation of any sort. City Attorney Shea spoke at some length on the matter stating that there were many good and valid reasons why the change should be made, and advised the council to establish the new code. Aldremen Elmquist and Trezona wanted the matter laid over for another week, but their motion was lost, and after some little hesitation they voted in favor of the reconsideration.

Alderman Mattson reported that the saloon of Joseph Patus, next door to the Sveaa hotel, was considered a disorderly place, and advised that the council take some action in the matter. The mayor stated that he had heard a good deal of complaint in regard to the place and stated that should Patus apply for a renewal of his license that he intended to veto the application. Acting upon this statement of the mayor's the council let the matter rest.

RAISES HUGE PORKER.

Virginia Man Butchers Very Large Animal.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—B. F. Smith, proprietor of the Fay hotel, who maintains a small stock farm just south of the city, had one of his hogs killed yesterday, which weighed, after being dressed, 434 pounds, a record-breaker for this section of the state. This goes to show that there is no section of the state better adapted for stock raising than right here on the Mesaba range. Mr. Smith also has a large number of cattle and chickens on his farm, which supply his hotel with milk and eggs the year round.

NOT A MIRACLE

Just Plain Cause and Effect.

There are some quite remarkable things happening every day, which seem almost miraculous.

Some persons would not believe that a man could suffer from coffee drinking so severely as to cause spells of unconsciousness. And to find complete relief in changing from coffee to Postum is well worth recording.

"I used to be a great coffee drinker, so much so that it was killing me by inches. My heart became so weak I would fall and lie unconscious for an hour at a time. The spells caught me sometimes two or three times a day.

"My friends, and even the doctor, told me it was drinking coffee that caused the trouble. I would not believe it, and still drank coffee until I could not leave my room.

"Then my doctor, who drinks Postum himself, persuaded me to stop coffee and try Postum. After much hesitation I concluded to try it. That was eight months ago. Since then I have had but few of those spells, none for more than four months.

"I feel better, sleep better and am better every way. I now drink nothing but Postum and touch no coffee, and as I am 70 years of age all my friends think the improvement quite remarkable."

"There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

INDEPENDENT NOT POLITICAL PARTY

Proceedings on at Brainerd to Keep McLellan Off Ticket.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The name of Colin McLellan was placed on the ballots by the county auditor as an "independent" candidate for judge of probate, on Oct. 12, Mr. McLellan having presented a petition with the requisite number of signatures.

In this petition he is described as an "independent," and this designation appears upon the ballots which have already been printed. Monday, Oct. 9, a suit, in the nature of an injunction proceeding, was commenced against the county auditor by H. S. Huson, who was the regular Republican nominee, to cause the removal of Mr. McLellan's name from the ballots, and the correction of the ballots to show Mr. Huson as the only candidate, on the ground that the word "Independent" does not contain the party or political principle required by the statute to be declared by a candidate and shown on the ballots.

The matter is being heard before Judge McClenahan at Brainerd today, George H. Spear appears for Huson and Alfred L. Thwing, the county attorney, for the county auditor. The action is arousing much interest, as throughout the state many candidates have been described as "independents" and there is now pending before the supreme court a case of similar nature.

WATCH "HANDED" TO HIM.

That Was Explanation of Man Accused of Theft.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Musilin was arraigned in municipal court yesterday on complaint of Peter Wring, chief of police, who alleges that Musilin stole an Elgin gold watch from John Belson in a saloon on Pine street. Mr. Musilin claimed that the bartender took the watch from Mr. Belson and then handed it to him. The story was too transparent for the court, and the defendant was bound over to the district court to await the action of the grand jury, without bail.

Isaac Isaacson and Gust Foss were fined $5 and costs, or in default thereof, to serve twenty days in the county jail. The defendants were arrested on complaint of W. C. SHEVLIN FOR JACOBSON.

Minneapolis Lumberman Anxious to See Him Elected.

Minneapolis, Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas H. Shevlin, just back from the coast yesterday, expressed his conviction that both Jacobson and Taft will be elected.

"Talking with business men since my return," said Mr. Shevlin, "I have been gratified to find a growing sentiment in favor of Mr. Jacobson. I can see no reason why the Republicans of Minnesota should not vote for Mr. Jacobson. His record is splendid in every way. I am certain it would be for the best interests of the state that it be in harmony with Mr. Taft and the policies he will carry out. We shall no doubt have nine Republican congressmen, and we have already two Republican United States senators. The best interests of the state will be served by a Republican governor, especially one who is a man of high character and ability and is by no means the man of extreme views and Populistic tendencies that his enemies represent him to be.

"I hope that every Republican and every good citizen of the state of Minnesota will rally around Mr. Jacobson, and bring back into the Republican fold the governorship of the state."

Not Drunk, But Ill.

Matt Martilla, aged 26 years, was picked up at Third avenue west and First street yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Barber as a drunk. When he arrived at the station it was evident the man was sick, not drunk, and he was hurried to St. Luke's hospital. His case was pronounced one of acute typhoid fever and his condition is critical.

Cow Was Starving.

The humane officer and the police are looking for the owner of a cow, found yesterday by Ole J. Clippen at 715 North Twenty-sixth avenue west. The animal was almost starved when found, being unable to eat on account of a chain wound tightly around her nose. The use of a file was necessary to remove the muzzle and the way in which the cow attacked food indicated that she had not eaten for days. She was placed in the pound after being fed.

DEMAND IS VERY FIRM

Price of Flax is Up One Point at the Close in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 21.—Firm at the opening, on higher cables, wheat had something of a reaction about the middle of the session, but closed a point or more up in all the American markets on the improved export demand.

The Ames-Brooks company here reported 92 loads of Manitoba worked for export, about noon, and this acted as a great stimulus to buying. The Northwest was firm during all the session.

Liverpool closed unchanged to ¼d higher. Berlin 1¼c lower and Antwerp unchanged.

The December option closed 1⅛c higher in Duluth and Minneapolis, ⅞c higher in Chicago and New York, 1c higher in St. Louis and Kansas City and ⅝c higher in Winnipeg. Support was the result of further advices from Argentina confirming damage from frost and continued light first hand offerings and fewer La Plata offers. Later, however, the market eased some owing to dullness. At mid-day values were from ¼d to ⅝d higher than Tuesday.

"Corn was dull and unchanged. There was a steady undertone in sympathy with the advance in wheat."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Confirmation of Frost Damage Report Inspires Firmness.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—After a slight dip during the first few minutes of trading, the local wheat market today became firm, owing to buying inspired by fresh confirmation of damage frost to the Argentine crop, and by unfavorable weather for the movement in the Northwest. At the start prices were a shade to ⅛@¼c higher, December opening at 98⅝c to 98¾c. After selling off to 98⅜c, December rallied again to 98¾@⅞c. After selling off to 98⅛c, December rallied again to 98⅞@99c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 684 cars, against 671 cars last week and 609 cars a year ago.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—The market gained additional strength during the last part of the day because of a much livelier export demand for wheat and flour, especially in the Northwest. The high point for December was reached at 99½c. The close was strong with December up ⅜c at 99⅞c.

Realizing sales by several leading holders had a depressing effect on the corn market, but prices showed only slight losses during early trading. December opened a shade lower to a shade higher, at 63⅝c to 63½c, and sold off to 63⅛c. Local receipts were 87 cars, with 16 of contract grade.

The market displayed more firmness later in the day owing to the strength of wheat, December selling up to 63⅜c. The close was firm with December up ¼@⅜c.

PADDY WHEAT.

Oats were steady on moderate demand by shorts. Prices at the start were a shade higher to ⅜c lower, December opening at 47⅛c to 47⅛@⅛c. Local receipts weer 131 cars.

Commission houses and local packers were fairly active bidders for provisions, and, as a result, the market was firm. A falling off in receipts of live hogs at Western packing centers was the chief reason for the demand. At the opening, prices weer 2½c to 17½c higher.

Close: Wheat, December, 99¾c; May, $1.02⅝@⅞; July, 97½c. Corn, October, 70⅞c; December, 63⅝c; May, 65⅜c; July, 62¼c. Oats, December, 47⅝c; May, 49⅝c; July, 44⅞c. THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, Oct. 21.—Only 198 cars of wheat in Duluth, indicated that the movement that way is lightening materially. There were 209 cars a year ago. Minneapolis got 427 against 346, Winnipeg 429 and 363. The foreign news was strong, Budapest and Liverpool both up on bad weather in Hungary, and confirmation of frost damage in Argentina. The local market advanced, gaining a cent from yesterday's low point. There was a sharp advance near the end and a strong close at high points. Minneapolis opened $1.00½; high, $1.01; low, $1.00½; close, $1.01½; old December closed—$1.01⅜; May opened $1.05; high, $1.05⅜@⅝; low, $1.04⅞@1.05; close, $1.05⅜@⅝. Excellent demand was found for cash wheat. No. 1 held 2c over December for everything, and selections went 1@2c over. No. 2 northern was at December price to 1c over, and more of it sold today at the premium. Millers and shippers bought as did the elevators. Duluth paid 3c over Minneapolis December for No. 1 northern, for No. 1 northern to arrive, to go to the Head of the Lakes, which made it look as if Duluth will get the wheat hereafter, unless Minneapolis cash prices follow its strength. Closing: No. 1 hard, on spot, $1.03⅛; to arrive, $1.03½; No. 2 northern spot, $1.01½@1.02; to arrive, $1.01½. No. 3 wheat, 96½@1.00.

Barley—Receipts, 96 cars against 153 cars last year. Shipments, 86 cars. All grades were lower by ½c to 1c. There was fair demand for feed at the decincle. Close, 47@57c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,835 tons. Firmer in tone, but quotably unchanged at $17.50@18 for bulk bran.

Flour—Demand is not so good, country and local millers finding it quieter. Local mills say shipping directions are not coming in as freely as last week. Shipments, 49,991 barrels. First patents, $5.20@5.40; second patents, $5@5.20; first clears, $3.90@4.20; second clears, $2.90@3.20.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Started Higher and Trading Was Brisker Than of Late.

Closing Was Irregular, But Not Much Below the Best.

New York, Oct. 21.—Opening dealings in stocks were active today at a higher range of prices, several stocks showing a wide opening at quotations varying as much as ½. Southern Pacific rose 1⅛ on running sales of 6,000 shares, Westinghouse Electric rose 1½, Rock Island preferred, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting, National Lead and Third Avenue 1, and Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Missouri Pacific and New York Central large fractions.

The demand for stocks was brisker than for a long time, and some very large purchases were made of special stocks. The Harriman group, St. Paul, Reading and the metal industrials were the principal features. Union Pacific rose 1⅞ and there was also a rapid rise in St. Paul, followed by feverish fluctuations. The principal advances were St. Paul 2½, Southern Pacific and Illinois Centrad 2, Rock Island preferred and American Smelting 1⅝, and Union Pacific and Reading 1⅜. Tennessee Copper yielded 1¼.

Some hesitation was manifest at the higher price altitude and active realizing pressure developed in Northern Pacific and some other stocks. St. Paul's extreme rise reached 2⅝. Northern Pacific was carried a shade under last night. Central Railroad of New Jersey sold at an advance of 4. The market became quieter at slight fractional recessions. Bonds were steady.

A steadier tone resulted from increased buying of St. Paul, Union Pacific and Reading, but there was little inquiry for the other stocks. St. Paul rose 3⅜, Reading 2 and Union Pacific 1⅝.

Realizing in St. Paul forced it back a point. The general list held well, and Southern Pacific held slightly higher. Louisville & Nashville advanced ½ and Atlantic Coast Line and Wisconsin Central preferred 2.

The market closed irregular, but not much below the best. The Harriman Pacific went a fraction higher and Amalgamated Copper gained 2, but generally the price level did not change much. Profit taking sales made some impression towards the end of eth day. Northern Pacific ran off suddenly to 1¼c under last night.

RATES REVISED.

There is a meeting of Michigan rate clerks at Detroit today that may have an important effect upon some of the through rates of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad.

The meeting is called for the purpose of readjusting some of the through rates from Michigan east. The railway officials found that the ruling of the interstate commerce commission has rendered some of the present through rates higher than a fair comparison of the sum of the local rates would amount to.

It is for the purpose of revising these rates that the Detroit meeting has been called. In making the changes it is probable that some of the through rates affecting Duluth travel will be revised. The revisions will probably result in better through rates from this and the Michigan territory.

NIGHT RIDING TO BE THEIR THEME

Cotton Men Will Hold Convention in Memphis.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 21.—Night riding and burning of cotton gins in the South, in addition to the general cotton situation will be discussed by delegations of cotton growers, merchants and ginners in Memphis, Nov. 10. It is expected 1,000 ginners will attend.

President Jordan of the Southern Cotton association says:

"That night riding exists in many Southern states and that lives and property are endangered by it, there can be no doubt. The situation is a grave one and unprecedented as far as I know in the cotton belt. A situation that existed in Kentucky is being repeated here. In one tobacco was involved, in the other, cotton. Low prices and discontent on the part of the grower is the underlying cause in both instances.

"The cotton growers of the South were never in a more despondent frame of mind than now. They are faced on the one hand by a low price of cotton, and on the other by a high price of commodities. The situation is made worse by the fact that there seems no natural basis for the condition."

BURGLARS AT LARGE

Authorities Fail to Locate Lake Nebagamon Bank Wreckers.

Two Men Arrested as Suspects Succeed in Proving Alibi.

The police have little hope of capturing the yeggmen, who so daringly blew the vaults of the Bank of Nebagamon and secured $1,700 in cash early yesterday morning.

It was a clean cut job and the burglars left no trace by which they could be followed. No one saw them enter or leave the little village. Several townspeople were awakened by the heavy explosions, but no one knew that the bank had been robbed until after daylight. Grover McPhee, a store-keeper, next door to the bank, heard the explosions and went to examine the wrecked building in the morning. About $2,000 damage was done to the fixtures and plate glass windows. B. M. Peyton, president of the bank, resumed business yesterday, after only a short delay, in the Nebagamon Lumber company's offices. The National Burglar Insurance company of New York had the risk.

Last evening two men, who gave their names as James McDonald, aged 45, and James Billideau, aged 30, were taken into custody at Hines, about tweny-five miles south of Nebagamon. They were held over night on suspicion, but this morning were liberated, on proving an alibi.

The rumor is current in Superior today that Eddy Fay, the well-known cracksman, was seen a few days ago in the city, and it is thought that perhaps he had a hand in the robbery. Fay four years ago burglarized the Superior postoffice. He was captured, and held in the jail at Janesville. He was not in captivity long however, for he broke jail and was not recaptured.

WOMAN STUMBLED ON A "SET GUN"

First Arrest in Several Years for Dangerous Practice.

On the serious charge of having set a gun on a deer runway, Jacob Pante, a laborer, was yesterday arraigned in Judge Parker's court. In default of $500 bail, he was remanded to jail until his hearing Friday.

The unlawful practice of placing rifles in the woods, so that by touching a string the gun will be discharged, is a very dangerous one, and many people wandering through the woods have had narrow escapes. It has been hard to capture the offenders, and Pante is the first one against whom such a charge has been made in several years.

The "set gun" was found by a woman, who stumbled on one of its supporting strings. The gun was not loaded fortunately, though according to Pante, who cannot be understood except through an interpreter, he intended to load the gun that night.

Upon conviction, the penalty for such a charge is not less than six months or more than three years in the state prison.

School Convention.

The opening of the county school board convention yesterday afternoon was featured by an address from Rural School Inspector L. W. Wood. His subject was "The School Board and the Teachers." The meeting was called to order by Supt. Young of the Superior normal school. Short addresses were made by City Supt. W. E. Maddock, Principal Lynch of the Blaine high school, Principal Shoug of the Nelson Dewey, Prof. A. M. Royce of the normal and Miss Elizabeth McCormick of the Nelson Dewey. The evening meeting was also of interest and there was a good attendance.

MOTHER'S LETTER SAVED HER

A letter from a trusting mother yesterday saved a wayward girl, found guilty in the Superior municipal court of a disorderly charge, from serving a sentence in the county jail.

The girl is but 18 years old, and pretty. She had been arrested in a raid along with other members of the party. The keepers of the raided place were A. M. Anderson and Thomas Olsen.

The girl had a letter from her mother, begging her to leave the life in the city and come back to her on the farm. The judge, on seeing the letter, said if she would promise to take the next train for her home, he would let her off with a suspended sentence. The girl promised and was released.

No Action on Roller.

The Superior council as yet has not been able to decide whether or not to buy a gasoline road roller. The roller again occupied the attention of the aldermen, and after considerable discussion it was decided to lay the matter over for two weeks.

SECOND MAIN LINE TO CROSS PRAIRIES.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 21.—The Grand Trunk Pacific will construct a second main line across the three prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, starting from the present main line, north of Brandon, Manitoba, and running thence across Saskatchewan to the coal district of Southern Alberta, giving the railway a second line through the wheat fields of Western Canada, but widely separated after reaching the eastern section of Saskatchewan. A portion of the $50,000 to be raised by the Canadian Pacific, which was approved at the annual meeting in Montreal, is to be used in continuing the double tracking of its main line from this city west to the Rockies.

TOTALS OF DEATHS, 500

American Army Officers Rescue One Hundred, In Typhoon.

Manila, Oct. 22.—Additional details of the damage wrought in the Cayagan valley by the typhoon, indicate that the loss of life in the disaster will reach 500. At Aparri, where a thrilling rescue of 100 natives was effected through the heroism of Lieut. Robert Clark, Lieut. Tredway and Postmaster Foss, the survivors say 300 residents of the submerged fishing village, which is located some distance below Aparri, were swept away and drowned.

The three Americans, aided by one Filipino volunteer, were informed of the danger that threatened the village and managed to reach it by boat. Approaching the shore in a series of short rushes between breakers that threatened at any moment to swamp their frail craft, the rescuers found scores of natives clinging to the poles of their wrecked habitations. Lieuts. Clark and Tredway, carrying lines from the boat, fought their way through the breakers and swimming from house to house in the flood water, saved the lives of about 100 men, women and children. So thorough was their work that all but six of those living when the boat reached the village were saved. The half dozen unfortunates in question were swept away by the force of the water while the Americans were striving to reach them. More than fifty bodies were recovered in this locality. It is feared that the storm and the resulting flood has seriously damaged tobacco crop of the islands. The principal supply and the best quality of Philippine tobacco is grown in the Cagayan district, where two plantations report serious damage.

JOHNSON VISITS RED LAKE COUNTY

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 22.—Special to The Herald.)—The large armory in this city was well filled Tuesday night to listen to an eloquent political address by Governor Johnson. He arrived in the city from the north on the 4.30 Great Northern train, having spent the day in Roseau county, where he delivered two addresses at Greenbush and Badger. He is accompanied by W. E. McEwen of Duluth and State Librarian King, the former of whom is assistant the governor by taking up part of the speaking.

The local Democrats had made extensive preparations for the reception of the campaigners. They were met at the train by a band and the county committee and escorted to their hotel. In the evening the militia company and band headed an old-fashioned torchlight procession that paraded the down-town streets of the city prior to the meeting.

The governor's address consisted of a resume of his four years' stewardship, a plea for the continual support of those who believe in state development and an appeal for non-partisanship in the administration of the business of the state. He was given marked attention throughout his address, and it was the impression that he has greatly strengthened his position in Red Lake county. An interesting feature of the meeting was the presence of a large number of ladies, most of whom are warm supporters of the policies of the head of the state.

BRIDE'S TRAIN IS THIRTEEN FEET

Takes Four Pages to Carry It, for Duchess Alexandra.

Berlin, Oct. 22.—At the marriage today of Duchess Alexandra Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, to Prince Auguste William of Prussia, fourth son of Emperor William, the bride was clad in white silk trimmed with lace, and her train, which was richly embroidered with silver and thirteen feet long, was borne by four pages.

The simple ceremony of the Lutheran state church was performed by Dr. Dryander, the court preacher.

As the rings were exchanged the artillery in the palace square began firing a salute, and the crashing sounds were interrupted by the melodious chiming of the church bells. The emperor had the empress kissed the bridal couple.

After the ceremony the royal party marched to the white hall of the palace and held a reception to 2,000 guests.

BLACK HAND FIRES BOMB

It Explodes in House That Sheltered Eighteen Families.

Owner Had Received Warnings—No One is Injured.

New York, Oct. 22.—Another bomb was exploded last night in an East side tenement disrict, which has been guarded by police for weeks to prevent just such outrages.

The explosive was placed in the hallway of a house on East Eleventh street, occupied by eighteen families, and owned by Pasquale Discardi, who has been receiving Black Hand warnings for a year.

The bomb was weak, but noisy enough to wake up the block. The stairs were blown down from the first to the second floor, windows were shattered and plastering was cracked from the cellar to the roof.

Bombs have been exploded in three other buildings in the same block after the owner had been ordered to pay blackmail on penalty of death.

TO SEEK POLE ON ICE FLOES

Baldwin Will Lay Novel Plan Before the President.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Baldwin, the Arctic explorer, was a caller at the White House yesterday, but was unable to see the president. He came to lay before Mr. Roosevelt a new plan for exploring the Arctic regions and discovering the North pole.

His idea, which has been indorsed by Admiral Melville, one of the survivors of the Jeannette expedition, Admiral Schley and Sir Purdon Clark, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, is to utilize one of the many huge ice floes which drift from the Bering sea across the Arctic regions and eventually reach the coast of Greenland.

These floes take three years and a half in their drift across. By establishing a camp of portable houses and scattering logs and casks of oil and provisions over one of these floes, Mr. Baldwin believes it possible to discover the pole, to make scientific investigations and secure photographs heretofore unobtainable. The party would consist of twenty or tyenty-five persons, including scientists, naturalists and artists.

Investigation has shown that these ice floes, starting north of Bering strait, drift in a regular course across the Arctic. Portions of the wrecked Jeannette and drift casks started from that point have been picked up off the Greenland coast.

"Everything looks bright for Mr. Bryan and Mr. Chanler. They will get about the same vote in the state. I have caused no canvass to be made of the city yet, and can't say whether I will make any estimates on the election this year."

GRAPE GROWERS ASK REVOCATION

San Francisco, Oct. 22.—After a conference of grape-growers representing the vineyard interests of California, a telegram was sent to President Roosevelt asking him to take action to bring about a reversal of a ruling made by the commissioner of internal revenue, which forbids the use of American sweet wines as medicinal components.

The message contains reference to a resolution passed by the trans-Mississippi congress, which opposes the ruling.

It is declared the decision will ruin the market for 12,000 acres of grapes annually and cause a loss of more than $3,000,000 to the growers.

Nominee Reiterates His Rival is Menace to Prosperity.

Milan, Ind., Oct. 22.—Indiana is to be the battle ground in which William H. Taft will push his campaign for the remainder of the week. He has adopted an itinerary which calls for fifty speeches in this state, and will take the candidate through the state from south to north.

He began the delivery of the first of the sixteen speeches required of him today at Lawrenceburg before 8 a. m.

The day will end at Evansville after the following places have been visited: Lawrenceburg, Aurora, Osgood, North Vernon, Seymour, Brownstown, Mitchell, Bedford, Bloomington, Linton, Terre Haute, Sullivan, Vincennes, Princeton and Evansville.

With a voice restored by a day of rest, Taft had this to say of Bryan at his first stop:

"Mr. Bryan is a bit sensitive because Republicans are prophesying, not only Republicans but Democrats, too, in a business way, that if he is elected it will retard business, and that if the Republican ticket is elected it will improve business.

"He says that is offering bribery to workmen.

"It is not offering bribery. It is merely stating a fact, and it is a fact that workingmen ought to know as

TOWN ON WHEELS TOURS PRAIRIE

Dallas, S. D., Oct. 22.—The drawing for farms in the Tripp county lottery, was finished last night when the number 6,000 was removed. Today Judge Witten and his clerks began the work of assorting the 108,000 unlucky applications and comparing with those which draw prizes, in order to determine any applicants who had registered twice. If any are found among the prize winners they will be barred from filing.

Last night and today the work of moving the "rush" buildings, which have lined the main street for the past three weeks to the new town sites in Tripp county made a unique spectacle. The buildings are on wheels and eight horses were hitched to each and a forced march over the prairies began, each owner intent upon securing the best location in the town of his choice.

It is estimated that participation in the lottery cost the land seekers not less than $2,000,000.

SLAIN BY INDIAN BOY

Montana Deputy Game Warden Killed, Battling With Flatheads.

Squaw Also Fires Bullet into Dying Man's Body.

Missoula, Mont., Oct. 22.—Game Warden W. F. Scott and Deputy Warden Henry A. Vass arrived here last night with the remains of Deputy Game Warden Charles B. Peyton, who was killed in a fight with Flathead Indians in the Swan river country, while attempting to arrest them for transgression of the game laws of the state.

According to the story of Peyton's death, told by Herman Rudolph, a ranch hand who accompanied Peyton within forty feet of the Indian camp, the deputy was shot by a 13-year-old Indian boy, who hid behind the horses of the redskins, and had not been noticed by Peyton.

When Peyton told the Indians they were under arrest, one of them grabbed the officer by the neck. Peyton shook him off and advised them to be peaceful.

Another Indian then uttered a whoop, pulled his rifle and was about to shoot, when Peyton dropped him in his tracks with a bullet.

Rudolph then observed the little Indian lad kneeling between the horses, aiming at Peyton, and he fired at the redskin at the same moment that the latter fired at the officer. Peyton was mortally shot and the Indian boy toppled over dead. A squaw put Warden Peyton out of his misery, according to Rudolph, ending his suffering by a half dozen shots from small caliber guns.

All the mountain passes are being watched for the fleeing squaws, who have with them the bodies of their braves.

WOMEN IN WAR CLAMOR

All Classes Join in the Protest Against Annexation.

Cettinje, Montenegro, Oct. 22.—A remarkable expression of the depth to which the war fever has penetrated the Montenegrin people, as a result of the annexation of the provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria-Hungary, was witnessed in Cettinji today, when the women of the capital united in a great street demonstration.

These were headed by Princesses Zenia and Vera, daughters of Prince Nicholas, who marched through the streets carrying Montenegrin flags.

The princesses were followed by a great throng of women of all classes, who chanted war songs as they marched, stopping from time to time to plead with the men who followed in their wake to defend the sacred rights of the nation.

NAVY DESERTER BLAMES WIFE

Son-in-Law of Late Senator Gorman is Still in Jail.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 22.—Charles Joseph Magnus, husband of Miss Adda Gorman, daughter of the late Senator Arthur Pue Gorman of Maryland, who was arrested here yesterday on charge of being a deserter from the navy, will be taken to Philadelphia tonight. Mrs. Magnus visited her husband in the jail today, remaining fifteen minutes. She said she would accompany him to Philadelphia and "stick to him forever."

"How did you meet Mr. Magnus?" was asked her.

"Oh, we both live in Maryland," was her reply, "that's easy enough to understand."

Magnus seems to take his change from a sumptuous apartment at the Selbach to the jail with good grace. He regards his predicament as only a temporary inconvenience. Magnus says it was at his wife's instance that he secured a furlough and remained away from his ship.

GOOD PIANOS

At Popular Prices

This One $300 Easy Payments.

IVERS & POND PIANOS

Others $200 to $350 Easy Payments.

"Why, I had no idea that you had such pianos as these for $250," said a lady in our warerooms the other day. "I've been looking around at the other stores, as I did not suppose the Duluth Music company carried much besides Steinways and other high-priced makes. I could not afford an expensive piano, yet wanted an instrument of good tone and real musical merit, and reliable inside rather than showy in case. I have at last found what I've been searching for."

Remarks similar to the above are not infrequently made by our customers, who have had a wrong impression before visiting our store. This impression is often the result of the talk of competitors' salesmen, among whom it is common practice—not only in Duluth and Superior, but in other cities—to strive to spread the idea that the house that sells Steinway pianos is a "high priced house." No greater falsehood could be circulated than this. While we sell a great many Steinways, having had the sole agency for years, the fact is that we sell a far greater number of pianos at prices ranging from $200 to $300.

It is reasonable, isn't it, when you stop to think about it, that the house that sells the best $550 piano—the Steinway—should also be able to furnish the best $250 and $350 makes? The leading store sells superior values at any price.

That's what this lady found out and what any one will find out who visits our store and examines the many excellent low priced pianos shown. You will see twenty pianos of other makes to one Steinway.

New Steinway Upright Pianos, $550

CAUTION—Look at the value behind the price when shopping for a piano. Some stores, for example, call pianos "$400 pianos" that are of the same grade we regularly sell at $250 to $300. Holders of "Easy Puzzle Piano Bonds," etc., and other persons looking around should remember to compare values rather than mere "prices." We sell all reliable grades, and every piano in our store is rightly priced according to its grade.

Clarence C. Dinehart, state treasurer for two years and candidate for reelection, will be the principal speaker Monday evening at a Republican rally in West Duluth. There will also be addresses by one or more Republicans of local prominence. The club has not yet selected the hall for the rally, but will announce where it is to be held tomorrow.

The regular weekly meeting of the West Duluth Republican club will be held as usual on Saturday evening in the Commercial clubrooms above the Western State bank. The club committee has secured C. E. Adams and H. J. McClernan to speak on that evening.

At its meeting on Saturday evening, the club members will probably vote to attend the Jacobson meeting at the Armory on Oct. 29, in a body, and in case they will be given a place at the front of the procession, owing to their activity and prominence in local Republican affairs.

It was the first meeting the club has held since its organization last Saturday, and it was well attended. W. B. Getchell acted as chairman. John Dwan, a prominent Two Harbors Democrat and A. R. MacDonald, editor of the Labor World, were the speakers of the evening.

Both national and state issues were discussed by the speakers. Mr. Dwan devoted some time to the explanation of the tax amendments, which will be voted on this fall.

Mr. MacDonald championed William Jennings Bryan, claiming that he is the candidate of the people, while Taft is the candidate of the officeholders. He also urged the election of Governor Johnson.

WILL "BLOW IN" FURNACE.

Zenith Furnace Company Ready to Produce Pg Iron Saturday.

If everything goes as planned, Saturday will see the great furnace of the Zenith Furnace company of West Duluth "blown in," after nearly a year of idleness.

Since early in the year the entire plant has had a thorough going over, and approximately $135,000 has been expended in improvements and repairs. When the plant is in operation after Saturday, it will be in position to turn out 200 tons of pig iron daily and give employment to about 100 more men.

The blast furnace has been relined, new blowing engine and boilers installed, besides a new hot and cold blast main and a new dust catcher. This week is a very busy one at the plant. The new steam fittings are all being inspected, to see that there are no leaks; the furnace is being loaded to be blown in, and the blast mains are being gone over and tested, so that there will be no hitch or delay when the torches are applied.

THE QUEEN'S OWN FASHIONS.

Queen Alexandra does not follow the fashion either of long silhouetted figure or of wide and high-crowned headgear. There is a style of dress in England which the queen has made her own, which the princess of Wales follows closely and which is in favor with every member of the royal family.

This has gradually become distinctively their own. "I want a royal toque" is a request understood by any milliner, as is a "queen's sleeve" or a "queen's skirt" by a dressmaker.

On the opening day at Ascot the queen wore a dress of delicate orchid mauve marquisette, lace inserted and embroidered, and a toque made of tulle and flowers the same shade.

The princess of Wales was gowned in soft rose pink chiffon, lavishly embroidered in the same shade, and wore a cream colored toque with ostrich feathers.

Another day, according to the Ladies' Pictorial, the queen wore a lovely dress of French gray silk voile, a mass of very beautiful embroidery in the same color. The queen's toque was of crinoline straw and tulle of the same delicate shade, and was trimmed with an aigrette of heliotrope and crimson damask roses.

CONSPIRACY OF SILENCE

Says Party Will Cast 2,000,000 Votes This Year.

"There is a conspiracy of silence to defeat the cause of Socialism. The subsidized capitalistic press of the United States has banded together to suppress the news of Socialism and the progress of the unprecedented political campaign of Eugene V. Debs and the Red Special. The political growth of Socialism in this country and the wonderful campaign of Debs has attracted more attention in Europe than it has in this country."

Such was the statement made today by William D. Haywood, former secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, mentioned as a presidential candidate of the Socialist party, and the man to whom national attention was attracted during the progress of the famous trial at Boise, Idaho.

Mr. Haywood says that the Socialist party will receive more than 2,000,000 votes in the approaching election. He says the laboring men of the United States are convinced that the Socialist party is the only party that will help, or will attempt to assist the laboring classes of this country.

"Neither the Republican or the Democratic party has anything in their platforms that are worth anything," says Mr. Haywood. "They refuse to argue or to be drawn into debate upon the question of labor. They offer the laboring man nothing. The Socialist party offers the laboring man the product of his toil, relief from the capitalistic shackle, and the chance to be a man.

"The growth of Socialism is unprecedented. It is simply wonderful. I have spoken from Bar Harbor, Me., to the southern part of Texas, and I am convinced that the laboring men of this country are finally aroused to the true condition of their servitude. They can expect nothing from either of the two great parties in the way of relief from oppressing conditions, and so the laboring man is going to vote the Socialist ticket."

Mr. Haywood estimates that there are between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 working men idle at the present time. He makes this estimate, he says, from statistics that have been furnished.

In his present campaign, Mr. Haywood has spoken in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Minnesota. He will end his campaign in Kansas City upon the eve of the election. He says he will then return home and prepare for the 1912 campaign.

Laborinm men almost entirely compose the ranks of Socialism at the present time, according to Mr. Haywood. He says, however, that other classes are being drawn into the ranks of the party and that it will not be long before the party will be composed of a large representation from every class of citizens in this country.

Mr. Haywood says that Debs has addressed more men in this country in the present campaign, than either Bryan or Taft, or in fact, the two great party candidates combined. He states that the growth of Socialism is the most wonderful political evolution of this age, and that its growth will continue until it becomes the great party of the future. He says the party is growing in every part of the country, and that Socialism has become a factor in national political life.

WANTS DEMOCRATS TO ELECT SENATOR.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 22.—W. J. Bryan in his speech here today advised his auditors to pay more attention to the matters of electing the Democratic state ticket, a legislative ticket which would send a Democratic senator to Washington and also the election of Democratic members of congress, "for," he said, "I expect to be in Washington after March 4, and will need them all."

CURE FOR SNAKE BITES.

Out West: The rattlesnake has a part all his own in the desert practice of healing. Rattlesnake oil cures rheumatism and the stiffened joints a man gets working down in a wet mine; the oil rubbed in the ears cures deafness, and a rattlesnake skin, tanned soft and supple as chamois and worn around the waist, will keep a man well on the hardest trip—but the dust from the rattles will cause blindness which nothing will cure.

There is a plant which the rattlesnake fears—he will not crawl across it, and if it is dropped on him he uncoils and crawls away. Perhaps this is only a bit of myth, but every desert man knows the golondrina—the creeping plant with tiny, round, gray green leaves and minute white blossoms with a brown center.

"Rattlesnake weed" grows in the little open spaces from the pines to the white sand hills that shift back and forth in each year's wind. The leaves pounded into a wet mass are bound on a snake bite, and the victim, man or animal, is given huge draughts of the bitter, dark tea, into which the whole plant is steeped. The golondrina tea is used as a liniment for rheumatism, too, and the Mexican women know that it dyes cotton cloth in an enduring purplish black.

If the golondrina is too far to find there is another desert cure for any snake bite—a cure well enough attested and one with which many an Indian has fought bullet wound and saber cut and mastered incipient blood poisoning. The leaves of any flat-leaved opuntia, but especially the common prickly pear, are thrown on a camp fire till the thorns are singed off and the skin puffs up in watery blisters, then split open and bound hot on the wound. So many a pack mule has been restored to place in the train and many a limb that a physician would have amputated has been saved to do its owner good service on desert trails.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hayward of Salt Lake City, who was regularly elected and served as delegate to the Democratic national convention in Denver, is the mother of nine children, and said to have one of the best managed households in that city. POWDER TRUST ATE 'EM ALL UP

New York, Oct. 22.—Methods alleged to have been employed by the powder trust to gain control of the powder trade in the United States were described by R. S. Waddell, ex-general sales agent in the United States for the big powder company, at today's session of the hearing i nthe government's suit against the company for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

He had declared that the defendant company now controls between 95 and 98 per cent of the trade in gun powder, and 90 per cent of the trade in blasting powder. Today he told of the formation of the Southern Powder company, which was organized in Cincinnati, with mills in Georgia in 1896, and absorbed by the big company a few months later. "We went right after the Southern as soon as they entered the market," said Mr. Waddell. "The fight continued until the general round up in July, 1896."

"What do you mean by the general round-up?" he was asked.

"I mean the complete elimination of competition by absorbing the competitors," replied the witness.

Mr. Waddell said he had been informed by the officers of the company that there was an agreement with foreign manufacturers on sales of dynamite. This information was given him, he said, after foreign mills had been erected in Jamestown. This was known as the "Jamestown agreement."

"I was told one of our officers had been to you, and that thereafter we would have no further trouble," said he. This, he said, was when there was some disturbance in the market over the cutting of prices on smokeless powder. He said a new agreement was drawn by members of the pool after practically all the competitors had been absorbed. When a paper identified by Waddell as a copy of the agreement was presented, counsel for the defense objected to its acceptance by the court.

The Specialty
House Garment

This woman's specialty business of ours was established with the aim to satisfy critical and well-dressed women. That class of women who had previously found that the average ready-made garment was too stereotyped, and that the custom-made garment, more often than not, failed to come up to expectations.

That the style and color most often did not suit the individuality as well in substance as in the mind's eye.

Gidding Garments constitute a range of styles which are the best choice from a hundred makers. Each maker surrounded by expert tailors and designers who have the advantages of the metropolitan fashion events and visits to foreign fashion centers. It is a collection of garments designed for divers types, proportions, ages, tastes and circumstances.

You are at liberty to try on as many styles as you please. A hundred garments if you will, until you know of a certainty that you have struck the thing most suited to you. Is there not a strong contrast between this absolute knowledge of the finished garment, developed under such broad skill and knowledge as matched against the attempts of the single handed, local modiste or ladies' tailor?

MARRIAGE BY PHOTOGRAPH.

Japan Weekly Mail: The Asahi Shimbun has an article which throws an interesting light on the queston alluded to in our last issue, namely, marriages by photograph between Japanese residing in America and their countrywomen in Japan. It appears that two movements of a self-defensive nature have recently been organized by Japanese residents in the United States.

The first is a crusade against gambling by the Chinese, a vice which is indulged in on such a scale and which involves such evil results that the presence of Orientals in general becomes objectionable in the eyes of American citizens. Japanese agitation for the suppression of this vice promises to have the result of clearly differentiating them from its practice.

The second movement has for its immediate outcome this idea of nuptials by photograph. There are about 100,000 Japanese in the United States, and fully 90 per cent of them lead single lives. Such a condition was tolerable enough so long as a settler's object consisted merely in earning as fast as possible, money enough to return home. But in view of the anti Oriental spirit now prevailing in the United States the Japanese residents see that the only practical remedy lies in becoming permanent settlers, and in carrying out that program a wife is a prime essential.

To return to Japan, however, for the purpose of providing himself with a wife, means not only that a man would have to incur great expense but also that it would be more than doubtful whether he could re-enter the states subsequently. Therefore the only feasible alternative is to get a wife over from Japan without going to fetch her.

All this appears to have been anticipated very cleverly by the well known Mr. Shimanuki, a prominent Christian. Some time ago he established in the Kioshhikawa suburb of Tokyo an institution called the Ryokkokai, which may be freely translated into the Self-help society.

The inmates of this institution, mostly graduates from girls' high schools, receive education in all subjects likely to be of practical utility, such as housekeeping, cooking, sewing, typewriting, etc. In fact, they are expressly equipped to be the wives of Japanese settlers in the United States.

It is between this institution and the Japanese settlers that phoographs have been exchanged, and by this means the settlers are enabled to obtain helmates whose qualifications and record are known and whose appearance is rendered familiar by the photographs. The idea is that if the settlers thus marry and bring up families their sons will become naturalized American citizens, and by degrees the anti-Japanese feeling in the United States will die out. The conception seems eminently practical and useful, nor can we doubt for a moment that the Japanese authorities in Tokyo will refrain from interfering with the program.

RENT, ONE RED ROSE.

London Daily Mail: An interesting feature of the distribution of prizes at St. Olave's grammar school, Benmondsey, yesterday was the payment of the "rent" of a free hold field, which was leased in 1656 to trustees for the benefit of the poor of the parish.

The lease was "for a term of 500 years, at the yearly rent of a red rose, payable at midsummer if lawfully demanded." The representatives of the trustees paid the rent with a bouquet of red roses, which was handed to the warden of the school.

THE GIFT OF HEALTH

Health Is Absolutely Necessary to Happiness.
Health—Perfect Health is Now Possible to All.

A great many people believe that a chronic disease is a disease that cannot be cured. They are mistaken. A chronic disease is a disease that has not been cured, but has suffered to go on if not unchecked, at least, so ineffectually treated that the treatment has had no appreciable effect on the disease.

There is a long and terrible list of diseases that have earned the reputation of being incurable, which in reality, await only thorough and capable treatment—take for instance Cancer, Consumption, Syphilis or Paralysis—these diseases are being cured daily at the Progressive Medical Institute at No. 1 West Superior street, not by miracles, but by straight knowledge scientifically applied.

Again take Rheumatism, it is manifestly impossible to cure this disease with a few doses of some patent medicine, the same in every different case, and yet, because sufferers from this disease have repeatedly failed to get a cure from the use of some such "quack" remedy, they decide that their complaint is "chronic"—which to them means the same thing as incurable. They do not stop to think that no two human systems are exactly alike, and that the medicine that might cure one patient will have either a bad effect or none at all on the next case. Every separate case requires a separate treatment, and until it receives it there will be no possibility or a permanent cure. More and more people who have tired of the constant non-result of self-drugging, are consulting the Progressive Medical Specialists, and in a few days finding themselves well on the way to a cure as permanent as it is thorough, without the use of the knife in any case. What's the use of wasting your time and money on patent medicines that may cure you when the Progressive Specialists WILL cure you, and guarantee the cure? Set your foot on the first step to health by coming TODAY to No. 1 West Superior street. This means YOU!

NAVY DESERTER BLAMES WIFE

Son-in-Law of Late Senator Gorman is Still in Jail.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 22.—Charles Joseph Magnus, husband of Miss Adda Gorman, daughter of the late Senator Arthur Pue Gorman of Maryland, who was arrested here yesterday on charges of being a deserter from the navy, will be taken to Philadelphia tonight. Mrs. Magnus visited her husband in the jail today, remaining fifteen minutes. She said she would accompany him to Philadelphia and "stick to him forever."

How did you meet Mr. Magnus?" was asked her.

"Oh, we both live in Maryland," was her reply, "that's easy enough to understand."

Magnus seems to take his change from a sumptuous apartment at the Seelbach to the jail with good grace. He regards his predicament as only a temporary inconvenience. Magnus says it was at his wife's instance that he secured a furlough and remained away from his ship.

GOOD PIANOS

This One $300 Easy Payments.

Others $200 to $350 Easy Payments.

"Why, I had no idea that you had such pianos as these for $250," said a lady in our warerooms the other day. "I've been looking around at the other stores, as I did not suppose the Duluth Music company carried much besides Steinways and other high-priced makes. I could not afford an expensive piano, yet wanted an instrument of good tone and real musical merit, and reliable inside rather than showy in case. I have at last found what I've been searching for."

Remarks similar to the above are not infrequently made by our customers, who have had a wrong impression before visiting our store. This impression is often the result of the talk of competitors' salesmen, among whom it is common practice—not only in Duluth and Superior, but in other cities—to strive to spread the idea that the house that sells Steinway pianos is a "high priced house." No greater falsehood could be circulated than this. While we sell a great many Steinways, having had the sole agency for years, the fact is that we sell a far greater number of pianos at prices ranging from $200 to $300.

It is reasonable, isn't it, when you stop to think about it, that the house that sells the best $550 piano—the Steinway—should also be able to furnish the best $250 and $350 makes? The leading store sells superior values at any price.

That's what this lady found out and what any one will find out who visits our store and examines the many excellent low priced pianos shown. You will see twenty pianos of other makes to one Steinway.

New Steinway Upright Pianos, $550

CAUTION—Look at the value behind the price when shopping for a piano. Some stores, for example, call pianos "$400 pianos" that are of the same grade we regularly sell at $250 to $300. Holders of "Easy Puzzle Piano Bonds," etc., and other persons looking around should remember to compare values rather than mere "prices." We sell all reliable grades, and every piano in our store is rightly priced according to its grade.

PARTIES ARE ACTIVE

Clarence C. Dinehart, state treasurer for two years and candidate for re-election, will be the principal speaker Monday evening at a Republican rally in West Duluth. There will also be addresses by one or more Republicans of local prominence. The club has not yet selected the hall for the rally, but will announce where it is to be held tomorrow.

The regular weekly meeting of the West Duluth Republican club will be held as usual on Saturday evening in the Commercial clubrooms above the Western State bank. The club committee has secured C. E. Adams and H. J. McClernan to speak on that evening.

At its meeting on Saturday evening, the club members will probably vote to attend the Jacobson meeting at the Armory on Oct. 29, in a body, and in case they will be given a place at the front of the procession, owing to their activity and prominence in local Republican affairs.

It was the first meeting the club has held since its organization last Saturday, and it was well attended. W. B. Getchell acted as chairman. John Iowan, a prominent Two Harbors Democrat and A. R. MacDonald, editor of the Labor World, were the speakers of the evening.

Both national and state issues were discussed by the speakers. Mr. Dwan devoted some time to the explanation of the tax amendments, which will be voted on this fall.

Mr. MacDonald championed William Jennings Bryan, claiming that he is the candidate of the people, while Taft is the candidate of the officeholders. He also urged the election of Governor Johnson.

WILL "BLOW IN" FURNACE.

Zenith Furnace Company Ready to Produce Pg Iron Saturday.

If everything goes as planned, Saturday will see the great furnace of the Zenith Furnace company of West Duluth "blown in," after nearly a year of idleness.

Since early in the year the entire plant has had a thorough going over, and approximately $135,000 has been expended in improvements and repairs. When the plant is in operation after Saturday, it will be in position to turn out 200 tons of pig iron daily and give employment to about 100 more men.

The blast furnace has been relined, new blowing engine and boilers installed besides a new hot and cold blast main and a new dust catcher. This week is a very busy one at the plant. The new steam fittings are all being inspected, to see that there are no leaks; the furnace is being loaded to be blown in, and the blast mains are being gone over and tested, so that there will be no hitch or delay when the torches are applied.

THE QUEEN'S OWN FASHIONS.

Queen Alexandra does not follow the fashion either of long silhouetted figure or of wide and high-crowned headgear. There is a style of dress in England which the queen has made her own, which the princess of Wales follows closely and which is in favor with every member of the royal family.

This has gradually become distinctively their own. "I want a royal toque" is a request understood by any milliner, as is a "queen's sleeve" or a "queen's skirt" by a dressmaker.

On the opening day at Ascot the queen wore a dress of delicate orchid mauve marquisette, lace inserted and embroidered, and a toque made of tulle and flowers the same shade.

The princess of Wales was gowned in soft rose pink chiffon, lavishly embroidered in the same shade, and wore a cream colored toque with ostrich feathers.

Another day, according to the Ladies' Pictorial, the queen wore a lovely dress of French gray silk voile, a mass of very beautiful embroidery in the same color. The queen's toque was of crinoline straw and tulle of the same delicate shade, and was trimmed with an aigrette of heliotrope and crimson damask roses.

CONSPIRACY OF SILENCE

Says Party Will Cast 2,000,000 Votes This Year.

"There is a conspiracy of silence to defeat the cause of Socialism. The subsidized capitalistic press of the United States has banded together to suppress the news of Socialism and the progress of the unprecedented political campaign of Eugene V. Debs and the Red Special. The political growth of Socialism in this country and the wonderful campaign of Debs has attracted more attention in Europe than it has in this country."

Such was the statement made today by William D. Haywood, former secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, mentioned as a presidential candidate of the Socialist party, and the man to whom national attention was attracted during the progress of the famous trial at Boise, Idaho.

Mr. Haywood says that the Socialist party will receive more than 2,000,000 votes in the approaching election. He says the laboring men of the United States are convinced that the Socialist party is the only party that will help, or will attempt to assist the laboring classes of this country.

"Neither the Republican or the Democratic party has anything in their platforms that are worth anything," says Mr. Haywood. "They refuse to argue or to be drawn into debate upon the question of labor. They offer the laboring man nothing. The Socialist party offers the laboring man the product of his toil, relief from the capitalistic shackle, and the chance to be a man.

"The growth of Socialism is unprecedented. It is simply wonderful. I have spoken from Bar Harbor, Me., to the southern part of Texas, and I am convinced that the laboring men of this country are finally aroused to the true condition of their servitude. They can expect nothing from either of the two great parties in the way of relief from oppressing conditions, and so the laboring man is going to vote the Socialist ticket."

Mr. Haywood estimates that there are between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 working men idle at the present time. He makes this estimate, he says, from statistics that have been furnished.

In his present campaign, Mr. Haywood has spoken in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Minnesota. He will end his campaign in Kansas City upon the eve of the election. He says he will then return home and prepare for the 1912 campaign.

Laborinm men almost entirely compose the ranks of Socialism at the present time, according to Mr. Haywood. He says, however, that other classes are being drawn into the ranks of the party and that it will not be long before the party will be composed of a large representation from every class of citizens in this country.

Mr. Haywood says that Debs has addressed more men in this country in the present campaign, than either Bryan or Taft, or in fact, the two great party candidates combined. He states that the growth of Socialism is the most wonderful political evolution of this age, and that its growth will continue until it becomes the great party of the future. He says the party is growing in every part of the country, and that Socialism has become a factor in national political life.

WANTS DEMOCRATS TO ELECT SENATOR.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 22.—W. J. Bryan in his speech here today advised his auditors to pay more attention to the matters of electing the Democratic state ticket, a legislative ticket which would send a Democratic senator to Washington and also the election of Democratic members of congress, "for," he said, "I expect to be in Washington after March 4, and will need them all."

CURE FOR SNAKE BITES.

Out West: The rattlesnake has a part all his own in the desert practice of healing. Rattlesnake oil cures rheumatism and the stiffened joints a man gets working down in a wet mine; the oil rubbed in the ears cures deafness, and a rattlesnake skin, tanned soft and supple as chamois and worn around the waist, will keep a man well on the hardest trip—but the dust from the rattles will cause blindness which nothing will cure.

There is a plant which the rattlesnake fears—he will not crawl across it, and if it is dropped on him he unrolls and crawls away. Perhaps this is only a bit of myth, but every desert man knows the golondrina—the creeping plant with tiny, round, gray green leaves and minute white blossoms with a brown center.

"Rattlesnake weed" grows in the little open spaces from the pines to the white sand hills that shift back and forth in each year's wind. The leaves pounded into a wet mass are bound on a snake bite, and the victim, man or animal, is given huge draughts of the bitter, dark tea, into which the whole plant is steeped. The golondrina tea is used as a liniment for rheumatism, too, and the Mexican women know that it dyes cotton cloth in an enduring purplish black.

If the golondrina is too far to find there is another desert cure for any snake bite—a cure well enough attested and one with which many an Indian has fought bullet wound and saber cut and mastered incipient blood poisoning. The leaves of any flat-leaved opuntia, but especially the common prickly pear, are thrown on a camp fire till the thorns are singed off and the skin puffs up in watery blisters, then split open and bound hot on the wound. So many a back mule has been restored to place in the train and many a limb that a physician would have amputated has been saved to do its owner good service on desert trails.

POWDER TRUST ATE 'EM ALL UP

New York, Oct. 22.—Methods alleged to have been employed by the powder trust to gain control of the powder trade in the United States were described by R. S. Waddell, ex-general sales agent in the United States for the big powder company, at today's session of the hearing i nthe government's suit against the company for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

He had declared that the defendant company now controls between 95 and 98 per cent of the trade in gun powder, and 90 per cent of the trade in blasting powder. Today he told of the formation of the Southern Powder company, which was organized in Cincinnati, with mills in Georgia in 1896, and absorbed by the big company a few months later. "We went right after the Southern as soon as they entered the market," said Mr. Waddell. "The fight continued until the general round up in July, 1896."

"What do you mean by the general round-up?" he was asked.

"I mean the complete elimination of competition by absorbing the competitors," replied the witness.

Mr. Waddell said he had been informed by the officers of the company that there was an agreement with foreign manufacturers on sales of dynamite. This information was given him, he said, after foreign mills had been erected in Jamestown. This was known as the "Jamestown agreement."

"I was told one of our officers had been to you, and that thereafter we would have no further trouble," said he. This, he said, was when there was some disturbance in the market over the cutting of prices on smokeless powder. He said a new agreement was drawn by members of the pool after practically all the competitors had been absorbed. When a paper identified by Waddell as a copy of the agreement was presented, counsel for the defense objected to its acceptance by the court.

The Specialty

House Garment

This woman's specialty business of ours was established with the aim to satisfy critical and well-dressed women. That class of women who had previously found that the average ready-made garment was too stereotyped, and that the custom-made garment, more often than not, failed to come up to expectations.

That the style and color most often did not suit the individuality as well in substance as in the mind's eye.

Gidding Garments constitute a range of styles which are the best choice from a hundred makers. Each maker surrounded by expert tailors and designers who have the advantages of the metropolitan fashion events and visits to foreign fashion centers. It is a collection of garments designed for divers types, proportions, ages, tastes and circumstances.

You are at liberty to try on as many styles as you please. A hundred garments if you will, until you know of a certainty that you have struck the thing most suited to you. Is there not a strong contrast between this absolute knowledge of the finished garment, developed under such broad skill and knowledge as matched against the attempts of the single handed, local modiste or ladies' tailor?

MARRIAGE BY PHOTOGRAPH.

Japan Weekly Mail: The Asahi Shimbun has an article which throws an interesting light on the question alluded to in our last issue, namely, marriages by photograph between Japanese residing in America and their countrywomen in Japan. It appears that two movements of a self-defensive nature have recently been organized by Japanese residents in the United States.

The first is a crusade against gambling by the Chinese, a vice which is indulged in on such a scale and which involves such evil results that the presence of Orientals in general becomes objectionable in the eyes of American citizens. Japanese agitation for the suppression of this vice promises to have the result of clearly differentiating them from its practice.

The second movement has for its immediate outcome this idea of nuptials by photograph. There are about 100,000 Japanese in the United States, and fully 90 per cent of them lead single lives. Such a condition was tolerable enough so long as a settler's object consisted merely in earning as fast as possible, money enough to return home. But in view of the anti Oriental spirit now prevailing in the United States the Japanese residents see that the only practical remedy lies in becoming permanent settlers, and in carrying out that program a wife is a prime essential.

To return to Japan, however, for the purpose of providing himself with a wife, means not only that a man would have to incur great expense but also that it would be more than doubtful whether he could re-enter the states subsequently. Therefore the only feasible alternative is to get a wife over from Japan without going to fetch her. All this appears to have been anticipated very cleverly by the well known Mr. Shimanukl, a prominent Christian. Some time ago he established in the Kioshhikawa suburb of Tokyo an institution called the Ryokkokai, which may be freely translated into the Self-help society.

The inmates of this institution, mostly graduates from girls' high schools, receive education in all subjects likely to be of practical utility, such as housekeeping, cooking, sewing, typewriting, etc. In fact, they are expressly equipped to be the wives of Japanese settlers in the United States.

It is between this institution and the Japanese settlers that phoographs have been exchanged, and by this means the settlers are enabled to obtain helmates whose qualifications and record are known and whose appearance is rendered familiar by the photographs. The idea is that if the settlers thus marry and bring up families their sons will become naturalized American citizens, and by degrees the anti-Japanese feeling in the United States will die out. The conception seems eminently practical and useful, nor can we doubt for a moment that the Japanese authorities in Tokyo will refrain from interfering with the program.

RENT, ONE RED ROSE.

London Daily Mail: An interesting feature of the distribution of prizes at St. Olave's grammar school, Benmondsey, yesterday was the payment of the "rent" of a free hold fieid, which was leased in 1656 to trustees for the benefit of the poor of the parish.

The lease was "for a term of 500 years, at the yearly rent of a red rose, payable at midsummer if lawfully demanded." The representatives of the trustees paid the rent with a bouquet of red roses, which was handed to the warden of the school.

THE GIFT OF HEALTH

Health is Absolutely Necessary to Happiness.
Health—Perfect Health is Now Possible to All.

A great many people believe that a chronic disease is a disease that cannot be cured. They are mistaken. A chronic disease is a disease that has not been cured, but has suffered to go on if not unchecked, at least, so ineffectually treated that the treatment has had no appreciable effect on the disease.

There is a long and terrible list of diseases that have earned the reputation of being incurable, which in reality, await only thorough and capable treatment—take for instance Cancer, Consumption, Syphilis or Paralysis—these diseases are being cured daily at the Progressive Medical Institute at No. 1 West Superior street, not by miracles, but by straight knowledge scientifically applied.

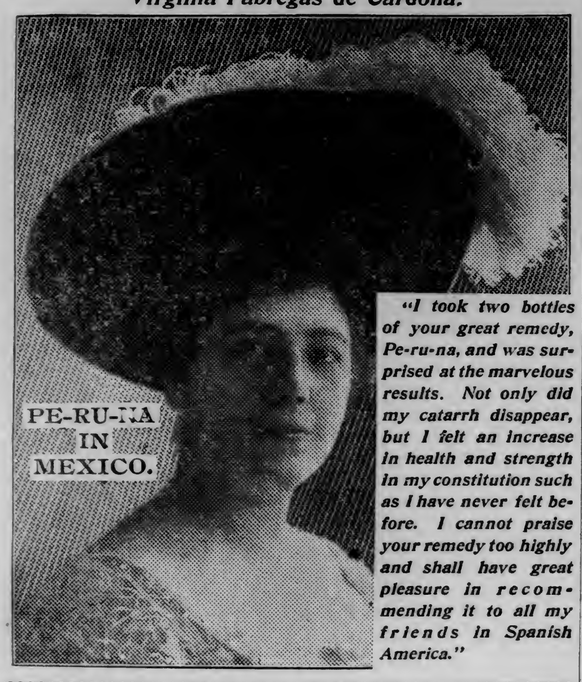

Again take Rheumatism, it is manifestly impossible to cure this disease with a few doses of some patent medicine, the same in every different case, and yet, because sufferers from this disease have repeatedly failed to get a cure from the use of some such "quack" remedy, they decide that their complaint is "chronic"—which to them means the same thing as incurable. They do not stop to think that no two human systems are exactly alike, and that the medicine that might cure one patient will have either a bad effect or none at all on the next case. Every separate case requires a separate treatment, and until it receives it there will be no possibility of a permanent cure. More and more people who have tired of the constant non-result of self-drugging, are consulting the Progressive Medical Specialists, and in a few days finding themselves well on the way to a cure as permanent as it is thorough, without the use of the knife in any case. What's the use of wasting your time and money on patent medicines that may cure you when the Progressive Specialists WILL cure you, and guarantee the cure? Set your foot on the first step to health by coming TODAY to No. 1 West Superior street. This means YOU!

IRISHMAN TRUE TO HIS FRIENDS

Refuses to Allow Anyone to Run Down Swedish People.

Pat started out Wednesday night for a good time. He didn't have much money, but he succeeded in finding many of his friends just back from the wilderness, who were in the mood for spending money.

Much ground was covered by the trio in their search of amusement, and they repaired to the back parlor of a bowery saloon, and tried to find some more cheer.

It was at this stage of the game that one of the men happened to make a remark derogatory to the Swedish race. Rielly was mad, mad all the way through at this remark, and he reached out, and gently smote the guilty one on the cheek with such force that the latter's pipe was sent spinning to the floor.

The man made up his mind that he was too drunk to fight, and he found an officer who was willing to take Rielly to the police station.

"Yes, I'm guilty, your honor," said Rielly this morning to Judge Cutting. "One of the best fellows I have ever known was a Swede, and I'd fight for him any time."

He had never been arrested before, and he made a hit with the judge by his straightforward talk. He was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

THE BUSY WHIRL OF POLITICS

MEETING IN THIRD WARD

Alfred Jacques Gives Eulogy of William Jennings Bryan.

More than 200 people attended the Democratic meeting at Rowley's hall, West First street, last evening. The speakers were Joseph W. Reynolds and Dr. O. A. Oredson, Democratic candidates for the legislature from the Fiftieth district, Charles Jesmore, Democratic candidate for sheriff, and Judge Alfred Jaques.

The hall was crowded to the doors. Every speaker dwelt at some length upon the duty that a public officer owes his constituents and each candidate for office assured the voters present that should he be chosen as a representative of the people, he would devote his utmost ability to conducting the office in the interests of the people.

Judge Jaques touched upon the great issues confronting the people of this country in the national campaign. He showed where the principles of Democracy were the principles that would result in a better, cleaner and purer government. He eulogized the character of William Jennings Bryan, declaring him to be the most honest man in American politics. He stated that the Democratic party was the party of the people and the party that would bring about a government more directly in the interests of the people.

The county candidates for the most part confined their addresses to the needs of this county, the two legislative candidates discussing the problems that were before the citizens of the great ore producing county of Minnesota. Both Dr. Oredson and Mr. Reynolds told of the fight that must be made for the interests of this county, in the matter of securing a just share of taxes from the great mineral interests, promising to exert all their ability to the work of preserving the taxes that supported the public schools and other public institutions of St. Louis county.

Charles Jesmore stated that if he were elected to the office of sheriff he would give every man a fair deal, would endeavor to conduct the office in the interests of the people, and would administer the duties of the office with care and regard as to the interests of the citizens of this county.

YOUNG MEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

George T. Simpson, R. F. Grant and W. E. Greene Make Addresses.

George T. Simpson, candidate for attorney general, and Richard F. Grant, candidate for the legislature from the Fiftieth district, were the speakers before the Young Men's Republican club at the city hall last night.

Mr. Simpson reviewed the conditions of the state under Republican rule, showing the things that J. F. Jacobson had accomplished during his legislative career. The law permitting the public lands to be sold at public sale for school benefits was secured through the work of Mr. Jacobson, according to Mr. Simpson.

Mr. Grant pointed out the evils of a tonnage tax. He pointed out that 77 per cent of the taxable property of this county was iron ore, and that in the event of the imposition of the tonnage tax, this revenue would be removed from the county treasury.

Mr. Grant favored the ad valorem system of taxing the railroads, saying that it was the most equitable for all parts of the state. Mr. Grant pointed out that the gross earnings tax works out to the disadvantage of a city like Duluth. Here the railroads have an assessed valuation of $11,000,000, but their taxes are paid direct to the state treasury.

Warren E. Greene closed the meeting. Mr. Greene urged the fitness of William H. Taft for president, saying that he was a worthy successor of Roosevelt and McKinley.

ALL READY FOR BIG MEETING

Williams Speech Will be Big Event—The Jacobson Itinerary.

Plans for the demonstration to be given in honor of G. Fred Williams, the eminent Massachusetts Democratic statesman who will speak at the Armory tomorrow evening, have been completed by the members of the St. Louis county Democratic committee.

Special cars will be run from the West end and from West Duluth. The fife and drum corps will start from the West end. The Third Regiment band will parade the downtown streets. A parade of the downtown streets will be made by both the band and the drum corps.

Mr. Williams will discuss the national issues of the campaign. He will discuss the record of the two parties and will tell of the problems that must be solved by the party that is to bear the responsibilities of government.

Mr. Williams is a speaker of national reputation. He is a recognized authority upon the tariff question and is one of the big men of the Eastern Democracy.

Arrangements have been completed by the county Republican committee for the appearance in Duluth of Judge Paul Lindebarger of Illinois. Judge Lindebarger was formally United States judge in the Philippines. He is the speaker that the national committee has promised the Republican state central committee, for Minnesota.

Local committees in the towns where Jacobson will speak in his tour of the range, have been urged to work up enthusiasm for the Jacobson appearance. The local committee is endeavoring to make the Jacobson appearance upon the ranges the signal for an outburst of enthusiasm, and is sparing no efforts to get the town committees thoroughly upon the job. All of the town committees have been communicated with by Chairman W. E. Conkin, who has ordered the committeemen to take off their coats and shout for "Jake."

It was reported today that people will be brought to this city for the Jacobson meeting. It is said that every effort is being made to equal or surpass the demonstration given in honor of Governor Johnson.

RELIEF COMING FOR MRS. ROBERTS

Woman May Soon Resume Her Journey to the Coast.

Relief is expected in a day or so for Mrs. Minnie Roberts, the woman who, though proved sane, is without means and remains in the county jail, where she has been for about two weeks. She was taken in charge on suspicion of insanity when she became hysterical at the union station on discovering that she had been robbed of the money, which was to take her to her home at Seattle.

On discovering that the woman was sane, Judge Middlecoff of the probate court wrote to her brother at Dike, Tex., advising him of the circumstances and suggesting that he send money to enable his sister to resume her journey. A communication has been received from the brother, in which he says that he will obtain the necessary amount of money and forward it immediately.

The money is expected to arrive in a day or two and Mrs. Roberts will immediately resume her journey. She has been in distress since being robbed of her money and the letter was a distinct relief to her.

MEETING AT MIDWAY

Duluth Men Address Enthusiastic Gathering of Farmers.

One of the most enthusiastic meetings of the campaign was held last night at Midway. The audience was for the most part composed of farmers, and from the enthusiasm displayed it would appear that the farmers of that part of the county were solid in their support of Johnson and Bryan.

Andrew Nelson, chairman of the Democratic county committee; John Lowe, Democratic candidate for county commissioner in the Fifth district; John Cashin, Democratic candidate for register of deeds, and Dr. J. H. Jern, candidate for coroner, were the speakers.

Mr. Nelson devoted his speech to both the national and state issues. He stated that the Democratic platform was built upon constructive lines in its relation to legislation that would benefit the people. He told the members of the audience that Republicans were endeavoring to frighten the people by stating that the Democracy was unsafe and that prosperity could only continue under the rule of Republicanism. He stated that these statements were false, and that the people of this country were coming to the conclusion that the only curse for great evils that had crept into the government, under the Republican party, was the election of William Jennings Bryan and the endorsement of the Democratic principles of government that he and his party stood for.

Mr. Nelson stated that Democracy ruled for the benefit of the people, and that the people of this country were beginning to see that if they were to have legislation favorable to the interests of the great common people, that they must place in power those statesmen who had the broader interests of the country and the people at heart.

In discussing Governor Johnson's record, Mr. Nelson pointed out the great reforms that he had worked in the state government, the progress that the state had achieved under his administration, and the principles of state government that the governor had always stood for.

Mr. Nelson told the audience that the people of the northern part of the state need never be afraid that the governor had not the interests of this part of the state at heart; or that he was the advocate of measures that would discriminate against this section of the great commonwealth of Minnesota.

John Lowe spoke upon the subject of county road improvement, pointing out the improvements that could be made in the highways of the outlying districts.

He spoke upon the duties of a county commissioner. He informed the members of the audence that should he be elected as a county commissioner, he would do everything in his power to improve the county highways and would go about the improvement of county roads in a thorough and careful manner.

John Cashin spoke of the importance of the office of the register of deeds. He said that should he be elected he would devote all of his ability toward the administration of the office, and that it would be his endeavor to conduct the office at a saving to the county, while increasing its efficiency.

Dr. J. H. Jern said that the office of county coroner was one involving grave responsibility upon the man that filled it. He said that a man must be well trained in the medical profession to properly fulfill its requirements, and he stated that if the people should choose him to fill the office, he would give his time and ability to the interests of the people. Dr. Jern stated that he had carefully and earnestly considered the duties and responsibilities of the office, and that in the event of his election, he would devote his ability as a physician to the work required by the office.

All the Bryan and Johnson buttons in the possession of Chairman Nelson were given away at the close of the meeting. From the enthusiasm shown last night, Mr. Nelson stated the belief that the rural precincts of this county would give both Bryan and Johnson a heavy vote.

DANGERS OF OPIUM.

Chicago News: China's effort to stamp out the smoking of opium reach picturesque extremes at times, as witness the following from the North China Daily News: "Recently a non-commissioned officer belonging to the Sixth division of the Luchun was found by a detective smoking opium in a hotel in the capital. The officer was reported to Gen. Wang Yiu-kai, who at once asked the ministry of war for permission to decapitate the offender. This was granted. The condemned man was carried forth to the execution ground, and, when he was about to be beheaded, the whole division of troops knelt down before the geenral, asking pardon for the officer.

"The soldiers stated that the officer wa snot addicted to the opium-smoking habit at all, and that he was only using opium as a medicine when seen by the detective. The geenral replied that opium smoking was strictly prohibited among the military, and that officer had treated the opium regulations with unbecoming levity, so that if should be punished it was only what he deserved.

"Gen. Wang continued that, as the officer was not addicted to the habit, he would be sentenced to 3,600 blows and dismissed from the service as a warning to others. The geenral then informed the whole body of troops that from henceforth if any soldier should be found smoking opium he would be beheaded without fail."

SUPERSTITIONS DIE HARD.

Kansas City Journal: Of those superstitions that linger is the superstition about the spilling of salt and the sure coming of ill luck—the result of the painting of a celebrated picture which showed that Judas, at the Last Supper, sat before an overturned salt cellar. Then there is the idea against thirteen at table, because there were Christ and His twelve apostles around that board in the upper room at the supper which was followed so soon by our Lord's death, and that of Judas, too. In some European countries ill luck is said to follow the person who stirs any liquid in a pan from east to west. In Scotland persons when baking oat cakes break a piece off and throw it in the fire to appease evil agencies. Still another custom in that land is to make a birthday cake with nine knobs, then of nine of the assembled company, when the cake comes hot out of the oven, each breaks one knob off, and throwing it behind him, says: "This I give to thee, Fox, Eagle, Wolf, etc. In some countries it is considered unlucky to give a mince pie to a guest—it should never be cut with a knife, but held whole with the fingers and eaten that way. Also, to eat as many mince pies as possible at as many different houses before Christmas, it is believed, will insure so many happy months for the eater.

Are you hoping that your business will break all records this fall? Herald publicity is the most important factor in bringing this about.

HE HAD HARD NUT TO CRACK

Judge Decides Whether Corsets Affect Fit of Female Attire.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—If corsets are going to change in style very often, there is going to be trouble for the dressmakers, according to Mrs. Ingeborg Linfield.

Mrs. Linfield was sued yesterday by Mrs. Amelia Pearson, whose tailored coat fit perfectly horrid. Judge Torrison of the municipal court, who was compelled to decide the case, held that Mrs. Linfield should pay, but that the fit of women's clothes has no place in the courts.

Mrs. Pearson brought suit for $12, which she had paid for the construction of a skirt and coat. She wanted the money back because the garments did not fit.

"I paid $16.75 for the goods in that suit," she said, "and now just look at it."

"Well, dear me," said Mrs. Linfield, "when I made that suit it was a real good fit. The skirt hung perfectly, and the coat was matchless. But goodness, how can you expect a coat to fit when a woman puts on a new style of corset? Throws the garment all out of shape."

"Oh, it's a horrid thing," said Mrs. Pearson.

"Well, corsets make all the difference in the world," said Mrs. Linfield, with an air of patient resignation.

"The court," said Judge Torrison, "the court does not presume to be an arbiter in women's clothing, but it seems that the coat is not just quite the thing. But the skirt might do. Therefore, I think that the plaintiff is entitled to 7."

CELEBRATION TOO HILARIOUS

Brother's Arrival From Sweden Too Much for Nels Westman.

The arrival of his brother from Sweden with two bottles of choice Swedish cognac was too much for Nels Westman. He just naturally slid off the wagon, and his brother, who calls himself Otto Nelson, slid with him.

As a jag it was a complete and an artistic success the police say. Nels hadn't seen his brother for several years, and he figured he had a jag coming to him. The Swedish cognac was the last straw.

When the police found the brothers, they were worth about $16,000,000 apiece, and rapidly getting richer. The world had a bright rosy hue. There wasn't enough of the cognac left to make a humming bird hilarious, but Nels and Otto didn't care whether school kept or not.

But Nels and Otto, it is claimed, went too far and began kicking in screen doors. The owners hadn't any brothers just over from Sweden and they couldn't see the point.

Judge Cutting warned Nels not to Americanize his brother too quickly, and relieved him of $40 and costs, which amounted to $42.50, which the very young looking brother from the other side peeled off the outside of a roll as big as a Bitter Root turnip, and they went home sadder and wiser men.

Kashmir Electricity.

The Vale of Kashmir is one of the spots on the earth that poetry has fixed most conspicuously in the imagination, and the thought of its invasion by the electric engineer must forcibly strike the reader with a sort of surprise. The reader will also agree that for a pure, wholesome table beverage nothing can equal golden grain belt beer. Serve this delicious liquid bread with your meals and you put health and strength into your system. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing Co.

The minstrel show was discussed and it was decided to hold it some time in January. The boys who will take part will be selected shortly and practices will be begun. The show this season will be on a much larger scale and will run two evenings with a possible matinee.

The Sunday club committee will hold its meeting Friday evening at the boys' building, taking dinner at 6:30.

POWDER TRUST LIVES ON A SLIDING SCALE.

New York, Oct. 22.—That a ninety per cent monopoly of the powder trade in the United States has been obtained by methods such as cutting prices to about a dollar in certain states, while a price of $6.75 was maintained elsewhere, was the substance of testimony against the powder trust at a hearing of the case here.

FINDS HAVEN IN CHICAGO.

Former Turkish Revolutionary Leader is in Hiding.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Price Shaben Bey Yotshisa, one-time Turkish revolutionary leader, and who fled from the domain of the sultan after a price of $35,000 had been placed on his head, is living quietly in Chicago. His home is at 2123 Michigan avenue. With a small retinue of servants, he has remained there in seclusion for several months.

Prince Shaben is heir to the throne of Albania, one of the provinces of Eastern Turkey. Should the present Balkan situation result in freedom from Turkey for Albania, Shaban will return to his native land and claim his throne.

The revolutionary leader gathered an army about him numbering 12,000 men, and attempted to overthrow the sultan in 1904. His forces were defeated at the battle of Jakova, Sept. 22, 1904, and Prince Shaban was twice wounded. He evaded capture and fled to London, where he recovered from injuries and later came to America, believing himself safer here from the spies of the sultan.

Shaban declares the Balkan crisis is much more serious than generally supposed. "I am certain a grave European war will be precipitated, and it will not surprise me if the conflict becomes of world-wide proportions," he said. "Germany will be for Turkey, and for that reason France and England are likely to be against the sultan. All have great interests at stake, and through them the United States will also be drawn into the war."

FAMILIES NOT LARGE ENOUGH

For Welfare of Episcopal Church, Says Rev. Cyrus Brady.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—President Roosevelt's doctrine relative to large families were applied by Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, rector of Trinity church, Toledo, Ohio, yesterday with his unqualified indorsement to parishioners in the Episcopal church. Mr. Brady spoke at the missionary council meeting in St. James' Episcopal church.

"For the welfare of the church," said he, "there must be more children. I speak to clergymen as well as to laymen. Our families are not large enough. This is particularly true of the clergy. They do not have large families, and in this they are setting aside the command of God to multiply and replenish the earth.

"The clergy cannot expect the laity to raise large families if they do not set the example. I have six children, and in my city I am considered a patriarch.

"At present we are compelled to draw upon the offspring of the members of other denominations to people our Sunday schools. This should not be so. It need not be. The paucity of children in our church is remarkable. The future of the church depends on them."

The speaker also touched upon the small salaries paid to the clergy. He spoke of the members of the cloth as the most cultured, and yet the most sacrificing men in the country, and said that more regard should be had for their comfort.

"I advise the clergy to follow the example of followers of other occupations and strike for better pay. I mean this with a measure of sincerity," he said. "Some of these days the preachers will go on a strike, the churches will be closed and the pulpits left vacant. They will refuse to go back until the money comes. Then we will appreciate what a dearth of religious service means."

THIS MAN HAS MANY TROUBLES

John Koshin of 1019 East Tenth street, who lives with his daughter and her three daughters, his son and his son's wife, his daughter's husband, two aunts of the younger Koshins, and a cousin of the son's wife, was up in police court this morning charged with drunkenness.

He pleaded guilty and his sentence was deferred until this afternoon in order that the court may gain some idea of how bad a man John really is.

It is said that he earns some money, and spends it in Superior street refreshment parlors in order to forget his family troubles, and then goes home and makes life exciting for the other members of the family.

Those who live with him say that he gets so bad at times that he drives the whole family out into the night. John says is not nearly so bad as that.

Sioux City, Iowa, Oct. 22.—Worth $20,000 in lands and securities, Jesse Swiegard, formerly of Defiance, Ohio, died in the charity ward of St. Vincent's hospital here on Oct. 9. When the sister came to examine his effects, she found in his old trunk a deed for 160 acres of land near Redfield, bank certificates and currency to the amount of $3,000, and other papers totaling close to $20,000 in marketable values.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 22.—A desire to have his picture taken got Denny Scilley of Duluth, Minn., into police court yesterday. This same longing to have his likeness printed on a little sheet of paper was the cause of two black eyes and a badly bumped head.

Scilley, who is a cook, told Judge C. L. Smith that, in company with two other men, he had agreed to have his picture taken by Harry Hermann, who, he said, was operating a camera on the street. He promised to pay 10 cents for the picture. But when the picture had been taken and given to Scilley, Hermann demanded 30 cents, as there were three men in the picture instead of one. Scilley refused to pay the extra 20 cents and a fight ensued. Scilley showed the judge that one of his teeth had been knocked out, that his head had been bumped, and no one in the court room could fail to see the blackened eyes. Judge Smith dismissed Scilley, saying that he had received punishment enough. Herman paid a $15 fine.

B. B. Ray and Maj. T. D. Kelliher, with a detachment of soldiers, today started from Fort Sheridan for a three-day hike. The first day the men will march twenty miles, the second sixteen and the third fourteen.

WILL BREAK UP TRAFFIC

Uncle Sam Going After Evil Resort Keepers in Baudette.

Importation of Girls for Immoral Purposes to be Stopped.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Immigration Inspector Swanson of International Falls came here after Martha Wright, who has been held in the Beltrami county jail awaiting a decision of the department of commerce and labor as to whether she should be deported to Canada.

She was taken from a bawdy house at Baudette about ten days ago and the evidence submitted at the hearing which followed was sent to the secretary of commerce and labor at Washington, as the girl had been brought to Baudette from Winnipeg. The girl was lodged in the county jail in this city, pending the decision of the department.

The authorities at Washington examined the evidence and decided that Martha Wright should be deported to Winnipeg. Inspector Swanson took the girl last evening to Baudette, where she will be used as a witness against the members of the house in which she was confined. The inmates of the house were raided a few days ago and a hearing will be held at Baudette in charge of the federal authorities.

Those in charge of such houses in the vicinity of Baudette will probably be severely punished, as the sentiment in that neighborhood has been growing strongly against the white slave traffic, which the undesirable element has been carrying on between Canada and this country.

IS HORRIBLY CUT UPON BUZZ SAW

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Paul Paulson narrowly escaped a tragic death yesterday afternoon when, while working about a circular woodsaw for J. D. Ball, a fuel dealer, he came in contact with the saw. Mike Palen happened to be present and with remarkable presence of mind leaped towards the young man and jerked him backwards.

The saw had already inflicted a horribly jagged wound, starting in on the left side just over the region of the heart, laying open a portion of the bowels and cutting the left thigh badly. The unfortunate young man was hurried to the St. Vincent hospital, where City Physician Randolph sewed up the wounds, and it is believed that the young man will recover.

PROBABLY A SUICIDE.

Dead Body Found Near Ashland Has Been Identified.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 22.—(Special to the Herald.)—The identity of the body found a mile and a half south of the McCarty place on the Odanah road Monday has been established as that of Oscar Engstrom, formerly engineer at the Schroeder mill. The father of the unfortunate man positively identified the body from the clothing, including a cap, and a black coat, in fact a part of the suit on the body has been in possession of the father since his son's disappearance, the 25th of May.

Engstrom was married to a daughter of Mrs. Leland, and there was some difficulty last spring. Engstrom disappeared and search was made for him at the time, under the supposition that he might have made away with himself.

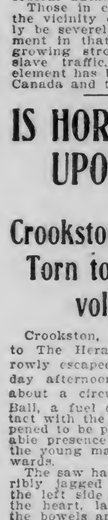

It is possible that Engstrom used a stick of dynamite in killing himself, for no trace of the head was found near the body. The father and brother are searching the thicket where the body was found for further traces of anything to show the cause of death. No weapon was found near the body.

The sawyer feared the bandsaw was about to get loose and he threw the lever controlling the carriage, upon which Lettanan was riding, so suddenly that the carriage struck the bumpers with an impact that sent Lattanan and J. SECOND HUNGARIAN CHURCH.

In Michigan to be Dedicated Next Sunday.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 22.—(Special to the Herald.)—The Hungarian Magyar Reformed church at Kearsarge will be formally dedicated on Sunday next. Among those who will assist in the dedication are Rev. D. Stalker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Rev. L. K. Long, pastor of the Calumet Congregational church. Rev. Stephen Cespke, pastor of the church, will also take part. The church is the second one of this faith to be erected in Michigan, there being one in the lowar part of the state. Rev. S. Cespke came to Calumet about one year ago, at the invitation of a number of local Hungarians, and accepted the call to form a pastorate. How well he has succeeded in his mission, the erection of the very pretty little edifice which is to be dedicated Sunday, and the fact that he has enrolled something like 500 members, will testify.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Oct. 22.—Coroner Chesterman came from Crookston to investigate the case of George Anderson, aged 23 years, whose body was found Thursday in the outskirts of the town by a farmhand who was plowing. The deceased had been a resident of East Grand Forks for the past twelve years. Some years ago he was employed in the Northern Pacific yards as a car checker. Since then he had been sent to the insane asylum for short periods, being returned as cured.

Noah, under sentence of death for the murder of Gus Johnson at Kenmare, this state, will not be hanged today, his attorneys having secured a stay of execution pending an appeal to the supreme court. During the pending of the appeal, Noah's counsel will ask the state board of pardons to commute the sentence to life imprisonment on the ground that Noah is insane.

Dr. Smith, the prison physician, thinks Noah is a degenerate, but not insane in the ordinary interpretation of the term. He believes that Noah understood the nature of the crime he committed.

WORK WEAKENS THE KIDNEYS

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work in Duluth.

Most Duluth people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk—riding on jolting wagons or cars—doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying the back in a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs. Duluth cures prove it.

W. W. Scott, operator on the St. Paul & Duluth railroad, and living at 128 Sixty-sixth Ave., west, Duluth, Minn., says: "I have already recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. I told in the statement made in 1898 how I had suffered with dull aching pains through the loins and kidneys. From the constant sitting position required in my work my back became so lame and sore that I could scarcely straighten. The kidney secretions were irregular and annoying. At times severe headaches would strike me and I was feeling worse than ever when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice. I began using them, and as I have stated, in my previous testimonial, they so thoroughly regulated the kidneys, removed the backaches, headaches, pains and weakness that I have felt like a different man. I have never had a return of any of these symptoms and have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills again and again."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WINCHELL ON STAND

Testimony of Minneapolis Geologist is Given Under Difficulties.

Butte & Superior Case Has Been in Progress Eighteen Days.

In trying to get testimony of H. V. Winchell of Minneapolis, geologist and metallurgist, formerly in the employ of the Aamlagamated Copper company of Butte, into evidence in surrebuttal in the case of the Butte & Superior Copper company against John McAlpine in district court, the defense found itself up against a stone wall of objection late yesterday afternoon and this morning and but very little progress was made.

Mr. Winchell was called to the stand yesterday afternoon and after qualifying, the first question as to his opinion on values, brought out an objection, to which a ruling was not given until after two hours of argument this morning. Mr. Davis for the plaintiff contended that Mr. Winchell's testimony would necessitate a re-opening of the case, as it could only be in support of Mr. Meany's testimony and in rebuttal of anything the plaintiff brought out in its rebuttal. Mr. Richards contended that the testimony he wished to secure from Mr. Winchell was in rebuttal of the testimony of Mr. Barker, Mr. Spears and other witnesses for the plaintiff in rebuttal.

The court ruled that Mr. Winchell's testimony, insofar, as it might relate to facts in rebuttal of the testimony of the plaintiff's witnesses would be received, but it could not relate to conclusions of expert testimony.

The ruling did not end it. Every question of Mr. Richards brought out objections and what testimony Mr. Winchell gave was under exceptions on the part of the plaintiff's attorneys. He was allowed to compare the veins on different North Butte properties with the veins on the Butte & Superior properties, as far as surface conditions were concerned. He said that the outcroppings of the veins on the Butte & Superior claims were very different from those on the Jessie, Edith May, Speculator and others. eH said Mr. Barker was mistaken when he said the vein on the Jessie is a typical silver vein.

Mr. Richards was still questioning him under the difficulties of objections and exceptions, when court adjourned at noon. The case is evidently drawing to a close on this, its eighteenth day of trial. According to Mr. Richahds' statements this morning, Mr. Winchell is his last witness and, with his testimony the last evidence will be in. Only the arguments of counsel and the judge's charge will remain. It is doubtful if the case will go the jury tomorrow, but if good progress is made this afternoon, it is possible.

Mr. Richards touched off some fireworks yesterday afternoon, when the plaintiff's attorneys called to the stand members of the original syndicate to testify that they had their original stock and had not sold it. Mr. Richards said that there was no attempt on the part of the derense to impugn any man's motives or attack his reputation. He said the defense stood by the facts and testimony of the kind was not material.

"If any man connected with this company thinks that his reputation has been attacked, he must draw his conclusions from the facts brought out in the evidence, not from anything that we may have said," he said.

John S. Williams testified that he has 11,000 shares of Butte & Superior stock, 6,000 of which were obtained through an investment of $3,000 in the original syndicate and 5,000 shares from purchase at $4 a share. He said he had sold none of his stock. I. Freimut testified that he has between 13,000 and 14,000 shares, 10,000 of which were received through the original syndicate, into which he put $5,000. He said he sold a few shares of stock, which had been subscribed, but not taken by other people and which he took up at $4 a share. He said he also sold a small block of the stock received through the syndicate at the original price of 50 cents a share to relatives.

D. T. Jenkins and Victor Rakowsky were called to clear up a few points before the plaintiff rested its rebuttal.

WOMAN SHOOTS HER BETRAYER

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22.—Jennie Dempsey, 18, today shot and probably fatally wounded Joseph Georgopolis. The young woman hysterically declared when arrested that her life had been wrecked by the man's perfidy.

Miss Dempsey entered a fruit store, where the young Greek was employed. She drew a revolver, which she had concealed in her waist and fired three shots at her erstwhile lover. One bullet entered his groin inflicting a wound from which it is said he cannot recover.

GOOD-BYE TO THE NAME OF LADRONES.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Hereafter in all naval communications and orders the Miarana or Ladrones islands will be designated simply as the Mariana islands, instead of the Ladrones, by which they are popularly known. This change is the result of objection by inhabitants of Guam, where the navy has a station, and who dislike the name Ladrones.

A Jeweler's Experience.

C. R. Kluger, the jeweler, 1060 Virginia avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trougle that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed. ARMED FORCES GUARD GOVERNOR

Tennessee Executive Visits Militia Sent to Preserve Order.

Union City, Tenn., Oct. 22.—Governor Patterson, who is in the Reel Foot lake region investigating the lynching by night riders of Capt. W. R. Rankin and the murderous assault on Col. R. Z. Taylor, left today for Samburg, where the state troops sent to preserve order is encamped.

The governor in going from Dyersburg to Tiptonville yesterday to see Col. Taylor was accompanied by an armed escort and when the executive left for Samburg, he had the protection of the same armed men with Winchesters. The fear is expressed that the ordering out of the militia and the offering by the governor of the largest reward permissible, might excite some enemy against him.

WHIRLWIND AT CAMPAIGN'S END

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22.—What is announced at Democratic headquarters as a "whirlwind finish of the campaign in Indiana and Ohio," will be made in the two states mentioned next week, beginning Monday. Four special trains will be used, two in each state.

In Indiana John W. Kern will head the list of speakers on the "national special," while Thomas R. Marshall, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, will head the speaking force of the "Indiana special." The force of speakers who will remain with the two candidates during the two weeks include Senator Gore of Oklahoma; ex-Gov. SenatorGore of Oklahoma; ex-Governor Francis of Missouri; Charles A. Towne of New York, Representative Mark Smith of Arizona, Judge Knox of Minnesota and Congressman Rainey of Illinois.

Of the two specials in Ohio Judson Harmon, Democratic candidate for governor, will head the forensic passenger list of one, while the other, it is stated at headquarters, will carry "a number of distinguished Democrats of both state and national reputation." TORCH PARADE EXCITES TOKIO

Closing Feature of Day, in Honor of Americans.

Tokio, Oct. 22.—A torchlight procession, arranged as a surprise, was the concluding feature of today's festivities for the American sailors. For nearly six hours the principal streets were packed with the paraders who numbered upwards of 50,000 and found their way through the city like a crooked river of running fire. Every one in the vast multitude carried a lantern and Japanese and American flags. At intervals there were huge illuminated designs of costly and striking Oriental design. Included in the line were dozens of bands of music, large and small and a corps of buglers from the Japanese army and naval stations.

From the eminence and other points commanding a view of the city the scene was striking. Everywhere the Americans were cheered and nowhere was the enthusiasm aroused to a wilder or madder pitch than when the great procession reached the American embassy. For over an hour, the pageant wound through the grounds cheering the admirals of the American fleet and calling by name for Ambassador O'Brien. After the demonstration had extended over a considerable period, Mrs. O'Brien appeared and was wildly cheered.

Williams to Speak.

The opening gun for the Douglas county Democrats will be fired this evening at Maryland hall. George Fred Williams of Boston, who delivered the speech nominating William J. Bryan for the presidency in 1895 at the Chicago convention, will speak.

WOMAN STOPS LOUD DISCUSSION

An amusing incident occurred this morning in the hallway of the city hall, when a number of very angry and excited men got to the zenith of their discussion of whether or not Bryan would carry New York.

The angry voices, the shuffling of feet and the general confusion brought all the clerks to the scene, and several policemen came on the run from the station.

Not once did the excited principals stop, and they were very loud and boisterous indeed. One of the men happened to be a German, and his voice sounded high over all.

He was getting his say in, and it was landing home in good shape, when a timid-looking woman opened the door and timidly asked, "Is this the city hall?" Everyone was taken aback and so confused that the clatter came to an abrupt stop.

One of those who had taken no part in the discussion, and who was a bit quicker than the rest, said, "Yes, this is the city hall. Couldn't you tell?"

The men all had a good laugh, the discussion was not resumed, the question is still unsettled, and the principals walked away much abashed.

BRYAN TO REPLY TO ROOSEVELT

Mack Says President's Letter Makes Democratic Labor Votes.

New York, Oct. 22.—Speaking of the letter sent out by President Roosevelt, given out today demanding that Mr. Bryan declare himself on the labor questions, National Chairman Mack said today that if there was any laboring man in doubt about voting for Bryan, the reading of the president's letter would convince him that he should cast his vote for the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Bryan will answer the president's letter, said Mr. Mack, who added that the Denver convention had done what the labor party had asked and that Mr. Bryan was standing on the platform drafted by that convention.

Mr. Mack said he had received reports from Ohio that the reception tendered Mr. Bryan in the Buckeye state yesterday was the greatest demonstration ever given to a presidential candidate in any election.

Ready For W. S. T. U.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 22.—A meeting of the executive committee of the National Women's Christian Temperance union was held today, completing preparations for the thirty-fifth annual convention of the union, which opens tomorrow. The president, Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens of Portland, Me., to whom is given the credit of successfully carrying the union through the crisis following the death of its founder Frances Willard attended all preliminary meetings today.

The Philippines Discussed.

Lake Mohonk, N. .. Oct. 22.—"The Philippines," was the general subject of discussion at today's session of the Lake Mohonk conference. The education and welfare of the Filipino were taken up in addresses by W. Cameron Forbes, vice governor of the Islands; Maj. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, Senor Pablo Ocampo, resident commissioner of the Philippines at Washington, and others.

SUPERIOR NEWS

TWO MEN TAKEN AT IRON RIVER

Whole Country on the Lookout for Bank Robbers.

Sheriff Bird left this morning for Iron River to bring two men, suspected of being implicated in the Nebagamon bank robbery, to Superior tonight.

The two men were arrested at Iron River last night, and are being held there until the arrival of the sheriff. They are strangers in this part of the country, so they claim, and when questioned could not give a clear account of theihr doings for the past few days.

Iron River is a little village on the South Shore road, just two stations east of Nebagamon. Every town along the line is on the lookout for the fugitives, and every suspicious person is intercepted and closely questioned as to his identity.

Assessment $23,500,000.

According to the figures filed with the county clerk, Douglas county real estate and personal property for the year 1908 is assessed at $4,129,316. The total assessment of the city and county is approximately $23,500,000. The county assessment shows an increase of $166,929 over the assessment of last year. This is a good increase when it is considered that approximately $800,000 worth of property has been removed from the county assessment by railroads.

SUE FOR DIVORCE FROM HUSBANDS

One Woman Charges Cruelty and Another Desertion as Grounds.

Two wives, for whom marriage has been a rocky road, filed actions for divorce with the clerk of the district court this morning. One charges cruelty, and drunkenness on the part of the husband and the other desertion.

Eleanor A. Chamberlin sets forth that she is 35 years old and her husband, Charles A. Chamberlin, is 45 years old. They were married at Duluth, Dec. 31, 1904. She says that for over a year past, her husband has been in a state of habitual drunkenness and has been guilty of cruelty. On August 18, 1907, she says, he struck her with his fist, and called her vile names. She asks for a decree of divorce.

Hilda Salin is 21 years old and her husband, Elias Alvin Salin, is 27 years old. They were married at Eveleth, Minn., May 4, 1907, at the town of McDavitt, she charges that her husband deserted her and she has since been forced to work to support herself and child. She asks for a decree of divorce, the custody of the child and the right to resume her maiden name, Hilda Kinstire.

NO SCHEME TO GET PROSPERISY

Bryan Says Republicans Have No Plan for Its Return.

Mason City, W. Va., Oct. 22.—William J. Bryan got a warm welcome here today. The representation from this city was augmented by a number of the inhabitants of Pomeroy, Ohio, on the opposite side of the river. He gave a hurried resume of the differences in the platforms of the two parties, and asserted that the Republican party, driven to extremes, was now making excuses.

"There is not," he said, "a single policy of the Republicans that promised good for those who toil, while the Democratic party can draw to its ranks those of all classes and all ages."

On the subject of panic, he likened the position of the Republican party regarding the panic of last fall to that of a boy who was being led by his father from the house to the woodshed. He wanted to talk about something else.

"If," he said, "Mr. Taft is so solicitous about your future, why has not he been as concerned in the past? If he is so anxious to protect you from business depression in the future, then why didn't he protect you from the depression that came upon you last fall like a thief in the night?"

The Republicans, he said, have no plan for the restoration of prosperity.

"PACKEY" EARNED THE DECISION

Chicago Boy Had Better of Fight With Cross.

New York, Oct. 22.—Out of the West last night came "Packy" McFarland, a lightweight fighter, and for five rounds he hammered Leach Cross, the "Pride of the Ghetto," with such precision as to earn a decided victory. At the same time he set in the background Cross' aspirations and enhanced his own chances for a mill with Battling Nelson, for the lightweight championship of the world.

The "go" last night—a regulation six-round affair—was the feature of the program of the Fairmount Athletic club. Both boys weighed in at 133 pounds.

McFarland at the sound of the gong was fighting madly for an early victory. Cross punished back furiously and during the first two minutes it was hard to tell upon whom the greater number of blows landed. Then both boys settled down to more scientific methods. At this kind of fighting McFarland was easily the better and held his advantage cleverly. In the third round McFarland stepped inside a left swing and sent a crushing right to Cross' jaw. The Easterner went down for the count of six. When he arose he was weak and he held on to the end of the round. In the fourth McFarland again went after his man, but Cross here met with a great show of resistance and in this round alone managed to have a shade the better of the argument. In the fifth Cross with left and right drew blood in a stream from McFarland's nose, but the Westerner would not be denied, and kept plugging away in quest of the victory. In the final round Cross took a lot of punishment and was staggering groggily about the ring when the bell rang.

THE VANDERBILT CUP.

Seventeen Cars Entered in Event, Cover the Course Slowly.

New York, Oct. 22.—Every one of the seventeen cars expected to face the starter at daybreak of Saturday for the fourth running of the Vanderbilt cup race was taken over the 23.45 miles of the circuit today for final practice. Although no attempts were made by any of the prospective contestants to approximate racing speed for any considerable distance, a number let out to the last notch coming down the eight-mile straight-away of the Jericho turnpike from Woodbury and Westbury, and in this streteth repeatedly whizzed by at better than seventy miles an hour.

It is over this portion of the course that most of the speeding will be done Saturday, as over the cement surface of the motor parkway part of the circuit, the drivers have discovered fast time to be fatal to tires. In this respect the Motor prakway has proved a great disappointment. In the event of a half million people journeying to Long Island to witness this event, as was the case with the last Vanderbilt cup race, two years ago, however, the fenced in condition of the parkway will more than offset whatever disadvantages the unyielding quality of the surface offers. Owing to the inadequacy of the force of deputy sheriffs engaged to police the 1906 race, the course was invaded for almost its entire length by a surging crowd through which the racers had almost to plough their way. This year the course will be guarded by six hundred members of the Irish volunteers regiment, armed fith rifles, in addition to the two hundred deputy sheriffs.

This year the distance to be covered will be 258 miles, as against 297 in 1906, 283 in 1905 and 284 in 1904.

NEARING THE FINALS.

Only Eight Players Left in Women's National Golf Championship.

New York, Oct. 22.—There is a possibility that the Intercollegiate Fencing association will admit to its membership such colleges of the Middle West and West as may desire to enroll fencing teams. This matter has been under consideration for a long time, and it is expected that at the next meeting of the association plans will be completed for bringing in the teams that have heretofore been denied admission. One of the great difficulties with admitting these teams is the long distances which will have to be traveled in completing the schedules. The association now includes Yale, Harvard, Columbia, West Point, Annapolis, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Cornell and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The annual meeting will probably be held this year during the Thanksgiving holidays instead of at New Year's, as has been customary.

WESTERN COLLEGES

May be Admitted to the Intercollegiate Fencing Association.

Washington, Oct. 22.—With only eight players left in the contest for the women's national golf championship, the match which entered upon the third round today at the Chevy Chase Golf club promised som eexceedingly exciting games today. An unfortunate aspect of the result of yesterday's play, when two Chevy Chase club players won their matches, is that they were opposed to each other today. Whatever may be the outcome, however, of the championship, the Chevy Chase club will have representation in the semi-finals.

When the third round match began today Mrs. Ormsby McCammon and Miss Marion Oliver, both of the Chevy Chase club, who won their matches in yesterday's contest, were pitted against each other to determine which is to have the honor of representing Chevy Chase in the semi-finals and perhaps the final contest. The next match brought together Mrs. T. H. Polhemus of the Richmond Country Golf club, Staten Island, and Miss C. Shreve of Braeburn Country club, of West Newton, Mass. Miss Georgiana Bishop of the Brooklawn club, Bridgeport, Conn., who was the national chomplan in 1904, and Mrs. Caleb F. Fox of the Huntingdon Valley Country club, Philadelphia, who has done some splendid work in disposing of the former national champion, Miss Harriet Curtis, were brought together in the third contest. In the final championship contest of the day Miss Katherine C. Harley of the Fall River, Mass., Golf club was pitted against the present champion, Miss Margaret Curtis of the Country club, Springfield, Mass.

The UNIVERSAL
The Finest Base Burner Made

The heat giving properties of any Base Burner are measured by the amount of radiating surface the stove possesses. In the IMPERIAL UNIVERSAL BASE BURNER, by actual measurement are over 300 square inches more radiating surface than in any other Base Burner. Think of it—of the greater heat-giving possibilities possessed by this Heater.

And the Imperial is a Heater constructed along strictly modern lines. The IMPERIAL UNIVERSAL is a three-flue stove—the heat travels down the two descending flues around both sides of the bottom to the extreme front of same, there uniting and returning through the center bottom flue and up the ascending back flue, thus being equally distributed over the entire back and bottom and giving it more direct radiating surface than any other Base Burner. The Hot Air circulating flues are between the descending and ascending back flues, and the heat passes over all four sides of same, which is a feature found only in the IMPERIAL UNIVERSAL and greatly increases the hot air circulation, making it the best floor heater ever made.

The cold air is drawn from the floor and in its upward passage becomes intensely heated, then passes to the upper outside flue back which is pocketed and conducts the heated air to the double heating attachment.

The UNIVERSAL is fully guaranteed and sold on payments of $1 a week or $5 a month and a liberal allowance for your old stove as part payment.

THE TONNAGE TAX ISSUE.

Governor Johnson in his message to the legislature, January, 1907:—"The proposition which some have suggested, that the direct tax should be abolished and a tonnage tax substituted to provide for all revenue, both state and local, is objectionable because of the jeopardy of revenue for local governments during a period of industrial depression or in a year of possible lockouts or strikes. I wish it to be understood that I clearly oppose any system of taxation which will deprive local townships, village, school district or county governments of a liberal, reliable and continuous source of revenue."

Governor Johnson in his Duluth speech, Oct. 14, 1908:—"I wish to add this statement, which I make now and which I am willing to repeat in any town in the state: If I am elected governor and if the legislature should pass a law depriving this or any other section of the state of its full share of taxes for local improvements, I SHALL VETO IT. That is my stand on the tonnage tax."

COME TO THE POINT.

If the News Tribune wishes to talk tonnage tax, here is its chance. The Herald presents conspicuously on this page, in plain lettering so that even the morning paper can understand it if it will, Governor Johnson's record on the tonnage tax and his present, open stand on the tonnage tax.

Now will the News Tribune furnish Mr. Jacobson's present, open stand on this issue? Never mind his record; everybody knows what that is: it is one of open and consistent advocacy of this vicious measure, and he is running upon that record now in other parts of the state.

Let the morning paper give the people Jacobson's stand on the tonnage tax; let it tell them what he will do with it if he is elected; not what he will whisper in the ears of St. Louis county on the eve of election, when it is too late to let the rest of the state overhear it, but what he thinks right now, today. The News Tribune can use the long distance 'phone and furnish it tomorrow morning, if it will. To wait until Jacobson comes here, in view of the fact that he was first dated for Oct. 22 and that his schedule was then rearranged, would look too much as though, after running throughout the state on his vicious tonnage tax record, he was whispering confidentially to the people of this county, afraid to let the rest of the state hear it. The people want to know where he stands right now, while there is a chance for the rest of the state to hear it, too. That is the only fair way to do it. By the way—

Will the News Tribune kindly give a single reason why Jacobson should get a single vote in Northern Minnesota? It hasn't done so yet.

GOVERNMENT-OWNED RAILROADS.

Those who look upon the proposal of government ownership of railroads in this country as vaporing from the brains of excited fanatics overlook the fact that this country and Great Britain are practically the only world powers that have not gone into the railroad business, and that the adoption of government ownership of railroads in Great Britain cannot long be postponed; though there the railroads have not interfered so arrogantly in government as to provide the excuse for government ownership that we have in this country. The chief argument against government ownership here is that the railroads would constitute a vast political machine; though the postoffice department has not become a political machine, while in private hands railroad interests have had far more influence in politics, and an influence far more evil, than any that could be imagined from a government railroad system.

It is true, however, that there is no immediate probability that government ownership will become a live issue in this country, since the people have evidently determined to give government control a thorough trial first. But if government control is a failure; if the railroads continue to resist fair regulation and to stir up their employes to oppose honest efforts to bring about by law a square deal between railroads and public, government ownership is inevitable.

The government of Austria-Hungary has lately completed arrangements whereby 1,826 miles of privately-owned railroads have been added to the government lines, which will now aggregate a mileage of 8,422.

Five railroads, ranging from 177 miles long to 849 miles in length, have been purchased by the government at prices ranging from $26,000 per mile to $58,000 per mile. It does not appear from the relation of United States Consul Brittain of Prague, who reports the deal to the state department, that there was any difficulty in making an arrangement entirely satisfactory to the government and to the former stockholders. The proper valuation agreed upon, the custom seems to be to pay for the roads with government bonds at 4 per cent. Most of the roads are located in Bohemia, and by obtaining these lines the government has obtained all northern traffic lines to the River Elbe. The deal also gives the government better facilities for reaching a water outlet at Triest.

A DISMAL SOLO.

Throughout the splendid four years of progress and prosperity since Governor Johnson was first elected governor of this state, the newspapers have with a single exception generously voiced their approval of his personal character, his honest fame and his splendid achievements.

That single exception is the Duluth News Tribune, which has during all that time said no single word of honest praise for the great governor of a great state, but has persistently sought to belittle the man and the office he holds by petty and malicious attacks. It has not harmed the governor in the least, for people familiar with the political history of the News Tribune are in a position to realize how helpful a good man's enemies may unwittingly become.

But while the News Tribune was discharging its battery of pea-shooters, other Republican newspapers—between campaigns at least—were ungrudgingly telling the truth about the governor of Minnesota, and outside the state newspapers of all classes and all parties were saying such things as this, from the Republican Philadelphia North American: "We have felt of Hughes as the wisest men of the Middle Wset have felt of Johnson of Minnesota. It would be a blunder tantamount to a crime to mar the natural development of two splendid American careers by failure to re-elect either of these two admirable governors."

And in Minnesota Republican newspapers, which are now half-heartedly supporting Candidate Jacobson, were saying things like these:

St. Paul Pioneer Press, Mrach 28, 1907: "Governor Johnson has been equal to the demands of all occasions. He is of the sort of men who grow in popularity with acquaintance. Possessed of tact and good common sense, he has avoided the mistakes most men in his position would have made. Governor Johnson has made good in the gubernatorial chair."

St. Paul Dispatch, July 1, 1908: "Governor Johnson has made a fine chief magistrate to a noble state of the great Northwest."

Minneapolis Journal, June 13, 1908: "He has made a national reputation out of his service as governor of this state. He has come up more rapidly than any public man since Grover Cleveland."

Minneapolis Tribune, June 26, 1908: "Governor Johnson's personal charms, his transparent integrity, his sound common sense, his unfailing tact, his power to rise to any situation he is called upon to meet so far have put him ahead of older men of greater mental equipment and training in public life."

These are only a few of the many splendid tributes these and many other Republican newspapers have freely extended to Governor Johnson during his administration. They were honest tributes, too, and honestly made. They contained not a phrase that was extravagant or overdrawn; that could hardly be expected from Republican newspapers commenting upon a Democratic governor.

The only discord in this universal chorus of praise and admiration has been furnished by the faint, shrill treble of the Duluth News Tribune, which is now seeking to evade an honest championship of Jacobson by a dishonest guerrilla warfare against Governor Johnson.

WHO HAS CHANGED—TOM OR JAKE?

Thomas H. Shevlin, just back from a Western trip, gave the Minneapolis Journal an interview Tuesday in which he said: "I hope that every Republican will rally around Mr. Jacobson and bring back into the Republican fold the governorship of the state."

With Shevlin for Jacobson and the Duluth News Tribune against Johnson, that ought to settle it, surely.

Remember Shevlin? Tom Shevlin? The man that took the credit for beating Jacobson for the nomination two years ago, and that celebrated his victory with the most ill-smelling orgie that Minnesota ever saw? Of course you remember him. Now just think it over. Two years ago he was spending $10,000 to celebrate Jacobson's defeat. Now he is urging every Republican to rally around him and elect him. Isn't there something worth considering in that? Doesn't it harmonize nicely with Attorney General Young's charge that Dar Reese, Tom Shevlin and others under Bob Dunn's leadership nominated Jacobson in behalf of the interests?

Two years ago Shevlin was opposing Jacobson; today he is urging his election. It is the same old Shevlin. Is it the same old Jacobson? Who has changed, do you think? Shevlin or Jacobson? And do you want to elect Shevlin's man governor of Minnesota?

PRACTICAL EDUCATION.

The Delineator, which has taken up the campaign for practical education in this country, says that "unskilled workmen are the product of the public schools," and that "five years of impracticable training results only in helplessness." The indictment is none too strong. Saying nothing of the recent showing that in most parts of the country the product of the public schools has not even learned that which the schools purport to teach, there is the obvious fact that so far as any preparation for life is concerned, the pupils come out of the schools as poorly equipped as they entered them, if not poorer.

The trouble is that the school systems are designed not to equip pupils for life, but for college; and as only a fraction of 1 per cent of them can go to college, a tremendous and a wicked waste is involved.

A writer in the November Delineator says that less than 5 per cent of all the millions of school children in the United States ever reach the secondary schools, and that it is safe to say that not more than 25 per cent of the whole number ever go above the fifth grade.

A report of the United States commission of education issued in 1904 gives the average amount of schooling for all public school pupils as 4.65 years. The term varies from 2.84 years in the South Atlantic division to 5.93 in the North Atlantic. "If the children who finish grammar school," says the Delineator writer, "and spend perhaps a year in the high school, are as ignorant as the evidence indicates, the average child who attends school five years must go forth to meet the struggle for existence almost an illiterate.

"Last year 14,881 children left the New York city fifth grammar grades. In lesser numbers children in every town and city in the United States, from Maine to California, left school at the same time, the vast majority of them to earn their bread. Children of the people, for whom the public schools exist, they left school with minds practically void of knowledge. Most of them could barely read and write, and not one of them had been taught anything that would even remotely or indirectly help him to earn a decent living."

Wouldn't it be better if, instead of breaking the study courses at the eighth grade, which only a minor fraction of the pupils reach, they were broken at the fifth grade for the benefit of that great majority of pupils who must leave at that point, and the study before that period so arranged that the departing pupils will be equipped with something tangible and complete? At present they leave school with complete knowledge of nothing, and a vague, almost useless smattering of much. Wouldn't it be better, too, to have the entire school system directed, to some degree at least, toward preparing the pupils practically for the struggle of life?

The people have heard from Governor Johnson on the tonnage tax—now let's hear from Jacobson.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

A. B. Coates of Virginia is one of the best baseball fans upon the range. Yesterday he ventured to say a few things about the team that won the championship emblem of the range district.

"It was a great source of pride to Virginia to pull down the championship cup," said Mr. Coates. "You know that up on the range we are the greatest rivals in the world when it comes to baseball. I don't think that you can find a better lot of fans in the world, than you can find right in the range towns of Northern Minnesota. We are daft about baseball. We think we know something about the game, at that, and the brand of ball that was played upon the range this year was not slow.

"Hibbing and Virginia were deadly rivals, when it came to baseball. It is a well-known fact that the range will scrap among its own towns, about things that wholly concern the range. But when it comes to things that concern the interest of the entire range, you will find the range united to secure the best for the interest of the range in general. In baseball we had the greatest rivalry in the world. The interest in the game never lagged. We have shown that we are capable of supporting fast baseball teams, and should the range towns come into some league, I venture to predict that we will be perfectly able to support our teams. There has been some talk of having organized ball at Hibbing and Virginia, but yet the proposition is in the air. You may be sure that were organized ball put in Virginia and Hibbing that we would not be the towns that were marked with the least attendance."

John C. Kelly, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and a resident of Wisconsin, stated at the Lenox yesterday that the German vote would show a great change this year. According to Mr. Kelly, the Germans usually vote the Republican ticket. This year, he says, a majority of them are going to vote the Democratic ticket.

According to Mr. Kelly, the methods of Wall street had much to do with the attitude of the Wisconsin Germans. He says that the German is independent, before all else. The attempt of Wall street to dictate in political affairs, and especially its early efforts to ruin the cause of Bryanism, has led many of the Germans to go over to the cause of Democracy.

"You will find that many of the Wisconsin voters, those that are called the regulars, will vote the Democratic ticket this fall," said Mr. Kelly. "The reason for this is, in my opinion, due to the fact that the German, as a rule, votes for the cause he considers the most just, and because there is developing a distinct Democratic sentiment in Wisconsin. The leadership of La Follette has had much to do with this. In Wisconsin he is considered as much of a Democrat as he is a Republican.

"Party lines are not drawn as closely in Wisconsin as they were in former years. The coming election will, in my judgment, emphasize this condition very strongly. Wisconsin has always been considered a Republican state, but this year you will find that if Wisconsin is Republican, it will go by a very small plurality. The Republican platform and the turning down by that party of many of the recommendations of Senator La Follette, has had much to do with this attitude of the people. The more liberal provisions of the Democratic platform has made thousands of votes in Wisconsin for that party.

"There is a tendency in Wisconsin to become more radical. The voters of Wisconsin in the past have always been of the more conservative nature. The independent spirit has been fostered by the political teachings of La Follette and Bryan. Today you will find that Wisconsin has a different political opinion than the voters of the state held before the advent of La Follette.

"La Follette is particularly influential among the younger men of the state. To this fact is due, very largely, the changing political sentiment of the voters. It was very much different in the days when Spooner was the political dictator as well as the political idol of the voters. The rise of radicalism has been identical with the rise of La Follette and the growth of independence of political thought. For that reason and the fact that there is a resentment against Wall street and its dictation of policies, I believe that Wisconsin will show a heavy Democratic vote this fall. The conservative German voter has taken on the radicalism of La Follette."

The Hughes-Kleffman horse has turned out to be a great and bitter disappointment. This was the horse that was originally secured by John Kleffman of Hibbing in a raffle. Then Martin Hughes of the same town persuaded Mr. Kleffman to pool his ticket with him, thereby becoming a half owner of the horse.

Mr. Kleffman was at the St. Louis yesterday, and stated that he was obliged to sell the horse. It kicked one trainer through the partition of the stall and in general showed such an artistic temperament that its owners despaired of ever being able to cure the beast of its furious temper.

The range will be disappointed in the decision of Mr. Kleffman to sell his horse, for many lovers of sport upon the Mesaba had visions of the fame that the Kleffman nag would bring to the range. Mr. Kleffman says that as an oat destroyer, the nag he secured by the lucky route, was a thorough success. But further than that, he refuses to wax enthusiastic upon the merits of the animal.

THE WEATHER.

Though it was still cloudy this morning, still rather damp overhead as well as underfoot, the worst of it seemed to be over. More rain came yesterday afternoon and in the night, and it was all needed. This morning it was cooler, and the weather man looks for fair and crisp weather, with freezing temperatures tonight and tomorrow. Yesterday's highest temperature was 60 degs., and last night's lowest was 40 degs.

A year ago today it was mild, clear and splendid. The sun rose this morning at 6:36 and sets tonight at 5:09, making 10 hours and 33 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The northern storm has moved its center to the Hudson Bay region. Other low pressure areas overlie the Gulf of Mexico. During the past twenty-four hours these disturbances caused snow or rain over Western Canada, Western Lake Superior, the Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys, Southwestern and the Rocky Mountain states, North Carolina and Florida. Colder weather atends rising prssures in the Middle and Northwestern states. Freezing temperatures prevail in all districts north from Nevada, Utah, New Mexico and Nebraska. The barometer is high over the Upper Rocky Mountains and North Atlantic states. Clearing weather and freezing temperatures may be expected at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Friday."

The Socialists in the Canvass.

Springfield Republican: The reception of the Socialist candidate, Eugene Debs, appears to have been not less demonstrative in Boston than in New York. In numbers the crowds at both cities were such as might have been called out by a visit from either of the candidates of the two great parties, but in enthusiasm and evidences of unselfish devotion they were beyond what any of the other presidential candidates could expect. The demonstrations are accepted by the metropolitan press as highly significant of disturbed industrial and social conditions, and as giving to the Debs candidacy an importance in the campaign not hitherto recognized.

This is Mr. Debs' third canvass as a Socialist candidate for the presidency. He received in 1900 some 88,000 votes; in 1904 his vote was 402,000. It is not at all improbable that he will receive over 1,000,000 votes this year, and in that case the Social Democracy would enter American politics as an organized force to be reckoned with in shaping the future course of the two leading political parties. It would represent a cause appealing powerfully to a growing sentiment among the people that something is fundamentally wrong with modern industrialism, and offering definite if revolutionary plans for correction. And as against that appeal the parties standing for the existing industrial order would have to look sharply to the matter of improving the conditions of the submerged classes if they would keep their footing.

Is this talking too serious a view of the situation as affecting the growth of Socialistic sentiment? Note, then, the reported remarks of the British chancellor of the exchequer, Lloyd-George, at a public meeting in London three or four days ago:

"The day will come, and it is not distant, when England will shudder at its toleration of this state of things, when it was rolling in wealth. I say again that apart from its humanity and its essential justice, it is guilty of robbery and confiscation of what is the workman's share of the riches of the land. I have heard some foolish mutterings that much recognition of this fact in legislation may drive capital away. There is nothing capital need fear so much as the despair of the multitude. I should like to know where it will flee, for, judging by the unmistakable symptoms of the times, there will soon be no civilized land in the world where proper provision for the aged, the broken and the unfortunate among those who toil, will not be regarded as the first charge upon the wealthy of the land. Nobody can honestly defend the present system."

If one of the first officers of the British government can talk that way, how many common people are thinking that way, and not alone in Great Britain but in the United States, where conditions of wealth concentration and aggrandizement by the few are even more pronounced than in England?

Socialism, we hear it said all around, is a force that has got to be faced squarely and disposed of in one way or another. It is in order to ask whether a consistent course of antagonism to all reforms of a radical nature, such as characterizes the ultra-conservatism that is loudest in proclaiming the danger of the Socialistic movement, is the best way to meet and overcome the danger?

Its Characteristic Attitude.

Superior Telegram: The Duluth morning paper says: "Haskell's libel suit against Hearst is for $600,000; a rather high value for a man that had to ask public subscriptions to pay the expense of the suit." It would seem from the morning paper's view that a man's reputation is not worth much unless he is rich, not even if he is the governor of a state. According to that view nothing but money and its owner are to be considered. There are a good many people that will take issue against that view. Lincoln, Grant and McKinley were poor men financially. If Haskell's character is open to attack he himself will be the sufferer, but surely he should not be ridiculed and belittled for not being rich.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

•••Dr. Alden, who has been practicing at Tower for several years, has taken up his residence in Duluth.

•••The Union Steel company of Chicago is furnishing the rails for the Duluth & Winnipeg road. A large part of the iron ore from which these rails are made came from the Vermilion range.

•••W. B. McLean, who has been manager for Wheeler & Carter's commission house here, will leave tomorrow for Minneapolis, where he will work for the same firm.

•••The well known shoe firm of Van Balen Bros. has decided to dissolve partnership on Jan. 1.

•••A ball is being arranged for the benefit of Mrs. Cleary, a deserving woman who desires to get funds to return to her home at Ishpeming.

•••Williams, Upham & Co's dredge at work at West Superior caught fire yesterday and was totally destroyed. The loss is about $7,500.

•••R. C. Loomis, for many years a traveling man in the Northwest, and who is known from St. Paul to the coast, died last week in St. Paul from typhoid fever.

•••Erick Mattson, who was arrested for the murder of Brakkala, was discharged this afternoon, as there was no evidence to show that Brakkala was murdered. It is believed he fell into the lake while drunk.

•••E. T. Rhone, C. W. Mason and J. W. Walker have called a meeting at the city hall tomorrow night for the benefit of colored voters.

•••James Burns accidenetally fell into a ditch on First street, near Lake avenue yesterday and broke a leg.

•••R. S. Munger arrived in Duluth last night after a three months' visit in Europe. Miss Grace Collins, who has been living in Dresden and Paris for about a year, came back on the same steamer with Mr. Munger, and is now in New York.

•••The movement of iron ore from the Lake Superior mines continues expectedly large. The Minnesota company's mines at Tower and the Chandler at Ely have shipped 360,000 tons. It is expected the total Lake Superior shipments of ore this season will reach a magnificent total of more than 5,000,000 gross tons.

•••There will be a meeting tonight of the Democrats at Svea hall, which will be addressed by Dr. Bert Robertson. J. Adam Bede, the humorist of the West end, will be there and may be induced to tell a few funny stories about Cleveland's chances to carry Texas and Missouri.

AS TO MR. JACOBSON.

Wabasha Herald: The safer way is for the voters to take the cue given them by Jacobson's managers by keeping him out in the woods.

Anoka Free Press: A man who professes, as Jacobson does, that he has made no progress, but merely stands where a progressive age dumped him twenty years ago is hardly the sort of person the citizens of Minnesota care to consider seriously as a fit one to preside over their state as governor.

Perham Enterprise: The Wadena Journal came out last week with a leading editorial comparing Jacobson to Abraham Lincoln. Ye gods! The idea of comparing a broad-minded statesman like Lincoln to a narrow-minded boor like Jacobson! Lincoln couldn't bear to see even a poor negro suffer, but Jacobson, when his own countrymen in Northern Minnesota begged for a state appropriation to drain their lands, turned a deaf ear to their cries and stated, on the floor of the house of representatives, that "it would be time enough to go after the swamp lands when the people had to swim." Jacobson like Lincoln! That's rich. The people of Northern Minnesota will appreciate the joke.

Hinckley Enterprise (Rep.): The Duluth Evening Herald is trying to make much of the fact that Jacobson was nominated by the "interests," and quotes Attorney General Young's statement before the convention as proof. There is no need of attempting to prove it. It is too well known.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore (Rep.): Mr. Jacobson was giving exercise to his high principle of trying to be "absolutely right" when he capitulated to Bob Dunn and his coterie of rule or ruin machine politicians which have disgraced Minnesota, in which "deal" he consented to "come off" if they would only give him the Republican gubernatorial nomination. He came off. And the pee-pul, for whom Mr. Jacobson stood as a champion in his many legislative fights, and in which scraps he gained his reputation, are now wondering in just what manner "Honest, Rugged, Old Jake" sold them out.

Virginia Enterprise: Bob Dunn, who holds the distinction of being the first Republican candidate for governor in the state of Minnesota to meet defeat at the hands of the people and a Democratic opponent, says that "newspapers published in the range towns of St. Louis, Itasca and Aitkin counties do not take kindly to the iron ore tonnage plank in the Democratic state platform." No, they do not; but a number of them do take more kindly to the statement made by Governor John A. Johnson that he would veto such a measure if presented for his signature than they do to the "record" of Bob's candidate for governor, J. F. Jacobson, who has ever been an indefatigable worker for the tonnage tax idea.

Brainerd Arena: If you are in the habit of doing charity work, vote for Jacobson for governor, as about the only argument he uses is that it is the duty of every Republican to support him and thereby restore their party in power.

Fairmont Sentinel: The Republican editor of the Northfield News has evidently seen a great light. He says:

"There seems to be a disposition on the part of those who are managing the Republican campaign to keep Mr. Jacobson in the background and to prevent his appearance in any prominent way at the large gatherings which have been and are yet to be held. This was observed at the Taft meetings, both in St. Paul and Minneapolis, when other speakers in whom the public interest is much less keen were given an opportunity to address the assembled throngs which Mr. Jabobson was denied."

This is in line with a letter sent from the chairman of a certain county Democratic committee, reminding the state organization that this county was being flooded with Jacobson speakers, and that something should be done, and he closed his letter in these words: "Send us Johnson for at least one speech. If you can't send him, get Jacobson to come."

Friend in Need.

Life: The other day a man traveling on a shore line train noticed, protruding from an overhead rack, a dress suit case which he recognized as belonging to a friend. He knew that his friend always got off at the station which they had just passed, and as he was not in the seat, the conclusion was inevitable that he had jumped off the train and forgotten it.

The man called the conductor and explained the case to him. After some discussion, and a mild protest on the part of the conductor that it wasn't a part of his duty, the suit case was put off at the next station, with instructions to send it back on the first train the other way.

The man, feeling that he had done an able and friendly act, settled down for the rest of his journey.

But not for long! The face of his friend—who had been in the smoker, and who happened, on that particular afternoon, to be going on to New London to attend a dinner party—loomed before him.

The moral of this is, of course, quite evident.

Gets $1,000 Interest on $50.

New York Herald: The happiest man in New York today is Adam Brede, chef in a lunch room. Over twenty years ago Brede deposited $50 in the Seaman's Bank for Savings. With a friend he attended a festival that night, and when he left the hall he found that both his friend and his bankbook had disappeared. Last Friday night he encountered his friend, who greeted him effusively, and said:

"Here is that bankbook, Adam. It has hurt my conscience for twenty years, but it was the means of saving my life. After leaving New York I went to Albany. From there I drifted out to San Francisco, where I started a fruit business. I prospered, and at the end of eighteen years was worth about $50,000. I arrived here last Sunday, and have been looking for you ever since."

He then handed over the bankbook and $1,000 for interest.

"Now, grandma, you mustn't scold us. You see, if it wasn't for us you would not be a grandma at all."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Pa, what's laissez faire?"

"I dunno, I guess it's something in connection with those new trolley cars where you pay as you enter."

Judge: Mr. Wyss—My dear, I wish you would arrange your hair the way you had it last evening.

Mrs. Wyss—Oh, Justin! I simply can't do it. It completely changes my appearance.

Mr. Wyss (quietly)—I am fully aware of that, my love.

Philadelphia Press: "Pardon me," said Assum, "but it must be pretty tough to be married to a strong-minded woman."

"Oh," replied Henpeck; "it has its advantages. When my wife thinks she hears burglars downstairs she won't trust me to go down and investigate."

Washington Star: "What makes you keep on talking about war and financial ruin and that sort of thing?" asked the peaceful citizen.

"It's largely the public's fault," answered the sensational statesman. "People are getting so lalaze that you've got to scare 'em in order to get 'em interested."

Agricultural Missionaries.

St. Paul Evening Pioneer Press: The action of the Duluth Commercial club and the land department of the Duluth & Iron Range road in offering to pay the expense of sending three farmers of St. Louis county to the farmers' short course at the college of agriculture is commendable. The short course is designed to afford to the experienced agriculturist an opportunity to get the maximum of benefit from an attendance of four weeks at the school. It includes just the sort of practical instruction a farmer finds of most value to him in his business. The popularity of the course is increasing as its scope and benefits are being made known throughout the state. Many have taken advantage of the opportunity it affords, and every encouragement should be given to others to do so.

The selection of the three members of farmers' clubs making the best displays at the state fair to attend the course this winter will benefit all St. Louis county. The farmer who learns new and better ways of cultivating his land or of caring for his stock is a benefit to all in his vicinity. His neighbors will follow his example and adopt the methods that bring success to him. Thus the few weeks spent at the college of agriculture yield returns to him and to all in his neighborhood. There should be at least one of these agricultural missionaries in each community, and public-spirited and commercial bodies will do themselves great credit in emulating the example set in Duluth.

AMERICAN SAILORS DANCE WITH PRETTY JAP WOMEN

WARSHIPS GOING TO CUBAN WATERS

Washington, Oct. 22.—Two weeks is the time the navy department estimates the battleship fleet commanded by Admiral Sperry will remain in the United States after his arrival at Hampton Roads as now contemplated. Then the ships will proceed to Cuban waters for target practice and maneuvers, after which they will disperse to the various navy yards some time in June. The ships of the third squadron of the Atlantic fleet, which will meet Admiral Sperry's command and escort it home, are the Maine, Mississippi, Montana, North Carolina, Idaho, New Hampshire, Birmingham, Salem and Chester.

PREMIER KATSURA.

Tokio, Oct. 22.—The dinner and ball in honor of the visit of the American fleet of battleships by Premier Katsura, at his residence, brought together about 1,000 prominent people, including all the American officers, who were invited to the ball. The guests at the dinner, however, were confined to those holding official positions. There were no set speeches. Premier Katsura proposed the health of President Roosevelt, and American Ambassador O'Brien that of the emperor of Japan. A toast to the fleet by the premier was responded to by Rear Admiral Sperry.

The ball was the most brilliant function of the week, and brought the Americans and Japanese into the closest touch.

American officers danced with the wives and daughters of Japanese, the majority of whom were dressed in European costumes. Premier Katsura proved himself a perfect host, moving in and out and greeting all the Americans in the kindliest manner. Among those present were Sir Claude McDonald, the British ambassador; Baron Muimn Von Schwatzenstein, ambassador for Germany; French Ambassador Gerard and representatives from all the embassies and legations.

Today 4,000 sailors from the fleet came to Tokio to attend a garden party at Habya Park, given by Y. Osaki, mayor of Tokio.

Admiral Sperry and the other admirals of the fleet will leave Tokio for Yokohama tomorrow, but the last feature of the city's entertainments of the Americans will be given by Baron Kanakeo, president of the American Friends society, Friday night, and Rear Admiral Emory will remain in Tokio to represent Sperry.

WORST OF FIRES OVER

Pickford, Mich., Message Reports Fifty Miles of Timber Gone.

Minnesota Forestry Commission Calls for New Timber Enactment.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 22.—A report from Pickford says fifty square miles of timber in that section have been destroyed. Gatesville was surrounded by flames yesterday and three residences were destroyed there. The south end of Suga risland is ablaze, but the northern portion seems safe. Although nothing but a heavy rain can stop the fires in the woods of this district, general conditions are improved. Back firing has been effective around the small towns and it looks as though all further damage might be confined to standing timber.

Fires Are Abating.

Alpena, Mich., Oct. 22.—Reports from various points throughout the Metz forest fire district show that the fires have abated. Every day brings reports of additional families made destitute by the fires, but relief measures are being executed on a large and liberal scale, the entire state having responded generously to Governor Warner's appeal for aid.

Martin Lapszinski, his wife and two children, missing since Thursday and thought to be burned to death or drowned in Grand lake, were located at the cottage of Bliss Stebbins on the lake shore. The Lapszinski family fled from the forest fires in a boat.

New Laws Needed.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 22.—What is most needed in Minnesota to prevent forest fires and the recurrence of such disasters as the recent Chisholm fire, is a law requiring loggers to burn their slashings while the snow is still on the ground, instead of waiting until spring, or later, according to Gen. C. C. Andrews, Minnesota forestry commissioner.

"The only law now in force in Minnesota requiring slashings to be piled and burned is the act of congress of 1902 applying to logging in the national Minnesota forest at Cass Lake and on certain Indian reservations," says Andrews.

"At Cass Lake I was informed by Capt. O'Neil, United States government superintendent of logging, that the practice is now to pile and burn the slashings while the snow is on the ground, instead of waiting, as formerly, until after the snow is gone. As soon as the limbs are cut from the felled tree they are at once piled and burned. This saves handling twice and is found good economy, as it immediately clears the ground from rubbish, and facilitates handling the logs.

"Unquestionably one of the improvements of our Minnesota system for preventing forest fires will be legislation requiring people who cut timber to pile their slashings while the snow is on the ground."

HALTS HUNTERS, DUE TO FIRES

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 22.—Governor Charles H. Prouty issued a proclamation today suspending the hunting season until Nov. 8, due to forest fires, for which the hunters are blamed.

ALL PROHIBITION IN TEN YEARS

W. C. T. U. Leader Makes Prediction at Convention in Denver.

Denver, Oct. 22.—Milwaukee representatives began work among the arriving delegates to the thirty-fifth annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union to have that city chosen as convention city next year. Omaha also will extend an invitation.

Mrs. Frances H. Leiter, chairman of the national superintendent's department, says:

"I predict that in ten years the prohibition movement will cover the entire nation. It is not a spasmodic effort, but a substantial and healthy gain, which cannot be checked by any amount of opposition."

GIRL POINTS TO NEGRO; LYNCHED

Alabama Mob Makes Short Work of Her Assailant.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 22.—At Hatzelle, Ala., a mob took a negro named Etover from two deputy sheriffs and lynched him. Stover was charged with having criminally attempted to assault Miss White, daughter of a well-known farmer.

Miss White pointed to Stover as the guilty party.

When the officers arrived in town with their prisoner, a mob of fifty or more men, with their faces blackened, rushed in on the deputies and secured him. They took him outside of town and riddled his body with bullets.

DARING BAND OF YEGGMEN

Jobs at Barnum, Biwabik and Nebagamon of Same Nature.

All Are Believed to be Work of Same Gang.

The country about the Head of the Lakes seems to have been chosen by a gang of well organized yeggmen this fall as their headquarters.

There seems to be every indication that the three successful and daring bank breaking jobs pulled off in the Northwest within a little over two months, are the work of the same gang. It is also quite evident that the work is that of men of some experience.

The vault blowing at the Bank of Nebagamon was the third big piece of work of this nature executed, and there is every reason to believe, from the manner in which the job was done that it was the work of the same men who attempted to rob the banks at Barnum and Biwabik. Their methods are deliberate and carefully planned. At Nebagamon, they were forced to employ three charges of nitro-glycerin to wreck the heavy door of the vault, and even after disturbing half the village made their escape, with $1,700, practically every cent in the bank, in their possession.

They are desperate men and do not stop at bloodshed to accomplish their end. This was demonstrated at Barnum, Minn., where they held at bay, at the muzzles of shotguns, several citizens. They failed to secure any of the bank deposits there, but they escaped. At Biwabik, just before the Chisholm fire, they burglarized the bank, and while his companions were looting the vault, one of the yeggmen deliberately shot a man who refused to throw up his hands.

It appears that this band is carefully watching the banks of the small towns, and when a favorable opportunity offers, they swoop down upon them and put into execution their carefully laid plans.

The police protection in the small towns is seldom organized to cope with such a gang, and up to the present time they have left no clue behind them.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—Mack-Leone company in "Janice Meredith."

"JANICE MEREDITH."

The Mack-Leone players have put on their white wigs and donned blue and buff, for the colonial romance "Janice Meredith," which was given for the first time by them at the Lyceum last night, and which will be the bill at the theater for the remainder of the week.

The play is as every one knows, a dramatization of the late Paul Leicester Ford's colonial romance, and had some vogue of a few years ago, before it was supplanted in popularity by cowboy drama and plays of political graft and gusiness supremacy.

Ford's novel was, perhaps, the best of the many Revolutionary romances, which sprang into being all at ance, and the stage version retains much of the dainty charm, chivalry and warlike notes of the book.

Maude Leone has the title role. It was meant for a feminine star, and consequently offers the actress any number of opportunities to display effective work. Miss Leone is happily cast, and her interpretation of the part found warm commendation from last night's audience.

Willard Mack, bondsman and then colonel in the Colonial army, has a role of almost equal strength and he carried it out with a faithfulness that is repeatedly rewarded by his auditors.

As Philemon, the unsuccessful suitor, Marshall Farnum finds a sympathetic role to his liking and Jay Quigley gets in his best work with the part of the tippler, Squire Hennion.

Harry Hicks is the Lord Clows of the present production and Francis Joyner makes a dignified Squire Meredith, Robert Preston, Earl Metcalf, Blanche Small and Maude Cleveland are acceptable in the other parts.

The piece has been mounted and costumed with the same generosity and regard for the perior that has characterized all the Mack-Leone company's costume plays.

This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

EXTERNAL REMEDY FOR ECZEMA

It is now thoroughly established among the best medical authorities that eczema is purely a skin disease, due to a germ and curable only through the skin. It is not a blood disease at all; in fact, thousands of people suffer with skin disease and are perfectly healthy otherwise, and therefore prove they have no diseased blood.

Smeary salves cannot reach the germs because they do not penetrate the skin. The only way to reach the germs is by means of a penetrating liquid.

Such a liquid can be obtained by simply mixing ordinary oil of wintergreen with thymol, glycerine and other healing agents. This compound known as D. D. D. Prescription stops the itch instantly—and the cures all appear to be permanent. In fact, it took thousands of cures, case after case, before the best scientific authorities were convinced of the absolute merit of this remedy. The effect of D. D. D. Prescription in numbing the itching eczema germs is seen within one minute after the first application. We especially recommend D. D. D. Soap in connection with this treatment.

New York, Oct. 22.—Ex-Governor Myron T. Herrick of Ohio came to Republican national headquarters yesterday and made the following statement:

"Taft, 1,748; Bryan, 510; doubtful, 491."

CALLS FOR REFORM IN THE CAVALRY.

Washington, Oct. 22.—"The spirit of the army is more sanguine," declares Inspector General Garlington in his annual report, "since the passage of the act increasing the pay of the army. It is believed that conditions will continue to improve and that all cause of unrest will disappear if congress at its next session corrects the defects in the organization of the cavalry and increases the strength of the infantry."

GIRL'S ASSAILANT ESCAPES ON BICYCLE.

Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Carrie Smith, 12 years old, daughter of Fred Smith, a farmer, is in a serious condition at her home as the result of an attack made upon her by an unknown man while on her way from school. Her assailant left her unconscious in a field and escaped on a bicycle. She finally came to her senses and reached her home a half mile away.

Officers and angry farmers set out in pursuit of the man and followed his trail for fourteen miles when it was lost.

The stock will arrive home this week and will be sent to the International exhibit in Chicago in December.

IRON BUSINESS IS PICKING UP

Hesitatian in Covering Early Requirements Continues, However.

New York, Oct. 22.—The Iron Age says today:

While there is still a good deal of hesitation in covering early requirements, more business has been done than was generally expected. There have been some large transactions in basic pig in the Pittsburg district for prompt delivery, and a contract has also been closed for the supply, at the rate of 6,000 tons a month, for five years, of basic pig, to a steel plant recently completed. A moderate amount of business has been done in the East, in basic iron where quotations below $16 have been withdrawn, and there is an inquiry in the market for a block of 10,000 tons. Purchases of Southern basic pig have also been recently made, on quite a liberal scale, for the St. Louis district.

Upward of 10,000 tons of low phosphorous pig have sold lately, to steel makers and to steel casting plants, for this year's delivery at $20.

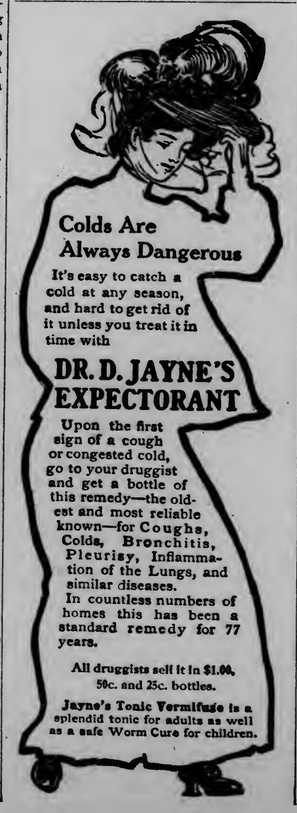

Aside from a few larger transactions, founders are not contracting for much iron; in fact, in some distributing centers, inquiries have been temporarily withdrawn.

Southern makers are maintaining their firm attitude to prices. The wire industries continue the conspicuous exception to the general rule that sales are below the normal.

The St. Paul road has made arrangements for the building of 2,500 additional freight cars which will require about 7,000 tons of material, which will probably be placed at once. The better demand from the car building shops has also stimulated some buying of charcoal pig iron, and some fair business has been placed.

For the lake boat to be built for Cleveland interests at the Toledo yard, the material involving 3,000 tons of plates and shapes has been ordered.

It has developed that inquiries for large quantities of cast iron pipe casting in New Jersey are not serious. The pipe makers have held a meeting and are aiming at an advance in prices of 5 per cent.

WOMAN REALLY DEAD, AFTER ALL

Ellis, Kan., Oct. 22.—Hope was abandoned today that Mrs. Thomas Chapman, whose funeral was stopped by physicians, who doubted her demise, could be brought back to life. Doctors worked over her all last night, but discolorations appeared on the body, which made it certain life was extinct. Friends gathered for the funeral and the body was in the coffin when the doctors interfered.

CONDITION OF 6,853 BANKS

Washington, Oct. 22.—The abstract of the reports of the conditions of the 6,853 national banks under call issued by the comptroller of the currency for statements as of Sept. 23, 1908, issued yesterday furnishes evidence, in the opinion of treasury officials, of vastly improved business conditions.

The five principal items in the returns show that since Feb. 14, 1908, the loans and deposits in the national banks of the country have increased from $4,222,353,647 to $4,750,617,217, a difference in a little over seven months of about $328,000,000, and during the same period the total resources of national banks have increased $631,000,000. The combined capital stock paid in has advanced nearly $20,000,000 and the surplus about $11,000,000.

The most remarkable of the totals given is as to individual deposits, which have increased during the last seven months from $4,105,814,418 to $4,548,135,165, a difference of $443,000,000.

PRACTICING BY ELECTRIC LIGHT

Minneapolis, Oct. 22.—Scrimmage practice work is on in earnest at Northrop field and the Minnesota football warriors will be kept busy for the next twelve days, preparing for the Chicago battle, which is booked for Oct. 31. Dr. Williams and Sig Harris are the busiest men in the West this week Stagg not excepted, and when the Gophers line up against the Maroons the team work will be about perfected.

Signal and scrimmage work was the program Tuesday afternoon, and when it became too dark to see the ball, the newly installed electric lights were brought into use. The Minnesota coaches are aware that Minnesota must be at its best for the Chicago game, and not one minute will be wasted during the next ten or twelve days. Minnesota's one big chance lies in this game, and the rooters are all confident that the Gophers can turn the trick on Stagg's aggregation.

The maroon and gold followers dope it out that if the Gophers can down Chicago, everything else will come easily. Both Wisconsin and Carlisle have strong elevens in the field, and either team is as strong as Chicago, but the Minnesota rooters look to the Chicago battle as the crucial contest, refusing to entertain any fear for the welfare of the Gophers in the last two games of the season.

Although the Gophers' showing against Nebraska was all that could be expected and every individual's work was first class, Dr. Williams is by no means satisfied that his team is strong enough to meet the Maroons, and he plans to strengthen both the offense and defense 50 per cent before the big battle. Every man on the first squad, whether sub or regular, will be given a hard practice each night, so that in case of injuries, a shift in the line up or a new man on the team will not cause any confusion in the team work.

According to reports, very low rates are to be offered by the different railroad companies for the round trip to Chicago, and thousands of Minneapolis and St. Paul rooters are planning on going. The students are clamoring for a rate, and if anything like a reasonable price is fixed, fully 3,000 of the Gophers will attend the big game. Manager of Athletics Helon E. Leach is negotiating with several different roads and expects to make final arrangements today.

Electric light practice will be continued all of this week and until Wednesday of next week, and by the time the team departs for Chicago, everything necessary should be marked down in the brains of the Gopher battlers.

SPORTS OF THE DAY

HANS WAGNER SAVES HIS MONEY

Heavy Hitting German is Getting Ready for Rainy Day.

Pittsburg, Oct. 22.—John Peter Wagner, known throughout the baseball world as "Hans," the player who has six times led the National league in batting, Thursday invested his savings of the last baseball year in real estate in his home town, Carnegie, a few miles west of Pittsburg. He bought three nice lots, which, added to the mass of real estate he has, makes him one of the big land owners of the town.

"Just fortifying myself against the coming of the day when I can't see the ball—you know the day must come to us all some time," he said as he took the deed. "I'll let this bit of unimproved property grow up with the country."

Wagner is perhaps the richest ball player in the game. He is a bank director, a big holder of brewery bonds, of railroad bonds, owns a business block and bowling alley, as well as a large chicken farm, two automobiles and about thirty-seven blooded dogs.

"Yes, I always save my money, and I wish some of the other boys in the game would do the same. There is not one of us but makes enough money to save a lot. I understand, however, that some of them do not."

HUGHY JENNINGS IN POLITICS

Is Stumping Detroit in the Interest of Mayor Thompson.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 22.—Hughey Jennings, manager of the Detroit Tigers, will enter the political arena next week and will stump the city, with Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland, in favor of the re-election of Mayor William B. Thompson.

Mayor Thompson has arranged to hold meetings in large circus tents next week, and the attractions, besides Jennings and Tom Johnson, will be Rev. Herbert E. Bigelow, Cincinnati, and City Clerk Peter Witt, Cleveland, all of which means the last week of the campaign will have all the earmarks of a marvelous circus maximus.

Early last spring Mayor Thompson promised Jennings that if he would make his home in Detroit he would appoint him assistant corporation counsel at the close of the baseball season, and it begins to look as though Jennings will accept.

REDS SKILLED IN FORWARD PASS

Quakers Will Find Dangerous Opponent in Carlisle Indians.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—When the Pennsylvania football team lines up against the Carlisle Indians Saturday at Philadelphia the Quakers will meet a team which in the two former meetings overwhelmed and humiliated them.

Coach Warner and his men, proud of having beaten Pennsylvania twice out of nine games, are now putting the finishing strokes to their preparation and the Indian team that takes the field Saturday will represent the best material, an eleven trained as are few teams.

In the football world the Indian has been a veritable red peril for the last decade. Their exploits since 1899 have been little short of marvelous and there is not a team on their schedule but egards the Indian game as one of the hardest.

Carlisle has lost several good men, and of last year's lineup only five veterans are back. A newly passed rule forbidding any player to represent the school more than four years on the gridiron cost several men, and injuries will keep out several more stars. The most serious loss is Houser, whose injured back makes it next to impossible for him to play Saturday.

What Pennsylvania specially needs to watch is the Indian use of the forward pass. This has been developed by the aborigines to a great degree of perfection. There is nothing haphazard about throwing or catching the ball, as was the case last year. Everything this season seems to be deadly accurate, the outcome of careful planning and unceasing practice.

Already the opponents of football are counting the injuries deaths resulting from football and are gloating with considerable glee over the fact that football has not been "debrutalized." Countless minor accidents and occasional deaths are trotted out as horrible examples of the terrible effects of the game that is so popular in colleges during the autumn months.

One incident which was grasped as a glowing example occurred in a town in Eastern New York some ten days ago. Two high school teams, untrained by a professional coach, played a game of football on a day so warm that it was totally unfit for this hard pastime. Something like seventeen players were laid out. Large stories were sent forth by active and diligent correspondents to the effect that half the injured men were on the verge of death. A few days later the same correspondents cleaned up a few honest dollars telling how the supposedly mortally wounded were on the high way to recovery.

Immediately the anti-football argument was precipitated and it has been growing ever since. Thus far the college teams and the clubs properly conditioned have escaped.

The record for the season of 1907 and the record for this part of 1908 is all in favor of the changes in rules which permitted more open play and which did away with the dangerous mass formations. Football, by the fair minded, is now considered a sport not too dangerous and not beyond the bounds of reasonableness.

To be sure, accidents occur, but careful study of the conditions under which players are injured usually leads to the conclusion that the participants were not properly conditioned and were not in proper physical trim to engage in any form of violent sport. A long distance swimming match, too much basketball, a long running race or a half dozen other forms of harmless sport no doubt would have injured these same men if they were no better prepared. But, football once having been a brutal sport, gets all the blame.

There are a lot of things in favor of the rugby game which commend it to athletic loving public. It fosters a spirit of self-reliance as no other college sport does. A student may be president of his class, a leading frat man, a big bug from a financial standpoint, but if he cannot tackle hard or hold his man he stands on the side lines and often watches the least influential man in college beat him to the coveted job.

MOVING PICTURES.

Ten Cent Theater Men "Can" Great Cub-Tiger Game.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—When the great ball game between the Cubs and Tigers took place a week ago Sunday the moving picture people were on the field and succeeded in making an excellent film of the entire game. Every play made by the popular heroes of the diamond is plainly shown and about the only thing lacking is the enthusiasm that was displayed by the great crowd of fans.

PAPKE WILL DRAW A SMALL FORTUNE

Illinois Thunderbolt to Get Long End Win, Lose, or Draw.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Billy Papke, the Illinois thunderbolt and middleweight champion of the world, is to receive $8,000, win, lose or draw, for meeting Stanley Ketchel a third time. Jack Gleason of San Francisco, who is promoting the show on Thanksgiving day, is giving Papke these inducements. Papke and Ketchel are good drawing cards, but a club is forced to go some to make ends meet when they offer purses of that size.

Both Jimmy Coffroth of the Colma club and Jack Gleason of the Occidental club of San Francisco were bidding for the battle. Coffroth offered Papke $7,000 as his end of the purse, and Gleason raised him $1,000, gave the principals the privilege of dividing 50 per cent of the gross receipts of the show, 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser, with a 20 per cent bonus to Papke.

Papke will go to Chicago Monday from his home at Kewanee, where he has been doing light training work, and will leave for San Francisco the same night. The "thunderbolt" is in good condition, and will not have to do much hard work to get in fighting trim.

EAST SIDE VS. CENTRAL HIGHS'

Duluth Boys Will be in Good Form for Big Game.

From now on the high school football team will use the curling rink in the evening, and for a half hour each morning for signal practice in addition to the regular workouts that are being held every afternoon at Athletic park.

Everything is being done that can be and no stone is being left unturned that will strengthen the team in any way. Coach Colton, Assistant Coach Furni, and Dr. J. D. Park, along with a number of old graduates, are out with the boys every day, and what the high school team won't know about football when it lines up against the husky champions from Minneapolis, these coaches can't teach them.

Rain or shine, practice goes on just the same, and the boys, the coaches say, are showing the proper "do or die" spirit, and are backed up by the entire school in their efforts to win from East Side.

Helmer is still out of the game, but Larrowe is showing up in great shape and he is expected to make a good showing against his more experienced rival. Olson, the new man at guard is said to be delivering the goods, and the rest of the boys will no doubt put up the game of their lipes.

FAST GAME ON CARD FOR SUNDAY

Hibbing Olivers Will Meet Spaldings at Athletic Park.

There will be some football game Sunday afternoon out at Athletic park when the strong Spalding team lines up against the heavy Oliver team of Hibbing.

The Olivers are made up of old college men, and are said to be very fast. They have been practising for some time, and have played a number of games. They are coming to Duluth with the idea that it will be easy.

The Spalding bunch has made a record so far this year that they can well be proud of, and a game between two of the fastest teams in Northern Minnesota should furnish good sport for football enthusiasts.

The teams will line up as follows:

How to Cure a Cold.

Be as careful as you can, you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world-wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. For sale by all druggists.

You Need Not Diet

When you have Dyspepsia, Indigestion, or any form of Stomach Trouble, take Kodol and you can then eat what you want for Kodol will digest it.

Starvation seems a strange remedy for any disease. Yet, starvation by rigorous diet, was once generally resorted to, in case of indigestion or other stomach trouble. Even yet, it is sometimes tried.

Such a remedy is worse than useless. Every day of life consumes a portion of the tissue of the human body. The food we eat serves to repair this waste, and you can't build up the system by withholding material for the purpose.

If the stomach is in such condition, that it cannot furnish it, the task must be performed without the stomach's assistance. Kodol is the only preparation which accomplishes this. There are others which act on certain kinds of food, but Kodol is the only one, which digests them all, as the stomach digests them.

Man is so constituted that he needs a variety of food; to reduce the variety, always produces bad results.

In ninety-nine cases in a hundred, indigestion is due to lack of some of the elements, which constitute the natural digestive juices, usually to the absence of hydrochloric acid for the stomach.

It is by the action of these juices, that food is reduced to a form in which it can be transformed into living tissue. With any of them lacking, it is easy to see, that the process of digestion cannot be perfectly performed.

With the single exception of Kodol, all preparations for the relief of indigestion, lack certain of these elements. Consequently, they cannot digest all classes of food.

Kodol contains them all. It will digest anything that the healthy stomach can digest. It is Nature's own cure.

Don't resort to stimulating tonics. Such drugs simply urge the already overworked stomach to renewed exertions.

It is like spurring a tired horse. For a moment he responds. Then outraged Nature, reasserts itself and he falls in a heap. Sedatives are equally ineffective. At first they deaden pain, but afterward comes the reaction, and keener suffering than before.

What the stomach needs, is rest. To obtain it, a substitute must be found for the natural digestive juices. Kodol is the only substitute, which accomplishes Nature's results, by Nature's own methods.

It gives the stomach perfect rest, by digesting what you eat. No dieting is necessary. Eat all the good food you want, build up the system and at the same time, relieve the stomach from all responsibility. The rest will restore it to its natural condition and soon effect a complete cure. This is the only rational and common sense method of aiding Nature

DEMOCRATIC BOOKS OPEN

Warren, Ohio, Oct. 22.—Speaking in Grace park to a multitude of people in this, one of Ohio's greatest manufacturing cities, William J. Bryan answered criticisms and questions put to him by a local newspaper through special delivery letters received all along the line before he reached here.

Accepting as true a statement of the paper that James S. Sherman, the Republican vice presidential candidate, was not introduced, as has been stated, by the president of the match trust, Mr. Bryan openly corrected his mistake into which he said he fell by inadvertence, declaring that he never intentionally misrepresented an opponent.

"Now, however," he said, amid great cheers, "having done what I believe to be the honorable thing, I ask the paper that was kind enough to lead me out of my mistake, to apply the same standard to the president that it applies to me. The president stated that we had received $300,000 either from the committee of four years ago or some unknown source. I corrected the misstatement the first time it was brought to my attention. Mr. Mack corrected it, and later he brought it to the attention of the president, and yet the president has not admitted that he made a mistake in regard to our finances.

"We received no money from the committee of four years ago, and we have given a statement of the money we have received since this campaign began. Our books are open, and the statement issued on the fifteenth of this month shows that we have received about $42,000 as the balance left from the $100,000 offered to either party by the city of Denver and accepted by our party. It cost about $60,000 to pay the expenses of the convention and the preparations for it, and it left us about $42,000, and that went into our campaign fund, and, according to the statement made by Mr. Mack and Mr. Hilditer on the 15th, we had received about $220,000 or $230,000 from other sources. Since that time we have published daily the amount we have received and the name of the persons contributing.

Call President to Time.

"Now, my friends, it is known to the president that we did not receive the money that he charged us with, and I want this paper that is so anxious to have me speak accurately, to call its own president to time and ask him to correct the mis-statement that he made.

"But, my friends, I am not yet through with the incident. I believe the editor of this paper does ont deny that the president of the match trust did preside at a Republican meeting. Mr. Roosevelt said that the law defying corporations had no reason to fear my election and when I challenged him to give the name of one trust official in the United States who was supporting me, he scanned the country and found not one. He found a lawyer in St. Louis, who in a case was the personal attorney of a man that was the president of a subordinate branch of a trust, and within twenty-four hours it developed that the Republican national committeeman from the state of Missouri was the attorney for the trust while the Democrat was the attorney for the president of the trust company. It developed that Mr. Taft himself had about three years ago recommended an attorney of the Standard Oil company to be a United States judge and to hold a life office in a territory, where he might be expected to preside in cases where the Standard Oil company was interested.

"Now, here you have in this city the president of the match trust presiding at a Republican meeting. No president of a trust has presided so far at any meeting where I have spoken. Nor is it denied that the president of the match trust took occasion in that speech to utter a slander against the labor organization. (Applause.) Nor is it disputed that Republicans sat upon the platform and did not resent the slander. Now, my friends, I have said all that I think it is necessary to say on this incident, when I have so short a time in which to speak to you.

Can't Read all Decisions.

"But I am going to call attention to one other criticism, and that is that I have not read Taft's opinion in injunction cases. Well, my friends, I have two reasons for this—one is that I am a busy man and I cannot read as many decisions as Judge Taft has made in injunction cases (applause), another is that I do not need to read what he said as judge when I have so much material that he has said since he became a candidate, we ask for remedial legislation and Taft today opposes that legislation.

"We ask for the establishment of a department of labor with a cabinet officer at its head, and Judge Taft is opposed to it. If he is in favor of a labor man in the cabinet, why has not he said so? In all the speeches he has made? I believe that labor is entitled to a labor department and I do not have to read Judge Taft's opinions to make up my mind that there ought to be a department of labor and a secretary of labor.

"Our platform says that the anti-trust law should be so amended as to exclude the labor organizations. I did not have to read his opinion in order to decide whether we ought to amend the anti-trust laws or not. It is enough for me to know that there is a difference so wide between a man made in the image of his creator and the product of human hands that one law cannot justly cover both man and matter.

"I did not have to read Mr. Taft's opinions on the labor question to know that you ought not to degrade a man with a heart, a brain and a soul by putting him under a law that is made to regulate the product of industry and the products of man. We believe there ought to be a limitation upon the writ of injunction so that it will not be issued in a labor dispute merely because there is a labor dispute. We believe that before an injunction shall be issued in a labor dispute there should exist conditions that would justify the injunction if there were no labor disputes, and I do not have to read Mr. Taft's opinions when he sat as a judge to decide that we are right in this position and that he and his party are wrong.

"I believe, too, that a man should be entitled to trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt, and I do not have to read Mr. Taft's opinion to know what he thinks on this subject, for since he has been a candidate he has not only declared himself against trial by jury in these cases of indirect contempt, but he has charged that in advocating trial by jury, we are guilty of an insidious attack upon the judicial system of the country, the most insidious, he declares, ever made in the history of this country. Now I can make some charges, too, and I will make one on this subject. I charge Judge Taft with being unwilling to give to a laboring man, never convicted of a crime, the protection of trial by jury that cannot in our law be taken from a convicted thief if he is ever charged again."

JURY TRIAL IN CONTEMPT CASES

KATE WILSON BORROWED FROM MORSE ON UNSUPPORTED NOTE

New York, Oct. 22.—Into the testimony at the trial of Charles W. Morse and Alfred H. Curtis, charged with conspiracy and violation of the national banking laws, is introduced the name of Miss Kate A. Wilson, secretary to Mr. Morse, and the prosecution produced witnesses who testified to large loans made by the National Bank of North America, a Morse institution, to Miss Wilson.

Edwin Moxey, a government bank examiner who has proved at this hearing that he is a wizard at figures, was the principal witness relative to the big loans made to the financier's faithful secretary, summed up his testimony as follows:

"On her bare and unsupported note Morse would loan Miss Wilson a sum of money. Miss Wilson's note would be cashed by the National Bank of North America, and with the proceeds stock of the American Ice company would be purchased. Then the ice stock would be used to secure another loan from the bank. With the money thus secured bank stock would be purchased and the bank stock aided in supporting the ice pools in which Morse and other financiers were interested. The failure to raise the price of ice above par was what caused the break in the endless chain."

SHOWS CASE OF COERCION

Newark, Ohio, Oct. 22.—In his remarks yesterday Mr. Bryan said:

"I am glad to come again into Ohio. I am glad to come at a time when Democratic prospects are so bright that even the Republican national committee is compelled to confess that the Republican candidate must come back to fight for his own state.

"He went out West to fight for the West, but he now finds he has difficulty enough at home and cannot spare any time for the West.

"I am glad they are beginning to realize the forces that they have to contend against, and the greatest obstacle they have is the record of the party that they must defend. Twelve years of complete power, with a president eulogized in the platform and a senate that they cannot apologize for, and a house presided over by a despot, and yet they cannot defend their record.

"Twelve years of power complete, they have been able to pass every law they wanted to pass, to repeal every law they wanted to repeal, and they have had Republicans on nearly all the federal benches, and yet what is their condition? They feel that in every state of this Union the tide is running against them, and they face deserved defeat for their betrayal of the American people by their officials.

"They have disappointed the laboringman; they have refused to listen to his plea; they have denied him the remedies that he deserves, and now, when embittered by disappointment and indignant at mistreatment, the laboringman attempts to show his citizenship, declare his independence and register his protest at the polls, they proceed with their attempts at coercion.

Scaring the Workmen.

He then read from a dispatch to a Columbus paper which stated that 500 workmen of the Big Four railroad at Belle Fontain, part of the New York Central system, had been called together in the shops and notified that if Bryan was elected there would be a ten per cent reduction in wages, but if Taft was elected there would be an increase in both pay and work. The dispatch stated that these officials were making a tour of the entire system for the purpose of making the same announcement to all the employees.

"There, my friends," said Mr. Bryan, "is the statement in a Republican paper of the threat made by the officials of a great railroad system. They threaten to punish men for voting the Democratic ticket by a ten per cent cut in their wages and they promise to increase their pay and their working hours if they will vote the Republican ticket.

"I want the American people to understand that we have something like a million and a half of railway employes, and if the managers of these roads can enter politics and coerce that many men, then independent elections are ended in this country. If these men can put into office men hostile to the laboring man then by these coercions they can force on the laboring man any antagonistic legislation that they desire.

Spokesman For Wage Earner.

"The Republican party has refused to give the laboringman a place in the president's cabinet. When our party promised him that if we succeeded, there will be a spokesman for the wage earner in the president's council chamber, when I say to the laboringman that if I am elected I want one of their representatives in my cabinet to advise me about labor; when I say these men representing the railroads go out and tell you that unless you are willing to relinquish your claim of representation in the cabinet, they will reduce your wages and make your compensation smaller than it is, we tell the laboring men that if we win we will amend the anti-trust law so as to take the labor organization out from under the operation of that law, now come these heads of railroads to tell their employes that if they dare to ask for relief from this anti-trust law, they will be punished by a reduction of wages.

"We say in our platform that if we win we will limit the writ of injunction so that a labor dispute will not in itself be a sufficient ground for the issuance of that writ, that there must be something done; there must be conditions that would justify that writ, even if there were no labor disputes before it shall be used in such a dispute, and now come the heads of these great corporations, notifying these men if they dare to ask for relief from this writ of injunction, under those circumstances, they will be punished by a reduction of wages."

Why Take Rheumaline?

The person about to select a medicine for the relief of their Rheumatism may regard it as strange that so large a proportion of the residents of Duluth and Superior representing rich and poor alike, are engaged in this same quest. The conditions briefly are these: Every mouthful of food contains some Uric Acid. The basis of all Rheumatism is Uric Acid. The medicine that relieves Rheumatism therefore must be a perfect Uric Acid Solvent. All claim this, but few are.

Rheumaline is a perfect Uric Acid Solvent and it does not ask you to rely solely on its statement, but offers you absolute proof not in a far away foreign city, but right here in Duluth and Superior. Read what Mr. James Green says and don't take it for granted, but go and see him. Prove this assertion and then if you are only half convinced, write to The Rheumaline Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio, and they will offer you still more proof that cannot help but batter down the most obstinate skepticism.

The Rheumaline Co.,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Dear Sirs: I have had rheumatism off and on for the last three years. Since last spring, I have been troubled most and have tried everything I heard of. A short time ago, I bought five bottles of what was reputed to be a "sure" cure, but it failed to give me any relief. I heard of what your Rheumaline Treatment was doing for other people locally, and decided to try it. Allow me to say I'm not sorry, as I could hardly believe it when I began to feel better within the first week. It is doing the work and if I had started four or five months ago, it would have saved me a good deal of money in the time I have lost from work and money spent for other medicines. I gladly recommend it. Respectfully, JAMES GUNN, 716 Seventh Street.

Rheumaline cures because it goes to the seat of all kinds of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Gout or any blood or organic disorders arising from Uric Acid. Its cost is $1.00 per bottle. Rheumaline Capsules cost 50c per box. These two form a Rheumaline Treatment and should be taken together. The liquid for Rheumatism; the capsules for Pain. One important thing in taking Rheumaline, is the bowels. They must be kept open, not by salts or the ordinary cathartic, but by Rheumaline Tablets which are soothing, easy and effective, causing no cramping or griping. Their cost is 25c per box. These three may be procured at The Lyceum Pharmacy. Get the treatment today. It removes the cause.

President, in Letter to Senator Knox, Says Labor Leader Has Despotic Ambitions, and Demands That Commoner Tells Where He Stands on Issues Directly Affecting Workmen.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Charging President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor with being despotic in his ambitions, declaring that the remedies for labor problems proposed by the Democratic platform are shams and asserting that Bryan refuses to discuss his own labor plank (this last despite repeated speeches by Bryan on that very plank) President Roosevelt has sent a letter to United States Senator Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania. The letter of which the following is part, being called forth by the senator's address at the Republican rally in the Philadelphia Academy of Music, Tuesday night:

"In your admirable speech of yesterday you speak of the action of Mr. Bryan and certain gentlemen claiming to be the special representatives of organized labor, foremost among them Mr. Gompers, to secure the support of laboring men for Mr. Bryan on consideration of this agreement to perform certain acts nominally in the interest of organized labor which would be really either wholly ineffective or else of widespread injury, not only to organized labor, but to all decent citizens throughout this country.

"Mr. Gompers asserts that the judiciary of this country is destroying democratic government and substituting for it an irresponsible and corrupt despotism in the interest of corporate power; and he further makes clear that the means by which he believes this alleged despotism has been set up in the place of democracy is by the process of injunction in the courts.

"His statement makes clear an important plank in the Bryan platform which has heretofore seemed puzzling to a vast number of earnest minded, thinking people. That plank reads:

"'Questions of judicial practice have arisen especially in connection with industrial disputes. We deem that the parties to all judicial proceedings should be treated with rigid impartiality, and that injunctions should not be issued in any cases in which injunctions would not issue if no industrial dispute were involved.'

"This is the plank that promises the 'remedy' against injunctions which Mr. Gompers asked of Mr. Bryan's party. In actual fact it means absolutely nothing; no change of the law could be based on it; no man without inside knowledge could foretell what its meaning would turn out to be, for no man could foretell how any judge would decide in any given case, as the plank apparently leaves each judge free to say when he issues an injunction in a labor case whether it is a case in which an injunction would issue if labor were not involved.

Says Bryan Is Mute.

"Mr. Bryan failed in his letter of acceptance to discuss this labor plank of his party's platform. So far as I am aware he has failed to discuss it since. There should be such discussion as a matter of common fairness, not only to labor, but to all citizens alike. On a question of such grave consequence the people are entitled to know where Mr. Bryan stands.

"Mr. Taft has repeatedly explained exactly where he stands in the matter of regulating injunctions. Are we not entitled to know with equal clearness exactly where Mr. Bryan stands? Mr. Gompers' public statements as to what his party has promised make it imperative that Mr. Bryan declare himself.

"Does Bryan believe with Gompers that he and that part of the labor movement that agrees with him has the right morally, and should be given the right legally, to paralyze or to destroy with impunity the business of an innocent third person, against whom he or they have no direct grievance, simply because this third person refuses to join with them aggressively in a labor controversy, with the real merits of which he may be utterly unacquainted, because he refuses to class as his enemy any and every other employer whom they point out as their enemy, because he refuses, merely upon their peremptory order, to excommunicate some other employer by ceasing all business relations with him?

"No court could possibly exercise any more brutal, unfeeling, or despotic power than Mr. Gompers claims for himself and his followers in this legislation, which would permit them, without hindrance of any kind, to carry on every form and degree of the secondary boycott.

"Does Mr. Bryan agree with Mr. Gompers that all existing legal restraint on the enforcement of every degree of the boycott should be withdrawn; that the industrial excommunication of the innocent merchant, who refuses to render unquestioned obedience to the orders of Mr. Gompers, should be legalized and encouraged; or does he believe with us and with Mr. Mitchell and other labor leaders who differ with Mr. Gompers in this matter, that this form of the boycott is morally wrong, that labor at war should fight with its enemies, and respect the rights of neutrals; that innocent third parties should not be coerced into taking sides in industrial disputes to which they are in no sense parties, under penalty of having their business attacked and destroyed?

With Bryan's Consent?

"Mr. Gompers, now Mr. Bryan's open and avowed ally, has, in the letter herein quoted, attacked the federal courts in unmeasured terms of reproach because, by a long line of decisions, the equity courts have refused to make an outlaw of the business man, because his right to carry on a lawful business under the peace of the law has been protected by the process of injunction because in a word, one of the most vital and most fundamental rights of the business world, the right of a business man to carry on his business, has been sustained and not denied by the processes of the courts of equity. This sweeping attack of Mr. Gompers upon the judiciary has been made in a frank and open effort to secure votes for Mr. Bryan. Are these attacks made with Mr. Bryan's consent?

"Mr. Bryan has frankly questioned Mr. Taft during the progress of this campaign, and very properly so, asking him to make clear his stand on public matters on which the public were entitled to be enlightened. In turn, with equal frankness and with equal propriety Mr. Bryan should be asked to break a long continued silence and make definite and certain his own position in regard to a matter which concerns not only business men and every decent law-abiding citizen, whether a wage worker or not, just as much as it concerns Mr. Gompers and despotism in the interest of corporate power; and he further makes clear that the means by which he believes this alleged despotism has been set up in

A. H. Price Gets Personal Opinion From the Commoner.

A. H. Price of Milwaukee has been told by William Jennings Bryan that Mr. Bryan is confident of being the next president of the United States.

Mr. Price is a commercial raveler from Milwaukee. He is an old friend of Mr. Bryan's. Last week he met the commoner upon his campaign tour, and Mr. Bryan, in a talk over the political situation informed Mr. Price that he was confident of being elected president.

Mr. Price met Mr. Bryan in his tour of Iowa. He says that Bryan received an ovation everywhere he went. He said that Bryan informed him that he expected to carry Iowa. He believes he will carry Iowa and enough votes in the East to assure his election.

Mr. Price says that Bryan is the picture of confidence and believes that there is no question of the way the election on Nov. 3 will go.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, OCT. 25. Psalm 32; The Joy of Forgiveness.

By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

THE CONNECTION.

David must have lived for several months, perhaps a year, under the heavy clouds of sin, unconfessed and unforgiven. He had made a reluctant confession to Nathan, the prophet, but none to God. In Psalm 51 we learn something of his penitence in this psalm the joy of God's forgiving grace.

THE LESSON.

I.

"Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered.

"Blessed is the man unto whom the Lord imputeth not iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no guile.

"When I kept silence, my bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long.

"For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me; my moisture is turned into the drought of summer. Selah.

"I acknowledged my sin unto thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid. I said, I will confess my trasgressions unto the Lord; and thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin. Selah."

1. Present Beatitude.

It is great in view of the greatness of his sins. It had taken three words to express it—"transgression," which means a breaking over law, therefore rebellion; "sin," which means to miss the mark; "iniquity," meaning a "twist." All these were in David's sin; all these were in his confession, in psalm 51, for in that he said, "I acknowledge my transgressions and my sin is ever before me;" all these are in his memory now, as they make him feel how great has been God's forgiveness. The beatitude of the forgiven sinner is great in view of the way God dealt with these sins. As to the transgression, it was forgiven, "sent away"—away from God's record, away from God's mind, away from David's heart. As to the sin, it was "covered" as some hideous thing from view. And as to the iniquity, it is no longer imputed to him. All this was possible, because the soul of David had repudiated the sins so that God could forgive or send it away, cover it up, and impute a better thing to him. And David repudiated his sins because God led him to do so.

The beatitude is based on being forgiven and also on possessing a conscience clean and clear. The effect of God's mercy is to make one free from the guile or deceit which seek to cover up sin.

2. The Past Horrors.

Verses 3 and 4 tell that. His conscience was awakened and was torturing him. At first he seemed to be callous, and sin followed sin with quickened pace. Then his soul awoke, but during the year that followed he "kept silence" and would not speak the confession which his conscience demanded. He refused to confess it even to himself, much less to others or to God. There is no pain like the stings of conscience. His appetite left him; his nerves became jangled; his digestion was impaired; he became old. His body seemed to decay, as he expresses it in the phrase "my bones waxed old." His life was a mourning or roaring—constant and pitiful. It was mourning by day and heaviness day and night. Sleep deserted him. That state is described by a tree, withered to its root by the long unrelieved drouth. His body suffered with his spirit, tortured and withered from unconfessed sin. He sees now that it was God's hand on him to bring him to himself.

3. Instantaneous Relief.

There came a moment when it was confession or probably a still worse condition—insanity, suicide or more murders. At last he determined to make the confession, and that moment God began to forgive and comfort him; "Before they call will I answer them." When the confession was fully made the full joy came. He did nothing. He was forgiven all. When he was willing to uncover his sin to God, God was ready to cover it up again, but in a way to destroy it. God cannot forgive unless we confess, for how could He send it away from a heart that does not think it has anything to be sent away. Some of the results of sin remained. He suffered in his own family from evils corresponding to those he committed. His sins had started a train of evils that could not be stopped, though he started no more such evil influences or agencies.

II.

The Penitent's Ministry to Others. 6-11.

"For this shall every one that is godly pray unto thee in a time when thou mayest be found: surely in the floods of great waters they shall not come nigh unto him.

"Thou art my hiding place; thou shalt preserve me from trouble; thou shalt compass me about with songs of deliverance. Selah.

"I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go: I will guide thee with mine eye.

"Be ye not as the horse, or as the mule, which have no understanding: whose mouth must be held in with bit and bridle, lest they come near unto thee.

"Many sorrows shall be to the wicked: but he that trusteth in the Lord, mercy shall compass him about.

"Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice, ye righteous: and shout for joy, all ye that are upright in heart."

Recall the promise he made God to teach others and to celebrate His praise. Here are exhortations for all men, as he sets forth the blessedness of being forgiven.

1. An Inspiring Example.

Every one whom God loves may take courage from David's experience to pray when in trouble. The prayer for forgiveness or strength, must be confident, for here is an example: it must be timely, for there is a time of finding, and it is before God's mercy is entirely worn out.

2. Safety in God.

That safety is set forth under several striking and beautiful figures, expressing the perils and sorrows of life, but in those perils God is the help of those who find Him.

There is one who is imperiled as by a flood, that flows down the hillsides into the stream that rises higher and higher, but he is safe on a high rock or in some cavern away up toward the top of the hill. In the East, the rains upon the mountains send down streams so suddenly that if one encamp in the dry bed of the river at night, he may be swept away before morning. But the flood of sin does not reach the one who has found God.

There is the one hunted by his enemies, who are too many, too swift and too watchful for him. To that one God is a hiding place, which they can never penetrate, and besides He gives them songs of deliverance, songs that are like armed guards which his enemies cannot break through. "The joy of the Lord is your strength," spoke the prophet Nehemiah. There is safety in songs, because they but express the strength of the joy of salvation within. David speaks this exhortation in the form of a tribute to God for preserving him in that way. Perhaps he had in mind his own life, when he found safety in the caves of his native land.

There are the perils of life's journey over an unknown road and David represents God as saying "my two eyes do shepherd thee."

3. The Sacred Choice.

This guidance is not by force and constraint, as in the case of animals, who must be compelled, by "bit and bridle," but it is of their own accord. Their constraint must be that of love and confidence. Because they have "no understanding" these animals must have force used on them, but David exhorts us to be not like them. When one is like a horse or mule, he must be severely dealt with, to bring him back to God. David had been driven to God by the pangs of conscience, and the bitter fruits of sin. Compulsory obedience is not the highest, yet one must sometimes first be driven that he may afterward be drawn to God.

They are exhorted to trust in God rather than follow their own way, because not to trust God is to be wicked, and the contrast here is between the two classes, the wicked and those who trust Him; because to trust Him is to avoid the sorrows that come to the wicked, because a loving mercy always encompasses the trustful.

The closing words, in which he calls on all the righteous to rejoice, are the echo of his own exultant joy of forgiveness.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

I once heard an old fellow say in prayer-meeting, after he had "put straight" some miserable thing he had done crookedly, "I feel so good it just makes me want to sin, that grace may abound." It is this same emotion that makes it so sweet for lovers to patch up in their quarrels. The rush of the emotions of two hearts (one offended and the other offending) when pardon has been asked and granted is ecstasy. And how seldom it is really experienced! How few people are actually sorry enough to be penitent! How few are magnanimous to forgive! It is the magnanimity of God that makes me adore Him!—Goss.

It was a great truth that the writer discovered when he declared that his experience would be of help to others. If others have been blessed we can be. If othrs have been saved the door is still open to us. If the love of God has dowered some other life, there is nothing in its gift that we cannot have. This experience was written for our learning, that we, through patience and comfort of the Scriptures, might have hope.—J. R. Brown.

POINTS TO IMPRESS.

1. That the joy of being released from the prison house of sin is very great.
2. That God, and not we, must cover up our sins.
3. That "if we put off repentance another day we have a day more to repent of and a day less to repent in."
4. That if we cannot come to Christ with repentance, we can come for repentance.
5. That sin concealed is soon revealed.
6. That the body shares in the blessedness or dreariness of the soul.
7. That the repentant sinner helps sinners to repent.

SUFFRAGE CASE TO THE HIGHEST COURT

New York, Oct. 22.—The United States supreme court will now be called on to say whether, if a woman is a voter in national elections in one state, she should not be allowed to vote when residing in another state. The case of Dr. Julia Seton Sears, who has voted in Colorado in elections and now claims the same right in New York, but who, a New York court has decided, cannot vote in that state, is to be taken to the highest tribunal, and Lady Francis Cook, the famous English woman suffragist has placed her lawyers, Coudert Brothers, at the disposal of Dr. Sears.

TOLSTOI IS FOR BRYAN

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 22.—Replying to a letter from Ryerson Jennings of this city, who asked him his views on the coming American election, Count Tolstoi, the Russian novelist, writes:

"In answer to your letter of Aug. 24, I can sincerely say that I wish Mr. Bryan success in his candidature to the presidency of the United States.

"From my own standpoint, repudiating as it does all coercive government, I naturally cannot acquiesce with the position of the president of the republic, but since such functions still exist it is obviously best they should be occupied by individuals worthy of confidence.

"Mr. Bryan I greatly respect and sympathize with, and know that the basis of his activity is kindred to mine in his sympathy with the interests of the working masses, his anti-militarism and his recognition of the fallacies produced by capitalism.

"I do not know, but hope Mr. Bryan will stand for land reform according to the single tax system of Henry George, which I regard as being, at the present time, of the most insistent necessity, and which every progressive reformer should place to the fore."

ON THE IRON RANGES

MANY HOMES ARE BEING ERECTED

Considerable Building in Eveleth Despite So-called Hard Times.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many new houses have been put up in Eveleth during the past year, even with the cry of hard times on all sides. This is due mostly to the fact that labor was not so high and lumber not so costly. Some new and expensive houses have been built, while some are now in the process of construction. Jacob Saari is erecting a building to cost in the neighborhood of $4,000, Mr. Perlman one for $4,500, August Perry one for $3,000, while a number of smaller residences have been put up, ranging in cost from $500 to $4,000.

Messrs. W. D. Freeman, W. R. Van Slyke and Walter Bergh are planning on putting up three six-room frame residences under one roof and with common walls. The cost is not yet estimated. Other people are planning on putting up residence houses in the spring. Most of these will be modern, as those on streets having sewers will have to have them joined to their plumbing system, while the same condition will be imposed on those who will build on those streets in which sewers are now being put in.

BUYS FRUIT FARM.

Ald. Laviolette of Virginia Makes Western Purchase.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alderman James Laviolette has returned from his visit to Yakima valley in Washington, where he purchased a large orchard. The land consists of seventy-four acres. It has eighteen acres of bearing orchard, but Mr. Laviollette intends to set ten acres more to trees. For the unimproved land he paid $350 per acre and for the improved he paid $700 per acre. The property is situated three miles from North Yakima and is considered a good purchase. Mr. Laviollette and family do not intend to remove to Washington for another year at least.

SAYS KELLY THREATENED.

Hibbing Man Asks That He be Put Under Bonds.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. J. Kelly, commonly known as "Cornerpost" Kelly, was arraigned in municipal court Wednesday on complaint of August Toettcher, who claims that Kelly threatened to do him great bodily harm. Mr. Toettcher wants Kelly placed under bonds to keep the peace. His hearing was set for this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

LET CONTRACT FOR BRIDGE.

Joliet Bridge & Iron Company to Erect Beaver Creek Span.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lake county board of commissioners in session here has awarded the contract for the construction of the steel bridge across Beaver creek in Beaver Bay township, to the Joliet Bridge & Iron company, for $2,550, the work to be completed in a few weeks.

Three hundred dollars was appropriated to build a new road northwest of Two Harbors in that township for the settlers, who are rapidly filling up that section of the country.

For the extension of a road in the northern part of the city of Two Harbors, the sum of $500 was appropriated.

H. D. Hanson, superintendent of road and bridge construction, reported the completion of the repairs on the state road, the cost of which was $1,502.01, of which amount Silver Creek township will pay $500. Four applications for liquor licenses were rejected.

BOYCOTT TELEPHONE CO.

Indignant Biwabik Subscribers Are Taking Out Thier 'Phones.

Biwabik, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Incensed at the action of the Mesaba Range Telephone company in charging tolls between here and Aurora, about forty of the sixty local subscribers of the company have instituted a boycott and ordered out their phones.

It is claimed the imposition of a toll on calls between here and Aurora is the beginning of a plan to charge tolls between all range towns, which patrons claim is an imposition, because they are in a sense on local system. An independent telephone company system to co-operate with the Mesaba Rapid Transit company is being agitated among residents of Biwabik, Aurora and other range towns.

Eye Strain Headache

Women who use their eyes much for reading or fine needlework are sure to find eye strain and nervous, sick headaches among the first symptoms when the nervous system gets run down.

As a positive cure for headaches, not mere relief but cure, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills stand without a rival, because they get at the cause of the trouble and build up the nervous system to health and strength.

Mrs. K. Kramer, 31 Summit street, Toledo, Ohio, states: "My trouble was good, hard, nervous, sick headaches and neuralgia of the eyes, all due to a run-down system. I heard of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and obtained splendid results from their use. The headaches and neuralgia dissappeared when my system was built up; the nerves are steady and my whole system wonderfully benefited."

STRIPPING IS ON AT ADAMS MINE

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 22—(Special to the Herald.)—The Adams stripping has started; tracks have been laid and a water tank and other necessaries erected. The stripping will go over considerable work that was done in the underground and open pit systems.

The approach to the ore which lies in the neighborhood of the No. 4 shaft will be through the old No. 1 pit. Two shovels are already at work. The one on the west end of the work is near the No. 4 shaft and is on high ground, while the other on the west end of the proposed cut is working in the old dump which is on low ground.

The operations go over the oldest part of the Adams property, and when completed the resulting open pit will be about a mile long after it connects with the No. 4 milling pit. This milling pit was opened up about five years ago northwest of the No. 4 shaft and during the past two years the work has extended westward with large improvements. The strippings that come from the work just started will be dumped over the caved ground worked out from No. 5.

The houses on the Adams location that have been started recently are almost completed. There are about twenty-five and these with those completed last year will make room for a number of people holding responsible positions with the mining company who now live in the city. These new houses are situated northwest of the old Adams location and will probably be known as Adams location No. 2. Andrew Grande, who also has the job for putting up the "dry" at the Spruce mine, has the contract for the houses and it will be finished shortly, so as to be ready before winter sets in.

Dr. and Mrs. John H. Crowe have returned from Davenport, Iowa, where they had been to attend the wedding of the former's sister.

E. A. Malmgren, cashier of the Peninsula bank at Ishpeming, who died in Minneapolis Monday, was a brother of Dr. C. W. Malmgren, of this city. All soon recovered and the reverend gentleman will be able to fill the pulpit at the Methodist church next Sunday.

Editor and Mrs. D. E. Cuppernull gave a wild duck dinner to a number of friends at their home on Maple street, last evening.

MILLER AT EVELETH.

Large Audience Listens to Duluth Man.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large audience greeted C. B. Miller of Duluth last night at the Vail hall. He was preceded by James P. Boyle, who recently came to this city.

Mr. Miller dwelt for some time on the national candidates, giving a glowing tribute to Bryan as a man, but called him a theorist. The guarantee of bank deposits as advocated by the Democrats came in for a good share of criticism. He said that it would hurt the credit of the government to have such an obligation as that on its head, and that it would foster "wild cat" banking, as then depositors would not have to look into the affairs of a bank so much, as they would know their money was safe. He also discussed state issues.

Vivian Prince, chairman of the local Republican committee, had charge of the meeting.

Jacob Jacobson will be here on Tuesday, instead of today, as formerly announced.

First Sermon Sunday.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Robert C. Johnson, who was assigned to this district by the Methodist Episcopal conference at Litchfield, will preach his first sermon here on Sunday. The quartet will render special music.

Drunkards Create Disturbance.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A couple of drunkards created some disturbance the other night when they tried to gain entrance into the houses of C. E. Bailey and George Schneider. In both places the women in the house were first aroused, and when their husbands went to see what was the trouble, they found only a drunkard. The man who entered C. E. Bailey's house was arrested and dealt with in the municipal court, while the other was kicked out of the house. He was not so intoxicated as the one who appeared in court.

AURORA WOULD OWN ITS PLANT

Turns Down Proposition to Grant Electric Light Franchise.

Aurora, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The electric light franchise petition by C. E. Moore came up for its second reading at the council meeting last night. Several of the citizens expressed their views on the matter. Trustee Rashleigh made a few remarks on the franchise and compared what it offers with what the village might do itself. He stated and showed figures to the effect that the village could put in its plant for $8,000. He placed the revenue from the plant at $534 per month. The expense of operating the plant was estimated at $400 per month, which would leave a balance of $134 per month, or $1,608 per year. Six per cent on $8,000 is $480, leaving a yearly profit of about $1,200. He stated that even at the present time the figures showed that the village could operate a plant at a fair profit, which in ten years would pay for the plant.

Amid the cheers of the spectators present, Mr. Rashleigh moved that the ordinance granting the franchise be voted against, and the motion carried by a vote of 4 to 1.

The contract for putting the water main in on Third avenue west was awarded to the Aurora Hardware & Furniture company at $879.

Attorney Lawrence and Engineer Dorway were authorized to secure a 99-year lease from J. E. Longyear of the land the sewer runs through.

MANY HEAR HAYWOOD.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large audience gathered at the opera house last night to hear William Haywood, former secretary-treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners speak in support of the candidacy of Eugene V. Debs and Socialism in general.

The speaker did not mince words in discussing President Roosevelt, Taft, Bryan and other figures in the campaign giving vent to several caustic expressions with reference to them.

The man who was tried and acquitted of being in a conspiracy to kill Governor Steunenberg of Idaho is a speaker of no little ability and at times received liberal applause. His criticism of President Roosevelt for classing him as "undesirable" when he was in jail awaiting trial was very caustic.

AURORA PURCHASES VILLAGE HALL SITE.

Aurora, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aurora's dream of a city hall has come true. The village council, at their meeting last night, authorized the purchase of lots 12, 13 and 14, in block 4, for this purpose, the price being $1,205. Several architects are being notified to submit plans for a $15,000 building, and work will be begun as soon as the plans are accepted.

The matter has been hurried along, owing to the condemning of the village jail, it being thought wise to have the jail and hall together. The hall will be built of brick, with a concrete foundation.

The groom is an employe of the Swan River Logging company and the bride was cashier at Zant's emporium for some months.

Deer River, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. C. Lane of Deer River has gone to Duluth to receive treatment for wounds sustained in a peculiar manner Tuesday. While hunting ducks on Lake Wabena, seventeen miles north of here, he was accidentally shot. His gun lay in the bottom of the boat he was using, and his dog becoming excited over the quarry, stepped on the trigger, setting off the weapon. Considerable shot entered Mr. Lane's arm and breast, and although the wounds are painful, they are not considered dangerous, his heavy clothing having protected him from the full force of the charge.

SUSPENDED FROM FORCE

Officer Sullivan Admits He Did Not Pursue Burglars.

Mayor Relieves Him From Duty Pending an Investigation.

Because Patrolman W. P. Sullivan is claimed to have shown lack of courage in failing to pursue one of the men who burglarized the store of Morterud & Koneczny, at Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, early yesterday morning, he will probably be dropped from the police force. After hearing Sullivan's story yesterday, Mayor Haven suspended him, and if further investigation warrants the move, he will be dropped entirely. The mayor was forced to go to Hibbing this morning, and he will take the case up on his return.

The story Sullivan himself told Chief Troyer and Mayor Haven is said to have been responsible for his own downfall. According to the chief, Sullivan said that he did not follow one of the burglars, who walked down Twentieth avenue west and along the Wisconsin Central tracks, because he feared for his own safety and didn't want to take any chances.

According to the reports, Sullivan said that about 2 o'clock in the morning he noticed several men cross and recross Superior street, at Nineteenth avenue west, while he was standing at Twentieth avenue west. He said he walked toward Nineteenth avenue west and, when about midway in the block, he noticed the large lights in the store of Morterud & Koneczny burning. He walked back, suspecting something was wrong, and went around to the alley, but did not penetrate as far as the back door, which, it was afterwards discovered, had been broken by the burglars. There were two men across the street in a lunch wagon, but he did not call upon them, he said.

Sullivan said that after a time a man came from the direction of the store with an umbrella and a suit case. He walked down Twentieth avenue, and the officer followed as far as the Wisconsin Central tracks, where the man disappeared in the darkness. Sullivan did not follow. Sullivan then called up headquarters, and asked the operator to have Officer Sass report at Twentieth avenue west and Superior street when he rang in. Sass joined Sullivan about three-quarters of an hour later, and they made an examination, finding the back door broken.

After the chief had heard Sullivan's story, he took him to Mayor Haven, where the recital was repeated. The mayor suspended the officer, preferring not to take summary action until he could make a further investigation. The mayor and the chief both think that Sullivan was lax in his duty, as he certainly knew that something was wrong, and should have examined the door of the store when he first went into the alley. They also think that he should have followed the burglar, regardless of his own safety. He was armed and might have called on the men in the lunch wagon.

Sullivan received considerable notoriety at the time Maglolre Charbonnais was killed by Henry Bolot at West Duluth. The West Duluth police showed unwarranted laxity in dealing with the case, and Sullivan was one of those involved. He went to the Charbonnais house to arrest the murderer, and was met by the undertaker, who is said to have told him that Bolot was a good fellow and wouldn't run away. Whereupon, it was said at the time, Sullivan gave up his mission and returned to his beat, leaving the murderer sleeping soundly. Sullivan has been on the force since Nov. 2, 1906.

FLOATER FOUND IN THE HARBOR

Body of Unknown Man Picked Up Near Singer's Dock.

The body of an unknown man was found in the harbor near the north end of Singer's dock about 8 o'clock this morning.

The dead man was about 5 feet 10 inches in height. He was dressed as a laborer, wearing a dark suit of clothes. He had dark brown hair and a light brown mustache, and was evidently about 30 years of age.

The body was taken to Durkan & Crawford's morgue, where it is being held for identification.

This is the second floater that has been picked up within a week. The body of an unknown sailor was found a few days ago on the lake shore.

TWO VERDICTS ALMOST BALANCE

C. B. Burt $88.50 to the Good in His Two Suits.

C. B. Burt came out $88.50 to the good on verdicts for and against him in the suits brought by the Independent Brewing association of Chicago in district court. In the case, in which Mr. and Mrs. Burt were joint defendants, the court directed a verdict of $747.50 for the plaintiff. In the second suit, in which Mr. Burt was defendant and in which he put in a counter claim for over $15,000, the jury returned a verdict in his favor of $836.

The first suit was brought on a promissory note for $1,700, which Burt and his wife gave the brewing association to secure a loan last March. It was brought out in the evidence that Burt had paid $1,000 on the note, so the court directed a verdict for $700 and interest from the date of the note.

The second suit was a complicated affair. Burt claimed that the company had committed a breach of contract by failing to furnish him marketable beer, and that he was seriously damaged by his trade being ruined, so that he was deprived of the profits he would have received had the contract continued in force. Judge Dibell instructed the jury that they should find that Burt owed the company a sum, about $1,300, in payment for the goods received. Then, they should find the amount of Burt's damages by the breach of contract, if there were a breach, and they should find the difference between the sum Burt owed the company and the amount of the damages sustained by him, if any, making their verdict conform.

If you want a good Sunday dinner at reasonable cost—if you want to lay in a stock of eatables for next week—don't fail to read The Herald's Market Basket Friday night. It will have many hints as to the Saturday buying and tell you where you can make your money do the most, for you get the best goods for the lowest prices.

Duluth's reliable grocers and retail meat dealers are always found in The Herald's Market Basket list Friday night, and discerning housewives have the habit of watching for the announcements and profiting thereby on their Saturday shopping tours, or by telephone.

Duluth people are just as much interested in knowing the prices of their eatables as they are their clothes, shoes, hats, etc., and the dealers who are not afraid to advertise their prices are steadily increasing their trade. It's the fellows who will not advertise their prices that are losing the customers.

If you are undecided as to what you want for that Sunday dinner, the Market Basket always contains helpful suggestions. It keeps you posted relative to the things the groceries and the markets afford, and keeps you in touch with the current prices. If you don't believe you can save money by purchasing from the dealers that advertise their prices in The Herald's Market Basket, compare the quoted prices with those asked by your high-priced grocer or meat dealer.

It's well to bear in mind that The Herald's Market Basket always has the complete list of the advertising dealers.

INSISTS UPON SEEING PAPERS

Government Subpoenas Oil Trust Man, to Get Decision Records.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Counsel for the government surprised the defense by serving a subpoena upon a witness in the Standard Oil case before Judge Franklin Ferris, who had just left the stand, to appear forthwith before the examiner. The witness, H. C. Martin, chief of the tatriff bureau of the Grand Trunk had been asked by government counsel Frank B. Kellogg to produce certain division sheets governing the percentages which different railroads would receive under specified Grand Trunk tariffs.

On the stand the witness said he would produce the sheets if he could get them, they being under the control of superior officers. Attorney John S. Miller for Standard Oil made a vigorous protest against the subpoenaing of the witness, declaring the action of the government was unprecedented and unfair. Miller pointed out that the government precluded from placing witnesses on the stand in the hearing until Dec. 1, and that to require the immediate presence of the witness who had just left the stand, needed an explanation.

Kellogg asserted that once before the government had been under the necessity of issuing a subpoena for the production of papers in connection with the testimony of Mr. Collins of Cincinnati, and finally agreed that Mr. Martin should procure the division sheets before the close of the taking of testimony.

Before leaving the witness stand, Mr. Martin declared that he had issued a rate of twenty cents on oil shipped from Toledo to New England points by applying the Boston rates to the eastern towns. The division sheets applying in this tariff were the ones which Mr. Kellogg desired presented in evidence.

The meeting will be held in the office of A. W. Kuehnow, 303-304 Torrey building, and all baseball enthusiasts are invited to attend.

It is planned to send some representative to the meeting of the national commission in Chicago, to argue the Northern league's claims to entrance into the Twin Cities.

RACE TRACK SUPPORT OF CHANLER DENIED.

New York, Oct. 22.—Reports that race track interests and followers of racing were raising a fund of $500,000 to be used for the election of Lieut. Governor Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, are met with vigorous denial by State Chairman Connors and Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall.

Murphy says if any such fund is being raised he knows nothing of it and not a bit of it has reached Tammany Hall.

Chairman Connors characterized the report as the invention of the opponents of the Democratic party.

WENT TO RUSH LAKE.

Congressional Committee Looked Over Pulp Wood Growth.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Congressman John R. Mann and the other members of the congressional committee looking into the pulpwood supply and the making of paper, returned last night from the trip taken on the Duluth & Northeastern railroad into the dense pulpwood along the upper St. Louis river. The party went as far as Rush lake, about thirty miles north of Cloquet.

In the party with the committee were R. M. Weyerhaeuser of the Northern Lumber company; H. C. Horndy of the Cloquet Lumber company, and Superintendent John Gunlozey of the Duluth & Northeastern railroad. The committee left here last night for Duluth.

CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE.

Washburn Bank Seeks to Recover Money Taken by Swanby.

Washburn, Wis., Oct. 22.—A claim of $8,427.45 has been filed against the estate of Ole P. Swanby, former cashier of the Northern State bank, who committed suicide last February on account of shortage. The claim represents the amount of the defalcation and the bank will now endeavor to be made one of the creditors of the estate. There are other minor claims against the estate amounting to about $2,700 and there is also a mortgage of $3,000, so that the total amount of indebtedness will be about $15,000. Swanby was worth $3,629.45.

Brakeman Is Killed.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 22.—Andrew Michels, aged 31, a brakeman on the Isle Royale railroad, fell beneath the cars Wednesday and was killed.

SUES CONTRACTORS.

John A. Carlson Wants Pay From Lanquist & Illsley.

Claiming that he has money coming to him for work on a sub-contract let to him by the Lanquist & Illsley, contractors for the new St. Louis county courthouse, now in course of construction, John A. Carlson has brought suit in municipal court for $81.75.

The contractors claim that Carlson quit his work without notice, and that on account of that fact they were unable to get certain materials drawn from the cars in time to waive demurrage charges, and that therefore he should be paid only $44.78, the difference in the amount owed Carlson, and the demurrage charges.

Carlson refused to take the lesser amount as a settlement, and the case is on before Judge Windom. It will probably go to the jury today.

CONSERVE SOIL ENERGY.

Otherwise North Dakota Will Lose Its Productiveness.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 22.—(Special to the Herald.)—Conserve the energy of the North Dakota soil is the gospel being taught by President Worst of the North Dakota Agricultural college.

The president spent some months in Europe studying agricultural methods and is thoroughly imbued with the idea there must be changed conditions in this part of the northwest. He calls attention to the fact that North Dakota is dependent on the products of its soil and the lignite coal deposits. The increasing population and the growing demand for grain makes it imperative that the fertility and productive power of the grain growing sections of the United States must be improved rather than permitted to deteriorate. He insists on a better scientific training of the farmers of this section and increased and more intelligent efforts along agricultural lines.

TAFT SAYS NO BRIBERY

well as business men. Mr. Bryan's election will be a menace to prosperity. We may not, if he is elected, expect that business will be resumed with that flow and that current of prosperity that we have had for the last eleven years."

Repeats His Answer.

North Vernon, Ind., Oct. 22.—At Aurora, Mr. Taft repeated his answer to Mr. Bryan's charge that it is bribery on the part of Republican orators to tell working men that if Bryan is elected times will not be so good. "So long as I have lungs and a throat," declared Mr. Taft, "I propose to make that argument. It is legitimate argument, because it is a fact, and the laboring men have a right to have the truth told them."

"I am very glad to see you this morning, and to see you in such numbers; to see you in such good nature, and I hope I see you in enthusiastic support of the Republican party and the Republican ticket. I understand this is largely a farming community, and when I get into a community of farmers I feel as if they could convince me rather than I could convince them that the Republican ticket ought to be elected. If there is any farmer who can point out any reason why the present administration of Theodore Roosevelt for seven years, and the previous administration of William McKinley for five years, ought to be changed so far as the farming interests are concerned, I would like to have him do it. You can go back beyond that time when the farming interests were prostrated, but during these two administrations under the Dingley bill you had a market which kept farm prices up, and also the agricultural department has been devoting its attention to scientific agriculture, and has been pointing the way how to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before.

"You can and you ought to feel toward that Republican administration a spirit of gratitude, and you ought to help it continue its administrations to the farmers of the country."

the EVENING STORY

TWO OF A KIND

By C. E. Herring.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

"I'm dancing a paean of triumph. Dolly said yes tonight. She'll be down your way in the morning, so don't fail to congratulate her."

That was exactly what Dick wrote me, the letter arriving on the precise train which deposited Miss Caton in Bayhaven. I didn't, however, see her till after dinner, as she sat on the piazza looking quite enchanting in her celestially white garments, staring seaward with a gaze so melancholy as to be scarcely consonant with her late adventure.

Randall spied her at the same instant. "Did you know—?" I said; and, as he didn't, I proceeded to enlighten him. "It's all quite settled; Dick wrote me yesterday."

His eyes twinkled merrily. Randall vastly prided himself upon the pungency of his sense of humor; and I, being blissfully engaged to his sister, found it convenient to always concur in his estimate.

"Let's have a chat with her; although," he divined, "she doesn't appear in a particularly receptive mood."

"Religious, Dolly?" said I, with the gayety I felt the occasion ought to demand.

She looked up pensively. "What on earth are you doing here, Harold?"

"I'm not on earth." It was plainly my duty to cheer her up. "Wherever you are is paradise." I pressed my advantage: "Let's take a walk."

She readily assented, banishing after a moment of obvious hesitation, her lugubriousness in favor of the most brilliant of smiles. "Shall we walk by the sea? I adore the ocean, and with you beside me—"

I shot a sharply suspicious glance at her splendidly innocent countenance. That Dolly, after all the years I had known her, should now for the first time so virulently display the symptoms of the flirt! It was quite incredible, yet she was plainly—

"See the moon, Harold. Observe how tenderly the little moon beams kiss the murmuring waters!"

That decided me. Since she chose to be sportive, should I, even though a prospective benedict, play the prude? They also display their sense of beauty by kissing your murmuring lips," said I.

"Ah, how noble of you to admit it!" Having now passed safely beyond the hotel, she permitted me to annex her arm. "You're quite a man after my heart, dear Harold."

"While you, dearest Dolly, are a woman after my own soul," I magnificently retorted, venturing to squeeze her fingers.

"Under such felicitous circumstances we might really venture to share this rock together," she suggested, forthwith leading the way.

"Such an incomparable rock, too!" I cried. "We'll have to sit so close together because of its delightfully select proportions."

"And the dear moon smiles down so beautifully upon us; the little wavelets almost touch our feet." She faced me with radiantly mischievous eyes. "Ah, I could die here!"

"But wouldn't it be nicer," I thoughtfully suggested, "to live here?"

"Of course; you are so dear and practical! I'm just beginning to discover what a treasure-house you are—positively crammed with lovely jewels!"

"It's so sweet to be appreciated, at last," I softly concurred.

"Wouldn't you like to have something from my treasure-house?—let's say, a ring?"

"Oh, yes, indeed; I just love rings!" She was so ecstatic as to momentarily alarm me, but the thought of Dick was comfortably reassuring. "This is an ideal rock," she said. "See—it's all surrounded by water! What shall we do?"

"Wait, of course, till the tide goes down." I was almost indignant that she should contemplate a change of scene.

"I suppose I'll have to," she pouted. "I couldn't possibly walk through three inches of salt water." She beamed effulgently upon me. "And you—you're not very strong, are you?"

I hotly resented the accusation. "Look here, Dolly, are you actually guilty of wanting me to carry you across?" I burst out reproachfully.

"Oh, dear, no," she charmingly assured me. "I only thought you might want—and we's such old friends—but if you're really not strong enough—"

Obviously such a charge could not pass unrefuted. I picked her up, summarily ignoring her faintly perfunctory scream. Grandly sacrificing my shining pumps, I splashed through the chilly water, depositing her briskly enough on the dry sand.

"Ah, how splendidly you do it!" she cried, adding quite shamelessly: "So much better than most men—not a hint of clumsiness. But I presume it is the grasp of experience?"

Which insult, together with the disconsolate dripping of my drenched ankles, imbued me with a thirst for vengeance. It was clearly my prerogative to extract whatever compensation might lurk in my unsuspected knowledge of her approaching absorption by Dick.

"No," I said, solemnly; "it is the grasp of love."

"Ah—really!" She sat down, apparently quite stunned.

"What would you say, Dolly, if I were to tell you that I loved you madly, altogether desperately?" With which rhapsodical inquiry I dropped down beside her.

"I should say, dear Harold, that you were an even greater idiot than I always supposed," she opined, with twinkling eyes.

I pressed hotly on. "What would you say, dearest, if I asked you to marry me?"

"Ask me," she said, "and see."

"May I take your hand, then, my love?" I murmured, scenting no peril.

"Certainly, my darling. Any further way by which I can prove my affection?"

The moment had most propitiously come. I would ask her; she would, of course, refuse, would innocently tell me of Dick; whereupon, I would cruelly announce my base duplicity, and flee before her wrath.

"Your heart," I deeply sighed. "Give me your heart, precious. Let me have your soul—yourself."

"To be sure," she immediately responded. "I've been waiting an hour for you to ask me!"

"What!" The most horrible of fears attacked me. "You actually accepted me—me?"

"Yes; aren't you too happy?" She began to hum a most maddeningly cheerful song. "You asked me to marry you, and I've consented. I must go straight and tell mother." With which she hopped blithely up.

"Sit down," I thundered, wretchedly mopping my dripping brow. "You don't know what you're saying, Dolly; you—"

"Indeed I do," she insisted triumphantly. "Ah, we shall be so happy!"

I groaned supremely. "But I thought that it was Dick——"

"Dick!" She instantly suppressed the smile that so radiantly appeared. "Never mention his name to me again."

"Oh, Lord! Then," I tragically divined, "you've quarreled?"

"Yes—violently." She was shamefully lacking in regret. "Come on; let's announce the glad tidings. Ah, here's Mr. Randall, now!"

He was indeed most perilously beside us. "Not him—of all people," I hissed; then as she threw what seemed a suspicious glance:

"Your mother ought so eminently to know it first of all." I attempted a miserable smile. "Hello—Randall!"

Then, before I could half recover from the shock, they were strolling away together. So I bowed my foolish head, ground my teeth; and stumbled back to the hotel to find a letter awaiting me.

It was from her. With mingled joy and misery I devoured it, stared hard at the most alarming postscript.

I rushed to the telegraph office. "Don't come," I madly scratched. "Contagious disease here—smallpox, yellow fever, cholera. Don't come."

But what if Dolly had already imparted the sad intelligence to him, and he to her! The hours passed. My mind was in a quite chaotic whirl, my sense of humor hopelessly submerged.

I took out her picture. But the eyes looked back with a new, withering reproach. Dolly I began to hate, and as for Dick, I could cheerfully have punched his handsome head.

It was nearly midnight when I sought the solace of the beach, and found Randall there, pacing the sand with an air of deepest gloom.

"Well, did she tell you anything?" I breathlessly demanded.

"Did she?" He fastened upon me, voraciously. "Oh, I'm in the very devil of a scrape! You know, I'm engaged," he blundered on. "And—Look here, old man; suppose a fellow, thinking a girl's engaged to somebody else, proposes to her just as a joke, and she—accepts him! What's he to do?"

"Do!" I roared, with wild hilarity. "He's to thank his stars that there's another fool as big as himself in the world."

"What!" He gavorted about the sand for sheer joy. "Then we've both—"

"Let's wire your sister to come at once," I remembered.

"Don't need to." He grinned effulgently. "She's waiting now on the piazza."

"And Dick," I remarked, suddenly observing the most affectionate attitude of the approaching couple, "has evidently hastened to make his peace with Dolly."

"Nice, splendid Dick! Aren't you glad we escaped?" said he.

"Glad! When 'she' waits on the piazza?"

We solemnly shook hands on it.

Paris, Oct. 22.—The Aero club of France has decided to organize a big aeroplane meeting in the autumn of 1909, when the "Grand Prix d'Aviation" will be competed for. The value of this prize is $2,000, and there will be other awards. The course will be laid out over the flat country in the Champagne or Beauce region. The flights will be judged for both speed and duration.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Institution inquiry blanks have been sent out by the officers of the Duluth branch of the Needlework Guild to the many charitable institutions of the city and it is greatly desired that the blanks be filled out and returned as soon as possible to Mrs. H. W. Williamson of 2402 East First street. It is desired to send to each institution on the list of the Guild those garments which can be used to the greatest advantage, and the only way which this can be accomplished is by a prompt return of the slips in order that the committee may distribute the graments according to the needs.

The round-up of the Guild will be held Tuesday of next week at 115 East Superior street. All garments to be counted in with this year's contributions must be at the store room by Tuesday. The clothes contributed will be on exhibit Wednesday and upon the following day the distribution will take place.

There is this year even a greater interest in the charitable work of the Guild and many Duluth women who have never contributed before have expressed an interest and willingness to have a part in this world-wide charity. The round-up and distribution of garments will occupy the attention of many Duluth women next week.

SILVER-TAILED WHALE

A silver-tailed whale, a lineal descendant of the one that swallowed Jonah, has arrived at the Young Men's Christian association and will be a guest at the institution until the time of the circus, which will be held early in November. Interviews have been tabooed and only a select few of the committee in charge of the cidcus have been allowed to view and converse with the specimen of the finny tribe, which has been induced to come to the city. From all reports the whale is most affable and condescending and prefers the aquarium to the reading room. His disposition is such that none of the members who share the aquarium with him at certain times, fears being a second Jonah. This silver tailed whale seems to be bothered with no ambitions to make another record for the family.

Curiosity is by slow degree consuming most of the women of Duluth. Since the opening reception week at the new Y. M. C. A. building there have been no affairs at which the members have been hosts and to which women were invited. Th ecircus, of which a feature will be the silver-tailed whale, and which will be ono of the interesting events of early November, will be a well welcome opportunity to again call at the Y. M. C. A.

ART RECEPTION.

Delightful Affair is Held at the Studio.

It was a small but very delightful reception which was held yesterday afternoon at the Duluth Art school rooms on the third floor of the Washington school, when the board of managers received very informally the friends of the school and those interested in its progress. The heavy downpour of rain which came just between the hours of 3 and 6 kept many away who had planned to attend the tea, but the affair was much enjoyed by fifty or more guests who braved the weather. An interesting collection of Japanese prints was shown, those of Mrs. Bertha Bull Lum being especially enjoyed.

The tea table was prettily decorated in autumn leaves and presiding were Mrs. J. B. Adas and Mrs. Walter Turre.

The reception will not be repeated Saturday afternoon as at first planned.

Presented to Society.

One of the debutantes of the Minneapolis season is Miss Frances Passmore, who during the last summer was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Adams of this city and is known to many here. The debutante reception at which Miss Passmore was presented was held yesterday afternoon and the Minneapolis Journal says of it:

"Miss Frances Passmore was introduced to society this afternoon at a reception which her mother, Mrs. Reginald H. Passmore, gave at the Passmore residence on Clifton avenue. Four hundred invitations had been issued and the guests called from 3 to 5 o'clock. This evening Mrs. Passmore and Miss Passmore will receive from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock.

"The large library to the left of the entrance was a bower of red and green, and American Beauty roses in slender tall brass holders stood among palms and ferns. Mrs. Passmore and her daughter received alone in this room.

"Throughout the house were masses of flowers, which had been sent to the butante by friends. On the mantels stood dainty baskets with roses and in the diningroom, where frappe was served was a huge Japanese basket with long-stemmed American Beauty roses. The deep sideboard was also banked with trailing vines and pink chrysanthemums. Yellow and pink chrysanthemums prevailed in the den and found a place among the many interesting souvenirs of Mrs. Passmore's travels.

"The A. E. Martin residence, which adjoins that of Mrs. Passmore, was also thrown open and the refreshments were served in Mrs. Martin's large diningroom. Connecting the two houses was an awning-covered passageway from porch to porch. With its decorations of gold and red autumn leaves and softly-shaded electric lights is suggested a bright woodland path. Roses predominated in the diningroom. On the table was a basket with Killarney roses and around it were tall silver candle holders with rosebud-covered shades. Suspended under the sight lights were baskets with roses and nine rose-filled baskets were on the plate rails, while the buffet was a bank of pink roses, lilies of the valley and orchids."

Fashion Hints.

Have you seen the new one-button gloves?

Rajah is the ideal material for the motor coat.

An odd novelty is the white leather bag in which to carry the small lap dog.

Jet will be much worn the coming season. Necklaces and bracelets of yet are very smart.

Black mousseline gowns are wonderfully beautiful made up over brilliant brocade silk.

Dainty night caps of lace and ribbon and exquisite embroidery are a fancy of the very fashionable women.

Large waists are in fashion. Smart corset makers are even padding the waist to gain the desired effect.

Popular Sweaters.

The girls of this country have gone in heavily for sweaters.

They are part of the wardrobe of every college girl, and no trung packed for a vacation is complete without one.

If a girl wishes to follow out her predilections for any certain college she can wear a sweater in its colors.

The ordinary one is single-breasted, is loose like a sack and has plenty of pockets.

The old-fashioned one that went over the head has been discarded. The new one sent out by an English firm is in coat shape.

It comes halfway to the knees, is made of a dark tone that can be worn with any plaited skirt, is single-breasted and has a turnover black velvet collar.

The flaps of the pockets are also of velvet. The sleeves are finished with four-inch cuffs fastened down with velvet buttons.

This is to be widely worn this season for all country life, for traveling and all outdoor sports.

Silk Petticoats.

Silk petticoats are extravagant beyond words for all but women with large incomes—that is, for more than occasional wear. The cost of the garment is only half the expense—the other half comes in its short life. As a garment for the best wear and with the hems of ruffles reinforced with braid extending a bit below the edge it may figure in a modest wardrobe, but once worn the delight of a silk petticoat makes one impatient with inferior ones and therein lies the way to extravagance.

The economical woman makes a knee-length skirt of strong material like heatherbloom, sateen or some equally servicable cotton and fits it very carefully over the hips. By means of snap fasteners she attaches ruffles of various kinds and colors, deep and frilly ones that may ruatle to the heart's content. Generally, she makes two short skirts, white and black, and by means of various ruffles has a stock of petticoats whose total no more than covers the price of a good silk garment. If she is wise she makes the dust ruffle of something stronger than silk.

Tact! Tact! Tact!

A woman of tact is the one who feels that the story told to hurt your feelings is essentially bad form and inconsiderate of the feelings of others.

A woman of tact is a woman who is courteous to old people, who laughs with the young and who makes herself agreeable to all women in all conditions of life.

A woman of tact is the one who makes her "good morning" a pleasant greeting, her visit a bright spot in the day, and her "good-by" a hope that she may come again.

A woman of tact is one who does not gauge people by their clothes or their riches, but who condemns bad manners.

A woman of tact is one who is courteous under all circumstances and in every condition in which she may be placed.

A woman of tact is one whose love for humanity is second only in her life's devotions and whose watchword is unselfishness in thought and action with regard to others.

The "Capuchon."

It is piquant.

The latest of night headgear.

Its common garden name is a hood. And it comes in a dozen various disguises.

But "capuchon" is the term by which we will know it.

It is the same which the powdered beauty of the bath chair was wont to wear.

In nearly all cases it has a loop-like frame which will allow the display of the hair ornament.

It is always very roomy in the back, so as to accommodate the largest of English buns and Grecian curls.

The plainest of the "capuchons" are made of lace or chiffon caught up with a cluster of roses or held in place with a bow of ribbon.

But many of the most beautiful of these hoods are of taffeta bewitchingly arranged around the face with shirrings and ruchings.

At any rate, the girl and matron who wants to be effective will not disregard the opportunity afforded by this glorified evening sunbonnet which hails from Paris.

ATTACK THE INTERSTATE ACT

Union Pacific, Great Northern and Northern Pacific File Bills.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three amended bills of complaint were filed with the clerk of the United States circuit court here today by the Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and the Great Northern in the rate cases, alleging unconstitutionality of the interstate commerce act and the acts of congress under which the interstate commerce commission ordered a reduction in the freight rates on lumber from the Pacific coast, and also setting up the claims that the rates alleged to be excessive were justified by reason of the increase in the value of forest products, occasioned by the depletion of the forests, the increased value of southern yellow pine and of the white pine of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

The amended bills recite the tariff rates as enacted by the commission and prior to the order of the commission reducing the rates, and so to show that the enforcement of the reduced rates would entail a loss upon the railroads of 5 cents on 500 pounds and in some instances more.

WHEAT HAS FIRM TONE

Cash Market Very Strong in Northwest—Good Export Business.

Flax Actively Traded in Here and Closes Fractionally Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 22.—Wheat was on a firmer basis during all of the session today and closed with fractional gains over yesterday in all of the American markets.

The strength in the cash market, estimates of light Argentine shipments and a good demand from abroad were the principal influences for higher prices.

In this market, the premium for cash wheat advanced ½c, making No. 1 Northern 2½c over the December price. This fact and the corresponding strength in the options brought forth a lot of wheat from the country, which caused the market to ease off from the high point of the day, but the close was firm as compared with yesterday.

Liverpool closed ⅝d to 1⅞d higher, Berlin ¾c higher, Paris ¼c to ½c higher, Antwerp unchanged and Budapest 1c higher.

The December option closed ½c higher in Duluth and Chicago, ⅝c higher in Minneapolis and Kansas City, ¼c higher in New York, ¼@⅝c higher in St. Louis and ⅝c higher in Winnipeg. The May option closed ½d higher in Duluth and Winnipeg, ⅝c higher in Chicago, New York and St. Louis, ⅝c higher in Minneapolis and a shade higher in Kansas City.

December corn closed ⅜c lower in Chicago and ¼d to ½d higher in Liverpool. December oats closed ⅛c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—Firmness characterized the early dealings in wheat at which time values were ⅛d to ⅝d higher than yesterday with free covering of shorts in March and May. Strength was the result of the firmness in American cables yesterday, scarcity of first-hand offerings and lighter Argentine offerings. During the morning, the market further gained ¼d to ⅝d with speculators buying on the fact that shipments from Argentina are estimated at only half of what was expected and late reports confirming a 10 per cent damage as a result of the recent frost. Toward mid-day, there was a slight reaction on private advices reporting the weather warmer in Argentine. At this time, the market was still firm and from ⅝d to 1d higher than Wednesday.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,040,000 bus, last year 915,000 bus. Shipments 415,000 bus, last year 864,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 340,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 195,000 bus, last year 555,000 bus. Shipments 368,000 bus, last year 942,907 bus. Clearances of corn were 42,907 bus.

Wheat was active during the session in the Duluth market. December opened ½c higher at $1.02⅛, advanced to $1.02⅜, declined to $1.02¼, advanced and closed at that price, a gain of ⅛c over yesterday. May wheat opened ⅝c higher at $1.06, advanced to $1.06⅝ and declined by the close to $1.06⅜, a gain of ½c over yesterday.

Cash spring wheat was very strong, the premiums bulging ½c. It was selling on a basis of 2½c over December for No. 1 northern.

Durum wheat closed ⅝c higher.

Flax was very active and closed fractionally higher here. October flax opened ½c lower at $1.22½, advanced to $1.22⅞, declined to $1.22⅜, rallied to $1.23⅝ and closed at $1.23⅜, a gain of ⅜c over yesterday. November flax opened ½c higher at $1.24, advanced to $1.24½, declined to $1.23⅜, reacted to $1.24 and closed at $1.23⅝, a gain of ¼c over yesterday. December flax opened unchanged at $1.22½, advanced to $1.23⅜, declined to $1.23, rallied to $1.23⅞, declined to $1.22¾, rallied to $1.23 and closed at $1.22⅞, a gain of ⅜c over yesterday. May flax was particularly active throughout the session. May flax opened ½c higher at $1.27¼, advanced to $1.28, went as low as $1.26⅜, rallied to $1.27⅛ and closed at $1.27, unchanged from yesterday.

Oats closed ½c higher and other coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, on track, $1.05⅛; to arrive, No. 1 northern, $1.04⅝; No. 2 northern, $1.02⅝; on track, No. 1 northern, $1.04⅝; No. 2 northern, $1.02⅝; December, $1.02¼; May, $1.06⅛; November, $1.03⅜; October, $1.03⅝; durum on track, No. 1, 92½c; No. 2, 90½c; October durum, 91¾c; November durum, 92c; December durum, 88c; May durum, 91¾c. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Advance in London Imparts Strong Tone to Wheat.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—An advance of nearly 1d in the price of wheat at Liverpool imparted a strong tone to the local market at the opening, initial quotations showing gains of ⅞c to ⅛@⅝c compared with the previous close. The Argentine situation was again a dominating influence. An estimate made by a well-known crop statistician of the amount of wheat to be shipped from the South American country this week showed a marked falling off, and this, together with fresh reports of damage by frost in that country induced quite general buying here. Weather conditions in this country were more favorable for fall plowing. December opened at 99⅝c to 99⅞c and advanced to $1@1.00⅛. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 601 cars against 873 cars last week and 376 cars a year ago.

Prices advanced still further later in the day. December selling up to $1.00⅛. During the last hour, however, the market lost some of its bullishness, but the close was firm, with December up ½c at 99⅞c.

Trade in corn was light, but the market was firm, owing chiefly to the strength of wheat. Wet weather in the corn belt also exerted a bullish effect. Prices at the start were unchanged to ⅛c higher with December at 63⅜c to 63⅝c. Later December sold at 63⅜@63⅞c. Local receipts were 88 cars with 37 of contract grade.

A weak tone developed during the last part of the session and prices declined fully ½c on profit taking. The low point for December was reached at 63¼c. The close was weak at almost the lowest point, December being off ⅝c at 63⅛c.

Oats were in fairly active demand by commission houses and in consequence the market was firm. December opened ⅛c to ¼c higher at 47⅜c to 47⅝c and for a time held within the opening range. Local receipts were 124 cars.

Provisions were easy, owing to realizing sales brought out by yesterday's sharp advance. An advance in live hogs seemed to have little effect. Prices at the start were unchanged to 7½c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

December Wheat Makes Another Gain, Early in Day.

Minneapolis, Oct. 22.—Not only were cables stronger and ¾d higher to open, but on second advices they were ¾d to a full penny higher, and Liverpool at the close was ⅞@1⅛d higher. This started our market strong and additional to the good advance of yesterday December wheat made another gain shortly after the opening. The weather at home was rainy, but to the time the market opened there had been no relief in Indiana, Ohio or other dry states East. The Argentine news told of unfavorable weather and damage of probably 10 per cent to the growing crop. Minneapolis, although showing an increase in stocks of 1,250,000 bus for five days, received today less wheat than a year ago, for the first day in a long time of 254 cars against 288. Duluth got 279 against 216, Winnipeg 479 and 356. Near the close the heavy selling forced December back to a close just under $1.02. December opened at $1.02; high, $1.02⅜@1.02⅝; low, $1.01⅞; close, $1.01⅞. Old December closed at $1.02. May opened at $1.06⅜@1.06⅝; high, $1.06¾; low, $1.05⅞; close, $1.05⅞@1.06.

Cash wheat premiums gained fractionally and No. 1 northern was firm at 2½c over December with choice 2⅝ at 2¾c over. No. 2 northern got clear of the December prices and sold at ½c over for everything while the selections of No. 2 went at ⅜@1c over. Close: No. 1 northern spot, $1.04⅛; to arrive, $1.04⅛; No. 2 northern, spot, $1.02⅛@⅜, to arrive, $1.02⅛; No. 3 wheat, 97c@$1.01; No. 3 yellow corn, 74¾c. No. 3 white oats, 44⅝c. No. 2 rye, 69⅜@70⅞c.

Barley receipts 60 cars against 106 last year; shipments 86. Prices were ½@1c up for malting and 1@1½c up for feed grades. Close, 48@57c.

Millstuffs. shipments, 1,809 tons. Firmer in tone, but quotably about the same; millers quoting $17.50@18.00 for bran in bulk.

Flour prices firmed up a little for patents. Demand, although not brisk, was better than yesterday. Millers would like to see shipping directions come in a little livelier for old orders. Shipments, 56,252 barrels. First patents, $5.25@5.50; second patents, $5@5.25; first clears, $3.90@4.20; second clears, $2.90@3.20.

KING EDWARD'S 200 SUITS.

Kansas City Journal: Some one has said that King Edward never wears the same suit twice. This is an exaggeration. The king exchanges his attire about three times a day, and consequently would need more than 1,000 new suits a year, costing something like $50,000, if such a story were true. As a matter of fact, he orders about thirty new suits a year, and at Buckingham palace, Windsor castle and Sandringham he keeps a stock of about 200.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Market Started Out Higher, But Weakened on Realizing.

Close Was Steady at Near Lowest Figures of Session.

New York, Oct. 22.—There was an active demand for stocks at the opening today, which carried prices over last night's level with but few exceptions, Northern Pacific being the conspicuous exception with a decline of a fraction. St. Paul, Southern Pacific, Reading and Louisville & Nashville rose large fractions, Wisconsin Central preferred 1 and United Railways and Investment preferred 2.

Speculation became irregular. Heavy realizing in Union Pacific and Northern Pacific counterbalanced the improvement in Reading and the Eastern trunk lines. Business was in large volume, but the uncertain movement of prices restricted buying after a while and the tone became heavy and dull. New York Central, Reading, American Smelting and Great Northern ore certificates advanced 1; Pennsylvania, 1¼; Wisconsin Central preferred, 2½, and New York, Chicago & St. Louis, 4½. Northern Pacific fell a point under yesterday's closing, American Sugar, 1¼, and Union Pacific and some others a fraction.

The selling to take profits made considerable impression, Union Pacific, Atlantic Coast line, Consolidated Gas and American Cotton Oil failing one below last night; Illinois Central and American Ice, 1¾; Chicago & Alton, 1½ and Illinois Central preferred 1⅝. The marking up of St. Paul again to 1¼ over last night had a moderately steadying effect. Bonds were irregular.

Most of the forenoon losses were made up, but when Union Pacific touched 170 again, selling was renewed. Erie second preferred and St. Louis Southwestern gained 1 and General Electric fell 1.

The market closed steady. Prices receded to the lowest and then rallied somewhat under the influence of a 2 point rise in Amalgamated Copper. American Woolen gained 2¾ and Sloss-Sheffield 2⅝. Baltimore & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson and Rock Island preferred lost 1.

MARINE NEWS

LITTLE DOING IN LAKE TRADE

Many Boats Will Tie Up Early This Year.

There is a shortage on both coal and ore cargoes.

Because coal and ore are the backbone of the lake trade, some of the boats will be tied up at the end of the present trips.

Much difficulty has been experienced the past few weeks by vessel agents in getting cargoes, and they are tired of trying to keep their boats busy, when there seems to be very little doing. Boats lie idle at a good deal of expense.

The past year has been one of the poorest in history, and the outlook according to those that are in the business is not at this time particularly bright for a revival of trade before the present season closes.

There are many idle boats in the harbor, some of them having made a round trip light, expecting a cargo at each end. Many of them will lay up in Duluth this year.

BARGE AND LOAD ARE TOTAL LOSS

But Fifteen Men and Woman Reach Shore in Safety.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 22.—The missing barges, Lizzie A. Law and Selwin Marvin, were located late yesterday by Capt. Mackenzie of the steamer Hines. The Law and her cargo of coal is a total loss. The Marvin is light and may be saved. The vessels grounded on Traverse island and the Law soon went to pieces. The fifteen men and one woman on the two crafts reached shore safely in a lifeboat.

Work Progressing.

The pumping of the mud and water out of the hold of the steamer Sacramento is well under way, and Capt. James Davidson of Bay City, the owner, is now directing the work. It is expected that she will be above water by Friday noon, and she will at once be towed to the coal dock, where she will discharge her cargo.

TAFT A JUGGLER ON BANK ISSUE

Bryan Flays Opponent's Position Regarding Guaranty Plan.

Ravenswood, W. Va., Oct. 22.—Although he did not retire until 2 this morning, a half an hour after making his last speech, W. J. Bryan was up at sunrise and a short time afterward was speaking to a good-sized crowd here. As most of his audience was farmers, the Democratic candidate proceeded to puncture the Republican contention, which he said was that the farmer owed his prosperity to the Republican party.

"I can prove to you," he said, "that the Republican party has nothing to do with fertility of the soil or sunshine or rain, for if it did then there would be a trust on sunsiline and a meter on the sun. The fact that these things are not monopolies is conclusive proof that the Republican leaders exercise no control over them."

He denied that the Republican party was responsible for the present prices of agricultural products. There was not a single thing as he said, that the Republican party had done that meant good for the farmers, for the farmer has been the real victim of every abuse that had grown up under Republican misrule. He declared that the Republican leaders had spent their time legislating in the interests of the financiers of Wall street instead of listening to the plea of the farmers for security in their deposits.

He maintained that Mr. Taft's position on guaranteeing bank deposits is that the unsecurity of the depositor is the security of the banking system.

FORTUNE IN TROUSSEAU

Miss Elkins Will Have Twenty-Two Traveling Dresses.

Wedding Gown: White Satin—Directoire Style for Some.

WHAT WONDERFUL TROUSSEAU INCLUDES:

White satin wedding dress.
Court gown, studded with pearls.
Several traveling dresses.
Twenty-two boudoir gowns of Italian lace.

Styles—Empire, Directoire—and revival of "Eugenie lift."

New York, Oct. 23.—Positive confirmation of the report that the marriage between the duke of Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins is to take place without delay is obtained from a well-known Fifth avenue firm, which has nearly completed her trousseau.

Included in this wonderful collection are a wedding gown of white satin, a court gown studded with pearls, several traveling dresses, and twenty-two boudoir gowns of rare Italian lace.

No little significance attaches to the fact that while the Fifth avenue firm originally was instructed to take its time, orders came recently from the Elkins family to hurry everything along. So the entire trousseau is ex-

JOHNSON GETS LARGE CROWDS

The Governor Will Carry Nearly Every County in Ninth District.

Argyle, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson's tour ot Northern Minnesota has been a great success, and predictions are being made that he will carry every county in the northern part of the Ninth district, except Norman.

In most of the towns the governor's reception was even more enthusiastic than two years ago. In Crookston not over half the crowd could get into the hall. At McIntosh and Fosston he had splendid crowds, largely made up of farmers in the Thirteen Towns region, where great strength has been claimed for Jacobson. The indications are that the governor will carry that district. At Greenbush reports were brought from many country precincts in Roseau county saying the governor would carry them. The crowd at Thief River Falls was several times larger than the one which heard Mr. Jacobson, and that region is for the governor. Red Lake Falls is stronger than ever. Over a third of the voters of Kittson county were at Hallock for an afternoon meeting, and 400 of them marched behind the governor's carriage to the hall. It was not a town crowd, either, but was made up chiefly of farmers. At Argyle Wednesday night the hall was too small to hold the crowd, and the enthusiasm was splendid.

FAVOR NAILING THE "OPEN DOOR"

New York, Oct. 23.—Felicitations upon the reception of the American battleships by the Japanese government, confidence in an improvement in our commerce with China and a defense of Japan's observance of the "open door" policy in the Far East, were emphasized in the address of James R. Morse, retiring president of the American Asiatic association at the annual meeting of that body at the chamber of commerce.

"It is as much the interest of Japan as it is our own to preserve equality of commerce in the national markets of Eastern Asia and no matter whether all merchants and producers appreciate this fact I am sure that Japan does appreciate it."

SAYS DRINK FOES GAIN

Denies That Maine is Showing Signs of Backsliding.

Dener, Col., Oct. 23.—President Lillian Stevens, addressing the National Women's Christian union convention, began her address by reciting the gains made by the temperance cause during the last year. Prohibition, she said, now prevails in Maine, Kansas, North Dakota, Georgia, Oklahoma, Alabama, Mississippi and North Carolina. Arkansas is expected to pass a prohibition law next January when the legislature meets, as the voters of the state declared for prohibition Sept. 14, and Texas, the speaker declared, "is well nigh keeping step." Mrs. Stevens denied there had been any backsliding on the part of Maine. She said:

"On Sept. 14 Maine emphatically reaffirmed its advocacy of prohibition in the election of Mr. Fernald as governor. He affirmed before his nomination that he was opposed to re-submission, and that he believed in upholding and strictly enforcing the prohibitory law of the state."

The party which nominated him, Mrs. Stevens said, made a similar declaration in its platform.

Mrs. Stevens said "the effort in Tennessee to keep the saloon at a certain distance from institutions of learning has resulted in almost freeing it from saloon bondage," and predicted that that state would have state-wide prohibition soon.

She referred to the victory on April 7 in Illinois when 1,005 towns voted to do away with liquor selling, and predicted that both Illinois and Ohio would be placed in the prohibition column, "about the time their junior boys and girls reach the age of 21."

Continuing, Mrs. Stevens said:

"We should like to mention every state where there have been triumphs, but this would include all the states as well as all the territories, even Hawaii and Alaska, and it certainly includes with great emphasis the District of Columbia.

New Hampshire and Vermont were entitled to pity, she said, for having abandoned prohibition for local option, which had had the effect of increasing the sale of intoxicants.

THREATEN TO BREAK AWAY

Catholic Woman Foresters Have Stormy Discussion Over Election.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—A meeting behind closed doors was held last night by Mrs. Rodgers' safety committee to discuss the disputed election of Mrs. Rose D. Rittman and Mrs. Rodgers to the office of high chief ranger of the Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters.

At one stage of the discussion several of the most ardent members of the committee, which was represented by 108 delegates, evidenced a desire to recede from the order and support Mrs. Rodgers, in spite of any decision that might be rendered by the courts, where the difficulty is to be threshed out in the near future. Mrs. Rodgers, however, urged her adherents to abide by the action of the law. Contributions were called for and $500 was collected as a war fund to fight out the matter in the courts.

The gathering was supposed to represent the sentiments of 1,800 members of the order.

WOULD HANG ANOTHER.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wallie Poluck of Sawyer, charged with threatening to hang Garil Valamanich, was bound over to the district court by Judge Murray on a charge of assault and battery. Valamaninch says that Poluck put a strap around his neck and threatened to hang him.

FORGERY IS THE CHARGE

Frederick Gijsen, Arrested, Worked for New Prague Man.

Said to Have Signed E. A. Bean's Name to Check.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Charged with victimizing a friendly employer, who had given him expense money so he could complete his education in the English language, Frederick Gijsen, graduate of a German university and son of a Belgian army officer, has been arrested for forgery in Chicago. He was indicted by the grand jury.

Gijsen is accused of forging the name of E. A. Bean, vice president of the New Prague Flour Mills company, New Prague, Minn., to a check for $500, which he cashed at the First National bank.

Gijsen came from his native country four months ago and went to New Prague with letters of recommendation to Bean, who hired him as a private secretary, because he could speak several languages. When Bean sent Gijsen to St. Paul, Saturday to master the English language thoroughly he gave the man $40 to pay his preliminary expenses.

Before Gijsen left, it is said, he stole several checks from Bean's check book and instead of going to St. Paul came to Chicago. Knowing Bean had an account at the First National bank, Gijsen went there and presented for payment a check for $500, to which, Bean's name is said to have been forged. He was given the money.

Gijsen says: "My father is a respected citizen of Aaln, Belgium, and for more than twenty years was an officer in the Belgian army."

GREEN APPLES HIS DOWNFALL

Soldier Who Ate Them Discharged From the Army.

New York, Oct. 23.—Because he ate green apples after repeated instructions from his superior officers not to do so, Private Bernard Leiser of battery D, Third Field artillery, U. S. A., has been dishonorably discharged from the service and sentenced to forfeit all pay and allowances due him and to be confined at hard labor for six months.

The verdict of the court-marital was announced from army headquarters here today.

The specific charge is "conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, in violation of the sixty-third article of war."

It was found that Leiser ate the green apples after having received a lawful order from a sergeant to throw them away.

"Gentlemen: I am watching the newspapers very closely these days and I noticed yesterday that President Roosevelt had deposed Mr. Gompers as labor leader and substituted Senator Knox. I was anxious to see the paper this morning to learn if he had deposed the Democratic candidate for president and substituted someone else."

ROB WHILE GUESTS DINE

Crime is Not Discovered Until Merry Party Breaks Up.

$700 pearl scarf pin.
Squirrel-lined coat.
Sealskin coat.
Amethyst necklace
Yellow diamond.
Pearl ring.
Diamond cluster ring.
Amethyst pin.
Diamond pin.
Green diamond ring.
Turquoise necklace.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—While a merry dinner party was in progress in the dining room of the residence of C. M. Harrington, 2540 Park avenue, last night, thieves gained entrance to the rooms on the second floor and stole jewelry and rich furs valued at about $3,000.

It is supposed the robbery, which was not discovered until the guests at the dinner party went upstairs to get their wraps before going to the theater, was the work of professionals who gained entrance to the rooms through an open window on the second floor.

Immediately after the robbery the authorities were notified and detectives were put on the case. The sleuths made a search of the house and grounds, but were unable either to secure any clue to the identity of the robbers or to determine exactly how they gained entrance to the house. The porch-climbing theory is favored.

Included in the stolen articles were a $700 pearl scarf pin beloning to W. G. Hudson, vice president of the jewelry firm of J. B. Hudson & Son; a squirrel-lined coat, the property of Miss Donaldson, Baltimore a guest; a seal coat belonging to Mrs. Harrington; an amethyst necklace, a yellow diamond and pearl ring, a diamond cluster ring, an amethyst and diamond pin, a green diamond ring and a turquoise necklace.

C. M. Harrington is president of the Van Duzen-Harrington company, grain dealers, and Mr. Hudson, his son-in-law, lives at the Harrington home.

HIGH WIND DRIVES FLAMES, CAUSING LOSS.

North Branch, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the result of a big meadow and brush fire on the lowlands between North Branch and Stacy, R. N. Johnson, living about five miles southeast of town, lost between forty and fifty tons of hay Monday night. The strong wind which was blowing at the time made it impossible to check the blaze.

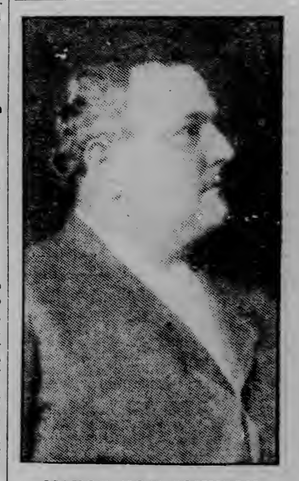

It is supposed the fire was started by sparks from a passing locomotive. The flames spread rapidly and at one time Mr. Johnson feared he would lose his house and farm building and hitched up his team preparatory to getting away, but an opportune rain came and helped to quench the fire.

HIS PET SCHEME FINALLY REJECTED

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 23.—It is a bitter pill for Mayor Tom L. Johnson to swallow, but he must swallow it.

Yesterday the people declared against continuation of the Johnson three-cent street car fare system. The principal objection to the system is that it is really costing the public more than did the old five-cent fares, for then transfers were issued, while now in most cases an extra three cents must be paid whenever a passenger transfers to another car.

The franchise under which the Municipal Traction company is operating street railway lines was defeated by a majority of 605. The total vote cast was 76,825. The defeat of the franchise may mean that the railroad property will revert to its original owners and that the old rate of fare, strife over which lasted several years, will be renewed. The only alternative will be for the city council at once to grant a new franchise which will save the property to the municipal company.

Secretary Henry Davies of the Cleveland Railway company made a demand upon President A. B. Du Pont of the Municipal Traction company, that the railway property be turned over to the Cleveland Railway company immediately. President Du Pont replied, saying he would do nothing until after a meeting of the Municipal directors.

Starch Factory's Light Run.

Isanti, Minn., Oct. 23.—The starch factory has received its last load of potatoes for the season and closed after making the smallest run since the factory was erected. The run would have been light this fall, but the closing of the river bridge last week cut off much of the supply, only 125 loads, a total of 3,600 bushels, being received. About one carload of starch was the result of the season's run.

ALL READY FOR THE BIG RACE

There is Keen Rivalry Between Cars of Foreign Make.

New York, Oct. 23.—After receiving final instructions last night, the drivers and mechanicians who are to guide and watch over the seventeen racing automobiles entered in tomorrow's Vanderbilt cup speed contest, devoted most of today to grooming and overhauling their cars.

Strang, Lytle and Robertson, the trio upon whom center most of the interest of tomorrow's race, each had his car out for a final spurt around the circuit. The keenest rivalry exists between Strang and Lytle. Lytle drives the Italian car with which Strang won the Savannah, Briar Cliff and Lowell races, and Strang, now that he drives a car of a different nationality and make, is determined that the car which he thrice piloted to victory, shall this time go down to defeat. Lytle defeated Strang two weeks ago over the same course on which tomorrow's race is to be run. While the fiercest struggle of the day promises to be between these two men, the one representing Italy and the other France, a third factor may be injected into the battle in the person of Robertson, representing America. Among Robertson's most recent exploits are the winning of the Quaker City Motor club 200 miles race at Brighton Beach a week ago.

D., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edwin Bush of this city has commenced suit against the Great Northern railway in St. Paul for $25,000, claiming damages for personal injuries alleged to have been sustained on January 17, 1907, while he was engaged as a brakeman. MITCHELL IS DULUTH BOY

Successful Tailor Has Made Mark in Twin Cities.

Harry Mitchell, whose name is inseparably linked with the tailoring business in Minneapolis, St. Paul and all over the Northwest, was formerly a Duluth boy.

He left this city in his youth and went to Chicago. There he associated himself with the Scotch & English Woolen Mills company, and opened a store on State street and later on Madison street. His success in that city was so commendable that his company gave him the whole Northwest as his territory.

He then located in Minneapolis, opening his store at 310 Nicollet avenue. His success there has been so tremendous that further notice is not necessary.

Later on, he opened a store in the Hotel Ryan block, St. Paul, only to repeat his Minneapolis success.

Now he has returned to the home of his boyhood, the Zenith City, to still further promote his business in the tailoring line, in which he has been so phenomenally successful that his name is a household word throughout this whole section.

The opening of his fine store here last Saturday was attended with an innovation for Duluth, in that this city never had such a grand opening in the tailoring line. His advertising in all forms, including the Third Regiment band was auspicious.

Being known personally to the merchants, business and professional men of this city, Harry is receiving a cordial and extended welcome here by all Duluth people.

The fundamental secret of his wonderful success is the supreme satisfaction that he gives in every case, and the high class of work that he turns out for less money than others can afford to do, owing to his very close connection with the mills that manufacture the cloths which practically amounts to ownership.

KAISER CHUMMY WITH DR. HILL

Seeks to Remove Doubts as to American's Welcome.

Berlin, Oct. 23.—Emperor William is attracting the attention of the diplomatic corps by his attentions to David Jayne Hill, American ambassador. It is probable the purpose of his majesty has been to remove all doubts, regarding Hill's welcome at court.

During the court festivities in connection with the wedding yesterday of Prince Auguste William and Princess Alexandra the emperor was particularly cordial to Dr. Hill and at the gala opera performance Wednesday night the emperor asked that Hill come to him and spoke with the ambassador for some time.

The same evening Prince Henry sought out Dr. Hill and talked with him about their experiences in America together.

Cross of Grand Forks for his bravery in saving the life of William Colton at Maple Lake a couple of years ago. Bassett Manufacturing company, employing between 600 and 700 hands, announces that in future the company will pay all the doctor bills of its employes. This, it is explained, will include not only bills for treatment growing out of accidents, but also for illness. Most of the hands employed are girls and women.

MUST BOIL WATER.

Article Obtainable in North Dakota Not the Healthiest.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is considerable typhoid fever in North Dakota this fall, and according to Secretary J. C. Grassick of the state board of health, the continued drought of the past few months is responsible for this fact. The local hospitals have had to care for a large number of patients from out of the city who have been suffering with typhoid fever and in nearly every instance the cause of the fever has been found in the water supply.

"It would be well," said Dr. Grassick today, "to warn the people of the state against the using of water too freely unless they are absolutely certain it is pure and free from typhoid germs. The wells in nearly every part of the state are very low, the people being obliged to scoop nearly to the bottom of their wells for water. There is also the danger of contagion through the dust, which is stirred up by the wind under present conditions more than in a wet season."

King Opposes Tipping.

King Edward is greatly opposed to tipping and does his level best to suppress the practice. In fact, he has induced several of his subjects to take steps in this direction. Worthy of note also is the fact that golden grain belt beer will please the most critical taste and will contribute to the health, comfort and happiness of the consumer. RAINEY WILL ASK CONGRESS TO PROBE CANAL SCANDAL INVOLVING TAFT

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Representative Henry L. Rainey of Illinois, announces through press headquarters at the Democratic national committee that he will, on the opening day of congress, in December next, introduce a resolution calling for a congressional investigation of the Panama canal purchase. In discussing the matter he said:

"I am sorry the president's letter to Senator Knox did not take up the matter of the Panama canal purchase. The president ought to be able to tell whether his brother-in-law and the brother of the Republican candidate for the presidency were interested in an American syndicate, which it is said, succeeded in getting control of the securities of the Panama Canal company just before the Nicaragua route was abandoned and the Panama route adopted.

"The president ought to be in a position to know who the members of the American syndicate were. This country is entitled to know all about it, and I intend to see that it is made public. As soon as congress convenes in December I will introduce a resolution asking for the appointment of a special committee fully authorized to summon witnesses and require the production of books and papers to thoroughly investigate the matter."

SECURE MESS OF POTTAGE BEFORE BIRTHRIGHT IS SOLD, SAYS W. J. BRYAN

Montgomery, W. Va., Oct. 23.—Talking to a big crowd of miners and laboring men here, William J. Bryan, after pleading for the election of the Democratic state ticket plunged into a discussion of the Democratic platform particularly with reference to the planks with reference to the guaranty of bank deposits and labor.

On the labor question, r. MBryan said that eight years ago the Republican claim was that the laboring man had a full dinner pail.

"That, my friends," he said, "was the sign, the emblem, the banner. I saw pictures of the full dinner pail wherever I went, but I have not seen any this year. I have just heard of one man who tried to carry a dinner pail in a parade and that was down here in this state, and they arrested him for it."

"He ought to have been hung," shouted a miner.

"Now, my friends," said Mr. Bryan, continuing, "the bottom is out, the pail is empty, and the people deceived eight years ago are embittered by that disappointment."

"How about sixteen to one?" a voice was heard to ask.

"They said, my friends," quickly retorted the candidate amid loud applause, "the chances are sixteen to one that you won't vote the Republican ticket. They said eight years ago that as long as laboring men have a full dinner pail they need not think. Now, if that is a good argument, what an amount of thinking the laboring man ought to do now.

"Yesterday the papers announced that the officials of the New York Central had gone out on their car to notify the employes that they could expect a wage reduction if I was elected, but they expected good times if Mr. Taft were elected. Now, if any man attempts to coerce you I want to suggest a solution for meeting it. You make him give bond as to how much you are going to get and how long it will last. If they want you to sell your birthright for a mess of pottage you be sure that you get the pottage before you give up your birthright. The right to vote is given to the individual not to his employer to say how he should vote. It is given to the individual because he has a right to use it for his own protection, and if employers can use the threat of reduction and the promise of wages to determine this election, when can a laboring man expect to secure relief?"

WEST END

BAD FIRE IN DRYING SHED

Flames Threaten Plant of Scott-Graff Lumber Company.

Firemen After Hard Fight Save Mill and Lumber Yards.

Flames shooting high in the air from the Scott-Graff Lumber company's plant in the West end, shortly after 3 o'clock this morning, made it seem as if the entire plant and its environs were burning, and called the fire department and hosts of citizens to the scene.

It was only by hard fighting that the fire department was able to confine the fire to a drying shed at the extreme southwestern corner of the Scott-Graff yards, and to prevent the loss from exceeding $15,000.

That amount covers the loss on the building and its contents—a quarter of a million feet of lumber—according to a statement made by one of the members of the firm this morning. The loss was covered by insurance.

From 3 o'clock until late this morning the firemen were throwing water on the fire, which ate its way into the dried lumber and refused stubbornly to be quenched by ordinary efforts. Early this morning the danger of the fire spreading was past, and the firefighters devoted their energies to getting the drying blaze under control.

How the fire started is something of a mystery. One of the members of the firm expressed the belief that tramps had been sleeping in the shed and accidentally started it.

Shortly before the alarm was given, the night watchman had visited the drying shed and he found everything all right at that time. Although a night shift was at work in the mill, more than a block distant, there was nobody at the shed where the fire started.

Soon after the alarm was turned in, the flames were so menacing and the danger of their spreading so great, that several more companies were called. Numbers 1, 2, 3, and 4 engine companies were there and numbers 1, 2 and 3 truck companies; one chemical company; one salvage corps and the three chiefs were on the job.

There was work for almost all those present, as the close proximity of lumber piles, mills and dwellings caused grave danger of a serious conflagration.

The dry shed and its contents were the only things burned, however. The building was built twenty-eight years ago and for ten years was used by the firm as a planning mill. Then it was stripped of its machinery and turned into a drying shed for lumber, which it was used for, up to the time of its destruction.

It was stated at the offices of the company this morning that owing to the fact that it was located in such an out of the way section of the yard, it would probably not be rebuilt.

This fire comes right after the city council's order to the lumber company to remove its piles to a distance of sixty feet from all dwellings.

Since the order came, men have been at work removing piles which were too close to houses. They were working at it yesterday and today. Two houses, at 214 and 316 South Twenty-sixth avenue west, are still very near piles of the lumber, but the latter are being rapidly moved away.

Would Mortgage the Farm.

A farmer on Rural Route 2, Empire, Ga., W. A. Floyd by name, says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured the two worst sores I ever saw; one on my hand and one on my leg. It is worth more than its weight in gold. I would not be without it if I had to mortgage the farm to get it." Only 25c at all drug stores.

Plants Rice for Geese.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 23.—With the hope of making the vicinity a relay station for ducks and geese in their annual fall migration from the Canadian wilds, Marquette sportsmen have procured 100 pounds of wild rice seed and are planting the cereal in lakes and bayous in proximity to the city. It is expected that the rice will grow well in this district and within a few years some excellent hunting will be enjoyed.

NEW ANATOMY BUILDING PLANNED FOR UNIVERSITY.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The University of Minnesota is to have a new anatomy building. At a recent meeting of the board of regents it was urged that the old anatomy building had always been inadequate and that the money obtained from the insurance companies to cover the damage by the recent fire would be used to best advantage by applying it on a new anatomy building, more modern and in keeping with the rest of the university buildings.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Heavy Iron Bolt Used as Weapon in Saloon Fight.

With an ugly cut in the top of his head, James Stone was in police court this morning as a complaining witness against Tony Drew, who is alleged to have hit him over the head with a heavy 2-inch bolt. Drew was found guilty and sentenced to thirty days on the hill in Sheriff Bates' lodging house.

The three men were "out for a time," Tony thought that he had a perfect right to take a $2 bill from Joe Hughes. Hughes didn't have the same idea about it, and the two men began quarreling about it. Stone told Drew that he had better give back the money, whereupon Drew knocked Stone down with the bolt, and kicked him in the face inflicting an ugly cut.

All three men were held guilty of disorderly conduct, but Judge Cutting thought that Stone had received punishment enough.

Here's gratitude. George Gilbert being asked by John McGovern for the price of a bed handed him of the pugilistic name, a $5 bill, told him to get it changed, and bring back the rest. McGovern hauled off, smote the good samaritan a stinging blow in the face, and fled.

He was on his way to Superior when he was arrested, and he was this morning given sixty days by Special Judge Cutting.

Joseph Edwards got a suspended sentence Thursday morning for being drunk. He appeared at the station at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the same condition. Judge Cutting made up his mind it was a hangover from the same drunk, and allowed him his freedom.

CHILDREN HELD; THEFT CHARGED

Massachusetts Girls Said to Have Stolen Jewelry.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 23.—Two little girls, sisters, one of them 12 and the other 6, are accused by the police of a series of robberies here running over a period of three months.

Search of a playhouse and a dolls' trunk at the girls' home resulted in the finding of jewelry valued at thousands of dollars.

The children were allowed to make pocket money by selling soap on commission and this chance to visit houses was improved to make way with large quantities of jewelry.

IS HANGED WITH PRAYER ON LIPS

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 23.—Having confessed his guilt, and with a prayer upon his lips, Joe James, the 15-year-old negro murderer, was hanged in the county jail today.

James murdered C. A. Ballard, a well known railroad engineer, on the night of July 9 last. The crime was largely responsible for precipitation of the recent fatal race riot in this city.

ROAD FILES A HUGE MORTGAGE

Denver, Col., Oct. 23.—The merger of all the lines of the Denver & Rio Grande was made effective by the filing of a mortgage for $150,000,000. This mortgage secures a new issue of bonds. The sum of $90,000,000 will be used for refunding outstanding indebtedness, $25,000,000 to aid in the construction of the Western Pacific railroad, now building from Salt Lake to the Pacific coast, and the remainder for extension of and construction of new lines.

Coincident with the filing of the mortgage came the denial—the report that E. H. Harriman would assume control of the Western Pacific.

SLAYER GODDARD IS FREE.

Good Behavior Secures Release of Murderer of Laundryman.

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 23.—Dr. Jefferson D. Goddard, whose trial and conviction for the murder of Frederick Jackson, a laundryman of Kansas City, in April, 1897, was one of the most sensational, was released today from the state prison. After three trials he began a twenty-year term in the spring of 1901, but a commutation and good behavior credit set him free today.

Dr. Goddard shot Jackson in a hotel in Kansas City.

FLOOD SITUATION IN KANSAS SERIOUS.

Coffeyville, Kan., Oct. 23.—The flood situation in Southern Kansas today is not improved. North of Coffeyville the Verdigris river continued to rise and this morning lacked only a foot of the high mark of 1890, which was the highest known for twenty-five years. Many persons have been compelled to leave their homes in the north east and southeastern parts of Coffeyville, where the land is low. Forest Park is covered with two feet of water. All the way from Neodesha and Independence south of Coffeyville the river has spread out until it covers thousands of acres of farm lands, doing vast damage to corn in the fields.

The Missouri Pacific was the only railroad that was able to bring a train into Coffeyville today.

They Are Certainly Swell.

VERDICT FOR $2 UPHELD IN COURT

End of Cinder Path Case Causes Princeton, Minn., Celebration.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A verdict for $2, probably the smallest ever appealed to the supreme court of this or any other state, was upheld by that tribunal today in an opinion filed by Chief Justice C. M. Start.

The $2 case is a cause of celebration in Princeton. John W. Goulding, who was awarded the $2 has a cinder path in front of his house. W. H. Fennell, who has to pay the $2, led his horse down the full length of Goulding's cinder path. It hurt the path—and it hurt Goulding's feelings—but it was a gala day for the lawyers of Princeton, Goulding sued for $50. The jury said it was worth $2. The supreme court upholds the jury's award.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 23.—Advices from Samburg, Tenn., on Reel Foot lake, where night riders killed Capt. Rankin and assaulted Col. Taylor are to the effect that there was no trouble last night, but there was a great deal of mysterious boating on the lake.

Sixty men have bee narrested, but all except two of them were afterwards released.

CLOWNS AND HOT CODLINS.

James Doughty, the oldest actor and clown in the United Kingdom, celebrated his nineteenth birthday on Aug. 28 with three benefit performances on the West pier at Brighton.

Mr. Doughty is an interesting link with the theatrical past, says the London Daily Mail. He followed in the footsteps of the great Grimaldi. He has worn Grimaldi's wigs. He has sung Grimaldi's songs. He regretfully recalls the days when the harlequinade was the attraction of a pantomime and the clown its chief performer. Motley, which he will wear once more on his birthday, is to him a garb as sacred as the mournful doublet of Hamlet.

"There are no clowns now," he remarks with a shade of bitterness. "Last year I heard the tale of a theatrical manager who forgot all about the clown when he was arranging his pantomime, and at the last minute gave a super half a crown extra to play the part!" The contemptuous tone must be left to the imagination.

Who remembers the famous song, "Hot Codlins?" Grimaldi sang it. Doughty sang it after him. Doughty in his now quavering tenor sang the first few lines of it:

A little old woman, a living she got,
By selling of codlins hot, hot, hot;
This little old woman, so we have been told,
Though her codlins were hot she was monstrously cold.
So to keep herself warm she thought it no sin
To run and get half a quatern of ——

Here the audience shouted the names of various beverages, starting with gin and the expert clown finished off the line triumphantly with some potation they had not mentioned.

"And waht are codlins?" asked the interviewer.

"Hot baked apples."

"There, now," said a member of the clown's family, "I have heard that song hundreds of times and I always thought it was fish."

The greatest success Mr. Doughty ever had with the song was one day when, after singing it thousands of times, he forgot the beginning and devoted three minutes to asking the band and the audience, who, of course, would not believe him.

Here is a story which suggests the kind of rumor the old clowns loved: "Lady Diana Huddleston asked me to train her dog. I went to the Prince club every day to train him. One day he was obstinate. Lady Diana told me to flick him. 'I believe in kindness, your ladyship,' I said. 'Ah, well, you are the best judge.' 'No, my lady,' I said, 'the baron is the best judge,' and Baron Huddleston, the judge of the exchequer, put down his paper and laughed."

Mr. Doughty is very proud of two things— letter of thanks from Queen Victoria after a performance at Osborne, and a certificate of approval from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

PRODUCE IS UNCHANGED

Butter and Egg Prices Make No Further Advances.

Scarcely a change in price has rippled the calm of the local produce market this week.

Evidently butter and eggs did all of their climbing last week for they have remained steady and unchanged at the prices they climbed to then.

Other lines have shown a similar disinclination to fluctuate during the past few days and fruits have been practically the only things offered on the streets which have undergone a change in price.

Grapes, which have been one of the big features of the fruit market for some time past, advanced during the week. The season for Concord grapes will soon be over, but they are still offered here, at 23 cents a basket, which price is an advance of 1c over that which was obtained during the early part of the week.

A few days ago, commission men offered Takay grapes at $1.25 per crate, but they are now exacting $1.50 per crate for them.

Some Malaga grapes are in the market, although receipts of them are still very light. They are quoted at $2.25 per keg.

Apples continue a great feature of the fruit market, selling at $3.50 to $4.50 per barrel, according to variety. The variety is great, almost every kind known to nurserymen having a place at present in commission row.

The bulk of the local apple supply is still coming from New York state by boat, making prices here much more reasonable than in less-favored communities like the Twin Cities or Omaha. As stated last week, apple prices are considerable lower than they were last year.

Florida grape fruit is in the market, around $6.75 per box.

Lemons are on a firm basis. They are coming from California and cost $5.50 a box in the local market.

Bananas are still about the steadiest things offered in the fruit line. They are still quoted at 4 cents a pound. Supplies are ample for local uses at this figure. The demand is firm, despite the finding of several trantulas during the present season, a circumstance calculated to chill timid persons' desire for bananas. The bananas are good ones, and occasional tarantulas are not going to interfere with their sale.

Peaches and plums have said their last farewell to the local market. In the language of the Texas statesman, they "have went."

Scarcely more than a week ago, such things as cucumbers were coming directly from the fields, with the earth still clinging fondly to them. But now they are arriving in much less generous quantities from the hothouse.

Hothouse cucumbers are quoted at $1.50 per dozen.

Lettuce is also coming from the hothouse, and is selling at $1 per bushel

Celery is 35 to 40 cents per bunch.

Cranberries are steady at $9 per barrel, to which price they advanced a week ago.

Potatoes are steady around 65 to 70 cents a bushel, and sweet potatoes are $1.35 per bushel.

Pumpkins are $1.50 per dozen, and Hubbard squashes are selling at the same price. Both are plentiful at those prices.

Dressed poultry, fish and meat prices are practically the same as they were a week ago. Pork continues to show weakness.

According to the official classifications 453 persons or more than 70 per cent, were hanged or shot for murder or robbery accompanied by violence; sixty-two men were executed for mutiny or other offences against military discipline; fifty-one for crimes against the state and four for desertion. The remainder is not specified. The Baltic provinces took the lead in the number of executions with 134. This was due to the final stamping out of the insurrection. The Kiev region was next with eighty-four executions; Odessa counted up sixty-nine; Warsaw sixty-five and Moscow, fifty-nine.

ST. CLOUD WILL GREET GOVERNOR

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Democrats of Stearns county are looking forward with growing interest to the appearance tomorrow of Governor John A. Johnson and preparations are on foot for the biggest political meetings ever held in this section. Governor Johnson will reach Stearns county Saturday morning from Fergus Falls. He will speak at Melrose at 12:30, at Albany at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and at St. Cloud at 8 o'clock in the evening. The trip from Albany to St. Cloud will be made by auto and it is possible, if the time will permit, that very brief stops will be made at Avon and St. Joseph. A committee representing the Stearns county Democratic organization will meet Governor Johnson and his party at Melrose and accompany him to St. Cloud. Reports received by the Bryan-Johnson club indicate that there is great interest in the approaching meetings of Governor Johnson in this county.

The meeting in St. Cloud will be held at the opera house. Arrangements have been made to place three hundred chairs on the stage and these will be given over to the officers and working committees of the Democratic. Uncle Sam Can't Intercede.

Washington, Oct. 23.—Not being a signatory to the Berlin treaty of 1878, the United States is not in a position to intercede with Austria in behalf of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Turkish provinces recently annexed by Austria, which President Roosevelt has been asked to do by a mass meeting of Servians in San Francisco. The president referred the request to the state department, which will send a formal reply indicating the attitude of the United States.

A NEW INDUSTRY AT CROW WING

Silk Factory is to be Established North of Brainerd.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crow Wing county is to have another new town and another new industry. Leon Bozark, of Chicago, a silk manufacturer, is having a town platted on the Minnesota & International between Hubert and Nisswa. He has also asked for bids, it is stated by R. E. Philps and W. H. Hallett, who are platting the town site, for a large factory, 60x80 feet in size, and also for six six-room cottages. Mr. Bozark, who is said to be a large manufacturer of silk goods, gives as his reasons for the move that rent is too high in Chicago for his purpose, and as he owns 160 acres near Hubert he has decided to locate his factory there. All raw material, he states, has to be shipped to Chicago and he believes the disadvantages of a large city exceed the advantages of that location and he proposes to locate his manufactory in Crow Wing county.

The plant will, it is said, give employment to 125 women when in full blast.

MORRISON

and it is a live topic these days when all the tailors and clothiers of Duluth—hitherto fairly respectable—are assailed as horsethieves, cut-throat robbers and undesirable citizens in general. Praise be to whoever sent our Semitic friend around the corner to deliver the helpless clothes-buying public from their sad plight. How alluring the song of the deliverer. If you could only forget that "the nigger at the old camp fire who will loudest sing and shout, is going to rob the hen roost before the week is out," and the "hooks" have certainly been well baited with printers' ink the last few days.

I make good clothes for my friends at the old stand. Suits made in our Duluth shop, $25.00, $30.00, $35.00. Good reliable material, good honest work, and a good stylish fit. Overcoats, the new "Auto" coat takes the lead—a dandy for $30.00. For Chicago work I am giving the very best value in Duluth, real good suits to order for $13.50, are better in quality, style and workmanship than what you are asked to pay $15 and $20 for elsewhere.

Come in and leave your measure as soon as you can. Respectfully,

D. M. MORRISON,
Merchant Tailor.

8 Lake Avenue South.

Will dress you better for less money.

Plans for the trousseau were begun more than three months ago. At that time an expert was sent abroad by the firm under instructions to search Europe for the most beautiful laces, particularly Italian laces. It is now a month since the expert arrived home. From the establishment it is learned that the laces supplied for Miss Elkins are especially matched to suit the periods her wardrobe represents.

The empire and directoire styles and a revival of the famous "Eugenie Lift" are the distinguished characteristics of Miss Elkins' trousseau.

FIANCEE FAINTS AWAY.

Swoons in Court When Sweetheart is Convicted.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frederick W. Potts of this city was convicted by the jury in the United States district court Wednesday on a charge of using the United States mails in a scheme to defraud the public. Evidence against Potts showed that he had advertised promiscuously for agents, promising to pay them from $20 to $25 a week. Among other conditions, he required the applicants to make a deposit of $15. Potts, it seems, collected the $15 from various applicants and never let them hear from him again.

The only tragic touch in the trial came just after the jury returned its verdict of guilty, when a young woman in the audience screamed and fainted. She proved to be the fiancee of Potts, who had been an interested spectator of the trial. She sat with friends and was confident throughout of Potts' innocence, and the verdict of guilty came as a great shock to her.

WEDDING A SECRET.

Lucile Mulhall Married in September to Vaudeville Artist.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 23.—Miss Lucile Mulhall, the beautiful broncho-busting, cattle-roping daughter of Zack Mulhall, former livestock agetn of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad, and Martin Van Bergen, a vaudeville singer of Kansas City, were married Sept. 14, 1907, in Brooklyn, N. Y. The wedding was kept a secret until yesterday, when Mrs. Van Bergen came to Topeka to join her husband. He is playing in a vaudeville sketch here.

The romance began in St. Louis three years ago, when Van Bergen was singing with the Rosenbacker Chicago Symphony orchestra. Shortly after this her father decided to enter vaudeville and made up an act in which Miss Mulhall, Mr. Van Bergen and Miss Mulhall's brother, appeared. They toured the East for a year, closing the season at the Alhambra theater in Brooklyn. On the Saturday that the season closed, Miss Mulhall and Mr. Van Bergen were married. There will be another ceremony shortly. Miss Mulhall is a Catholic, and her husband, having embraced this faith, they will be married by a priest.

PETERSON LOSES WRESTLING BOUT

Duluth Man Forfeits the Match Claiming an Injured Shoulder.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—After twenty-four minutes of hard wrestling in the second bout of the wrestling match between John Albrecht of Minneapolis and Emil Peterson of Duluth, last night at the Vail hall, Emil Peterson forfeited the match, claiming an injured shoulder. He won the first fall in nine and one-half minutes.

A large crowd attendod the athletic entertainment given under the auspices of the Eveleth Athletic club. The wrestling last night pleased the crowd immensely. In the first bout Albrecht broke three holds that almost had him, but finally was thrown. Up to the forfeiture, the second bout was a corker, both men being in danger a number of times.

The wrestling match was preceded by two four-round bouts. The first between Mike O'Keefe and Eddie McLean of Superior, was fairly even, the advantage, if any, being with O'Keefe, who kept his head well and his hands going steadily. He drew blood on his opponent in the second round.

This bout was followed by another between Barney Cinnamon, lightweight of Milwaukee, and Kid Constance, the "pride of Eveleth." The four-round sparring exhibition was more than ordinary fast. Both men kept going at a fast rate all through. Constantine was outweighed and outreached, but he was always on the spot when necessary. A number of Cinnamon's jabs were wasted, as the Kid bucked them easily or they glanched off without any damage. Constantine has improved much in speed and headwork since his bouts last winter, and with good training will certainly make a mark for himself. Both of the four-round exhibitions were called draws. The crowd, though large, was orderly and thoroughly appreciated the entertainment.

JOHNSON GIVEN MOST CHEERING

Even Republican Meeting Can't Keep From Applauding Name.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Republican campaign opened at the Fay opera house last evening, with speeches by ex-Lieutenant Governor Lyndon A. Smith and James Boyle of Eveleth, formerly of Indiana. E. L. Millar of Duluth was to appear here but failed to arrive. The crowd did not number more than 150. Mr. Boyle was introduced by Mark Elliott, superintendent of the Inter-State Iron Mining company's properties here, and his talk was largely upon what the Republican party had done from Lincoln's time to date. Mr. Elliott gave a short talk on the subject of taxation, after which he introduced Mr. Smith, who launched forth in a plain, argumentative talk of Republicanism, and what that party had done for the people of this country, and especially for the laboring class. Not one word was mentioned about the different planks in the Republican platform; not one word was mentioned of what the Republican party intended to do in the future, but his talk was all along the line of what the Republican party had done in the past.

Mr. Smith devoted considerable time in telling his hearers of the past record of Mr. Jacobson, and said that he or certain men that the state would go for Taft, but admitted that the fight lay in the governorship, and made a strong appeal to the Republicans to vote the Republican ticket, and thereby put a good end of affairs.

The mention of the names of Jacobson and Taft brought forth some applause, while that of Governor Johnson was most prolonged, and judging from this, the audience was composed largely of Johnson men.

At the close of the meeting, a man in the audience stated that if they would listen to him a few moments he would prove to them that the American workman was the poorest paid laborer in the world. He was hooted down at first, but finally took the stage and commenced a harangue on what the United States were sending to China, Japan, India, etc., but the crowd was not in the humor to let him go on. He made the statement that not a job was open for a man here, but was interrupted by Mr. Elliott, who said any man desirous of securing work could get it right here, and at good wages. When he found that his argument with Mr. Elliott would not stand, he began a ridicule of Mr. Bryan and Mr. Taft. He gave his name as Donnelly, and challenged any one in the audience to meet him in debate on the labor question on Thursday night, in the Fay opera house, or on any other night that they might name. Thus far his challenge has not been accepted.

WISER THAN LAWYERS.

Warring Couple Settle Differences and Walk Out.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the lawyers and judges are not always the best peacemakers was evidenced yesterday in Judge Prince's courtroom when John Kosich was on trial for non-support. The parties concerned are young people. At one stage of the trial all the lawyers, the interpreters and the judge went into the judge's office to settle a matter pertaining to the case, and when they came out they found that the couple who were the main parties to the trial had settled their differences between themselves and departed.

A trial of words was brought before Judge Moylan yesterday at the Missabe Mountain township hall. A number of Austrians were in court and testified that there was much bad language used between two women in one of their houses, but when the judge tried to find out with the aid of the interpreters just what had happened and why the matter was brought into the court, he could not make any headway and the case was dismissed.

VIRGINIA TO PLAY ELY.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.) — The Virginia high school football team will meet the Ely high school team on the Roosevelt grounds in this city tomorrow afternoon. Coach Walters has the Virginia boys in fine condition and tomorrow's game will probably be the hardest fought of any this season. The boys are anxious to create a wider interest in the game and are working hard to gain it, and it is hoped that a large crowd will turn out tomorrow to help "root" them to victory.

MURDER MAY BE RESULT

Gust Hill Said to Have Assaulted His Wife's Protector.

Hill Denies Assault and Makes Charges Against Victim.

Gust Hill was brought down to the county jail yesterday afternoon from Biwabik and he is being held to await the outcome of an assault he is said to have made on one John Gustafson. Gustafson is in a serious condition at Biwabik, with a fractured skull. He will be brought to Duluth and placed in a hospital here. If his condition warrants, a statement will be taken by the county attorney to use against Hill in case the injuries prove fatal.

The story of the affair as told at Biwabik is that Hill returned home in an intoxicated condition one night early this week and drove his wife out of the house. She fled to Gustafson's house and was followed by her husband. It is said Hill, on being refused admittance, broke through a window and when Gustafson attempted to protect Mrs. Hill, her husband is said to have hit Gustafson over the head with a chair.

Hill tells an entirely different story, denying all knowledge of the assault with which he is charged. His conversation at the county jail this morning consisted of a statement of wrongs at Gustafson's hands and a string of invective against the man, who, he charges, has been instrumental in disturbing the tranquility of his home life. He said that on the night previous to the alleged assault, he returned home from work to find his wife intoxicated. He said he learned Gustafson had been there during the day. He said he told his wife not to drink any more and let it go at that.

"The next day, when I came home from work, my children told me that my wife had gone to her mother's house across a little creek," he said. "I went over there and I found my wife, her mother and this man they call Gustafson, all drunk. While I was there, Gustafson called my wife bad names. I went down town and came back about two hours afterwards. I knocked at the door, but my mother-in-law wouldn't let me in, so I knocked on the window. It broke and then they came around and opened the door. I went in and only my wife and her mother were there. Both were drunk. I took my wife home and didn't see Gustafson at all."

Hiss said that on several occasions he learned of Gustafson taking beer and whisky to Mrs. Hill and on one occasion, he had taken a bottle of whisky away from Gustafson, when the latter was going to Hills house with it. Hill, who is a Finn, has a good command of English and talks intelligently.

SAYS WEST WAS LUCKY IN PANIC

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 23.—President E. P. Ripley, here to attend the annual meeting of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe stockholders, discussing the national political situation as related to the railroads, said:

"From a railroad standpoint there is little preference in the national election this fall. Personally we all have our preferences, but the railroads are

"As to the business outlook at the present time, the Santa Fe is improving. We are not hauling the volume of business that we did a year ago, but conditions are now much better than six months ago. Our loss in business is in the traffic usually handled from the East. Business in the West is as good as ever. The West scarcely knew what the recent panic was. The entire country, however, is gradually recovering."

FURNACE IS A SUCCESS

New Process of Smelting Ore is Discovered.

Millions of Tons of Lean Ore May Now be Used.

The furnace has had its initial run on ten tons of ore, and it is said to have been a complete success. If this is so, it is claimed by Duluth mining men that the ore smelting industry will be revolutionized, and that millions of tons of lean ore in Northern Minnesota and Michigan, which is not now considered valuable, will be utilized.

The new process, it is claimed, allows ore to be smelted for about one quarter of the cost under the present system.

G. A. St. Clair, the Duluth mining man, has a half interest in the furnace. Mr. St. Clair is out of the city at the present time and could not be reached today.

Those who know something of the workings of the new furnace, however, say it is the most important development in the iron manufacturing industry since the inventions of Sir Henry Bessemer.

BRYAN WAVE, SAYS WILLIAMS

Boston Statesman Predicts Overwhelming Election of Commoner.

George Fred Williams, the eminent Massachusetts statesman, who will speak at the armory this evening upon the national issues of the campaign, stated this afternoon that the Bryan wave is general throughout the country.

Mr. Williams has been to the Pacific slope, through the states of Idaho, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Colorado, Washington, California and Oregon and he says everywhere he has found the same enthusiastic sentiment for Bryan.

"I am just as confident of the election of Bryan as I am of the sun rising tomorrow," said Mr. Williams. "Everywhere there is a sentiment for Bryan that is unmistakable. I am confident that he will be returned a winner by a handsome majority. In my mind there is no doubt of the election of Mr. Bryan.

"I found the Pacific coast country solid for him. In every one of the western states I encountered the same prevailing sentiment. It is countrywide, and as I look at the situation there can be nothing but an overwhelming victory for Mr. Bryan."

COURT REPORTER IS OVERCOME

VOTERS MAY ADD NEW CANDIDATES.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. L. Weeks of the attorney general's office, has issued an opinion which clears up the problem as to how the blanks which the law provides for under the names of the candidates in the state ballot may be filled in. The blanks below the names of the candidates are left to allow a voter who does not wish to put a mark opposite the name of the candidates on the printed ballot to add names of men for whom he wishes to vote.

The opinion is that these extra names may be written, stamped in, or a sticker may be put on the ballot, provided the voter places a cross after the name he has appended as he would opposite the name on the printed list.

JOHNSON'S PLAN FOR LABRATORY INDORSED.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson's recommendation, made last November before a joint meeting of the railroad and warehouse commission and the grain inspection board, that the state establish a laboratory in connection with the inspection and grading of grain and employ a competent chemist to work under the supervision of the grain inspection board, was indorsed by the grain inspection board in its report to the railroad and warehouse commission.

COSTLY DINNERS.

The chef of one of the most garish hotels in Paris, just to show his resources, has framed up a dinner to cost $400 a cover. But it has never been ordered, and without an American to order it, the chef is in despair of ever being able to display his greatest ability, says the New York Sun.

This circumstance has led to a discussion concerning the cost of dinners now and in the past. King Milan of Servia once ordered a dinner in Paris at $40 a head, but that no longer counts. And then there was a dinner given to King Edward, then prince of wales, ten years ago this month, at which the twenty-three diners drank 2,300 francs worth of one particular wine (Chateau Lafitte), or $20 worth of the wine apiece.

It should perhaps be said that for some reason or other Edward didn't go to the dinner after all, but sent a lord to represent him. Maybe somebody whispered something to him about the wine. Anyway, the chroniclers said that he sent a worthy substitute.

But the general discussion of these high priced entertainments has resulted in the discovery that the great dinners of former days were not marvels which the present generation may not know. On the contrary, they were just such meals as are now provided, only that the wines gave them added cost which made the stories of them imposing.

"In this age of automobiles, can people be found any more who will eat for nourishment alone?" asked some worshippers of old times. "Is it not the absence of gourmets that has wrought the extinction of the Vatels?"

And the answer has come that the questioners were under illusion, that the ancient menus were scarcely works of art and that they owed their splendor largely to the costly wines which accompanied them. For example, a famous dinner is cited which took place where the dinner of the twenty-three and the 2,300 franc's worth of wine, already referred to, was held, at the Cafe Anglais.

It was given in 1867, in Napoleon III's time, and was known as the dinner of the three emperors. There were among the guests, besides Napoleon, the czar and the Emperor William I, the czarewitch and five grand dukes. The dinner cost $80 a head, and this was the simple bill of fare:

POTAGES.
Imperatrice et Fontanges.
RELEVES.
Souffles a la Reine.
Filets de Sole a la Venitienne.
Escalopes de Turbot au gratin.
Selle de Mouton puree Bretonne.
ENTREES.
Poulets a la Portugaise.
Pate chaud de cailles.
Momards a la Parisienne.
Sorbets au vin.
BUTTE.
Canetons a la Rouennaise.
Ortolans sur canape.
ENTREMETS.
Aubergines a l'Espagnole.
Asperges en branche.
Casseolette Princesse.
Bomb glacee.
DESSERTS.

But here came the reason for its cost. Behold the beverages that went along: Madere retour de l'Inde, 1846. Xeres, 1812; Chateau Yquem, 1847; Chambertin, 1846; Chateau Margaux, 1847; Chateau Latour, 1847; Chateau Lafitte, 1848.

It is said that the wines represented the chief cost of the dinner. Certainly the edibles do not suggest $80 a head.

FOUNTAIN OF SOAP BUBBLES.

Gentlewoman: One of the most novel and fascinating sights among all the fascinations of the Franco-British exhibition is the soap bubble fountain in the British Hall of Textile and Chemical Industries.

The fountain consists of a double basin surmounted by a graceful figure; concealed under the basin is an electric motor, air blast and pump; the first drives the two latter, which force soapy water through a pipe connected with eighty-seven different outlets, each one of which emits thousands and thousands of bubbles, which is ever changing hues fall like a kaleidoscopic cascade round the base.

In the daytime it is a marvellous sight, but at night, when innumerable electric lights beneath the bubbles are turned on, it is the most dazzling scene possible, and, borrowing an expression from the "Arabian Nights," one might most aptly speak of it as the "fountain of a thousand jewels," so sparkling, so radiant is the effect.

AGAINST THE LAW.

"In Switzerland this summer," said a Philadelphian, "I heard Charlemagne Tower describe the stringent police regulations of Berlin.

"Mr. Tower, by way of illustration, concluded with a little story.

"'Schmidt and Krauss met one morning in the park.

"'Have you heard,' says Schmidt, 'the sad news about Muller?'

"'No,' says Krauss. 'What is it?'

"'Well, poor Muller went boating on the river yesterday. The boat capsized and he was drowned. The water was ten feet deep.'

"'But couldn't he swim?'

"'Swim?' Don't you know that all persons are strictly forbidden by the police to swim in the river?'"

LA VIDA CORSETS

When Miss White, president of the Dressmakers' Protective Association of America, lectured on corsets the other day, one of the things she said was, "Length and lines make the good corset."

Now, people are fast learning that symmetry and size are not interchangeable terms and that a large woman may be as symmetrical as a slender one, if she only is properly corseted and knows how to carry herself.

The secret lies in proper corseting—it is folly for a stout woman to attempt to wear the same corset as a slender woman—and vice versa. The proper length and lines for "your" figure, regardless of your form may be obtained by the selection of that particular corset designed for your type by the makers of La Vida corsets.

Let our corset expert give you the benefit of her intelligent advice in the selection of your corset.

A UNIQUE RECORD.

Boston Globe: Albert M. Cross of Gloucester is the champion "never-did-anything" man of New England.

He has refrained from doing many of the common things which in the ordinary course of life it is but natural for most men to do.

He has never been on an electric car, steam train, bicycle or automobile; never been aboard ship on the water; never been to a theater, athletic event or entertainment of any kind; never used tobacco in any form or touched a drop of intoxicating liquor; never went outside of Gloucester voluntarily; in fact, he has failed to do so many ordinary things that he is a seven days' wonder to the natives of Gloucester and an object of interest to all the small boys of the city.

Cross broke the news of his total abstinence to his friends last week upon the occasion of his 55th birthday. It was a proud day for Gloucester's exceedingly abstimious resident. It was well known that Mr. Cross was not much of a hand at going about taking in the sights and having a high old time, but when he reeled off a long list of all the things he never did they gasped in amazement.

Cross' record would have been stronger were it not for the fact that a horse which he was driving once ran away, and before the scared animal could be stopped he had gone beyond the confines of Gloucester, and thus broken his driver's record of never having been outside the city.

Gloucester's home-loving man never had that feeling in his veins which imbued Kipling's Captains Courageous. Great as are the fame and achievements of Gloucester's mariners, Cross cared naught for a life on the ocean wave; he never had the least desire to become a member of the great fleet that calls Gloucester home; never went aboard the ships that came into the harbor, and rarely went down to see them.

The beautiful spots around Manchester, Rockport and Beverly are as unknown to Cross as the steppes of Russia. Boston in his mind is but a name.

Cross ascribes his record of never having taken an electric or steam car ride to his modesty. Somehow or other the sight of an electric car or steam train gives him a feeling of aversion, and upon the rare occasions when he might have been tempted to jump aboard the electric cars which go by his door his conscience would not allow him.

RECRUITERS LEAVE CITY

Ranks of Corps Filled and No More Men Are Needed.

Goodbye to the recruiting officers of the United States Marine corps, representatives of the oldest, yet smallest branch of the United States army.

Tomorrow, no longer will the jaunty blue coats, trimmed with red, and in the case of the officers, with gold braid, decorate Duluth street corners, for today the United States Marine corps of the district of Minnesota close the recruiting stations at Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis. The enlisting officers for the army still remain.

Preliminary orders, stating that the ranks of the marines are filled, 10,000 strong, and that no more men are needed for the present, arrived in Duluth Tuesday, and Capt. W. L. Redles, who has charge of this district, came to Duluth yesterday from the Twin Cities to superintend the work of closing the office here.

The Minnesota district has been the star district of the United States, and the Duluth office has been the star office of the district. There have been more men enlisted for the service from the Minnesota district than any other, and Duluth has done more than her share in giving recruits to the marine corps from this state.

Recruiting stations were opened in Minnesota by the marine corps on Feb. 2, 1905. Capt. George C. Thorpe had charge of the district then. He was relieved by Lieut. Brackett, who in turn was relieved by Lieut. William McNeel. Up to a few months ago Lieut. H. D. South was at the head of the district. He was replaced by Capt. W. L. Redles, who is the present chief.

All the stations were opened in Minnesota at the same time. At Duluth, the marine quarters were in the postoffice building, and were in charge of Sergeant O. Winde, who was relieved on March 21, 1905, by Sergeant Harry M. Hutchings. Sergeant Hutchings has been the recruiting officer here ever since, and in enlisting men he has been very successful. In less than four years 553 men have entered the service from Duluth. In 1905 there were 166 enlistments, in 1906, 170; in 1907, 176, and this year 41.

The force stationed at Duluth consists of Seargent Hutchings, Corporal E. Harris and Private James T. Holton. They will leave either this afternoon or tomorrow morning for St. Paul, where they will join the marines there, and travel on to Brooklyn, N. Y., where they will go on duty in the navy yards.

Had a Close Call.

Mrs. Adda L. Croom, the widely known proprietor of the Croom Hotel, Vaughn, Miss., says: "For several months I suffered with a severe cough, and consumption seemed to have its grip on me, when a friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery. I began taking it, and three bottles effected a complete cure." The fame of this life saving cough and cold remedy, and lung and throat healer is world wide. Sold at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

THE COWS LED THEM HOMEWARD

Though Lost on the Mountains, Girl Kept Her Wits.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 23.—From Starlight, a hamlet near this city, comes a lost-in-the-woods story that outtwinkles anything in the season's crop thus far. The heroine of the adventure is Miss Emma Knight.

A few nights ago Miss Knight led a party of friends through the woods to Stockport to attend a prayer meeting. She has traveled the woodland paths from childhood, and the party had the fullest confidence in its guide. Delaying to chat with friends at the close of the meeting they did not begin their homeward journey until the moon had gone down.

Weary and footsore they started on their long tramp and everything went well until the Beaver dam was reached. Here the fair guide decided to lead the party over the mountain by a short cut, but in the darkness she selected the wrong path. After following the path several hundred yards she realized her mistake and informed the party that they were lost. In an attempt to return to the main path they wandered about in a circle, finally grouping on a fallen tree to rest.

In the distance could be heard the faint twinkle of a cowbell. Bidding her companions follow her, Miss Knight picked her way in the direction whence the sound came and finally located the herd. She recognized them as belonging to William Stevens, who lives not far from her own home.

To the amazement of every one in the party she grabbed one of the animals by the tail and twisted it vigorously. "Catch on!" she shouted over her shoulder as the indignant cow dashed down the mountain side, pulling her through underbrush and over rocks. The other members of the party each selected a pilot and, following the guide's example, gave the tail a healthy twist. Helter skelter down the mountain they went, the young women screaming from fright, but holding on for dear life.

At last they reached a body of water, which Ned Tarbox said was the Stockport Beaver dam. Here they stopped, exhausted from fatigue and hunger, and, at the suggestion of the Rev. Mr. Abrams, they milked one of the cows and drank the milk. Walking four miles more, they met a searching party that had started from Starlight to look for them, and the last lap of their eventful journey was made in a wagon.

In rescueing the party from a night in the woods the sharp-witted country girl had made use of a piece of knowledge imparted to her years ago by a pioneer farmer—that a cow, when alarmed, will hit the shortest trail home.

NEW METHOD OF USING CONCRETE

House Molded in Sections Which Are Raised in Place.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 23.—The state of Ohio is erecting a building at Camp Perry, the state range, in Ottawa county, which, when completed, will doubtless be the center of interest for architects and builders throughout the United States. The reason is that it is constructed in a method almost entirely new, and an additional reason is that the builder, who will get about $12,000 for his work, will put nearly the whole amount in advertising the building.

The building is to be used for armory purposes. It is two stories high, of reinforced concrete, and is being built in sections. The sections are then raised into position, concrete poured between them, making the whole a solid mass. The advantage in the method is very easy to see.

In the past, in building concrete buildings, the building is practically built of frame before it is concreted. The forms for the concrete beams, walls, etc., are built up in the air, then it is necessary to carry the concrete up to the top and pour it in.

By the new method, a flat framework like a big shallow box, is ued. The window sash, door frames or whatever is needed, are laid flat in the box, then comes the wheelbarrow brigade and dumps in the concrete. It is allowed to set while the workmen start work on another section. The flat box is rested on jackscrews before any concrete is poured in, and it is this part of the method which is protected by patents, giving the builder a monopoly. With the ordinary jackscrew it is said it would be impossible to raise the 100-ton sections of wall without straining or cracking them, but the newly patented devices are manipulated by a traction engine of very low power with no trouble whatever.

After the sections are raised, the boards are knocked off, and the outside may be treated with cement and sand to make it any color desired. The coloring is not done, of course, until after concrete has been poured into the cracks between the sections. In the Camp Perry building, white sand is used as a dresser, making a building of dazzling whiteness.

The United States government is watching the erection of the building with much interest, as it has long been looking for something as substantial and as enduring as granite which would make imposing looking structures at a less cost than granite, and it thinks possibly the man has found the secret.

CABBAGE CROP SMALL; DARK FOR SAUERKRAUT.

Sandusky, Ohio, Oct. 23.—The cabbage crop this year amounts to only about one-third of what it was last year, and the owners or managers of the numerous sauerkraut factories outlying this city in Erie, Huron, Ottawa and Sandusky counties, are afraid that they will be unable to secure enough for conversion to supply the demand for their respective trades. They are agreed that in view of the fact that the winter promises to be a hard one for the hundreds of unemployed, whose financial resources are rapidly being depleted, sauerkraut, the price of which under ordinary circumstances would place it within the reach of all seeking a substantial food, must necessarily rise to a place among the delicacies. The long dry period just recently terminated is said to be the cause of the shortage in the cabbage crop.

CAT ATTEMPTS SUICIDE BECAUSE DOG IS DEAD.

Findlay, Ohio, Oct. 23.—Despondent because its canine chum was ground beneath car wheels, a large Persian cat owned by Mrs. D. L. Warner, attempted suicide, but was unsuccessful.

The cat climbed a large tree and deliberately fastened its head in the crotch of a limb and permitted its body to fall. Mrs. Warner witnessed the act and rescued puss.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

RURAL MAIL IN CANADA

First Route Established for Distance of Seven Miles.

System to be Extended as Fast as Revenue Permits.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 23.—Rural mail delivery has been established by the Canadian postoffice department between Hamilton and Lancaster, a distance of seven miles. This is the first experiment in Canada. It was opened under favorable circumstances, and is said to be working well. Other routes will soon follow, and before long the system will spread all over the country. This will, of course, take time because of the great expense. There is no doubt it adds to the comfort of the farmer, just as telephone connection has done. With these extra facilities more force can be given to the cry "back to the land." The fact that the system is being established during a general election will only add to the recognized importance of the farmer as a voter, although the opposition will no doubt regard it as an undue influence on the part of the government.

However, rural mail delivery has been supported by both parties ever since Sir William Mulock was postmaster general, the only argument against it being the cost. It is not likely that so much can be done in the way of extending this service as the government would like. For instance, the financial position of the Dominion for the last six months was about $17,000,000 worse than for the same time last year. The revenue was over $9,000,000 lower and the expenditure about $8,000,000 greater. Of the decrease in revenue the falling off in the customs revenue is responsible for $8,261,558. The postal revenue increased by $195,000. For September the revenue was $7,262,950, as compared with $8,378,302 for September of last year. The decrease is considerably smaller than for the preceding months and with the gradual improvement of business following a good harvest throughout the Dominion the revenues in all the departments are now picking up, and it is expected that for the balance of the year there will be a much more favorable statement.

Crop Report.

The department of agriculture has just issued a statement on the yield and quality of field crops in Canada. The average yield of wheat is estimated at 17½ bushels per acre, indicating a total production of 116,561,000 bushels; oats, 33.7 bushels per acre, tatal production 267,651,000 bushels; barley, 29 bushels per acre, total production 50,723,000 bushels; and rye, 18.8 bushels per acre, total production 1,889,000 bushels. Besides these, there was a total production of 7,178,000 bushels of peas, 7,365,000 bushels of buckwheat, 21,007,000 busnels of corn mor husking, mixed grains over 19,000,000 and flax seed about 1,500,000. The potato yield is about 73,000,000 bushels, and turnips over 84,00,. The yield of wheat, as estimated from the condition od the crops at the end of August is not maintained by the present threshing results, the total yield as now estimated being 3 1-3 bushels per acre less, or a diminution in the total production as then estimated of 8,39,000 bushels, but the crop is almost entirely due to the returns from the provinces of Satkatchewan and Manitoba, where climatic influences appear to have had greater effect upon the yield than were indicated by the appearance of the crops at the end of August.

In Manitoba, Sasketchewan and Alberta the estimated yield of wheat is 95,818,000 bushels, of oats 105,451,000 bushels and barley 26,362,000 bushels. Estimates of quality, based upon threshing results, are expressed and numerical percentages of a standard condition represented by 100, and this number would indicate that the grains have been well headed and well filled and have not been affected by frost, rust or smut, etc., to any appreciable extent. Measured on this basis, the average quality of the crops throughout Canana is expressed by the following percentages: Wheat, 75; oats, 76; barley, 71; rye, 73; peas, 63; beans, 75; buckwheat, 74; mixed grains 75; flax, 68; corn for husking, 82; potatoes, 74; turnips and other roots, 88; hay and clover, 80; fodder corn, 92; sugar beet, 70.

Bad for Railway Project.

Maj. Moodie, who is in charge of the mounted police posts on the Hudson bay, writes to the department here that Fort Churchill harbor was not sufficiently clear of ice to allow a steamer to enter until July 1st. This is important because of the proposed Hudson Bay railway which will have its terminus at Fort Churchill. It means less than three months' navigation. The major says that the winter was one of great hardship for the Eskimo owing to the great scarcity of game. One native died of starvation between Fullerton and Baker Lake, and others of the party were unable to make their way unaided to the post. Had it not been for the food supplied them by the mounted police, there would have been much loss of life. So many of the dogs died of starvation that the hunters were further handicapped in procuring food. The spring was early at Churchill, but the summer was late. "There was practically none," says Maj. Moodie, "until the end of June, when the mosquitoes began to get their work in."

IT MAY SURPRISE SOME DYSPEPTICS

To Learn That Over-Drugging Often Delays a Cure.

Proper Diet, Plenty of Time for Eating and Rest Will Cure Most Cases Unless the Blood-Supply Is Deficient.

The adage "One man's meat is another man's poison" is scientifically true and to a certain extent dyspeptics should allow their desires to dictate their diet, always omitting articles found to cause distress. The adage holds true with drugs. Medicine that will relieve one case of indigestion will aggravate another.

Drugs play very little part in the modern treatment of dyspepsia. From a list of articles easily digested the patient selects those that most appeal to the appetite, avoids hasty eating and rests after each meal by lying down for a time if circumstances permit. Then, unless the supply of blood to the stomach is deficient, nature works the cure.

The importance of healthy well-oxidized blood is shown by the fact that the stomach demands about nine times more blood during digestion than when it is empty. In fact, healthy blood is necessary to the normal activity of the stomach and when it is lacking nothing will more promptly restore the digestion than building up the blood. Pallor and weakness, gas on the stomach, sour risings in the throat, dizziness and shortness of breath when appearing in cases of dyspepsia, point to a deficiency in the blood supply. Such a case was that of Miss Margaret Reilly of No. 55 Thirty-seventh street, Milwaukee, Wis.

"I had a weak stomach for a number of years," she says, "and, although I was careful in what I ate, it kept growing weaker. I suffered intense pain if I ate a hearty meal. Gas formed on my stomach and caused me to be dizzy. My stomach was generally sour. I was short of breath, had a sallow complexion and felt dull all of the time. At times I was confined to bed for a day or so.

"I was treated by a doctor at Anoka, Minn., and for a time I thought he was helping me, but when I stopped taking his medicine I became worse again. After I had been sick for a year I began to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I gave them a good trial, for I soon saw they were helping me, and was cured. I am in good health now and so can heartily recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

A great many people who are suffering from indigestion are suffering unnecessarily. They can be cured. The first step is to send to the Dr. Williams' Medicine company, Schenectady, N. Y., for a copy of their diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat." It is free on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine company, Schenectady, N. Y.

PROBLEM IS PERPLEXING

Germany Planning to Introduce a New Series of Taxes.

Tax on Motor Cars Has Proven an Entire Failure.

Berlin, Oct. 23.—Germany is on the verge of introducing a new series of taxes, and it seems that the German secretary of the exchequer is at his wits' end with ragard to the solution of the problem of how to produce the means necessary for the peayment of the administrative expenses of the empire. The tax on motor cars has proved an entire failure, and the same fate has overtaken the tax on railway tickets. The latter tax especially has had a disastrous efect on the financial position. Since the German railways are run in a large degree by the Prussian government and in consequence Prussia looks for a large income from this source, the result of this tax is not without a humorous side, seen from the standpoint of the unprejudiced looker-on. The tax on railway tickets has caused a considerable number of travelers who formerly traveled first class to take to traveling second class, and has converted a lot of second-class passengers into third-class travelers. By reason of this result the gross profit on the railways has decreased considerably, and Prussia has had to pay out of its own pocket the railway ticket tax for the whole German empire. An urgent remedy for this state of affairs is required by the Prussian government, and a bill to be brought before the Reichstag early in the coming session to put the matter right. Other resources for keeping up and increasing the revenue of the empire will have to be looked for, and it is generally thought that some branch of German industry will have to pay the piper.

Balance Sheet Will Show Loss.

German industry is just now very busily employed in making up its balance sheet for the first year of the new tariff, and it seems that this balance sheet will show a considerable loss on the side of the German population. Especially disastrous have been the results of the tariff in the chemical industry, an industry which is prominent in Germany. Before the institution of the tariff chemical manufacturers found a large market for their goods in Russia and other European countries, but they have been practically put out of the business in Russia, for the simple reason that this country responded to the German duty on German-manufactured articles. To prevent the complete loss of their business in these countries, German chemical firms have been compelled to erect branch manufactories abroad, an undertaking which has required not only a considerable amount of capital expenditure, but also the technical training of a new staff of native workmen.

Paper Industry Suffers.

The secretary of the Berliner Papier Industrie Verein (Berlin Paper Industry association) said, in the course of an interview with the representative of the Berliner Zeitung, that the paper industry, which formerly exported about 60 per cent of its total output, has suffered considerably during the last year. Many lines in this business have been put absolutely out of competition for the export trade, which consequently shows a decrease of about $15,000,000 for the past year. The tariff has also come down with a heavy hand upon the metal industry. It is here where the import of raw material comes especially into question, and many firms are now absolutely unable to compete with English or American manufacturers by reason of the fact that they can not get the raw products they require so cheaply as they could in the past.

Tariff Has Bad Influence.

It is generally admitted on all sides that the influence of the new protective tariff has been a bad one, and that the whole German industry has suffered under it. It is further stated by several manufacturers who employ large staffs of workmen that, owing to the high prices which resulted from the duties on agricultural products and meat, living expenses have considerably increased over the whole country, and the cost of labor has naturally become greater. The firms have been compelled to comply with the demands of their workmen for increased wages, but this increase has profited the workman very little. The average workman may now receive a trifle more for his work, but since his living expenses have increased on a disproportionate scale to his increase of wages he is not so well off as he was before. The only part of the German people which has profited under the new tariff has been possibly the agricultural population, and it is very questionable whether this improvement will last, especially in the case of the small holder. The small holder, in buying the whole amount of his seed and a large part of his food, has now to pay far higher prices than before without profiting very much from the sale of his own products. Taking these points in consideration, it will be seen that the result of the working of the new tariff has been a failure but it is not unlikely that a change in public opinion will take place, and that many of those constituencies which sent a protectionist to the reischstag at the last election will revease their former decision, and send a free trader next time.

People Taken Into Secrets.

Although the German government and Herr Sydow, the finance minister, continue to indulge in generalities with regard to the character of the scheme for reforming the imperial finances, the members of the reichstag, to whom the secret of the government's intentions has been revealed, are in turn beginning to take the public into their confidence. The Cologne Gazette, for example, publishes an article by one of these parliamentary luminaries, who indicates the total amount of fresh revenue which the government expects to derive from various sources in order to obtain the required additional sum of $125,000,000 a year. According to this account, spirits, beer and tobacco are together to yield increased revenue amounting to $70,000,000. Incidentally, it is stated that the government proposes to revive the project for a state monopoly of the production of raw spirits. The proportion in which the increased duty upon tobacco is to be borne by cigars, cigarettes and pipe tobacco, has apparently not been decided, but it is estimated that beer can be made to yield an additional $25,000,000 a year. A similar yield is expected from the increased death and legacy duties, and from the proceeds of the estates of intestate persons, which, in the absence of direct or less indirect heirs, are to fall to the state. Thus $95,000,000 of the required $125,000,000 additional revenue will have been provided for.

Excise Taxes on Wines.

The remaining $30,000,000 is to be derived from an excise duty on sparkling wines, together with taxes on gas and electricity and newspaper advertisements. While the revenue which the wine duty may be expected to yield has not bene precisely estimated, it is expected that gas and electricity can be made to produce about $12,500,000, while advertisements might return about half this sum. A possible increase in the matricular contributions is held in reserve, and the government, apparently, propose to obtain an additional sum of $6,000,000 from this source by doubling the existing rate of 40 pfennings per head of the population. This estimate is based on a population numbering 65,000,000 persons. From these figures, which may provisionally be assumed to be correct, it seems as if the government has not only covered itself against the possible rejection of one or twe of its proposals, but has also provided for the very considerable cost of assessing and collecting the new taxes. An increase in the matricular contributions is practically equivalent to an increase in the state income taxes, which are in several cases already extremely high, and such increase, if pressed, will be bitterly fought.

SECRET SERVICE GUARDS MORSE

New York, Oct. 23.—A juror's illness, which may entail a legal question stopped the trial of Charles W. Morse, the capitalist, and A. H. Curtis, ex-president of the National Bank of Nort hAmerica, charged with violatio nof the federal banking laws.

The juror is Gordon Wendell. The other jurors are quartered still in the Hotel Astor, under guard, and an interesting fact has developed regarding this guard. It has been thought that they were deputies under orders from United States Marshal Henkel, but it appears now that his supervision is only nominal, and that the men are United States secret service men brought here from various parts of the country to meet a federal statute which places juries under the supervision of a deputy marshal.

YOUNG MAN IS UNDER ARREST

Well Dressed Youth is Charged With Passing Forged Checks.

Walter Gilligan, well dressed, refined of speech and manner, bearing all the outward marks of a young son of rich people, was arrested last night in the lobby of the Lenox hotel by Detective Terry of the Duluth police. He will be taken to Superior to answer to charges of forgery made by several people across the bay. Gilligan, who is about 22 years old, formerly lived with his parents at Superior. His father is a retired farmer living near Adams, Minn.

Wednesday Gilligan was arrested on complaint of several Duluth people, who had paid him about $50 in all on worthless checks. He promised to make good the money and the people refused to prosecute.

Yesterday, however, Detective Dill of Superior identified the young man and said that he would be prosecuted in the Wisconsin city. He is said to have put about $70 worth of bad paper in circulation there and the people, who put up the money, are not inclined to take a return of the money as final. When Gilligan was searched at the station, he had only a few cents. He said he spent all of the money secured on the checks.

FLEES IN AUTO WITH DIAMOND

Robber Shoots Jeweler and Escapes With Two Earrings.

New York, Oct. 23.—An audacious robbery and possible murder occurred here last night. Maurice Tannenholz, a Lexington avenue jeweler was shot by an unknown man who posed as a friend of Constant A. Andrews, president of the United States Savings bank and stolen two diamond earrings. The robber escaped in a taxicab and the jeweler was removed to a hospital. He has three bullet wounds.

Tannenholz was in his shop when a man entered and handed him a typewritten letter addressed to him and purporting to be from President Andrews. It introduced the bearer as George H. Leopold, an old personal friend. It further states that Leopold had $2,000 to invest in diamonds. Tannenholz showed Leopold a tray of diamonds.

The stranger selected two earrings and then suddenly ran from the store. Tannenholz and two clerks pursued him so hotly that the former soon grabbed him by the shoulder. Then the robber drew a revolver, fired at Tannenholz and sprang into the taxicab. The chauffeur was undoubtedly a confederate, for he sent the auto flying down the street.

WANT CONGRESS TO RAISE PAY

Railway Mail Clerks Will Ask for an Increase.

Louis Lohmann and Peter Hanson, railway mail clerks on the Great Northern railway, returned yesterday from Grand Forks, where they attended a meeting of the railway mail clerks of the Northwest. Plans were formed for a crusade for higher wages. The movement is general throughout the country and the mail clerks have hope of inducing congress to recognize their needs and raise salaries to a point commensurate with the requirements and hazards of the work.

Two years ago congress raised the salaries of railway mail clerks $100 a year, which amounts to an increase of from 7 to 11 per cent. During the past ten years living expenses have increased about 20 to 25 per cent, so the clerks think further action should be taken at the next session of congress.

The minimum salary for railway clerks is $800 and the maximum salary $1,600. Only about 4 per cent receive the maximum, the average is $1,152, and 62 per cent receive $1,100 or less. It is estimated that clerks pay out about $250 in expenses while away from home on their runs, so that their net salary is considerably smaller than the amount paid by the government.

The postoffice department is in sympathy with the clerks, realizing that the position must be more attractive if the right kind of men are to be enlisted. If the standard of efficiency is to be maintained, higher salaries must be paid to make the positions attractive, and the clerks and the department will seek to secure a larger appropriation from congress at the next session to increase the salaries.

TOWN IS RESTORED TO NEGRO FOUNDERS.

Anniston, Ala., Oct. 23.—By a decision of Judge Coleman of the Anniston City court, the town of Hobson City, Ala., the only town government in the United States maintained by negroes exclusively, regains its autonomy. An act of the legislature annexed Hobson City to Oxford, thereby forcing the negroes to yield their municipal charter. Now they will resume their local government. The town was founded during the Spanish war and named in honor of Congressman Hobson.

Why They Were Certified

Being a state official and authorized to authenticate documents, I have been called upon in my official capacity to authenticate hundreds of statements that are so at variance with the popular beliefs, and the evidence of the text books, as to the curability of chronic kidney disease, that the unusual precaution was taken to have them authenticated with an official seal.

Several hundred letters and statements selected because they were from supposed incurables were presented for attestation and certificates. The recoveries reported by them permit only two views, viz: either the age of miracles has not passed or the text books are wrong and the supposed dead line between the curable and the incurable forms of kidney disease has disappeared. To my mind there is no escape from the latter view, and chronic kidney disease, even in its worst forms, is no longer an incurable malady.

I further certify that the recoveries certified to as above were made by Fulton's Renal Compound.

In attestation of the foregoing, I hereby attach my signature and official seal at my office in Montgomery Block, San Francisco, California, this 28th day of February, 1908.

(Seal) THOMAS S. BURNES, Notary Public, In and for the City and County of San Francisco.

Fulton's Renal Compound is the first successful Renal emollient thus reducing Renal inflammation, and kidney disease is now curable for the first time. Even serious supposed incurable forms yield as above. At all first-class druggists. L. W. Leithead Drug Co., wholesale distributers.

TRY THIS FOR YOUR COUGH.

Mix a half-ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure with two ounces of Glycerine and a half pint of good Whisky; shake well, and take a teaspoonful every four hours.

It is claimed this mixture will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable. Being free from opiates and drugs, it is far preferable to the ordinary cough remedies, and, as it provides a quantity sufficient to last the average family an entire year, is as inexpensive as it is effective.

The necessary ingredients can be secured from any good prescription druggist, and the mixture easily prepared. It is well to remember, when having this formula put up, that the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure is never sold in bulk, but is put up for dispensing only in half-ounce vials, each vial securely sealed in a round wooden case. Rank imitations, resembling the genuine only in name and style of package, are sometimes offered, but these are essentially ineffective and often cause nausea. It is better to purchase the ingredients separately and prepare the mixture at home. Be sure to get the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906, Serial No. 451, prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

TO BE WEDDED TO AUSTRIAN PRINCE

Is Report Regarding Mrs. Nathalie Schenck Collins of Newport.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 23.—Newport's cottage settlement members are interested in the reported matrimonial attentions of Prince Vincent Zu Windisch-raetz of the Austrian-Hungary legation at Washington, and Mrs. Nathalie Schenck Collins, whose marriage to Capt. Glen Collins of the British army, in California, six years ago startled her many friends in the Newport-New York set.

Before Capt. and Mrs. Collins went abroad they visited Newport, where they were received with open arms. While here Capt. Collins being short of ready funds, endeavored to borrow funds from Mrs. Collin's friends, who were willing and anxious to do anything for her, but not for him.

The couple then went abroad. Soon came the news of their separation, and only last month came the divorce decree for Mrs. Collins in New York. Recently her father died, leaving mother and daughter a moderate fortune.

The prince came to Newport last month, occupying a handsome suite at the Muenchinger King cottage, which was close to the Redwood cottage, where Mrs. Collins, her son Sunny, her mother and her uncle, George Morgan, reside.

As the family were in mourning they did not attend the social functions in the cottage settlement, but their home was the Mecca of many callers.

Mrs. Collins, who is still a beautiful woman, was seen with the prince considerably, showing him about Newport and presenting him to her friends.

FATHER CANNOT DICTATE FASHIONS OF THE FAMILY.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 23.—Husbands have no right to dictate what their children shall wear. Val Hildebrand, Central avenue, found this out when his wife complained to Police Prosecutor Fenger that he had attempted to prevent his daughter, Viola, 16, from wearing a net over her hair.

Mrs. Hildebrand also charged that her husband had used hot coffee in an effort to force obedience to his orders. Confronted with arrest on an assault and battery charge, Hildebrand readily consented to allow his wife to manage the household.

Fenger then persuaded the couple to forgive and forget.

ALONZO MILLER KNOWS IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 23.—Alonzo Miller, 68 years old, declared dead in 1890, was found alive in Howard City, Mich., through a newspaper advertisement. Miller came to Cleveland and received his share in a large estate left by an uncle in England.

Miller left Painesville many years ago to go to war. Nothing was heard from him after that.

SUSPICIOUS OF BROTHER

Friends Will Try to Have Court Appoint New Administrator.

And Society Wants to Pay Money Direct to Widow.

Because they believe Mike Stepancic is not a proper person to be administrator of the estate of John Stepancic, his brother, who was killed in the Fayal mine at Eveleth, Feb. 15, of this year, friends of Mrs. Kate Stepancic, the widow, who lives in Austria, will make an attempt to have the administrator removed. They are especially opposed to having him handle any funds due the widow, and accordingly will ask the probate court to remit $400, due the widow from the Fayal Miners' Aid fund, direct to the woman. F. D. Adams, assistant solicitor for the Oliver Iron Mining company, has interested himself in the case, as W. H. Plummer, treasurer of the Fayal Miners' Aid society, has turned over to him the check for $400. The money being in the nature of insurance, does not go into the dead man's estate, but direct to the widow. But Mike Stepancic, the administrator, has a power of attorney to act for the widow, and under it he could take the money. Friends of the widow are skeptical as to his likelihood to remit the entire sum to Austria, and they will make efforts to have it remitted through the probate court.

Mike Stepancic put himself into disrepute with friends of his brother and the widow by his conduct of a suit against the Oliver Iron Mining company for damages for his brother's death. It is said the mining company offered to pay the widow $1,600 direct in settlement of the claim, but refused to pay it to Stepancic. The latter thereupon refused the offer, it is said, and brought suit for $5,000. The case was tried at the current term of court and a verdict was returned in favor of the mining company.

Friends of John Stepancic and his widow say that Mike had selfish motives in declining the offer of settlement and bringing suit. Now the officers of the aid society refuse to pay the money due the widow from them to Stepancic, preferring to see that it gets to the widow. Action of probate court removing Stepancic as administrator and directing that the money be paid direct to the widow is necessary, and they will seek to secure it.

Where Bullets Flew.

David Parker, of Fayette, N. Y., a veteran of the civil war, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: "The good Electric Bitter have done is worth more than five hundred dollars to me. I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried Electric Bitters, and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c at all drug stores.

SWINDLE PERPETRATED BY FAKE ORGANIZER.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 23.—The police are investigating a total of thirty-one complaints made by men who claim to have been swindled out of $25 each during the last three months by a man who posed as having the authority to form a Masonic lodge. A number tried to gain admittance to Cleveland lodges with the signs furnished, and received a cold reception.

Police Prosecutor Cull found a group of the victims lined up before his office when he went to police headquarters the other day. One claimed that he had paid $35 for the 32d degree. Another came forward with the statement that he had just finished preparations to take the degrees for the blue lodge.

OFFICE GIRL BEATS ALL GRAPE-PICKING RECORDS.

Cleveland Ohio, Oct. 23.—Miss Bessie Hayes, a stenographer in the United States district attorney's office, picked a ton of grapes in one day.

During the summer, Miss Hayes lives with her mother near Dover, Ohio. The place contains one of the finest vineyards in that section. Two weeks ago, when there was not a sign of rain in sight and the grapes on the vines were spoiling, Miss Hayes suggested to her mother that it would be a good time to begin the harvest.

"But I can't get anyone to help now," said Mrs. Hayes.

"That's all right. Give me baskets and a sunbonnet and I will bring in the grapes," said Miss Hayes.

At sunset Miss Hayes limped back to the house and sank into a chair. There she was told that she had broken all country records, having collected 2,260 pounds of grapes that day. Miss Hayes said that she was willing after that to sit on the porch and watch the others work.

OHIO UNIVERSITY MAY TRAIN SOCIAL WORKERS.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 23.—Among the resolutions passed at the conclusion of the Ohio state conference of charities and corrections, which held its sessions at Sandusky last week ,was one recommending to the governor and the legislature the great advisability of making more adequate provision for practical courses of study in philanthropy and related subjects at the Ohio State university, for the training of social workers to assist in solving the pressing social and economical problems confronting the state.

This resolution was adopted at the suggestion of James E. Hagerty, professor of sociology and economics at the university, who was chosen president of the conference. Prof. Hagerty is deemed well qualified for filling the position of president, and has done much for the cause in Ohio, along with his work at the big university. He has placed a large number of men in the same work in institutions about the country.

HUMAN SIDE OF EDISON

New Portrait of the Great Inventor Given by "Dooley."

New York, Oct. 23.—It is a new picture of Thomas A. Edison that Finley Peter Dunne has painted in the American Magazine for November. It is not the great inventor that Mr. Dunne shows, but the man. It is the splendidly human side of the "wizard" that has been analyzed and made to stand out above all achievement of laboratory or dynamo.

Mr. Dunne, whose "Dooley" articles brought him fame, has written of Mr. Edison in the department entitled "In the Interpreter's House." He says in part:

"The other day I went out to see F.M Edison at his laboratory in Orange, N. J. I had not expected to write anything about my visit, having quite another purpose in view, but I came away with a curiously new impression of the man. Seven or eight years ago I had occasion to visit Edison's laboratory repeatedly, and to talk a number of times, more or less at length, with the inventor himself.

"At that time I was chiefly interested in the results of Edison's extrordinary activities, for if there ever was a place of marvels, that place was, and is today, the inventor's laboratory at Orange. At that time I missed a clear view of the man in the multitude of his works.

"In eight years the plant at Orange has developed new and greater buildings, filled with even more marvelous marvels; and yet when I came out of the little gate into the street after my visit the other day I found myself strangely unstirred by the new change I had seen. I found myself saying: 'The most wonderful thing here is this wonderful old man.'

"For while he has worked for forty years with retort and lathe and dynamo, the greatest of his inventions, after all, is a unique human character.

Having the Fun of His Life.

"When we met the other day I referred to newspaper reports I had seen. "'I thought you had retired and that you were looking for fun.'

"'Me?' he answered. 'Why, I have retired, and I'm having the fun of my life.'"

"He explained what he meant by retireing and resting after forty years of work.

"'I've retired,' he said, 'from money-making. That's what I have been trying to escape from. Now I'm free, and I'm going to have some fun. Money has got me into all the trouble I've ever had. If you want lies and entanglements and trouble, just go in for money-making. If you want to meet rascals and have friends turn out bad, get into business!

"'No, I don't like the crowd or the game. I don't see how any man can go in for money-haking as a real business in life. It would kill me. I don't need much of anything personally, but I've had to have a lot of money for my work. It's come, somehow, and now I've got all I need, and all I want—and I've retired.'

"'And you're having fun?'

Steering Clear of Money-making.

"'Yes, I'm having the fun of my life—steering clear of anything that has any money-making connected with it. I'm trying some chemical experiments. For years I've been making notes—I've got a lot of books up there filled with suggestions which I've been planning to work out as soon as I could get the time. Now I'm going at them—not to make money—but just to find out things. I'm going to put a lot of things together and take 'em apart and see what the result is. That's the greatest fun in the world.'

"So far, indeed, as the outer habits of Edison's life are concerned, there has been no change. He has merely retired into new achievements. In the library of the labroatory where I waited the inventor I saw, on a little bare table, in one of the alcoves, the remnants of his luncheon; part of a glass of milk and a crust of bread.

Picture of a Fine Old Man.

"I parted from him at the doorway, but I carried with me the picture he made standing bareheaded in the sunshine, erect, white-haired, in his worn black coat. His fine face, with the minute humor-wrinkles around the eyes, was unmistakably that of a contented, peaceful, simple-hearted old man.

"I thought of the manufacturing plants in every part of civilized creation where wheels turn and belts whir wholly or partly because this man has lived and worked. I thought how life had been made brighter and easier and sweeter for hundreds of millions of human beings through his many inventions.

"And it is clean greatness—Edison's. He wears by rights the look of a contented man. He has robbed no widows, crushed no competitors, stolen no franchises, taken no rebates. He is rich not because he gambled in the stock markets; nor employed children and women at starvation wages; nor awaited, doing nothing himself, for the rise in the price of land or corn or cotton.

His Is a Clean Greatness.

"He is famous not because he manipulated an election, or bribed a legislature. There is nowhere in his career any record of success which has come of devious or deceitful ways. His is indeed a clean greatness. He has worked for what he won, and everything that he has done has been in the direction of making this a better world for mankind to dwell in.

"Men who toil all their lives for themselves alone grow tired; they want to stop and 'get something out of life.' Of course they do; but they are tired, not of work, but of their own inadequate and selfish lives. But a man like Edison does not get tired; you see that in the youthful look in his eyes.

"Surely there is not better or more hopeful model for struggling, limited youth than this man Edison. Not that he has risen from a poor boyhood to be a rich and famous inventor, but because by steady work through many years he has become a fine, simple-hearted, generous useful old man."

DYNAMITE USED AS MESSENGER

Engineer Pre-empted a Valuable Mining Claim by Novel Method.

Elk Lake, Ont. Oct. 23.—Bronson Howard's signal scene in "Shenandoah" has been played in the North country, with the tall scrub pines and the treasure laden hills of the Montreal river country as the scene, hardy miners in rough homespun clothes instead of the blue coated soldiery, and a fortune in the form of a silver mine, as the variations in the plot.

Dr. Barlow, a mining engineer whose scholarship is attested by an L. L. D., and William Kilpatrick were rival claimants to a silver claim on Gow Ganda lake, thirty miles distant. There was a dispute as to the good faith of the discovery, and the mining inspector called the two to this point for a hearing in the office of the mining recorder. The claim was thrown out.

This is exactly what Dr. Barlow had anticipated. To circumvent the possibility of Kilpatrick securing the coveted prize he had posted a number of his friends in relays at various points along the route. With an expert Indian guide and canoeist he left Elk Lake. Having reached a certain point a few miles distant from the receiving office he touched off a fuse, which was attached to a 10-pound charge of dynamite.

This was the signal for the next sentry on his staff, and so on. There was a succession of explosions of this kind, which gave the intelligence at the Barlow camp and Gow Ganda that the decision was adverse. Immediately Dr. Barlow's friends, who were left at home, once more started to stake a mining claim, and 9 o'clock that evening a mineral discovery sufficient to warrant the taking of the oath of discovery had been made. Dr. Barlow and his Indian guide reached the camp during the night, took the necessary field notes and set out once more on their journey to the recording office.

The discovery was filed on the Wednesday following at 2 p. m. All the inhabitants of the little Montreal river mining camp, the latest town to develop in the North country, were gathered at the landing place when Dr. Barlow and his hardy canoeist pulled in to shore. The ovation which they received was second only to that of a conquering hero.

Kilpatrick did not reach the recording office until some hours afterward.

SECOND FALL CORRECTS DEFORMITY FROM FIRST.

Bucyrus, Ohio, Oct. 23.—Mrs. George Stuckert fell and broke her arm three years ago and since that time it has been practically useless, as she was not even able to raise it to comb her hair.

On Sunday she fell down cellar while carrying a tub and wrenched the arm severely. Now it is getting well and has been fully restored to usefulness, the second fall having torn loose a ligament which had healed improperly and deprived her of the use of the arm.

BIG DECREASE SHOWN.

Assessment of Houghton County Considerably Less.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The assessed valuation of Houghton county as determined by the county committee on equalization and approved at the adjourned annual meeting of the county board Wednesday is $90,206,674, a decrease over last year of $28,489,548. The amount to be raised for state purposes by the various townships and cities amounts to $338,549.80 and for county purposes $162,372.01.

The board fixed the salaries of the county officers for the ensuing two years, the only increases being for prosecuting attorney and janitor at the courthouse, the former being increased from $3,000 to $4,000 per annum and the later from $1,000 to $1,200. There was considerable discussion pertaining to the treasurer's salary, but it was not changed.

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES

When the blood is pure and healthy, the skin will be soft, smooth, and free from all blemishes and eruptions; but when some acid humor takes root in the circulation, its presence is quickly manifested by some form of skin disease. The skin receives its necessary nourishment and strength from the blood. When, however, this vital fluid becomes a humor-laden stream, it can no longer preserve the healthy, natural appearance of the skin, but by its acrid, impure nature continually irritates and inflames the delicate tissues and fibres and keeps the cuticle in a diseased and disfigured condition. External applications cannot reach the blood, and therefore are beneficial only for their ability to reduce inflammation, and assist in keeping the parts clean. To cure any skin trouble the blood must be purified of the humors that are causing the trouble. S. S. S. drives out the humors from the blood so that the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased, is nourished by a healthy, cooling stream. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and removes every particle of impure matter, all acids and humors, and restores the blood to its normal, pure condition, thereby curing every form of skin disease or affection. Book on skin diseases and any medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

ONCE RICH, CHARGE NOW

Ex-Leader of Affairs in River Town in Hard Luck.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Years ago, William Ashley Jones was one of the wealthy citizens of the Northwest, a prominent railroad man, happy and with many friends. Today he occupies a cell in the county jail, penniless and unknown.

Jones was arraigned in the district court Wednesday before Judge Brill on the charge of assaulting Mat Murgus, a fellow inmate of the alms house. He told the court that he would like an attorney appointed, as he had no money to hire one himself, and then his story was disclosed and it sounded like a romance.

"Some twenty years ago," said Jones, "I was the president of the Winona & Western railway, a wealthy and honored citizen of Winona. I numbered among my friends such men as Edmund Rice, who was then president of what is now known as the Northern Pacific road; Col. Crooks, of engineering fame; President Alexander, until some years ago head of the Eastern Minnesota road, and Norman Kitson, all of whom are now dead. I had a beautiful home, a charming wife and was as happy and contented as any man could be. But the misery of many years was before me.

"It happened this way. The Winona & Western railway was one of the five roads whose bonded debts were guaranteed by the state by way of concession and in view of the great aid the railroads would give in the settlement and development of the territory. In all the bonds issued by the road were valued at $1,200,000. I owned two-thirds of the stock of the road.

"Suddenly the state repudiated the bonds and they were declared worthless. The road went into the hands of a receiver as a result, and I was a poor man. The blow killed my wife and since then I have wandered around the country, not content to stay in one place long. I am over 70 years old, and, please God, I shall not have to endure my troubles much longer," and the prisoner placed his hand over his face and wept bitterly.

All those present, who heard the old man's story, were much impressed and there were many tearful eyes among the crowd.

McDONNELL CAPTURES IT.

Duluth Contractor Carries Off Another Fine Job.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—P. R. McDonnell, the well-known Duluth contractor, who is putting in the Grand Forks paving, captured another large contract last night. The East Grand Forks council awarded the Duluth man the contract for putting in the mains, tank, tower, pump pit and intake pipe for the new water works at $27,400. Mr. McDonnell expects to have the work well along before cold weather stops operations.

HYMEN'S BUSY DAY.

Three Weddings Solemnized in Ishpeming on Wednesday.

Ispeming, Mich., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three marriages occurred in Ishpeming Wednesday. The first one took place at 9 o'clock in the morning, when Adelard Morin and Miss Eva Dobbs were made husband and wife at St. Joseph's church. Rev. E. P. Bordas, the pastor, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the couple.

Harry Lowmiller of Escanaba, for some time a resident of Ishpeming, and Miss Irene Hosking, second daughter of Henry Hosking, of North Oak street, were united in marriage at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the St. John's church parsonage, Rev. J. A. Keul, the pastor, performing the ceremony.

Thomas P. Walters, oldest son of Capt. Thomas Walters, agent of the Pittsburg & Lake Superior Iron company, and Miss Anna Campbell, daughter of Capt. Duncan Campbell of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's Moro mine, were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock at 4 oclock at the home of the bride's parents on West Canada street. The vows were pronounced by Rev. M. M. Allen, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

FORMER LIEUT. GOVERNOR SUFFERING FROM BLINDNESS

Albert Lea, Minn., Oct. 23.—John L. Gibbs, who was for several years a member of the house of representatives from this county, and was elected speaker, and later lieutenant governor, has been failing in health for some time and his eyes have been affected so that he is almost blind. He has been moved from his old home in Geneva to Owatonna and will be given careful attention with the hope that he will improve.

YEGGMEN ARE FOOLED.

Blow Saloon Safe at Wilton, Getting No Money.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Early Thursday the saloon of Everson & Storfroen at Wilton was entered by burgairs and the safe blown to pieces.

The proprietors were in attendance at the Nelson speech at Bemidji Wednesday evening and upon their return, to Wilton Mr. Everson went to the saloon and took from the safe, as was his usual custom, all of the cash which had been taken in during the day. At that time he noticed that everything was in order and nothing had been disturbed.

Later in the night several residents of Wilton had heard an explosion, but had not realized what had been done until the proprietors entered their saloon yesterday morning and found the safe wrecked.

The usual way of locking the door at night, leaving everything secure, had been attended to, but the burglars broke the panel from the door, reached in and unlocked it.

But little damage is done to the building aside from the spoiling of the safe, and the taking of a few articles from the building by the burglars.

JAIL HIS FUNERAL PYRE.

Insane Prisoner Settles Things by Firing Habitation.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 23.—An unidentified man, supposed to be insane, was burned to death in the jail at Donnybrook as the result of a fire set by himself. He was brought from Aurelia in the evening and was to have been examined yesterday.

The fire started shortly after 2 a. m. and before the deputy could arrive the building was in ruins. The body was found with the hands clasped around the iron bars. A watch chain, key ring and a key that resembled a Northern Pacific switch key were found beside the remains; also a ring with the inscription, "P. to F." The man is said to have been from Minnesota.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion and likewise fond of the table and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich.,) and give him (or send them) 75 cents. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription), one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat at the rate of 12 to 16 ounces a day. That is all. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

The coroner will make an investigation.

MEAT AND WHISKY BAIT CAPTURES LARGE WOLF.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Pohlman of Forsyth township trapped a large wolf in his yard yesterday, baiting the trap with meat and whisky. The regular bounty of $27 was paid him by an order of the county clerk.

BIG WIND AT MINOT.

Gale Prevailed Monday Night Doing Much Damage.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 23.—A high wind, which has raged ever since Monday evening, caused considerable damage in the city that night and Tuesday.

Plate glass windows were blown in, windows were demolished in several public buildings, sheds were blown down and loose material such as kindling and lumber scattered about the city. Considering the length of the time the wind has been blowing, the storm is one of the most severe in the history of the city.

The plate glass window at the Minot Grocery company's offices on First street was blown in, after the awning had been torn down.

Still Finding Big Pearls.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 23.—A perfect fresh water pearl, as large as a nickel and said to be worth $10,000, was found by Carl Schaller and Charles Naegle, clam fishers, here yesterday. The pearl is perfectly round and is the most valuable ever found in this vicinity.

Mayor Stops Dice Throwing.

Mankato, Minn. Oct. 23. — Dice throwing for cigars and the like is a thing of the past in Mankato. When Mayor Andrews entered a news stand and found several young boys throwing dice for cigars he at once issued orders to the police to notify all places where dice was thrown to cease the practice. The order is being obeyed.

THE TONNAGE TAX ISSUE.

Governor Johnson in his message to the legislature, January, 1907:—"The proposition which some have suggested, that the direct tax should be abolished and a tonnage tax substituted to provide for all revenue, both state and local, is objectionable because of the jeopardy of revenue for local governments during a period of industrial depression or in a year of possible lockouts or strikes. I wish it to be understood that I clearly oppose any system of taxation which will deprive local townships, village, school district or county governments of a liberal, reliable and continuous source of revenue."

Governor Johnson in his Duluth speech, Oct. 14, 1908:—"I wish to add this statement, which I make now and which I am willing to repeat in any town in the state: If I am elected governor and if the legislature should pass a law depriving this or any other section of the state of its full share of taxes for local improvements, I SHALL VETO IT. That is my stand on the tonnage tax."

THE REAL ISSUE.

The whole campaign in behalf of J. F. Jacobson for governor is a studied attempt to confuse the issue and to conceal the considerations that ought to guide the voters in deciding between him and Governor Johnson.

Here's an experiment that will prove this to your complete satisfaction. Pick out a man whom you know to be an advocate of Jacobson. You may have trouble finding such a man, and when you find him he will probably be one of that small coterie of party workers who are for Jacobson because he has the Republican nomination, and who care for nothing beyond that—nothing about how he got his nomination, what he stands for or his personal fitness for the place he seeks. When you find such a man, get into an argument about the governorship with him, and when it is going at full swing, just say: "Well, after all, the only issue in this campaign is whether the people would rather have Johnson or Jacobson, and which of the two will make the better governor."

That sounds fair enough, doesn't it? Well, it is fair; in fact, you will be quite correct: it is the only issue in this campaign. But when you say it, watch that Jacobson man get mad. He is likely even to call you names. At any rate, he will go on at a great rate about standing by the party, about all those offices under the state that are getting away from the Republicans, about third terms, about "divided responsibility," about Jacobson's legislative record,—which is a dozen years old, mind you, and antedates practically all of the live questions of today, regarding which his silence tends to prove the charge of Attorney General Young that the interests concerned in these questions nominated Jacobson,—about almost everything, in short, except what you want to talk about. He will not wish to discuss the personalities of the candidates; in fact he will be quite indignant that you should suggest that personality has anything to do with it. He will not wish to talk about Governor Johnson's four years' record as state executive; he will try to make you think that that is not involved, either: though he would be mighty glad to talk about it if there was anything wrong with it.

The real and only issue in this governorship campaign is whether you, Mr. Voter, would rather have for your governor during the next two years John A. Johnson or J. F. Jacobson. You know that Johnson has been governor for four years; you know that those four years form the greatest period of prosperity and progress in the history of the state; you know that during all that time, though his record has been open to the light of day, no flaw has been picked in it by his most bitter opponents; you know he has been governor of all the state and not of a part of the state; you know he has represented all the people and not a particular class of the people; you know that during his administration the state has attracted more clean and honorable fame than it ever did since the First Minnesota became immortal at Gettysburg; you know that you have been proud of the career of this native son of your state, who has risen so far by his own unaided efforts, backed by indomitable purpose and unspotted integrity; you know that you have been satisfied with his work as governor, and that you will be satisfied with his next term. You know these things—then look the other fellow over, judge from his personality and the record upon which he is running whether he would suit you or the state as governor, and cast your vote accordingly.

If every voter does that, this would be the most one-sided governorship contest in the history of the state; and that is the way it looks to us now.

AMERICA DAY.

Wednesday passed, so far as we know, without particular notice above its sister days of the week. Yet it was a day not without significance, and it is a day that we hope will be more generally observed in the future than it has been in the past. Oct. 21—which was Wednesday—commemorates the birthday of a man named Smith—Samuel Francis Smith. Oliver Wendell Holmes, you may remember, remarked of him that "Nature tried to conceal him by naming him Smith."

Now you know why Wednesday was a day of some significance. No? Don't know him? Well, you ought to. He is the man that wrote a song that makes you thrill—or that ought to make you thrill—whenever you sing or hear it, and that brings you to your feet with doffed hat—or that ought to—whenever its sweetly solemn notes strike your ear.

Samuel Francis Smith, who was born Oct. 21, 1808, wrote "America" in 1832, the year in which its author was graduated from Andover Theological Seminary, and the story of how it came to be written is told in the October Book News Monthly: "Years before William C. Woodbridge had brought from Germany a number of books containing words and music used in the schools there. These were committed to Dr. Lowell Mason, who placed them in Dr. Smith's hands, asking him to translate any which he might find worthy, or, if he preferred, to furnish the original words to such of the music as would please him. It was among this collection that appeared on a gloomy day in February, 1832, that Dr. Smith found the music that inspired him to write 'America.'"

Of the origin of the air which "was said to have served for the national anthem in England, Russia and Prussia," the narrative states: "It has sometimes been claimed that Handel composed and introduced it into England, but according to the researches of Chapell, Funk and Chryeander, Handel's biographers, agree in ascribing the original strain to Henry Carney, 1689-1743, maintaining that the hymn was written without the slightest purpose to produce a national lyric, though it was almost immediately taken up by the people."

Though the music is of foreign origin, its sweetness appeals to all peoples, and it is small wonder that not only Britain but this country have made it their national anthem. The only difference is that in England it means "God Save the King," and in this country it means "America."

The birth of its author is well worth commemorating, and of late a pretty habit has arisen, in the public schools of the land, of setting Oct. 21 apart as one of the patriotic days of the school year, when appropriate exercises are held, including, of course, the singing of "America," with some reference to the man that wrote the song.

COME TO THE POINT!

The News Tribune has failed to inform the people of St. Louis county where Jacobson stands on the tonnage tax. It has had plenty of time to get this information directly from Jacobson himself if it would or if it dared. Either it would not or it dared not; in either event Jacobson is still running on his record as the original advocate of the tonnage tax, and he has no word to say by way of apology or retraction.

The important thing is to know where Jacobson stands now, today. Not what he may say when, in the last moments of the campaign, after completing his campaign of the state on his tonnage tax record, he comes to Duluth to whisper something in the ears of the voters of this section, when the rest of the state cannot hear it; but what he will say RIGHT NOW, if he will say anything. Silence is a confession that he stands upon his tonnage tax record; the silence of the News Tribune is its admission that it knows that he stands just where he always stood on this question. In running upon his tonnage tax record in the rest of the state he is false to this section; if he comes here in the last days of the campaign and denies his tonnage tax record, he will be false to the rest of the state, in striking contrast to Governor Johnson, who said what he had to say in the hearing of all men.

It seems necessary again to remind the News Tribune that it should, if it can, give a single reason why Jacobson should get a single vote in Northern Minnesota. It has failed to do so thus far.

SLEEPING CAR BLANKETS.

It may not be so important as the tariff or the trusts, but nevertheless we wish to commend the Chicago News for taking up a campaign for the reformation of sleeping car blankets.

If you have patronized the Pullmans in your travels, you know how great is the need of reform. There is just one kind of Pullman blanket, winter or summer, North or South. It is a thick, heavy, clumsy slab of closely woven material, not unlike a cellar door in its stiffness. In winter the cars are heated, during the early part of the night at least, and the blanket is too warm a covering. So you throw it off, and you find you have nothing left but a flimsy sheet which, when the porter lets the steam go down in the night, is entirely inadequate. So you wake up in the morning with your tubes stuffed up with congestion, and you go home and nurse a bad cold.

It is no better in summer. That terrible blanket is still there. The mere presence of it in the narrow, coffin-like berth is like the presence of a redhot radiator; it exudes heat, and your berth becomes stifling. If, in the night, the breeze created by the train brings grateful coolness to your relief, and you think the sheet is too little covering, you have nothing but that appalling blanket to pull over you, and you either swelter in its clinging folds or stay out from under it and catch a summer cold. If the truth were known, the roll of suffering and even of deaths due to that awful Pullman blanket would make an alarming exhibit.

Says the Chicago News: "The Pullman company enjoys a monopoly in furnishing sleeping-car accommodations on the railroads of the country. This corporation is highly prosperous. The cutting of 'melons' for the delight of its stockholders is a matter of fairly frequent occurrence. The rates for service are high and are maintained rigidly. When a railroad lowers fares for any particular reason and thereby attracts large numbers of travelers, the Pullman company makes no corresponding reductions in its charges. It fills the upper berths at the same rates that prevail for lower berths. Boat lines make a difference and charge less for upper berths than for lower. It is more economical, of course, to furnish patrons the one style of blanket, winter and summer, so that custom is followed by the Pullman company, regardless of the comfort and health of the traveling public. The boat lines, which compete with one another for business, are obliged to be more considerate. They furnish their patrons, as a rule, with bed covering suitable to the prevailing temperature. Inasmuch as the Pullman company enjoys a monopoly, the only way to cure the abuses which it perpetrates upon the public is through regulation by the agencies of government. Regulation of this sort has been delayed altogether too long."

Good! By all means, encouragement should be given to the campaign for sane sleeping car blankets, even if it does cost the Pullman people a few extra dollars to have more than one pattern; it won't be enough to interfere with the next melon-cutting. But one of the noticeable things about a monopoly is its imperviousness to suggestions looking to the comfort and convenience of the people. We fear that neither the News nor The Herald will be able to move the Pullmans, and in that case government regulation will have to be tried; and beyond question the Pullmans will dispose of that proposed offhand as being "socialistic."

Register tomorrow; it's your last chance.

If you haven't registered, and don't do it tomorrow, you can't vote.

Only a little more, and the country will cease playing politics and get back to business.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

John Dwan of Two Harbors is of the opinion that the Socialist vote of this country will exceed one million mark. In discussing the progress of Socialism at the Lenox hotel yesterday, Mr. Dwan stated that the growth of Socialism had been wonderful within the last few years. He stated that many workingmen throughout this state had embraced the cause, and would vote for Debs as president.

Taking Two Harbors as an example, Mr. Dwan said many of the laboring men there would vote for Debs as president and for Johnson for governor. In this state the law prohibits the Socialist party from putting the word Socialist upon the ticket. In this state the party is called the Public Ownership party. The members of the party have realized in the past and realize at the present time, that this forbidding of the placing of the right name of the party upon the ballot has lost the cause some votes. It has greatly weakened the cause in this state, as far as the state ticket goes.

Mr. Dwan is of the opinion that many of the laboring men, while voting for Debs as the national leader of the cause, are not ready yet to vote for the state ticket. He says that in Two Harbors Johnson and Debs will be the ticket of many of the laboring men.

In fact, Mr. Dwan has expressed the opinion that Debs will receive as many votes as either of the standard bearers of the two great parties, among the laboring men of Two Harbors. The laborers at the railroad shops, according to Mr. Dwan, will give the Socialistic national presidential candidate a heavy vote.

Socialism would be brought a step nearer home and the rate of its progress made much more apparent if Eugene V. Debs were to carry one of the counties of the state.

Upon Sept. 29 C. W. Spence missed death by such a narrow margin that he has the clammy feeling of dread every time he contemplates the nearness of the swing of the scythe of old Father Time.

Upon that day Mr. Spence was riding in the train which was wrecked six miles this side of Billings, Mont. In that wreck twenty-three people were killed, nineteen of them dying almost instantly. Almost every passenger in the smoker was killed. Five minutes before the train rushed headon into a freight train that had failed to obey signals, Mr. Spence walked from the smoking car, where he had been sitting for a time, thus saving himself from the fate that overtook the remainder of the passengers in the car that was crumpled and crushed like an egg shell.

Mr. Spence was telling of the frightful catastrophe at the Lenox hotel last evening.

"You can't imagine the horror and ghastliness of the thing," he said. "It would be impossible for me to describe it to you. I was riding in the smoker. Suddenly some presentiment came to me. I can't explain what it was. I got up and left the smoker. Five minutes after this twenty-three people who were riding in the car behind the baggage car, were frightfully mangled.

"To the fact that the smoker was one of the old-fashioned constructed coaches is due the frightful results of the collision. The car did not have a steel bottom, and as a result telescoped and was crushed like a pasteboard box. If the car had been one of the newer type it is probable that many of the people riding in it would have escaped with their lives.

"The wreck occurred as the result of a mistake in signals, or rather to the fact that the freight, which was running upon the passenger's time, was late and did not have sufficient time to get to a siding. Both trains were running at a high rate of speed when the collision occurred.

"The force of the impact can be imagined. Those riding even in the very rear cars were thrown violently into the aisles. I was thrown out into the middle of the aisle and received a badly bruised side as a result of the fall.

"One woman just passed from the smoker a portion of a second before the collision occurred. Her husband was in the smoker, and she had been talking with him. He was among those instantly killed. The woman was shaken and bruised severely by the force of the collision. The scene that followed the wreck is indescribable. We all helped as much as we could, but there was little that we could do. There was one doctor upon the train, and he worked with the dying and injured until the relief train arrived. To add to the confusion of the sceen, a thick snowstorm was raging at the time of the collision.

"The members of the freight crew have always maintained that they placed dynamite signals upon the track. That has never been proved. The mistake of some one cost twenty-three lives. I was in another wreck three days before that at Forsyth, Mont. No one was killed in this wreck, though three of the coaches left the track. I have quite had my share of wreck experiences, I believe."

C. L. Pettibone of Detroit, at the Spalding hotel, says that Hughy Jennings of the Detroit Tigers is the man of the hour in the city by the St. Clair flats. He is not only about the most popular thing that ever blew down Woodward avenue in shoe leather, according to Mr. Pettibone, but he is beginning to have his influence in politics.

"The man who has twice piloted the Tigers to victory can have anything he wants in our town," said Mr. Pettibone. "At the present time he is working in the cause of Mayor Thompson, who is running for re-election. The members of the other party tried hard to secure the services of Jennings, for they realized that he would be a great drawing card at the meetings, and then, besides, Jennings is a speaker of no mean ability.

"Jennings is a graduate of the Cornell law school. He is one of the shrewdest and brainiest men in baseball. He has been promised a municipal position if he will consent to make his home in Detroit. I wouldn't be in the least surprised to see Jennings mayor of Detroit some day, if he should decide to make that city his home. Of course, I am presupposing that the Tigers continue to be eminently successful upon the diamond. All of us people from the most beautiful city in the country accept that as a settled fact.

"We are having our little internal mixups in the Michigan political camp. The politicians are quarreling among themselves. It is rather hard to forecast the outcome of the approaching election. I am a Republican, but I will say that Michigan will give Bryan a very large vote. I have traveled all over the state and I have been greatly surprised by the way sentiment is going in Michigan. If it does, the members of the Republican party will have much of the blame upon their own heads."

THE WEATHER.

CLOUDY

It looked like fall this morning, and it felt like fall, and when you glanced at the calendar you say, why, it was that way; it is fall, for November is only eight days away. It was cloudy, and the clouds looked more like snow than rain; however, the weather man expects nothing more than threatening weather, without great changes in temperature tonight and tomorrow. Yesterday's highest temperature was 40 degs., and last night's lowest was 26 degs.

The sun rose this morning at 6:38 and sets tonight at 5:07, making 10 hours and 29 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "During the past twenty-four hours rain or snow fell over Colorado and New Mexico and light to heavy rains over Texas, Oklahoma, Eastern Kansas, Western Missouri, Western Iowa, Wisconsin, Northern Michigan, Tennessee, the Carolinas, Alabama, Georgia and Northern Florida, due of barometric depressions centered off the South Atlantic and California coasts. Freezing temperatures attend high pressure areas covering Northern New England states and the Rocky Mountain districts. It is also somewhat colder this morning in most districts lying between the 95th and 105th meridians attending a rise in pressure over that section. Occasionally threatening and chilly weather may be expected at the head of Lake Superior tonight and Saturday."

Following were last night's lowest temperatures:

The Fool's Prayer.

"The royal feast was done; the King
Sought some new sport to banish care,
And to his jester cried: 'Sir Pool,
Kneel now, and make for us a prayer!'

"The jester doffed his cap and bells,
And stood the mocking court before;
They could not see the bitter smile
Behind the painted grin he wore.

"He bowed his head, and bent his knee
Upon the monarch's silken stool;
His pleading voice arose 'O Lord!
Be merciful to me, a fool!'

"'No pity, Lord, could change the heart
From red with wrong to white as wool;
The rod must heal the sin; but, Lord,
Be merciful to me, a fool!

"'Tis not by guilt the onward sweep
Of truth and right, O Lord! we stay;
'Tis by our follies that so long
We hold the earth from heaven away.

"These clumsy feet, still in the mire,
Go crushing blossoms without end;
These hard, well-meaning hands we thrust
Among the heart-strings of a friend.

"The ill-timed truth we might have kept—
Who knows how sharp it pierced and stung!
The word we had not sense to say—
Who knows how grandly it had rung!

"Our faults no tenderness should ask.
The chastening stripes must cleanse them all;
But our blunders—oh, in shame
Before the eyes of Heaven we fall.

"Earth bears no balsam for mistakes;
Men crown the knave and scourge the tool
That did his will; but Thou, O Lord!
'Be merciful to me, a fool!'

"The room was hushed; in silence rose
The King, and sought his gardens cool,
And walked apart, and murmured low,
'Be merciful to us, a fool!'"

Not Nature's Fault.

New York World: The figures given out by the department of agriculture show that 1908 is the eighth year in succession of bountiful crops.

The condition on Oct. 1 of seventeen important crops, which are nearly 90 per cent. of the total of farming product, was for the whole United States two points below the ten-year average, but it was one point above last year.

Winter and spring wheat, oats, barley and hay all show increases, rye a slight decrease. No final report on corn is possible, but its Oct. 1 condition is almost one point above last year.

If there are hard times, if industry is checked, if poverty and suffering sadden the great cities it is not nature's fault.

The police are at work on the case, but as the robbery is alleged to have occurred a week ago they are not hopeful of discovering anything. When Fritz was asked why he had not deposited the money in the bank, he replied that he could not, as "it was against the law."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Albert Lea Tribune: We have noticed, notwithstanding the statements of some papers to the contrary, that Speaker Cannon is only opposed by the Methodists, the Baptists, the labor unions the farmers, the merchants, the Republicans who have no ax to grind, and a few other "agents of the interests."

Cass Lake Voice: A good many of the candidates will say amen to the sentiment expressed by the Toledo Blade when it remarks that "A sweetly solemn thought comes to us o'er and o'er, viz. We're one day nearer the campaign end than we ever were before."

Crookston Journal: The Republican state committee must certainly be in sore straits when it is found necessary to take into the inner circles and the holy of holies of the party the discarded boss of the party in North Dakota namely, one Alec McKenzie. The information from reliable sources in St. Paul comes to the effect that this same Alec McKenzie is the constant adviser of Chairman Brown, and the man that the Republicans of North Dakota could not stomach, is received with open arms by the distracted leaders of Minnesota Republicanism, who have been driven into the last ditch and are putting up their fight for existence against the matchless campaign Governor Johnson is waging throughout the entire state.

Grand Rapids Independent: That Duluth Central high school foot ball team will grow into almost as much of a hero as Minnesota's "U" team if they keep up their pace.

Morris Sun: In the cities there seems to be considerable life to the political campaign, but out in the country districts there is a long drawn calm which the politicians find it hard to size up. Politics don't seem to flourish when the weather is fine and the farmer has all he can attend to with his farm work.

New Ulm Review: The Minneapolis Journal of Sunday publishes, as a special telegraphic dispatch, an item that appeared in an Edinburgh paper over two weeks ago. Judging from this, perhaps the Journal will some day get around to saying something regarding Governor Johnson's achievement in securing from Andrew Carnegie and others an unconditional donation for Gustavus Adolphus college of over $42,000—perhaps after election.

Two Harbors Iron Trade Journal: The Democratic state board of equalization Saturday voted down a resolution offered by Thomas Meighen recommending the passage by the next legislature of an iron ore tonnage tax law. It was the last act of the board, which then passed into history, as it will be succeeded by the state tax commission at the end of the present year. The resolution was rejected by the decisive vote of 12 to 5, it being the opinion of the majority that under the present system the iron mines are taxed equitably, and that a tonnage tax, which would all go into the state treasury, would work a gross injustice to the village and township governments, which now derive nearly all their revenues from this source. It was in line with the statement repeatedly made by Governor Johnson that he would never sign any bill that deprived local communities of their chief source of revenue.

Brainerd Tribune: What labor wants is not legal hair-splitting, but the opportunity to earn self-respecting wages.

Moorhead Independent: The issue in the governorship campaign is this and this alone: Will it profit the people better to re-elect Johnson or to elect Jacobson? Read, reflect and vote accordingly.

Waverly Star: From editorials of laudation a few months ago to bitter articles on Governor Johnson today, the Republican press of the state have certainly undergone a sudden change lately. As the talk of Jacobson's past record is beginning to be a drag on the market, the people being more interested in his present affiliations, Republican editors are now dropping the "record" talk and are devoting more space to vilifying Governor Johnson, whose manhood looms up far above the reach of the little pigmies who are trying to besmirch his character.

Putting Ginger into the Campaign.

Saturday Evening Post: The most exciting political discussion which we have been privileged to hear of late was as to whether the demand for free coinage of silver in 1895 was economically sound.

The affirmative maintained that we escaped these evils which Mr. Bryan attributed to a single gold standard only by an enormous increase in the world's production of gold. This leads naturally to the "crime of '73," when silver was demonetized; and it is only a step from that to the question whether the Republicans stole the presidential election of 1876, as was often and vehemently asserted at the time. In one of Madison's constitutional essays will be found language which, to say the least, is inconclusive, touching the right of a state to withdraw from the union, and we think quite an absorbing controversy might be started over the question whether the Southern states had any constitutional warrant for seceding. This, of course, would resurrect the whole burning issue which divided the Federal adherents of Hamilton and the state sovereignty followers of Jefferson—certainly one of the momentous questions of American politics.

In fine, with so many interesting things to talk about, we don't see why the campaign managers should be deploring a general apathy. There remain the questions of England's right to tax the colonies without their consent and whether Columbus discovered America; but they may be deemed not sufficiently pertinent to current problems.

A Republican view that the campaign must be dull because all current problems have been solved is flattering to the country; but the non-political phenomena of daily life scarcely bear it out. The tariff, for example, is a problem of some magnitude, strictly within the approved sphere of political action; but there seems to be a sort of tacit understanding that as little as possible is to be said about it.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Yonkers Statesman: Church—There is case on record, I believe, where a man got up out of his bed and wrote a poem in his sleep.

Gotham—Oh, well, if he was asleep I suppose he couldn't really be held responsible.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: "Ever make any money out of poetry?"

"Only once. An editor said that for $5 he would print a poem I showed him."

"Seems to me that was losing money."

"Oh, no; I came out $5 ahead. You see, I declined the offer."

Philadelphia Press: "Whenever I go skating," Mr. Hoamley was saying, "I always wear a cap that pulls down over the ears."

"Yes," said Miss Cutting, "I should think that would be absolutely necessary when you're skating against the wind."

Chicago Daily News: "When is the next intermission?" asked the stranger in the Atlanta playhouse.

"Thah is no intermission, at all sah," replied the old colonel, with a reminiscent sigh.

"No intermission between the acts?"

"No, sah. What would be the use of going out between the acts in Georgia these days, sah?"

Washington Star: "Are you in favor of revising the tariff?" asked the constituent.

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "But that's as far as I will go. It's safe to say you want the tariff revised, but it's mighty hard to fix up a plan for that purpose that won't cause some good and influential friend to feel that he is getting the worst of it."

The Sketch: The Caddy (as the colonel misses the ball for the sixth time)—Go on, mister. Say it. Don't mind me. I've been in the business for three years now.

Philadelphia Press: "I dreamed last night," said Mrs. Nagget, "that I was in a store that was just full of the loveliest fur coats—"

"But," interrupted her husband, hastily, "that was only a dream, my dear—"

"Yes, I knew it was before I woke up, because you bought me one."

Philadelphia Press: Mrs. Ascum—Have you any 5-cent stamps?

Drug Clerk (absent mindedly)—No, ma'am, but we have something just as good.

Mrs. Ascum—Ha! ha! force of habit! That's where I caught you.

Drug Clerk—Not at all, ma'am, I can give you two twos and a one.

The Post That Flitted.

Though tangled and twisted the course of true love,
This ditty explains.
No tangle's so tangled it cannot improve
If the lover has brains.

Ere the steamer bore him Eastward, Sleary was engaged to marry
An attractive girl at Tunbridge, whom he called "my little Carrie."
Sleary's pay was very modest; Sleary was the other way.
Who can cook a two-plate dinner on eight paltry dibs a day?

Long he pondered o'er the question in his scantily furnished quarters—
Then proposed to Minnie Boffkin, eldest of Judge Boffkin's daughters.
Certainly an impecunious Suburban was not a catch,
But the Boffkins knew that Minnie mightn't make another match.

So hey recognized the business, and, to feed and clothe the bride,
Got him made a Something Something somewhere on the Bombay side.
Anyhow, the billet carried pay enough for him to marry—
As the artless Sleary put it: "Just the thing for me and Carrie."

Did he, therefore, jilt Miss Boffkin—impulse of a baser mind?
No! He started epileptic fits of an appalling kind.
"Pears' shaving sticks will give you little taste and lots of lather.")

Frequently in public places his affliction used to smite
Sleary with distressing rigor—always in the Boffkins' sight.
Ere a week was over, Minnie weepingly returned his ring.
Told him his "unhappy weakness" stopped all thought of marrying.

Sleary bore the information with a chastened holy joy—
Epileptic fits don't matter in Political employ—
Wired three short words to Carrie—took his ticket, packed his kit—
Bade farewell to Minnie Boffkin in one last, long, lingering fit.

Four weeks later, Carrie Sleary read—and laughed until she wept—
Mrs Boffkin's warning letter on the "wretched cellist."
Year by year, in pious patience, vengeful Mrs. Boffkin sits Waiting for the Sleary babies to develop Sleary's fits.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The chief trouble with ideals is they won't pay any grocery bills.

The exciting thing to a girl about a secret engagement is having everybody know about it.

The better a man's excuse for getting home late the more his state won't let him tell it.

If a man could solve the mystery of why a woman appeals to him she wouldn't any longer.

The only reason a patriot can get more excited about the constitution than about his party candidate's platform is he knows less about the former.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

TO AFRICA WITH THE PRESIDENT

Matlock Bob Will Assist in the Big Game Hunt.

Pasadena, Cal., Oct. 23.—In their big, shady kennel at the home of C. B. Holmes in South Pasadena, live a mother airedale terrier and seven yelping puppies whose song all day long seems to say "Daddy and Teddy are goin' after bears."

And that is literally true, for the mother dog is Highland Kitty Jr., and her puppies are by Matlock Bob, English bench prize winner, imported eight months ago by Colin F. Jackson of Vancouver, B. C., and now owned by a friend of President Roosevelt.

Matlock Bob and Kitty are both of the fifth generation of the blue blood of the airedale stock, and Bob's owner is now training him for the trip of the president to Africa at his home near Colorado Springs, Colo. He is regarded as one of the best airedales that has been produced by this breed of the terrier family.

Kitty is a prize winner herself. Mr. Holmes' house being ornamented with cups and plate medals she has won in a score of shows. She won puppy firsts at Seattle and Portland, and eight other prizes, all firsts, at Vancouver, San Mateo and Del Monte. She is by Endcliffe Crack and Highland Kitty, and was bred by D. J. Broderick of Haverhill, Mass.

Matlock Bob, the father of her puppies, is only 16 months old, but has transcontinental fame. He is by champion Midland Royal and Lady Wilfrid, a daughter of the famous Burgomeister Peterson.

Besides Kitty and her puppies, Mr. Holmes has Endcliffe Radiance and Endcliffe Rose Marie that are capable of successful bench contests.

Airedale terriers, a mixture of Otterhound Welsh harrier and bull terrier, were bred 40 years ago, to produce a blend that would equip a dog for water life and for attack on anything from a rat to a grizzly bear. Their unflinching gameness is characteristic. Their size is not great, their weight ranging from 40 to 60 pounds, but they are hold-fasts.

For bear fighting they are regarded as not only masters of courage but masters of tactics and are regarded as excellent for hunting the kind of game the president expects to meet in the jungles of Africa.

BLAINE AND CHIPPEWA FALLS

Fast Down State Team Will Play at Superior Saturday.

The Blaine high school team of Superior will play their big game of the year Saturday at the Superior Driving park with the fast eleven from Chippewa Falls. This team is hailed as the fastest ever, and has so far this season played all its opponents off their feet. Blaine will have to go some if they expect to down their husky rivals, but the supporters of the red and blue have all the confidence in the world in their team, and they cannot see anything but victory for their favorites. The managers of the Blaine team claim they are not afraid to meet the Nelson-Dewey eleven at football, and that the Dewey players have been offered two dates which they may leave or take as they see fit.

THREE RECORDS BROKEN.

Fred Huyck Makes Old Motor-Cycle Records Look Sick.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 23.—Fred Huyck of Chicago broke three amateur world's motorcycle records yesterday at the state fair grounds at a meeting sanctioned by the Federation of American Motorcyclists.

He made one mile, standing start, in 1 minute 3 3-5 seconds, against the record of 1 minute 4 2-5 seconds; he made the mile, flying start, in :54 2-5, against the record of 55 2-5, and in one hour of continual riding in competition to beat the record of fifty-six miles, standing start, he made 61 1-5 miles. In the hour event his best mile was in 46 2-5 seconds. The track is circular and this time equals the straight Ormond track ratio. Huyck's time for the mile is not an official record, however, as he was not scheduled to try for the mile record in this event.

MANY SURPRISES IN WOMEN'S MEET

Catherine C. Harley Defeats Margaret Curtis the National Champion.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The sensational play of Miss Catherine C. Harley of the Fall River, Mass., Golf club over Miss Margaret Curtis, national golf champion by a score of 3 up and 2 to play, featured yesterday's matches in the third round of the women's national golf championship contest of the Chevy Chase links. The defeat of the national champion by Miss Harley, who, as a winner of cups is practially a novice, was the great surprise of the tournament. Miss Harley outplayed Miss Curtis from the first tee, taking the first four holes in succession by her excellent putting. Miss Curtis, however accomplished a sensational feat when she made a drive of 267 yeards at the seventh hole, which is said to be the longest drive ever made by a woman.

Another surprise of the day was the match between Mrs. Caleb F. Fox and Miss Georgia Bishop, which the former won by 3 up and 2 to play. The forcing out of the running of all the popular favorites in the day's contest, upset all of the calculations. Miss Harley has been picked out as a probable winner of the national championship. All of the contests today were close and interesting. The day's sports were favored by almost ideal weather.

LOUIS FALK WILL REPLACE SCHOTT

Stagg Will Play the Veteran Tackle at Full-Back.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Director Stagg's troubles in securing a suitable fullback for his maroon eleven partially were allayed yesterday by the appearance of Louis Falk, the veteran tackle, who was an invalid up to a few days ago. He appeared in the position where Schott, Stagg's first choice, and Worthwine, the coach's second choice, have carried the ball.

Schott is down and out for the time being at least with an injured leg, which has forced him not only to keep out of the daily work, but off the football field. He has not been in a uniform since the Illinois game, and according to Dr. Rayeroft, there is no telling just how soon the big fellow will be able to get back in the game.

Worthwine, who was moved back from guard, did not satisfy the maroon coach in the Illinois game, and, moreover, he is at present laid up with several minor injuries which incapacitate him from scrimmage practice. The result of it all has been that just as soon as Falk was in condition to play Stagg placed him at fullback.

Falk has had much experience at fullback, having played in that position during his academy career at Morgan park.

INDIANS MAKING A BIG MISTAKE

Eckersall Says Nebraska Will Wallop Carlisle in Post Season Game.

By Walter H. Eckersall.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Chicago and Minnesota are preparing for their great battle on Marshall field one week from Saturday. Learning plays and projecting them by hard scrimmages is forming the bulk of the work this week. Next week the plays will be polished and little hard work indulged in for fear of injuries. Both coaches had opportunities to size up the strength of the other and have, to a certain degree, a good idea of the attacks.

The Carlisle Indians, in tackling Nebraska in a post-season game to be played at Lincoln either Dec. 1 or 2, are bargaining for a little too much. After the red men have met Minnesota and St. Louis they will be in such shape that they cannot stand another hard contest, and as the Cornhuskers are strong this year they are likely to meet an opponent not only their equal but more than a match.

On Nov. 21, the Indians will meet Minnesota at Minneapolis, and five days later, Thanksgiving day, they will line up against the strong St. Louis team at St. Louis. Then they have to jump to Lincoln to play Nebraska in less than a week. This is a hard schedule and it is improbable that Carlisle will be successful.

STUDENTS SHOW ENTHUSIASM

High School Pupils Hold Regular Week End Mass Meeting.

The high school students are aflutter with excitement over the big football game tomorrow between East Side Minneapolis and Duluth, which will be played at Athletic park.

A big mass meeting was held today and there was much enthusiasm displayed. A number of graduates spoke to the students telling them that the rooting and pulling for their team is just as important as the part taken in the game by the players and from the way every one from the timid freshman to the dignified seniors broke into the yell game, there will be something doing along this line tomorrow.

A stiff scrimage was indulged in last night with the fast Spalding bunch, and the high school lads showed up in great shape. Their line is strong, they are much faster than at any time so far this year, they are playing low, and every man is in the pink of condition.

Only light signal practice will be the rule tonight, as Colton wants all his men in good shape for the game tomorrow.

East Side will arrive in the city this evening and will be met at the station by a bunch of enthusiastic high school students, who are anxious to catch a glimpse of the Twin Cities champions.

DEWEY AT ASHLAND.

With a badly crippled team Capt. Gordon and his Nelson Dewey eleven of Superior will journey down to Ashland tonight.

The Ashland team is said to have improved greatly since their defeat at the hands of the Blaine team several weeks ago. Last Saturday they defeated the fast Ironwood bunch by a decisive score.

Several of the Dewey players are in bad shape, but all the men will go with the team, and they expect to win their game.

DEATH COMES IN QUEER FORMS

Accidents Reported by Railroads Show Odd Happenings.

Columbus, O., Oct. 23.—Mysterious deaths on the rail are frequent. Tragedy stalks aboard in the dark hours of the night. One of such mysterious fatalities on the rail is that reported by the P. C. C. & St. L. to the state railroad commission, as occurring near Campbellstown. The official report of this accident says: "It is supposed that he had fallen asleep and his horse walked so close to this crossing that when No. 1 passed the horse turned to one side to keep from being struck by the engine and the buggy was caught by the steps of the sleeper, breaking the steps and badly damaging the buggy, killing the horse and driver." This conclusion was reached from the fact that the steps of the sleeper were found to be broken upon the arrival of the train at Richmond.

Among the numerous causes of fatalities are travelers on highways being caught at grade crossings. King Alcohol also exacts his proportion of the unfortunates. Trainmen stepping out of the way of one train on to the track of another contributes to the tragedies of the rail borne out in the reports that daily reach the commission. A fair share of each monthly crop harvested by the Grim Reaper on the rail is contributed by track walkers, despite the statute which forbids the same.

It is singular that persons who are totally deaf or whose hearing is badly impaired risk their lives by trespassing upon railroad property, but that such is frequently the case, a reference to the fatal reports on the railroads will quickly disclose.

A Good Temperance Lesson.

It has been said that familiar individual, John Barleycorn, accompanies many an imprudent person to his doom. The accident reports are a good temperance lesson, and in these days of anti-liquor crusades some interesting data, favorable to the cause of the drys might be elicited from these grewsome reports. For instance, in reporting an accident which occurred in Ashtabula county, it is said "trespasser stealing ride between engine and the head car of passenger train, and evidently under the influence of liquor, while in the act of replacing liquor bottle in his pocket lost his balance, fell off the train and was instantly killed."

Much interest naturally attaches to the accident statistics. While the statistics for the year ending on June 30, 1908, are not available, a resume for half a dozen years past furnishes an interesting study. From and including the six years of 1902 to 1907, a period of six years, the statistics to the Ohio authorities show that there were 92 passengers killed and 2,895 injured; travelers on the highway killed 553; injured, 1,449; employes killed, 1,643; injured, 47,058, trespassers killed, 2,313; injured, 2,576.

These figures show that in the year 1902 there were six fatalities, or one passenger killed for every 4,916,552 carried. For 1903 the proportion was one killed for every 2,490,281 carried, or double that of the preceding year. In 1904 the percentage was practically the same as that for 1902, while in 1905 is exemplified again the uncertainty of life, for the percentage increased to 26 deaths for 1,280,847 passengers carried. The percentage of 1906 and 1907 was still high, as compared with the first three years, being approximately 20 deaths for 1,750,000 carried.

In fatalities among the employes, the reports show that in the year 1902 1 employe in every 371 employed was killed; in 1903, 1 in every 289; in 1904, 1 in every 334; 1905, 1 in every 385; 1906, 1 in 313, and in 1907, 1 in 339.

NO DEAD MEN TO VOTE IF DEMOCRATS CAN PREVENT

SIGNS THAT G. O. P. IS LOSING OHIO

New York, Oct. 23.—Charges are made by William J. Connors, chairman of the Democratic state committee, that the Republican organization in upstate counties has padded the registration rolls with anywhere from 10,000 to 20,000 names, and to prevent the casting of a fraudulent vote the executive committee has appointed a state law commission with Judge Alton B. Parker as chairman. Mr. Connors says the law committee will be composed of 500 attorneys, and that on election day they will be assisted by special deputies in each election district to see that ballots are honestly cast and counted. Mr. Connors says: "There will be no voting of dead men by the Republicans in this election, and the state committee will see that our opponents are not permitted to run men over from Pennsylvania and Canada and register them in this state. Already we have discovered hundreds of cases of fraudulent registration upstate, and have succeeded in having the names stricken from the lists.

"We want a square deal. We are not going to buy the election, and we have not the money to buy it with, anyway. We don't propose to have the Republicans rob us as they have done in the past."

National Chairman Mack declared the change in Taft's plans, by which he will speak in thirty-four cities and towns in this state, instead of speaking only in a few of the larger cities, as previously announced, indicated that the Republican managers felt the necessity of carrying this state, which was virtually acknowledging that they felt they were losing Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin and Kansas. Mr. Mack said if the Republicans were certain of the Middle Western states, they would not need New York.

HOG CHOLERA CHECKED.

North Dakota Authorities Have Disease Well in Hand.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—With enough hog cholera serum on hand to handle any possible epidemic in this state Dr. Van Es of the state department of veerinary training at the agricultural college is feeling easier than a few weeks ago. Hog cholera was introduced in the state this summer and ther has been a mild epidemic, but it has not been widespread. The source of contagion is thought to have been from Minnesota hogs shipped into this state. With approaching cold weather and the serum at hand, the condition is not regarded as at all serious. Animals that have been innoculated and permitted to run with animals fatally infected show no contagion.

STRANGE BUT TRUE FACTS

Tells How to Find Out If the Kidneys Are Affected and What to Do.

There are more cases of kidney trouble here now than ever before, while recent reports show that more people succumb each year to some form of kidney disease than any other cause.

When there is sickness, examine the urine. Rheumatism is only a symptom of kidney trouble. It is nothing more or less than excessive uric acid in the blood, which the sluggish, inactive kidneys have failed to sift out, leaving it to decompose and settle about the joints and muscles, causing intense suffering; frequently resulting in deformity; often reaching the heart, when death ensues.

Pains across the back, frequent painful and suppressed urination and other symptoms of weak bladder are not the only signs of kidney trouble; many cases of stomach disease, headache, pain in the heart, inactive liver, etc., are but symptoms; the cause of which can be traced to feeble, clogged kidneys.

A simple test of the urine is to void a small quantity in a bottle or glass and let it stand over night; next morning, if there is a reddish brickdust sediment, or white fleecy substance present, either consult some reputable physician or take a good vegetable treatment. The following prescription is recommended highly in these cases and the sufferer can mix it at home: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well and use in teasponful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

Where any of the symptoms enumerated above are present, good results are sure to follow immediately the use of this simple prescription.

BANK CASHIER REPORTED SHORT

Alexandria Banker Said to Have Been Playing Wheat Market.

Alexandria, Minn., Oct. 23.—August S. Anderson, cashier of the Bank of Kensington for nine years, is said to be short in his accounts several thousands of dollars. He is asserted to have confessed on Monday and is under arrest, charged with grand larceny in the sum of $400.

Anderson's downfall came by speculating in wheat, using the bank's money and hoping to win and return it. The longer he continued the deeper he got in until in 1902 he quit speculating.

His plan was to record on the bank books time certificates of deposits for less amounts than they were issued. When the interest came due he paid it in full, using a part of his salary.

As certificates came due then false entries were made. His guilt was discovered on Monday when C. H. Raille, president of the bank, and other officials, met to prepare an annual statement of the bank's business. As soon as his case can be brought before the judge of the district court, Anderson will plead guilty and receive his sentence.

The bank itself will be in no way affected by Anderson's act, as the loss will be made good by the bondsmen and the bank officials.

CONGRESSMAN ESCH IS AGAINST JOE CANNON.

Black River Falls, Wis., Oct. 23.—In a campaign address here Congressman John J. Esch came out flat-footed in favor of electing Congressman Burton of Ohio to succeed Cannon as speaker of the house of representatives. Mr. Esch said that Cannon had been greatly misrepresented to the voters of the country, but that if it came to a "showdown" for the speakership, his (Esch's) vote would be in the Burton column.

You May Enjoy Your Meals

If You Will But Equip Your Stomach With The Right Means to Handle The Food.

If you go into a restaurant, cafe or hotel, where all your environments, the lights, dazzling linen, silver, cut glass, music, chatting and laughing women, seem to foretell a pleasant meal, your stomach should not revolt when you read the menu card.

Heavy steaks, soups, oysters, entrees, salads, etc., should hold no terrors for the healthy stomach and they do not.

A small box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets placed in your vest pocket will be sufficient guard against the mad revels of a worn-out stomach.

A tablet taken a few moments after a copious meal will remove any ill effects of food from your stomach and you may eat as generously as those about you.

One of these little tablets will of itself settle all questions of indigestion for that meal and will place your stomach and digestive organs in a better condition for the next.

Your blood will be enriched, and the depleted gastric fluids will be rebuilt.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are natural, active digestive agents which give to the gastric juices the elements they lack, which ease the stomach, remove irritation and enrich and stimulate the blood.

All of these statements may be verified if you will take but a little of your time to prove them.

Every druggist carries Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in stock and will tell you of their merit. These tablets sell for 50c per box, or send us your name and address and we will send you at once by mail a trial package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

FREE CONCERTS BY THE MASONS

An organization has been perfected as an auxiliary to North Star Lodge of Perfection, Scottish Rite Freemasonry, which will virtually have charge of the musical entertainments in the Auditorium during the coming season. It will be composed of active members, those who can and will contribute to the entertainment and pleasure of the people along the lines of good music, readings and recitations, and each one before being accepted as a member, must give a sample of skill. Associate members are those who desire to help along the movement but have no ability to take part in the entertainments except in a business way, the idea being to interest those persons, men and women, who sing and play and recite because they love to do so, and are willing to devote some portion of their time and talents to the entertainment of their less fortunate friends.

The Scottish Rite assumes the care and expense of the movement and the first of the recitals will be held in the Auditorium on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 25, the program being begun at 3:30 sharp. The doors will be opened at 3 o'clock.

Admission is absolutely free and the public generally is invited, and will be cordially welcomed. The only restrictions are the rules against talking during the performance of a number and that no person will be admitted to the Auditorium except previous to the beginning or between the several pieces. The object is to give an opportunity to hear music without cost, without undue restrictions, and under conditions which should give pleasure and at the same time place no one under obligations.

The first program will be as follows:

1—Variation on Adeste Fidelis..... Eugene Thayer
2—Chorus of Gypsies and Anvil chorus; Trovatore .....Verdi
3—Selection, Old songs
4—Solo, "My heart ever faithful"..Bach
Miss Alice Socelius.
5—Grand Offertoire de St. Cecile, No. 3, F Minor.....Edouard Batiste
6—Overture, William Tell.....Rossini
7—Largo..... Handel
8—Solo, "There's a green hill far away," .....Gounod
Miss Alice Sjocelius.

MERE YOUTH IS A WANDERER

Has Been Tramping About the Country for Two Years.

Elvord Carlson, 17 years old, a native of Sweden and but two years in this country, wandered into the police station last night, was booked up as a lodger, told his story and sought out the softest spot he could find on an uninviting line of benches to rest his weary head for the night.

There was nothing exceptional about Carlson. He was just a "lodger," which, in police parlance means a wanderer on the face of the earth, a penniless bit of the flotsam and jetsam of society, which floats into the police station on the waves of adversity and floats out again in the morning. Sometimes, the lodger is the victim of his own folly, forgetting that there ever was anything better than the life he is leading and seeking nothing better. In other cases, he may be a man, down on his luck, honest and willing, unable to find work, but always hoping for something to turn up to restore him to the paths, which he once treaded and the dream of which in the future keeps him struggling against adversity.

Carlson's story made him exceptional. Two years ago, he came to this country from Sweden, running away from home with another boy, named Hjalmer Johnson. They made their way to Chicago, where the Johnson boy strayed from the paths of righteousness and became involved with the police. In cold blood, he murdered a policeman named Williams and his youth alone, saved him from the gallows. He was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

With his pal confined within prison walls, Carlson took to the road. His life for over a year has been nothing but a continued monotony of counting ties, riding brake-rods and enduring the chill of side-door Pullmans. Now and then, he drifts into a city and seeks the shelter of the police station for the night, as he did last night. Then he takes to the road again. Last neight, he said, he has never broken the laws and doesn't intend to. He said his travels have not been without aim, for he hoped to find a place to settle with congenial work and to make himself a good citizen. He thinks Minnesota is his goal, and will remain in this part of the country, at least until the wanderlust overpowers him again.

FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Examinations for Candidates Will be Held on Nov. 18.

The civil service commission will hold an examination for those who aspire to be firemen on Nov. 18. The applications for examination must be made to Secretary Johnson not later than Nov. 10.

The eligible list for the fire department was exhausted some time ago, and Chief Black has since that time had no one to call in case of a vacancy.

The positions for which the examination will be held are pipemen, truckmen, stokers, engineer, and drivers. The qualifications required in eligibles are reading, writing, arithmetic, and physical fitness.

Fireman Gets Verdict.

A jury in the district court yesterday afternoon returned a verdict of $77.91 in favor of Harry Silver against the city of Eveleth. Silver sued the city for $75, claimed to be due as back salary as a member of the fire department. In the municipal court at Sparta, a verdict was rendered against him, and he appealed to the district court.

Snow in Missouri.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 23.—Northwest Missouri experienced its first snowstorm of the season today. The temperature is not low, but there is considerable suffering of live stock.

Plenty of Speeches Now.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The campaign in this city was opened last week by J. F. Jacobson, candidate for governor on the Republican ticket. He has been followed by Governor Johnson, Lieut. Governor Eberhart, State Librarian King, State Oil Inspector McEwen, Attorney General Young, Socialist Haywood and State Senator Ole Sageng, the latter being an independent candidate for congress in the Ninth district. This deluge of political eloquence that has been turned loose by the formidable array of speakers mentioned above is expected to result in driving "general" apathy away.

JOHNSON TWO TO ONE.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday on the Thief River Falls train John R. Rasmussen and others took a poll of the passengers as to their standing on governor. As a result of the straw vote it was found that thirty-three were for Johnson and eighteen for Jacobson.

This was a representative crowd, some being farmers, some traveling men and others business men and is indicative of the outcome of the coming election.

SAWING SOON OVER.

Minneapolis Lumbermen Have About Completed Season's Work.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 23.—With the log drive in, and less than a hundred miles from the mills, Minneapolis lumbermen can see the end of the sawing season.

With fairly mild weather, the lumbermen say the chance is good for clearing up the river before the water freezes. All the logs have been driven into the Mississippi from the smaller tributaries and the last drive is now at Royalton, about twenty miles above St. Cloud. The river is not high for this time of year, but there is said to be plenty of water to bring the logs to the mills.

Unless cold sets in earlier than usual the mills will have little trouble in sawing all the logs. The "drive" will be in Minneapolis in a few days, and the men will begin on the final stretch.

Taft in Kern's City.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 23.—Upon the arrival of William H. Taft in Indianapolis this evening, it is planned to have a big demonstration, which will include a parade. All the nearby cities have arranged to send large delegations. Mr. Taft will probably make three speeches and will be joined in his talks by Vice President Fairbanks and Congressman Overstreet. The principal address will be made at University park.

ONE MORE OHIO COUNTY GOES DRY

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 23.—Coshocton county yesterday voted "dry" by a majority of 694. Twenty-six saloons are affected, all of them in the city of Coshocton, which gave a "wet" majority of 886. Fairfield county voted to retain saloons by a majority of 328. To date thirty-three counties in the state have voted "dry" and five "wet."

ARRESTED, HE SAYS CLEVELAND LETTER WAS NO FORGERY

Broughton Brandenburg Declares He Had Authority of Ex-President's Widow Before He Sold Article to the New York Times—Grand Larceny Charge is Made.

New Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23.—On a charge of having sold to the New York Times the now famous letter alleged to have been written by ex-President Grover Cleveland shortly before his death, predicting the election of Taft, Broughton Brandrburg is under arrest here and will be taken to New York. The technical charge is forgery and grand larceny, the letter now being declared a fake.

Brandenburg said he had authority from Mrs. Cleveland and Mr. Hastings, co-executors of the Cleveland estate, before he sold the article to the Times, and asks if it is reasonable that any sane man would falsify the utterances of an ex-president of the United States for $120. He says he was on his way to New York to give District Attorney Jerome additional evidence and that the arrest was made by those interested in offsetting the influence of Mr. Cleveland's utterances who wished "to secure a dramatic climax just before election." His statement follows:

"It appears that I am to be the Capt. Dreyfus of the election of 1908. I have been peculiarly alone and am still alone in my fight, and though ready to welcome the great body of support which the facts warrant me, if it does not come, I shall go on alone. Why was the alleged evidence that the document was fraudulent not produced when the document was challenged, and why has it never been produced save in the secrets of the grand jury room, when the American public is entitled to know every scrap of evidence in the matter at once? Why have my witnesses been intimidated? Why is an indictment found, if one has been found, before my case is in?

"This allows those who are interested in offsetting the influence of Mr. Cleveland's utterance to secure a dramatic climax just before election. The entire matter is all fitting in nicely with Col. Watterson's plan announced before the article was published. It remains to be seen if the American public is to be bull-dozed on one hand, while I am victimized on the other."

DOLLIVER SAYS McKINLEY PICKED TAFT FOR PRESIDENT

Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 23.—Senator John P. Dolliver of Iowa enacted the star role at a huge political meeting here in the Victoria theater. He delivered an address covering particularly the personal fitness of Mr. Taft for the presidency.

The climax of the address came when he told the story of how he had heard William McKinley, as president, shortly before his death, name Taft for the presidency. It was at the time that Taft was on the Ohio bench that McKinley sent for him and told him that he proposed to appoint him as the governor of the Philippines. Senator Dolliver said that at first Taft demurred, and then Mr. McKinley delivered a lecture upon a man's duty to his country.

"And now judge," said President McKinley to Taft, "I want to offer you a great opportunity to serve your race and your generation and if you do as I want you to do, you will one day be president of the United States. For if you do this work well, the historian will write you down, not so much as the president, but as the father and builder of an independent nation away off yonder across the Pacific."

"BILL" HAYWOOD SPEAKS AT BIG ARMORY MEETING

Says President Roosevelt is a "Grand Stand Player."

"Fill the Stomachs, Not Banks," is Socialist's Platform.

W. D. HAYWOOD.

"That undesirable citizen, 'Bill' Haywood of Denver."

A burst of applause, mild at first then growing stronger, rang through the armory last night at the introduction of Mr. Haywood. Eagerly a large, burly man, with a white waistcoat and a determined countenance arose to address the audience. He had been waiting with impatience for the other speakers to finish. He was sitting in his chair like a pugulist, eager for the fray, anxious for the fight to begin. Then he jumped from his chair, stuck out his chin at the audience and "Bill" Haywood began to speak.

Mr. Haywood has the material, not going into the fact as to whether or not all his statements are true, that would make a dramatic speech in the hands of a more able and artistic orator. Not that Mr. Haywood is a bad speaker. He is better than the ordinary public speaker. But just as you think Mr. Haywood is going to strike a dramatic note, he disappoints you. He falls away; he strikes the commonplace; he fails to reason and he fails to finish his promised dramatic peroration.

Mr. Haywood began his address by thanking the members for their efforts in behalf of Moyer, Pettibone and himself, during the time the three officers of the Western Federation of Miners were incarcerated in the jail at Boise, Idaho. He informed the audience that they would have never have lived to tell the story of suffering, were it not for the support of the American laboring men.

The laboring man was warned to concentrate his strength in political and industrial combination. Mr. Haywood stated that there was between 5,000,900 and 6,000,000 working men out of employment in this country, men who had been denied the right to labor by the industrial monarchs who controlled the industrial machinery of this country.

Fill Stomachs, Not Banks.

The working men were informed that the two great parties could give them nothing. They were charged with having the same old political dogma, with a thin, up-to-date political veneer. "We are not interested in the bank guarantee plan," declared Haywood. "We are not interested in how much money goes into the banks, or in what manner it is protected. We are interested in getting something to put into our stomachs."

Mr. Taft was charged with having said "God knows," when asked what would become of the American working man should a financial depression overtake the country. They Haywood asked the members of the audience why they should vote for Mr. Taft?

The conduct of President Roosevelt during the financial panic of last October came in for a broadside from Mr. Haywood.

"The president sent Secretary Cortelyou down to New York with $123,000,000 to dam the Johnstown flood of money that was being squeezed from the watered stocks of the trusts. If the wheels of commerce are to be started, why don't the working men of this country go to Washington and get the money that is theirs, that they have produced, and the working men superintend the running of the industries?"

Bryan Also Flayed.

Bryan, too, did not escape Mr. Haywood's castigation. He was charged with refusing to argue the labor question, with refusing to assist labor, and with being out of sympathy with the laboring class.

"What has prohibition done?" asked the speaker. "It hasn't stopped the sale of whisky, it hasn't prevented misery, crime and poverty. For every liquor store Prohibition has prohibited, it has created more saloons; for every saloon that has been abolished a greater number of blind pigs and speak-easys have been created; for every blind pig that has been suppressed, forty bootleggers have been created. Socialism will remove liquor by stopping the profit made from whisky."

At this point Mr. Haywood severely arraigned the Republican and Democratic parties. He attacked their principles, their aspirations and their ambitions. He dared any member of either party to come upon the rostrum and debate the question with him.

Silently he waited. An ominous silence fell over the audience. Then in the rear of the hall a lonesome figure arose.

"Republican" Was Drunk.

"I am a Republican," said the figure. "Then come forward to the platform," came the reply from Haywood. The hush of expectancy continued. A debate would ensue, probably. Then suddenly a great roar of laughter shook the audience like a wind suddenly heaves the placid waters of a lake. The man was very drunk.

With difficulty he staggered to the platform. The roars of laughter increased. The man smiled with a fatuous, foolish smile, and sat down with an impulsive suddenness that must have denuded his head of any befuddled ideas upon the question political. The debate was indefinitely postponed.

"And I wouldn't have been surprised if he had been a Democrat, either," shouted the speaker to the audience.

The speaker declared that the Republican party had no principles. It was all graft and salary with it. He accused Candidates Johnson and Jacobson with being afraid to meet him in a debate upon the questions of the campaign. He said that Jacobson and himself were billed to speak in Hibbing upon the same evening. He stated that the local Republican committee had sent him a communication asking him to postpone his Hibbing engagement. This he had refused to do, answering the communication by challenging Jacobson to a joint debate.

"Mr. Jacobson's managers said they would consider the proposition," Mr. Haywood declared. "But there is no danger that my proposition will be accepted. If it is, Jacobson's scalp would be hanging to an ore car.

Has Right to Steal.

Mr. Haywood declared that the starving man had the right to steal to satisfy his hunger. He referred to the Bible and the words of Jesus to bear out his contention. He asked the audience if a mule, walking down the street, would refuse to take some nice, luscious food. Then hurling his words in the faces of his auditors, he pointedly asked them if they had as much sense as a mule.

He referred to Mr. Morgan's statement, that the working class would be starved into submission; that the standard of living in this country was too high. He accused the capitalists with wanting even more money than they were getting. He said they were receiving 53 per cent of the value of the production of the United States but wanted more. He declared that Taft had agreed with Morgan, that the working man should be starved into submission, and want, the standing army increased, so that this desire might be carried out.

Mr. Haywood stated that there were 30,000 school children in Chicago who were starving to death; that there were school children in New York who were fainting daily at their desks, from want of food. He declared that the city officials of New York city had declared themselves powerless to remedy the situation. He stated that under a Social system this appalling situation would be changed in two hours. The policemen would be provided with bread baskets; that the members of the fire department would be agents of cleanliness; that foul tenements would be torn down; that social order would come out of evil choas, should Socialism prevail.

Mr. Haywood charged Mr. Taft with being at the public crib for thirty years. He said that the sum total of his achievements was his ability to issue injunctions that fitted the labor union men like tailor-made clothes. He charged the Vanderbilts with marrying their daughters to foreign counts of no account; he charged them with buying dogs at a price that made them worth more than babies of the poor; he said that Mr. Bryan was an orator without a subject; a statesman, who had never framed a law; a soldier who had never fought a battle; a farmer who had never ploughed a furrow; a politician who had never advocated the same principle twice in the same place.

Sneer For Gompers.

Mr. Haywood referred sneeringly to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, as begging with subservient attitude, for some of the crumbs of the Republican party. "They told him to go to hell," shouted Mr. Haywood. "Instead, he came to Colorado and was handed a gold brick by the Democratic party. He said that the working man would never secure any benefits by hanging onto the gilded band wagon of the Republican party, or by rising in the garbage cart of the Democratic party. He advised the workingmen to concentrate their strength, not politically and industrially, and secure for themselves the things that rightfully belonged to them.

"We will transform this nation from a political junkshop to an industrial workshop. The politicians have demonstrated that they are unable to run this country, now we are going to take hold of the industries and run the country. We are going to make grime of human toil the badge of honor.

"Vote for yourself and the happiness of your children in the future society. The money of the capitalists is made from the polluted rags of poverty, that encircle the ranks of labor like bands of steel. Socialism is only a day off. We are going to work the industries. If it becomes necessary to go to work with a bread basket in one hand and a gun in the other. Socialism and Unionism are the guns that will wipe capitalism off the map. We want the difference between the cost of production and the selling price, and we are going to have it. Armies are the bulwark of capitalism; the slaughter houses of modern civilization. Injunctions should be trampled under foot. I say 'to hell with the injunction.' We will cut the claws of the supreme court; we will extract the fangs of its poison. The supreme court is a luxury; in the system of Socialism there will be no supreme court. Society is composed three layers: The dross, the tramps and bums; the pay streak in the center, the laboring class; the scum on top, the wealthy, the idle and the capitalists.

"A Grandstand Player."

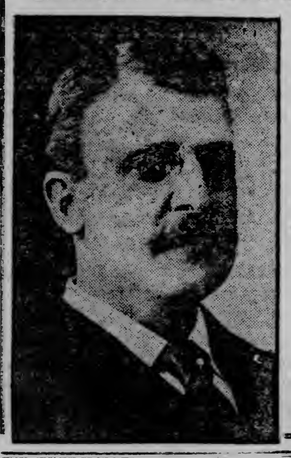

"The chattel ran away from his master; you, the wage slave run to your master to secure work. A horse is given a name; you are given a number. You have lost your identity. Troops are the allies of capital. Roosevelt is not a gentleman; he is a grandstand player, the greatest fourflusher before the people. He never said a kind word that any one here can recall. He is the kind of a man who would shoot a Spaniard in the back. He is the kind of a man who fought and bragged about it afterwards. The American people liked to be humbugged; you have the answer for Rooseveltism. Harriman is the greatest benefactor of man—in a way; he showed us how a railway could be socialized. Eugene Debs is the greatest citizen in the United States. He is the beacon light of the laboring class."

Mr. Haywood reviewed the imprisonment of Moyer, Pettibone and himself, at the jail in Boise. He stated that insults, cruelties and indignities were heaped upon them. He characterized a detective as next to the lowest human being; the man who employed him, was characterized the lowest of human beings. He told of the fight in the Colorado and Idaho mining centers, telling of the troops that shot down the miners and outraged the wives of the imprisoned miners. He told of murders, and charged the dynamiting at Independence and Victor to have been perpetrated by the citizens' alliance committee. He said that the conditions of the wage earner were frightful and that the capitalists were not satisfied with the pittance that the wage earner received.

Those who were in favor of a protest against the Dick military bill, which allows troops to be called out in labor and other disturbances were asked for. All those who opposed the measure were asked to rise. Every one in the audience rose. The resolution will be sent to the president.

Morris Kaplan made the opening address and John Kyes introduced Mr. Haywood, referring to his as one who had bared his breast to the adversity of battle for the laboring man. The armory was comfortably filled with an audience that frequently applauded the speaker.

PROSPECTOR'S BONES FOUND

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 23.—"Water; if I could only find water."

"I'm suffering from hunger. Today I ate some green brush, but I can't go any more. I wonder how long it will take to die."

These entries in the notebook of B. T. Pratt, whose body was found on the desert of Inyo county by two prospectors, gave pathetic evidence of the suffering the man underwent as he watched the approach of death far from human habitation.

G. W. Lewis and S. E. Shattuck are the prospectors who have just returned from a trip through the Argus mountains in Inyo county. Pratt had been dead nearly two months. He evidently was trying to reach the mountains, where he knew he would find food of a sort and water in abundance, but within sight of his refuge he gave out and could go no farther.

Was 60 Years Old.

Pratt was 60 years old. He had thrown away his prospecting tools, his blankets and even his canteen in the effort to beat death to the mountains. The notebook found by the prospectors was the only evidence to show who the desert's victim was.

The entries in the book were scribbled and began only when the man found he was in danger of dying. It tells the story of a fierce struggle and of the fearful realization that the struggle was in vain.

"Food gave out today; guess I can make Argus," was the entry for Aug. 3, seven days after he started to cross the desert.

"Water gone," told the story of the following day.

For one whole day he went without food or water, but maintained an optimistic spirit, as witnessed by the following story for Aug. 6:

"Signs of water about half mile ahead. There will be green stuff there, too. Will reach it early in the morning."

Was a Trick of the Desert.

But evidently the desert was playing tricks on him, as it so often does, by means of a mirage. Two days later came the two entries quoted first.

The last entry reads: "I left Grapevine, Inyo county, California, July 28. Tom Spratt told me I would perish; I thought I could make it, but got lost, so I guess I will have to give in. I have no water, nothing to eat, and can't walk.

"I have brothers, C. H. Pratt, at Banner Springs, Wyandotte county, Kansas; E. B. Pratt, in St. Louis, and W. T. Pratt, Custer county, Wyoming."

AT MINNEAPOLIS.

"Mrs. Albert W. Strong gave a tea for seventy-five of the younger women at 4 o'clock this afternoon at her home on Pillsbury avenue in honor of Mrs. William Dalrymple. Mr and Mrs. Dalrymple recently removed to Minneapolis from Duluth, Minn., and have taken the Sikes residence on Clifton avenue. Mrs. Strong and Mrs. Dalrymple received alone and assisting through the rooms were Mesdames W. E. Neller, H. I. Belden, Walter Hudson, Charles H. Van Campen, H. J. Moreton, Sewall Andrews, W. McHarbour and Miss Clara Harrington. American Beauty roses furnished a beautiful setting in the drawing room and yellow chrysanthemums and lilies of the valley were used in the dining room."

WED IN IOWA.

The news of the wedding of Mrs. Sarah McCord, formerly of this city to Dr. T. L. Hazard of Iowa City, Iowa, will be of interest to many in Duluth as Mrs. McCord lived here and is well known by many Duluth people. The Democrat and Leader of Davenport for Tuesday of this week said:

At high noon tomorrow, at Iowa City, will be celebrated a wedding of more than ordinary interest to the tri-cities, when Mrs. Sarah McCord of Mount Vernon, widow of the late Rev. J. S. McCord, at one time pastor of St. John's Methodist church, Davenport, becomes the wife of Dr. T. L. Hazard, one of the prominent physicians of Iowa City.

"The wedding is planned as a surprise even to the members of the immediate families, and the groom's three sons have not been taken into the couple's confidence, nor are Iowa City friends today aware that the wedding is to take place.

"The ceremony will be performed by the bride's son, Rev. Clyde W. McCord, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Marshalltown, assisted by President William F. King of Cornell college, Mount Vernon. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's brother, Prof. W. F. Christy. Dr. and Mrs. Hazard will leave Tuesday evening for St. Louis and the South on a wedding trip.

The regular meeting of the Saturday club will be held tomorrow afternoon at the club room of the library. For current events, "News from the Countries" will be discussed with Mrs. C. C. Ames as leader. For the regular study, "Charlemagne" will be the topic with Mrs. D. M. Downs as leader, and the outline is as follows:

   Mrs. Oredson.
4. Laws.

   b. Missi Dominici.
   c. Scabini.
   Miss L. Ella Roe.

Fashion's Fads.

A handsome gold bag has the heavy broad top instead of being trimmed with jewels. It may be plain or carved.

The old-fashioned gold bands in silver and gold are the favorite bracelets. They are set with jade and cameo.

The newest thing in headgear is the nightcap of pink, blue, mauve, edged with little ruffles and no other trimming. Elaborate ones of lace have ribbon knots.

A dainty collar is made of gold thread lace. Irish pattern, with a cluster of little balls hanging quite low in front to represent cherries. These are also of crocheted lace.

The most novel of this season's boas are short and are edged with long tassels. They are especially chic when made of clipped coque feathers finished with long chenille tassels.

Paris offers as stylish a short walking skirt that falls very straight and skimpily, and which probably will not find favor on this side of the water.

The straight front panel has reappeared in the newest of the plaid tweed suits. It is about four inches wide, and the sides are slightly lapped over it.

One of the beautiful novelties in furs is the new Pierrot ruff, or choker cravat. It has a ribbon frill all around the top and hooks at the back with a big bow or ribbon.

The Continental colors, buff and blue, rule in stationery. The writing paper is a real colonial buff, with a tiny blue border, and the monogram or initials are in blue.

POWDER RAGS.

Unhygienic and Disgusting —These Aids to Beauty.

Powder rags are the cause of more poor complexions than almost anything except impure wash cloths and neglect.

It really is strange how girls who are fastidious about everything else will carry around "powder rags" or chamois skins that are stiff as boards, with a paste of stale cold cream and powder, with which they will wipe their faces, at the same time exclaiming that they can't understand what makes their complexions so poor when they take such good care of them.

These powder rags are loaded with germs and dirt that is rubbed into the pores of the face. It sounds disgusting, doesn't it, but we must acknowledge that it is true, and that even we have been guilty of the same offense.

The first road to a good skin is cleanliness first everything connected with it, and without it the most strenuous efforts are of no avail.

LET "IT" CRY

Unless Sick, Hungry, Frightened or in Pain.

A young child has almost no power of reason, but, like a little animal, it soon learns to make a sort of unconscious correlation between cause and effect, says Dr. L. K. Hirshberg in the Delineator. That is to say, it learns that certain acts lead to certain results. If its nurse or mother stills it once or twice by taking it in her arms, it will cry thereafter whenever it wants to be taken up. In the same way it will learn in an incredibly short time, how to bring some one to its cradle side to rock it. These cries of habit should be promptly suppressed, for, in the first place, it is not good for a child to be handled or rocked; and in the second place, compliance will quickly give it perverse and disagreeable habits. Let it cry for three nights in succession and it will hold its peace thereafter.

The cry of habit is much like the normal cry of every baby. The wails are long drawn out and have a sort of rising and falling cadence. They are still at once if the baby gets what it wants. If it does not, they gradually grow less loud and so cease.

THE EVENING STORY.

MARY'S BACHELOR FATHER

By Clarence C. Cheadle.

Simmons leaned back in his chair, drew a couple of long puffs from the meerschaum, and smiling at his companion, began:

"You know me, Tom. You know blamed well that I never was very fond of children; as a rule bachelors never are; and when a fellow like me, without kith or kin, gets such a letter as I received, why, it naturally takes his breath away. Here is the precious missive itself."

Simmons presented a crumpled sheet of paper from which he read:

"Dear Papa: I want to se you so bad I can't wait no longer so I am coming to se you tomorrow nite. Peas stay at home and I will com about 7 o'clock. With lots of love, I remain, Your little Mary.'

"How would you like to get something like that, Tom, old boy? Wouldn't it kind of make your breath come short for a few seconds? Well, I wonder! Sure, you'd stop to think, and more than that, you'd begin figuring what to do with that kid when she showed up to see her 'papa.'

"Of course you'd think of getting a detective to look after her when she showed up. That's just what I thought, but then, detectives sometimes have the habit of telling things that the newspapers get hold of, and I had no relish for seeing a flaring headline proclaiming that: 'John George Simmons Spurns His Baby daughter,' or any such. I tell you, I did some pretty hard thinking.

"Tom, you old numskull, certainly I thought of going to see her and prevent her coming; but this was a wise little girl, and she forgot to put her address on the note.

"Oh, your suggestions are all right, Tom, but I thought of all of them. Butlers and babies don't mix well, and you can imagine what a nice spectacle it would have been to have that kid standing on my front step yelling: 'I want to see my papa,' and the butled trying to argue her out of it.

"Say, Tom, you know how a fellow feels the morning after; well, that was me the day after I got that note; I was simply yelling for help. And the worst feature of the whole business was that I had invited a few of the boys up for a quiet game that night—that tomorrow night in Mary's note.

"Well, by afternoon I was most all in, and the more I thought of it the hotter I got; until I decided to go ahead with that game, if all the kids in town came tearing into the house yelling 'Hello, papa, we've come to see you.'

"When it got to be 7:30 o'clock and that kid had not shown up, I was about as near a crazy man as I ever want to be.

"Later on the boys began coming, and every time one of them rang the bell at the front door it was like pouring a pitcher of ice water down my back. You know, a fellow can't tell what a woman will do, and it occurred to me that maybe Mary had decided to call later.

"Talk about trouble! I'd got myself in such a devil of a state that the boys took it up, and the way they handled me during the evening was nothing small.

"When they had all gone, and I finally went to bed, I lay there hoping and praying that as Mary had not put in an appearance that night, she never would; and easing myself with that, I dropped off to sleep.

"Of course, I heard from her again. Heard from her again—well, I should say I did. The first thing that caught my eye when I got to the office next morning was a letter addressed to me in that same big, round, uncertain hand. Everything of the past two days came rushing back to me in that second, and, say, Tom, I guess the office boy thought I'd gone cranky the way I grabbed that letter and ducked. Once outside and alone, I concluded to face the worst and tore open the envelope. Here it is:

"'Dear Papa: I couldn't come last nite becaus I was sik. I am not well yet and so I want you to come and se me. Hoping to se you tonite, I am, your little Mary.

"'No. 786 Blank street.'

"Yes, and down here in the corner she had a bunch of crosses and the information that they represented kisses for me.

"Tom, did I go? Of course I did. I made up my mind to say some things that a gentleman ought really not say to a lady; but, then, a father has some privileges, and I proposed to teach this unknown daughter of mine something before I got through with her.

"Old pal, have you ever, as a boy, been promised that you could go somewhere—some place that you had always wanted to go to—and you could hardly wait until the time had come to start? That's just how I felt about that kid.

"The street cars didn't seem to be going fast enough, and I walked all the way like a madman, and when at last I found the house, Tom, I nearly lost my nerve. I hesitated a moment before I started toward the door, uncertain what to do or say, for you know, I wasn't used to talking to babies.

"Tom, you remember when we were kids. You remember how we used to sneak up and ring somebody's door bell, and then run away. Well, that's just how I felt as I pushed the electric button; and I actually believe I was sliding away when the door suddenly opened and about the prettiest little woman I ever saw bade me 'good evening.'

"Why, er—er—is—' I began, and Tom, on the square, I just couldn't get any farther. I looked at the woman, and she stood patiently waiting; just the faintest trace of a smile at my embarrassment. Finally, in sheer desperation, I blurted out:

"'Is Mary here?'

"'On, this is Mr. Simmons. Come right in; I'll go and get her,' was the answer I received. And she knew me, old fellow, knew me and called me by name. Well, I was in for it then, and my nerve came back. I followed in after her and when she left me standing in the little parlor I wondered what would come next.

"You know, old pal, somehow I had a sneaking feeling all along that some of the boys had put up a little job on me; but when that little woman, with her sweet smile, said she would go and get Mary I knew it was for me for the kid sure. And you ought to have seen me shiver a moment after she left me, when the laughter of a crowd of children at play came dimly to my ears. Tom, you are a father and I suppose you know how it sounds; I suppose that for you it has a different meaning, something infinitely sweet and all that; but for me—your staid, old bachelor friend—as I stood there in that little little arms about my neck and kissed me. You know what it is to have little girls kiss you—you're a father. I didn't then, and I guess I must have showed it, for the least little laugh escaped the matron. There was something about it that I had never known before—just a tinge of heaven, I suppose. I felt so queer; there was a lump in my throat—ah, well, Tom, there's no use telling you—you know.

NOT LIKELY TO GET ORE

The Butte & Superior Case is Still Dragging Along.

After arguments, which began yesterday afternoon on the question as to his opinion on the possibility of the Butte & Superior company discovering copper values at depth, and ended about an hour and a half after the opening of court this morning, H. V. Winchell, former geologist for the Amalgamated Copper company, was allowed to give his views from the witness stand in the case of the Butte & Superior Copper company vs. John McAlpine.

In allowing the testimony, Judge Ensign cited a number of similar cases, both in the Minnesota courts and all over the country. Testimony was furnished to show that the defense had not discovered Mr. Winchell's knowledge of the Butte camp until after its case was rested and, such being the case, the court held that at its discretion, the evidence could be introduced.

In answer to the question, Mr. Winchell said that in his opinion it is extremely improbable that deposits of copper ore of merchantable quality and quantity will be found in the Rainbow lode, or any other of the silver veins on the Butte & Superior properties, regardless of depth. Giving his reasons, he said that there is a difference in the age, origin, mineralization and geological history of the copper and silver veins of the Butte camp. He said there is a difference in the character and in the appearance, both on the surface and below, and that not in a single instance has a characteristic silver vein of the Butte camp produced important copper deposits at depth.

He said the copper veins of the Butte camp had been deposited first by a solution of quartz porphyry, an intrusion under different conditions and at an earlier period than the silver deposits. He said the silver was deposited by rhyolite intrusions at a later period. When the copper was deposited, he said, there were no silver veins to receive the deposits and there could be no copper mineralization in these veins.

He said the universal distinction observable between the copper and silver veins is that the copper veins contain disintegrated granite, large quantities of quartz, iron pyrites and a little zinc on the borders of the copper district and very little in the center. He said there is no manganese or lead in the copper ores, except where the later intrusions, resulting in silver mineralization, had crossed the copper veins. He said where silver veins showed copper, it was in the form of chalco-prite ore, an inferior and uncommon article. The silver veins he said, contained quartz, pink manganese, black manganese on the surface, zinc, lead and silver.

On examination by Mr. Richards as to the truth of statements made by witnesses for the plaintiff, it was necessary to refer to the record to determine just what the statements were and little progress was made. Mr. Winchell said that Mr. Barker's statement that the Rainbow lode was practically the widest in the Butte camp was not correct, as he had seen stopes in the Leonard, West Colusa, Anaconda and Original mines, revealing veins from 150 to 350 feet wide. Mr. Winchell was still on the stand proceeding slowly under frequent references to the record when court adjourned at noon.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Winchell was allowed to give a comparison between the veins on the Butte & Superior and the Jessie vein. He said the Butte & Superior vein contained quartz, manganese, zinc sulphide, iron sulphide, silver, lead and copper in small quantities. The Jessie vein, he said, contained disintegrated granite, quartz, copper mineral, some iron sulphide and trades of silver and zinc, with no lead or manganese.

HOT TIMES IN DALLAS

Men Slept on Cots in Roughly Constructed Stalls.

Judging from the amount of mail that has been delivered to Frank H. Wade during the past two days, one would be led to believe he is in correspondence with half the population of the United States. The bulk of it is from Dallas, S. D., and consists of circulars, advertising land sales, and petitions for his patronage, when he chooses the location of his 160 acres of farm land, which he luckily is entitled to, through the Rosebud drawings last week.

Mr. Wade yesterday received official notice that he is the eight hundred and forty-ninth in line for a quarter section of farm land in Tripp county, S. D., and since then he has become the bane of the postman's existence.

Arthur Jacoby and Mr. Wade represented West Duluth at the lottery of Indian lands in South Dakota. Mr. Jacoby has not yet learned if fortune smiled upon him or not. Neither, when they left West Duluth, had any hope of capturing 160 acres of fertile soil, so they claimed. They went just for the novelty of the trip and the great crowds that would be seen at Dallas. When they returned they were full of stories of their expedition and said it was well worth the time even if they were not fortunate in the drawings.

They arrived in Dallas in the evening with thousands of other landseekers. All that day on the train they were passed by trains of ten to twelve coaches carrying away crowds, who had already registered and were bound for home, to await the result of the lottery. Dallas is a little town, but a year and a half old, but extensive preparations had been made to handle the multitude.

The original Hotel Dallas at which Mr. Wade and Mr. Jacoby stopped, was nearly hidden from view by the temporary wings that sprouted from it on every side and corner, covering the greater part of a block.

At the desk of the hotel stood a perspiring clerk, coatless, and with sleeves rolled up, registering the arriving guests, who crowded from the desk out through the doors on to the sidewalk. All the time he served out the rooms, he was shouting, "have your money ready, gentlemen, and keep your hands on it. I'm a little man, and I don't care to mix in any fights."

The Duluthians got a room with two cots out at the end of a wing. All along the sides of the hall through which they had to go to get to their room, were lines of cots, where men lay with eyes wide open, in fear of being robbed. The clerk insisted on showing them their rooms as he said there was a party of cowboys located in the room next to theirs, and he feared they might disturb them, and bring about a little gun play. If the cowboys were next door, they were very peaceable.

There were no springs or mattresses on the cots. A piece of canvas answered that double purpose. Twinkling stars peeped through inch cracks in the roof, and the rooms were no more or less than stalls, partitioned off, from about the knees to a little above the head. In the morning there was a general complaint from the guests that they had been robbed during the night, but it would be like hunting for a needle in a hay stack to locate a thief in that mob. Mr. Wade and Mr. Jacoby were fortunate in that respect.

They registered for the drawings at 1 o'clock at night. The night was as busy as the day there. All that was required was the aid of a notary public, and 25 cents, and the job was done. The next morning they started home, without trying to see the land on which they were taking chances. It only lay a half mile from Dallas. A great hand posted in the middle of the street, with "The Pike" painted on it in large letters, pointed the way, but the comforts of life were too scarce in the overcrowded town to linger over the next train out.

Mr. Wade will go to Rosebud some time next spring and pick out the land upon which he will file his claim.

LODGE IS SUED FOR INSURANCE

Widow of Man Who Committed Suicide Seeks to Recover.

The dramatic suicide of Clarence H. Bambard, in his wife's apartments in the Oppel block, on Jan. 25 of this year, is recalled by a suit filed in district court this morning by his widow, Ollie M. Bambard, to recover $1,000 from the Modern Woodmen of America.

The complaint alleges that on Feb. 15, 1900, Bambard applied for membership in the lodge at Bay City, Mich., and was accepted. He died Jan. 25 of this year, and the plaintiff alleges that, despite the fact that her husband had complied with all the laws and rules of the order, his insurance policy had not been paid.

The answer alleges that Bambard had neglected to pay an assessment of 55 cents, and his local dues of 75 cents, which were payable Dec. 31, 1907. A. E. McManus is acting for the widow, and B. D. Smith of Mankato, general attorney for the Modern Woodmen, and John H. Norton of Duluth, are attorneys for the lodge.

On being refused reconciliation by his wife, Bambard drank carbolic acid in the hallway of the Oppel block on Jan. 25 last, and died in the kitchen of his wife's apartments after bidding her farewell.

WILL TEST THE VALIDITY OF LAW

City's Saloon Ordinance Will be Tested in Courts.

Through his attorney, M. H. McMahon, Henry Abrahamson of 228 Lake avenue south, will test the validity of the city ordinance relative to the selling of liquor on Sunday.

He pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge Cutting charged with the offense, and was given a fine of $100, with the alternative of spending ninety days in the county jail.

Attorney McMahon will try to have him released on habeas corpus proceedings.

Abrahamson, who runs a saloon on Lower Lake avenue, has a set of rooms over his place of business, which, it is said, he uses for Sunday business. The offense was committed on a Sunday during the latter part of September.

"Fitwell" clothes are somewhat different from the rest. Men that know trade exclusively at the "Fitwell," 112 West Superior street.

A knight in full panoply of martial array was a fearsome sight once, but he would only be a curiosity now—like the dignified, old-fashioned merchant who considers advertising to be beneath him.

NEARING END OF COURT TERM

District Court Will Take Up New Calendar Soon.

The September term of district court is practically at an end, as very little more can be done before the November term opens a week from next Tuesday. The two terms overlap, and some of the cases, which are on the calendar for the September term, will have to go over to the November term for trial.

Judge Dibell will leave Sunday for Hibbing, where the range term of court will open Monday. After the Hibbing cases are heard, court will be moved to Virginia. The range calendar is light and will probably be disposed of in a few days.

Judge W. A. Cant has been at Carlton since Tuesday conducting the October term of court for Carlton county. The calendar there is quite heavy and it is doubtful if all of the cases will be disposed of today. The term may extend into next week.

Only Judge Ensign will be left to care for the local court, and little can be accomplished, as the case of the Butte & Superior Copper company against John McAlpine will extend into next week.

The trial of the criminal cases was suspended to allow Judge Cant to go to Carlton, and a number of cases ably go over to the November term also. The calendar of the September term was the heaviest in the history of the court, and much was accomplished considering the fact that the Butte & Superior case is now on its nineteenth day, an exceptionally long trial for the local court.

BILLIKEN IN DULUTH

Popular Craze of the East Reaches Zenith City.

He's the god of the gleeful smile
With a nature that nothing can rile;
When you tickle his toes,
He just wrinkles his nose
And eliminates grouches and smiles.

Billiken is here.

The little plaster god has his headquarters in one of Duluth's stores, and he of the smiles is coming into his own.

Besides his smile he has a surplus of hair of the shade that disturbs most Irishmen. He's an optimist too, and he's guaranteed to be the funniest little heathen that man ever idolized.

Down East Billiken has most of the people down with goodnaturitis, a delightful disease, which begins with a smile, and an occasional twinge of unselfishness in the cardiac region, and spreads throught the whole body, loosening up the laughs that have become cramped away, and attracting friends.

A little ivory headed, alabaster figure, four inches high and he has been the craze in the East for some time past.

He invaded Chicago last month, and now there are thousands of good natured people in the Windy City. It wasn't the Cubs, who won the pennant; it was Billiken. He made every one so happy, and the team feel so good that they had to win. That is what comes of having the little god on your side.

He has made many friends wherever he has been. He throws a spell over you that has the same effect as a mental healing. He doesn't accomplish miracles, but just the same there are people all over the country who would try to convince you that he does.

He is just a little emblem of good cheer.

ELKINS REPEATS "WE DON'T KNOW"

Senator Continues Uncommunicative in Regard to Daughter.

Pittsburg, Oct. 23.—In an extended conversation over the long-distance telephone with United States Senator Elkins, at Elkins, W. Va., the Associated Press made a number of pointed inquiries concerning the reported engagement of his daughter, Miss Katherine Elkins, and Duke Abruzzi. The attempt, however, to either secure a confirmation or denial was unsuccessful. Senator Elkins reiterated his previous statement: "We don't know anything about the matter."

When told that among other rumors it was reported that the duke of the Abruzzi is arranging his affairs to come to this country within a short time, Senator Elkins said:

"It's news to me."

"It is said two Italian warships will escort the duke and his bride to Italy."

Senator Elkins laughed. "What else?"

"Also, when you visit Italy after the marriage, you will be given the title of chevalier of annunciade." This last information seemed to strike the senator as a joke and he laughed heartily. He was also informed of a report that Marjorie Gould of New York has been selected as one of the bridesmaids and he ended the conversation by saying:

"I don't know a thing about it. I am sorry I can't give you something. However, when there is anything I am going to call you on the telephone at Pittsburg and give it to you."

Ambassador O'Brien, with the entire staff of the American embassy; the British, German, French and Russian ambassadors and other members of the diplomatic corps, gathered at the station to wish the voyagers god-speed.

In the throng that pressed about the American officers were representatives of every official department of the government and delegates from every commercial body of the city. In addition, the streets and the station contained an immense concourse of people.

KILLS A GRAMPUS.

Boston Herald: When the Blatchford weir crew went off to their harbor today they found an eighteen foot grampus in the netting.

Having but limited room the creature could not exert its strength to the best advantage, but it made things lively for its assailants for the ensuing half hour. The fishermen's weapons were an axe and a big hook, and with these they engaged in combat.

The hook was thrust into the head of the grampus. At once the creature put up a vigorous protest. If it could have turned its head downward it would have quickly torn loose from the fishermen and probably have forced its way out through the weir, but the rope fastened at one end of the hook and at the other to the boat prevented this.

The fear and fury of the creature were confined to terrific thrashings of its flukes and plungings of its body. Once the grampus reared aloft threatening to tumble bodily into the boat, but it fell to one side, simply deluging the craf tand its occupants. Holding hard to the hook rope, Blatchford, Baker, Raymond and Freeman used the axe with vigor, directing their efforts to the crushing of the thick skull. Again and again the axe swung with all the strength of the weilder, descended and at last the great sea animal turned upon its side dead. David C. Stult bought the grampus and had it towed to his shore front.

It pays to advertise in The Herald. Ask F. S. Kelly.

FOR WINTER MARCHES.

Ottawa Citizen: There is a strong feeling among the officers and men of the Ottawa garrison, at least among many of them, in favor of inaugurating a winter march from Prescott to Ottawa next January. The idea is prevalent among those who look into the practical side of the militia that some steps should be taken to train the soldiers in winter campaigning. If ever Canada is to have a war it would be to its advantage to have winter campaigns and its officers would therefore see that such were conducted. The reason for it being to the advantage of Canadians to have winter fighting is that they can better endure the rigors of the winter in this country than could foreigners.

Therefore it would be advisable that the Canadians be able to use this advantage for all it is worth and have the Canadian soldiers trained in such campaigning and taught how to make themselves comfortable and keep up the pace if ordered out on a winter's march. There is also thought to be a great deal which officers of all stages could learn about the most appropriate equipment with which to provide the troops, the most suitable food and so on. The conditions would be so entirely different from the summer training that that experience would be of very little use to them in winter warfare. Schemes worked out at the last moment for such needs are not very often a success and it would be much better to have all this knowledge in advance. Then the men could learn much about how to bivouac comfortably in a winter's night, how to protect the person from frost bites. All these and many other little things would be learned and would be of very great use to the soldiers in a winter war.

It would add another to Canada's winter sports and would be taken up enthusiastically by many. It would be novel and doubtless become among the more hardy a very popular thing. It would be a healthy sport. There is no tuberculosis in the open air.

Each man would take his own galt and not be hampered by the military step. The marching would be done on snowshoes, of which the militia department has a large quantity.

It is proposed that the corps be composed of 100 officers and men, one complete company, which would make the march from Prescott, and that the march be made as soon after New Year's as possible, when there is a slackness in trade and men could get off.

The march would be made near the railway tracks, so that any who could not keep up could drop out at the stations and take the train home. Besides the 100 men there would be four army medical men.

The company would be composed of volunteers from any of the city corps. They would wear no overcoats. Their equipment would consist of snowshoes, sleeping bag, uniform, rifle, cartridges, bayonets, mitts, mufflers, toques, moccasins, two suits of underwear, two quarts of soup and tea.

The work would be scouting, noting everything en route, learning to march on snowshoes, learning to preserve the feet, how to bivouac comfortably in the open, learning how to build fires and clear away snow with the shoes. There would be no transports and all the provisions for the three days would have to be carried in the smallest space and how much each man needed for a three-day march; also the best means of resisting fatigue and the best method of transportation in winter.

This is simply the rough outline as it is proposed and if taken up the other details of such a trip would be arranged and receive, no doubt, the earnest consideration of each officer in the city as to its feasibility. It is proposed that each soldier take notes when on the trip regarding the country, etc., which would prove very interesting. Ottawa soldiers have ever been enthusiastic in the practical work and this proposal will therefore especially appeal to them.

The Leading Jewelers!

The Henrickson Jewelry Co. notices in this morning's paper that a competing Jewelry House in the city is making use of a slogan which has, for the past twelve years been used exclusively by themselves,

—"THE LEADING JEWELERS."—

They wish to draw the attention of the public to this fact in order to avoid the possibility of confusing the two houses and also to draw the attention of the competing house to what may be nothing but a typographical error, but which in any case, will not redound to the credit of the house.

The Henrickson Jewelry Co., ever since it commenced in business in this city, has claimed the title of and by now, have undoubtedly proved their claim to the title.

As the Henrickson Jewelry Co. proposes to continue to make use of their slogan, they wish to draw the attention of the other house to the fact that to retain their slogan—which is, we believe, "The Fashionable Jewelers."

WILLIAMS MEETING

Saturday Will be the Last Chance to Register.

Tonight, the Democrats of St. Louis county will present to a Duluth audience the second speaker of national reputation to be heard here in this campaign.

The first speaker was John A. Johnson. His reception is still fresh in the minds of the people of this city. Tonight, through the influence of the Minnesota Democratic state committee and the hard work of Chairman Andrew Nelson, the Democrats of the county will have the honor of entertaining G. Fred Williams of Boston, the leading

GEORGE FRED WILLIAMS.

Bryan Democrat of New England.

Mr. Williams is known throughout the East as the "Silver Tongued Orator." He is a man of national reputation, a thinker and a scholar. He is one of the big men of the country and the members of the St. Louis Democratic committee consider themselves as being very fortunate in being able to secure the services of Mr. Williams.

Mr. Williams will discuss the guarantee of bank deposits, the policy of campaign contributions, tariff revision, regulation of railway rates, treatment of trusts and monopolies, labor and injunctions, and the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people.

Tonight's meeting will be called at 8 o'clock, and a cordial invitation has been issued by the committee to everyone, no matter of what political faith.

Tomorrow is the last day that voters will have an opportunity to register. If any voter overlooks the opportunity tomorrow, he will be deprived of the opportunity of casting a vote at the coming election. The polls will be open all day, and the registering will be done at the regular polling places.

It is expected that the registration tomorrow will add in the neighborhood of 2,000 votes to those already cast.

Both committees are anxious for a heavy registration Saturday. From present indications, both committees will be satisfied upon this score.

An enthusiastic Democratic meeting was held last night at Duluth Heights. John Cashin, Democratic candidate for register of deeds, and Emil A. Tessman, Democratic candidate for county commissioner in the First district, were the principal speakers of the evening.

Mr. Cashin defined the duties of a public servant. He told the voters present that in the event of his election his ability and time would be at the service of the people of St. Louis county.

Mr. Tessman told of some of the needs of the county in the matter of roads and other improvements, pointed out that a county commissioner had the responsibility for the expending of a great deal of money, and that by a wise and careful service he could save to the county many items of needless expense.

The meeting was a large and enthusiastic one. Dan Lewis, one of the industrious colored Democratic workers of the city, sang several campaign songs of his own composition.

A meeting of the Second ward committee was held last night in the Polish school, Fourth avenue east and Fourth street. The meeting was for the purpose of arranging for a future meeting to be held in the Second ward.

A report of a straw vote, taken on the Great Northern train, from Crookston to this city, was received today at Democratic headquarters. The vote showed a slight plurality for Bryan and an overwhelming plurality for Governor Johnson. It is a significant thing that the members of the train crew, who were allowed a vote in the informal contest, voted for Bryan and Johnson.

A report received this morning at headquarters stated that the colored vote of this city, for the first time in many years, will favor Democracy. A colored voter was a caller at headquarters this morning and stated that the colored voters of this city are for Bryan and Johnson. This conclusion was reached after a personal inquiry among the colored voters of the city.

It was rather quiet at Republican headquarters this morning. The members of the committee are rather chagrined over the fact that they have been deprived of the use of the Powers theater at Hibbing for the Jacobson meeting in that city. When it was learned that the Socialists of Hibbing had arranged for the Haywood meeting upon the same night of the Jacobson meeting, and had secured the theater that the Republicans had planned to get, efforts were made to have the Socialists postpone their meeting. This the Socialists refused to do. They agreed to hold a joint debate, but wouldn't consider the proposition of giving up the Powers' theater.

As a result of the refusal, the Republicans have been compelled to alter their plans somewhat. Three halls in Hibbing have been secured and it is planned to have Jacobson address meetings in all of them.

A Republican meeting has been arranged for Duluth Heights for some time during the coming week. The speakers have not been selected as yet.

Following the example of the Democrats, the Republicans will invade Carlton county. C. B. Miller will address a meeting at Cloquet upon the night before election. Carlton county has been rather neglected in the matter of meetings and speakers by both parties, and the local committees of both the Republican and Democratic parties have taken it upon themselves to supply what the county committees of Carlton county failed to do.

Thomas Martin was a caller at Republican headquarters this morning. He reported a favorable Jacobson sentiment in Chisago county.

ENTHUSIASM AT CLOQUET

Democrats Hold a Big Meeting in Carlton Couuty.

Andrew Nelson and John Jenswold Address the Voters.

Carlton county was invaded last night by the Democratic forces. Andrew Nelson, chairman of the county Democratic committee, and John Jenswold, one of the most prominent Democrats in St. Louis county, were the principal speakers of the evening. If the enthusiasm that greeted their remarks is any criterion by which to judge, Carlton is tucked away with the large number of counties labeled, "For Johnson."

Last night's meeting was held in Cloquet. The audience was composed of more than 150 representative voters. Many farmers from outside the village were present. The enthusiasm for Johnson and Bryan was spontaneous and demonstrative. Both the national and the state issues were discussed by the speakers. The mention of the name of Johnson by Mr. Nelson brought forth a burst of applause.

Mr. Nelson reviewed Johnson's record. He stated in brief form some of the improvements and benefits that had come to the state under the stewardship of the governor. He went into Johnson's legislative record briefly, showing that the governor had never been opposed to the interests of the northern part of the state; had never been narrow or provincial in his views. He stated that the governor had never been in favor of the imposition of a tonnage tax, nor was in favor of such a tax at the present time.

He enumerated statutes that had been added to the books, during the governor's four years of office. He told of some of the things that had been accomplished for the good of the people of the state; the draining of public lands, the collection of revenues that belonged to the state treasury. He asked if the governor had not served in the interests of the people, had not carried out the pledges he had given to the people.

Mr. Jenswold went deeply into the tariff question. He showed its relation to the trusts; how the protective tariff had resulted in the fostering of the great combinations of capital that had throttled competition and resulted in the raising of the prices of products to an unfair level.

The speaker compared the platforms of the two parties, showing that the platform of the Democratic party was in the interest of the people, and was not built at the dictation of the powerful money interests.

Mr. Jenswold stated that Democracy was spreading; that the people were coming to the realization that certain evils of government had continued far too long, and that the only remedy that could eradicate them, was the election of public servants who would rule in the interests of the people, not in the interests of the favored few.

The speaker stated that the trusts and the moneyed interests were opposed to the revision of the tariff, for the reason that it would result in the weakening of the monopolistic combinations.

SUFFERED WITH AN ITCHING RASH

On Hands and Arms in Blisters as Large as Hazelnuts—Face Became Badly Swollen and Could Not Work —Grew Worse But Was

SOON CURED BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Last summer I was troubled with an itching rash on my hands; some people called it poison ivy. I guess I must have scratched it during the nights for it got worse. The hands and forearms got all full of little blisters as large as hazelnuts, so I went to a doctor. He gave me a salve and talcum powder and told me to take a needle and open the blisters, but instead of getting better it still got worse. Then he gave me some medicine and my hands and face got all swollen. I could not work any more. After lingering around for three weeks I thought I would try the Cuticura Remedies. I bought a set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent Pills, and in one week I saw that I was no longer as bad. I kept on using Cuticura and the trouble continued to grow better. In five weeks it was entirely cured. I had suffered four weeks before I tried the Cuticura Remedies and I can recommend them as the best for all skin diseases. I use the Cuticura Resolvent Pills now and then as the best blood purifier. Matthew Ganter, 21 Fayette St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Apr. 8 and 13, '08."

Antonio Schiros Wants Divorce From Wife Who Deserted Him.

A battered summons and complaint, weighted down with official documents, seals and stamps and typewritten in Italian and English, was filed with the clerk of the district court this morning in divorce proceedings of Antonio Schiros against his wife Odda Schiros. The papers had been sent across the ocean to Italy and served on the woman at her home there. No answer was returned.

Schiros alleges that they were married in Italy, June 29, 1899, and came to this country in 1902, with two children, who are now 8 and 7 years of age, respectively. He says they lived together at Hibbing until March 19, 1905, when his wife deserted him and later she sailed for Italy.

Schiros alleges that on March 19, 1905, and on several occasions prior to that, his wife was unfaithful to him and one Merino Valleri is named as co-respondent. Schiros asks absolute divorce and the custody of the two children.

A note of issue, unaccompanied by other papers, was filed this morning in the case of Andrew Jentoft against Jennie Jentoft.

SUPERIOR NEWS

FALL REGATTA.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The University of Wisconsin interclass regatta occurs here Saturday on Lake Mendota.

There is much class rivalry in this annual fall class event, and the contest promises to be a pretty one, as all the classes have excellent crews.

H. H. Roberts and W. K. Hare of Superior are members of the first senior crew, and W. L. Kimball, also of Superior, is coxwain of the sophomores.

Husband Deserts Her.

Mrs. Rhode claims that her husband has deserted her and run off with $700 of the family's savings. There are two small children in the family. According to the police Rhode has been drinking heavily lately.

Williams Talks in Superior.

The Democratic campaign was opened in Superior last evening before about 800 in Maryland hall by George Fred Williams, former congressman from Massachusetts. He discussed fully the issues of the campaign, the platforms of both parties, and the public life of Taft and Bryan. The mention of Mr. Bryan brought a round of cheers.

Sold Without License.

On the charge of having sold liquor without a license, William Hiland, manager of the Town of Superior club, was yesterday arraigned before the municipal court. The case was continued until next Wednesday. Hiland claims that the town of Superior voted him a license to sell liquor before the location of the club was decided upon. He also claimed that the club had a charter which is signed by the secretary of state. He assured the judge that the license will be forthcoming at the next meeting of the town board.

May Tax Church Property.

The pastors of the Concordia Lutheran and the Evangelical Lutheran churches have had a notice served on them by the board of review, to appear and show cause why certain church property should not be taxed.

It is claimed that the property in question is not being used for church purposes, as it is vacant. The assessor was given to understand that there was a building on one piece of the property and that one was to be erected on the other.

BROKEN LEGS AND FLOWERS.

"At a dinner in Philadelphia," said a clergyman, "I once heard the lamented Bishop Potter talk in a most amusing manner about the artistic temperament.

"First he described the contradictions in the characters of Whistler, Poe, Hawthorne, and other great Americans. Then he turned to Landor, the great Englishman.

"'Landor,' he said, 'was at the same time the most violent and brutal and the most delicate and sensitive of men. He adored flowers. The gardens of his beautiful villa in Florence were full of flowers, and the poet walked among them daily, never plucking them, only bending over them reverently to admire their loveliness and their perfume.

"Landor's cook one day served him a wretched dinner, and in his rage the poet threw the man out of the window into a bed of splendid roses.

"As the cook writhed with a broken leg below, Landor from the window exclaimed in a horror-stricken voice:

"'Good gracious, I forgot the roses!'"

WHY THE REDWOODS LIVE.

Nature Throws About Them Her Own Protection.

"How did it happen that any of the big trees of California escaped the axe of the lumbermen?" isa question frequently asked by those who are not familiar with the topography of California. The question answers itself when one has made a trip to the giant forest in the Sierras.

Nature seems to have protected many of these trees from slaughter by providing a home for them in a mountain fortress. The big trees were distant and on which they grew could be had for a song under the homestead act or the timber and stone act, but the problem of transporting the timber to the mill involved so great an expenditure that the lumber companies hesitated to tackle the job. Some of the more audacious acquired ownership of those tracts nearest the market and expended large sums of money in the constriction of flumes. It has been a paying investment. The Hume-Bennett Lumber company purchased a tract containing 500,000,000 feet of standing timber, about 300,000,000 feet of which is big trees. To float this timber to the mill a flume more than fifty miles long was constructed. But even this company did not have the audihood to make the colossal expenditure that would be necessary to cut and market the timber on the crest of the mountain.

Before the glacial period the sequoia flourished in the temperate zones of Europe, Asia and America. The geologists say that when the ice receded just two species, the big tree and redwood, survived. Both grew in California, the redwood in a narrow strip of the coast ranges and the big trees in small groves along the west slope of the Sierra Nevada mountains.

There are but ten main groups of big trees. They are among the scarcest of known tree species and have the extreme scientific value of being the best living representatives of a former geologic age. The big tree has come down to us through the vicissitudes of many centuries solely because of its superb qualifications, says T. W. Brannany in the Milwaukee Sentinel. Its bark is often two feet thick and almost noncombustible. The oldest specimens felled are still sound at the heart, and fungus is an enemy unknown to it.

Yet with all these means of maintenance the big trees have not increased their range since the glacial period. They have only just managed to hold their own on the little strip of country where the climate is locally favorable. John Muir, the celebrated geologist, says he never saw a big tree that had died a natural death. Barring accidents, he says, they seem to be immortal, being exempt from all the diseases that afflict and kill other trees. Unless destroyed by man, they live on indefinitely until burned, smashed by lightning or cast down by storms or by the giving away of the ground on which they stand.

The largest belt of big trees is in the Sierras in Tulare county, some forty miles northwest of Visalia. These trees are scattered over the slopes and on the valleys, but are larger in the depressions where the soil is more moist. The trees are not collected together in groves but are scattered through the forests and associated with sugar pine, fir and other species usually occurring at this altitude. They are most abundant at from 6,000 to 7,000 feet elevation above sea level.

In 1895 some enterprising men in California had the idea of scheme whereby lumbering operations in the high Sierras could be conducted profitably. They organized a profit-sharing society known as the Kaweah colony. It had the support of the socialistic spirit, for each member contributed his pro rata of money or labor to the cause. A cooperative store was organized, a cooperative mill established, lands were apportioned and work was begun on the construction of a road to the mountain battlements where were growing the grand old trees that have stood since the days of Christ.

The Kaweah colony had a membership of 352, nearly every state in the Union being represented. Several members of the colony worked on the road, and fully two-thirds of it, a splendid wagonway up the steep slopes had been completed when, without warning, congress exploded a bombshell that scattered th eindustrious Kaweahans to the four corners of the United States. Only a fe whours before congress adjourned in March, 1891, the president signed a bill containing not more than a dozen lines, creating the Giant Forest National park.

Members of the colony had neglected to file on the land on which the big trees stood. The creation of a national park meant the withdrawal of the land from entry. All the road building had been in vain, for not one of the sequoias in this forest of the world's most magnificent trees could be cut. About $63,000 was expended in road construction by the colony. The colony disbanded when the park was created, and no claim ever has been made against the government for the money spent in road building. The road to the interior of the forest was completed by the government, and now it is a public highway. About 1,500 acres of the forest is in private ownership, but the trees have not been cut. They could not be hauled to the valley, as heavy tanning on the government road ih prohibited.

It is estimated there are 60,000 sequioas in the forest, the big trees running about twenty to the acre. While nurseries have been established, no marked success in the growing of these trees has attended the efforts of the government. The parable of the acorn and the oak is familiar to those who have been admonished that great achievements come from small beginnings. A more striking example is the big tree and its seed. A single cone contains from 200 to 300 seeds, which are about one-fourth of an inch long by three-sixteenths wide. The seed of this giant of the forest is strikingly like the seed of the parsnip.

Mr. Muir says that no other sierra conifer produces nearly so many seeds. Millions are ripened annually by a single tree. "In a fruitful year," says Mr. Muir, "the product of one of the northern groves would be enough to plant all of the mountain ranges of the world. But few of the millions of seed which fall to the ground germinate, and of these that do perhaps not one in 10,000 is suffered to live through the many vicissitudes of storm, drought, fire and snow crushing that beset their youth."

All the sequoias in the giant forest are monster trees, but the greatest of them all is a tree known as the General Sherman. It is 280 feet high and twelve feet above the ground, has a circumference at the ground of 103 feet. It is estimated this tree contains 500,000 feet of merchantable lumber. A timber cruiser who examined this tree as a curiosity said there was enough timber in it to fence and cross fence 160 acres of land, build a seven room house, barn and out buildings, and leave enough refuse to supply firewood for a year. From this tree alone, he said, there could be constructed fifteen frame houses, each two stories high.

The second largest tree is called the Abe Lincoln. This tree has a diameter of thirty-two at its base. At the south edge of the giant forest, near Moro rock, is a tree known as the Theodore Roosevelt. This tree is not as large as the other two, but is more symmetrical.

The tunnel through the backbone of the Cordilleras, that will connect Valparairo with Buenos Ayres, is progressing rapidly. Work is pushed day and night. At the present rate it will be opened in 1910.

Are you hoping that your business will break all records this fall? Herald publicity is the most important factor in bringing this about.

Shares Go Off Heavily During the Last Hour.

'Twas a lively day in the copper stock market and the end of the busy session found prices lower, although during the earlier hours they were enjoying an old-fashioned bulge.

Opening prices were firm and with active bidding prices advanced a point or more over the opening in many leading issues, but during the last hour, profit-taking sales broke the list and brought the closing prices down a level under yesterday's.

North Butte opened at $84.75, advanced to $85.25, declined to $83.62½ and closed at $83.75 bid and $84 asked. Amalgamated opened at $79.75, advanced to $80.50, slumped to $78.75 and closed at $78.87½ bid and $79 asked.

Anaconda opened at $45, declined to $45.25, rallied to $46.37½, declined to $45.62½ and closed at $45.75 bid.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at $15.25, advanced to $16.12½ and closed at $16.12½ bid and $16.25 asked. GREAT NORTHERN SHOWING GOOD

Passenger Traffic Figures Record an Increase for Year.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The nineteenth annual report issued today by the Great Northern Railroad company shows a highly favorable report in view of the general business conditions during nine ended June 30, 1908.

The gross operating revenues for the year were $54,429,000, a decrease compared with the total for the previous year of $1,838,000. But the freight revenue showed a decrease of $1,920,000, and the passenger traffic gave an increase of $140,600. The report shows that the decrease was general in all classes of freight. There were handled 2,111,460 net tons of iron ore less than during the corresponding period of 1907.

The gross decrease in revenues of all sorts was $1,838,000. On the other hand the operating expenses increased $503,000 and cost of maintaining way and structures increased by $1,320,000.

FRIEND OF PLANT LIFE.

Youth's Companion: An old, weather beaten, one-room building standing in the courtyard at Kenbridge, Luenenburg county, Va., is the office in which John Randolph of Roanoke practiced law.

It was the custom of the times to build these little offices on the courtyard green, and many a famous lawyer has worked up his case in such an odd little shelter. No building of the kind, however, was ever occupied by a lawyer of more interesting and unique character than this little office at Kenbridge. One of Randolph's peculiarities is dwelt upon by Powhatan Bouldin and illustrated by an incident which proves that the stern and eccentric man formed a society, all by himself, for the prevention of cruelty to plants. The story is told by a friend of Randolph's nephew:

"When I was a boy I visited at Roanoke. The house was completely environed by trees and underwood and seemed to be in a dense virgin forest. Mr. Randolph would not permit even a switch to be cut near the house.

Without being aware of this one day I committed a serious trespass. My friend Tudor and I were rowing about when I, perceiving a straight young hickory about an inch thick, felled it.

Tudor said his uncle would be very angry, so I immediately went and informed him what I had ignorantly done and expressed my regret.

Mr. Randolph took the stick and looked pensively at it as if commiserating its fate. Then gazing at me he said:

"I would not have had this done for fifty Spanish milled dollars!"

I had 75 cents and had entertained some idea of offering it, but when I heard about the fifty dollars I was afraid of insulting him by such meagre compensation.

"Did you want this for a cane?" asked Mr. Randolph.

"No, sir."

"No, you are not old enough to need a cane. Did you want it for any particular purpose?"

"No, sir. I only saw that it was a pretty stick and thought I'd cut it."

"We can be justified in taking animal life only to furnish food or to remove a hurtful object. We cannot be justified in taking even vegetable life without some useful object in view. Now God Almighty planted this thing and you have killed it without any adequate object. It would have grown into a large nut tree and furnished food for many squirrels. I hope and believe you will never do it again."

"Never, sir, never!" I cried.

He put the stick into a corner and I escaped to Tudor. It was some time before I could cut a switch or fishing rod without feeling I was doing some sort of violence to the vegetable kingdom.

GROUCHY MR. GNAGG.

Asks If His Wife Thinks Him a Millionaire.

Mr. Gnagg, going over the weekly accounts and finding therein the usual number of items calculated to arouse his wrath, regales Mrs. Gnagg with the following running comment, says the New York Sun:

Now, look here; we might just as well have an understanding about this business right now as any other time. What is your idea about the amount of money that I can earn, anyhow? When and where and how did you first pick up the notion that you were married to a millionaire?

It's up to me to find out. It's up to me to begin at the beginning and get at the bottom of the meaning of this stupendous, this hideous, this wanton, colossal, reckless, merciless extravagance of yours. I'm naturally a patient man, but I intend to find out from you how you happened to gather this weird, whimsical idea that your husband was the president of a national bank or the manipulator of a corner in cotton or Scotty the Spender or Coal Oil Johnny.

How's that? I never tell you anything about my business affairs? Oh, that's it, is it? You're getting hunk with me because I don't furnish you with a daily balance sheet of my affairs, eh?

Huh! You don't care to pry into my business, but you do wish that you had a regular household allowance, so that there wouldn't be this constant fussing over accounts? So it's an allowance you're clamoring for now, is it? And your idea of the best way to get such an allowance is to run up these weekly bills beyond all reason, all common sense, so that according to your view I'll be glad to make you a hefty weekly allowance—about three-quarters of what I earn—and let me be about right, according to your idea, I dare say—in self defense.

Well, you're not going to get away with that scheme, either; I can tell you that. I expect to hang on to the purse strings of this tepee just as long as I'm able to creep out o' mornings to get the money. If I were pinhead enough to pass that end of the business to you I'd be listening all the time for the clatter of the poorhouse wagon to come and yank us out of a sold up house and home.

Now just take a peek at this item, for example—$1.40 cents for lamb chops!

Great Heaven, is this a lumberjack camp? Or is the whole United States army holding its autumn maneuvers in this flat? Or did you have the man charge me a $1.40 for lamb chops and get a pound of dollar candy on that charge?

You'll never be able to get away with it in ten thousand years that you bought a $1.40 cents worth of lamb chops for any ordinary purpose around here, and if you think—

Huh? You got the $1.40 worth of lamb chops—four pounds, at 35 cents a pound—on the day that my mother and sisters came down from The Bronx to take luncheon with you, and they're all frightful meat-eaters, and—now, look here, whatever else you do, I am not going to permit you to sit there and knock my people just to cover up your own tracks.

I am not going to permit you to get me off on a side issue. That's the old feminine method—getting a man tied up with some silly minor point of an argument until he's hopelessly switched off the main line. Now here's another item that needs some illumination—eight heads of lettuce, at 15 cents a head, a $1.20.

What have you got to say about that? Why, woman, I'd undertake to feed the biggest warren of rabbits or guinea pigs on the civilized globe on eight heads of lettuce and still have enough left over to fill a shed! Now before you open your mouth just think that over. Don't try to squirm around and wriggle and frame up fairy tales and then end by telling me that you got the eight heads of lettuce to ornament the walls here for the meeting of your church guild or to—

What's that? The eight heads of lettuce were got for the salad on the evening I had that pinochle party here? Oh, well, that's different. Why didn't you say so, then? And you don't have to sneer when you advert to my little pinochle party either. I don't get much out of life, remember that, except my board and lodging, and if I choose to have a few friends in for a game of pinochle once in a while, why, you needn't curl your lip over it and ramp and rear around about the trouble it puts you to to make a little lettuce salad for them, you needn't.

Say, what's this? Twenty-five pounds of sugar? What are you trying to do, bull the Havemeyer stocks? Twenty-five pounds of sugar! Well, if that—

What do you do with sugar, wash clothes with it or give it to the janitor to sprinkle the halls with before sweeping? Or does that item too conceal some other purchase of your own that you don't want me to know anything about? Now see here, there's no use shuffling about in this matter. I want a plain answer and if—

How's that? Oh you used that sugar to put up peach preserves with? Well, why the dickens didn't you say so in the first place? You can't open your mouth, can't you? You're not dumb, are you? I'm not doing this for fun. It's business to me. And if you can't help me by at least opening your face once in a while, how dye expect me to get through with the job?

Say, look a-here, what's this—one lobster $1.50? Now begin to wriggle about that; why don't you? I spose you'll be telling me that I ate that whole dollar and a half lobster myself?

I recommend you to be explicit and prompt in informing me with reference to this $1.50 lobster. You want to keep it in mind, too, that I don't eat lobster and that I've never seen a lobster on my table, because even if you do like the fool vulgar things I don't, and I guess I've got a right to have one or two little prejudices of that sort, much as you'll be disposed to deny that proposition.

Well, I'm waiting. Is this charge correct or did the man get it on our account by mistake?

What, you got the lobster to make salad with at that little luncheon party of women you had here the other day, eh? Uh-huh. All right. I haven't anything to say about that, of course. Wouldn't dare open my mouth with regard to it.

But it's a wonder to me that you wouldn't feed the women that come to these hen parties of yours—it's a wonder you wouldn't give 'em fillilloo birds' tongues and things like that. They'd cost more than lobster, you know, and that ought to help a lot, you enjoy seeing me perplexed and baffled and all that kind of thing in this kind of weather? There you sit knowing it all the time that the bill is so big on account of that one distance call of mine and you don't so much as lisp one word, and ——

Oh, well, it's my own fault. I went into the thing with my eyes open. I made my bed and now it's my job to lie upon it. I've got a swell right to beat, haven't I, after the blunder I made?

SLEEPING IN CHURCHES.

Columbus Dispatch: Napping at the Lawrenceville Sunday school will hereafter cost 25 cents. Uncle John Xanders is responsible for the new way of keeping awake in study hours.

Uncle John complained to the members around the way they had been straggling into school and of taking a quiet nap. As a result it was decided to charge those who went to sleep 25 cents a Sunday for their lodging.

SILENT FIFTEEN YEARS.

Was Rebuked for Talking Too Much While a Boy.

John S. Smith, a Kansas City stonemason, has "pouted" for fifteen years. His "grouch" manifests itself in a stubborn refusal to talk. Since he was 18 years of age he has not uttered a syllable, except to three members of his family, says the Kansas City Star.

When Smith was a youth his father whipped him. The father said the boy talked too much.

"I'll never talk again," Smith told his mother. He had been to town with his father. He was boyishly "gabby" about the sights he had seen. His clatter annoyed the father. So the latter stopped the team he was driving in the road and with true German austerity flogged the boy.

Smith's father died two years after the boy took his vow of silence. At the funeral Smith maintained the silence he began two years before. And now, thirteen years after his father's death, Smith continues mute.

"The only persons he has spoken to since he took the vow are his brother and sister and myself," Smith's mother said. "His sister got married and was away for a while. When she returned he refused to speak to her. There was no particular reason, except that he had formed a habit of speaking only to his brother and myself."

Smith and his mother live in an eight room frame house, which he built himself. None of the rest of the family lives with them. Smith maintains his silence, except occasionally, with his mother. He does not speak to her more than twice a year, she said.

His method of communication is in writing. This is the means he uses with his mother and brother, as a rule, as well as with others he knows. What he wishes to eat, the time he wishes to get up in the mornings, his ideas of the flowers in the yard and the things he expects to do in the big garden, near his home, all these he writes to his mother.

Smith is a first-class mechanic, those who work with him say. He "talks" with his fellow-workers by writing. This takes time. He must stop his work to write, while his companions can continue their work and talk. So Smith seldom carries on communication with those working with him.

He has lost several jobs because he would not reply to remarks made by his employers. He is not of a morose disposition. His persistent refusal to talk is his only manifestation of a "grouchy" nature.

"Some get fired for talking too much, so why not for not talking?" he wrote on a slip of paper in reply to a query as to why he did not talk and save his job. Smith carries with him a large book filled with blank paper. He draws it slowly from his pocket when replying to questions. Invariably he returns the book to his pocket after writing a reply, even when a sustained "conversation" is under way. He seems to have no nerves, but patiently produces the book time after time.

Whenever possible Smith answers "yes" and "no" by shaking his head. It is not the hurried bob used by mutes, but is slow and methodical.

Smith is silent in two languages. He understands both German and English and can write the two "tongues." He was born on Buch creek, about ten miles north of Lawrence, Kan. His family removed to Kansas City when he was a few months old. The family has since lived near Fifty-eighth street and Swope Park boulevard.

Smith not only is a stonemason, but he also is proficient as a carpenter, has some knowledge of lathing and plastering and bricklaying, has played the fiddle for the occasional social affairs near Swope park and can farm a bit. He has great strength, his hands, arms and shoulders being prodigiously big compared with his body. Smith says he can do more work than any other man of his size in the world.

Smith is a genial soul, aside from his habit of silence. He likes to foregather with congenial companions in some saloon and pass the time in animated chaffing—with a lead pencil. He can endure an unlimited amount of "kidding," even about his voluntary silence. A crowd of his companions were gathered with him in a saloon one day last week.

"Don't you know you are breaking all the laws of man and the ten commandments in refusing to talk?" one of them asked him.

"There are but eight commandments," Smith wrote in reply.

"What two have you dropped?" the companion asked.

"None," Smith wrote. "There never was more than eight. I can prove it by the Seventh Book of Moses."

Smith was fishing three days last week on the Blue river near Swope park. He caught thirty pounds of fish Wednesday, he declared, with his bare hands. One of the fish weighed twenty-seven pounds, he said.

"A fish will let you lay your hands on him without moving if you are careful," Smith wrote. "So few persons know anything about fish.

"I put my hands slowly under rocks and logs. If I feel a fish I put both hands about his neck. I can tell then whether the fish is a big one or not. Four years ago I caught two catfish which weighed 125 pounds. If I feel a big fish I stick my fingers or thumbs in his gills. The biggest ones will either give in or drown with their gills wide open. When they are helpless any one who can lift them can take them from the water."

Smith said a catfish which weighed 175 pounds got away from him Saturday a week ago by diving into twelve feet of water before it lost its strength. Smith's hands are badly marked with scars, evidently from wounds supposedly inflicted by the fins of fish.

"Will you ever talk again?" one of Smith's friends asked.

"No," he wrote in reply.

"Why?"

"Too much trouble," he wrote.

"Is it more trouble than writing?"

"It is drier."

The bartender took the limit and refilled the glasses. Smith smiled at his profitable wit and entertained the crowd by making his scalp and ears move by muscular contraction. He took all manner of pride in his achievement and chuckled his gratification as various members of the crowd essayed to do the stunt and failed.

"If a burglar broke into your house would you yell for help or write 'help' in big letters?" one of the company asked Smith. z z z z z z

"I would try to see if he was bigger than me," he wrote. "I could get a lunch while he was getting a square meal."

So it may be seen Smith has a proper regard for slang similes.

"I claim to be the best' fisher and the best hunter ever come to Swope Park," Smith wrote on a card.

"How do you do with your dog—write instructions to it?" Smith was asked. Smith moved his scalp and ears sarcastically.

"I need no dog," he wrote.

Smith is going fishing today on the Blue river near the brick kiln north of Swope Park. Big fish lie there, he said. He will make a special effort to catch the 175-pound fish which eluded him two weeks ago. He wrote this to the crowd with which he had been talking.

"How do you talk when you lose your lead pencil?" one of the incredulous asked.

Smith grinned. Then he roguishly wiggled his scalp and wagged his ears.

WHEAT HAS WEAK CLOSE

Flax is Active in Duluth But Has Easier Tone.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 23.—More favorable weather reports from Argentina and lower cables broke a fairly firm wheat market today. Closing prices showed fractional losses from yesterday in all the American markets.

A firm demand from the Eastern millers was the chief asset of the bulls during the early hours of the session. Drought conditions in the Southwest also contributed in some measure to the early strength, but the market eased when the bearish crop news from South America came out. Argentine shipments were not as large as a week ago, but were well ahead of the same week a year ago. The Modern Miller says:

"Drought conditions in a greater part of the soft winter wheat territory continue to hamper the farm work, but in many sections, farmers fearing to delay any longer, are plowing or seeding. Good general rains such as have been experienced in the hard winter wheat states and in the Northwest in the near future would enable farmers to complete their work, but the outlook is unfavorable for normal acreage."

Liverpool closed ¾d to ⅞d lower, Antwerp unchanged, Paris is ¼c lower to unchanged, Budapest ¼c lower and Berlin ⅛c higher.

The December option closed ⅞c lower in Chicago and Minneapolis, ¾c lower in New York, Kansas City and Winnipeg and ⅝@¾c lower in St. Louis. The May option closed ¾c lower in Duluth, Kansas City and Winnipeg, ⅝@¾c lower in Chicago and ⅝c lower in Minneapolis, New York and St. Louis.

December corn closed a shade higher in Chicago and unchanged to ½d higher in Liverpool. December oats closed unchanged in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—The disappointing American cables yesterday and private reports of favorable weather in Argentina and the easiness in spot markets caused selling for profits and opening values were ¼d to ⅝d lower. Following the opening, the market advanced under firm Manitoba offerings, part of the decline was recovered. Toward midday, however, pressure again developed on the larger Argentine offerings, increased Liverpool receipts and the fact that the recent short interest has been reduced. At this time, the market was dull and from ½d to ⅝d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was steady at the start, but slightly lower. Later prices advanced on the firmness of La Plata parcels, and at mid-day, the market was firm and about ¼d higher."

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,077,000 bus., last year 1,093,000 bus. Shipments, 547,00 bus.; last year 988,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 886,000 bus.

Argentine shipments of wheat were 1,184,000 bus., against 1,656,000 bus. last week, and 512,000 bus. a year ago.

Primary receipts of corn were 223,000 bus., last year 607,000 bus. Shipments 101,000 bus., last year 488,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 16,848 bus.

Argentine shipments of corn were 1,652,000 bus., against 2,232,000 bus. last week, and 1,250,000 bus., last year.

Wheat was active during most of the session in the Duluth market. Eastern millers were good buyers at the start. December wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.03⅞, advanced to $1.04¼, declined $1.03⅞, and closed there, a loss of ⅛c from yesterday. May wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.06, advanced to $1.06⅛, declined to $1.05⅜, and closed at that price a loss of ⅜c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ⅛c lower, and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2½c over December for No. 1 northern.

Flax was actively traded in and was firm during most of the session, although the closing prices were easier. October flax opened ⅛c lower at $1.23⅜, advanced to $1.23⅝, declined to $1.23¼, rallied to $1.23⅝ and closed to $1.23¼, unchanged from yesterday. November flax opened unchanged at $1.23¾, declined to $1.23½, rallied to $1.23¾, declined to $1.23½ and closed there, a loss of ¼c from yesterday. December flax opened ¼c lower at $1.22½, advanced to $1.22¾ and declined to the close to $1.22⅝, a loss of ⅜c from yesterday. May opened unchanged at $1.27, declined to $1.26¾, rallied to $1.27, declined to $1.26¾ and closed there, a loss of ¼c from yesterday.

Oats closed ½c lower and barley 1c higher for the low grade. Rye was unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Buying Based Chiefly on Reported Damage by Argentine Frost.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Influenced by a decline of ⅝d in the price of wheat at Liverpool, the local market opened easy with prices ⅛@¼c to ⅝@½c below the previous close. The market, however, quickly regained all of the opening loss on brisk demand by commission houses and pit traders. The buying was based chiefly on an Argentine dispatch received by a local concern, which claimed that it was feared the damage to the new crop by frost would amount to nearly 40 per cent in some districts. December, which opened at 99½c to 99⅝c, advanced to $1@⅛ during the early trading. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 631 cars against 873 cars last week and 541 cars a year ago.

The strength was only temporary, however, the market becoming weak again on selling by several influential traders. The low point for December was reached at 99c. The close was weak with December ¾@⅞s lower at 99@⅝c.

Wet weather in the West and Southwest induced moderate buying of corn, which had a steadying effect on the market. Prices at the start were a shade lower, to ½c higher, with December at 63¼c to 63⅜c. Later December sold at 63⅛@¼c. Local receipts weer 106 cars, with 22 of contract grade.

The market was firm the balance of the day, chiefly on account of wet weather in Iowa and Nebraska. The weakness of wheat held buyers in check late in the day. During the day December ranged between 63 and 64⅝c. The market closed firm with December a shade higher at 63¼@⅜c.

Oats were inclined to be weak, owing to selling by cash interests. December opened ⅛c lower, at 47⅝c, and sold off to 47¼c. Local receipts were 179 cars.

Provisions were easy, due to moderate profit taking, brought about by liberal receipts of live hogs. Prices at the start were a shade to 7½c lower.

Close: Wheat—December, 99@99⅛c; May, $1.02⅜; July, 97⅛c. Corn—October, 69c; December, 63¼@63⅜c; May, 62⅝@62¾c; July 62@62⅛c. Oats—December, 47⅛@⅜; May, 49½c; July, 44¾c. Oats—December, 47½c; May, 49½c; July, 44¾c. Pork—October, $13.45; December, $13.55; January, $15.35; May, $15.25. Lard—October, $9.50; November, $9.50; May, $9.62; January, $9.20. Ribs—October, $8.40; January, $8.17½@8.20; May, $8.27½@8.30. Ilve—Cash, 78@78½c; December, 76c; May, 80c. Barley—Cash, 54@61c. Timothy—October, $3.75; March, $3.90. Clover—October, $8.50. THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Big Snowstorm Makes Wheat Stubborn—Pit Traders Wary.

Minneapolis, Oct. 23.—Liverpool cables ⅜@⅝d lower, pressed wheat back, but moderate receipts, a big snow storm suggestive of interference with the Canadian movement, and good cash demand made it stubborn. The prediction of showers for Indiana and eastern wheat states caused some selling, but pit traders seemed afraid to go short very much. Minneapolis got 337 cars against 291, Duluth 210 against 196 and Winnipeg 353 against 311. For the week an increase of 1,450,000 bushels is indicated in local stocks, after the noon hour there was free selling and prices sagged off. The close was weak. December opened $1.01⅝; high, $1.01⅝@$1.02; low, $1.01@$1.01⅛; close, $1.01@$1.01⅜. Old December closed $1.01¼. May opened $1.05⅜; high, $1.06⅛; low, $1.05¼; close, $1.05¼ @⅜.

Cash demand was good with 2¾c over December paid for No. 1 Northern spot or to arrive. No. 2 Northern brought ½@¾c over. There was excellent local and outside millinw demand. Close: No. 1 Northern spot and to arrive, $1.03⅜; No. 2 Northern spot, $1.01⅜@⅝; to arrive, $1.01⅜; No. 3 wheat, 97@$1.00.

No. 3 yellow corn, 74¾c.
No. 3 white oats, 44⅜@⅝c.
No. 3 rye, 69⅜@70¾c.

Barley receipts, 47 cars against 119 last year; shipments, 57 cars. Feed barley was up a full cent and malting barley ½c to 1c higher with better demand. Close, 49@57c. Flax receipts, 76 cars, against 49 cars last year; shipments, 14. Crushers bought readily at ½c under Duluth October. Close, $1.22⅝.

Millstuffs shipments 1,918 tons. Prices about steady at $17.50@18.00 for bulk bran, millers' figures.

Flour was not so active today and both local and country millers reported it quiet. Shipping instructions are not coming as freely as millers could wish. Shipments, 50,216 barrels. First patents, $5.25@5.50; second patents, $5.00@5.25; first clears, $3.90@4.20; second clears, $2.90@3.20.

FARMING IN INDIA.

Madras Mail: Agricultural practice in Southern India from start to finish requires religious rites.

In the Tamil districts the agricultural year commences about April. On April 23, the cultivators of the village consult a "Valluvan," who fixes for them the kind of wood that they should cut and take away. He is supposed to settle the question as the result of astrological observations made on the commencement of the Tamil New Year's day, which falls about April 13. Each cultivator then takes a little camphor, some incense, a few plantains and a cocoanut, and with others assembled for the purpose he proceeds to the forest where he worships the tree he is about to cut by burning the incense and the camphor offering the plantains and the cocoanut. Then he lops off the first branch, taking good care that it falls on the right side. In each year the side is different. Prosperity to himself and his cattle is firmly believed to depend very much upon this. He then cuts away the required quantity of wood and takes it home.

Another day is then selected, soon after the early rains of the same month, by the "Valluvan," and then the greatest event of the agricultural year occurs. Each ryot takes the wood he has selected for the plough, which is newly fitted up and taken to the field, where the bullocks the tied to it, and behind it stand other ploughs with teams of oxen tied to them, while large crowds assemble around the teams.

The principal ploughman then daubs the pair of oxen tied to the new plough with aniline powder and turmeric paste; he lights camphor and burns incense before it, breaks a cocoanut and with it he makes an offering of a pot of jaggery water and parched grain and Bengal gram. Then he drives the plough across the field, preceded by the other ploughmen, and after a few rounds the oxen are unyoked and the offerings distributed to those present.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Advanced Early, But Fell Off on Heavy Selling.

Close Was Weak at About Lowest Figures of Session.

New York, Oct. 23.—A decidedly irregular tone characterized the opening dealings in stocks today. Brooklyn Rapid Transit rose a point and Northern Pacific ⅝, while Southern Pacific and St. Paul fell 1 and Baltimore & Ohio ⅝. Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred sold at a decline of 2.

Moderate buying of the metal stocks caused a general advance. Subsequent selling of Union Pacific weakened the railroad stocks, but the specialties were supported. Utah Copper gained 1⅝, Western Union 1⅜, American Smelting 1¼, and National Lead and International Paper 1. Union Pacific gave way a point.

Renewed strength in the copper industrials was instrumental in pulling up the railroad list to last night's closing. Prices sagged again later, but Baltimore & Ohio, Iowa Central, Wisconsin Cenaral preferred lost 1. The tone was firm at noon. Bonds were steady.

While fluctuations were narrow and restricted to the most prominent stocks the tone was firm. The strength of the copper stocks, and the supporting orders executed in the railroad stocks when they showed weakness, induced the traders to buy on recesions. On advances, however, realizing sales appeared.

The market closed weak. The volume of the selling increased in the final hour, and prices ran off more rapidly. Southern Pacific fell 1¾, Union Pacific 1½ and Reading 1¼, under last night. Other losses were Lackawanna, 6; Iowa Central preferred and Westinghouse Electric, 1⅜. Great Northern preferred 1½, Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred, and American Cotton Oil 1¼, and Erie, Northwestern, Illinois Central, Canadian Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 1. Detroit United Railway sold at an advance of 4 and St. Louis Southwestern preferred 1.

AFRICAN MARRIAGE CUSTOMS.

London Standard: The marriage customs of West and Southwest Africa are in many cases peculiar. They differ, of course, in different tribes, but have broad lines in common.

A coastal tribe always considers itself superior to an inland tribe, and even its meanest member claims to rank higher than the most powerful man of an up country tribe. A man may marry any woman he likes of any tribe, it being held that he gives her his own status, whatever that may be, but it is almost unheard of for a woman to marry "beneath" her. As a result, some of the women of the most superior coast tribes, like the Mpongwe, look to marriage with white men, and frequently attain to it.

The parents on both sides rule absolutely in the matter of marriage between natives. First, the would-be bridegroom goes empty-handed to obtain the consent of the bride's father. Then he goes again with gifts, and the father calls in other members of the family to view the gifts. On the third visit he carries trade gin, a sufficiently poisonous compound, generally from

CONCRETE BATHHOUSES.

Boston hoodlums have compelled the authorities there to consider the plan of building the public seashore bathhouses of concrete.

According to the Cement Age it was found that it would be a waste of money to put the ordinary wood houses in condition before the season brought the full quota of guards to the grounds to protect them. Dewey Beach and Wood Island Beach suffered severely during the winter.

All the woodwork that the hoodlum element possibly could get loose was torn away, doors were battered in and practically every inch of lead pipe left on the premises was stolen. Most of the plumbing was taken down by the bath department at the end of the last season to save it from a similar fate.

The continual destruction of city property has reached the point that concrete construction has been recommended for future buildings. The new houses would have heavy iron grating set up in front of the doors and windows to protect them during the months when the buildings are not used. It is figured that concrete would not cost much more than wood, and it might save the annual expense of thousands of dollars for merely replacing what is being destroyed maliciously in the cold season.

It pays to advertise in The Herald. Ask Gray-Tallant company.

STARVING ENGLAND

Thousands of Unemployed Parade Streets of Large Cities.

Outbreaks by Desperate Men Almost Certain to Come.

London, Oct. 23.—England is face to face with the most serious condition of unemployment in her history, and unless relief is provided on an unprecedented scale during the coming winter, bread riots may be expected in many of the principal cities. Already the mutterings of discontent have been heard and in Glasgow, at least, bloodshed was only prevented a few days ago by the prompt atction of the authorities in yielding to the demands of the workless men and starting relief works.

Unemployment has been growing in England for many years and about three years ago it reached such a point that Parliament passed a bill in a hurry, empoyerink local authorities to levy a tax for the purpose of providing work for their unemployed. The amount of the tax, however, is strictly limited and it must have the approval of the local government board, the head of which is a member of the cabinet, before it may be levied. This met the situation for the time being. The procession of unemployed disappeared from the streets and in the parkjs and other public places groups of men could be seen doing a very little work for rather large pay provided by the taxpayers.

Wants Work or Food.

This year, however, the situation is so bad that the unemployed act has broken down. It is clearly evident already that the powers conferred on the local authorities under the act will be totally inadequate to relieve the immense number of unemployed workmen who are clamoring for work or food and whose numbers will be increased as the weather becomes more severe. The following are the approximate numbers of unemployed reported in some of the principal cities in the middle of September:

London	200,000	Manchester	11,000
Leeds	3,000	Belfast	2,500
Liverpool	25,000	Dundee	5,000
Glasgow	20,000	Sheffield	12,000
Bristol	2,000	Sunderland	13,000

In addition to these every industrial town in the kingdom has its quota of unemployed and the number is being steadily increased. It is evident how little the making of new parks and roads can do to provide employment for this great army.

The most dangerous feature of the situation is the bold attitude adopted by the leaders of these idle men. Socialism has made great strides in England of recent years and the English workman is no longer contented "with that station of life to which God has called him." He no longer accepts starvation and cold as acts of God. He now demands the right to work and the right to live and if he is denied them he is developing a very ugly temper toward those whom he holds responsible for his plight.

Glasgow Mob Dispersed.

A few days ago a mob of 15,000 unemployed men in Glasgow, led by well-known Socialists and singing revolutionary songs, started on a midnight march from the center of the town to the district inhabited by the wealthy citizens. Their avowed object was to call at the lord provost's house and force him to do something for their relief, but many of the orators, who harangued them before starting did not hesitate to advise them to raid the houses of the rich. The procession was ridden down by mounted police and dispersed before it got half way, and if the police had not been able to deal with the mob the King's Own Scottish Borderers were awaiting with bayonets fixed and rifles loaded at their barracks ready to be called on. Since the procession two Socialists have been sent to prison for advising the mob to use bombs of red pepper against the police and the lord provost has traveled posthaste to London to secure the consent of the local government board to a plan for providing work on an extraordinary scale.

In Liverpool, a few days ago, 12,000 unemployed dock laborers marched to the city hall and demanded work. Their leaders did not hesitate to predict that if work or bread were not forthcoming they would loot the city. The mayor and councilors promised at once to appeal for power to relieve them and a truce was declared. Practically the same thing has occurred at Belfast, where a large number of shipbuilders and linen workers are unemployed. Their leaders threatened, and the municipal authorities promised.

Winter of Horror Predicted.

The whole tone of the leaders of the unemployed is threatening. Victor Grayson, M. P., the Socialist who was elected to parliament by the Colne Valley miners at the last general election, predicts that next winter will be one of horror. Speaking in his constituency a few days ago, he declared that starving people had no right to be orderly, and advised his hearers, if they could not find work, to enter the shops and take what they needed for the support of themselves and their families.

In Manchester a few Sundays ago, about 1,000 unemployed men marched to the cathedral during the morning service and insisted on the dean preaching a special sermon to them and making a special collection. The dean advised them to be peaceable and was continually interrupted and jeered at. These cathedral marches are becoming a feature of the unemployed agitation. A few weeks ago a party of London unemployed marched to St. Paul's and the dean was also compelled to make a special collection and preach a special sermon. He was listened to respectfully, however. Another party of unemployed invaded the cathedral at Canterbury, but the dean there refused to listen to them.

Eighty Thousand in Want.

It must be borne in mind that the figures quoted do not give any adequate idea of the distress. Thus, in Glasgow it is stated that nearly every one of the 20,000 idle men is the head of a family and that there are at least 80,000 persons in want. The same rule will apply to most of the industrial towns, except London, to which great numbers of single men drift in search of casual employment, but even in London it is safe to estimate that about half the men registered as unemployed are the heads of families.

So far, no suggestion has been made for dealing with the situation this winter. The British taxpayer is carrying a load now which cannot be greatly increased, and the government is most unwilling to take the responsibility of imposing fresh taxation. It begins to look as if the ministers are determined to wait until the situation becomes so serious that the country will demand immediate action from them, regardless of the cost. In the meantime, however, the unemployed seem determined not to wait, and there is every indication that there will be serious outbreaks before anything is done.

SCHOOLS CLOSE; LACK OF WATER.

Paris, Ill., Oct. 23.—The going dry of Reservoir lake, the town's source of water supply, caused the authorities today to order the schools closed. The town will, within forty-eight hours, be absolutely without fire protection and drinking water must be hauled miles, unless plans to dig wells succeed.

THE FAT MAN WAS RIGHT.

New York Sun: They slid into side by side seats on the smoking side of the North river ferryboat along toward midnight. Both were masticating inch ends of exceedingly frazzled and weary looking cigars. Both had plainly made a good many stops on the way to the ferry.

They sized each other up, grinned affably at each other, and the fat one started it.

"Looks like that feller Hearst means it after all, hey?" he said.

"Sure does,' replied the heavy lidded one. "Looks a lot like it."

"Ain't such a bad duck at that, Hearst," said the fat one; "might be worse."

"Same idea here," said the heavy lidded one. "Lots o' worse people on earth than Bill Hearst."

The fat one kept still for about half a minute. Then he crossed his legs, threw his arm back of the seat and said:

"And yet, at that, I kind o' hate to see Hearst fuss up Bryan's chances."

"Me, too," was the prompt reply of the heavy lidded one. "That's me exactly."

"Because," went on the fat one, "I think it's kind o' coming to Bryan. It isn't coming to Hearst like it's coming to Bryan."

"You got that right, all right," said the heavy lidded one. "Bryan's the one that's entitled to it."

The fat one gave the heavy lidded one a sort of slanting, searching gaze at this. Then he shifted around in his seat some more and thought out a new line.

"Looks like there might be something doing with those ginnies down in Venezuela, hey? Wonder that mutt Castro-oil wouldn't behave hisself."

"That's what I'm thinking," said the heavy eyed one. "He ought to behave."

"And yet when you come to think of it," said the fat one, "them Dutch haven't got any right to butt in."

"That's what they haven't," agreeably replied the heavy one.

The fat one began to wriggle a little.

"Well, there's one thing about you, anyway, boy," he said, "you can take all sides of an argument."

"That's what I can do," was the reply. "Can look at it from any old side."

The fat one didn't appear to care much for this. There appeared to be some resentment welling up in him.

"What did you think o' Teddy's speech about the big navy?" he asked presently. "I thought he had his nerve with him."

"Same here,' said the other. "He sure did."

"And yet," said the fat one, his eyes beginning to glitter, "doggone it all, he's the commander in chief of the hull blamed shooting match, ain't he, and if he wants a million ships, why, he's entitled to 'em, ain't he?"

"I guess yes," calmly replied the heavy lidded one. "Should say he is."

The fat one began to gnaw hard on his inch of frazzled cigar. It was obvious that the difficulty he was experiencing in his search for an argument was getting on his nerves.

"Tell you what, matey," he said after a pause, "this here government ownership thing has got to be decided one way or the other within the next few years. Biggest question going right nowright now. They've got to fix it one way or the other. No use kidding it and laughing it down. It's up and it's got to be answered, hey?"

"That's my idea about it right enough," said the other, phomptly. "Can't duck it much longer."

"And the government ownership isn't such a bad scheme at that," said the fat one. "Works all right other places, and so why shouldn't it work in this country? Bully idea, according to my way of thinking."

"Always liked the idea," said the other.

"Oh, you did, hey?" said the fat one, squaring his jaw quite a good deal. "Well, how about the countries that have tried government ownership and made a hash of it? D'jever stop to think of that end of it?"

"I sure have," said the heavy lidded one. "Just depends on the country that tries it, that's all."

"Oh, that's what you think, is it?" said the fat one then, glaring at his seat mate. "Well, I'll tell you what I think. I think you're one of these here lobs that agrees with everybody about everything, that's what I think. You've got about as much brains as a starfish, that's what you have, and anybody that swings along and says anything, why, you're right there with a chime in. It's a wonder you wouldn't dope out an idea or so of your own, instead of walking up and down the world like a he doll that says da-da when you pinch it," and the fat man who had failed to get an argument snorted fiercely.

"Aw, g'wan," placidly replied the heavy lidded one, leaning back in his seat and pulling his hat over his eyes.

"G'wan yourself," said the fat one, and he too pulled his hat over his eyes, and both of them had to be prodded awake when the boat nudged into her slip on the Jersey side.

ICE-LADEN TRAINS IN

Cars, Delayed by Fierce Snowstorm, Reach St. Paul.

Pilot of One Engine Looks Like a Glacier.

HERDER AND SHEEP PERISH

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 24.—Harry Martin of Martin Brothers, sheep ranchers in the district of Maple creek, Sask., while out with a flock of sheep in the snow storm, lost his way and died from exposure, fifteen miles from town. Many thousands of sheep perished in the storm. Ivey Wilson, living north of Maple creek, lost 2,500 animals. The storm drove them into the lake near his ranch. Thomas Kerr lost 500. Martin Brothers, several hundred.

St. Paul ,Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ice-covered Oriental limited and North Coast limited, came in about two hours late, the former after plowing through ten inches of snow that covers Montana. At some places the storm rose to a driving blizzard, which shut out of view the entire landscape.

Conditions on the Great Northern are worse on the Montana Central division than any other road running into St. Paul. Two rotary snow plows were pushed by the Oriental limited.

Several parties were on the train eastbound after spending the summer in Washington, and they said that they had no sooner passed through the mountains than the cold began to be felt, and by the time they had reached Havre and Great Falls the pilot of the engine looked like a swift-moving glacier.

The running gear of the Oriental limited when it arrived in St. Paul showed distinctly the rigorous winter weather treatment it had suffered. Away from the steam fixtures of the floor of the car, ice stiffened the chains and frosted the rods.

The snow was followed by a very cold session which did not moderate un-

ALL RECORDS ARE BROKEN BY GOVERNOR JOHNSON IN TOUR OF NINTH DISTRICT

Great Audiences Greeted Him and Enthusiasm Was Intense.

Reception in the Sixth District Was Equally Satisfactory.

Republican Managers Admit Their Chances Are Hopeless.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson's visit to the Ninth and Sixth districts will end tonight with a meeting at St. Cloud. The governor has been in the so-called enemy's country, but if it is the enemy's country, his friends are asking where, in the state, has Mr. Jacobson made anything of an impression upon the intelligent voters? The governor began his week in Polk county, where he spoke to great audiences at McIntosh, Fosston, and in the evening at Crookston. At the latter place the Young Men's Johnson club, 400 strong, had charge of the exercises and the meeting broke all records for political gatherings in the enterprising city of Crookston. A banquet followed the political meeting, and the best posted men in Polk county conceded that the governor will carry Polk by a minimum majority of 1,500. Tuesday and Wednesday were spent in Roseau, Marshall and Red Lake counties, while meetings were held in Marshall, Kittson and Norman on the following day. Every point visited turned out practically en masse to hear the governor, and he was given enthusiastic receptions at every place.

A Monster Meeting.

Thursday night one of the most unique political gatherings in the history of Minnesota politics was held at Lake Park, Becker county. Here, some two weeks ago, a petition was circulated and signed by more than 200 voters, asking the governor to visit that town. Men of all political parties joined in the request, as they had never had Governor Johnson in their village, and they wanted to compare him with Mr. Jacobson, who had visited them some two weeks ago. The spirit of the occasion resulted in a monster meeting. A huge tent was provided by the local people, seating some 2,000 persons, and more than 1,500 remained outside, unable to gain entrance. A torchlight procession two blocks in length, with voters marching eight abreast, preceded the meeting, and never before in the history of Lake Park were so many persons gathered in the little town. The governor's speaking abilities had undergone a severe strain during the week, but the extraordinary situation resulted in a speech entirely out of the ordinary. He was clear and aggressive and made what is said to have been one of the very best speeches of the campaign. Voters from all the

STUDENTS CHEER FOR GOVERNOR

For Securing Gift of $32,500 for Gustavus Adolphus College.

St. Peter, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Students at Gustavus Adolphus college celebrated Thursday night and loudly cheered for Governor John A. Johnson, through whose efforts the gift of $32,500 was secured from Andrew Carnegie for the erection of two dormitories.

Early in the evening the students assembled on Minnesota avenue and, led by the Red Men band, marched to the athletic field, where an immense bonfire was lighted. Dr. P. A. Mattson, president of the college, and H. N. Benson, resident manager of the college board, made short addresses.

After the speaking the student body gathered about the bonfire, cheered Mr. Carnegie and Governor Johnson, sang college songs and gave class and college yells.

MISS HARLEY IS GOLF CHAMPION

Washington Oct. 24.—Miss Katherine C. Harley of the Fall River, Mass., Golf club, today won the national golf championship at the Chevy Chase tournament by defeating Mrs. T. L. Polhemus of the Richmond County club, of Brooklyn, N. Y., by a score of 6 up and 5 to play.

NON-PARTISAN JUDGE ELECTION IN MANKATO.

Mankato, Minn., Oct. 24.—Thomas Hughes, who was nominated without opposition in the primaries as the Republican candidate for district judge, has withdrawn his name from the ticket with the consent of the Republican county committees of Blue Earth and Watonwan counties, which comprise the Sixth judicial district. His reason is that the office is one that ought to be kept out of politics. The incumbent, Judge A. R. Pfau, will have a clear field. Mr. Hughes' action has met with general commendation.

TEAMSTER KILLED.

Barnum, Minn., Oct. 24.—Special to The Herald.)—His horses becoming frightened as he was driving down hill here into town yesterday, and running away, Charles Ramsey, the driver, working for a Soo contractor, was thrown out when the wagon tongue dropped, overturning the wagon, and striking on his head, fractured his skull. He lived only a few minutes.

ROBERTSON WINS RACE

Long Island Motor Parkway, Oct. 24.—George Robertson, American, driving his Locomobile, won the Vanderbilt cup race this morning by one minute and 48⅛ secoads, his time being 240 minutes and 48 1-5 seconds. He had a desperate struggle with Lytle, driving the Isotta and with Haupt, driving the Chadwick.

Foxhall Keene's auto took fire twice, and he was burned about the face.

Robertson averaged 64.3 miles per hour, breaking all previous American records. An extremely treacherous track made the driving of high powered motor cars a matter if skill and during, and the 200,000 spectators experienced a continuous series of thrills as car after car dashed by. A drizzling rain, which arrived just as dawn was breaking, turned a magnificent road surface into one that made each of the numerous sharp turns an extra hazardous risk.

HIGHEST COURT TO HEAR APPEAL

New York, Oct. 24.—Argument will be made before the United States supreme court Nov. 9 on a motion of Albert T. Patrick for a writ of habeas corpus to permit him to appear before that court, and argue his appeal from the sentence of life imprisonment for the murder of William Marsh Rice.

BEGGAR LIE SHOWN UP

Chicago, Oct. 24.—"I protest against their being placed before the country as beggars. They do not ask for pity; they do not ask for charity, they simply demand justice."

This quotation, officially promulgated by John E. Lamb, in charge of Democratic neadquarters here, as being what Mr. Bryan actually said upon the occasion when he is alleged to have referred to laboring men as "public beggars."

"While the charge came only from W. R. Hearst, Mr. Bryan refused to take notice of it," said Mr. Lamb, "but now that Secretary Straus has used the term in a newspaper interview, it is time that we gave out the correct version."

Mr. Lamb said the quotation is a matter of record in Washington.

TO BOOST FOR MINES BUREAU

Denver, Colo. ,Oct. 24.—The executive committee of the American Mining congress yesterday issued the official call for the eleventh annual session to be held at Pittsburg, Pa., beginning Dec. 2.

A special effort is contemplated looking to the final enactment of the bill for the creation of a bureau of mines, now on the calendar of the United States senate for third reading. Particular attention is called to work of the congress in making investigations relating to the protection of the lives of the miners. Proposals for the elimination of fraudulent mining stock operations, the relation between customs smelters and the ore producers; federal aid of mining schools and experiment stations; the exploitation of the rare mineral resources of the country; the conservation of mineral resources, timber and water supply, and the unification of the mining laws of the several states are the particular subjects that will be under discussion.

BROOKS IS NOT TO TRY HICKS

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—When William K. Hicks, secretary of the school board, is brought up on charges of bribery next Tuesday, Judge F. C. Brooks will not be the trial judge. James A. Paterson, attorney for the secretary of the Minneapolis school board, has filed an affidavit of prejudice against Judge Brooks, not only on personal grounds, but because he is a Democrat. Attorney Paterson says he fears the whole affair is a political move.

A special venire of 100 names was drawn last night to serve as jurors in the Hicks case. It is thought probable Judge Dickenson may be chosen to act, as he will have the criminal calendar next term.

TAFT TALKS IN FIFTEEN TOWNS

PENN, 6; INDIANS, 6; NAVY, 6; HARVARD, 6

Naval Academy and Crimson Huskies Mix on Annapolis Field.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—Pennsylvania university and the Carlisle Indian school met on the football field today in one of the hottest scrimmages of the year. It ended 6 to 6.

The Pennsylvania team was into the game minus its star quarterback, Keinath, and with Capt. Hollenbach in a battered condition. Otherwise the team was in excellent physical condition. The men had been spending the last few nights in the New Jersey pines, about twenty-five miles from this city, and returned home this morning.

While away they had been doing much secret practicing and it is expected that something new would be sprung upon the Indians.

The line-up was:

Pennsylvania—		Indians—
Braddock	left end	Little Oldman
Draper	left tackle	Wasaka, (Capt.)
Dietrich	left guard	Afraid-of-a-bear
Marks	center	Barrel
Pike	right guard	Lyon
Gaston	right tackle	Littleboy
Scarlett	right end	Gardner
Miller	quarterback	Balentl
Reagan	left halfback	Thorpe
Manier	right halfback	Libbey
Hollenbach (Capt.)	fullback	Payne

The officials were: Referee, Hinkey, Yale; umpire, Lanford, Trinity; field judge, Okeson, Lehigh; linesman, Crowell, Swarthmore.

Carlisle won the toss and elected to defend the east goal, giving Pennsylvania the kick off.

The Quakers kicked off at 2:35 and the Indians failed to gain, kicked to Pennsylvania's 25-yard line. The ball was lost to each side several times and finally Pennsylvania got the ball on the Indians' 32-yard line. Miller fumbled a forward pass, however, and the Indians recovered the ball and kicked to midfield.

Pennsylvania kicked back and the Indians started up the Quaker line. A forward pass and several line plays gave them the ball, where they lost it. Several line plays failed to gain for Pennsylvania, and on an onside kick rolled to the Indians 5-yard line, where Braddock fell on it. Two plays put the leather over the Indian goal, Manier carrying the ball. Scarlett kicked the goal. Score: Pennsylvania, 6; Indians, 0.

Spectacular End Runs.

After Thorpe had failed on a try with a field goal from the 35-yard line after the kick off, the ball frequently changed hands. Spectacular end runs and brilliant tackling by both teams were features. Neither side could do much through te line and many end plays had to be resorted to. In the kicking duel, Hollenbeck outpointed Thorpe. Each side sprang trick plays, which gained only short distances. The Indians' principal play was to send the interference one way and the runner with the ball in the other direction, and then to shoot a forward pass. Their forward passing was not as good as last year. The Indians running with the ball, however, was superior to that of the Pennsylvania team.

After the Pennsylvanians eleven scored its touchdown neither goal was in danger except when Thorpe tried a field goal. The first half ended with the ball on Pensylvania's 35-yard line in the Indians' possession. Score: Pennsylvania, 6; Carlisle, 0.

Second Half.

The Indians kicked off for the second half at 3:42. There was no change in either team.

Following an exchange of kicks after the kick off in the second half the Indians got the ball on their own 40-yard line and then gave the best exhibition of the day in carrying the ball. They discovered a weak spot in Pennsylvania's line, and hammered it for consistent gains. Try as Pennsylvania would, she could not stop the Indians, who soon had the leather on the Quaker 20-yard line. Here the Indians were penalized fifteen yards for holding, and being unable to make it up, Thorpe tried another field goal and failed. On the kickout the Indians got the ball in midfield and worked it to the Indians' 40-yard line. Thorpe worked a criss-cross, which completely fooled the Pennsylvania team, and before he could be stopped he was over Pennsylvania's line. Thorpe kicked goal from the touchdown, tieing the score.

In the meantime a heavy rain came up and caused hundreds of spectators to leave the grounds. For a time the rain lagged and then the rain was coming down. Marks of Pennsylvania tried a place kick from the 35-yard line but failed by a narrow margin. As time was used up rapidly both sides began to play desperately to break the tie. The playing at times was reckless and each side was frequently penalized for fouls, Pennsylvania being the most frequent offender. Carlisle got the ball on her 35-yard line and gave another first-class exhibition of offensive play. Through the line and around the ends they took the ball without once being held downs. Finally the red men had the ball on the white men's 15-yard line. A score looked almost certain, but it was to be, for on the next line-up Libbey fumbled and Marks fell on the leather to the delight of the great crowd. A few minutes later the Indians again got possession of the leather and Thorpe made his third futile attempt to kick a field goal. After a few exchanges of kicks the whistle blew and the game ended with the ball in the Indians' possession on Pennsylvania's 50-yard line with the score a tie, 6 to 6.

BADLY BATTERED, BUT LEADS MEN TO FRAY

CAPT. HALLENBACK OF PENNSYLVANIA.
Although suffering from injuries received on the gridiron, the head of the Pennsy eleven refused to abstain from today's battle with the midshipmen at Annapolis, and was in the thick of many of the hottest plays.

EAST SIDE EASY FOR DULUTH HIGH

Crawford's Men Score Twenty-Eight in First Half Alone.

Cummings Gets Ovation for a Brilliant Ninety-Yard Run.

Fully 1,000 people assembled in spite of the mud and rain to witness the game at Athletic park this afternoon, between the Duluth Central high school and Minneapolis East side.

The field was a pool of water and mud, and anything but straight football was out of the question. No attempts were made at forward passes or any of the trick plays possible under the new rules.

Following was the lineup:

Minneapolis.	Position.	Duluth.
Bush	le	McFadden
Bidwell	lt	Olson
Lund	lg	Quinn
Hansen	c	Larrowe
Jalma	rg	Kent
Osman	rt	Crawford
Solon	re	Ostergren
Thompson	qb	Boyle
Broderick	lh	Bowen
Billman	rh	Cummings
Nimo	fb	Cook

The first half was all Duluth. The Duluth boys apparently outclassed their rivals from Minneapolis and ran through them almost at will.

Crawford kicked off to the Minneapolis 25-yard line. Nemo ran the ball back ten yards, but Duluth held and Minneapolis punted. Cummings ran the ball back, and after several line plunges, McFadden went around the end for the first touchdown. Crawford missed the goal. Score: Duluth, 5; Minneapolis, 0.

Minneapolis kicked off to Duluth's 5-yard line. Duluth failed to gain and punted. Minneapolis fumbled and Duluth got the ball. Cummings went through for the second touchdown. Crawford kicked the goal. Score: Duluth, 11; Minneapolis, 0.

The third touchdown came on a sensational run by Cummings through the entire field for ninety yards. Crawford kicked the goal. Score: Duluth, 17; Minneapolis, 0.

Duluth kicked off to the 20-yard line. Minneapolis fumbled and Duluth got the ball. After several line plunges Boyle was sent through for the fourth touchdown. Crawford missed the goal. Score, 22 to 0.

Cummings got away for another long run of sixty yards for a touchdown shortly after the kickoff, but was called back, and Duluth was penalized twenty yards. The ball was carried down the field on straight line plunges, and Boyle went through for another touchdown, which Crawford converted. Score: Duluth, 28; Minneapolis, 0.

The last touchdown was made under peculiar circumstances. The players stopped, thinking the referee had called an offside play. When they found the whistle had not blown the ball was lying in the field, and Boyle grabbed it, going over for the score.

Time was called immediately after the fifth touchdown, and the half time score stood: Duluth, 28; Minneapolis, 0.

In spite of the one-sided score, the game was close and interesting. Minneapolis played good football, but were outclassed, and got a bad break in the luck.

The Second Half.

The second half was cut down to fifteen minutes. The game was nearly all in Minneapolis territory during that time, but Duluth failed to score again. They were within striking distance a number of times, but lost the wet and slippery ball on fumbles. The game ended with the score 28 to 0.

The feature of the game was the playing of Boyle, Brown, Cummings, Crawford and Ostergren. Cummings in particular put up a magnificent game, twice going through the entire field.

The Duluth rooters were wild with enthusiasm at the end of the game, and claim the high school championship of the state.

HARVARD AND NAVY.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 24.—When the Naval academy football team made a touchdown against Harvard this afternoon, play in the big mid-season gridiron stuggle had been on about ten minutes. The thousands of spectators, mostly sympathizers of the middies, went wild instantly. The lineup was:

Navy.		Harvard.
Meyer	left tackle	McKay
Slingtuff	center	Nourse
Wright	right guard	Hoar
Northcroft (Capt.)	right tackle	Fish
Robertson	right end	Crowley
Lang	quarter back	Cutler
Dalton	right half back	Corbett
Richardson	fullback	Gray

The officials were: Corbin, Yale, umpire; Sharpe, Yale, referee. Edwards, Yale, field judge.

After holding off all day, the rain came on in a drizzle just as the crowds pouring through the various gates of the naval academy headed for the football field. The navy was the favorite in the betting.

The first score was made by the Harvards after the ball had been in play ten minutes. Nourse, for the crimson, recovered the oval on a fumble in the middle of the field and made a magnificent dash of sixty yards.

Burr then kicked a goal, and the score stood, Harvard, 6; Navy, 0.

Annapolis' turn came before the half ended, however. Reifsnider made a touchdown on a forward pass, receiving the ball just as he crossed the goal line. The play was the most brilliant of the game.

Northcroft kicked goal, making the score: Harvard, 6; Navy, 6.

Navy's Ball at Finish.

The game ended with the score a tie, 6 to 6, and the ball in the navy's possession in midfield.

Though the final score was a tie, the navy gets the palm for better football. Up to the time that Nourse got away for his long run and scored, the navy was still playing a more consistent game than the crimson. When the mass of navy players crawled out from under the pile to realize that a fleet-footed Harvard man had run all the way to a score with only Lange to follow a long and useless stern chase, it took the heart out of them.

It was only with this discouragement and the loss through injuries of Reifsnider at end and Dalton at half that Harvard could hold the sailors. Even then they drove down the field on straight football, and in addition to getting close enough for one try at drop goal, managed to keep the ball on the crimson side of the middle of the gridiron more than it was allowed to stay in blue and gold territory.

Navy Line Rockbound.

Lange and Northcroft played the best game seen on the field, although the whole navy line showed itself to be rockbound at practically all times. Cutler, at quarter for Harvard, played an excellent game, but Captain Burr was the star of the visitors' whole team. His punting only counted after Dalton had been retired from the navy back field.

The plebe midshipman half, while still in poor physical condition, which caused his retirement, showed up well in the comparison with the veteran Burr. Though Harvard was the first team to cross the navy goal line this year, supporters of the blue and gold are not at all downcast at not getting a victory.

PRINCETON, 0; SYRACUSE, 0

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 24.—The first half of the Princeton-Syracuse game today resulted in no score, the Syracuse heavy line showing a stubborn defense to Princeton's attack. The ball zigzagged back and forth, Horr and Stern of Syracuse, and Reed and Coxe of Princeton being the principal ground gainers. In the first few minutes of play Princeton got the ball on Syracuse 20-yard line, and Cunningham dropped back for a kick. The pass was high and the attempt failed. This was the only opportunity of a score by either team. A heavy downpour of rain made the handling of the ball very difficult.

Second half: On tackles Syracuse kept the Tigers in their territory for the first ten minutes, threatening to score on several occasions. Capt. Horr of Syracuse, was played from behind the line and Princeton slight ends and backs were unable to stop him. Syracuse did not get nearer than the 15-yard line, however, when Princeton held for downs.

Capt. Eddie Dillon was sent into the game amid thundering applause. Tibbot relieved Reid at half back and the Tigers showed an improvement in form and began to reverse the issue. Tibbott ran forty yards and had a clear field for a touchdown, but was stopped. Time was called when the ball was in midfield. Rain completely drenched the players and the crowd. Final: Syracuse, 0; Princeton, 0.

MICHIGAN VS. OHIO VARSITY

Columbus, Oct. 24.—Ohio State university won the toss today in the football game with Michigan and chose the south goal. Michigan was penalized repeatedly for holding. Michigan gained eleven yards on a forward pass. Michigan gained thirty yards on a forward pass but she held and was again penalized fifteen yards.

On a double pass Douglass made first down and went straight through for eighteen yards. Allerdice tried for goal from the 34-yard line and the ball went over for a goal from the field.

Gibson received a double pass from Barrington and a run around the end seventy yards for a touchdown. Barrington kicked goal. Score: First half: Michigan, 4; Ohio State, 6.

The score ten minutes before the game ended was: Michigan, 10; Ohio state, 6.

Final score: Michigan, 10; Ohio State, 6.

JOHNSON AND WEAVER.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—This is Johnson day in St. Cloud, and the indications point to a bumper audience to greet the governor in this city tonight. The governor spoke at Fergus Falls last night. This afternoon he spoke at Melrose and Albany, Stearns county, and before coming here for tonight's meeting, is expected to speak at Avon and St. Joseph.

Governor Johnson will be introduced at the meeting at the opera house here tonight by C. F. Lander, chairman of the Democratic committee. In order to accommodate the great crowds, seats will be provided on the stage for 300.

Gen. J. B. Weaver of Iowa, a man prominent in national affairs for forty years, although 75, he is still vigorous and a good campaigner, will speak tonight at Sauk Center in advocacy of Bryan and Johnson.

E. A. Tessman

Every St. Louis county voter, residing in the First Commissioner district, which is composed of the Third, Fourth and Fifth wards, who has regard for patriotism; every friend of the commonwealth; who desires a businesslike County Administration, and every citizen, regardless of party, who wants to see a good conservative county administration, should vote for E. A. Tessman for county commissioner.

Mr. Tessman has been a resident of the city for eighteen years; has represented the Third ward in the city council for eight years, and has served two terms as president of the common council. He has always served the constituents of his ward and city well. As a member of the council, he was instrumental in getting the Hillside water system pushed through. He has always advocated good street and road improvements, lowest possible tax rates, consistent with good government, and is certainly well qualified for the position to which he now aspires. It is the duty of every citizen, regardless of politics, to elect Mr. Tessman to the office of county commissioner for the First district.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA MAY BE SECOND COBALT

Noted Geologist Says It Contains Rich Silver Mines.

"Just as Rich as Cobalt and I Will Prove It."

Northern Minnesota a second Cobalt!

That is the prediction of Prof. C. H. Meyers, one of the most famous and reputable geologists in North America. He has been over the ground thoroughly, and claims to know what he is talking about. The professor is a graduate of Heidelberg university, and later took a post-graduate course in Leipsig.

For some time he was connected with the Wisconsin state university, later was with the United States geological survey, and also was employed as geologist by the United States Steel company and by individual mining interests. Now he is in the mining business for himself.

"There is no sense in my selling my knowledge to others for a bare living, when I can get riches by using it in the interests of myself," said the professor, during the course of a talk on board a Canadian Pacific train, near North Bay, with William H. Dean, inspector in charge of the Duluth United States immigration office, and a reporter on The Herald, who accompanied Inspector Dean from Duluth to Montreal, in an insane deportation case. Inspector Dean and the professor became acquainted in Madison, Wis., several years ago, and this acquaintance was renewed on the train, when the latter boarded it at North Bay, after having just arrived from Cobalt, said to be the richest silver mining camp in the world. The professor has organized three mining companies, representing a capitalization of $3,000,000, to operate in the Cobalt region, and while he refused to have much to say concerning them, it was learned from other Cobalt mining men that all of them were paying propositions.

Silver in Minnesota.

"They probably would laugh at me if I said so in Duluth, but it is a fact that Northern Minensota, to the best of my knowledge and belief, is just as rich in silver as the Cobalt region, and I intend to prove it just as soon as business deals in Canada will give me sufficient time to turn my attention towards your state," said the professor, the fire of earnest conviction in his eye.

"Certain parts of Northern Minnesota, north of Two Harbors, for example, are also rich in copper. There will be great copper mines there some day. But the silver mines will be even greater. If I had known as much about silver formation in the days when I was acting as geologist in Minnesota as I do at the present time, I never would have left the state. Even then I found indications of silver, but I was not in the prospecting business. When I return to Minnesota, it will be in the capacity of prospector, and not mere geologist, but it is my knowledge of geology that will enable me to open up some of the richest silver and copper properties in the country.

Formation the Same.

"The silver formations in Minnesota are precisely the same as in the Cobalt district. Heretofore, so far as I have been able to learn, no one has suspected the existence of silver in Minnesota, and therefore there have been no efforts made to follow up the indications. While employed in geological surveys, I covered practically every quarter section of land in Northern Minnesota, and the minute notes I made then are still in my possession. Even as geologist, when I had no thought of becoming interested in the mining industry, I was surprised at the promising indications of copper in certain parts of your state, and also at the traces of silver, although my lack of a practical working knowledge of silver formation, since obtained in Cobalt, was a handicap to any observations in this line.

Lumbermen Suspect It.

"I was awake even then to copper possibilities, and on one occasion made an attempt to secure an option on 200 acres of cut-over land from a big lumber concern, only to be turned down. I found that those lumber companies really suspect some of their lands as being rich in ore, and that I could not obtain control of the particular piece I had in mind. This surprised me, but I have since become convinced that a few of the lumber companies know more than they are willing to admit, and that while they are willing enough to sell some of the cut-over lands for a small price, there are other tracts they will not part with for any price.

"While working for the government, for the university and for private concerns, I was making only a good living. I decided I could do better if I struck out for myself. Accordingly I went into the Cobalt country. I have been successful there. My ventures as yet are only in their infancy, and can hardly be said to be established on a dividend-paying basis, but we know what we have, and there are no worries for the future. The three projects I now have on foot are taking all of my time and attention.

"As soon as matters have been straightened out sufficiently to permit, I shall visit Northern Minnesota again. With the notes I already have in my possession, and my knowledge of geology and the country, and more particularly my very practical experience in the Cobalt region, I shall be able to make discoveries in the line of copper and silver, but more particular the latter, that will surprise the country, and result in a rush equal to that made into the Cobalt district immediately following the first rich discoveries there."

Prof. Meyer's reputation as a geologist is shown in the fact that several of his books on the subject have been adopted as text books by schools and universities through the country.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"Copper continues quiet with prices practically unchanged. Lake is quoted at 13½ to 13¾ cents and electrolytic at 13¼ to 13½ cents per pound. Sales of Lake have been made at 13⅝ cents. Early in the week about 10,000,000 pounds of electrolytic was sold at 13¾ and 13⅜ cents by several large producers who did not wish to carry the metal over the election. In view of the apathy prevailing, which renders the outcome more uncertain than usual, they decided to place themselves on the safe side by taking advantage of an opportunity to dispose of a large amount of copper at a slight concession from their recent quotations. These sales were made to domestic consumers and had the effect of creating a better feeling in the trade, as later in the week electrolytic was firm at 13⅝ to 13½ cents.

"Manufacturers state that business continues dull and there is very little change from the conditions which have existed for the past month. Some are looking for an immediate improvement in business in the event of the election of Mr. Taft, while others are of the opinion that the improvement is bound to be slow, even if the Republican candidate should be elected, and these do not expect to see normal conditions before next spring."

EXCURSION
WASHINGTON
FRUIT LANDS

NOV. 3RD AND 17TH

FREE FARE TO BUYERS

Every one who went with our Oct. 6 excursion bought lands, and all agree that Attalia leads them all. "Seeing is believing." READ ONLY TWO OF THE MANY TESTIMONIALS RECEIVED FROM THAT EXCURSION OF WHAT THEY THINK ABOUT ATTALIA ON THE COLUMBIA.

Oct. 10, 1908.

Mr. R. C. Dahlbjelm,
Minneapolis, Minn.

Dear Sir—In looking over the irrigated district at Attalia I find that it is in the heart of the "Early Fruit Belt," where crops always find a ready market because they are first on the market and also command the highest prices. Their water is supplied by gravity from the Walla Walla river through concrete bend works and is permanent and inexhaustible. The soil is very fertile and the climate delightful; winters mild and pleasant. Transportation is very good, three railroads and the Columbia river pass by or through Attalia.

I am so taken with the advantages here that I have purchased a tract and recommend it to any one interested.

The people who are and will be my neighbors are the kind I am glad to have.

Yours truly,
(Signed) E. J. REIMANN,
Browns Valley, Minn.

Attalia Development Co.,
Attalia, Wash.

Gentlemen—As you have asked me for a letter regarding your lands at Attalia I will gladly state what I think of your proposition. When I joined your party at Minneapolis it was simply an investigation trip and I had not decided to buy anywhere, but when I investigated the lands, water system and advantages at Attalia, I was fully satisfied that it would be one of the leading districts in the West.

I am prepared to say that I found everything better than you had told me and with a few more energetic men in the neighborhood such as bought at the time I did, this week, I feel sure our lands will double in value within a short time. I will be glad to have you refer prospective buyers to me at any time.

Very respectfully,
B. H. POSTON, Duluth, Minn.

Men and women, young or old, I'm here for only 10 days to hand you our folders and advertising matter and to talk to you personally of what I know to be the greatest fruit belt ever offered from the state of Washington or adjacent territory or states. The Attalia Development Co. beg to submit the following statements which I want you to read: Are you contemplating in buying fruit lands, the conditions which must necessarily be for your best interest. You must consider soil, water rights, climate, railroad facilities, market, etc. Attalia, Walla Walla county, Wash., is located on the Columbia at the junction of three railroads leading direct to Spokane, Portland, Tacoma and Seattle. The lands we are offering are platted into 5-acre tracts capable of producing of from $2,500 to $5,000 net per annum. These are minimum figures and no vain boasts, but are being verified in adjoining districts possessing less advantages as compared with ours. Attalia lands are conceded to be the most valuable that have ever been brought under irrigation in Washington or adjoining states. The volcanic ash soil, the richest soil known, surpassing in productiveness, and inexhaustible gravity supply of water. The climate is ideal. The sunshine, the freedom from insect pests, form conditions exceptionally favorable for the production of fruit of a size, form, color, aroma and flavor hitherto unknown, and that brings the top prices in the fancy markets. Attalia lands are unexcelled for the raising of nuts and fruits, such as English walnuts, pecans, almonds, peaches, apricots, prunes, quinces apples, pears, cherries, grapes, berries, figs, melons, etc., of superior quality and flavor, together with all vegetables of best varieties. Attalia fruits and vegetables ripen from two to three weeks earlier than in other fruit districts, creating and demanding fancy prices for it. The Attalia lands have perfect slope for irrigation as well as drainage, making it absolutely free from alkali. There are no crop failures at Attalia, as the conditions there and also the farming by irrigation is a sure thing, while farming without it can never be more than a chapter of accidents, fortunate or unfortunate. We will known poultry fanciers are regarding our district as very fine for their business.

Lands can be bought for $125 to $300 an acre on terms: If you are not in position to improve the land yourself we will plant, improve and care for your orchard. This land has proven what can be raised—it is past the experimental stage. Remember, that our land is the ONLY EARLY fruit belt. If we cannot prove our statements—your trip costs you nothing. The Attalia Development Co. is composed of well known bankers and business men of the highest type and integrity.

Call at once for particulars and booklets at the Northern Pacific office, 334 West Superior street, between the hours of 8 and 6, and in the evening 7 to 9 at Hotel McKay.

Inquire in both places for me.

GETTING HINTS ON INSPECTION

A. D. Thomas, chief grain inspector, and J. J. Warren, chief grain weighmaster of Baltimore, are in Duluth today, looking into the methods of inspecting and grading grain used in Duluth by the local branch of the state grain inspection and weighmasters' departments.

The "inside inspection" feature of the system in vogue in the grain inspection here makes quite a hit with the Baltimore officials, and they are going to strongly recommend its introduction at the Maryland metropolis.

Messrs. Thomas and Warren have been attending the Grain Dealers' convention at St. Louis and are visiting different inspection bureaus in the Northwest before returning.

MEETING AT FLOODWOOD

McDonald and Nelson Will Speak—Quiet Day at Headquarters.

A. R. McDonald and Andrew Nelson will address a Democratic meeting this evening at Floodwood. There will be local speakers upon the program, and judging from the requests that have come from Floodwood for a speaker in that part of St. Louis county, there will be a good attendance. Mr. McDonald is the editor of the Labor World.

John Dwan of Two Harbors will address a Democratic meeting at Winton this evening. The local committee of Winton has arranged an attractive program, and it is reported that a large attendance will be present.

B. Levin, a traveling man, who makes the territory in Norman and Kitson counties, was a caller at the Democratic headquarters this morning. According to his statement, Johnson will carry Polk, Norman and Kitson counties.

Mr. Levin said a straw vote was taken at Crookston the other day, showing twenty-nine votes for Johnson and three votes for Jacobson. Another straw vote was taken at Halstad, Norman county. This vote was taken from the farmers. Johnson polled seventy-seven votes, and Jacobson thirty-two. Taft received fifty-three votes and Bryan fifty-two. A few scattering votes were recorded for Debs, and the other presidential candidates.

From Mr. Levin's statements, Johnson sentiment in Polk county has showed a rapid gain within the past two weeks. The farmers of the county are for him, according to Mr. Levin, and at Crookston, he says the prediction is made that Johnson will carry the county by more than 1,000 plurality.

Today was a quiet day at headquarters. There are several meetings scheduled for outside the city, but the work will start anew on Monday for the last big week before the campaign.

The Second ward committee held a business meeting at Republican headquarters last night. Plans for more active work in the ward and the securing of additional workers were the subjects taken up with Chairman W. E. Culkin.

William J. Bates, Republican candidate for sheriff; W. A. Anderson, V. Trolander and P. J. Borgstrad were the speakers at a Republican meeting held last night at Alborn. There were no Republican meetings held in the city. Tonight Charles Elquist, Republican candidate for railroad commissioner, will speak at Columbia hall, West end.

BOYS "SWIPE" ICE CREAM AND CAKE

They Got Next to Good Lunch in East End.

While the family of Oscar Mather of 201 South Twenty-first avenue east, were entertaining their guests last evening in the front of the house, some ice cream-hungry and cake-starving youths made their way into the kitchen, where these good things were stored, and when they left the premises they had in their possession as dainty a lunch as was ever prepared.

When the hostess started to serve, she found that all the good things were gone, and the theft is laid at the door of youths who live in the neighborhood.

MARINE NEWS

DELAYED BY STORM

Some Lake Captains Holding Their Boats in Port.

Smoke Still Heavy on Lakes, Extending Clear to Atlantic.

Today's storm extends over the entire Superior district. The indications are for a stronger wind tonight and most of the captains ready for a trip down the lake will hold their vessels until tomorrow, awaiting developments. Last night and today the wind has been blowing at the rate of about thirty miles an hour and the weather man says the rate may be increased to forty miles an hour tonight, with the indications for a lighter wind tomorrow.

It is expected the rain will continue tonight and tomorrow and there is a strong possibility of much cooler weather about the first of the week. Storm signals are displayed at this and other Superior ports. Vessel masters report that there is still much smoke over the Lake Superior region, and this, combined with today's fog, makes navigation very disagreeable and dangerous in some respects.

Forest fires at the Head of the Lakes have been practically extinguished, but they are still smoldering and giving forth considerable smoke in Northern Michigan. The smoke not only covers the lake region, but extends clear to the Atlantic seaboard, as well, for there are forest fires all the way from Duluth to the coast, along the northern border and more particularly on the Canadian side of the line. At Montreal, for example, navigation is hindered even more than on Lake Superior and outgoing ocean boats are frequently delayed two and three days in the harbor, waiting for the smoke to clear sufficiently to make navigatiton safe. Incoming boats are also seriously delayed, and there have been several minor accidents reported to ships on the St. Lawrence river. There have been no rains to check the fires east of the Soo.

JURORS ARE GIVEN RESPITE

Butte & Superior Case is Adjourned Until Next Wednesday.

The jurors in the Butte & Superior vs. John McAlpine case, who have sat in the case five days a week for more than three weeks, were given a respite last evening, when Judge Ensign adjourned court until 2 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon. The time was first announced for 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, but was later changed.

The adjournment was taken because some of the jurors announced that their business was being seriously interfered with by the length of the trial. They said that unless they were given a few days to straighten things out, they would be seriously inconvenienced and the court granted their request for a few days' adjournment.

The cross-examination of H. V. Winchell, the expert for the defense, was conducted yesterday afternoon by Attorney Hollister for the plaintiff, and Mr. Winchell left last night for the West. The defense now has all its surrebuttal testimony in and only the arguments and the charge of the court remain to be given. The case will probably go to the jury late Wednesday afternoon or early Thursday morning, and the longest trial in the St. Louis county court in a number of terms will be concluded.

AFFORDS BARGAINS.

"The Fair" Will Start Special Sale Tuesday.

A. J. Pederson of "The Fair" store in Superior, has returned from a month spent among the eastern markets, and next Tuesday the big store will inaugurate one of its popular special sales, mention of which is made in an advertisement in tonight's paper.

"The Fair" has conducted some very successful special sales in the past, some that have greatly interested people on both sides of the bay by reason of the splendid bargains offered. The business of the store has so greatly increased that it has sought, and now occupies larger quarters in the building formerly used by the Spicer-Prindle company at the corner of Tower avenue and Belknap street. The Interstate cars pass the store.

PATRONS COMPLAIN.

Cars Delayed Because of Removal of Cross-Over Switch.

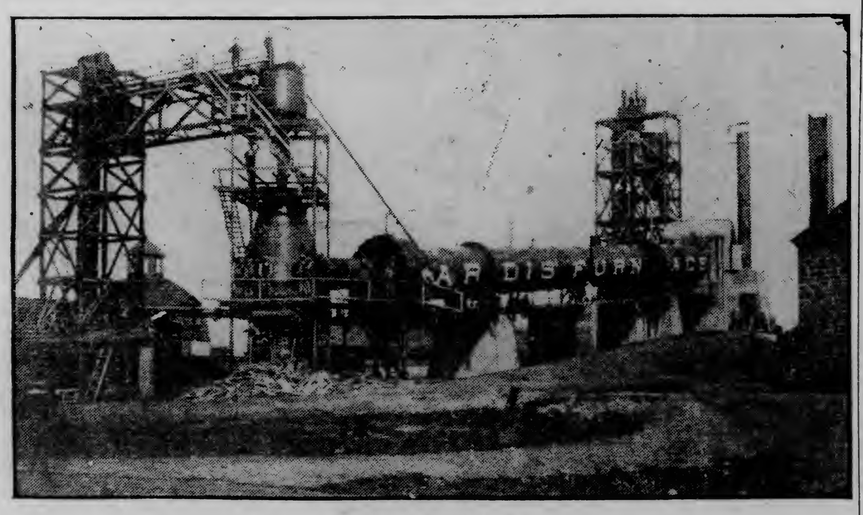

Numerous complaints are being made by patrons of the street railway concerning the night service after the theaters, since the council ordered the cross-over switch removed in front of the Lyceum.

In one instance, a few months ago, an eastbound regular car was held thirteen minutes at Fifth avenue west, behind two theater cars, because there was no cross-over switch to shunt the cars out of the way. The company claims that the delay was unavoidable as it had been notified that the theater would be out in five minutes, when it sent cars to Fifth avenue.

NEW FURNACE, IT IS CLAIMED, WILL SMELT LEAN ORES AT A PROFIT

THE ARDIS FURNACE.

Herewith is shown a photographic reproduction of the new Ardis furnace at Iron Mountain, Mich., in which Duluth mining men are greatly interested. Great claims are made for the plant, and if they are proven to be made on good foundation, millions of tons of lean ore in Northern Minnesota and Michigan, heretofore considered practically valueless, will be utilized and mined upon a paying basis.

G. A. St. Clair of Duluth owns a half interest in the plant, with John T. Jones of Iron Mountain. Mr. Jones, who is the inventor of the process, is acting as general manager. The new process, it is claimed, allows ore to be smelted for about one-quarter of the cost under the present system. It is said that ultimately the cost will be reduced even lower than this.

Experiments already made with ten tons of ore are said to have proven conclusively that the furnace will do all that is claimed for it. The experiments were in every way a success. Those who are acquainted with the workings of the furnace say it is the most important development in the iron manufacturing business since the inventions of Sir Henry Bessemer.

Some alterations are now being made in the plant as the result of the first test.

CAN ENJOY YOUR MEAL

Whatever Yor Eat is Digested Leaving Nothing to Ferment.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion and Stomach trouble is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking Diapepsin.

If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a re-enforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak Stomachs should eat Diapepsin after meals, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas or Stomach or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Vomiting and, besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after eating one Triangule of Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

YOUTH FINED FOR STEALING A KISS

Young Masher Arrested for Embracing a West Duluth Girl.

For forcibly stealing a kiss from Miss Harriet Johnson of 227 South Sixtieth avenue west, Brewer Ellstrom was yesterday fined $8.50 in the West Duluth justice court.

It is claimed by Miss Johnson, that on Wednesday evening at about 6 o'clock Ellstrom insisted on following her on her way home. It was raining, and the attentive young man made repeated attempts to share her umbrella with her. They had gone about two blocks, when his rudeness culminated in his placing a kiss upon her.

Ellstrom pleaded guilty. According to the police, he was not under the influence of liquor when he followed the courting methods of the men of the Stone Age.

Again Running After Being Thoroughly Overhauled and Lined.

The big blast furnace of the Zenith Furnace company was this morning successfully blown in, and now is in a position to turn out over 200 tons of pig iron daily.

For nearly a year the plant has been shut down and under repair and improvements. New machinery has been installed for the blowing system and the furnace has been entirely dismantled and relined. Approximately $35,000 was expended on the improvements.

During the past week the plant has presented a very busy appearance. All the pipe fittings were gone over to see that there were no leaks, the blowing system was inspected, and every possible precaution was taken, that at the last moment all would work smoothly when the furnace was blown in. The furnace was filled this morning.

PUMPS RUN SMOOTHLY

"Booster" Plant at West Duluth is Successfully Tested.

Machinery Will Probably be Accepted by City Next Week.

The "booster" pumps are working beautifully, and if the promises made by the first test are carried out, West Duluth will be supplied with freshly pumped water from the reservoir at the head of Sixty-fourth avenue west every day, and the city will always have 10,000,000 gallons of water on hand for emergencies. Thus, the primary object of the installation of the booster plant will be attained.

The plant was given its initial test Thursday and was found to be in good working order. Yesterday was given to putting on the finishing touches, painting it up and preparing it for the final and official test next Monday. The test will be conducted by O. E. Osthoff, electrical engineer with the firm of H. N. Bilsby & Co. of Chicago. The efficiency and capacity of the pumps will be tested, and if they come up to the guarantees, they will be accepted by the city. Fairbanks-Morse company installed the plant.

The emergency supply idea prevailed in the decision to install the booster plant. The reservoir at Sixty-fourth avenue west is located on approximately the same level as the main reservoir at Thirty-fourth avenue east. The water runs into the reservoir without the aid of pumps, but slowly, giving the water a tendency to become stagnant.

The booster plant is located at Forty-fifth avenue west, where the 16-inch mains end and the 12-inch mains begin. Under the former arrangements the water flowed direct from the 16-inch mains through the 12-inch mains to supply the district west. Under the new arrangements, with the booster plant, the water will be pumped up the hill to the reservoir and will flow from there down into West Duluth. A valve, located at Fifty-fifth avenue west, will be closed, and the water from the reservoir on the hill will be run through all of the district west of Fifty-fifth avenue west. West Duluth will be supplied with city water as usual, but there is the additional advantage of always having 10,000,000 gallons of water on hand, which may be run back to the city mains in case of a break between the eastern and western reservoirs.

The new pumps are electrically driven centrifugal pumps, two in number. They each have a capacity of 1,000 gallons a minute or 60,000 gallons an hour, giving the plant a capacity of 120,000 gallons an hour.

Republican Club Meeting.

The West Duluth Republican club will hold the last of its weekly meetings tonight, when the members will be addressed by H. J. McClearn, Paul H. Welch and Charles E. Adams. Plans will be completed for the rally at Wade's hall on Monday night, at which Clarence C. Dipelaar, state treasurer, will be the principal speaker. Arrangements will also be made for the club to participate in the parade to the Armory Thursday evening, when Jacobsen will speak.

Charcoal Kills Bad Breath

Whether From Decay in the Stomach or Teeth, and Will Stop Stomach Gases.

Willow Charcoal Best For Use.

Charcoal has been used for absorbing foul odors and neutralizing noxious gases for centuries.

Dupont, the powder manufacturer, learned that willow shoots two to three years of age made the best charcoal. It is most porous.

Fetid breath, whether from stomach or teeth, pyrosis (or gastric pain), diarrhoea and constipation simply cannot exist under the action of charcoal.

Charcoal oxidizes all gases, or in other words, changes foul smelling odors into oxygen, thereby doing away with all foulness and rendering even such gases beneficial to the system by giving it more oxygen. The lungs purify the blood with oxygen from the air. Dying patients have oxygen administered to their system artificially and live for days under this treatment.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made from willow shoots and sweet honey. Thus they are palatable, strong and natural. No medicine is used whatever, but the peculiar Stuart process gives them a decided charm and efficiency which endears them to all consumers.

One may use them as one likes. Eating one every once in awhile insures pure breath, while the common method is to eat two or three after meals and at bed time. They work very fast and their use is a most excellent habit to form. In a short time you will learn that their influence has improved bowel action wonderfully; simply by giving to the bowel a waste product to carry off that has no gaseous formation to kill and destroy its nerves and membranes.

Every druggist carries Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, price 25 cents, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 200 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

RUN PLANT AT A PROFIT

Fourteen Furnaces Are Operated and About 100 Men Employed.

That the American Carbolite plant of West Duluth can be run successfully and on a profitable basis, seems now to be an established fact.

As it stands today, there are fourteen furnaces in operation, turning out a carload of the product a day. The plant is now giving employment to about 100 men.

During the early part of the year a number of experts were brought to Duluth, from Michigan to experiment at the West Duluth plant. They started in a small way to make test runs in a few furnaces. This was done to prove to the stockholders that the plant is not a failure. Few seemed to have hope, after its first short disastrous career, that it could be operated successfully. Even some of the men who were the most deeply interested in it, could not bring themselves to speak favorably of it.

Now after several months of tests and trials, the plant seems to be in a fair way to success, and is making carbide at a profit.

COMMERCIAL CLUB MEETS.

Railroad Crossing, Hermantown Road and Playgrounds Discussed.

The member who was to have brought up the matter of owl street car service for West Duluth, was not present at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club last evening, and instead, the question of the dangerous crossing at Fifty-Ninth avenue west and Highland street was discussed and a petition, asking that a railroad bridge be built over the road there, was ordered sent to the city council.

The crossing question is formed by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern tracks and Fifty-Ninth avenue, which the club states will now be more traveled than ever, owing to the completion of the extension of the Boulevard.

A committee was appointed to look up the possibility of building a road to Hermantown. The committee is to report at a later meeting. The committee consisted of H. H. Phelps, Andrew Miles and J. J. Frey.

The location of a public playground for West Duluth was the subject of much debate last evening. A committee was appointed to look over the available property near the Longfellow school, and decide on a location. The committee is L. A. Barnes, Thomas Olafson and J. J. Frey.

SOCIALISM AND INCENTIVE

The one thought most prevalent in the minds of the capitalistic minded persons is that under Socialism there will be no incentive to work and that people will become shiftless and lazy. If there were any truth in the statement, then we would be compelled to admit that we were in a sorry plight. If the only passion or man were the love of gain.

What do the studies of the lives of the great and progressive minds reveal to us? Do they lead us to think they spent their lives in the struggle for gain? What was and is today the ruling passion of the thinking mind? Is it not to think of others as well as yourself, to find ways and means by which the lives of all may become brighter? Did they not delve into the unseen mysteries to try to learn truth, to think of something different from what we know it?

Was it the incentive of gain that caused Christ to give His life? What were His thoughts at the time? Was it the hoarding away of money or was it the suffering of the people that caused Him to agitate until He had almost rent asunder the Roman empire? Was it the same incentive that was the cause of Burns being burned at the stake? Was it the same incentive that caused Watt to study out the principle of thte steam engine and Shakespeare to write his play, Milton to write "Paradise Lost," and Garrison and Phillips to suffer abuse at the hands of their opposers?

We cannot well believe that the ruling passion of man is his greediness to gain. We are compelled to believe man to be good and are compelled to look to the better side of the world. If he be blinded by false hope, if he were wrongly taught—he cannot be blamed, for he must follow the path that confronts him, and if led on by the false hope, as many of us are being led today, we are compelled to adapt ourselves to the rule of the same and then go ahead.

Man may become successful, but it is not the great amount of gray matter in his head that is the real cause of his so-called success. It is success at the expense of the unsuccessful. If the largest number of the successful were to be confronted with many today who are unsuccessful through the lack of education and opportunity, the successful, might become the unsuccessful.

What a beautiful reality is this incentive to gain? What pleasures it must bring to thitose who are pleading with Dame Fortune to smile upon them. What peace and contentment of mind it must be for them to learn in their thoughtful moments that this incentive to struggle has closed the mines, mills and factories, has made nearly 7,000,000 men jobless: has caused misery, suffering and want to be the constant callers at thte homes of the poor. What a blessed holy and moral thing is this incentive.

When mankind learns the truth, when the buds of truth burst into blossoms that all may see and know, the great, good and noble incentive will be laid beside its counterpart, capitalism, both placed in the shroud of obscurity and buried forever in an unmarked grave, with no one to shed tears at its passing away, the Socialists to play the funeral march, and upon the stranded wrecks of the capitalist system to erect the co-operative commonwealth or Socialist republic, wherein all may enjoy the fruits of their labor, where the brotherhood of man will become a reality, the teachings of Jesus put into practice, the inner man will yet become the superior over the outer; the man of love must come, and he can only do so by removing the one barrier that is in the way, that brutal method that causes men to enter into combat for markets and trade, the private ownership of the land and tools, which is the fundamental cause of the wrpngs today.

Let all persons take up the study of Socialism, let them cast aside prejudices that have been planted there by those who could gain by doing so; give the question serious thought, and, I believe, there will be but few people who will not accept it.

P. G. PHILLIPS.

SURE CLEVELAND LETTER WAS FORGERY---WATTERSON

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 24.—In answer to the statement from Dayton, Ohio, last night by the attorney for Broughton Brandenburg that "Col. Watterson anounced before the Cleveland letter was published that it must be discredited by any means," Mr. Watterson says:

"I never heard of the alleged Cleveland letter until I read it in the New York Times, Aug. 30. It impressed me at once as fraudulent. I knew Mr. Cleveland had never had any official dealing with Taft, except in a single instance involving disagreement. I knew that Mr. Cleveland was in no condition to write such a letter at or near the date of its alleged composition, and I thought I knew enough of Mr. Cleveland's working methods and habits of mind, to know that he would put forth nothing so important in such a way. The general text furnished matter for farther discredit since it treated of events which had not come to pass and could not consistently have been anticipated by a man as painstaking and careful as the late ex-president.

"Coming to town next day, I learned who the 'literary agent' was; that his screed had been refused as of doubtful authenticity, if not wholly spurious by the New York Herald, and the World, and that the very name of Mr. Cleveland's executor was miscalled, it being Frank S. Hastings, and not 'Frederick' Hastings, as it had been printed.

"Then I went directly to Mr. Carlisle and said to him:

"'Mr. Secretary, Mr. Cleveland's bitterest enemy would welcome this and could ask nothing worse to be used against his memory. You know that I was not Mr. Cleveland's enemy—though I never claimed to be his friend—but you are his friend, his nearest living friend, and you owe it as a duty to the dead, to run this down and expose it."

"Mr. Carlisle thought with me that Mr. Cleveland had written no such letter and felt, though wholly withdrawn from politics, that it was his duty to see justice done to his old chief's memory.

"The next day I left New York and came home, where I have remained ever since, urging forward the investigation, though apart from it, merely advising the public of the facts."

NEWS OF THE WEEK AT THE NORMAL

Many New Books Are Added to the Library.

Among the new books added to the library this month were a set of Baedeker's guide books, which will be of interest to the geography student and to the general inquirer as well. The books are small, but they contain a wonderful amount of condensed information.

The list also includes a number of books on political economy, several works on South America, books on right reading for children, and among the biographies, an interesting life of Alice Freeman Palmer, who for many years was president of Wellesley college. There are few biographies of America's eminent women, and the normal teachers consider themselves fortunate in having this splendid portrayal of this noble woman.

Following is a partial list of the books added during the month:

Calkins, "Persistent Problems of Philosophy."
Colby, "Literature and Life in the School."
Dobson, "Diary of John Evelyn."
Eggleston, "Great Americans for Little Americans."
Fuller, "Government by the People."
Moses, "Children's Books and Reading."
Mann, "Greek Myths and their art."

As a Family Medicine

Lots of suffering would be avoided and much serious disease prevented if every family did as the writer of this letter suggests.

He has found out from experience with many medicines that there is nothing so good as Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills as a family medicine for billiousness and constipation.

Such diseases as Bright's disease, diabetes and appendicitis almost invariably arise from neglect to keep the liver, kidneys and bowels regular.

This emphasizes the wisdom of keeping Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills constantly on hand.

Mr. Wm. Painrdy, 146 Summer St., Central Falls, R. I., writes: "I think Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills most excellent as a cure for billousness and constipation. We would not think of being without them in the house as a family medicine. I have used many medicines, but none ever suited my case so well."

LABOR

UNION MEN HEAR WILLIAMS

Attendance at Trades Assembly Suffers as a Consequence.

Union men turned out in large numbers last evening to hear George Fred Williams, ex-congressman of Massachusetts, and in consequence the attendance at the meeting of the trades assembly suffered. There were very few delegates present and the meeting was adjourned early.

As usual, there were a number of communications read, among which was one from the Central Federated Union of Greater New York and vicinity. It was an appeal to labor to fight the passage of a bill which, according to the communication, practically means the nullification of the Civil Service law. It was stated that during the regime of Taft, the war department displaced many civilian mechanics by soldiers on government work. The object of this, it is stated, was to cut the wage expense of the government, but it meant the depriving of civilian mechanics in classified service of their rights in that department. The communication was received and filed.

Another communication was received from the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers of Watertown, N. Y., stating that they are on a strike against the International Paper company and the Great Northern Paper company, on account of a cut in wages. They asked that the Duluth unions lend them financial assistance. The communication was received and filed.

A pamphlet from Samuel Gompers was read urging that all union men get out and work for a government "for the people and by the people." It stated that in brief is what the laboring man, in supporting Bryan, is fighting for.

LIVERY BARN IN HEART OF CITY FOR RENT

WEST END

GOOD GRUB IS WANTED.

Church People Interested in Scheme for Better Restaurants.

Several prominent church people are behind a movement to provide the West end with better and cleaner eating places, and their activity may result in the establishment of a dairy lunch on the co-operative plan.

They say that there are many workers in the West end district who have complained about the quality of the food in the restaurants of the locality, and who are obliged to go uptown every day for their noon-day lunches, unless they carry their lunches.

Those who have investigated the situation say there are any number of young men and women employed in offices and shops in the West end who would be glad of a chance to patronize the eating places in that section of the city if the service were better.

The church people plan to secure a large, airy, quick-lunch of the kind that has become popular up-town, and unless they can interest outsiders in the enterprise, they may get together and establish one of their own.

Origin a Mystery.

The origin of the fire which destroyed the drying shed at the Scott-Graff Lumber company's plant early yesterday morning still remains much of a mystery. The theory is that it was accidentally set by tramps sleeping in the place. Upon his rounds, a few minutes before the alarm was turned in, the watchman found nothing out of the way at the shed.

The work of removing lumber piles a distance of sixty feet from any dwelling, as ordered by the city council, will have been completed by this evening.

QUEER WEDDING EFFIGY.

London Standard: There is a curious custom still prevalent in the Bellary district of India in connection with the wedding ceremonies among certain Brahmin families.

Just prior to the close of the feasting, a hideous effigy of a male figure, fantastically robed in rags, supposed to represent the bridegroom's father, is carried along the streets in procession, under the shade of a sieve adorned with tassels of onions and margosa leaves.

Every few yards during the procession the feet of the effigy have to be reverently washed and its forehead decorated with a caste mark by its living spouse, the bridegroom's mother. The bridegroom's other female relatives have several mock attentions paid to them by the women of the bride's party.

MAYOR RETURNS FROM CHISHOLM

Says Relief Supplies Are Not Being Transported Promptly.

Much trouble is being experienced by the fire relief committee in getting goods to Chisholm, according to Mayor Haven, who returned after an investigating trip to that place Friday evening.

It takes anywhere from a week to three or four to ship goods to that place, and the residents of the town are not over pleased at the treatment they are being accorded by the railroad companies.

Some mattresses, springs, beds, and general house furnishings that were shipped from Duluth more than ten days ago, have not reached the anxious people as yet.

The relief committee is putting up forty-eight dwellings, and altogether about 350 have been erected. Nearly twenty of the more important store and general buildings are of brick.

Real estate has increased in value since the fire, some of the lots advancing 50 per cent and the more important business property has doubled in value. Mayor Haven says that Chisholm is going to be bigger, and more prosperous than ever, and that the grit and determination of the inhabitants of the little town is beyond all belief.

TEAMSTER IS KILLED

Was Getting Out of Way of West Bound Car.

John D. Davies, a teamster, whose home was at 4609 Regent street, died shortly after midnight in St. Luke's hospital of injuries received in a collision with an eastbound Lakeside car at Forty-first avenue east.

As Lakeside car number 196, which left Third avenue at 5:40 p. m., driven by Motorman Andrew Pease, shot down the long incline from Thirtyeighth avenue, it attained great speed. At Forty-first avenue east, a westbound car approached the eastbound car. At this point Davies, who was on his way home from a day's work at Woodland, attempted to cross the tracks. It is believed that he was confused by his efforts to get out of the way of the westbound car, and did not see the rapidly approaching eastbound car. He was struck with a terrific force, and was pinned under the wrecked wagon and injured so terribly that he never regained consciousness. One horse was killed and the other injured so that it had to be shot. The wagon was splintered and smashed and the vestibule of the car was crushed in.

The injured man was lifted from under the wreckage of the wagon and carried into the home of Louis Rietz, at Forty-second avenue. The St. Luke's ambulance was summoned, and the injured man hurried to the hospital. Dr. Frank Lynam, surgeon for the street railway company, operated upon the victim of the accident, but the injuries were of such a serious nature that all efforts to save the man's life were unavailing.

Mrs. Davies was hurriedly notified of the accident. She reached the hospital before the death of her husband. Davies failed to regain consciousness after being placed upon the operating table, and died without recognizing his wife.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

No other medicine for Woman's ills in the world has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

No other medicine has such a record of success for woman's diseases, or such hosts of grateful friends as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for feminine ills, Inflammation, Ulceration, and consequent Spinal Weakness.

It has relieved more cases of Backache and Local Weaknesses thar any other one remedy. It dissolves and expels tumors in an early stage of development.

Irregularities and periodic pains, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility, quickly yield to it; also deranged organs, causing pain, dragging sensations and backache. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the female system.

It removes that wearing feeling, extreme lassitude, "don't care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, dizziness, faintness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy or the "blues." These are indications of Feminine disorders, which this medicine overcomes as well as slight derangement of the Kidneys of either sex.

Women who are sick and want to get well should refuse to accept any substitute for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

TRADE IS QUIET BEFORE ELECTION

Ante-Voting Lassitude General in the Commercial World.

New York, Oct. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade today says:

Ante-election lassitude is general in the commercial world especially as to the placing of contracts for undertakings, but there is a gratifying decrease in idle machinery at manufacturing plants testifying to confidence in a good demand when the present uncertainty is over. Lack of rain has been a serious drawback, low water has been a serious drawback, low water retarding mill work, and river ships, while winter wheat is getting a poor start, and forest fires cause great damage.

Collections improve in farming sections as the crops are sold, but are still only fair on the whole. Considering the amount of business in the iron and steel industry, that is known to be held back until after election, this week's new orders are encouraging, although the sales of pig iron were at prices favorable to the buyer. Nevertheless, the contracts placed assure activity at some furnaces well into the future. While the railroads are not placing normal orders by any means, yet there are new sales of cars and track equipment.

Textile plants are more fully occupied and a better tone is apparent in the primary markets, buyers exhibiting a greater degree of interest, although actual transactions are not large. Some operators still hold back for better terms, but producers are making no further concessions. There is still a direct absence of speculative operations in cotton goods, putting the market on a substantial basis. Prices continue to prevent export trade on any general scale, offers from China being numerous, but too low for consideration. A substantial purchase of print cloths at Fall River caused a rise in price and this tendency is noted throughout most departments, quickly checking any broadening interest. In woolen goods there is still a disposition to await the verdict of clothiers' salesmen who are on the road with samples of men's wear.

Prospects are considered most favorable in the footwear industry, indications being seen in certain quarters of a disposition to purchase on a more liberal basis than at any previous time this year. Thus far, however, actual improvement is irregular. Heavy shoes are in best demand, but the Eastern factories are still operating short time except in a few cases where contracts on hand call for full capacity up to the end of the year. Western conditions are still better, while the local jobbers' trade is below the price in previous seasons. Leather is quiet, but tanners are confident regarding the future.

Valuable African Tree.

One of the striking results of the gradual settlement of hitherto uncivilized parts of the world by white races is the discovery of many new vegetable products. One of these is a tree which produces an eatable fruit and its seeds contain a fatty substance like butter. In our own country the rich grain of barley is most valuable when malted into that delicious beverage, golden grain belt beer. It makes rich, red blood, strong nerves and aids digestion. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing company.

Mann Released on Bail.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Lumann C. Mann, indicted for the alleged murder of Mrs. Frances Gilbert Thompson, was released from jail on bail of $25,000, furnished by his parents.

surrounding country were present and went away convinced that Governor Johnson is the man whom Minnesota wants to continue in charge of its affairs as governor.

Turned the Tide.

Predictions are freely made that the governor's visit to the Ninth district has turned the tide in his favor, and the Republican campaigners who had been claiming the Ninth district now admit that their chances are almost hopeless of carrying a majority of the voters of that district. Senator Ole Sageng accompanied him through the district, speaking at a number of points on the same platform with the governor, and his effective campaign made him hundreds of voters. Ole is the man who left the plow in 1906 to campaign Otter Tail county for the state senatorship, winning over his opponent by more than 1,000 votes. He is strong, aggressive, temperate, and would be an ornament to the Ninth district's seat in the United States congress, for which he is an independent candidate.

For the Farmers' Benefit.

What is not generally known by the farmers of the state developed in the report of the grain inspection board to the railroad and warehouse commission made public this week. This board, appointed by the governor, recommends to the railroad and warehouse commission, elected by the people, the institution of a state laboratory and the employment of a state chemist. As long ago as last November, when the millers were asking for a change in the grades of wheat, it developed that all the great mills at Minneapolis, Winona, La Crosse and elsewhere in the Northwest maintained laboratories and chemists for a final analysis of the wheat purchased for manufacture into flour. The state is compelled to test the grain by its looks and its weight. Obviously the chemical analysis is such that the state method is at a decided disadvantage. "If these mills can afford to have the best in the way of wheat inspection, Minnesota certainly can afford it," declared Governor Johnson, and he made the point very plain indeed to the members of the railroad and warehouse commission and the chief inspector of grain. While there can be no question of the merits and the value to the raisers of wheat of the governor's suggestion, it has not yet been put into effect by the railroad and warehouse commission. The cause is not hard to determine. The commission would thus concede the correctness of the governor's position and the wisdom of his suggestion. The commission should take counsel by the last Minnesota legislature, which enacted practically every recommendation of the governor into written law, and thus popularized itself with the people of the state.

til they drew into St. Paul, though no snow was seen in the Dakotas or in the eastern part of Montana.

From all reports the storm that raged north of the Canadian boundary did not cross the line of the states except in Montana, and there only in the central part. Its influence reached, however, as far south as Butte and light snows fell along the line of the Northern Pacific.

The snow will probably cause little damage to stock in Montana, as the stockmen have very generally prepared themselves by this time for the opening of the winter season.

Hard Winter Ahead.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A hard winter, with much snow and ice, is predicted by Engineer Patrick Quinn of the Great Northern, who is stationed at Grand Forks. He says it will be one of the worst the railroad men of the Northwest have experienced.

"Up in the Dakotas we look upon the long duration of the warm spell, and the sudden coming of the chills of winter, as almost certain omens of a trying winter," he said, on reaching St. Paul today.

"The preparations at the Dakota and other divisional offices have been especially directed towards offsetting delays of previous years. Coal and supplies have been furnished in considerable quantities to all towns and settlements, and I think a coal famine this years is out of the question."

THE BUSY WHIRL OF POLITICS

VOTERS HEAR BRILLIANT ORATOR AT THE ARMORY

Address of George Fred Williams is a Masterpiece.

Wit, Sarcasm and Logic Delight the Big Audience.

GEORGE FRED WILLIAMS.

SOME WILLIAMS' EPIGRAMS.

"The Republican party for years had one platform, but times have changed since Hanna died."

"What are the Roosevelt policies? God knows."

"President Bryan would have no Ananias club."

"Our present banking system is a pipe line to Wall street."

"I am glad labor unions have been pounded into politics. The ballot is a better weapon than the strike ever was."

"If you take Mr. Taft for what he is, you wouldn't criticise him. But if you take him for what he wants to be, you would."

"Mr. Taft is the best picnicker this country ever had."

"The President of the United States ought to have had his character forged in the daily struggles of human existence. He shouldn't be pap fed."

"Mr. Taft's character is weakened by twenty-seven years of salaried life."

Duluth people have heard many campaign speakers, and listened to many samples of campaign oratory, but probably no speaker in recent years has so impressed his audience with his absolute devotion to his subject and his sincerity as did George Fred Williams of Massachusetts at the Armory last evening.

Mr. Williams speaks with the cool logic and sarcasm of the trained lawyer and with the enthusiasm and sincerity of the hero worshipper. Bryan is his hero. His speech last evening was long—interminably long, but hardly a man moved from the Armory while he continued talking, and even at 11 o'clock when he finished his two-hour address they were ready and anxious to hear more.

The Armory was comfortably filled. There was room for more people in the building, but the seats were all taken, and it was a warmly appreciative audience that listened to the remarks of the speakers.

Alfred Jaques Chairman.

Flaaten's Third Regiment band and the Gorman fife and drum corps played several selections while the hall was filling up, and then Andrew Nelson, chairman of the Democratic county committee, presented Judge Alfred Jaques the meeting.

"Our campaign is so well along that it is now known that the people of this state have already elected Governor Johnson," said Mr. Jaques. "It remains for us now to carry the good work along and see that every member on that state ticket is also elected, and also that the eleven electors will meet next December in St. Paul and cast their votes for William Jennings Bryan."

Mr. Jaques introduced Joseph W. Reynolds and Dr. O. A. Oredson, who gave short talks on local issues, touching on the tonnage tax, the proposed wide open tax amendment, and the unequal representation which Northern Minnesota has in the legislature.

Mr. Williams, when he was introduced, was greeted with an outburst of applause that lasted fully a minute.

"I have been wandering about this country for five weeks," he said, when he could finally make himself heard, "and I am somewhat weary and throatsore, but I trust I shall be able to give you such a response as shall be worthy of this reception.

The Platforms.

"It has been the custom for many years past for the two great parties to meet and select their platforms, and name their candidates, and it has been the custom for the candidates to stand upon those platforms. The Republican party for years followed this plan, but things have changed since Hanna died, and we now have a party with several platforms. We have the one the party made at Chicago, and then in New York they indorsed not only the platform made in Chicago, but also the letters of acceptance of the presidential and vice presidential nominees. So we have three. I take it that Mr. Taft received authority from the usual source to stand on the Chicago platform long enough to get the nomination, and then he slid off to the Roosevelt policies, otherwise known as 'My Policies.'" (Laughter and applause).

"What are the Roosevelt policies? A young man came up to me the other day down in Kansas and asked me that and I had to reply 'God knows.' As one congressman said, 'The mountain has labored and the results are inconspicuous.' (Laughter).

"In the history of political life there never has been a man treated with more uniform consideration and courtesy than President Roosevelt has been by Mr. Bryan. It takes a great souled man to see only the virtues of an opponent, and because Mr. Bryan believed that Mr. Roosevelt's purposes were right, he was willing to give him credit for the good he tried to do. But I am not a great souled man, and while I am willing to give him credit for the good he tried to do, I would like to tell a few points where he would differ from Mr. Bryan.

"President Bryan."

"President Bryan would never have called a great railroad magnate to the White House and have struck him for $250,000 for the campaign fund.

"President Bryan would never have perpetuated a rule of conquest over a half starved and downtrodden people.

"President Bryan would never have discharged a whole regiment in disgrace for the act of a few guilty men.

"President Bryan would never have denounced as 'undesirable citizens' men who were on trial for their lives.

"President Bryan would never drag the robes of his high office in the mud of partisan politics.

"President Bryan would not use the prestige of his high office to drag into disrepute the names of private citizens.

"President Bryan would not teach that brute force is a quality that should be inculcated in the youth of our nation.

"President Bryan would not attempt to dictate who should be his successor, and would not prostitute the civil service to secure the nomination of the man of his selection.

"President Bryan would not steam roll enough delegates into a convention to force the nomination of the man of his choice, and President Bryan would have no Ananias club." (Prolonged applause.)

Another Landslide.

"And now I want to say just a word in confidence to the Democratic voters who are here. I have been in politics (twenty-five years. I was carried into office on what was known as a tidal wave. I have campaigned in fifteen states, and during that time have talked to hundreds, yes thousands, of voters. If my opinion is worth anything I want to say to you now that it is not a question of whether or not Mr. Bryan will be elected but of whether this wave of Democracy will not result in an absolute reversal of the Parker-Roosevelt landside. (Loud applause.)

The Chicago Convention.

Mr. Williams at this point went into the events preceding the nomination of Mr. Taft and claimed that 219 officeholders came up from the South as contesting delegates and that 217 of these were seated in the Chicago convention.

"Taft stands as the representative of the successful operation of that most monstrous evil in American politics, the influence of a band of mercenary officeholders. Out of the 80,000,000 people in this country, Roosevelt is the last man who should have violated those principles which he knows stand for the freedom of the American people.'

Mr. Williame then revived the Harriman-Roosevelt incident, and the payment of $250,000 into the campaign fund in New York during the Roosevelt-Parker campaign. "What was the statement made by Mr. Roosevelt to Mr. Harriman?" asked the speaker. "He said, 'We are both practical men.' I have been out in a section of the country where Harriman is practically king, and controls the great business enterprises. In this campaign I understand that Mr. Hill is substituted for Mr. Harriman. I supose that his contributions are for 'practical' purposes. I submit to you that we will never get a fair deal from the railroads as long as we have a president who deals with the railroad magnates as a 'practical man.'" (Laughter and applause.)

Mr. Williams then discussed the raising of $500,000 to prevent the nomination of Mr. Bryan, and touched on the subject of the publication of campaign subscriptions.

The Sage of Oyster Bay.

"Mr. Taft finally conceded that it would be a good thing to publish the campaign subscriptions, but not until after the election," said the speaker. "What was the explanation given by the Sage of Oyster Bay, who was the only man who had the courage to tackle the problem of giving an explanation. He said that he was afraid that the Democrats might misrepresent the purport of some of the contributions. Now I appreciate Mr. Roosevelt's feelings, for I believe I, for instance, might be able to create a prejudice in the minds of some voters, if I should read off the names of some of the contributors. I can understand how, if I should read off the names of Mr. Morgan, Mr. Hill, Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr. Stillman, and others, I might distort the meaning of those subscriptions so as to affect the minds of some unthinking Republican voters. (Laughter.)

"But the trouble is, Mr. Roosevelt did not give an honest answer. He knows that if the Republican voters ever got their eyes on that list that Mr. Taft would nover be president.

"After this incident, I did not think anybody would attempt to criticise the source of some of the contributions to our fund, but Mr. Taft himself has done so. This is a question of honesty or dishonesty. If the Republican managers are ashamed of the contributions to their campaign fund, let them confess it.

The Banking Question.

"A new issue has been raised in this campaign. It is the banking question. We have a congressional committee appointed to go abroad and study banking systems, and at the head of it is that friend of the common people, Mr. Aldrich. (Laughter.)

"Our present system of banking is a pipe line system from the country banks to Wall street. Two great privileges are accorded to our banks, the issuance of paper money and credit. Of these the latter is by far the more important. All the money used for loans and discounts, amounting to $15,000,000,000 is supplied by the depositors. When you borrow money, you don't borrow the bank's money. You borrow the money of the depositors. But, you say, the banks have a capital and a surplus. Yes, but it is invested in bonds. You notice the reports of the banks, and you will see that their loans and discounts amount to about the same sum as their deposits.

"We had a panic recently. What was the cause of it? You who read the Republican newspapers, didn't get it. They have been telling their readers for twenty-five years that the only thing that could cause a panic was the removal of the tariff. And when a panic came in a Republican administration they either had to admit they were wrong or shut up, and most of them shut up.

"The trouble was that the banks kept piling up a line of credit on the watered securities they had in their vaults. Henry Clews, an eminent authority on banking, once admitted on the same platform with me, that the conservative banks carried a line of credit of $400,000 for every $100,000 in cash they had. The New York banks ran this line of credit up to seven, eight and yes, even nine thousand dollars. The country bankers began to get nervous and demanded some of their money back. They took a few grains from the slender foundation, and the whole structure collapsed. The bankers of New York did the business. Your bankers here were not to blame. What happened to you?"

"Cashiers' checks," shouted one of the audience.

"That's what you called them here, was it?" asked the speaker. "Out in California they called it scrip. At any rate you discovered that you were not putting your money into the banks on trust, but simply lending it to them, with the privilege of returning it when they got ready. They had six weeks of holidays out in California to keep the banks from failing. Why didn't the New York bankers send back the money. They were using it.

The "Cash Boy."

"They called the cash boy, Secretary Cortelyou, and he came down with $34,000,000 of your taxes from the United States treasury. Who got it? Did you get it? No. Mr. Morgan's banks got $12,000,000 of it, and Mr. Rockefeller's banks got $15,000,000 of it. Mr. Morgan, seeing the people's distress, sent this money out through the country? No. This was not Mr. Morgan's idea of it. He wandered down Wall street and found some of the choicest wreckage ever cast up on the shore of the Hudson river. In the vaults of the National Bank of North America he found the controlling interest in the Tennessee Coal & Iron company, the chief competitor of the steel trust, and he grabbed it with the money you had paid into the United States treasury for taxes.

"The next step was to turn it over to the Steel corporation, but somebody told him it would be a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and while these men never seem to get into prison, they appear to have a kind of dread of the word. So he sent Mr. Gary and Mr. Frick to see the president about it, and Roosevelt said, 'go ahead, boys. Don't mind me. My legal department won't prosecute you.' Those were not his exact words, but he is more classic in his language than I am.

"There isn't a monarch in Europe who would dare to suspend the operation of the criminal laws of his country in this manner, yet it was done by the president of the United States. So the Steel corporation took over the controlling interest and has it now. Mr. Roosevelt's only excuse was that it might have aggravated the panic to stir up the matter then.

"Do you know, that down in Kansas I saw a cashier's check for five cents. I don't know whether you were that hard up here, but that is certainly getting pretty close to being broke.

Mr. Bryan's Remedy.

"Mr. Bryan proposed as a remedy for this evil the guaranty system. It is just as easy to insure bank deposits as it is to insure property against fire, and easier, for you have the records of forty years to base your insurance tables on, and you can estimate to a cent what it will cost. The system provides that each bank shall deposit with the secretary of the treasury a certain percentage of its deposits, this sum to come out of the stockholders, to insure to the depositors the return of their money in case the bank fails and is unable to pay its creditors in full. It is so simple any child can understand it, and no argument worthy of the name has been brought against it.

"Mr. Taft says it will be bad for the banks. There are 15,000,000 bank depositors in this country, and some of the saddest stories of every-day life result from the bank failures, yet Mr. Taft hasn't a word to say for the men and women who lose the savings of a lifetime through a bank failure. But Mr. Taft made a concession. He said he would indorse it if the bankers were willing. But the bankers met in session at Denver and refused to indorse it. Fortunately, however, there was another convention held at Denver, and the people are going to ratify the Democratic convention, and not the bankers' convention.

The Injunction Plank.

"There is one question that I must not fail to touch upon. In seven years from now it will be 700 years since the people of England secured from King John the right of trial by jury, and since then it has been held as one of the most sacred rights of the English speaking people. Why then should we be called upon to defend it now. I will tell you: During the last few years the courts of equity have begun a process of administering the law that has resulted in the judges legislating a new system of criminal practice. A judge now can take a parchment, and issue upon it a proclamation which becomes a law, prohibiting men from doing certain acts. If that man violates that law he can be summoned before that same judge who issued the proclamation, and may be given an indeterminate sentence in prison. My friends, I hold no retainer from the labor union, and speak for no one class of men, but I am a lover of human freedom. I respect the judges of this nation, but the judges must respect human rights and liberties, and the time has come when this system must fail. To the union men I owe the fact that this is a campaign issue. They went to the Republicans with it and were repulsed. The Democratic party has taken it up. Taft says it is a 'most insidious attack upon the judicial system.' I object to Mr. Taft as a witness on the ground of prejudice, for he has done more than any judge to build up this system. I am glad that the labor unions have been pounded into politics. The ballot is a better weapon than the strike ever was.

"But think of all I have omitted. Why, I haven't even touched on Joe Cannon yet. Poor old Uncle Joe is the offender. It's the system behind him. I haven't touched on the trusts, or the income tax. Why, I haven't apparently touched on hardly anything yet, but it is getting late, and I must say a word about the men.

The Candidates.

"We have picked out our men. At least the Democrats have. If you are a Republican you have let somebody else pick him out.

"Now I have known Mr. Taft for many years. If we took Taft for what he is you wouldn't criticise him, but if you take him for what he wants to be, you would. I'll tell you just what Mr. Taft is. He is a good-natured, pleasant man, a good liver, as you can see. He never did any hard work. He is a comfortable, jolly sort of man, and judges honestly by such light as the Lord have given him. A lot of us can say that, but we don't aspire to the presidency. I have never been able to conceive of a president of the United States who was not capable of writing his own letter of acceptance, without first submitting it to his mentor.

"Mr. Taft has been drawing a salary for twenty-seven years. He has been a success at that. He never slipped a payday to my knowledge. But the president of the United States ought to have had his character forged in the daily struggles of human existence. He shouldn't be pap fed. Mr. Taft's character is weankened by twenty-seven years of salaried life.

"It is not a training for a president to sit as a 'conqueror over a race of half starved, miserable people. It is the greatest scandal in our history that we should have gone into the Philippines with fire and sword.

"He has run many errands for the United States, to Porto Rico and Cuba and Panama. I notice they could always spare him from the war department, and the department never seemed to suffer. Mr. Taft is the best picnicker this country ever had. He has had a splendid time with our money.

"But you say he has made some good settlements. Why, I believe I could make good settlements if I had the United States treasury and the United States army at my back, and a poor, bankrupt, half-starved race at the other end.

"He has been a judge. Yes, and a bad one. Whenever anything was to be done to oppress human rights, Taft was the man chosen to do it. 'God knows,' he said, when asked what a workman would do if he was without work and starving. If they had tried to choose a man utterly destitute of human sympathy for the wrongs of an oppressed people, they could not have chosen a better man.

"Now we have a man. He is not any man's man. He is the purest-minded man that ever entered public life in this country. No man has been subjected to the searchlight as he has been. His public and his private life has been probed and the more they searched, the more the searchers were converted. He has been defeated twice. Yes, that's true. But tell me another man who has been defeated twice, and whose nomination is demanded a third time by more people than ever wanted him before. Taft will not be nominated a second time after his defeat, will he, do you think?

"We have forgotten the possibilities of our own institutions in the long rule of a Republican party. I believe the country can be ruled by the people and for the people. I believe a glorious day is coming, and that this country will enter upon a new era of peace beginning with the election of William Jennings Bryan."

OLD WILLCUTS POLITICAL MACHINE BEING OILED UP

Under Contract to Deliver St. Louis County Vote to "Jake."

Duluth Collector of Customs Again Working Political Strings.

Beneath the clamor of the present political campaign, hidden by the last mad scramble for votes, and overlooked by all but the old-time politicians, is a pathetic little picture that deserves to be brought to the public eye—that of Lee M. Willcuts, Duluth's collector of customs and former custodian of the public trough, falling upon the neck of Jacob F. Jacobson and hailing him as the savior of Northern Minnesota. It marks the revival of the Willcuts machine, so prominent in the earlier days of Duluth's politics.

Back in the early days of Duluth the principal number on the political vaudeville bill was the Willcuts marionette show. For years it played a continuous engagement. The act was changed a little from year to year. Sometimes the marionettes were legislators; sometimes they were state senators; sometimes they were candidates for municipal office, but the boyish faced owner of the act sat behind the scenes and pulled the strings that kept them dancing for the public's entertainment. The marionettes got the applause, and the limelight, but the owner of the show was satisfied, and when the public applauded he smiled. When the public failed to applaud, a new marionette had to be substituted for the unpopular one.

Story Grows Old.

But as the years went by the act became an old story and failed to attract the public. The scenery became worn with the years, and the strings began to show through the cracks. The patronage at the political playhouse began to fall off, and the act was withdrawn.

The owner retired to the peace and quietude of the office of collector of customs. Out of his basket of plums he had saved this nice big red one for himself. At that time the collector was said to be a "dead one" politically. His aid in a political campaign was almost as big a handicap as that of the "Jacobson Jokebook" today. Candidates shunned him.

Some of the Roosevelt reforms were also not to his liking, and he retired to sulk within his tent.

But "Lee" was not the only owner of a political marionette show. Down in the southern part of the state "Bob" Dunn had a rival attraction, playing the southern circuit, and occasionally touching at the northern towns. The falling off in its patronage occurred at about the same time that the Duluth show was relegated to the political garret.

But the memory of voters is short. Time spreads a kindly mantle over the past.

"The time is ripe for another marionette show," says Dunn.

"You're right," says Lee.

"Let's combine and have a good show," says Bob.

"You're on," says Lee.

A New Marionette.

A new figure was needed for the center of the stage. Who better than "Honest Jake, the farmer's friend?" So the old Willcuts scenery was dragged out of the garret; the strings were repaired and tightened up; the whole was repainted. The Dunn show was overhauled; the two combined, and the good old fat-frying days of 1896 were due to be recalled.

Backers for the enterprise were needed, but these were readily secured. Nobody had ever accused "Lee" getting his strings crossed. They always worked perfectly, and he had the faculty of ingratiating himself with the powerful interests.

And so the combined Willcuts-Dunn Political Vaudeville, "strictly moral, fit for ladies and children" is billed as the headline attraction in the Republican playhouses of the state. With the News Tribune as press agent, it will tour the northern counties next week, and the word has gone forth to the local playhouse managers to "pack 'em in at all costs."

Who Came Over?

The proverbial man up the proverbial tree has a smile coming. Willcuts and Jacobson. "Who came over?" is the question that naturally arises. In the good old days, they were as far apart as a bashful swain and his sweetheart in the front parlor with pa looking on. There was never anything coarse about the Duluth collector's work. Behind that smooth, boyish face there was tact. He was never the bullnecked type of boss. His fine Italian hand was never soiled by contact with the ward heeler. He played for bigger game. His moves were made on a loftier plane. He was working ever for "the good of the community." He was the official guardian of the public welfare. In fact he kept the public welfare locked up in his private safe. He ingratiated himself with the big interests. Then who went over? Jake? Jake, with whom the "pee-pul" were a passion? Jake, the farmers' friend go over? Perish the thought. But the figures in the Dunn-Willcuts marionette act in a strangely familiar manner. There is something about the way they move that recalls that master hand on the strings. "Jacobson must be elected for the good of the community," they say. "If Johnson is elected we will have a tonnage tax. If Johnson is elected we will lose the steel plant." And the figures dance to the tune of the "public welfare." It's the same old act with a new marionette.

In connection with the foregoing a letter received by a well known Duluth Democrat today will be of interest. It tells of a conversation between Bob Dunn and a Southern Minnesota man, in which Dunn is quoted as saying that "arrangements had been made with the crowd at Duluth, whereby Jacobson was to get the vote of St. Louis county and the iron range country."

So this is the reason for offering up of the Willcuts machine. Dunn has "made arrangements with the crowd at Duluth, whereby Jacobson was to get the vote of St. Louis county." Neatly tied in a package the votes of the iron ranges and Duluth are to be handed to the proprietors of the Dunn-Willcuts marionette shows combined.

A story is told of a famous Missouri senator who was accused by his opponent of sucking eggs. The senator replied that his opponent sucked eggs, but was wise enough not to leave any shells lying around. Is it possible that the Duluth collector left some shells?

Down in Port Huron recently the collector of customs was removed by President Roosevelt for pernicious activ- March 4 to serve, and egg shells attract attention.

CANNON SCORED BY LA FOLLETTE

STATE LABOR BODY CONDEMNS SPEAKER

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 24.—Speaker Cannon was specifically condemned in a clause in the resolutions passed at the final day's session of the Illinois state federation of labor. The clause met with opposition, but was finally passed. The politician in labor affairs was killed when the convention amended its constitution to shut out the political delegate who has forced his way into past conventions to the detriment of union labor.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24.—Senator La Follette made two speeches in Milwaukee last night for the national Republican ticket.

Some one in one of the audiences asked the senator, "What about Joe Cannon?"

La Follette said that Cannon should be defeated, "because he has suppressed representative government."

In connection with representative government, the senator said: "I'm going to do all I can to clean up the United States senate. Four years from now will see a Republican senate that is overwhelmingly progressive."

In his address at the South Side Turnverein hall he gave a glowing eulogy to Taft and paid particular attention to the early Taft decision on the anti-trust law. The district where Senator La Follette spoke is particularly a manufacturing section and he devoted much of his time to this part of his speech as a result. He said that the Taft decision was one of two which had resulted in all the successful prosecutions up to this time. Senator La Follette declared that possibly the president might have erred in selecting Taft as his successor and might possibly have done better than to take so prominent a part in naming a successor, but that such a course was natural to the president's temperament. With the feeling that he should select the best man to succeed himself, said the senator, what was more natural than to turn to the man who had been his chief reliance in the cabinet and on whose judgment he so absolutely relied. Senator La Follette then took up Taft's record in the various offices he has held and said his work in these places of trust was assurance of a continuance of his good work in the presidency.

MERRY WEEK IN POLITICS

Believed That It Will be Larger Than in 1906.

The political teapot was boiling merrily the past week. There has been no idleness in either county camp. Each party has held two or three meetings every evening. None of the candidates for county and legislative offices has permitted grass to grow long and verdant under his feet. The campaign is nearing its close, and the activities of the office seekers have increased accordingly.

It looks as if Governor John A. Johnson had a firm hold upon St. Louis county. The only question that is perplexing the members of the Democratic committee, is the size of the plurality by which the governor will carry the county.

Two years ago the governor carried St. Louis county by about 1,400 votes. This year the Democratic committee expects confidently to carry it by at least 2,000 votes. Bookmakers are betting even money that the governor will have a plurality of at least 1,000 votes in the county, and betting two to one that he will carry it, with almost no takers. The more enthusiastic claim that Johnson's plurality in the county will reach as high as 3,000.

A feature of the week has been the apparent growth of Bryan sentiment in this county. Reports brought in by different members of the Democratic committee, who have been present at the different meetings this week, are most favorable and indicate that Bryan will at least receive a heavy vote in this county, if he does not carry it.

"Beat the Johnson meetings or bust" seems to be the slogan of the Republican county committee, in planning for the Jacobson rally here next week.

The members realize what a blow it would be to the Jacobson campaign in this county, if on the eve of election, the Armory meeting should be a frost, and they will do everything in their power to pack the Armory on the evening of the Jacobson speech. They do not hope for such a spontaneous burst of enthusiasm as that which greeted Governor Johnson, but they will try to manufacture enough to make at least a creditable showing. They have had weeks to prepare for it. The Johnson meeting was advertised but a few days ahead. It was probably the greatest political gathering ever held in the state of Minnesota, at least in Duluth. If red fire, brass bands, and advertising will do it, the Republican committee will fill the Armory once at least for the Jacobson speech.

The Jacobson tour of the ranges will begin Wednesday morning and the Republican candidate will have practically the same itinerary as that of Governor Johnson. It is intimated that Jacobson will finally announce his stand on the tonnage tax during the range tour, and declare himself as opposed to it, when it is too late for the news to hurt him in the other parts of the state. The postponing of his tour of the ranges until the last moment was a clever campaign trick. In the other parts of the state, where they favor a tonnage tax that will allow St. Louis county to bear the burdens of the rest of the state, Jacobson is traveling on his record, which is in favor of a tonnage tax. He would not dare to favor such a tax in Northern Minnesota, and if he takes any stand upon it while here, it will be as an opponent of it. But the announcement will come too late to do harm in the other parts of the state, or good here.

There is only one district in which there is a fight for the legislative positions, the Fiftieth. The district is fortunate in its candidates, with J. W. Reynolds and Dr. O. A. Oredson on the Democratic side and R. F. Grant and Anton Borgen on the Republican ticket. All four men are well and favorably known in the county. All have declared themselves as flatly opposed to the tonnage tax and they are all making a campaign on a platform for the development of Northern Minnesota. It is difficult to predict the winners and it would not be surprising if one man from each party were elected, so lightly are party lines being drawn in the legislative fight this year. All four candidates have been making very active campaigns, Mr. Grant and Mr. Oredson being particularly aggressive. They had a lively tilt during the week at a meeting of the West End Hillside Improvement club and something in the nature of an old time joint debate took place.

Mr. Jesmore, the Democratic candidate for sheriff, is making a very vigorous campaign against Sheriff Bates. He will undoubtedly make a good showing in the county and he stands at least a good fighting chance of election. Democratic candidates for county offices have always found a hard row to hoe in St. Louis county during recent years, but Mr. Jesmore apparently stands the best chance of election of any Democratic candidate in the last two or three campaigns. His friends claim that his election is assured, but Mr. Bates' friends are equally confident.

Anton N. Thompson is pinning his hopes on a large range vote to defeat J. P. Johnson for the office of clerk of the courts. Mr. Johnson has always had a very large following in Duluth and will undoubtedly poll a heavy majority of the votes here. If Mr. Thompson can make a clean sweep of the range he might stand a show.

• • •

Dr. J. H. Jern promises to give Coroner McCuen a run. Dr. Jern accompanied the governor on his range tour and made a very favorable impression on all who met him. Coroner McCuen, however, has always been popular with the members of his party in Duluth at least and is a hard man to beat in St. Louis county.

A Wreck From Neuralgia

MRS. EDITH COPELAND.

Mrs. Edith Copeland of Los Angeles, Cal., who was sick with Indigestion and Neuralgia, is loud in her praise of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which has benefited her after many other remedies failed. It has cured her of the indigestion and toned up her system, thus driving out the neuralgia.

Mrs. Copeland writes: "I was nearly a wreck when I came to California five years ago. When I had been here perhaps a month I came across one of your testimonial letters that just hit my case and I decided to get a bottle.

"I have had neuralgia of the heart and feet. Have had no satisfaction from my doctors (save receipted bills), and have been trying everything. Was also a sufferer from indigestion. Not only has Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey increased my weight and acted as a general tonic, but it has also nearly cured me of my neuralgia. I feel confident that in time Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey will drive it out of my system entirely."

Mrs. Copeland's case is similar to that of thousands of others, both men and women, who have been made hale, hearty and vigorous by the constant use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a medicine. It is a predigested food which has a stimulating and tonic effect on the system. It builds nerve tissues, prevents decay and keeps the entire system in a normal, healthy condition.

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain. It is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

It cures nervousness, typhoid, malaria, every form of stomach trouble, diseases of the throat and lungs, and all run down and weakened conditions of the body, brain and nerves. It is prescribed by doctors and is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey, and is sold in large sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Price $1.00. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Write Consulting Physician, Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. News of the Theater

AT THE LYCEUM

"LOVE AND THE LAW" WILL BE PRESENTED FOR THE FIRST TIME, ON ANY STAGE, BY THE MACK LEONES. : : : : : : : : :

"Love and the Law," by Ferdinand Gottschalk and Roi Cooper Megrue, will be seen at the Lyceum for the first time on any stage, one week, commencing Monday, Oct. 26, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

The action of the piece takes place in any large city. The scenes are laid in and around a state capitol, the characters of the piece are: Governor Abbott, elected by the machine; Michael McGrath, an Irish politician and machine leader, and John Barclay, lieutenant governor, who stands for what is right.

McGrath orders a strike in the steel mills, depending upon the governor refusing to call out the militia to stop the riot. In the meantime, a disappointed politician, who has since become an absinthe fiend, hides in the governor's room in the capitol, and just as the governor is showing his hand in refusing to order out the militia, the man in hiding shoots him, thereby placing the situation in the hands of the lieutenant governor, who orders out the troops and prevents the riot.

The love story of the piece is supplied by the lieutenant governor's love for the daughter of the mill owner. Mr. Hicks will play the lieutenant governor, John Barclay; Mr. Quigley, McGrath the boss; and Mr. Mack, "Spencer Cavendish," the absinthe fiend. Miss Leone will play the mill owner's daughter.

As this is the last week of the stock company's engagement before the Western tour, O. W. Wagner has outdone his previous efforts with the scenic effects.

All of the up-to-date conceits of which the cunning brain of the wide-awake playwright and punster are famous, have a place in the treasure vaults of Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr.'s "Musical Follies of 1907," which comes to the Lyceum, Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 2 and 3.

Roosevelt, Rockefeller, Taft, Mark Twain, Carnegie, Harriman, Jerome, Comstock, Caruso and other national celebrities are subjected to the searchlight of the punster and are paraded in familiar guises for the joy of mirth-lovers.

Shifting swiftly, scene after scene, the performance comes to an end only after it had pricked every passing bubblet of political, social and financial interest. During its rapid movement many really beautiful musical compositions, the work of various modern composers are heard to the best possible orchestral, costume and electrical effect.

Conspicuous among the members of the large cast are: Montgomery and Moore, Ross Snow, Charles A. Mason, Nellie Daly, Irma Croft, Marius Libby, James Manley, Estelle Colbert, Frava Navarre, Charles and Anna Glocker, and an ensemble of 100, all of the standard of excellence demanded by Florenz Ziegfeld.

"The Great Divide," William Vaughn Moody's virile American play, which is to be presented at the Lyceum, Nov. 4, 5, 6 and 7, under the direction of Henry Miller, is generally acknowledged to be the greatest drama of Western life yet written in the history of the American stage. It tells of the strange wooing of an Eastern woman and an Arizona prospector, representing the conflict between the free untrammeled spirit of the West and the rigid conventionality and uncompromising traditions of the East. The play possesses great literary quality as well as wealth of clever dialogue, replete with scintillating epigram, and is intensely dramatic. Critics have been unprecedently unanimous in according "The Great Divide" the unstinted praise as being the best American romance ever staged. After a run of over 600 nights in New York, Mr. Miller has at last been able to arrange a road tour for the play, which has several times been booked for presentation here, but the dates had to be cancelled owing to the long continued success in the metropolis.

The Lyceum will have as its attraction soon, George M. Cohan's clever rural-musical-comedy, "Fifty Miles From Boston," which will be produced under the direction of Cohan and Harris, with what is claimed to be one of the best companies on tour. Mr. Cohan has laid the scenes of his new play in and around the village of Brookfield and is said to have caught the types and the "local color" with rare cleverness. He has furthermore embellished the story with such songs as "Harrigan," "My Small Town Gal," "Waltz With Me," "Jack and Jill," "Ain't It Awful," and "Boys Who Fight the Flames." Joseph Sparks, Suzanne Westford, Hazel Lowry and Russel Pincus are in the company.

There will be a Yiddish concert at the Lyceum tomorrow night, held under the auspices of the local Jewish societies, presented by a special selected company, which is now touring all of the large cities of this country. The program contains the names of many prominent stars of the Yiddish stage. The Jewish people of Duluth have made many efforts to secure this splendid company in the past, but this is the first time that the company has been in the Northwest and by a special arrangement they were able to take a night away from the Minneapolis engagement and give the Yiddish people of this city an opportunity to see one of their performances.

Local amusement seekers will find in "Babes in Toyland," the big musical extravaganza which comes to the Lyceum on Thanksgiving day, one of the brightest and most tuneful offerings they have ever seen.

It is not only unique, but it is excellently presented by a splendid cast and a large chorus, including over forty pretty girls.

The New York production in its entirety will be seen here.

William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer's production "The Man of the Hour," will be seen at the Lyceum for a week in November. The plot, in brief, concerns a young millionaire who has been refuser by his sweetheart because he has "done nothing worthy." He then enters politics and is elected mayor of his city. After assuming the duties of the office he manfully refuses to bow to the political boss. One of the first bills brought to him for his signature has to do with a franchise grab and is prompted by the uncle of the girl with whom he is in love. It looks to the new mayor as if his refusal would cost him all the friends of his family, but after pursuing the rough road, in the end he wins his sweetheart and demonstrates that honesty always pays. The company to be seen here is said to be exceptionally strong, while the production is complete in every detail.

AT THE BIJOU

Celebrated Musical Artists Will be the Feature of Next Week's Vaudeville Bill—Famous English Comedian Coming. :-: :-: :-: :-: :-: :-: :-:

THE most artistic musical attraction that has ever played the Bijou, and one that is recognized among musical attractions is the Royal musical five. These artists will appear at each performance during the coming week, and lovers of good music should not fail to hear them.

Herbert Cyril, the English comedian, who made such a success during his recent appearance in New York city, will be seen in his original act of stories and songs that has made him one of England's foremost comedians.

The best blackface comedy act that has ever played the Bijou will be Blockson and Burns, who offer fifteen minutes of solid laughter.

Another comedy act of much importance in vaudeville is John Birch, known as "the man with hats." This novelty is built for laughing purposes only, and is one of the season's big comedy hits. Holmes and Holliston, who were big favorites a year ago, will appear in their rural comedy sketch wtih new songs and situations that make the act even better than on their former appearance.

Isador Silver will sing a new illustrated song entitled "The Days of '49."

The motion pictures for the week will be "His Motehr's Locket," and the roaring comedy picture entitled, "Sandy McPherson's Fishing Trip." Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30 o'clock. Seats may be reserved by either telephone. A special school children's matinee will be given Saturday afternoon and evening, and performances on Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Lulu Glaser and Fritzi Scheff in European Race For Operatic Honors—Miss Billie Burke to Appear in Paris—Nance O'Neil has Scored a Success in "Agnes."

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—As a result of the immense and immediate success scored by Lulu Glaser in "Mlle. Mischief," the new Viennese operetta, at the Lyric theater, the Messrs. Shubert announce that they will institute a race for European honors between Miss Glaser and Fritzi Scheff. It was announced some months ago by her managers that Miss Scheff would go to Germany the eary part of next summer to present an American musical comedy. The Messrs. Shubert now state that Miss Glaser will leave prior to Miss Scheff in the late spring, but instead of presenting an American production, she will play a special starring engagement in "Mlle. Mischief," which is already an established success in Berlin and Vienna, and which is the musical production of Carl Zlehrer, the Austrian composer.

Herr Hans Gregor, director of the Komischer theater, Berlin, is responsible for the practical working out of the plan, and indeed it was he who made the initial move in the negotiations which have been active ever since Miss Glaser gave her first performance of "Mlle. Mischief" in Philadelphia five weeks ago. Herr Gregor sent to the Messrs. Shubert through their German agent Gustav Amberg, to say that he would like to present Miss Glaser for a Berlin engagement in "Mlle. Mischief" at the head of a German company. He argued that the appearance of an American star singing the stellar role of a Viennese operetta, not in English but in German, would be a distinct and profitable innovation. He also suggested that, after appearing in Berlin, Miss Glaser might appear for a brief engagement in Vienna itself, if time would permit her to do so before the inauguration of her next autumn season in America.

Charles Frohman has made formal application to the committee of the Comedie Francaise for permission to perform in English at the Theater Des Arts, the comedy "L'Amour Veille," one of the chief modern plays in repertoire of the Comedie Francaise and now being played at the Lyceum theater under the title of "Love Watches" by Miss Billie Burke. Armand Canlavet and Robert de Flers, the authors of the French text, are acting as Mr. Frohman's agents in the transaction. If permission is granted, as there is every reason to expect because of Mr. Frohman's membership in the French Authors' society, it will be the first time any manager not a Frenchman, has ever produced in Paris an English version of a current Paris success. If the project cannot be arranged through the French Authors' society or through the committee of the Comedie Francaise, Mr. Frohman will take advantage of the fact that the Comedie Francaise is a government institution, and make application to the French government, through Ambassador White. According to present plans, Miss Burke will act "Love Watches" at the Theater Des Arts next July, following a two months' engagement at the Duke of York's theater, London. These plans will cover Miss Burke's engagements for the next two years. Instead of closing her New York season in November and then sailing for England, as originally announced, Miss Burke will continue to play "Love Watches" until Jan. 1. To effect this, considerable of her tour will have to be abandoned. Only the principal cities will be visited between the end of the New York engagement and the date of Miss Burke's sailing for England. Nearly all of the present American company will appear in the London and Paris productions of the play.

In "Agnes" Nance O'Neil is a genuine success at the Majestic theater. The first act of the play takes place on a yacht. The owner has recently married Agnes, an American girl. With friends he is cruising along the French coast when suddenly there is a crash and the yacht has been hit by a passing steamship. There is wild excitement when the millionaire is struck by a falling object and stunned. Agnes tries to rescue him but is forced to leave him to his fate. Later a trunk is saved and in it Agnes finds a number of letters from a former lover. Now comes the lover, and believing the husband is drowned they are married. Several years after a Frenchman who has lost his reason appears and asks the husband, a physician, to perform an operation to restore his memory. Agnes recognizes the man as her first husband and implores the doctor not to try to recall the man's past. He is obdurate, and while the man is on the operating table Agnes beats wildly on the door with her hands. In a few moments the doctor comes out and tells her the man has died under the knife. It is a gripping situation, in which Miss O'Neil does the strongest kind of emotional acting and in which she is cheered at every performance. The play is an appealing vehicle for this actress. Her supporting company is an excellent one.

Henry B. Harris has put into operation a plan which will completely revolutionize play production where a drama is to be revived or presented at a distance from the point where it may be running. The scheme will entirely do away with prompt books and will preserve fine character impersonations. Mr. Harris has taken moving pictures of the plays and phonographic records of the principal speeches. The films and records will be held in his offices until it is necessary to revive the dramas, when they will be employed to illustrate just how the original production looked and to reproduce the voices of the actors.

The idea occurred to Mr. Harris some weeks ago, when he sold to Hugh J. Ward, the Australian actor-manager, the rights of "The Chorus Lady" and "The Traveling Salesman." Mr. Ward was exceedingly anxious to present the plays just as they were given here, and he stipulated that the man who staged them should be sent to Melbourne. To send the stage manager to Australia was a considerable expense, and the consideration of this item resulted in Mr. Harris's novel experiment.

Mr. Harris was so pleased with his experiment that he ordered films of "The Chorus Lady" prepared, and later began work on "The Lion and the Mouse," "Pierre of the Plains" and "The Offenders." As new plays are produced they will be photographed, so that reproductions may be made at any time.

The cost of taking a complete set of pictures of an average play will be about $500, a small matter when a production costs between $25,000 and $50,000. Moreover, Mr. Harris expects to make money on the scheme. After plays have been on the road they are leased to stock company managers. The managers spend hours poring over prompt books and scene plates. With the films and phonographic records there will be no need of this. A small sum will be charged for the films, and in this way Mr. Harris expects to more than get his money back.

Manager W. E. Gorman has returned to town and is preparing for the starring tour of Miss Rosabel Morrison in a spectacular production of "Faust," which he says will be novelty in the way of new scenery, costumes and startling electric effects. He has engaged for the role of Mephisto Edward N. Hoyt, an actor of ability, who has starred in "Hamlet" and other Shakespearean plays and been prominent in the companies supporting Robert B. Mantell, Louis James, Frederick Warde and seeveral other well known stars. Miss Morrison's tour begins Nov. 2 and calls for engagements in many of the large cities in the South and West, where she became popular as the leading member of the late Lewis Morrison's company.

Although critics may differ there is no question of the success of Arnold Daly in "His Wife's Family," at Wallack's theater, where large and enthusiastic audiences gather nightly and laugh, yes and cry, too, over the trials and tribulations of the impecunious Maj. Desmond, which Mr. Daly impersonates so deftly. The play is a delightful comedy, at times reflecting true Celtic feeling and then returning to a laugh-provoking mood. The author, George Edgerton, an Irish woman and a novelist, has written a study of Irish character that is as charming as a May morning and a most attractive entertainment. Mr. Daly as the major is a captivating figure with his rich brogue and bits of Irish humor which an audience always appreciates. It is an extremely effective impersonation and one of the best, if not the very best, that he has ever before shown his admirers. Edward Harrigan, who has the role of an old Irish retainer, is the same old Harrigan of a decade ago.

"The American Idea," a musical comedy by George M. Cohan, is on view at the New York theater. It is a razzle dazzle of fun, song and dance with no dull moments from start to finish. There are a lot of pretty girls headed by that statuesque beauty, Trixie Frigganza. The leading comedy part is cleverly acted by Robert L. Dailey. In this piece Mr. Cohan has evolved a riot of color and an orgie of girls with a store of lingerie in stock but no plot that one can notice.

Manager John Cort has returned from Chicago to start preparations for the starring tour of Florence Roberts, which is to begin early next month at Milwaukee. This actress will then be seen in a new play by Seymour Abermer entitled, "The House of Bondage," which is said to have a strong emotional role for Miss Roberts, who will be supported by an excellent cast, including Arthur Forrest.

Mr. Omermer is an American who lived in England many years and this is his first play. He arrived in this country recently and rehearsals are now in progress. In an interview Manager Cort has this to say. "The published statement that I have withdrawn 'Commencement Days,' the comedy by Virginia Frame and Margaret Mayo, which I produced in Boston several weeks ago, is incorrect. The play is an excellent one and will be sent on tour next month after I have made a few changes in the company. Fifty people, including several well-known actors, will be employed in the cast."

Sidney R. Ellis, manager of Al H. (Metz) Wilson, is agitated because a play he purchased for his star bears a strong resemblance to "Jack Straw," in which John Drew is appearing, in the Empire theatre. Mr. Ellis bought the play from E. B. Tilton, Mary Mannering's manager, three years ago, and paid a large sum of money to the author as advance royalties. Recently his attention was called to the similarity between the two plays. He demanded an explanation of Tilton, who replied that the play for Mr. Wilson was written five years ago. Manager Ellis says: "I wish it distinctly understood that if any controversy arises I have as much right to Tilton's ideas as has Charles Frohman." Mr. Frohman is yet to be heard from.

Henry B. Warner, who made a hit with William Lackaye in "The Battle," is to have the leading male role in "Vera, the Medium," the new play in which Eleanor Robson shortly begins her season.

"The Squaw Man," with Dustin Farnum as the star, is doing a record-breaking business in the South and West.

"The Man From Home" continues to pack the Astor theater at both matinee and night performances. The end not yet in sight.

One of the important events of the month has been the production at the Broadway of "The Golden Butterfly," a comic opera by Reginald De Koven and Harry B. Smith, with Grace Von Studdiford as the prima donna and star, assisted by a numerous company of comedians and vocalists. The new opera tells of a poor composer unable to get a hearing. He discovers that his sweetheart is the prima donna of the Royal Opera company, and accepts a position in the orchestra to be near her. At the first performance he finds that the opera is his own work, the secret having been kept from him. His opera is a success, and this unites the two lovers. For this story, which is extremely interesting, Mr. De Koven has composed some beautiful music, with several songs that are fully up to the record of "Robin Hood," and as sung by Miss Studdiford are bound to become popular. Miss Van Studdiford never looked handsomer and never before sang so sweetly. She was encored over and over again, and at the end of each act called to the footlights and tumultuously applauded by the audience, which included many persons prominent socially. Excellent comedy work is done by Louis Harrison as Baron Von Affenkoff. The opera is a musical treat—moreover, it has an excellent story. Miss Van Studdiford as Ilma, the prima donna, has scored a success of which she must be proud. She sings delightfully and acts with spirit and skill. Two of her numbers, notably "Do Not Forget Me" and "The Butterfly and the Clover," had to be repeated three and four times in order to satisfy the audience. Her engagement has started with a rush and the indications are that it will be the most successful that she has ever played. There is a wealth of beautiful scenery and costumes which are fully up to the Broadway standard. A large chorus of young men and women, every one of whom has a well trained voice is a feature also. "The Golden Butterfly" is O. K. and good for a run.

It is not exaggeration to describe the performance of Louise Gunning in "Marcelle" at the Casino as a cyclonic vocalist and a capable actress. Pixley and Luders have furnished a comic opera equal to their "Prince of Pilsen" and an entertainment that is worth while.

In "Mlle. Mischief," at the Lyric, Lulu Glaser has hit the public fancy. Her role of Rossette affords many opportunities for the display of her ability as a comedienne, and she makes the most of every one of them.

The phenomenal run of "The Merry Widow" in New York ended last Saturday night. It ran without interruption for a year, making a total of consecutive performances of 400. This, of course, refers only to the Henry W. Savage production. During the year the total receipts at the box office amounted to $810,000, or an average of $1,947 for each performance. This stands unprecedented in the annals of American runs, and gives some idea of the wonderful success the insinuating Vienna waltz operetta has achieved. America has succumbed to the bewitching melody just as whole Europe has done. That is to say, a certain part of it has, for outside of New York, Chicago and Boston, the rest of the country has had no opportunity to subscribe its adulations. The tour is just about to begin, and there is no telling where it will end.

"Myself-Bettina" is to go by the wayside, and Maxine Elliott is already at work rehearsing a new play. It is called "The Chaperone," and is the work of Marion Fairfax. Miss Elliott intends to present "The Chaperone" during her Boston engagement, and it seems now as if her idea of producing "The Social Guide," by Clyde Fitch, has been abandoned. Miss Fairfax, by the way, is making the dramatization of Winston Churchill's "Mr. Crewe's Career."

Maude Fealy has been chosen as Nat Goodwin's leading lady in "Cameo King," which he will produce at an early day. Miss Fealy has placed herself under contract with Liebler & Co., who are Goodwin's managers now, and her procedure has awakened the ire of John Cort, under whose management she has been starring in "The Stronger Sex." Miss Fealy claims that Cort has not fulfilled his contract, and that she has been waiting since last January for him to resume the tour of "The Stronger Sex."

The Newlyweds and their baby Napoleon, made famous by George Mc-Manus' cartoons, are to go on the stage. They will be made up in a musical comedy. Seymour Brown is to write the lyrics and Nat D. Ayers the music.

Time is so ravaging that it has entirely removed the remembrance of Minnie Palmer and "My Sweetheart." This year John R. Rogers reviewed the play, with Helen Byron in the principal role. The show didn't meet with any glorious success, and as a result the tour has terminated. Meanwhile the erstwhile star of "My Sweetheart," Minnie Palmer, is meeting with a most cordial reception in vaudeville in New York. In this case the actress is a better proposition than the play.

"The Queen of the Moulin Rouge," a new musical drama by Thomas W. Ryley, who produced "Floradora" and other popular musical successes, is being rehearsed and will soon be ready for presentation. It deals with the Balkin crisis, which is at present occupying so much the attention of the world.

The White Rats of America have designated five members to act as a committee on ways and means to raise a fund out of which will be erected a monument to commemorate the life and works of the late Tony Pastor. This committee, composed of Sam Morton, Junie McCree, Edward Esmond, Lou Anger and Edward Davis, is meeting daily to form a permanent organization. The committee has decided that a statue of the late Dean of Vaudeville will be cast and placed in one of the New York city parks. The question of whether this subscription shall be drawn from the general public or restricted to the theatrical profession is receiving consideration, but no decision has been arrived at.

Miss Maude Adams' only guest this summer during the vacation she spent at Milltown, just outside of Dublin, was J. M. Barrie. The little novelist-playwright came over from England to see the little actress, partly to talk about the new play, "What Every Woman Knows," but more especially to show Miss Adams Phoenix park, in Dublin. From frequent walks about it, Barrie knows the history, the legends and the superstitions of the place as intimately as if they were scenes set down in one of his own books.

"The Right of Way" is winning golden opinions in the West. After the amusement follies of the summer, "The Right of Way" is a mental theatrical tonic as bracing as an October morning. The play is virile and full of magnetism. Guy Standing's acting in the role of Charley Steele is strong, polished and effective. Theodore Roberts, in a role directly the opposite to that of Steele, is giving the performance of his career. May Buckley plays her part with convincing charm. "The Right of Way" will play an engagement next month at McVicker's theater, Chicago, which promises to make a record for that playhouse. Klaw & Erlanger have provided an excellent support of Standing and Roberts.

An Australian correspondent writes: "Margaret Angelin's leading man during her present tour is Henry Kolker, who filled the same position with Bertha Kalleh for the last two seasons in America. Mr. Kolker's powerful personality and distinct originality have appealed strongly to Australian audiences and he has been warmly praised by the critics. There is no doubt that he is destined to become a prime favorite here. His engagement is for the term of Miss Anglin's stay in this country. Recently he was approached by a firm of local managers with a proposition to star him through the Antipodes and India as soon as his engagement with us ceases, but I do not think he will accept because when he can leave for America he won't stop running till he lands in New York, where, if I am any judge, a future awaits him."

David Belasco's studio or workshop is a loft situated on the upper west side of Manhatton, a mile or so from his home. The number of people who know its exact location could be embraced by the pumeral aggregated by two thumbs and a single finger. Not a solitary member of the dramatist's family knows its whereabouts. When at work on a new play, the dramatist pitches into the work of invention and refining with utter disregard of hours or system, eating when he feels like it and sleeping only when exhausted. His shop has one floor with a straightway stretch of about a hundred feet. In trying to wriggle his way through a tortuous situation that appealed to him for stage expression, the playwright often has been known to pace his alley for a half a day. Ideas that would be sensational in book form, as he will tell you, are at times impossible of application to the stage. He has often walked a hundred miles of his left with an idea that he wished to apply to stage use to find himself in the end baffled and forced to reconstruct his plans.

Last Sunday Olga Samaroff made her debut in Paris, the city where she received the greater part of her musical education. Up to her time, at any rate, she was the only American woman who had been admitted to the piano classes of the Conservatoire and the only other American woman who had enjoyed the privilege was Macdowell, the composer. Madame Samaroff appeared at the first of the Colonne concerts in the Chatelet and played Liszt's E flat and the Greig concerts. From Paris she goes directly to London, where she is shortly to play again (her third appearance) with the London Symphony orchestra.

The production of Israel Zangwill's new play, "The Melting Pot," in which Walker Whiteside is starring, recalls the original Zangwill play, "The Children of the Ghetto," which was the sensation of the season eight years ago. The company that appeared in that play will long be remembered, principally because of the part it played in the destinies of many players who have risen to greater prominence since that time. Wilton Lackaye, now starring in Cleveland Moffett's play, "The Battle," has the part of Reb Shemuel, in which he scored heavily, and Blanche Bates had that of Hannah, his daughter. Frank Worthing was the original leading man, and when he retired from the cast Robert Edeson, then a virtual nobody, was given his part. The leading charicter roles were filled by William Norris, now starring in "Father and Son;" Richard Carle, now starring in "Mary's Lamb;" Mable Taliaferro, now starring in "Polly of the Circus;" Ada Dwyer, now starring in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" in Australia; Mme. Cottrelly, then, as now, an old favorite; Rosabel Morrison, now starring as Marguerite in "Faust;" and Adolphe Lestina, who last year had Jefferson's original part in Sothern's revival of "Lord Dundreary." Louise Muldoner, who has an important part in "The Melting Pot," was also in "The Children of the Ghetto." Both Zangwill plays were produced by Leibler & Co., and many of the actors in the early play were developed under the direction of this firm. Leibler & Co. also produced Zangwill's "Merely Mary Ann" one of the big successes of Miss Eleanor Robson's career.

Contracts were signed by James K. Hackett and Harrison Grey Fiske last week, whereby Mr. Fiske secures the Hackett theater for his attractions for the rest of the season following Mr. Hackett's present engagement there. The agreement also covers future seasons and provides for an annual engagement of Mr. Hackett, the remainder of the time being divided between David Belasco's attractions and Mr. Fiske's own companies.

"The Devil" is primarily responsible for the important move on the local theatrical chess-board. The overwhelming success of George Arliss in this play at the Belasco theater made it necessary for Mr. Fiske to change his original plans. Mrs. Fiske was to have played her New York season at the Belasco, opening with "Salvation Nell" in November, and Mme. Kalleh was also to appear in that theater later in the season. Mr. Belasco has consented to release Mr. Fiske from these contracts. Thus the way is clear for an indefinite run of "The Devil" at the Belasco theater, while Mr. Fiske and Mr. Belasco secure time for a term of years in an independent theater.

WARFIELD PLAYING "AT HOME"

Had Not Appeared in Frisco for Eight Years---Old Lady Who Sat in the Box and Did Not Applaud.

David Warfield, whose tour David Belasco recently inaugurated in Denver, is now acting in his native city, San Francisco. Both Mr. Warfield and Mr. Belasco are proud to claim the city of the Golden Gate as their birthplace. There they spent their boyhood days, filled alike to both strife and golden dreams.

Only the true San Franciscan can fully appreciate the warmth of the welcome that was accorded David Warfield, the native son, when he made his first appearance as Von Barwig on the stage of the Alcazar theater, after an absence of eight years from the city. The poor, unknown lad who went far into the East twenty years ago, had returned, a great artist, a famous actor. Although all the large cities of the country had paid glowing tribute to his vital art; although the world's critics, and peoples from many lands, have bowed to his artistic genius, it remained for the illustrious player to receive a welcome and a verdict from his own townsmen, for he had never before played Von Barwig, the music master, to his townsfolk. Those who were present on that memorable night in San Francisco, when David Warfield stepped upon the stage in his famous character-creation, will never forget the emotional burst of applause that immediately followed, lasting more than five minutes. The stage picture was forgotten, the actor himself was not seen, nor was his world-wide fame and fine art, thought of; there stood David Warfield, not even David Warfield, the man with hair streaked with gray and shoulders slightly bent and face lightly kissed by time, but "Dave" Warfield, the lovable youth of twenty years ago.

Returning heroes have received their meed of sincere, though trite, appreciation; orators have been applauded for rhetorical flashes and expressed popular sentiments, and politicians have heard the halls ring with long, loudly measured hand-clapping, but few public greetings have equalled in intensity, and real, emotional warmth, the heart-welcome that burst upon David Warfield that night.

There was one lady in the audience who had heard much about "The Music Master," but never seen the play. The actor, the man, she knew better than any one else present—although hundreds of his friends and acquaintances were on hand to bid him welcome. Yet the elderly lady did not applaud, and that night David Warfield broke one of his iron-clad rules of stage deportment and artistic feeling, not to recognize, voluntarily or incoluntarily, any one in the audience. And he broke the rule at the most artistically trying time—on his entrance, when he concentrates most profoundly on "the picture." He turned, like a needle drawn to a magnet, to a box, and for the first time since he has been playing he recognized a face in the audience. He saw the elderly lady who didn't applaud, and he smiled. It was David Warfield's mother.

Mr. Warfield was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the Bohemian club on a Saturday night. One of the prominent clubs of the country, its membership includes men who have gained distinction in art, letters, music, drama and finance. It was a representative gathering of a city well known for its culture and hospitality, that extended a cordial hand of greeting to the distinguished artist who had come back to the home and friends of his boyhood. Called upon to speak, the eminent Belasco star, always modest and retiring, responded in his characteristically gracious manner and good taste. He spoke feelingly of the city of his youth that still showed the gaping wounds from the prodigious blow it had received; he complimented the indomitable spirit and energy of the San Francisco people, and said it was that spirit that made him glad to be called a San Franciscan. At the end he quoted the verses of James Whitcomb Riley's "Grisby's Station." The little poem was most happily selected and read with the inimitable charm that Mr. Warfield always gives to the Riley selections.

A replica of the Aiken bust of Warfield, which will soon be seen in its original bronze casting in David Belasco's Stuyvesant theater, New York, was presented to the club by the sculptor.

BIG PAY FOR SOME DRAMATISTS

Riches That Have Come to Several Makers of Plays ---Sudden Success of Jerome K. Jerome.

England is talking about the success which has come so suddenly to Jerome K. Jerome. Two London plays—both big money makers—have fallen to the lot of the British humorist. Perhaps there is nobody in the playwriting line more worthy to win out after so many years of struggle. It is estimated that his "takings" must be something like $2,000 a week, although failure was freely predicted for his "Passing on the Third Floor Back" and the London critics mostly roasted it.

Jerome was met by a friend in the Strand the other day and asked how it felt to be making all that money. He gave one of his most beaming smiles and said he "could do with it," which is an English way of expressing the idea that too much money would not prove a burden. Jerome is not one of the men, however, to abuse his good luck. Despite his humorous predilections, he takes a very serious view of life knows a lot about social problems and devotes much of his time to studying the condition of the "submerged." In fact, his two last plays, particularly "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," are really studies of "social tendencies."

The fact that Jerome has "struck ile" proves that there are plenty of fortunes still to be made from writing drama despite the recent failure of one or two admittedly good plays. Among the most successful money makers in the play-writing line today are J. M. Barrie and Hall Caine. After one week's production of Barrie's latest play, "What Every Woman Knows," at the Duke of York's theater, the box office had seat orders in hand for $50,000. Out of his earlier play, "The Little Minister," Barrie and his then partner, Cyril Maude, netted the neat sum of $10,000 a week, while "Peter Pan," "Quality Street" and "Admiral Crichton" brought to their author $2,500 each, weekly, for quite a considerable time. Hall Caine has been netting $3,000 a week from his plays for a long time now, while the recent Gilbert & Sullivan opera revival has brought Gilbert nearly $200,000.

Among other London playwrights who have amassed fortunes might be mentioned Arthur Pinero, who cleared $300,000 out of one play alone—"Sweet Lavender." Pinero actually is the highest paid play dramatist in England. He gets $100 for each performance of a play irrespective of a fixed sum paid in advance. By this arrangement he made another $300,000 out of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," and now is adding to his income by the production of his plays in Paris.

It is really remarkable how the element of luck enters into wealth-winning in the matter of play-writing. The best-made plays—like the best-laid plans—do not always pan out. There is no earthly reason why the recent well written "Paid in Full," should not have made a fortune for its author in England, as it doubtless did in America. Here again, the vicissitudes of chance must be borne in mind. In this case, bad luck came in the form of a pretty actress who was not suited to the heroine's part. Even "Charley's Aunt," which earned nearly a million for Penley, was refused several times, and Brandon Thomas, the author, literally hawked it about from manager to manager for a long time. He finally interested a man who put $5,000 into it as a venture and had out of it within a few weeks $185,000.

DIRECTOIRE GOWN IS OUTCLASSED

Duluth girls have gone the Directoire gown one better.

Not content with the slashed skirt, they have come over entirely to male garb, and adopted plain trousers, at least for special occasions. The above picture was taken at a little gathering one evening this week, and shows the girls clad in male garb. The costumes were not intended for street wear, but were donated by a tailor, who has recently opened up an establishment in Duluth, perhaps with the hope that he could work up a thriving trade among the gentler sex when they discovered how attractive they were in male garb.

NEW OF THE WEEK AT THE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL

Great Enthusiasm Manifest Over Game With East Side.

The sophomore class held its first meeting on Wednesday afternoon and elected their officers for this year.

Robert Mars, who was president of the class last year, was offered the office again, but said he was unable to accept it. Palmer Bevis was then nominated and was elected president. The other members elected to office were: Helen Smith, vice president; Mary Whipple, secretary; Asher Taylor, treasurer; Eben Spencer and Alex McLeod, sergeants-at-arm; Stanley Lamb, class editor for the Zenith; Loy LeDuc, mascot; Asher Taylor, captain of the class football team.

During the course of the meeting some of the juniors and freshmen attempted to break up the meeting, but they were handled pretty roughly. The meeting was conducted in a very business-like way.

On Monday morning a special chapel exercise was held, at which the whole school celebrated the victory over the fast Nelson Dewey team on the Saturday before. The usual exercises were participated in and special music was sung by the choir. Miss Frances Burris and Erling Mostue, assisted by the choir, sang and after this Mr. Smith read the honor roll and commented upon it. While the A and B lists were not quite as large as they usually are, still the D list was rather short, which on the whole is very good for the first month. Mr. Smith congratulated the team and spoke about the coming championship game, after which he turned things over to "Root Master" Thorburne. All the high school yells were given and each member of the team and the subs were cheered separately. Mr. Custance and the choir showed their spirit and sang the school songs in a very enthusiastic way.

On Monday afternoon the first debate to be given before the Public Speaking club was held in the assembly hall. The question which was debated is the one used in the State league this year and reads: "Resolved, That the United States Should Annex Cuba." The affirmative was upheld by John Skadberg and Rodger Lerch, while the negative orators were Abraham Soloman and Oliver Grettum. The judges were Mr. Baker, Mr. Townsend and Mr. Rowe, who gave the decision in favor of the affirmative. The affirmative urged the annexation for the protection and the good of Cuba rather than for selfish interests. While awaiting the decision of the judges, Harlowe Watkins was called upon for an extemporaneous speech and gave a very interesting account of the cruise of the fleet round the world. Ralph Johnson, being called upon, spoke about the life of Governor Johnson. Robert Ely gave a criticism on the debate, after which the meeting adjourned.

At the chapel for the seniors on Tuesday the first of the reports on literary subjects in connection with the study of English literature were given. Miss Ruth Davis gave a report on the Renaissance, and Leonard McHugh gave one on Sir Thomas More's "Utopia." Next week the seniors will be entertained by Miss Wells, who will tell about the trip to Europe she made last summer, and will give some stereopticon views to illustrate it. These meetings are of much benefit to the class and they are very much enjoyed.

At the meeting of the Musical society, Mr. Custance announced that Mr. Dworshak, who was to sing before the society, was unable to be present. Mr. Custance then proceeded with the regular rehearsal and accomplished a great deal on the new cantata, "Melusina." All the meetings of the society have been very largely attended and Mr. Custance expects to do good work this year.

Not in many years has so much enthusiasm been shown and such big preparations made for a football game, as last week. Realizing that the game with East side was to be the game of the year, and meant the championship of the state, nothing was left undone in order to insure a victory. Despite the cold, rainy weather the first team practiced hard every day, while the second team showed its spirit by being out every day and giving the first team good, hard work. The rooters were wild with enthusiasm and learned new yells and songs for the occasion. The "bunch" organized to go to the depot and meet the Minneapolis team and give them a warm reception. An auto parade was planned for this morning to advertise the game. On Friday a crowd gathered on the school steps and rooted until they were hoarse. After school Mr. Custance held a meeting in the assembly hall to learn some new songs which he had written especially for the occasion. Everyone was determined to do their utmost to boost the team and win the championship of the state.

At the chapel on Friday morning the choir gave a selection from "Tannhauser." It is an arrangement from the Pilgrims' chorus, entitled "My Soul for Help on Thee Relies." Mr. Smith gave another of the series of talks on educational problems, and this time dwelt on some of the needs of a practical education both for boys and girls.

A short meeting of the Schillerbund was held Friday afternoon in Miss Dengler's room, but no business was transacted. The Schillerbund is a club composed of some of the German pupils and has for its object the gaining of a broader acquaintance with German literature, customs and people. Another meeting will be held soon, at which officers will be elected and a program of the year's work made.

BIG GAME IS ON AT PARK

Minneapolis and Duluth Are Battling for State Championship.

St. Paul Central is Next Team to Play the Locals.

There is but one road in Duluth's sport world today, and that leads straight toward Athletic park, where the Centrals are doing their best to down the fastest team in the state—Minneapolis East side.

The boys paraded the streets this morning in automobiles, as per schedule, and their resounding cheers as the big machines stopped on each corner could have been heard for blocks. There was enthusiasm in plenty. It's the big game of the year.

They are confident of winning, but so is Minneapolis. They are both strong teams. Which one is the stronger is being determined this afternoon. The Duluth boys are trained right up to the minute, and they are ready to put up the game of their lives.

The boys from the Mill City reached the city last night over the Great Northern, and they look it. They were met at the station by a crowd of howling, yelling, enthusiastic high school supporters. They were not stage struck and yelled back with all the noise fifty enthusiastic throats would allow.

Coach Colton and Coach Furni are confident that their team will this year "clean 'em up." Not since high school football became popular with the students of the high school has the school been represented by such a team.

They are big, husky, and have been well trained by a thoroughly competent coach. If they don't win there will be no excuse—it will be because Minneapolis had the better team.

The next game of the season will be between St. Paul Central and the locals.

St. Paul Central always made a life-sized fit with the Centrals, for while their team is usually light, they are always game, never cancel dates, and fight until the whistle blows.

They are said to be exceptionally strong this year, and promise to give the locals a stiff rub. Central is known for the gameness of her teams all over the state, and it is safe to say that the game Saturday will not be a disappointment.

CLASS TEAMS TO GET BUSY SOON

Much Football Rivalry Between the Freshman and Sophomore Teams.

The Freshmen will do it next week.

They will hurl their football challenge at the sophomores in a most unmistakable manner, and as a result the upper classmen look for as pretty a football battle as has been witnessed between class teams in years.

Up to this time the football talk has been confined mostly to the big team, but with the East side battle over, and the zenith of the present season passed, the classes will get busy and settle the football supremacy of the school.

The freshmen point with pride to the fact that they have a number of men on the first team, and there is no room for doubt in the mind of any loyal "freshie" that his team can "wipe 'em up."

The sophomores are a little stiff when approached on the matter, and the best that can be gotten out of them is "Send in your challenge, we'll be ready for you."

The football "bug" has the whole school, and there is a rumor that the juniors and seniors will go back to their freshman-sophomore days and play another game.

FIGHT BETWEEN RIVAL TEAMS

Blaine and Nelson-Dewey of Superior Are Hard at It.

There is a pretty football jangle going on across the bay in which the Duluth students are interested onlookers.

Blaine and Nelson-Dewey are hard at it and the way they are throwing mud at one another, and kicking up a lot of fuss is amusing to the Central students.

It seems that in the general rush of framing up a schedule this year Blaine and Nelson-Dewey forgot one another entirely. Neither had material that would make the students and graduates shout with joy at the beginning, and each was afraid of the other.

Nelson-Dewey has found more material than at first presented itself, and is now making a strong bid for a game with Blaine. Late Blaine management says that they have offered the Dewey aggregation the choice of two dates, and that they have rejected each one. On the other hand Dewey comes back with a counter statement to the effect that both dates are after their season closes; that it would not pay them to keep in training for two weeks just for the Blaine game. The Blaineites say those dates are the best they can do, and it now looks as though the two schools will not meet on the gridiron this season.

It is just possible that the Nelson-Dewey students have a game coming from the Blaine aggregation. For many years, without any football prospects whatever, the East end school has stacked up against the strong school team from uptown, and taken their beatings like little men. For the first time in the history of the school they have a team that will compare favorably with any in the high school class, and they think Blaine should do the square thing this year.

Duluth students' sympathies lie with the Dewey team, and if a mid-week game is arranged, many Duluth students will go across the bay to cheer the plucky little fellows on to victory.

Where are the men who were going to build a hockey rink in Duluth?

It's been some time since they have been heard from, and the Duluth hockey-loving public is getting anxious.

Duluth wants a rink, and it is whispered around, and the whisper is persistent, that it is going to have it before the present season is over.

S. C. Sanders of the Sellwood billiard parlors, one of the men interested in the scheme, has gone to St. Paul to go into the billiard business in that city. Before he went away he said that should the other men who were thinking of erecting the rink decide to build, he would be willing to put a little money into the venture.

A prominent Duluthian who is interested in hockey, and who is well known in sporting circles in this city, said this morning that the rink would have to wait until after election.

A number of hockey men will this week take up the hockey question with the West Duluth curlers, and it is thought that they will not object to having their rink used for this purpose.

Down at Shamokin, Penn., about 100 baseball friends of Harry Covaleski, the Phillies' great left hand pitcher, gave him a banquet a couple of nights ago in honor of his successful advent into the ball field with a first-class team, and his great performance recently in defeating New York three times in one week, and presented him with a gold watch and fob bearing the inscription: Presented by his former teammates and friends.

Covaleski is probably more popular with the Chicago Cubs than any player outside their own team, for it was his prowess against the Giants which really gave the Chicago team a chance at the world's series money and pennant.

Floyd Kroh, the southpaw purchased by the Chicago club from the Johnstown, Penn., club of the Tristate league, knows Covaleski well, as the latter pitched for Lancaster in the same league all year. Kroh says of him:

"That boy is a pitcher; he is over 6 feet tall and weighs about 195 pounds, enough to give him great strength and endurance, and he showed with Lancaster that he had both, for they pitched him every couple of days all season. That is why I figured from the start that he could get into three of the games in that series between the Phillies and the Giants, and I knew if he got started right he would beat McGraw's team sure.

"Covaleski has plenty of speed, all that any pitcher wants, and he has a great curved ball. His fast ball has a jump on it, and his greatest asset all season at Lancaster was his control."

When the fight had narrowed down to the point where one more defeat of the Giants was needed to give the Cubs a show, Kroh, at the instance of his teammates on the Chicago club, telegraphed Covaleski, asking him to pitch the final game against the Giants for the sake of old friendship, and saying the Cubs would make up a good purse for him if successful. Covaleski was announced as the pitcher for the final game before Kroh's message was sent, and the Cubs will stand by their offer, for they appreciate the splendid service he did them.

In those games with the Giants Covaleski had one great advantage, in that, as he is a Pole, and does not speak a great deal of English, the "coaching" of such men as "Muggsy" McGraw makes no impression on his mind. Most of the "talk" "Muggsy" hands out at such times is not of the kind that a man likes to hear, but it was like water off a duck's back when addressed to Covaleski. He didn't understand most of it, and didn't care about the rest.

Covaleski never turned a hair when McGraw attempted to rattle him; instead "Muggsy" went to bed sick with worry when this big southpaw trimmed his club the third time in the same series and practically put it down and out.

Up to date the only man who has succeeded in getting the big Pole's goat is Eddie Ashenback, manager of the Johnstown club. Ashenback is the most picturesque man on the diamond. He is said to be the funniest man that ever got on the coaching line.

One day while his club was being beaten by Covaleski, Ashenback was seen to write something on a piece of paper, in Polish, and hand it to the great southpaw when he came to the bench. Tears sprang into the big fellows eyes and he abruptly quit the game and thereby allowed Johnstown to win.

The players wondered for a long time what Ashenback had written on the paper, but they couldn't get a word out of Covaleski. They finally grew so interested in the matter that two of them took the slip of paper to an educated Pole and asked him to translate it. He broke into a smile and told them that the words were "Back to the mines!"

It seems that Covaleski, not understanding baseball customs, thought that he would have to go back and take up the pick and shovel that he used when he first came to America.

TO WRESTLE JENKINS.

Bulgarian Champion Travels 3,500 Miles for Match With American.

New York, Oct. 24.—Probably the happiest man in New York yesterday was Yussiff Mahomet, the Bulgarian champion wrestler. Yussiff is happy because he at last is to have the opportunity of meeting an American wrestler on the mat.

He came 3,500 miles to get a match, challenging Frank Gotch and Tom Jenkins, but for weeks could get no satisfaction from either.

Gotch side-stepped him altogether and Jenkins apparently was not too anxious to risk his laurels in the proposed match. Finally, Jenkins consented to meet him and the match was arranged Wednesday afternoon at the Metropole.

The men agreed to wrestle catch-as-catch-can style, three out of five falls. They made a side bet of $1,000 and deposited this with George Considine as stakeholder. Several Western clubs are bidding for the bout, and it will take place in either Chicago, Cleveland or Kansas City, within six weeks.

HARD GAME ON CARD FOR SUNDAY

Oliver Team of Hibbing Coming to Mix With Spaldings.

The Spaldings, the fastest semi-professional football team in or around Duluth will have its hands full Sunday with the fast eleven representing the Oliver Iron Mining company of Hibbing.

In the ranks of the Hibbing players are found many old-time college stars, and while their team is beefy, still they claim to be fast, and will undoubtedly give the locals a good rub.

The Spaldings have put in a hard week at practice, and have got in some good scrimmage work against the high school team, which has showed up the weak points in their line.

The team will line up as follows:

Hibbing.	Position	Spaldings.
Barnage	le.	Chalmon
Smith	lt.	Danielson
Tartar	lg.	George Johnson
Schroeder	c.	Gilbert Johnson
Burul	rg.	Quinby

WOLVERINES TO MEET BUCKEYES

Yost Will Send His Best Men Against Ohio State.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Coach Yost of Michigan will send his strongest team against Ohio State university today. This will be the first time this season that the Wolverines had their entire strength in a game, and the showing of the team in this battle will be watched with interest.

The Buckeyes this year are coached by Hernstein, a former Michigan halfback, and reports have it they are a strong aggregation and it will take the best Michigan has to win.

With "Germany" Schulz in the game for the first time this year, and Casey back in his old place at tackle, Michigan will present a formidable line. Yost also has been drilling the squad in the possibilities of the forward pass all week, and this play will be an important factor in the offense.

Michigan must decisively win this game to entertain hope of beating Pennsylvania on Nov. 14. The Quakers are one of the strongest teams in the East this year, and it will take a mighty good eleven to win from them.

HOW THEY BROKE INTO THE GAME

McCoy Was a Tramp and Terry McGovern a "Holy Terror."

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Present day stars received their starting in the ring in more than one peculiar way. Every man on earth has a history, and it is often a most wonderful thing the way affairs will shape themselves to change a man's destiny.

No man would start out with the full intention of becoming a professional boxer. It is always the little, obscure thing that makes him take to the ring and turn what his proud daddy moulded for a minister or doctor or lawyer into a pusher of padded mits.

Kid McCoy was a tramp when he happened to join Tommy Ryan's training camp. McCoy, whose father was a minister, ran away from home, and became a regular knight of the road. His first fight was with another tramp, and the stake was a meal ticket on a hash house.

Then came a chance to join the camp of Middleweight Champion Tommy Ryan, and McCoy took it. He learned fast enough to take the clever Kyun out and hand him a lacing which Tommy never forgot.

Terry McGovern worked on a push cart in Brooklyn. He was a member of on the South Brooklyn gangs of "terrors," and some say that this is the way in which Terry got his name. Anyway, the whole gang was assembled in a lumber yard one day, and Terry became involved in a dispute with a chum named John Malay, who afterwards became a National league ball player, and was in the Eastern league last season.

McGovern weighed about 115 pounds, and Malay about 140. But they decided to fight it out, and after almost two hours of solid battering at each other the referee called the battle a draw.

Terry and Malay afterward became very firm friends, and still live in the same ward in South Brooklyn.

Willie Fitzgerald was a splendid little fellow when he began boxing. He was with his South Brooklyn "gang" and a juvenile promoter ran a prize fight in a basement.

He charged 10 cents admission from the other members of the gang, and split $2 for the purse. The fights were always until one of the contestants yelled "'Nuff!"

This day he had nobody to pit against a lightweight. Willie Fitzgerald appeared. He was a respectable messenger in a plumbing shop.

"How much is der in it?" Willie asked.

"Dollar'n half if you win. Fifty cents if you lose," was the reply.

Fitz took the chance, won the dollar and a half and became a real professional.

Harry Lewis was hostler for several thousand feet of flooring in a machine shop, and drew the princely stipend of $5 a week. Of this, his dad took $4.75 and allowed Harry a quarter a week for spending money.

Harry went down to Bailey's Chester Club one night to see a fight. Bailey was shy a featherweight, and a manager named Lewis was asked to supply one. He looked in vain until he came to a youth named Harry Besterman.

"Come on and fight this fellow?" asked the manager. "There's a five spot in it."

Harry declined. "Me fadder'll lick me if I go in there," was the excuse.

"Your father won't know you fought. Change your name," importuned the manager. "Take my name. Yer Harry Lewis. Now come on and fight.

Harry clambered into a suit and won the fight. He pocketed the $5 and started home. His father met him at the door, but Harry had met some chums before, and spent the entire $5.

"Where ya been?" asked the dad. Harry didn't intend to tell, but he was so proud over his achievement that he could not keep the news to himself.

"I've been up to Bailey's, pop," he said "I'm a prize fighter now. I licked a feller and got $5."

The old man brightened up. When you want to see a man make an imitation of a bright sun just mention money to Harry Lewis' dad. Putting his arm around Harry he said:

"Where's de five?"

"Gee, I spent it, dad," was the answer.

"Out, out, out," wailed the old man. "Come wid me to the woodshed."

And the chilly air of South Philadelphia was pierced with the shrieks of him who but a few hours before had paraded proudly out of the prize ring, a victor in his first battle.

Ad Wolgast, the sensational little Michigan featherweight, who has come so rapidly to the front, broke into the game through working around the training quarters of Harry Lewis in Grand Rapids. Wolgast was a little undersized fellow—he didn't look like a fighter in any sense of the word. But he secured a trial in a preliminary, made good, and is now a formidable contender for the title of Abe Attell.

TO SEE BIG GAME.

Miss Ethel to Represent Roosevelt Family at Navy Game.

Anapolis, Md., Oct. 24.—Although hopes that President Roosevelt would be one of the spectators at today's game between the football teams of the naval academy and Harvard are not to be realized, his family will be represented by Miss Ethel Roosevelt, who is to come from Washington with a party of friends and who will probably seated on the navy side of the gridiron, while Assistant Secretary of the Navy T. H. Newberry, will, it is expected, see the game from the Harvard benches.

Cass Lake vs. Bemidji.

Cass Lake, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cass Lake and Bemidji meet on the local gridiron Sunday afternoon and the fastest contest is expected to result. There is much rivalry between the teams and the biggest crowd of the year will witness the game.

ACTIVITY AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Boys' Department is Crowded With Young Athletes Evenings.

Basketball League to be Formed; Busy Year Expected.

The gymnasium at the Boys' Department, Y. M. C. A., is the busiest place in town.

Every night this popular place is filled with young athletes from every part of town. More than 140 boys are now registered for the five gymnasium classes, and every day more are coming in.

A great deal of interest is being shown in the work, and indoor baseball, and basket ball are the rage. Some of the older boys are still busy with football, but as soon as the season is over they will come regularly to the gymnasium for their exercise, and the different department teams will be formed.

The grade school basketball league will be reorganized again this year, and a good basketball year is expected to result. Much interest is being displayed over indoor baseball, and a league will be formed for the devotees of this sport.

Last week the grade school intermediate class formed their teams and elected their captains. After a few weeks' practice, regularly scheduled games will be held each week.

The teams as they were organized and their captains as selected by the boys themselves, are as follows:

The relay race against time to be run on Thanksgiving morning is all the talk around the association rooms, and cross country runs are being held each week on Tuesday and Friday evenings. The first runs caused many sore muscles and stiff legs, but that has all but worn off by this time and the boys are beginning to enjoy this part of the training, and look eagerly forward to it each week.

The committee on the race will go over the ground next week, decide at just what point the race will start, and mark off the half mile distances.

The new bathroom at the department is going to be a beauty when finally finished. It will be lined six feet up on the walls with marble and there will be installed six new shower baths along with many other improvements.

The swim days at the main building are being enjoyed by the boys, and each Tuesday and Wednesday from forty to sixty boys are in the water.

PENNSY MEETS CARLISLE TODAY

Redskins Will Try to Repeat Last Year's Big Victory.

Philadelphia, Oct. 24.—Excepting the contest with Michigan, the University of Pennsylvania football team will play its most important game on Franklin field today, when it meets the strong Carlisle Indian eleven. The annual contest with the redskins in the past has generally been a hard one for the home team, and the game this year will probably prove the same.

The Indians have administered some crushing defeats to the Pennsylvanians in the last few years, winning the 1907 game by a score of 26 to 6. The Pennsylvania coaches are not making any rash promises as to the outcome of the game, but express themselves as hopeful of victory. The teams are pretty evenly matches and much will depend upon the generalship displayed by the respective captains.

A large delegation accompanied the Indian football squad from Carlisle to this city last night. The redmen are quartered in a hotel in West Philadelphia, near Franklin field. Coach Warner says his men are in fine condition and eager for the fray.

The Pennsylvania team, with the exception of Capt. Hollenbeck and Quarterback Keinath, is reported to be in excellent condition for a hard game. The entire squad has been spending the last two nights at a hotel among the pines near Winslow Junction. N. J. Secret signal practice has been indulged in, and while the coaches have it out that straight football only will be played, the practicing of mystifying and complex formations and passes indicates that Pennsylvania will have a few surprises in store for their opponents.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Dick Grant Selected as Track Coach for Coming Year.

Bob Muir and Zenas Potter Won Double Tennis Championship.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dick Grant, Harvard ex-'97, is Minnesota's track coach for 1908-09. There has been a long felt need for a fall track coach who could lead the work generally. Dr. Williams has always been busy in the fall and has had no time to devote to preliminary track work. Mr. Grant is just the man for this place. He is one of the greatest long distance runners Amercia has ever produced and held the Canadian five-mile record from 1900 until it was broken by Tom Longboat, the Indian runner. At present he holds the following records: Harvard, three-quarters mile in 3 minutes, 33 seconds; Harvard-Yale, one mile in 4 minutes, 26 1-5 seconds; three-mile New England run in 15 minutes, 17 seconds. His time for two miles is 9 minutes, 46 seconds. Short runs are taken every day from the armory led by Coach Grant and enthusiasm is rampant over Minnesota's track possibilities.

A considerable change in attitude has taken place on the part of Wisconsin and Chicago since Minnesota's game with Nebraska, and the Badger and Maroon adherents are now conceding the Gophers an almost even chance at the Western championship. The wonderful strength of the Maroon and Gold line has been accountable for this change of opinion. Chicago has a weak line and this is causing Coach Stagg considerable anxiety.

The slow but sure improvement which Dr. Williams has always managed to develop at critical stages of the season has been much in evidence this year. The game with Nebraska did not result in any injuries, and the two weeks of practice before the Chicago game will put the team into fine shape to meet Chicago.

In what was probably the hardest fought tennis match ever played on the university courts, Bob Muir and Zenas Potter defeated John Adams and Mac Washburn for the doubles championship of the university. The score alone tells the tale. Though the winners took three straight sets, everyone went to deuce. After Washburn and Adams had taken the lead in the first set 5-3 and again 7-6, Muir and Potter pulled out and took the set 9-7. The second set went to the latter team 7-5. The last set saw Adams and Washburn strong and still fighting. First one team and then the other would take the lead, and time and again one point would have taken the set. Potter and Muir finally pulled it out 11-9, thereby winning the match and the university championship.

Catherine Sinclair defeated Lorena Rippe in the girls' tennis finals Tuesday afternoon by a score of 6-0 and 7-5. Miss Sinclair was awarded the sweater and loving cup. The cup has to be won two successive years before it becomes a permanent possession. Lorena Rippe was awarded a racket. After the tournament a tea was given to the contestants by the Girls' Tennis club.

Special rates to Chicago for the Maroon-Gopher football game next week have been secured from the Chicago-Great Western railroad through the efforts of the Rooters club. The railroad company has offered to cut the regular fare in two and charge only $8 for the round trip. Not only this, but they will run a special train to Chicago, which will leave Minneapolis at 7:30 p. m., next week Friday. This train will reach Chicago Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. The return limit for this rate will be Sunday evening. The Rooters club and probably the band will go on this train and many other students who are planning parties and engaging accommodations.

The Junior Ball association organized Thursday afternoon and elected Ralph Longstaff as president. The other officers are Harry Jacobson, vice president; Dalton Andrews, secretary; Will McGinnis, treasurer. It was decided that the seniors laws should not be eligible to join the association.

Senior engineers held a meeting last Friday and elected the following officers: President, F. A. Hubbard; vice president, Ben Walling; secretary, Fred Buck; treasurer, W. J. Beckford. The remarkable thing about the election was that all candidates were unanimously elected.

The senior girls' club, Cap and Gown, held its first meeting and elected officers Tuesday. The election resulted as follows: President, Helen Riheldaffer; vice president, Helen Mooney; secretary and treasurer, Irma Brink. Some difficulty was experienced last year in paying for he spreads, and a motion was carried which established 25 cents dues for each member.

The swimming pool and running track contracts have been approved by the executive committee of the board of regents, and work will be commenced on both as soon as the president of the athletic board of control signs the papers. The board decided not to repair the old Anatomy building, but to erect a new structure in its place. A sufficient sum was appropriated for Dr. Erdman to cover his loss in the fire.

CONTEST NEARS END.

Golf Championship Lies Between Mrs. Polhemus and Miss Harley.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The womans' national golf championship now lies between the representatives of New York city and Fall River, Mass. This was determined as the result of yesterday's tournament over the Chevy Chase golf links, when Mrs. T. H. Polhemus of the Richmond Ho club was victorious over Miss Marion Oliver of the Chevy Chase club by a score of 4 up and 2 to play, and Mrs. Caleb F. Fox of the Huntington Valley club, Philadelphia, was defeated by Miss Katherine C. Harley of the Fall River, Mass., Golf club, by one up. Yesterday's tourney was the first match of the semi-final round. The closely contested games were witnessed by the largest gallery since the opening of the event.

ALL NEW YORK CRAZY OVER RACE

More Than 200,000 People Will See Big Vanderbilt Contest.

New York, Oct. 24.—For all practical purposes, the universe means, to some 200,000 enthusiasts, nothing more than a few square miles of county excompassed within the Long Island country roads and the new Motor Pathway over which today's Vanderbilt cup race is to be run.

The impression that the race began at dawn is far from correct. The real start was made last night, in Manhattan, where, at as early as 10 o'clock the procession formed in Herald Square and thousands turned their faces toward the ferry.

Along the Great White Way, it was a night of revelry; there was to be no sleep. Every hotel had been filled to overflowing. Of the drivers only four—Chevrolet, Lutigen, Lyttle and Keene—have ever steered a car in a Vanderbilt. It will be a contest of new drivers.

Before lights went out at the theaters last night, and in spite of lowering skies that threatened rain, the streets and avenues leading to the Long Island ferry were alive with the drone, hum and rattle of glistening automobiles pouring in from every direction. Never before in the history of the sport have as many automobiles invaded peaceful Long Island as crossed over last night.

Once safely across, the race for positions of vantage along the course began. Through Long Island City, Winfield, Elmhurst, Jamaica, Hyde Park and Hempstead, the caravan thundered on.

The amateur soldiers of the Irish volunteers regiment had already taken up their stations around the course, when the first cars arrived, and the first trains unloaded their eager, struggling human freight.

Enterprising farmers with frontage on the course raised insistent cries of "Parking space; best location on the course; get your parking space."

Rudimentary grand stands yawned from the roadside, as yet unfilled. Everywhere with strident voice, were hucksters offering sandwiches and coffee at unmentionable prices.

Away in camps at Amityville, Westbury, Jericho and Hicksville, the drivers and their mechanicians prepared for the struggle.

In the Matheson camp Joe Tracy, once famous as a driver himself, rehearsed with Ryall and Clevrolet the system of private signals.

In the Thomas camp Salzman, unable to start the grand prix races owing to the excessive weight, had stripped an ordinary touring car and proposed to enter it. In the repair stations the tire people were early astir preparng for the work of refitting cars.

The hour of the start was 6:30, and 258.08 miles are to be covered in eleven 258.08 miles are to be covered in eleven

STAGG'S PLAYS AGAINST GOPHERS

Sig Harris' Second Team Uses Chicago Plays in Practice.

Minneapolis, Oct. 24.—Dr. Williams and his band of Gopher players were given a touch of real Chicago football Thursday afternoon, when Sig Harris lined his second team up against them. Sig's Maroons had mastered everything possible along the Chicago lines, and long forward passes played a big part in the battle, as far as CChicago was concerned. The Chicago players were in the game to show the Gophers up, but the Minnesota coach put up a hard battle with his proteges, and as a result the Maroon aggregation left the field at the end of practice a little downhearted.

One solid hour of scrimmage work was put on Thursday afternoon, and when the teams left the field every man was about ready to drop. Sig Harris has gotten together a great second team, and several of his stars showed up to advantage against the Gopher regulars Thursday. Eli Chesnut, the debarred Gopher end, is playing at the left end of the line on the second team, and he is getting away with some brilliant work. Schain at center is another star and a man who will undoubtedly make good before leavnig school. Jimmy De Veau at quarter on the second team is one of the most reckless tacklers out in uniform, and this, added to his great work in running the team and handling the ball, makes him a valuable man. Powers, Lees, Pickering and Morton are a few of the other stars playing against the Gophers.

Dr. Williams' new charging machine arrived on the field yesterday afternoon, and a half hour of hard charging work was gone through. The machine is a great help to the players, and will undoubtedly prove a good muscle-developer. First one side of the line and then the other was given a workout with the device, and finally the backfield was put to work charging.

With the round-trip rate to Chicago for the big game slaughtered down to $8, every one around the university is talking of going, and from the present outlook the entire student body will make the trip. Minnesota should be well represented, and with a big following of maroon-and-gold rooters, the Gophers should win. The Minnesota rooters, always work at their best when away from home, and this season will give them an opportunity to show their true werth to the team.

Northrop field is closed up tighter than a drum and nothing of the progress of the team is given to the outsiders. Dr. Williams proposes to keep on with the secret practice throughout the season, and the present plans are to work the Gopher players in hard scrimmage until Wednesday evening. The team will leave for Chicago on Thursday evening over the St. Louis road and will put up at the Chicago Beach hotel, which is but a short distance from Marshall field.

PRINCETON VS. SYRACUSE.

Captain Dillon of the Tigers May Not Play.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 24.—On the eve of what is expected here to prove Princeton's hardest fought battle on the gridiron, excepting that with Yale, Head Coach Roper of Princeton announced that Capt. Dillon would not be played in the contest with Syracuse on University field today. This is not regarded as final, however, for the veteran quarterback is in good condition and Princeton is greatly in need of his services. The intention of the trainers is to save him for the later games with Dartmouth in New York and Yale at Princeton.

BLAINE PLAYING WITH CHIPPEWA

Superior Team in Pink of Condition for First Big Game.

Blaine high school of Superior is playing the first stiff game of the year this afternoon at the Superior Driving park.

The team from across the bay has improved greatly since its game with Hayward, it is said, and they expect to win easily. Last year these same Chippewa braves took the superior boys into camp, and this year Blaine is determined to get even.

Duluth students are pulling for Superior, for the latter they show up against the strong Wisconsin teams, the better claim Duluth will have on the championship.

The Blaine team has been putting in some hard licks this past week.

Nelson Dewey is playing at Ashland, and although the Deweyites are not in the best shape after their hard battle with Duluth last Saturday, they expect to win.

BIDDLE NOT ONLY SOCIETY FIGHTER

William Waldorf Astor Did the Same Stunt Years Ago.

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, the Philadelphia clubman, poet, author, athlete and blue-blood, whose second fistic encounter with "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien ended in a draw, is not yet satisfied. He aspires to a decision over the former champion, and to that end, it is said, will seek still a third battle in the ring, says the World.

For his pluck and persistence in pugilistic adventures the Philadelphian must receive what credit is due him. But he cannot be permitted quite to pose as a pioneer in the art of combining in practice the social and the many arts. The pace in this direction was set in New York before anybody had thought to count the Four Hundred. And it was none other than William Waldorf Astor, now a distinguished expatriate, who established a precedent for Mr. Biddle.

The occasion was the first and in some respects the most notable entertainment ever given by Mr. Astor in New York so to speak, a combined athletic and social debut.

The affair took place back in the early '70's. It may be regarded almost as the parent of the society circus. There are survivors of the occasion, some who were performers and some who only looked on, who take pleasure in recalling it.

And the star figure on the program was Mr. Astor himself, in full boxing rig, doing several rounds and a wind-up with Jimmie O'Neill.

That was, indeed, an evening of novelties. It was a new thing, in the first place, for ladies to be invited to such an event. There they were, however, the belles of that early society, sitting in the circle of raised seats in the old Wood's gymnasium, cheering everything from Tom Newbold's daring act on the flying trapeze to the bloody "scrap"—Queensbury rules—between two "unknown" boxers, backed respectively by Frank Martin and the host of the evening.

Mr. Astor was eminently fit for the "go" with O'Neill, which was the last event on the program, as well as the most intimately interesting. He had been training faithfully with the adept Jimmie for months. Under the beneficient influences of the strenuous life with gloves he had developed a depth of chest and quality of muscle in keeping with six feet and two inches of height. Also he had learned to take full advantage of his long reach.

Jimmie O'Neill, for his part, was a patient and enduring man. He had let his multi-millionaire pupil "put it all over him" many a time in practice. And when the star occasion came, with young sweldom gathered at the ringside, he "seen his duty and done it" like the ready fellow he ever proved himself. Those remembering the Astor-O'Neill bout agree to this day that for its strictly scientific succession of counter, cross-counter, side-step, and upper cut, it probably has never been surpassed.

Previously to his appearance in the gymnasium ring William Waldorf Astor had not been a social light in New York. He had studied hard at Columbia and later in Germany. He had done something in philosophy and something in sculpturing. Yet, his highly trained intellect had not prevented his due enjoyment of membership in the Old Beefsteak club, where he feted and feasted with Hermann Oelrichs, the Van Buren boys, Charley Hone Johnny Russell and a galaxy of congenial spirits.

Mr. Astor was 60 years old on the 31st day of last March. It is likely, since he is a man of retentive memory, that he can bring readily to mind that old night of strenuous excitement at Wood's. Possibly if he had learned to understand the American temperament and American politics quite as well as he knew the boxing game, he would not now be under the penalty of recalling old lights and old joys from the mental viewpoint of the voluntary exile.

LONGFELLOW FOOTBALL TEAM HAS MADE GOOD RECORD THIS YEAR

LONGFELLOW ALUMNI FOOTBALL TEAM.

The Longfellow Alumni football team is wholly a West Duluth affair. The team is made up of boys who have grown up together, and played football for a number of years side by side. The same players represented the Longfellow grade school when they were schoolboys, and they have stuck together ever since.

This is the fourth year of the team, and every year they have made a record on the gridiron that they may well be proud of. It's true that they haven't won all their games, but they get the sport and exercise out of the game, and that's what they are looking for. In the summer they play baseball, in the fall football, and in the winter indoor gymnasium sports and hockey.

So far this year they have defeated Proctor in two well played games, put the Fairmount team away in easy fashion, and lost one game to the Irving Tigers.

Sunday afternoon this team meets the Adams team on the Fifty-second avenue grounds. Both the teams are in good shape, and a pretty contest should result.

The teams will line up as follows:

Adams.	Position.	Longfellow.
Whittle	le	Bourrow
Cade	lt	Falk
Peterson	lg	Johnson
Dibbel	c	Mattson
Wagner	rg	Galaman
Olson	rt	Olin
Crozier	re	Lowe
Grenner	qb	Brotherton
Anderson	lh	Bleckel
Nelson	fb	Mackey
Rankin	rh	Gunnarson

BALL MEETING IS CALLED

Kuehnow Wants to Know Just What Fans Want Done.

Tonight in the offices of A. W. Kuehnow, baseball fans will be asked just what they want, how they want it, and if they are serious in regard to the proposed new six club ball league to include St. Paul and Minneapolis next year.

Something must be done soon. The idea of entering the league with Winnipeg and Brandon has been given up long ago; the ranges refuse to play league ball; independent ball doesn't seem to please a majority of the fans and to learn just what they do want is the object of the meeting called for tonight by Mr. Kuehnow.

Leagues of every description from Duluth, Superior and the Copper country, to the proposed six club circuit have been thoroughly thrashed out in the local papers at regular intervals until now the baseball loving public will accept almost any kind of a story with considerable doubt.

Something definite must be decided on, and at once, or Duluth will experience another such a baseball year as the last. There is plenty of interest in the national game in the city. Every one seems to want first class ball, and all those who want to have a say in the affairs of next year no matter which way the tide turns, are invited to be present at the meeting this evening.

All the other towns are enthusiastically in favor of the new league and the papers from the various towns have been boosting the idea. All that is lacking is the united support of the fans and the new circuit will be a sure go.

A manager for the next year will be elected, and representatives chosen to attend the meeting of the national commission in Chicago early next month.

HOW THEY DO IT OVER IN ENGLAND

An American Tells Something of English Athletic Methods.

How the athletic system of the English universities appears to the American college athlete is interestingly told by Ralph H. Bevan, a Brown university graduate, class of '04, and Rhodes scholar, Oxford, '07, in a lengthy article published in the October number of the Brown Alumni Monthly. The following is taken from this article:

Every Englishman, every afternoon, practically without exception, is in some outdoor sport from 2 to 4 o'clock, and is thus assured every possible chance of developing a healthy, sound and rugged constitution.

At first sight the problem of furnishing 3,000 men each with the opportunity for participation in athletics is by no means a self-evident proposition. At Oxford the difficulty is solved, first, by the division of the university into colleges; secondly, by the encouragement of many games; and thirdly, by the encouragement of frequent events in each of these games.

The fact that Oxford comprises upward of twenty colleges brings the average membership in each college down to about 150, and obviously improves the chances of the individual to many times what they would prima facie be. Then the English sports are legion. "Rugger," corresponding to our rugby, but a more open game; "soccer," a perfected form of association football, and hockey, played on the grass instead of on the ice, are all in full swing through the fall and winter. Spring brings cricket and tennis, Lacrosse, handball, the latter in England known as "fives," also "rackets," are among other of the many minor and later in Germany. He had done something in philosophy and something in sculpturing. Yet, his highly trained intellect had not prevented his due enjoyment of membership in the Old Beefsteak club, where he feted and feasted with Hermann Oelrichs, the Van Buren boys, Charley Hone Johnny Russell and a galaxy of congenial spirits.

Except in the case of rowing it can be said that the Englishman is in athletics purely for the fun of the thing. This is powerfully reinforced by a strong undergraduate sentiment. An English student would as soon think of going without his food or sleep as without his regular exercise. He who has the temerity to remain indoors at cricket on the afternoon soon feels the consequences of a general unpopularity.

Outside of long-distance work our best university athletes compare favorably with the English, but an American cannot help regretting the deficiencies of a system which leaves the average American youth inferior in enjoyment of health, ruggedness of constitution and reserve force.

A significant index to the spirit of English athletics, and to their effectiveness in bringing about a general prime condition among the students, is the fact that, with a sole exception in the case of rowing, an Oxford man does not train for his athletic contests. If the Englishmen are careless about training, however, it is not from want of "keenness."

On the other hand, they are unflagging in their devotion to practice. This is especially noticeable in the case of rowing. Although the sport itself is intrinsically monotonous, the coaching is unremittingly pursued every day in the year, utterly regardless of weather conditions.

Along this line, the recollection of a personal experience still remains peculiarly distinct. On one occasion the Isis froze over above Iffley. Nothing daunted, every member of the Worcester college crew walked four miles down to Sanford and back, that is, eight miles together, for the sake of having on the clear space at that portion of the stream twenty minutes of rowing practice.

An interesting feature of English athletics is the quietness of the ideal discipline which reigns in the matter of rowing practice. Dignified and reserved, the coach makes his criticisms in modulated tones and deliberate, carefully phrased, effective sentences. An emphatic manner or strong phrase is rare. He is perfectly self-possessed and absolute in his assumption of complete supremacy. It is surprising to note how far this confidence is justified and how eager is the effort of the crew to respect and profit by his slightest suggestion.

PRESIDENT IS A GOOD GAME SHOT

Veteran Hunter Says Teddy is Hampered by His Glasses.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 24.—John Willis a veteran stockman of Montana, who accompanied President Roosevelt on most of his big game hunting trips in the Dakotas, Montana, North Central Washington and British Columbia, between 1884 and 1889, now visiting relatives in Spokane, says the president is a game sportsman, persistent and tireless in pursuit and cool and calculating in encounter.

"While more or less hampered by his glasses," the former guide added, "the president is a good shot at game, though he is not good at target shooting. He never gets rattled, no matter what the provocation, and he is a good traveler in a wild country and can go with the best of them after he has been out a few days. In camp and on the chase he bears hardships cheerfully, even joyfully, taking what comes with a good-natured philosophy and doing his full share of the drudgery of open life with true sporting spirit.

"We became acquainted when the president was living on a ranch near Medora, N. D., in 1884. I had been hunting goats, sheep and other big game for many years, taking them chiefly for their heads. I had killed a magnificent white goat, the head of which I had sold at Manden, N. D. The president saw it on exhibition there. He asked and learned who had killed it, and wrote me a letter, in which he asked me whether I thought he could kill one like it. I experienced no little difficulty in reading the letter, and replied that unless he could shoot better than he wrote I believed the chances were not much in his favor.

"His reply was a telegram, in which he asked me to consider myself engaged as guide for a hunting trip to begin in August. I took him into the Bull river country, where he killed a number of mountain goats, and might have killed many more but for the fact that he would shoot only the finest specimens. He killed one on our second day out.

"Later I hunted with him again in the Big Hole basin in Montana and other parts of that state and in 1888 or 1889 we made a trip into British Columbia, where we visited the Kooenai country.

BURLESQUE AT Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

Plans Are Well Under Way for the Big Circus.

Plans for the big athletic entertainment to be pulled off under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. are going steadily on, and from present indications it will be the biggest thing ever undertaken by the association.

Athletic Director A. J. Frey has the arrangements in hand, and he says that on every side he is receiving all kinds of encouragement and help. The affair, as most people now know, is to take place in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, on the evenings of Nov. 4 and 5.

The "rube" band will be a feature, and nearly every prominent musician in town has volunteered to help out. There will be at least forty pieces, and some of the music to be used is being practiced now. This is going to be a big part of the show, and the boys are working hard to make it a success.

A local man who has been trying to do the slide for life by hanging to a pulley by his hair has succeeded, and will be one of the bright and shining stars on the program.

George Proff and a number of local balancers, wrestlers, tightwire walkers and parallel bar wonders, have promised to lend their services to the association. Theer will be clowns in regular circus attire, riding ladies, ring masters, trained elephants, grizzly bears and, in fact, the circus will be as complete as the burlesquers can make it.

There will be pop, peanuts and circus lemonade sold in the audience by well known men.

HOW TO MAKE ATHLETICS PAY

Columbia Students Find It Cannot be Done Without Football.

New York, Oct. 24.—The present state of affairs, which threaten the future of rowing at Columbia, is indicative of the financial condition not only of the crew, but also of practically every other sport in the university. Since the abolition of football at Columbia in 1905, the managers of the crew have found it exceedingly difficult to meet the ordinary expenses of keeping things moving.

From the nature of the sport no gate receipts can be obtained at a crew race, but the football association always turned over a goodly portion of its surplus to the crew and kept it on a firm financial basis. Now, however, with no football the brunt of the expenses of the crew falls on the shoulders of the undergraduate and alumni.

The basketball and dramatic associations in the last two years subscribed liberally, but their subscriptions were trifling when compared with the total funds that had to be raised. The share of the dramatic society during the season just closed amounted to about $900, while the basketball team contributed about $300.

The track is the only major sport left and the track association has been having a hard tussle to make both ends meet, so that nothing could be spared of the gate receipts from any of the meets. Hockey, lacrosse, fencing and soccer, although they never have suffered absolute poverty, never have been burdened with an extra large surplus.

In normal years all these teams have been able to get along fairly well on the crumbs that have fallen from the crew table and they were even fairly well off when football was supreme. With the crew the amount of money—something in the neighborhood of $12,500 a year—that is required to pay a coach, rents and traveling expenses and to allow for the general wear and tear of the boats and apparatus is no inconsiderable sum, especially when there are no very definite ways of obtaining it.

There has been but one scheme put forth to afford permanent relief to indigent athletic associations at Columbia which is in every respect practical and sure of success. This is the organization of a sort of general athletic association managed co-operatively by the students and faculty. It would compel membership on the part of every student in the university and there would be one general assessment for dues, payable at the beginning of the college year as part of the regular academic fee. There is at present a compulsory fee for gymnasium privileges of $7, and it has been proposed to increase this to $10 or more. Part of the fee would be devoted to maintaining the gymnasium and the rest would be turned over to the athletic association to be paid out in proportionate shares to the various teams that were members of the association.

Nothing definite has been decided in regard to this, but there seems to be a well-founded belief that the plan ultimately will be adopted as the only remedy for a bad condition.

CORBETT TELLS OF RING AFFAIRS

Jeffries Might Engage in One More Big Fight.

(By James J. Corbett.)

Jeffries' demand of $5,000 for refereeing the Johnson-Burns go set the tongues of the pugilistic game wagging, and if he never goes to the antipodes, the asking him to go and his high priced answer served to bring the contest before the public in a forcible manner again.

Jeffries, as the third man in the ring, would be almost as big a drawing card as either of the fighters, and what a rude awakening it would be to the Australians to get a look at the giant who retired because he couldn't find any one who could give him an argument in the ring.

When Burns lines up with the ebony hued giant he will look like a pigmy. Johnson has it on Tommy to the extent of about a foot in height and thirty-five pounds in weight. But Johnson with all his size would look like a man whose growth had been stunted if he appeared in a squared circle with Jeffries.

And if Jeffries goes to the antipodes he may stay there long enough to show the fight promoters that he still has one or two fights left in him. In fact, the Australian capitalists who have put up the enormous guarantee for the Johnson-Burns bout, and then cabled Jeff the offer to boss the job, have a method in their madness. They realize that the winner of the battle and Jeffries would make the greatest card in the pugilistic world.

I believe if Johnson won there would be no amount of money that would induce Jeff to climb into the ring with the black man. The big fellow has some pretty set ideas about the colored race, and unless he becomes influenced by the Australian customs, where a colored man is more respected than in America, he never will meet him. And if Jeff did, it would be all day with Johnson, for no matter how the fight results with Burns, Jeffries could whip the colored man almost as he liked.

In traveling about the country I have learned that Tommy Burns is not taken seriously as heavyweight champion, and I can't understand why. Tommy has done more to earn the title than half the big men that ever reached the top. He whipped the champions of England, Ireland, Europe, Australia and the would-be champions of America. He has sidestepped no white man and is one of the gamest, toughest mutts that ever donned a padded mitt. Tommy never has taken the full count in a battle, and has served a sleep punch to a large and varied assortment of pugilists.

If Jeff finally is induced to go to the antipodes, and Burns wins, and there is any chance to get Tommy and Big Jim together I cannot for the life of me see why some American promoter cannot outbid the Australians. In America Jeff and Burns would draw a great house, providing, of course, that Tommy puts the kibosh on Johnson.

CLARK WILL STAY ONE MORE YEAR

Pittsburg Manager Decides to Remain in the Smoky City.

Pittsburg, Oct. 24.—President Dreyfuss of the Pirates is already making plans for his team next season.

This city, like all others, was baseball crazy throughout the past season, and although the two pennants and the world's series have been decided, baseball is still being talked.

When the team disbanded after the game with the Cubs, Manager Clarke stated that he would be back in the spring.

Last year Clarke intended quitting the game. The announcement put the owners up in the air and they did not know how to go about things in the spring.

Then came Wagner's refusal to join the team. That alone is what lost the pennant. It took a lot of coaxing on the part of his friends to bring him back into the fold. Tommy Leach also kicked over the traces, and for a long time it was doubtful if he would return.

However, all those little incidents will be missing in the spring of 1909. Clarke will again have charge of the team and Wagner and Leach will be on deck, ready for the spring training trip. All in all, Pittsburgers are confident the team will wind up on top.

At Grand Rapids.

The Fairmount football team is playing at Grand Rapids today. Although meeting an older and heavier team, the West end eleven expects to bring back the bulk of the score.

TWO WANTED FOR MURDER

Alleged Wyoming Criminals Captured in Mower County.

Said to Have Killed for Money to Take in Dance.

Austin, Minn., Oct. 24.—Ikie Makie, alias Charles Johnson, and his brother, Charles Makie, alias John Hill, wanted in Diamondville, Wy., for killing Emile Kotali Sept. 30 last, were captured in Mayville, this Mower county, Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Carmichael of Austin.

The sheriff of Uinto county, Wyoming, arrived Thursday and took his prisoners back to the Western state to stand trial. The men are between 20 and 25 years of age and rough looking. They did not refrain from constant conversation while in jail and made no resistance when arrested. They did not want to wait for the official to get requisition papers, but stated that they were ready to start at once.

Carmichael accompanied the Wyoming sheriff as far as Omaha and may go way to the end of the journey, should he be needed. The crime was committed for money, the amount being a sufficient sum to attend a dance, and upon being refused they resorted to brutality and murder. The men have been traced until finally captured. They wore the same clothing as when they left Wyoming and their general appearance was very little changed. Their conduct was coarse and rough as if they owned the world and were afraid of nothing.

POWER COMPANY FILES ARTICLES

Corporation to Make International Falls Big Power Center.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota & Ontario Power company organized under the laws of the state of Maine with a capital of $7,000,000, for the purpose of developing the water power at International Falls and Fort Frances, Ont., which has purchased from the Backus Bros. Company of Minneapolis the water power site, etc., on the Rainy river, has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state.

The first board of directors are Edward W. Backus, William F. Brooks, Warren Curtis, John A. Davis, A. S. Peabody, Alexander Smith and Warren Curtis, Jr.

The officers of the new corporation are: E. W. Backus, president; Alexander W. Smith, vice president; John A. Davis, second vice president; William F. Brooks, secretary and treasurer, and Warren Curtis, Jr., manager.

The initial development work of the new company will be the completion of the immense dam and the hydro-electric power stations, producing a minimum of 20,000 continuous horsepower. Simultaneously they will proceed with the construction of the first unit of installation of a ground wood, sulphite and news print paper mill plant, having a daily capacity of 200 tons of news print paper and fifty tons of surplus sulphite.

As soon as the first unit is completed and in operation, the company will double the capacity of the ground wood sulphite and paper mill, thereby making the daily production 400 tons of paper and 100 tons of surplus sulphite.

This will mean that International Falls and Fort Frances will soon become one of the largest, if not the largest, paper producing points in the world.

The new company will also generate and make available for general manufacturing purposes electrical energy and power in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of all commercial users in that vicinity.

AKRE WAS RUNNING WILD.

North Dakotan Does Stunt Near East Grand Forks.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Akre was taken into custody early Friday morning on the farm of Andrew Peterson, three miles northeast of this city, on the charge of insanity.

Akre, who hails from Park River, N. D., was running about the prairie hatless and barefooted. Word was sent to East Grand Forks and Chief Ellingson hurried to the Peterson farm, where it was feared that he might do considerable damage if left to run wild. Some little difficulty was experienced in bringing the man back to the city, but he was strapped in and upon his arrival here was placed in the city jail.

POTTS CAUGHT MANY.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 24.—Frederick W. Potts, who was convicted in the federal court here this week of using the mails in a scheme to defraud the public by advertising promiscuously for agents to take road positions at fine salaries, then sending them out, promising to pay their expenses, which he never did, the "business" panning out worthless, was general denominated as a "smooth" one after whom Uncle Sam has been looking for some time. He is said to have found willing victims in the northern part of the state.

There are other swindling concerns of a like nature that Uncle Sam is going after. There are two so-called "railway associations," claiming to teach young hopefuls how to become brakemen, firemen, and other useful railroad "employes" without serving the usual apprenticeship. These fake outfits claim to fit men for such work in tree weeks. It is such a palpable swindle that the postal authorities are hot after the persons behind them.

MINNESOTA

FARMERS MEET AT MOOSE LAKE

Institute to be Held in Nearby Town Early Next Month.

Moose Lake, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Final arrangements have been completed for holding a farmers' institute in Moose Lake, Friday, Nov. 6, in the McCabe hall. This is a matter of vital importance to every farmer in Southern Carlton and Northern Pine county and should have a large attendance. A meeting of the Commercial club will be called to make arrangements to see that the meeting is properly advertised and perhaps arrange for meals to be served.

The institute will be in charge of Supt. A. J. McGuire of the experiment station at Grand Rapids, who will be assisted by F. B. McLeran of Wrenshall, Minn., and C. E. Brown of Elk River, Minn. These men are doing actual work on farms in Northern Minnesota and have been very successful in the different lines of farming they will speak on.

Mr. McGuire has made a special study of dairying, pork production and general farming, with special reference to the conditions of Northern Minnesota.

Mr. McLeran has cleared a large farm at Carlton county and can be a great help to our farmers, who have that kind of work to do. He will also give his experience in the growing of small fruit, vegetables and poultry.

Mr. Brown has been very successful in the growing of potatoes and clover and has worked out a system of crop rotattion that is giving him wonderful results in keeping up the fertility of his land and in producing these and other crops.

The new Institute Annaul, No. 21, will be distributed free at this meeting. This book contains over 350 pages of the best farm reading.

A meeting will also be held in the Trading Company's hall in Barnum on Thursday, Nov. 5. Free lunch will be served at noon and everything will be done to make this meeting a successful one.

MOORHEAD SUSPECT IS SENT TO FARGO.

Moorhead, Minn. Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Herman Schultz, who was being held for a burglary at Felton, has been turned over to government officials and taken to Fargo.

Schultz strenuously objected to being turned over to the government, and used every means in his power to secure an arraignment here. If arraigned he would have entered a plea of guilty, and taken a short sentence. It looks as if he knew that he was going up against a conviction for post office robbery in North Dakota.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Out of a flock of forty blooded stock, there are now only eight, twenty-five having been taken their first visit, and the remainder Wednesday night. Hallock—John Swenson, who has a farm in Kittson county, near Hallock, this year raised 1,800 bushels of No. 1 hard wheat on fifty-five acres of land, which had been seeded to grass the previous three years. The land was in splendid shape, and the crop shows that it pays to keep it so.

Pine City—Monday afternoon word was sent over from the east side of Cross Lake for men to go and help fight the fire that was raging east of Herman Zastrow's and C. F. Poole's residences. Four or five responded and by 6 o'clock had back-fired so that all danger was passed. The rain on Tuesday quenched the fire.

Beaver Bay—The youngest son of Mr. McNeil was accidently shot through the ankle by his brother, Lennon, Monday last. Dr. Goldsworthy was immediately sent for to remove the bullet and dress the wound.

ANIMALS CRAZED BY FOREST FIRE

Driven Into Clearings; Three Bears Are Reported Cremated.

Chippewa Falls, Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Catara, a watchman at the Fontain Campbell Lumber company's mill at Donald, was in the city yesterday and reported witnessing an unusual scene near that place during the forest fires Sunday. He saw twenty-seven deer in a flock fleeing from the fire and race into a small lake. In the lake, he says, there were hundreds of porcupine swimming around. They would swim from one shore to the other in an attempt to get on the land, but the fire entirely surrounded the lake and the "porkies" could not gain the land until the fire had died out.

The Barron County Shield says that a hunter, while traveling through the woods, ran across the carcasses of a large bear and two cubs that had been burned to death by the fire. It was undoubtedly a case where a mother bear had stuck to her young in time of danger until death.

Hunters report that during the fire deer came up to their door and stood there as if begging for something to eat or protection.

WISCONSIN MILLERS WILL ATTACK FEED STUFFS LAW.

Neenah, Wis., Oct. 23.—Declaring that the law is unconstitutional, the Wisconsin Millers' association has taken steps in an effort to cause the repeal of the Wisconsin feeding stuffs law. At a meeting of the association held here Friday afternoon it was announced that a test case will be instituted at Antigo, Wis., and that this case, which is entitled the State of Wisconsin vs. David Goldberg, will be tried early in November in the circuit court, the case later to be taken to the state supreme court, in the hope that the unconstitutionality of the law will there be established.

The law states that all millers shall be taxed or licensed for selling feeding stuffs which are enforced by products of flouring mills. The association maintains no license should be required, for the reason that no license is required in other manufacturies producing by-products. It is held that feeding stuffs is included in an action brought by the state pure food commission as a test case. The result of the case will affect not only Wisconsin millers, but millers of surrounding states which sell feeding stuffs in Wisconsin. The annual meeting of the association occurs next April at Milwaukee.

UPPER MICHIGAN

CALUMET SPECIAL WORK THIS YEAR

Coniderable is Done by Surveyors in Gathering Valuable Data.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A United States geological survey field party has been at work during the past season on the topographic surveys for what will be known as the Calumet special map, covering the territory in the immediate vicinity of Calumet.

It is the custom of the survey to name each map from some prominent feature within the quadrangle it represents—hence the name Calumet special. It will be a special map because, owing to the particular importance of the section as a mining region, the work is being done on a larger scale than usual. It will take two inches to represent a square mile.

The topographic party engaged in the work this summer has been under the charge of Mr. A. M. Walker, Topographer, assisted by Messrs. Frank H. West, Perry K. Miller, M. C. Doesburg and J. D. Bunting.

When finished the map will show all routes of travels, such as wagon roads, trails and railroads; all cities, towns, prominent houses, mine shafts, and the names of natural and other features.

It will also show the section and township lines, as well as the topographic features of the land, such as mountains, hills and valleys, gulches and all bodies of water.

There have been established numerous permanent survey monuments and bench marks whose positions and whose elevations above sea level have been determined by precise methods. These monuments are available as trustworthy starting points for local surveys.

The highest point reached in the surveys this season is on Centennial Heights, 1,310 feet above sea level, or 708 feet above Lake Superior.

DAKOTAS

WHOLE STATE IS MUCH INTERESTED

Outcome of Attack on Primary Law Absorbs North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D., Ottt. 24.—The whole attention of the whole state is focussed on this city and especially on the state capitol, where the supreme court is wrestling with the complex legal propositions presented by attorneys in arguing for and against the legality of the senatorial feature of the primary election law. The respective contentions were ably presented to the court yesterday, Attorney General McCue having personal charge of the case for Secretary of State Blaisdell and his argument and the answer of the secretary of state were a plea to sustain the law.

Attorney General McCue presented the secretary of state's return and entered a demurrer to the proceedings and presented a formal motion to have the law sustained by quashing the proceedings on the grounds that relator had no rights in the matter and that there was a lack of jurisdiction because James, the relator, did not have sufficient interest in the matter to bring the proceedings. All the petitions will be considered by the court when it arrives at its final decision.

Judge Young and Attorney Lawrence argued that the law is unconstitutional because the constitution prescribes the qualifications of the legislative members and the legislature has no authority to add to these qualifications by compelling the legislative candidates to file an affidavit that they would support any certain candidate in the legislative session, who might be designated as the popular choice for United States senator. The relator's attorney argued that the court have the secretary of state annul the notice that the names of Johnson and Marshall shall not go on the ballot.

DIFFERENT FROM YEAR AGO.

Money is Plentiful for Loaning at Low Interest Rate.

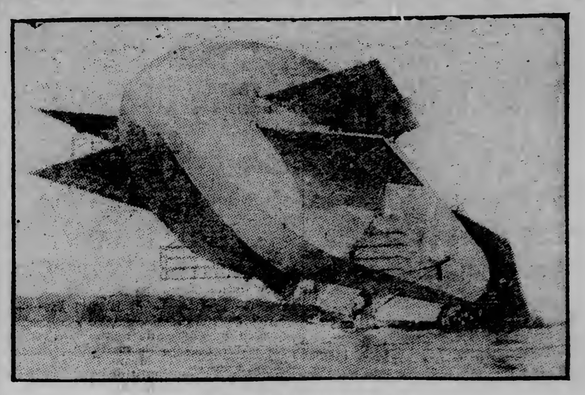

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is many years since the rate of interest on money was so low as it is at the present time. The national banks of Minneapolis have more money than they know what to do with, and are almost on the verge of begging persons to borrow even at the lowest rate that they have given in five years.

"Money is easy and the rate is far below what it has been for several years," said George P. Orde, cashier of the First National bank. "It can be had now for 4½ and 5 per cent, while last year the banks were asking 6 and 7."

At great cost it has been remodeled, and yesterday the count made a lofty and successful ascent. He is now preparing for another long voyage.

EX-LOVER KILLS GROOM ON HONEYMOON, BEFORE EYES OF THE BRIDE

Also Tries to Kill Girl, But Her Uncle Places Thumb Beneath Hammer of Revolver.

New Orleans, Oct. 24.—On her bridal tour, which began scarcely one hour before, and seated in a railroad coach almost between her husband and an ex-sultor for her hand, Mrs. Fred Van Ingen saw the flash of the ex-suitor's revolver, felt the sudden grip of her husband's hand as a bullet killed him, and then turned and fought for her life.

When the girl appeared about to become the victim of a second bullet, her uncle thrust his thumb beneath the hammer of the revolver, jamming the mechanism and rendering the weapon harmless.

This is the story which other passengers on the Texas & Pacific (Cannon Ball) told when they reached this city, but the principal actors in the tragedy, most of whom are connected with Louisiana's leading families, refused to discuss the matter.

The former suitor is F. S. Beauve of Plaquemine, La., at which place he was taken from the train and placed under arrest. The unfortunate husband was Prof. Fred Van Ingen, a prominent teacher of Alexandria, La., and relative of Ex-Governor Blanchard. The bride is the daughter of James M. Rhorer, one of the leading officials of Iberville parish, residing at Baton Rouge. Beauve is 24 and Van Ingen 23.

The wedding took place at Alexandria. Beauve was a town, having arrived the same day as Miss Rhorer. When the bridal couple left for New Orleans, he also boarded the train and after a time sat in a seat where he was facing Mr. and Mrs. Van Ingen, with the bride between him and her husband. Passengers say Beauve talked with the bridal couple just before the shooting and that his manner appeared cordial.

The contest of labor is for justice and not for office. "SAMUEL GOMPERS."

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

PLANS OF BUTTE COALITION

Company Preparing to Double Its Copper Output---Good Ore Coming From Three New Levels in the Minnie Healey Mine.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 24.—Butte Coalition at the present time is producing copper at the rate of 2,000,000 pounds per month or about 25,000,000 pounds per annum, and within ninety days it is planned to increase the output to 50,000,000 pounds per annum. The present ore output of 1,100 tons per day is coming entirely from the Rarus shaft, although only 900 tons is being shipped from the Rarus mine, the balance coming from the Minnie Healey property. About 10 per cent of the present tonnage is first class ore and has an assay value of 10 per cent copper. The second class ore, which constitutes 90 per cent of the tonnage, will average to assay between 4 per cent and 5 per cent copper. Up to the present time the Rarus property has always been considered the best mine owned by the Butte Coition, but recent important developments below the 1,100-foot level of the Minnie Healey may cnange this situation.

The recovery from Butte Coalition ores at the present time average not far from eighty pounds of copper per ton, and it is the expectation that with an output of 50,000,000 pounds of copper per annum, the company can make its copper for 9 cents per pound. This, of course, assumes the continuance of good ore in the lower levels of the Minnie Healey, which is now indicated. The fire which broke out on June 25, 1907, has burned continuously since that time, and has proved a costly affair. The Boson & Montana people claim that this fire originated in the Minie Healey mine, and the Butte Coalition people claim that it originated in the Leonard mine of the Boston & Monana. Whatever may have been its source, it has materially interfered with the production of the Butte Coalition property. The management claims, however, that progress is being made in getting the fire under control, and that the Minnie Healey is preparing to operate its ground in territory lying under the 1,100-foot level, where the fire now exists.

The Rarus shaft is down 1,800 feet, although no shipments are being made from below the 1,700-foot level. By January the company expects to have ore on the 1,600-foot level of the Minnie Healey. This mine is showing better values on the fifteenth level than on the fourteenth, and is expected to show better on the sixteenth than on the fifteenh. The new Tramway shaft, which will shortly go into commission, is down 1,665 feet, and is still sinking. This shaft will be connected with the Rarus on the 1,700 foot level. At the present time the Minnie Healey is working in good ore on the 1,300, 1,400 and 1,500-foot levels, below the fire zone.

NEW SHAFT NOW GOING DOWN

Consulting Engineer Small of the Brooklyn-Arizona Mining Company, is Well Pleased With the Outlook for the Property.

Prescott, Ariz., Oct. 24.—With satisfying progress being made in the installation of the new machinery on the properties of the Brooklyn-Arizona Mining company, F. E. Small, consulting engineer of the company, is equally pleased with the work of sinking the new working shaft now down 225 feet. Speaking of the Brooklyn-Arizona equipment and development as well as a number of other properties in which he is interested, Small said:

"The new 100-horse power boiler is ready to make steam and the concrete foundations for the machinery will be finished in two weeks. The new hoist and air compressor is expected at Mayer in a short time. The hoist is a double one, each engine being 50-horse power. Two cages will be used.

"The shaft is 225 feet deep and a station is being cut in the 210-foot level. The shaft is perpendicular. It follows a cross-lead all the way down, the paystreak of which carries good values.

"A survey for patent of the group of fifteen claims was finished last week. Application for patent will be made soon.

"I let a 700-foot tunnel contract last week on a group of twelve claims owned by myself located two and a half miles southeast of the Brooklyn-Arizona. The tunnel will tap a large iron dyke at a depth of 700 feet. The dyke carries gold, silver and copper values and has the ear-marks of a large copper and gold mine.

"A shaft was started on the Ella group last week. It is now down fifteen feet with a $40 gold ore in the bottom. I am satisfied that the Ella will open into a great property. I also let a contract on the Nellie group for a new shaft. The Nellie adjoins the Brooklyn-Arizona.

MAGNET FOR GOLD SEEKERS

Sylvanite, the New Camp in New Mexico, Attracting Attention of Bisbeeites---Company Formed to Work Some of the Leases.

Bisbee, Ariz., Oct. 24.—The influx of prospectors and others into the new gold camp, Sylvanite, near Hachita, bids fair to equal the great booms which attended the discovery of gold in Cripple Creek and many of the Nevada camps. On every train scores of mining men arrive at Hachita from where they go by stage or on foot, a distance of seventeen miles by road. In almost every instance those leaving for the gold fields carried camping and prospecting outfits. Transportation facilities between Hachita and Sylvanite are in great demand and at present the only vehicles in use are a lumber wagon and a buckboard.

Among the Bisbeeites at present at the new camp are B. M. Pattison, Will Soule, A. R. Malone and Jack McGregor. W. G. McBride of the Sierra de Cobre company at Cananea is also at the camp.

A company has been formed in Bisbee which will operate at Sylvanite, and the articles of incorporation being at prsnt prpard for filing. This company owns leases on some of the richest property there. It adjoins that of the Camp property where the original telluride find was made, and one hundred feet from the shaft. A shaft has been begun on the Bisbeelites' property and three shifts of three men each have been put at work. Assays have been made by Smith & Laird for Dr. M. D. Johnson, who is connected with the company, which ran as follows: $24.70, $65.05, $175.20 and $72.90.

The men in charge of operations of the Bisbee company are Dr. Johnson and W. M. McDonald, a mining engineer recently from Canada. On the property of the Bisbee company is a ledge four feet wide which runs from the base of the mountain to the top on one side and part way down the other side. The assays were made from ore taken from this ledge.

CRIPPLE CREEK DISTRICT

Feature of September Production was Higher Average Value of Ore---Anaconda Cyanide Mill Resumes Operations on Custom Ore.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Oct. 24.—The feature of Cripple Creek's September production was the adance in the value per ton of 6,000 tons of smelter ore from $60 to $61. The increase shows that with depth higher values may be expected. The deep drainage tunnel now being driven into the hills of the camp will make deep mining possible. When leading mines will be able to reach down to 2,500 and 3,000 feet below the surface or twice the present depth, even a higher average value may be obtained.

A second significant feature of the month's record is the work of the Ironclad cyanide mill in treating with profit 3,000 tons of ore, worth only $1.75 a ton. Other mills profitably treated $3.50 and $3.60 ores, the total cyanide product being 11,500 tons.

The Dante No. 2, under lease to the British-American Leasing company, is yielding 200 tons of $15 ore weekly. The ore is coming from a vein 8 to 12 feet wide.

The Anaconda cyanide mill, which closed two months ago for repairs and enlargement, has resumed operations on custom ores under the management of Bryan Tully and associates, who hold a ten-year lease. The lessees say they can save better than 95 per cent of values and will accept $2 a ton ores. The mill has 125 tons daily capacity.

The Cresson mine is outputting 2,000 tons monthly of $20 ore.

The main workings of the Mary McKinney mine, under lease to the Western Investment company, are yielding heavily from five levels. Several sets of lessees are operating through the Anaconda tunnel, and others through the Harvard and Republic shafts. The Excelsior claim has recently re-entered the shipping list. The company owns 135 acres patented on Raven and Gold hills which have a production record to date of $5,575,000.

The Granite Gold Mining company shipped ninety cars of ore from its Battle Mountain properties during September. The average value was $25 a ton. This production was made by lesses on the Dillon, Granite, Monument and Gold Coin mines. The increase amounted to 250 to 300 tons over August. The company itself is doing development work only.

The Union Leasing company has opened an ore shoot on the 450-foot level of the Deadwood mine and is breaking ore on a 4-foot vein with machine drills with values of $18 to $38 a ton.

The Gold Sovereign mine is outputting 2,000 tons of $15 ore monthly.

The Seaver-Henry lease on the Mattie L. mine realized $2,000 from a two-car shipment this week. The lesses have secured an option on the south two and a half acres of the property for $10,000.

The Acacia Gold Mining company outputted twenty cars of $20 ore during September. The royalties amounted to $1,050. Nine sets of lesses are at work.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Isle Royale Copper company last month milled approximately 18,000 tons of rock, securing therefrom nearly 175 tons of copper, indicating a recovery of 14.72 pounds refined copper per ton of rock stamped. The No. 2 shaft supplies fully two-thirds of the total tonnage treated at the mill. Underground operations in this shaft disclose good copper rock in the laterals driving well under the old Huron mine to the south, particularly so at the nineteenth level, but on the whole the ground is bunchy. The rock from this end of the mine runs about thirteen pounds fine copper campared with slightly better than eighteen pounds per ton of rock, secured from the three new shafts opened upon the southern extension of the Isle Royale lode, where about 10,000 feet of openings have been made. Shafts No. 4 and 5 are sinking twenty-five feet below the fourth level, and shaft No. 6 has reached a depth of fifty feet below the fifth level. Exceptionally fine copper rock is disclosed south of the latter shaft, drifting in this direction having progressed a distance of over 500 feet. A small, temporary hoist and boiler were delivered at the Baltic lode shaft of this company last week, and compressed air for rock drills will be available within a few days, when better progress in shaft sinking will be possible. The shaft has attained a depth of thirty-five feet and is passing through badly shattered ground. No copper has yet been disclosed here and none can reasonably be expected until the shaft encounters firmer ground. Carbonate stains are much in evidence, indicative of considerable leaching having taken place. The vein matter shows all the characteristics of the Baltic lode.

The Superior Mine.

At the Superior mine, drifting in progress in the No. 1 shaft continues to disclose copper rock of a fair stamping grade. About two miles of openings have ben all in good stoping ground with the possible exception of one drift. Ther is a widespread belief, locally, that the rock is lean and the mill test wil prove somewhat of a disappointment. The belief is easily accounted far as the rock is very deceptive and the mineral contents, carried in the form of shot copper, not easily discernible because of the dark red color of the enclosing aBltic rock. Very little mass copper and "barrel work" is in evidence at the present depth, neither is the rock now mined as rich as that sent to surface at the Baltic and Champion mines. At these mines, operating upon the Baltic lode to the south, a careful selection of rock is made under the necessity of pursuing a similar method. Not all the rock on the big stock pile, estimated to contain upwards of 18,000 tons, carries copper. Operations in the No. 2 shaft are confined to sinking below the 260-foot level. About 350 feet of lateral openings have been made without disclosing copper rock. The ground at this depth is badly shattered, a conditon that does not "look kindly" to copper. The mine is in position to supply 700 tons of rock daily, but it is not likely that shipments will begin before the month has passed, although the railway and mill are in shape to handle that tonnage easily. The foundations for the new hoist and the compressor have been laid, and the latter is already going into place. The frame work of the building is yet to be erected. The shaft house has been enclosed, a rock breaker installed, and the bins are being filled. Hoisting will be done through a single compartment for the present.

Elm River's Vertical Shaft.

Elm River's vertical shaft has attained a depth of 104 feet, and is bottomed in solid ground. Several stringers of copper were cut nearer surface, but were not of sufficient importance to warrant exploration. The company now has the use of steam power and compresed air and excellent progres in shaft sinking is noted. The surface equipment is in first class condition, and everything about the property has ben put in shape for the winter.

The Lake Copper company is actively engaged in drifting both ways at the second level, established 310 feet from surface, and both drifts are breasted in excellent copper ground. The company continues to obtain showings of a sensational nature in all its underground developments, and the 300 fet of stoping ground opened at the first level equal the best showing ever obtained in any amygdaloid

THE NORTH BUTTE'S WONDERS

Ore Now Being Taken From Five Levels—Two Others Being Opened and Will be Yielding Rock in About Three Months—No Disposition to Crowd Production.

Concerning his visit to the North Butte mines, Editor H. M. Cole of Boston writes for his paper as follows: A representative of the Boston News Bureau, recently in Butte, was invited by General Manager A. C. Carson to go underground. The invitation was accepted. It was quite natural that Mr. Carson, who, by the way, is given absolute authority in all that pertains to the operation of the property above and below ground, should first take this representative to the "show room" of the mine—the big drift on the 1,800-foot level of the Edith May vein. At this level there is an ore body 1,300 feet long with an average width of close to 25 feet; 800 feet will run between 30 and 40 feet in width. On the 1,600-foot level there is 1,000 feet of continuous ore.

The Edith May vein on the 1,800-foot level, carrying as it does high copper values, is rightfully entitled to the distinction of being the bonanza ore body of the Butte camp.

The drift on the Jesse vein, which parallels the Edith May, is about 900 feet long and is all in 5 to 8 per cent ore having an average width of 12 feet.

North Butte is at present shipping to the Washoe smelter between 1,400 and 1,500 tons of ore daily. About 40 per cent of this tonnage is first-class ore carrying between 7 and 8 per cent copper and 60 per cent second-class ore averaging between 4 and 5 per cent. This ore is coming from the levels above. Within ninety days the company should be in ore and in position to ship small quantities from the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels.

Important Showing.

On the east end of the property on the 1,600-foot level there is split in the Edith May ore body giving a north and south branch. On the 2,000-foot level the company has run a cross-cut and encountered the south branch of this vein, disclosing about 18 feet of 3 to 5 per cent ore. Mr. Carson in referring to this development says:

"This is a very important and encouraging showing, for the reason that it demonstrates that we have ore at great depth and for the reason that on the levels above the south branch contained no ore. On the 2,200-foot level we have just started a drift on the south branch of this vein."

It is costing not to exceed 8 cents per pound—and in some months the figure is less—to mine and market the product of the North Butte company, and this figure includes expenses of every character. In arriving at this cost the company deducts the net value of its gold and silver product. The present mining cost of the ore per ton is $2.75, a figure very low for the Butte properties.

In the operation of the mine there is recovered every month between 135,000 and 150,000 ounces of silver and between $2,000 and $4,000 in gold, the combined precious metal values totaling between $75,000 and $80,000 per month, or well up to $1,000,000 per annum. This is a very important item in reducing the net cost of the company's copper.

The immense amount of timber which goes under ground in the North Butte property at once impresses itself upon the visitor. At least 1,000,000 feet of timber must be secured and set in place under ground in the drifts and stopes every month. The vein rock is very treacherous and the utmost caution must be exercised to keep the ore from caving in on the miners. It is safe to say that one-half of the cost of making North Butte copper is represented in the item of timber and the expense of putting it in place and maintaining the same. No waste rock is hoisted, all sorting taking place in the mine, and the discard used to dry fill.

Monthly Production.

North Butte is today producing between 3,500,000 and 3,800,000 pounds of copper per month, varying as the percentage of first-class ore is raised or lowered. It is well to remember in connection with the question of ore values, that the assay figures and the smelter recoveries are two different propositions. The Butte mines are credited by the Washoe smelter with between 90 and 95 per cent of the assay value of the first-class ore and about 72 per cent of the assay value of the second class ore.

The company is earning between $6 and $7 per share on the present price of copper, so that there is a steady accretion to surplus cash now that the dividend is limited to $4 per share per annum.

The net profits of the North Butte company are at the rate of better than $2,500,000 per annum, and these profits are being derived from but one shaft—an achievement which stands without a parallel in the history of copper mining.

There is no apparent disposition to crowd production at the present price for copper. Mr. Carson states that there is blocked out, ready for stoping, between three and four years' supply of ore at the present rate of output and that the creation of further underground reserves would simply entail needless timbering expense.

Another Shaft to Be Sunk.

Should any accident incapacitate the company's one shaft, the High Ore shaft of the Anaconda company would be immediately available. The company contemplates the sinking of another shaft of its own, however, sometime in the future, when the most ad-

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

United States Steel Corporation Opening Fine Mine on Davis Property on the Gogbeic Range—More Men Employed in the Iron River District Than Ever Before.

A fine new mine being opened in the Lake Superior iron region is the Steel corporation's Davis property, on the Gogebic range. The tract comprises eighty acres. It is located in Section 18, 47-46, between Ironwood and Bessemer, and is east of the Newport hill. The ore lies very deep, and to open the deposit there is being sunk one of the finest and most substantial shafts ever put down in the district. A depth of upwards of 1,250 feet has already been attained. The shaft is 10 feet by 18 feet 8 inches inside measurements, has three compartments and is lined with steel similar to the big "B" shaft at the company's giant Norrie mine. It is being capped with a head frame of steel. A pumping plant of large capacity has been installed at the 1,200-foot level. The steam plant, to be housed in a fireproof building of stone construction, will consist of five high-pressure boilers of large capacity. The air compressor is big enough so that it will supply power to the drills at the adjoining Geneva and Puritan mines, as well as the Davis, and mains will be laid extending to those properties.

The Davis is being opened to develop the continuation of the ore measures of the Ironwood field, on the oposite side of the Newport hill, and when once brought to the producing stage it will be prepared to make a large annual output indefinitely. Sinking is temporarily suspended, pending the completion of the steel work, and meanwhile drifting to the Old Davis vein is in progress from a depth of 450 feet. The Old Davis, formerly known as the First National mine, was operated some years ago. It was noted for the manganiferous ore it produced. Some of this ore ran as high as 25 per cent in manganese, and none was less than 6 per cent. The percentage of manganese was sufficient in even the lowest grade to render the ore desirable, while the better grade was exceptionally rich for the Lake Superior region.

Extensive Improvements.

For the better handling of its ore traffic from the Gogebic range, the Wisconsin Central Railroad company is completing improvement work on which the total outlay will be approximately half a million dollars. Heretofore that part of the line running from the range to the ore docks at Ashland has crossed White river over a bridge 110 feet high. It has been necessary to operate the trains very slowly across this big span, and in a busy season the time lost has been an important item. To remedy matters it was decided to build a huge arch of concrete, change the bed of the stream and fill in the big ravine. The work was started in April, a year ago, and it has been prosecuted steadily ever since, a large force of men being employed and steam shovels and gravel trains being operated continuously The new stretch of track is now being prepared for heavy traffic and trains will be running over it probably by Dec 1.

Notwithstanding that the iron trade is much less active than last season, more men are employed in the Iron River district of the Menominee range than at any previous time in the history of the field. The pay-roll foots up $75,000 a month. The Florence Iron company, controlled by Lauterbach, Thalman & Co., of New York, is preparing to develop the Hall and Yackel properties, located a mile northeast of Iron River village. It has had the tracts under option for some time and has explored them with a diamond drill. Ore has been encountered, and a shaft is now to go down on the line between the two properties for the purpose of opening up the deposits. The new James mine of the Mineral Mining company, north of Iron River, is proving one of the best properties yet developed at the western end of the Menominee. The ore body is a soft hematite running 53 per cent iron, and it appears of large proportions, although the mine is not yet 400 feet in depth. A good showing is being made at the McFarland and Zeekowsky explorations, in the same field.

Heavy Marquette Shipments.

Ore shipments from the Marquette range mines have been rather heavier the past fortnight than at any previous time this season. Practically all the steam shovels in the district have been at work, loading from stockpiles, and in the Ishpeming and Negaunee yards, twenty engines and crews have been required to handle the traffic. The stockpile at the Mary Charlotte has already been shipped, and those at the Salisbury and Hartford will be cleaned out shortly. There is much ore still in stock at other of the mines, however, and in the aggregate a very large tonnage will be carried over the winter.

The charcoal iron furnace of the Mitchell-Diggins Iron company, at Cadillac, Mich., is in blast again, after having been out of commission since Dec. 2, last. Its two affiliated chemical plants also have resumed operations. Pending the outcome of the national elections, the Ashland (Wis.) plant of the Lake Superior Iron &

THE GLOBE CONSOLIDATED

Recent Ore Strikes Getting Better With Future Development---Ten Globe Mines Made Good Strikes During Past Seven Months.

Globe, Ariz., Oct. 24.—The expansion of mining in the Globe district this year has been greater than in all the other copper districts of Arizona combined. Of a dozen mining companies actively operating in Globe district, ten of them have made important strikes of ore within the past six or seven months.

Foremost among these is the Old Dominion, which has made some rearkable developments on the fourteenth level, and on the tenth and twelfth levels at the east end of the mine. The crosscut in block 4, on the fourteenth level has beeen driven through sixty feet of good sulphide ore. The crosscut in block 3 is in the ore fifteen feet and is still better sulphide. Another crosscut in block 2 is expected to cut the sulphide vein within a few days. The tenth and twelfth level east drifts have been in very rich ore—cuprite, native copper and chalopyrite—for several hundred feet and uprises from these levels are also in fine ore.

The recent ore strikes made on the Globe Consolidated property are getting better with additional development work. The Gem vein, at a distance of 169 feet from the crosscut on the 1,200 level, is now between six and seven feet wide and the ore is of a much higher grade. The Future copper vein on the same level has now four feet of clean sulphide ore. The vein intercepted by the south crosscut from the Boston shaft is now seven feet wide, three feet of which is solid chalcopyrite.

The Superior & Boston, four and one-half miles northeast of Globe, is developing one of the finest bodies of ore in the district. The ore has been opened to a vertical depth of nearly 500 feet and along the strike of the vein for 350 feet from the west end line of the Great Eastern claim. The average width of the ore shoot is about ten feet and the copper contents averages over 10 per cent.

The samo ore shoot has been opened by the Arizona Commercial Copper company on the Black Hawk claim for 100 feet west of the Great Eastern, and the lode was cut last week in the company's Eureka shaft, nearly 1,000 feet west of the old Black Hawk workings.

AT THE CENTURION ARIZONA

Samples of Good Ores From the Claims Near Dragoon Indicate a Solid Mine---Peacock and Native Copper Among Specimens.

Bisbee, Ariz., Oct. 24.—C. C. Newman is in from Dragoon Summit with samples of ore from the Centurion Arizona mines that look very good to the expert. One large block of malachite weighing about fifteen pounds indicates a value of about 28 per cent, while other samples show fully as well. The malachite came from a depth of 80 feet, and some very good ores were found 45 feet down. Mr. Newman says that there are fifty tons of the malachite ore uncovered and 100 tons of other ore, which will average 25 per cent at the smelter.

The Centurion has so far been a development proposition, no shipments having been made. It is the desire of the management to get under the present ore bodies before sending the product to the smelter, although a carload a week could be shipped now. The claims of the Centurion consist of two groups, one two miles from Dragoon, on the Southern Pacific, and the other five miles from Dragoon in the Johnson district. Each group consists of eleven claims, and each is within a mile of a mill site and water right, with an abundance of water.

Mr. Newman expresses himself as well pleased with the prospects of the mines, although he confesses that there was a time when he had serious doubts of the value of his stock. Since going to the locality and seeing for himself the large ore bodies, he has bought more stock, thus indicating his present feeling toward the property. Some of the samples brought in by Mr. Newman will be assayed to determine the exact value and character. Peacock and native copper are among the specimens. J. P. Richardson is president of the Centurion company, and S. M. Zurr of Bisbee is secretary.

WILL CLOSE UP ITS AFFAIRS

Butte Central & Boston Copper Corporation in Hands of Trustee in Bankruptcy---Butte-Milwaukee Resumes Work on Col. Sellers Claims.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 24.—A trustee in bankruptcy has been appointed for the Butte Central and Boston Copper corporation and an effort will be made to close up its affairs and organize a new one. The company started about a year and a half ago with great expectations, backed by capitalists, among whom were Lord Templetown of England, Sir Frederick W. Borden of Canada, W. L. Moyer and Orr Lewis of New York, Robert G. McMeekin, Freeman I. Davison and Charles Howard Weston of Boston, G. E. Blackburn, Lee Mantle, Alexander Robertson, J. H. Leyson and B. H. White of Montana. The company started with a heavy overcapitalization of $5,000,000 of preferred cumulative stock and $10,000,000 in common stock. The only asset was the Ophir mine, purchased for $50,000 in cash and some stock, and another undeveloped mining claim. Of course, only a portion of the capital was issued, the plan of the company being to extend its operations and become a holding company for a number of operating concerns. However, the plans failed and the capital was reduced to $7,500,000, which was still too high by at least $6,000,000, in the opinion of mining men. Some development work was done on the Ophir and the prospects were good to make a mine out of it when the financial crash came. The company was unable to meet its debts and was compelled to close the property. It is asserted that a syndicate of London capitalists agreed to subscribe $750,000 to the enterprise, but failed to "come through" with the money. It is understood that the claims against the company will aggregate about $158,000, of which $98,827.53 represents claims held in Boston and $24,998.14 of unpreferred claims in Butte. The remainder of the indebtedness is in preferred claims and does not come into the bankruptcy case. The Ophir is generally considered a good property.

The Butte-Milwaukee company has resumed work on the Col. Sellers group of claims in the North Butte section. The shaft is being unwatered, and it is probable that leasers will be allowed to work in the upper portions. Several sets of them are working in the Pollock, another claim of the Butte-Milwaukee company, and they are shipping silver ore profitably. The Col. Sellers shaft is 745 feet deep, and when the water is out some exploration work will be done on the 700-foot level. Sinking will be carried on at the same time.

The deepest shaft in the Butte district is that at the High Ore mine of the Anaconda company, which is down 2,900 feet. The lowest level is also in that mine at the 2,800, the deepest point at which mining is being done. Some very rich ore is being mined from the lowest depth. Much of it is glance and assays about 60 per cent copper. A similar character of ore has been found at the bottom of the shaft, so it is evident the shaft isn't anywhere near the bottom of the ore body.

The cheerful statement is made that if the stockholders of the Barnes-King Development company can hold their stock for eighteen years they may be able to get their money back. At the end of that time at the present rate of earnings from the gold mines in Fergus county there should be enough money on hand to pay $5 per share in dividends.

AT THE UTAH CONSOLIDATED

Company to Build Smelter in Pine Canon at Cost of About $3,000,000---Payments Being Made to Tooele County Farmers.

Salt Lake, Oct. 24.The Utah Consolidated Mining company apparently intends to build a smelter in Pine Canon across the range fromBingham where the company's mines are located. The company has made the frst payment of 10 per sent, amounting to about $100,000, to Tooele county farmers. The deal includes the purchase outright of 1,600 acres of ground and smoke damage easements upon approximately 30,000 acres. In the case of the easements the company paid 10 per cent. of the agreed valuation upon which the lands shall be taken over in the event that damage is done to the crops. The company's plan is to build a smelter of 1,500 tons daily capacity,at a cost of about $3,000,000. The plant will be three miles from the Highland Boy mine, with which it will be connected by an aerial tramway.

The Yampa smelter of the Tintic Mining and Development company, which was put in commission in its perfected form on September 1, produced 700,000 pounds of copper during the month, treating 18,000 tons of ore. General Manager C. W. Saxton said: "Our ultimate tonnage which we will likely reach during Octeaber, will be between 800 and 1,000 tons daily, or an average of 25,000 tons monthly."

Utah Apex people have evolved a plan for expediting the handling of ore at their mine at Bingham. It involves making connection between Parvenue tunnel and the 700-foot level of the mine by means of a triple compartment and vertical upraise of 350 feet. The ore will then require no handling after being loaded into the mine cars, which will be dropped to the Parvenue tunnel, and thence conveyed to the ore bins beside the railroad track. The improvement is to be begun at once. It was authorized by President E. R. Hastings of the company before his return to Boston. The Utah Apex has opened on the fourth level of the largest bodies of galena ever found in Bingham. It is a blanket vein in line and has been explored for a distance of 530 feet and a width of 165 feet.

The Utah-Bingham Mining company is beginning its promised campaign of production and development. During the summer all the needed surface improvements, including ten new buildings and the installation of heavy modern machinery, were completed. About a month ago production was begun from the upper tunnel workings and a car of ore a week was sent out, it is stated to net the company $1,000 weekly. The Utah-Bingham company has expended about $500,000 in the purchase, development and equipment of property.

THE TONNAGE TAX ISSUE

Governor Johnson in his message to the legislature, January, 1907:—"The proposition which some have suggested, that the direct tax should be abolished and a tonnage tax substituted to provide for all revenue, both state and local, is objectionable because of the jeopardy of revenue for local governments during a period of industrial depression or in a year of possible lockouts or strikes. I wish it to be understood that I clearly oppose any system of taxation which will deprive local townships, village, school districts or county governments of a liberal, reliable and continuous source of revenue."

Governor Johnson in his Duluth speech, Oct. 14, 1908:—"I wish to add this statement, which I make now and which I am willing to repeat in any town in the state: If I am elected governor and if the legislature should pass a law depriving this or any other section of the state of its full share of taxes for local improvements, I SHALL VETO IT. That is my stand on the tonnage tax."

STILL SILENT, MR. JACOBSON?

We take it that as to the tonnage tax issue the people of the iron counties wish to know what may be expected from each of the two candidates for governor if they are elected and the legislature passes a tonnage tax bill. Will they sign it or will they veto it?

They have heard from Governor Johnson in plain words which appear on this page. He will veto such a bill.

They have heard nothing from Jacobson, and they know only that all through the state he is "running on his record," and that his record is one of bitter and vicious advocacy of the tonnage tax in its most dangerous form. He refuses to offer a word of hope or promise, preferring to stand upon his record. He will be here in the last days of the campaign, when it is too late for the rest of the state to hear what he has to say, and any promise he may make then will be worthless, because if he dares not promise when all the state may hear, he will not dare protect the iron country when all the state may see.

It makes no difference what the News Tribune may say about this matter; it makes no difference what The Herald may say, nor what Mr. Willcuts or Mr. Hartley or Mr. Anybody-else may say: the important thing is what the candidates say.

We have heard from Governor Johnson, and having heard nothing from Mr. Jacobson, we must set him down as an enemy and act accordingly.

It is painful to be compelled to note that the News Tribune still fails to give a single reason why Jacobson should receive a single vote in Northern Minnesota.

THE LAKES-TO-GULF WATERWAY.

Careful vigilance on the part of the shipping interests of the Great Lakes will be necessary to prevent the present wide-spread and thoroughly wholesome sentiment for the improvement of waterways from being guided by Chicago into channels that may involve vast harm to the traffic on the Great Lakes. As The Herald has said many times, the country should be well assured that the development of Chicago's pet plan of a deep waterway from that city to the gulf will not injure the tremendously valuable shipping interests of the lakes, for it would be the height of folly to tear down an established, successful and valuable avenue of cheap water transportation to build up one whose value is wholly a matter of theory.

Friends of the Chicago project have informed The Herald that it will not take much water, as there will be locks in the canal to keep the water from running away. If that is true, why is it that the proposed issue of $20,000,000 in drainage canal bonds, on which the voters of Illinois will pass at the general election, contemplates the expenditure of $3,600,000 for the construction of four hydro-electric stations for the development of water power? The Engineering Record, in an editorial article, says that there will be an opportunity to develop 140,000 horse power in the enlarged canal. How can power be developed unless there is a large and continuous flow of water? Where is that water coming from, if not out of the Great Lakes? And is there any reason why the lake shipping interests should not be on their guard to make sure that not enough water is taken to lower the lake levels? If the lake levels are greatly lowered, the connecting channels may be destroyed or put in such shape that they can be restored only by immense expenditures. Surely the matter is worth watching, anyway, and people living along the lakes and depending upon the lake thoroughfare for cheap transportation would be very regardless of their own interests if they did not exercise the vigilance that seems to be called for.

If the Chicago-to-the-Gulf plan will serve a useful purpose without injuring the lake traffic, well and good; but the lake interests must first be assured not only that the Chicago plan is worth while, but that it can be carried out without harm to the Great Lakes. Says the Engineering Record: "There is an enormous commerce in the Great Lakes, and it would be the height of national folly to injure it in any way for the benefit of future shipping from Chicago southward of a wholly conjectural amount. Up to the present time no analytical statement which will successfully withstand criticism has been made, showing the probable amount of freight that would be handled by water between Chicago and St. Louis, what arrangements should be made for gathering and distributing the freight at terminals, the class of vessels best adapted for the business, and the cost of transportation and terminal charges. It is this absence of specific information which makes the Chicago-St. Louis program so flabby in comparison, for instance, with the valuable report on the improvement of the Ohio river recently made by a board of army engineers. It is not surprising, indeed, that the Pittsburg Dispatch asks why the nation should spend an enormous sum to help a shipping business that exists only on paper, to have a 24-foot channel from Chicago to St. Louis, when a 9-foot depth in the Ohio is all that is asked by the large shipping interests already engaged in that stream."

AS THEY USED TO TALK.

There are some curious things about the local campaign for Candidate Jacobson. For instance, six years ago, just after Jacobson had made an attempt to pound a tonnage tax bill through the legislature, some members of a local Republican organization who were getting up a demonstration asked Jacobson to come here and speak. They did it innocently, knowing that Jacobson had always opposed this part of the state with great bitterness, and hoping that he might be mellowed by the association into a kindlier feeling toward Duluth. But the very people that are now working, by virtue of their official positions with the party organization, in behalf of Jacobson, said then that to invite Jacobson was an insult to the community.

Again, here are a few quotations from what former Duluth representatives in the legislature used to say about Jacobson.

1897—Jacobson was trying to get a special order on one of his bills, and Representative P. C. Schmidt of Duluth opposed advancing it out of its regular order. Jacobson said: "You will be sorry for your opposition. Reapportionment will come up some day, and the gentlemen from St. Louis county will then think it a matter of great importance to ask a special order." Mr. Schmidt spiritedly replied: "I was born in the United States, and I have never bent under any man's whip lash. If we are not to have reapportionment the sooner we know it the better. Aside from the gentleman from Lac Qui Parle, I believe there are enough fairminded men in the legislature to do justice to the 80,000 people in St. Louis county, whether I vote yes or no to what the gentleman wants."

1897—Mr. Schmidt, charged by Jacobson with being a corporation attorney, denied it, and said: "I want to remind Mr. Jacobson that I never sold farm machinery and took chattel mortgages and foreclosed them, and at the same time posed as a friend of the farmer."

1901—Representative George Mallory, in reply to a nasty remark from Jacobson, said: "You can't always take the word of the man from Lac Qui Parle unless he furnishes you with some kind of proof. He will bear investigation in a good many instances."

1902—Jacobson refused to allow State Auditor Dunn a hearing before the house on the tonnage tax bill which the man from Lac Qui Parle was then driving through by threats and intimidation, and Representative Laybourn, now senator, said: "That shows the highhanded methods which always characterize Mr. Jacobson. He admits the weakness of his cause when he refuses to give the state auditor a hearing."

1902—Representative Laybourn said: "Mr. Jacobson comes to every session with a stilletto up his sleeve for anything from St. Louis county, and fails to see that this county has any rights."

THE SWEDES IN AMERICA.

That the Swedes who have come to this country in large numbers are here to stay was discovered some time ago by Mr. Lagererantz, the Swedish minister to the United States, who recently attempted to set on foot a movement for the return of these former immigrants to their native country. Few went, and few more will go; for the Swedes have found a congenial home in this country, have adjusted themselves to the conditions they found here with uncommon readiness, and even those of the first generation have become as closely amalgamated with the body of American citizenship as any other nationality that has come to this country. Those of the second generation, of course, are Americans in every sense of the word, and are Swedes only by tradition and because they still hold the praiseworthy respect for their native land that their fathers gave them.

The same thing is true of the Norwegians and the Danes, for all of the Scandinavian families have found in this country just what they expected to find; and while their love for the native land is not abated in the least, they have learned to love the land of their adoption, and are in it and of it for all time to come. They may make occasional visits back home after the competency for which everybody strives has come to them, but they are Americans, and proud of it.

According to a dispatch from Stockholm, another movement has been set on foot, this time to induce the Swedes in America to remain Swedes, to preserve their culture, nationality, customs and language. This is a difficult thing for any nationality to do, and the Swedes have attempted it as little as any other race that has come to this country. The truth is that instead of each separate nationality preserving its homogeneity in this country, each race gives something and each takes something to create the new amalgam, the absolutely new type, that is being made on this continent. The desire to retain the language and customs and culture of the home land is natural, and nothing can be urged against it except that it is difficult, if not impossible.

The Swedes bring with them their culture and their customs, but instead of preserving them intact, they contribute from them whatever is fitting and helpful to the society they find here, and partake with all other nationalities of the compound that results. This country would be poorer if it were not for the culture that each nationality has brought; the Swedes have brought theirs, the Germans have brought theirs, the Norwegians have brought theirs, and the Irish, Scotch, English and others have brought theirs. The result is a sort of mixture of the whole, merged in a new culture that is distinctly American, and that yet partakes in some measure of that which each race has contributed.

Rev. Dr. E. Norelius, for many years president of the Augustana Lutheran synod, expressed it when he said, in his reply to an inquiry sent to many Swedish-Americans by the Stockholms Dagblad, that "here in America has commenced a Swedish-American culture, not Swedish, not American, but a blending of both." John Lind, in reply to the same inquiry, said: "The effort to preserve Swedish culture among the American Swedes is an ideal idea, and as such has cultural worth. However, any permanent result of such work I do not expect. America itself is a land of culture and the inmoving Swede comes within the influence and activity of the American culture." Yet the Swede, like the Norwegian or the German, does not alone take; he gives as well, and the result is the making of the new cosmopolitan culture that is distinctively American no less because of its varying sources.

"THE FUNDAMENTAL ISSUE."

Dr. Lyman Abbott in his Outlook magazine—of which, you may remember, President Roosevelt is to become associate editor when he ceases being president—gives the results of some mental researches he has made into the lower depths of the prevailing campaign issues, and his discovery of a "fundamental issue," which he admits to be "confused, not clear," is by no means without interest.

Though this issue is "confused, not clear," Dr. Abbott insists that it is vital and fundamental—which is of decided importance if it is substantiated. It bears very close relationship with Mr. Bryan's second "paramount issue," which he parallels with "shall the people rule?" That second Bryan issue relates to the securing to every producer of a fair remuneration for his efforts: from society to each according to his gifts to society, and from each to society according to his ability.

The wage system, declares Dr. Abbott, succeeded to slavery and to feudalism. The capitalist no longer owns the man or the land, but he owns the tools. Industry divides into the tool owners and the tool users. This system is less than a century old; "it has been largely developed in my lifetime." He illustrates this by the industrial conditions fifty years ago, when the tool user was also the tool owner. "This simple individualistic industry is gone, never to return." Organization, combination, division of labor, have changed it all. The tool user no longer owns his tools. He can no longer own them because invention, concentration, expansion, put ownership beyond his means. Dr. Abbott might have added that the more complex industrial organization of today could not possibly be served by the obsolete individualistic system which is gone, never to return; and, let us add, happily gone now that it has served its uses.

The outcome, continues Dr. Abbott, is the present clash of the tool owners and tool users, the latter to get and the former to keep the profits coming from the mere use of tools. Dr. Abbott is doubtful if satisfaction of these differences can come, but it "will come only when users of tools, that is the workers—workers with hand and workers with brain, the laborer and the superintendent, the men who produce for the market and the men who find a market for the articles produced—own the tools and the instruments by which the work is carried on. The perpetual problem between working men and capitalists will not be settled until the workingmen become capitalists."

This, we believe, is good thinking and sound reasoning. The individualistic system gave way to the corporate system because it could no longer serve the growing needs of society. The old times were good, but they couldn't last. Somebody had to gather up the threads of competitive business and weave them into the fabric of co-operative business, and the capitalists did it. In doing it they demanded large pay, and took pay too large; and now they think the product of their scheming belongs to them, overlooking the fact that it is at least semi-public, all of it. They are welcome to their pay, even though they took more than they should; but they are not welcome to keep on operating for their own selfish benefit the gigantic system they have built up. That system should be the servant of humanity, not its master. Just how the new deal is to be arranged no man can now say. Certainly government regulation is going to be tried in the endeavor to secure to society its just dues; if that fails society will have simply to take over the system and make it its own: preferring public monopoly to private monopoly.

REGISTER TONIGHT.

If you voted at the primary election you are registered, and you need bother no more about it.

If you did not vote or register then, and if you did not register last Tuesday, your last chance to get into the game is tonight.

In fear that you might overlook it until late in the day, the legislature provided that the polls should be open for purposes of registration until 9 p. m. If you haven't placed yourself in a position to vote your choice at the election a week from Tuesday, you still have a chance to do so.

If you are not registered, you cannot vote. If you do not vote, you are rather less a good citizen than you may believe yourself to be.

Important matters hinge upon this election, many of them. It is not a question of who is going to get this job or that, but of your bread and butter and your peace and contentment and happiness. It is your duty to register, and it is your duty to vote.

Don't overlook that duty. No matter how unpleasant it may be outside, go and register if you haven't already done so.

Register tonight.

Remember to study that tax amendment, and to vote against it.

One week more, and then the campaigners can rest and the voters will act.

It is your last chance to register, if you are one of the several thousands who haven't already done so. Do it tonight. The polls are open until 9 p. m.

Funny how soon people got converted against the guaranty of bank deposits when they found out that it was the other party and not theirs that was advocating it.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Capt. R. K. Toms of Ely, former manager of the Nevada Consolidated mine, is at the St. Louis hotel. Capt. Toms recently returned to Ely from the Nevada mining camps. He is one of the prominent mining men of the range, and one of the men who believes that mining affairs will continue to show an improvement.

Capt. Toms is of the opinion that business conditions in the West are fair and will continue to improve. He believes that Nevada is in its infancy, and that the future holds out great prospects to the Far Western mining state.

The rich mineral discoveries have attracted many miners to Nevada, but in the opinion of many of the men who have been in the state, irrigation will result in it becoming an agricultural and cattle-raising state, as well as one of the great mineral producing states of the Union.

Jack Garvey of Virginia, who was at the St. Louis yesterday, is of thee opinion that Virginia will win the range championship with ease next year. There is some talk of Virginia going into organized baseball. If the town does place a team within the well-defined limitations of organized ball, Mr. Garvey says the town may be depended upon to have one of the best teams in minor league ball.

They have not finished talking baseball on the range. When they get over discussing the winning of this year's cup, they will begin talking of the prospects of winning the cup next year.

Many people in Virginia are of the opinion that their team could shine in organized baseball. They are of the belief that the northern town team had the Duluth baseball team tied to the mast. They are sure that the town would support an organized team, and if some of the plans for placing some of the range towns in a league composed of this city and some other of the towns that have figured in Northern league baseball in the past mature, the idea would find support from the fans of Virginia.

Some of the fans up that way, however, are pretty well satisfied with conditions as they have existed, and they, like the very matter of fact citizens of Missouri, would have to be shown, before they would go into any proposition.

Leonard E. Roseth, the old Wisconsin star football player, who played fullback upon the Cardinal team and was selected for the position upon the phantom all-Western team, says the Cardinals look good to him this year. He believes they will pull the Gophers into the mire of defeat. He is not so sure that Wisconsin will defeat Coach Stagg's Maroons, a team developed around Walter Eckersall's successor in the admiration society of John D. Rockefeller's student body, "Shifty" Steffen, one of the most brilliant running and open field dodging backs in the entire country, and a team that has so far this season proved that it is capable of very brilliant ball, while displaying a very poor defense and slow offense at other times.

However, Mr. Roseth believes that Wisconsin has developed a very strong team this year. He is of the opinion that the Cardinal aggregation will be contenders all the way through, and says the team that wins the Western championship this year will have due respect for the prowess of the Badger team.

Stephen Harris, at the Spalding hotel, received a black hand letter yesterday. The letter threatened his life. The letter was couched in most beautiful English and ran along in an oil-smoothed sequence of well chosen words and sentences. Yet, withal, the sinister threat was there, and were not Mr. Harris such a reckless man, he might be worried and care burdened as a result of the epistle. However, it may be that he suspects the person who sent the letter, and thereby has thrown dismal worry to the four winds. Verily, a distinctive literary style is a thing difficult to mask.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The worst that somebody else has seems better than the best that you have.

People have money so on the brain that they talk even of spending their lives.

A man's idea of a good sermon is when it isn't noisy enough to disturb his nap through it.

Often a man can't be sure whether he is married to a woman or to a collection of sachet bags and a barrel of perfume.

Even a widow who gets married again can have the nerve to tell her husband she had no idea what it would be like or she wouldn't have done it.

Where the finest biscuit, cake, hot-breads, crusts or puddings are required Royal is indispensable.

Not only for rich or fine food or for special times or service. Royal is equally valuable in the preparation of plain, substantial, every-day foods, for all occasions. It makes the food more tasty, nutritious and wholesome.

THE WEATHER.

It was a bit of a surprise party to wake up this morning and find a northeaster merrily dashing rain against the window panes, but there it was. In the night considerable rain fell, and this morning it was still damp and cloudy. The wind went down in the early forenoon, though only temporarily. Later it arose again, and the weather man says it is good for tonight and tomorrow, and that it is likely to be strong enough to warrant the storm warning signals that were raised this morning. Yesterday's highest temperature was 42 degs., and last night's lowest was 40 degs.

A year ago today fine weather prevailed.

The sun rose this morning at 6:39 and sets tonight at 5:06, making 10 hours and 26 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "A storm of considerable intensity has developed over Iowa, attended by rains in the lake region. Central valleys and North Atlantic states, and increasing easterly winds in the lake region. Temperatures are rather mild in the Atlantic states and the Ohio valley. Freezing weather prevails in all districts lying between the 95th and 120th meridians, due to the influence of high pressure areas central over the plateau region and Texas. Indications favor a continuance of rain and strong northerly winds at the Head of the Lakes this afternoon, tonight and Sunday."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Social Conscience.

"Is he a church member?" I asked a friend the other day referring to a man prominent in political and social reforms. "I don't know about that," was the reply, "but he has a social conscience." My friend's answer has lingered in my mind and I have been trying to discover exactly what he meant. I a msure that to him as to many other thoughtful, progressive young men and women the term, which is of comparatively recent origin, signifies a great deal. They are using it as a measuring rod both of parties and individuals. They say that it carries more weight even than the statement that a man belongs to the church for that in itself does not indicate infallibly his attitude toward human society.

I will venture this definition of a social conscience that it is one that operates over a wider area than most consciences have done in the past. What we call the individual conscience has done royal service. It has kept family relationships sweet and pure. It has prevented men from becoming liars and cut-throats. It has impelled them to give honest measure as they have dealt with their fellow-men one by one. It has prompted them to play the patriot's part in the affairs of the state. But the world is bigger than it used to be. Moreover the promptings of the purely individualistic conscience have not been strong and continuous enough to prevent great abuses from growing up and waxing strong in politics, industry and social life.

Clearly then a man must set his conscience to work over a greater territory. The situation, it is true, makes life more complex, but it is a part of the price we pay for the luxury of life in the modern world. To the old-time Christian merchant honesty consisted in scrupulous effort to treat fairly those from whom he bought and to whom he sold. He would not water his molasses or sand his sugar or wink at his clerks for indulging in such devices to increase profits. But at that point it seemed to him that his ethical responsibility ended. But the modern business man confronts such moral problems as how far it is right for him to compete with his neighbor, with what dividends ought he to be satisfied, how much of his profit would he share with those who help him make it.

So with the Christian woman who buys a garment. She has to ask wrether she has any right to buy at so low a price that particular garment into which some other woman's sorrow and shame have been sewed. Then there is that large number of men and women whose income is made up of dividends from corporations. When their social conscience gets to working they ask such questions as these: "Did the company in which I am a stockholder treat the community fairly when it acquired its valuable franchise? Does my share of the profits, however small, represent any variety of graft or public plunder?"

These are but a few illustrations of problems before those who have come to realize that a man has obligations beyond those that he owes to his immediate family or to this or that person with whom he has to do on a purely individualistic basis. There are sins against society as well as against John Smith and Susan Jones. We are bound to think what effect our individuau action and atttitude have upon mankind as a whole.

A parson may not be able to decide for others delicate ethical issues. He may not be able easily to decide his own. But he is bound to rejoice that modern life is approximating daily to those splendid standards erected in the New Testament: "We are members one of another." "Bear ye one another's burdens." "Ye are not your own." Anyone who realizes what these great sentences mean has acquired not only a social consciousness, but a social conscience.

DIET AND HEALTH

INFANT FEEDING.

(Copyrighted, 1908, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

The effects of wrong feeding in adult life, including those of alcoholism and other forms of intemperance, are undoubtedly hereditary whether the habits of alcoholism, tobacco and unnatural eating are transmissible or not. We know that the vitality of the infant is determined by the vitality of the parents—though not altogether by the average vitality—and the powers of nutrition are the fundamental powers transmitted to offspring.

We may not always be able to trace family history in eyes and lungs, but we can always find it in stomach and liver and intestines.

The food of the young dog, horse, cow, ape and human, in common with all other mammalia, is milk. The natural food of the mature dog is flesh; that of the others is vegetable. The digestive systems of the ape and man resemble, slightly, that of the dog; not, I think, as some argue, because their natural food is largely flesh, but because nuts closely resemble flesh, chemically. The gorilla has "canine" teeth, but it is a strict vegetarian. The boar's "canine" teeth are his means of defense.

Albumen, the chief constituent of flesh, is digested chiefly in the stomach by the action of the gastric fluid. Accordingly, the intestine of the dog is short in proportion, the stomach being 60 per cent of the entire digestive tract. The cow's stomach is very complicated; she has, in fact, four stomachs. This is because her natural food requires much dilution with saliva and rumination before it can be passed on to the intestine, not that proteid is the chief element of the cow's food, as in the dog.

Now the stomach of the cow plays a much more important part, relatively to the intestinal digestion, than in man. Cow's milk is, chemically and mechanically, adapted to this physiological difference. It does not as soon break up into small curds, and is, therefore, retained longer in the calf's stomach. This peculiarity partly explains the difficulty of digesting cow's milk and should be considered in any attempt to modify cow's milk so as to adapt it to infant feeding.

We know that the health of the infant, its nervous moods, its physical health and temper in general, are influenced by those of the mother, through the food. This alone would indicate the impossibility of perfect adaptation of cow's milk to infant feeding. At best it is unnatural, but as it is in many cases necessary, partly or entirely, we must make the most of it. An imperfectly nourished child is more liable to diseases of childhood and survives with greater difficulty. Food is not, of course, the only requirement for health, but it is fundamental.

While the food of all young mammalia is milk, yet the milk is adapted to their varying development and varies to a large degree, as the food of the parent. The milk of the dog, for instance, typical of flesh-eating animals, contains about six times as much proteid as that of non-flesh eaters, including man. This proteid in human milk is about one-third that in cow's and sheep's milk. Wool requires a large percentage of proteid, and the cow as she exists today produces three times as much solids, including fat, as most other herbivorous animals, largely because the demand for "rich" milk has caused the rejection of those animals that yielded thin milk. The fat, however, in rich dairy cow's and human milk is nearly equal, but the sugar in the former is only about half. The fat in dog's milk is three times that in human milk, the sugar one-third. This variation indicates that fruit sugar should form a large part of the food of infants, as of children and adults. The supply of candy to children, or of cane sugar, in the form of cheap candies, poisoned with coloring matters, instead of fruit sugar, which is an important element of the natural diet, is a serious error. The importance of vegetable fat in the diet of children above the infant stage should also be considered.

In cases in which cow's milk must be used, care should be taken to see that the cow is healthy, unless herd milk is used, that no preservative is used, that the bottles and other vessels with which it comes in contact are washed well with boiling water, never with river or cistern water, that it is not unnecessarily exposed to dust or barnyard contamination, for milk absorbs bacteria as a sponge absorbs water and they develop very rapidly. The feeding bottle should be thoroughly washed in boiling water after and before using. It is best to have two, the one not in use kept immersed in a solution of common baking soda.

Cow's milk can not be made identical with the infant's natural food; but it can be approximated to it. The chief difficulty to be overcome is to modify the large curds of cow's milk that tend to remain in the stomach longer than they should, as the development of the calf's stomach requires that its food shall have a much heavier curd than that required by the infant, in which intestinal digestion is more important. The use of lactic tablets, as explained in my last article, entirely obviates this difficulty besides overcoming other objections to the use of cow's milk.

To reduce the proportion of the elements in cow's milk to approximately the standard of human milk, pour off about half of the fat that settles to the top of the bottle; add as much water as the whole amount of milk and a tablespoonful of sugar. Milk sugar is to be preferred to cane sugar, always objectionable. The addition of a little lime water is, in many cases, beneficial.

As a rule infants, like adults, are overfed. No doubt, one of the reasons for the greater endurance and freedom from disease of wild animals is the fact that the young are less likely to be overfed, as every naturalist knows. An infant probably would starve in one-tenth the time that an adult can subsist without food, but eating too often and too much becomes a habit with the infant as with the adult. An infant may cry for food when it is food drunk; what it may need is water. And children cry for other reasons than because they are hungry. Stopping an infant's cry continually with food is easy but unwise.

Nature provides an extremely light diet for the first few days of infancy. Let us not supersede her method till we know better.

Once every two hours is often enough for the first month and every third hour thereafter. If there is a real demand between the periods, sweetened water should be given (distilled or boiled water and milk sugar). Constant overfeeding causes an abnormal appetite, as in the adult, that is never satisfied.

No definite rule can be laid down as to the amount required. The best that has been suggested is, an ounce for each month, beginning with two ounces, increasing to eight ounces at eight months, after which full milk will be used. Moderate, judicious exercise now becomes important. A childe needs exercise before it can walk. The freer its opportunities for movement the better.

The infant digestive system is not adapted to cereal food, always a cause of more or less digestive difficulty and expenditure of vitality, even in the adult. Under no circumstances should white bread, moistened with tea, coffee, milk or gravy be given to an infant.

There are many infant foods on the market, composed of cereals or of cereals with milk, malted. In cases of milk poisoning, or of serious digestive disorder resulting from unbalanced feeding, due to the inadaptability of cow's milk, something must be substituted for the milk, but it does not follow that because a child improves on the substitution of one of these prepared cereals, it is better as a permanent diet. It is also well to keep in mind that a child is not healthy merely because it is fat. It may be failing to develop the digestive system normally. It may become so "flabby" that it will fall a prey to disease when the fatty degeneration has reached its limit and the conditions are favorable for disease.

The common practice, when cow's milk disagrees, is to adapt the milk by mixing it with oatmeal or barley water. This cereal tends to break up the coarse curd of cow's milk, but it is in itself unsuitable, though the remedy is better than the disease; the prepared foods are better as the cereal in them is malted.

Cereal foods are digested with difficulty by the adult and should not be given freely to children. Coarse bread, never less than two days old, is preferable to fine white bread which a child should never be given fresh.

At the age of one year, a very small quantity of pulverized fresh peanut may be taken, at noon, in water, forming a peanut cream, and the amount very gradually increased till at two it forms half the diet. A small piece of zwiebach may now be added to the evening meal and very gradually increased till it becomes one-half, by weight, of the evening meal, when both should be continued.

At three, the regular diet of childhood should be fully established. At 7 in the morning a drink of water with lemond juice and only enough sugar to make it acceptable; at 8, apple, cantaloupe, ripe banana or other fruit; nothing else, unless water is called for. At 10 as much artificial buttermilk as can be taken; at noon a slice or more of whole wheat or combination cereal bread with pulverized peanut. If the child is really hungry and healthy he will eat this with good relish.

At 3 give the modified milk. At 6 zwiebach with honey or, if preferred, prunes only. Give water as often as called for between meals, but nothing else.

Let the solicitous parent be fully assured that this diet will develop the highest qualities of body and mind and that sickness will be avoided, if the child is properly aired, watered, exercised and amused and protected from stagnated, foul air, bad water and sudden changes of temperature or too much clothing in warm weather.

The goat is the healthiest of all animals, always free from tuberculosis. Its milk is in every respect superior to cow's as a substitute in infant feeding, and it ought to be adopted for general use, there being no reasonable objection but lack of knowledge of the facts.

It is a poor goat that will not give from one to four quarts of milk a day, and it costs no more to feed than a dog, where there is a fair-sized back yard.

Tests show that goat's milk approximates to the natural infant's food more cisely than does cow's milk. Digestive tests indicate it to be three times more digestible, the curds being much finer and the fat far more soluble.

Absolute cleanliness and freedom from disease is, however, the chief recommendation of goat's milk.

"Go to the hills and drink goat's milk," was the prescription of Hippocrates, the father of medicine, for tuberculosis. We are making the search for a cure for "the great white plague" a serious matter, as it should be, but the true cure is at least fully suggested in the method of the Greek physician.

Dr. Koch, the eminent discoverer of the tuberculosis germ, says the bovine and the human germ are not the same. However, this may be, milk from a tuberculosis animal is unwholesome; it may furnish a medium for the culture of tuberculosis. A case is on record in which a farmer, prohibited from selling the milk of an infected herd, fed it to his hogs and they were infected.

Now comparative anatomy and physiology and evolution attest that the nutritive system of the pig closely resembles man's.

It is chiefly because of the superior healthfulness, in general, of the goat, and its immunity from tuberculosis in particular, that I have advocated the substitution of goat's for cow's milk in infant feeding.

TAKES ISSUE WITH DR. ALLEN

Dr. R. O. Beard of the University of Minnesota Disputes Statements by the Food Specialist.

An article published in The Herald of Oct. 10 by Dr. J. T. Allen, who signs himself "Food Specialist," is so full of scientifically unsupported statements, calculated to delude the credulous or the unknowing, as to deserve some reply.

That food in subdivided or in semi-fluid form leaves the stomach prematurely, is Dr. Allen's first caption. The passage of food out of the stomach is governed by its character and by the chemical conditons of the mass and not by its merely physical conditions. Liquid fat or starch mucilage, which are not digested in the stomach at all, will remain, despite their physical condition, in the stomach for hours. It follows that the theory of better meat digestion, en masse, is physically untenable.

Moreover, the action of the digestive ferments is dependent upon the surface of exposure offered by the foodstuffs and it is favored, therefore, by the trituration and solution of meat proteins. A solution of egg albumen is as well digested in the stomach as anything else. Since all proteins are dissolved in the gastric juice, as the first step in the process of digestion, there is no advantage, but rather disadvantage, in their introduction in mass.

Equally fallacious is the agrument in regard to the digestion of starchy food. Since rice, properly cooked and sufficiently masticated, enters the stomach in the form of soluble starch and dextrins; since it is not ordinarily converted into sugars by the saliva to any large extent, and, so far as it is, is changed to isomaltose, a non-fermentable sugar; since it is not susceptible of digestion by the gastric juice—it follows that rice does not undergo fermentation in the stomach, as Dr. Allen suggests. Hence, it makes no difference how long it stays there. Furthermore, a premature expulsion of meat is not caused by its admixture with rice or any other foods.

Protein foods are not principally acted up, nor completely digested, in the stomach. The stomach is simply a great macerating reservoir for the reduction to semi-fluid form of the several food materials and for the partial conversion of the protein stuffs.

Admixture of foods is distinctly favorable to appetite and digestion. Since desirable forms and pleasant flavors serve as stimuli to the sense organs of sight, taste and smell, and since these influences beget the appetite juice, upon which the success of the subsequent digestive events so largely depends, it follows that benefit lies in food mixture. A dinner of many courses does not offer to the digestive organs fifty different kinds of food, no matter what it consists of, but simply so many different and more or less favorable combinations of the same identical forms, four in number—proteins, fats, carbohydrates and salts. For instance, there is protein in rice and bread, as there is in meat and milk, and there are fats artificially or naturally combined with them.

The argument that a pig lives exclusively on acorns—a doubtful proposition for the intelligent pig with free choice of dietary—is not an argumentum ad hominem. It is a manifest reductio ad absurdum. The Hungarian peasant lives largely on black bread, or the Irish peasant on potatoes, simply because he has to. Rather he starves upon them, at time, and remains robust, despite his dietary privation, because of his otherwise free and natural environment.

Health may be maintained, of weight sustained or even increased, for a time, upon a mono-diet, but the best result, by way of appetite, digestion and nutrition, are secured by a generously mixed dietary. The human, like every other animal, is a creature of habit, but habit is not necessarily mischievous. There is no virtue in breaking a good habit, nor is there any particular merit in the "tapering off" plan of breaking a bad one. It is merely making a truce with the weakness of one's feeble will.

Most of us eat too much and for many of us a simpler regimen would be desirable. But, whatever his needs, the rational hygienist steers clear of the mischief of extremes.

THOUGHTS ON BOYS

By J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.
Author of "The Young Man and Himself," etc.

HIS PLAY.

(Copyrighted, 1908, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

He is a prodigious toiler—at play. As a toiler he is also at times a terror. Davie lived, as a lad, in Southern California. One time his father sent him to spend awhile with the lad's uncle in Northern California because down there they were expecting an unexpected visit—to use a Hibernicism—from an earthquake and wanted the most precious things out of the reach of harm. The next week came a telegram from the uncle saying: "Come and get your boy and send me the earthquake." And yet he was just playing. It was pure fun, not a bit of meanness in it. Playing is a very serious business with him and fun ranks among the solemnities.

It is not for a moment claimed by him, or any one of his anxious friends, that play is not hard work. Digging postholes or worming tobacco, or carrying a hod, or feeding a threshing machine, or driving oxen, or selling goods from a bargain counter is light and lithesome work as compared with the labor of a lad at play. That is where most of the fun comes from. If he could be induced to put that amount of physical activity and mental absorption and emotional rapture and undefiled conscience into some well-planned enterprise he could achieve wonders and make fortunes. But there would be no fun in that, and, besides, it would require him to give up his job of being a boy.

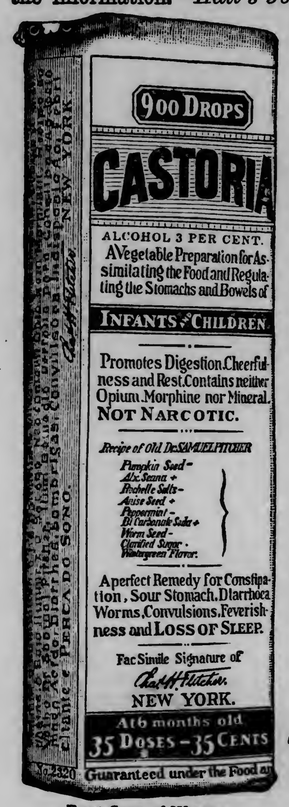

An outlet for his energies is necessary, and to the innocent bystander this is the most agreeable of all the outlets. For his growing muscles and bones and his unstable nerves give us the only form of perpetual motion that students of mechanics can, as yet, point to with confidence. This particular outlet is the one that nature arranged for in advance and, in order to make sure that he would utilize it, gave him the play instinct, self-operative and irrepressible, so that it is play or perish. We can easily see then that the more work required in play the more nature is succeeding with her nice little scheme of giving his energies plenty to do, and the boy gets all the benefit of it. Going fishing is no sinecure, with cutting poles and digging bait and climbing over banks and wading into the water at critical moments and carrying home the heavy catch of—colds and explanations of the poor luck. Mowing the yard is nothing to it, but that is undisguised work. At school the strenuous work begins with the morning recess and reaches the perspiring point during the longer play hour at noon. And that is the most attractive part of the school to him, except when the teacher has bone-felon or influenza and cannot come at all. The ordinary noon meal is not especially enticing, though he is always ready for it. Yet a picnic lunch, designed for the noon hour, can not be kept on the outside of him later than 9:30 a. m. He is anticipating the time when, in his later boyhood, play will gradually give way to the encroachment of work and he will try to find solace in special gastronomic feats. I recall it as if it were yesterday. Apples lasted in our cellar till May or June and the lining of my coat pockets was gone, so that the coat and its lining formed one mammoth pocket. As I went out to plow in the morning that pocket was full of apples and on my return at noon I was full of the apples, yet with no lack of room for dinner. History would repeat itself in the afternoon. In those days the apples were the substitute for play. Another peculiar fact is that there is a low grade of disease, like stomach-ache for instance, that entirely unfits a boy for school or chores, but puts him in prime condition for play.

If, as it has been said, going to school and work generally are the prose of his life and play is its poetry, play with his own crowd is the dramatic poetry, play with his opponents the epic and play with his sweetheart is the lyric. But perhaps he is not interested in this analysis. With his 5,000,000 cells all on the jump, he is finding poetry in exploring woods and caves, digging for hidden treasure, living a few days in a tent, going nutting, climbing trees in order to survey the country and to hasten the coming of new trousers, collecting specimens, coasting, skating and playing the regularion games. There is a fine poetic touch in the way he makes preparations for play, and when that is done in school and other inappropriate places, it is often as good as the play itself.

Besides being an outlet for energies, play has vast possibilities of a practical kind. It is an index of his attainments. They say that his infancy period ends at six and ends the period of greatest physical activity in his whole life. But boyhood proper then begins and the play instinct with it. You know his age by the way he plays. The imitative play belong to infancy. The play with others, not for the sake of comradeship so much as for help in playing—every fellow for himself—that is the play of boyhood proper. At about 12 he is at another stage, when he is aware of social relationship, and then he plays in team work. So his plays first express his physical activities, then turn instincts into personal habits and finally undertake to shape his social ideals. His plays may serve his intellectual needs, by being a study of history—Indian and pioneer history especially. They may even be work, provided they aer work disguised as play. As he plays aright and under wise direction, he is growing in truth and honor and unselfishness and loyalty. It pays to play.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ills., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

MRS. ELIZABETH B. GRANNIS

Sketch of One of Most Prominent American Workers to Better the Conditions for Womanhood and Childlife.

New York, Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis, who has been a delegate from the National Council of Women to the International Council, which was held at Geneva, Switzerland, last month, will return within a week or two from her European trip.

Mrs. Grannis is one of the most notable of American women. An inborn enthusiasm, an unquenchable power of will and a faith in her calling which nothing can shake—these qualities have built the foundation of her remarkable achievements for the public weal.

Like the majority of "those who have builded better than they knew" in any field. Mrs. Grannis began her efforts early. In fact, she was but a slip of a child when she first appreciated the vast need of the world for workers who would give their strength of body, heart and mind for the uplifting of the needy, the enlightenment of the ignorant and the comfort and inspiration of the discouraged. It was her inexhaustible enthusiasm that led her as a girl of 11 to go dinnerless on Sundays in order to collect from the slums her seven small charges—members of her class in Bible school. This same enthusiasm and belief in visible oneness of the church led her to labor twenty-three years, making every personal sacrifice in the interest of the Church Union, a weekly religious newspaper which she owned and edited. She succeeded by this same indomitable enthusiasm in securing the service of such co-workers as Rev. Dr. Howard Crosby, chancellor of the University of New York, to serve continuously for eighteen years as contributing editor, representing the Presbyterian body; also in the same office, Bishop John P. Newman, representing the Methdist Episcopal church, for seventeen years in its relation to the Church Union, until the death of each. She also brought into active service of the Church Union, thousands of representatives from the various evangelical bodies. She also owned and edited the Children's Friend and Kindergarten, seven years. Her success in this exemplified her principles of co-labor of the sexes. She has always maintained the justice of woman's right and ability to achieve an equal success with man in whatever was the chosen field. She believes Christians should render aggressive and progressive service and she has long represented radicalism in Christian and social life—this is in accord with her Puritan ancestry, having been born in Hartford, Conn., sixty odd years ago, of Scotch and English descent.

MRS. ELIZABETH B. GRANNIS.

Her father's death in childhood laid upon her a sense of responsibility to become self-supporting, and stimulated her indefatigable brain in its first serious work—that of teaching in the public schools of Ohio, at 17 years of age. Afterwards she became a student at Lake Erie seminary, Painesville, Ohio, and a few years later married Col. Frederick W. Grannis, making her home in New York.

But her activity in the world's work never relaxed. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has had her support since its inception. Kindergarten work, missionary labors, peace and arbitration, child-protection — these have claimed their part of her busy life, while many municipal reforms such as have the placing of matrons in the police stations of New York, have been largely brought about by her earnest efforts. For eleven years she worked against almost hopeless odds to procure the passage of the fidelity bill in marriage, now a law on the statute books. Seventeen years consecutively she has been elected president of the National Christian league for the promotion of purity, and withal she has found time to maintain a home for many needy women and girls for more than fourteen years at No. 5 East Twelfth street, New York city. She has aided largely in freeing from lunatic asyiums those who had been unjustly detained therein; to travel about the world attending conventions, and to work for many other reforms that have called for her efforts.

She throws her mental and physical energies into such undertakings as enlist her sympathy, in a manner that would daunt a man of average stamina, but so long as life is loaned her she will go steadily on winning battles for right and pointing out the path of progress and purity to her fellows of both sexes.

Train Hits Two Horses.

Stillwater, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two valuable young horses owned by Moritz Bergstein were struck by a train early Friday while on the Omaha track near Oak Park. Both were hurled some distance. One sustained injuries to the head and isn't likely to recover. The other had a leg injured and its hip lacerated, and it will probably live.

Dr. MITCHELL

Corner First St. and Fourth Ave. West, One Block East of Postoffice.

A record of nearly eleven years of the most remarkable cures; old cases of rheumatism and paralysis, helpless for years are made to walk, old supposed incurable cases of deafness and blindness that had wrecked people's lives for a score of years; nervous prostration, women who from female weakness and disease have become infirmed invalids and are cured in a short time. He has cured case after case of stomach troubles, constipation, kidney and bladder trouble; removed troublesome growths, cured cancers. Dr. Mitchell in talking to a reporter a few days ago, said: "I know that I have a treatment that will reach diseases which medicine will not. My treatment stands upon its merits and will bear the closest investigation."

SOCIETY

SAD NOVEMBER promises to provide more social diversion than any of the autumn months. House cleaning has been the excuse for social inactivity for several weeks, and the charitable efforts of the Duluth branch of the Needlework guild has occupied many women for the last two weeks. Little else is promised for next week, but in November there is already the promise of several interesting functions. The annual charity ball, always the largest and most brilliant affair of the early winter season, is to receive even more attenion this year and the members of the board of the Children's Home are already beginning preparations for the event, and promise that it shall be an affair to eclipse all former balls. The first meeting of the board in the interests of the ball was held Monday morning of this week and the president, Mrs. T. J. Davis, named her committees for the preparations. They are: Decoration committee, Mrs. C. F. Lum, Mrs. A. C. Hubbell, Mrs. T. F. Cole and Mrs. J. G. Williams; ballroom and refreshment committee, Mrs. J. H. Crowley, Mrs. John Panton and Miss Hoatson; music committee, Mrs. A. D. Goodman and Mrs. J. N. McKindley; invitation committee, Mrs. Fred White, Mrs. S. R. Holden and Mrs. Katherine Van Loo; floor committee, Mrs. H. H. Myers, Mrs. S. R. Holden and Mrs. T. F. Cole; press committee, Mrs. Fred White, Mrs. J. N. McKindley and Mrs. M. R. Baldwin.

The ball will be held, as usual, the Tuesday evening preceding Thanksgiving, at the Spalding hotel.

"The Talk of the Town," an amateur musical comedy will be given at the Spalding early in November, and during the next two weeks many of the young society people will be busily engaged with rehearsals. A number of the young society people have organized a cotillion club, which will provide some of the delightful dancing affairs of the winter. The first cotillion will be given Tuesday evening, Nov. 13, at Steinway hall.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

The Round-up.

The round-up of the Duluth branch of the Needlework Guild will take place Tuesday of next week at the store at 115 East Superior street. In former years the executive officers have been put to extra work by the late arrival of garments and it is greatly desired that those who have not already sent their contributions to the section presidents do so on Monday at the very latest. The section presidents must have their lists and contributions at the store room Tuesday or the garments will not be counted in with this year's offering, but yill remain over for 1909. This is very important and every contributor is especially urged to note the request of the officers.

The garments will be collected and counted and sorted Tuesday. Wednesday the year's offering of the society will be displayed at the store rooms and upon Thursday the distribution of garments will take place. With the first real touch of the cold weather which has come during the week, the object of the society's endeavor is brought with particular force to those thinking of the care of the needy during the cold months and it is expected that this year's contribution will exceed all other years.

The Duluth branch of the guild contributes to almost every charitable organization of the city as well as many individual cases which are brought to its attention. The simplicity of the charity combined with the great amount of good accomplished, appeals to many women. The contributions of two garments each year for distribution among the poor and needy is the only requirement for membership, and any Duluth woman desiring to contribute will be provided with the lists of executive officers, any one of which will receive her contribution. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week will be busy ones for those Duluth women interested in this charity.

D. A. R. Meetings.

Both of the local chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution held the first meeting of the autumn during the week.

Monday forty members of the Greysolon du Lhut chapter of the society entertained at the annual luncheon at the Spalding. The day, Oct. 19, is the anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis and of the organization of the Greysolon chapter, and is observed each year with a luncheon and informal program of toasts. Monday's affair was especially delightful. The table decorations were in ferns and red roses and small American flags which were provided as favors for the guests. The table which were set in the form of a "T," presented an especially beautiful appearance. Mrs. George M. Smith, the retiring regent, presided as toastmistress, and the new regent, Mrs. W. H. Burris, who was installed during the afternoon, read an original poem on the American flag. The informal history of the year of the chapter meeting and the members was read by the historian, Mrs. Julia M. Barnes, and an informal social hour was enjoyed.

The annual picnic of the Daughters of Liberty chapter of the society was an indoor affair held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. E. W. Markell at Witchwood. The picnic is always a reunion preceding the plans for the regular year's work. After an informal social meeting, Miss Jessie Mauch, superintendent of the Bethel Rescue Home, told of the work of that institution, and it was decided by the society to expend their charitable efforts during the year for that institution.

A report of the national meeting held in April, at Washington, was given by Mrs. J. L. Washburn, who was in attendance at the meeting, and the delegates for the state meeting were named.

To Attend State Meeting.

Friday of next week the annual state meeting of the Minnesota Daughters of the Revolution will be held at St. Paul. The Daughters of Liberty chapter of this city will be represented by Miss L. Ella Roe, with Mrs. J. L. Washburn as alternate. Miss Barber of this chapter will also attend the meeting.

The Greysolon duLhut will have as its representatives at the meeting Mrs. W. H. Burris and Mrs. Julia M. Barnes. Other members of this chapter who are planning to attend the meetings are: Mrs. O. H. Clark and Mrs. M. W. Turner.

Lester Park Club.

The Lester Park Literary club will meet Tuesday, Oct. 27, at the home of Mrs. Vaughn, 5335 London road. The program of the day will be, "Russia's Conversion to Christianity," "Its Expansion Northward," "German Invasion and Mongal Invasion," "Map Sutdy of Russia," "The Tsais People." Mrs. Helen Stewart, leader.

To Study German Literature.

The German Literary class of the Twentieth Century club will meet next Tuesday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at the Library club rooms. Mrs. George R. Gehauer will read a paper on "Nieberlungen lied," and Mrs. H. J. Kolling will begin the reading of a paper on "Lieberlungen Ring."

Oratorio Society.

The Duluth Oratorio society will have a social gathering immediately following its regular rehearsal next Tuesday evening. Vocalists wishing to join the chorus must do so then, as new applicants will not be received for "The Messiah" after that date.

The meetings are held in the lecture room of the First Methodist church. During the week Horace W. Reyner, director of the society, has been at Chicago to secure soloists for the Christmas concert, when "The Messiah" will be sung.

Executive Board Meeting.

A meeting of the executive board of the Twentieth Century club will be the club room of the library, held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at Rubinkam Lectures.

The last two lectures of the course being presented before the Twentieth Century club of this city by Dr. N. I. Rubinkam of Chicago will be given during the coming week. Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the First Baptist church Dr. Rubinkam will speak on Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman," and Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock the subject of his talk will be Hauptmann's "The Sunken Bell."

These two lectures promise to be among the most interesting of the course.

All-day Session.

Trinity Guild of the pro-catherral will hold an all-day session Monday in the guild rooms.

Art School Reception.

The board of managers of the Duluth Art school received informally at the rooms Wednesday afternoon, and in spite of the weather an interested number of guests called during the afternoon. The regular fall term of the school opened Oct. 1, and although many are availing themselves of the privileges of the school, there are many young students in the city who perhaps do not realize the benefits and advanced work which is made possible to them through the classes of the school.

In the rooms devited to the life classes the tea was held. The tea table was prettily decorated in autumn leaves, and presiding were Mrs. J. B. Adams and Mrs. Walter Turle. The members of the board of managers are: Mrs. H. C. Marshall, Mrs. J. B. Weston, Mrs. Julius H. Barnes, Mrs. F. W. Paine, Mrs. H. S. Mahon, Mrs. J. D. Titcomb, Miss Carey, Miss Robertson, Miss Thomson, Miss Naughton, Miss Poirier, Miss L. Ella Roe and Miss Hopkins.

During the receivnig hours, from 4 to 6 o'clock, there was an almost steady pour of rain, but fifty guests braved the weather and were much interested. The business and professional interests of the city were well represented.

the EVENING STORY

The Strange Case of Subaltern Andrews

By Harlowe Randall Hoyt.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

(Found among the papers of the late Douglas Mordowell, M. D., of the First British brigade, H. M. A.)

When I became acquainted with Subaltern Andrews, he bore the reputation of being a peculiar fellow. He was among those returning from sick leave when I joined the brigade just before it was detailed on the Soudan expedition. From the first, all considered him with suspicion.

Perhaps it was his appearance that caused him to be regarded askance—for the slight figure and sallow face, pitted with frosty blue eyes and topped with a shock of yellow hair, were not calculated to beget confidence; nor was his attractiveness enhanced by a sickly yellowish scar that seared the left cheek from eye to mouth. Perhaps it was the rumor that his youth was spent among lower India priests, versed in all things unholy and mystical. After he pulled me out of a night skirmish with a Soudan spear through my thigh he became more intimate with me than with any man in the regiment.

The better I came to know him, the more I wondered at the scope of Andrews' knowledge. Why he was satisfied to remain a paltry subaltern when he might have gained instant recognition in psychological fields, was a mystery.

One of his most peculiar ideas was the recognition of an independent mind, that controlled our violable acts, and a subjective mind, of which we were not conscious. The wildest part of his theory arose from the fact that he believed the latter could exist independently.

Andrews' peculiar affliction asserted itself before we started for Khartum. Early one morning—at the beginning of June, my diary has it—word was brought of his illness. The preceding night, he had been discovered near his quarters, apparently dead drunk. Efforts to rescusitate him proved useless, he had been left to sleep off his debauch. The troops were leaving, but Andrews had not recovered consciousness.

I found him stretched on a cot, apparently asleep. His breathing was regular, his temperature normal, his pulse steady. Only the impossibility of awakening him indicated the depth of the lethargy. Greatly puzzled, I worked over him, and when I was almost ready to give up in despair, he finally came to his senses.

His actions upon recovering were those of a man awakened from a sound sleep. He yawned, stretched himself, and seemed slightly dazed. I explained his condition to him. He was at a loss to explain it.

In the beginning the seizures asserted themselves for short periods at long intervals. As time went on, they increased in frequency and duration.

It was at the close of a burning day in August. The detachment encamped at a turn in the Nile. Andrews and I wandered away from camp to the remains of an old temple a half mile distant.

I sprawled comfortably at the base of a broad browed sphinx. Andrews, never quiet, was mousing within the ruins. Suddenly a startled cry brought me to my feet.

"Hi, McDowell!" came from Andrews. "Here, quick!"

"What is it?" I asked, hastening to join him.

"See that," he returned, pointing downwards.

Of the inner temple, only a row of mutiliated stone phinxes remained. At the base of one jutted a pile of dust-covered stone, once an abutment of masonry. Beneath these, Andrews had discovered a downward flight of stairs. Not fully wakened, I gazed, half dazed, until he started forward.

I followed him. As I blinked helplessly in the darkness, Andrews ran past me up the stairs.

"Where are you going?" I called after him.

"For a light," he replied. "There's a sarcophagus down there."

He returned presently with an armful of dry sticks. As my eyes accustomed themselves to the light, I discerned a huge wedge-shaped something at the farther end of the vault. It was the sarcophagus. It was of cedar wood, plain and undecorated. The customary inscriptions, absent from the walls, were missing here. At either side, were eight little tongues of wood met in eight corresponding mortises, holding bottom and top together.

Andrews examined them with evident interest.

"Strange there should be eight," he said, half aloud. "Four was the usual number."

"How do you know?" I asked curiously.

"I don't," he answered. Then turning to me, he continued: "Doctor, do you know I've been here before."

I stared at him in amazement.

"Been here before?" I repeated, querulously. "When? How?"

"I don't remember," he answered, thoughtfully. "It was very long ago—so long that it seems almost like a dream. The place was filled with people then, men and women with dark faces and white robes. Their lights cast just such shadows as our lights cast. But this," he indicated the sarcophagus, "this is open, and there was a man with them who fought, and they bound him, and—but what am I talking about?" he broke off abruptly. "Let's get the thing open."

It was hard work with only our pocket knives, for the wood was well seasoned. To tell the truth, I worked half-heartedly, for I was troubled by Andrews' rambling talk. Finally the last tongue split and we lifted off the cover. A suffocating cloud of mummy dust arose, filling mouth and eyes, and blinding me. Then came the crash of a falling body. When I gained my sight I found myself in darkness.

I called for Andrews, but only hollow echoes and squeaking bats replied. There was a silence, and then—from the sarcophagus came the rustle of dry linen, and the knock—knock—knocking against its sides, as of some one turning restlessly. Filled with a strange terror I turned and fled and stumbled over Andrews' prostrate form.

My hand closed on a torch by chance, and I hastened to relight it. It took but a glance to show me that the subaltern's malady was upon him. I administered a stimulant which I found very effective during the last stages of his trouble, and had the satisfaction of seeing him soon recover. In spite of my protests, he persisted in the examination.

We found the body face downward—an unusual thing, for mummies are invariably placed flat on their backs. The customary gold face mask was missing. As we turned the body something fluttered at the breast. I plucked it off and held it to the light. It proved a bit of papyrus covered with hieroglyphics. Before I could distinguish more, Andrews snatched it from me. He studied it for a moment, then read slowly:

"Seta, the high priest, having proven false to his honor, disloyal to his country and unfaithful to his gods, suffers death. May the curse of Osiris, Isis and Horus rest upon him!"

"I wonder how I know what those signs mean?" he remarked querulously.

I made no reply. Things were becoming altogether too uncanny to suit me. In silence we started to expose the dead.

The mummy cloth was of finest linen, yellow with age and fragrant with spices that sifted out as we unwound it. Pitch and resin were missing from the seams. Instead, the cloth was fastened with strong cross-bandages, knotted firmly about the limbs. At the end of the wrapping we found a shapeless bag, into which the mummy had been thrust head first. I unfastened the strings and Andrews slowly withdrew the covering.

"Do you know, doctor," he began, as he rolled the cloth over the breast, "this mummy isn't a mummy at all. I believe for the life of me that it was buried alive, for—Oh, my God! My God! —"

His voice rose to a wild shriek, then sunk to an incoherent mumble. I gazed at him in surprise. His face was ghastly green in the wavering light; his eyes were fixed on the mummy with a stony steadfastness; he swayed from side to side and fell heavily to the floor.

I lifted my torch and threw the glare within the sarcophagus. As I did so I came near dropping it through sheer terror. Another Andrews lay before me. There was the same slight form and weasel face, with its side-burnt nose and sparse crown of sallow hair. The same scar seamed the left cheek from eye to mouth. I glanced from the living to the dead. There was not one whit difference.

I turned from the Thing to Andrews. I placed my hand on his heart. It had ceased to beat.

With nervous dread I glanced apprehensively over my shoulder. Already the air was affecting the Thing. Even as I looked it crumbled away and ascended in a cloud of dust, leaving a wisp of hair and a few yellow bones.

What caused the death of Subaltern Andrews? Did the same soul infuse both men? Did Seta know the torments of the living death Andrews suffered in his inexplicable comas? Or was it only a freak of fate and nature that the living should look upon his prototype in the dead?

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Abused Indian Woman Will Go Back to the Tepee.

Old-Time Railroad Man is "Down and Out."

Showing the marks of ill-treatmtent all over her body and with her face scratched and marred from abuse at the hands of George Page, a wood peddler, with whom she has been living, Mrs. Grace Duby appeared in police court this morning to testify against the man who has mistreated her.

Mrs. Duby is a French-Indian, her mother being a full-blooded Chippewa and as she told her pitiful tale to Judge Cutting the tears streamed down her cheeks. It seems that ever since her husband was drowned several years ago in the Duluth ship canal she has kept house for Page as return for her board. During this time she has washed and done other work for other families in addition to her home work, thereby bringing in odd sums which Page insisted on taking from her. When she refused he beat her and last night it got to a point where she made up her mind to stand it no longer, she claims. Out of her small earnings she has saved enough to take her back to the home of her people near Marquette, to which place she will go this afternoon. She was afraid Page would stop her and asked the police to see that he did not interfere.

She was accompanied by her little daughter, a most beautiful child of about 9 years.

John J. Donovan, a man who was at one time high in railroad circles, but a nervous wreck as a result of drink, was in on the same old charge—drunk.

The police have a liking for the man that they have for very few of the regular lodgers at the station. He was once employed on the Great Northern road, but for the past five years he has been down and out. Several times the department has tried to brace him up giving him money and clothing, but each time he has come back.

William Hawkins hit town last night with a full money purse and a very dry throat. He started in at Sixth avenue west and gradually worked his way East, letting no thirst parlor escape him. When he got to Lake avenue along about midnight William was carrying a load that was close to being too much. He was given a fine of $3 by Judge Cutting, as he has not been in court for nearly three months.

MANY THOUSAND CARS THIS YEAR

Shipments of Grain Through Staples is Heaviest in Years.

Staples, Minn., Oct. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The shipments of grain through this point this year have been the heaviest in years. The heavy shipments did not start till September, but during that month 7,843 cars were inspected by the grain inspectors at this place, making the largest receipts for any one month during the past ten years.

Superintendent-in-Charge O. F. Phillips says that the receipts at this station are now running about 200 cars per day, which is heavy, even for this time of year. It does not appear that an unsually large crop has been harvested, but that there are many more growers of wheat than formerly. The vast prairies of North Dakota and Canada, which have been settled the past few years, have just begun to produce their full wheat crop.

The shipments that pass through here either go to Duluth or Minneapolis. These have been increasing steadily.

The shipments passing through here to Minneapolis and Duluth will make a total this year considerably in excess of that of last year, which was 25,642 cars.

The grain inspection business is quite a business of itself. The law compels that every car shipped to a central point be tested, to guard against cheating on the part of the shipper or buyer of the grain. The state has inspectors and Duluth and the Twin City grain commission men each have inspectors to test the cars. The state is now employing nine men at this place, with O. F. Phillips as superintendent in charge. The other nine are: R. C. Schnider, M. Morrison, L. D. Taylor, Warren Lee, Ed Johnson, Alfred McRae, B. H. Gerlich, J. Barry and William Cody.

The Duluth grain sampling bureau has H. F. Hanks in charge and Ed Pattison, George Lewis and William Minters as assistants.

The chamber of commerce sampling bureau of Minneapolis has Robert Clifford to look after their interests.

The expense of inspection is not borne by the state, as many think, but by the owners and buyers of the grain. An assessment of 20 cents per car on wheat and coarse grain, and 75 cents per car on flax is made, which pays for all the expense. This small assessment does not amount to very much to the shipper, but means a safeguard to him that amounts to far more than the cost.

BOY AND GIRL MARRIAGE.

Youthful Romance Ends in Divorce Court After Four Years.

A boy and girl marriage of four years ago found its way into the divorce court yesterday, when Jennie Theureux filed suit for divorce against her husband, Peter Theureux. She is now 19 years old and her husband is 22 years of age. They were married on May 23, 1904, and she claims her husband deserted her in October, 1906. In addition to the desertion charge, she charges cruel and inhuman treatment, specifying instances of exceptional cruelty. There is one child, 2 years old. She asks divorce, custody of the child and the right to resume her maiden name of Jennie Murphy.

Settlers Bring Suit Against Logger for Overflow of Stream.

Three suits were filed in district court yesterday against L. R. Martin. Matt Taro, Andrew Mollanen and Peter Ruuska each asks $500 for damages to his land by a dam on the Mud Hen river at its outlet into the St. Louis river last spring. Mr. Martin used the smaller stream to drive logs on and the plaintiffs charged that he dammed the river at the outlet and the overflow damaged their lands.

But Money for Release of Tschaikovsky Does Not Arrive.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—Nicholas Tschaikovsky, the aged Russian patriot, who has been in prison here nearly a year, was not released today as had been expected. A dispatch from London received this morning informed his wife and daughter that the money for his bail, $25,000, had been raised and would be telegraphed here, but up to 4:30 p. m. the bank had received no advices and as court closed at that hour, the release will have to be deferred until Monday.

PARTICULAR.

Judge: An American, while visiting Kingston, Canada, recently, saw flames issuing from a house he chanced to be passing at noontime. Rushing round the corner he burst into a fire-engine station, shouting "Fire!"

At his entrance and cry, an old man, the only occupant of the station, who sat reading a newspaper, slowly rose, carefully deposited his paper on the chair, and hobbled over to a desk, on which was a large book. "Now," said he, taking up a pencil and opening this volume, while the American stared in amazement, "wot's the street and number?"

"I don't know, but it's just around the corner!"

"Well, youd 'better go back and find out the number," advised the old man, shutting the book. "When the boys git back from dinner and her there's a fire they'll be pretty anxious to know just where it is!"

THAT HALLOWE'EN GHOST. A Story for Boys, by Maud Walker.

"Say, boys, what're we going to do to old Perkins this Hallowe'en?"

The question was asked of three or four boys, ranging between 9 and 12 years of age, and the questioner was Fatty Thomas, the "leader of the gang." The small group was in the barn belonging on the premises of Fatty Thomas' father, and the time was Saturday morning, just one week before the "Glorious Hallowe'en Day." And it behooved the boys to be preparing for the coming festive occasion.

"Well, we fixed his wagon and buggy last year," laughed Tom Banks. "He told pop that it took him a week to find all the parts of the wagon, and another week to get them together in correct shape again. Gee, he was mad!"

"Well, I'm not in for doing any real mischief," declared Smithy Black. "But when a man is as ugly to us boys as old man Perkins always is I'm in for getting revenge. Not real revenge, you know; but just getting even, you might say."

"Yes, old man Perkins has always been pretty hard on us chaps," agreed Walt Holt. "Why, only last week I was passing through his big vineyard—the one that stretches along north of town—and he saw me, and came yelling after me to 'get out at once. No poachers allowed on my land, etc.' It made me sore, it did; for I've never done any harm to old man Perkins, and he'd no right to yell out at me as though I were some sneak thief."

"Well," and Smithy Black winked at the other boys, "I don't remember that you were conspicuous by your absence last Hallowe'en. And it seems to me that we did a good deal of mischief to his wagon and buggy."

"But he'd chased us out of his melon patch the summer before," explained Walt. "And we only got even with him on Hallowe'en."

"Oh, we've got to give the old gentleman a little reminder that we're still doing business at the same old stand," laughed Tom Banks. "But what shall it be this year?"

"That's just what I asked the gang," explained Fatty. "What, oh, what shall we do to him?"

"Well, you know he has a new runabout auto," said Walt Holt. "As I know a little about motoring, we might take the machine down to his valley farm and leave it there. 'Twon't do it any harm, and we'll have a good ride."

"And a bully walk back to town," laughed Fatty. "However, kids, we'll have something doing on Hallowe'en, on the premises of old Josiah Perkins, Esq., or my name's not Fat Thomas."

"Well, that's no oath of assurance," grinned Tom. "I never before knew that your real handle was 'Fat'—or 'Fatty.' You are enrolled at school as Jefferson Grey Thomas. It was the gang that dubbed you 'Fatty,' or my memory's a thing of the past."

All the boys had a laugh at this bit of wit from Tom, who was usually so slow in making a point. Then they agreed to "think it over"—meaning their Hallowe'en plans—that night and report at the barn on Monday evening after school.

In the meantime, "old man Perkins," a townsman who had several fine farms adjoining town, and whose favorite occupation was the growing of fine grapes, melons and flowers, was a bit busy also with Hallowe'en plans, and his great, stalwart farmhand, Bill Bates, was taken into his confidence, seeing that Bill was needed to help in carrying out the plans. And many a chuckle the old gentleman had as he prepared for "the young rebels," as he termed the boys, who were unusually active on the evening of Hallowe'en. "I'll give them a little fun they'll not soon forget," he reflected. "Ah, I don't mind boys having their sport if they're decent about it. But that 'gang'—as a certain crowd calls themselves—are too strenuous, and go a bit too far for patience."

So the days went on, ushering in Hallowe'en, and to the "gang" it seemed that the days were years long; and to old Mr. Perkins the time dragged wearily, and he became as impatient for his fun as were the boys that he meant to get even with.

At last, however, Hallowe'en did really arrive, and the air was full of expectation and anticipation. Everywhere boys might be seen in little groups, in the alleys, in old tumbledown buildings and in stables. And everywhere they were whispering and cautious. Plans were being laid, doubtless, which called for the deepest secrecy to insure their successful development.

About 10 o'clock Fatty Thomas gave a long, low whistle. He was in the shadow of his father's barn and was waiting for the other members of the "gang." Immediately after his signal whistle there appeared in various corners of the alley end stable yard four small dark forms. And one at a time came stealthily forward, and soon the group was complete. There were Fatty, Tom, Smithy, Walt and Bert, the last named having just joined the "gang" that day.

"Well, we're off to old man Perkins' place for the first stop," said Fatty. "After that we'll let the route develop itself." There were four assents, and away they all went, creeping down the alley behind barns and outhouses.

"We're in luck with all this cloud over the sky," whispered Smithy.

"Sure," declared Walt. "It's a night made to order—just fits Hallowe'en."

Then they went along without speaking, ranging themselves into a long line, not wishing to attract attention by going together.

They soon reached the premises of old Mr. Perkins, and went round to the barn.

"Now for the auto," whispered Smithy. "And then for the ride." With the assistance of three others Walt soon had the staple that held the padlock on the door drawn, and the door swung open. "Gee, that staple came out easy," said Smithy. "We didn't need that old screw driver I brought. I could have pulled it out with my teeth."

"Guess the old man fixed it so we could go in without doing any harm to the lock," whispered Tom. "But where's the auto?"

"There it is, in that corner—that thing covered with the——"

But Smithy did not finish the remark. He stood aghast, his eyes staring and his tongue glued to the roof of his mouth. And all the "gang" had unconsciously assumed like attitudes of surprise and horror. And all eyes were staring at a strange white object that had come of a sudden from the darkest corner of the great and almost empty barn—a white thing of enormous height that waved long white, wing-like arms. But the most forbidding part of this white thing were its eyes, which gleamed and glowed like living coals. And in the place where it's mouth would naturally be was a glowing light also.

At last Walt found voice. "Come, let's get out!" he said in a hoarse voice. But at the very moment when the "gang" turned to act upon his order the great door swung shut and the frightened boys heard a strong bolt slip across it on the outside. Then horror—speechless horror—reigned for a few seconds. It was broken by a low, grating voice which evidently came from the white object that was still waving slowly and menacingly its arms.

"Ah, and so you' chaps are out to do mischief, eh? Well, I like doing a little of it myself. I overheard enough to know that you want an auto ride. Suppose I act as your chauffeur? I know a machine pretty well—well enough to run her over the bridge, or into the railroad cut."

If one had been listening outside the barn he might have heard five young masculine hearts beating like sledge hammers. But he would not have heard a single boyish voice, for all were dumb with fear. "A ghost—a ghost!" was all they could think. And that was quite sufficient to cause them to become speechless.

"Well, I guess silence means consent," said the great white thing's voice. "And we might as well jump into the auto and pull out. Come, who'll sit beside me?"

More beating of hearts accompanied by shaking of legs and chattering of teeth. "Ah, don't all speak at once," said the voice. And the long arms waved and waved. "Well, I'll invite Fatty Thomas to sit in the driver's seat with me. He's a brave lad, and leader of this gang, I believe."

Fatty thought his time had come. And as is often the case, where fear at first makes one speechless it will produce glibness of tongue after a few moments of intense silence. Fatty found his speech and cried out: "Oh, no, no, no! I'm very ill—and want to go home. I don't care to —to—go out — Hallowe'ening. I — I — I really must go home!"

"And I!" cried another voice, tremblingly. "And so must—I!" came another.

And as fast as they could speak each of the "gang" declared himself in favor of returning to his home and mother as quickly as possible.

"But you've just started out," said the voice. "And I—a Hallowe'en ghost—am ready to go with you. And not only does excitement and adventure go hand in hand with me, but thrilling dangers—yes, real disasters, dangers that sometimes cost life itself. What say you to riding this auto over the bridge?—or into the 50-foot railroad cut?"

"Oh, no, no, no!" screamed Fatty, his voice unnatural in its tones. "That would kill us."

"But it wouldn't kill me," said the voice. "I'm a ghost, and can't be hurt, you understand. And it's the Hallowe'en spirit to think only of one's self and of one's excitement and fun. The cost to the other fellows don't count. So, I'm in for some fun, and insist on your accompanying me. I can't promise that you'll all come back with whole heads and bodies, but it'll be a lot of jolly fun for me."

At this five boys fell upon their knees, some weeping and begging to be allowed to go home, and others too much frightened to frame sentences, and merely groaning and moaning.

At this instant the barn door opened slowly and old Mr. Perkins, holding a lantern in his hand, stood in the opening, looking on the strange scene. "Ah, ha, so you've come to do some mischief to my auto and buggy, have you, you young rebels?" he said, smiling and stroking his beard. "Well, and so the ghost is going to take you for a ride for life, eh? And do you all wish to go?"

"Oh, no, Mr. Perkins!" wailed Smithy. "Please, Mr. Perkins, help us to get away from here and allow us to go home."

"Yes; if you'll please allow us to go quietly away from here we'll never, never come to your place again on Hallowe'en," weepingly promised Fatty, and the other boys added their broken-voiced promises to his.

"And may I trust you to keep your promise?" asked Mr. Perkins, setting the lantern down.

"Oh, yes, sir!" they screamed in unison, jumping up and rushing to him.

Well, well, you are a great set of braves." And the old gentleman laughed. "Come, Bill, get out of your togs and let's assist these young rascals out." And, to the astonishment of the "gang," Bill Bates appeared from the midst of a lot of white cloth—sheets, probably.

"Oh-h-h-h!" went up five exclamations. "And by the light of the lantern five small faces turned red with shame. "Only Bill Bates rigged up as a ghost," murmured Fatty. "We might have guessed it."

"But you didn't," grinned Bill Bates. "And now, Boss, what shall we do with the gang? Tie 'em up till morning and call in the police?"

Five faces went white again, but soon became their normal color when old Mr. Perkins said: "Nope; we'll take to the house and give 'em some ice-cream and cake. Then they can go home."

And that was the way the exciting incident ended, the old man giving them a genuine treat and allowing them to go home. And they promised never to molest him again.

A Hallowe'en Gate's Experience.

Beside a window an old lady sat,
'Twas the glorious Hallowe'en,
And she had no light, as you may guess,
For she didn't wish to be seen.

But she sat where she could look without,
For the hour was getting late,
And she knew the boys would soon be there
To carry away her gate.

And while she sat and peered without
She heard a tramping of feet;
And later she saw a merry crowd
Of boys coming down the street.

They gathered about and unhinged her gate,
Then carried it 'cross the way
Where they hung it high up in a tree,
To stay till the coming of day.

The old lady smiled and sat quite still,
As she looked across at the tree
"Now, some other boys will soon come along
And bring the gate back to me."

So there she watched, and another band
Of boys 'cross the way soon thronged,
And seeing the gate up in the tree
Carried it over to where it belonged.

They never once guessed the truth, you know,
For if they had, you see,
They'd have taken the gate to some other yard,
Or left it up in the tree.

So the old lady smilingly went to bed,
As happy as happy could be;
But when she awoke the next morning she saw
Her gate 'cross the way in a tree.

A Hallowe'en Mistake.

Charlie thought it would be great sport to put a tick-tack on an old gentleman's window, but—changed his mind.

A Jolly Hallowe'en Game.

A most lively time may be had playing the following little game of "Bobbing Apple." The boys and girls participating in the game have their hands tied tightly behind them. A large bowl (a wooden chopping bowl will answer the purpose nicely) is filled with water and placed in the center of a small table. In the water a big rosy apple is dropped and each participant in the game is told to take a bite from the apple as it floats on the water. If one gets a good bite—without trying the second time—he or she will have his or her wish if made that night on a dark cellar stair. But only one attempt to obtain the bite is allowed at a time. The children stand in a circle and bite in turn, counting from right to left. They may go round and round, biting at the "bobbing apple" as many times as they like, but the boy or girl who succeeds in getting a bite during the first round is the winner of the wish.

All eyes were staring at a strange white object.

Queen Bee and Major Grasshopper.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

The Queen Bee, a fine specimen, too, of beekind, sat on a tiny branch of a wild rosebush overlooking her domain, which spread for acres, acres and acres around. She saw the members of her hive working very diligently sipping the honey from the fall blossoms, for as long as a flower remained from which to cull sweets, just so long would the bees work. And Queen Bee was ever watchful that things went on as they should.

"Well, I guess the winter will soon send the frost to nip the last blossoms," she mused, fanning her wings together; "and it behooves us all to do our work and do it well. There'll be plenty of honey in the hive for us during the long, hard winter, and it's about the finest honey, too, that has been made in a long time. The flowers this year have been unusually fragrant and moist, as full of honey as a nut is of meat, as the saying goes."

But Queen Bee's reverie was broken in upon by a quick rattling noise in the grass. Looking down, she beheld just beneath the leafless rosebush upon which she sat a small but aged grasshopper. He was a gay sort of fellow and was chirping and hopping about like one of half his age, and Queen Bee was much amused at the dwarfed little old chap.

"Hi, there, Mr. Grasshopper!" she called, fanning her wings in a friendly way. "And so you're still playing, are you? What do you mean by passing all your time in idleness, eh? Don't you know that it isn't wise to think only of the present? Tomorrow is coming, my hopping friend."

"Ah, ha, Queen," said the Grasshopper; "But allow me to correct you regarding my title, please, before I answer your question. Now, I'm not plain Mister. I'm a dignified major, and beg you to address me by my title. Major Gay Grasshopper is my name in full."

"You don't say so?" said the Queen Bee, her voice full of sarcasm. "And pray, how did you become a major, sir?"

"Oh, I assumed the title which best became my rank," boasted the Grasshopper. "You see, everyone of my kind looked up to me as being a very great fellow and they all realized my dignity."

"But do you work?" asked Queen Bee, smiling into her wing, so that Major Grasshopper might not see her amusement.

"Work! Why, my dear Queen, did you ever hear of a grasshopper working? No indeed, we never stoop to such plebeian pastime. Grasshoppers—as you should know—are aristocrats. They do not toil."

"Ah, I understand," nodded Queen Bee. "An there's an old saying which runs something like this: 'The grasshopper gay whiles the summer away, and with winter's first roar finds himself poor.'"

"Ah, ha, ha! What a pretty rhyme!" And Major Grasshopper laughed gally.

"But it won't sound so pretty a week or two hence," warned Queen Bee.

"Oh, I'm not in the least worried," smiled the gay Major Grasshopper. "I make it a point to live today and let tomorrow take care of itself."

"Well, I suppose that is all very well while today lasts," coolly remarked Queen Bee. "But when the tomorrow—which is to take care of itself—comes along, then you'll have to laugh out of the other side of your mouth, I'm thinking. But I must bid you good day Major, for I've a world of work to do. You see, the winter's coming and I don't want my hive folk and myself to starve. So, good afternoon, sir."

And into her hive flew the Queen Bee, as busy as ever a bee could be. And away hopped the gay Major Grasshopper, chirping lustily, and as happy as any light-headed fop of an old fellow could be.

And happy he was for a week. Then the aspect of his life changed very suddenly. A cold wave struck the land, and he and his kind awoke one night to find the dry grass about them rustling and crackling in an icy wind that brought shivers and aches to their limbs. "Ugh!" cried Major Grasshopper, trying to find a warm spot somewhere, but to no avail. Everywhere on the ground the cold struck with a terrible force, and when the sun rose on the next day the grasshoppers saw that everything was covered by frost. "Ugh! Ugh!" was all they could say, and no more did they hop about, chirping as gay, as thoughtless fellows do. They shivered in bunches, keeping close together in the hope of getting warm. And how they suffered! The frost had sucked the life out of everything, and not one morsel of food could they get. The grass was without one drop of juice, and want and misery stared them in the face. Yes, even death seemed now within a few days of all grasshopperkind.

"Ah, I know what I shall do," said Major Grasshopper, one of the sufferers. "I'll go right down to the edge of the meadow and ask for shelter and food from Queen Bee. She's an acquaintance of mine and therefore must be my admirer. No one ever could know me without admiring me."

So saying, the poor, vain, benumbed fellow hopped lamely away from the group of his suffering friends. And it took him some time to reach the edge of the meadow where the bees lived in their cozy and well-stored hives. As he drew near to the hive where his acquaintance was the queen, he beheld her coming out for a few minutes' sun and air. But he noticed that she did not seem to mind the sudden cold. As she glanced down into the frost bitten grass she saw her chance acquaintance, Major Grasshopper. But how changed! Instead of hopping and chirping gally about like a two-mouth old, he was all drawn up and shivering, his wings held closely to his sides in a vain endeavor to keep what little warmth there was in his body. And how hungry he looked, too! Queen Bee felt sorry for him, and spoke kindly to him:

"Good morning, Major! You do not seem in very good spirits this cold, frosty morning. Are you ill?"

"Oh, kind Queen Bee, I'm both cold and starving. Give unto me shelter and food or I shall perish." Thus wailed the grasshopper gay who had whiled the summer away, and with winter's first roar found himself poor.

"Ah, my dear Major," replied Queen Bee, in a sympathetic voice, "it hurts me to see you suffer and not to do something for you. But it is impossible for me to give you what you ask."

"But you have a hive, and can certainly share it with me," wailed Major Grasshopper. "I ask for but one snug corner where I may sleep and eat during the winter."

"But suppose, Major, I should find a corner in my hive for you, what would you subsist on? You have no winter's supply of food stored up," spoke the Queen.

"But you have plenty of honey in your hive, and will surely offer me a share of it," declared Major Grasshopper.

The Queen Bee fanned her wings a minute, then said: "My dear fellow, during all the summer you have played and made merry, while my workers have toiled to fill this hive with winter's food. And now you come to me and ask to share that which you had no part in earning. No, were I to respond to your request, my dear sir, you could not live in this hive 10 minutes, for the workers kill off the drones, and you would be a drone, never having done a day's work in all your life. I warned you about a week ago that winter was coming, and you only laughed and said you lived for today and would let tomorrow take care of itself. Well, here is that tomorrow, Major. And it is taking care of itself; but not of you. No, I cannot do anything for you, for it is the law of the Bees that no drone be allowed to live on them. You have not helped to build this hive, therefore you may not share its shelter. You have not assisted with filling the combs with honey, therefore, you may not eat of it. The hive belongs to the builders and their assistants in various lines. The honey to the gatherers and their assistants in various work. And I must now be about my own duties, so, good-morning—and farewell, Major Grasshopper. Should you survive the winter that is now upon us take the warning you have had and learn to make provision for that tomorrow which hitherto you held in such scorn."

Then the Queen Bee flew into the hive and Major Grasshopper sat shivering in the cold, dead grass.

"I guess it's too late for me to turn over a new leaf," he sighed. "But, after all, it's well to prepare for cold weather in time of sunshine and warmth, though no grasshopper on earth could be made to understand it. Ah, that was a wise saying, that the grasshopper gay whiles the summer away, and with winter's first roar finds himself poor! Poor, indeed, am I and my kind with the first frost. And now I must return to the other hoppers and huddle with them under a dead tuft of grass till death shall come and relieve us of our suffering. Ah, it's very hard to end one's days like this, but the way of the idler is hard, very hard." And old Major hopped wearily away.

Little Gertie's Hallowe'en.

BY ANNIE JAMES.

Gertie was 6 years old, and she was much excited over the approach of Hallowe'en. She could not remember of there ever having been a Hallowe'en before. That was because she was too young the year before to pay any attention to Hallowe'en, though her brothers, Ned and Fred, had had a merry enough time then.

And Gertie knew what one ought to do on Hallowe'en, or, at least, she said she knew. "One wants to dis-turb fings, don't they, mama?" she asked of her mother a few mornings before the arrival of Hallowe'en.

Mama laughed. "Why, what do you mean by that, darling?"

"Oh, to do like Ned an' Fred do," replied Gertie. "They put fings where they ought't to be, you know. That's Hallowe'en fun, isn't it, mama?"

"I guess so," smiled mama, kissing her dear little daughter's dimpled cheek. Then she left Gertie to her play and went about the household duties. And Gertie laid her plans for the forthcoming occasion. "I'll have Hallowe'en all by myself," she declared. "I'm a little girl, so, of course, I can't go out wif Ned an' Fred, putting fings where they oughn't to be."

When at last Hallowe'en arrived Gertie crept off to bed earlier than was her wont, and, after her mama had kissed her and tucked her in, and said goodnight, she lay very still till she knew she was entirely alone. Then she sprang from bed and ran into Ned's and Fred's room and gathered up their books—all that she could carry—and lugged them off to the storeroom, big and dark. But Gertie was not afraid—not a bit of it, and the dark storeroom held no terrors for her. After she had hidden the books under some old rubbish she returned and found Ned's school shoes (he was wearing an old pair for the festive evening), and Fred's mittens and ball. These were hidden in the closet of her own room. Then to mama's and papa's room she went, getting papa's smoking jacket and his box of collars and cuffs. And next she gathered up mama's morning wrapper and slippers. These she carried to the guest's chamber, where they were safely placed under the big bed.

"Now, I guess I've had some fun," said Gertie to herself. And off to bed she went, as happy as any real little Hallowe'en culprit could be.

But Gertie's real fun came the next morning, when Ned and Fred set up a cry about their books, shoes, mittens and ball. "Gee, where're our things gone?" cried Fred, under the bed looking everywhere for his books.

"And somebody's stolen my shoes," wailed Ned, flying about the room like a hen on a hot griddle.

"Well, that's strange," said mama, "I have also had a time hunting my wrapper and slippers. And your papa can't find his smoking jacket anywhere. The old Hallowe'en witch must have been busy in the house last night. Everything is topsy-turvy."

"Maybe if you look in the storeroom, and under the bed in the guest's chamber, and maybe in the closet in my room, you may find some of the fings you've lost," said Gertie.

"Ah, it's Gertie!" cried Ned, his face lighting up. "While we were upsetting things out of doors last night she was busy inside. Well, who'd have thought it!"

"Well," she said, "I wanted to feel what Hallowe'en is like. An' I had lots of fun, I did."

"Well, I guess you did, Sis," grinned Fred. "But one thing nice about you—you put people next to where you've hidden their things. So, it's not so bad after all."

"Oh, isn't that right?" asked Gertie, her face becoming serious.

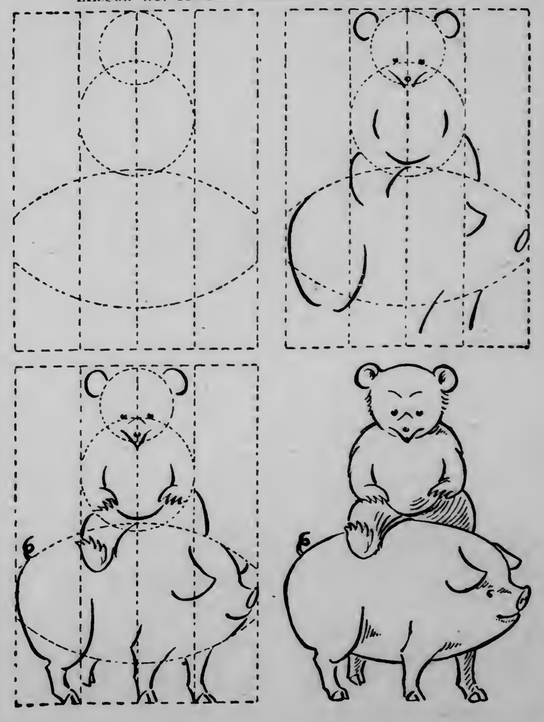

"Well, maybe next Hallowe'en I won't tell the next morning. I'll let you all hunt till you find 'em."

She returned and found Ned's school shoes.

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES.

By JOHN S. HARWOOD

(Copyright, 1908, by the Associated Literary Press.)

HARDLY a more dramatic event in a man's life can be imagined than his reception of the news of his victory or defeat for the exalted position of president of the United States. What those who have been through it really felt upon such occasions is, of coupse, known only to themselves; but how many candidates have borne themselves in such situations is known, for the sayings and doings of public men, even in their most trying moments, are public property eagerly seized upon and set down. And just ten days from today the country will be reading with undisguised eagerness how the two leading candidates in the present contest received the news of the people's irrevocable decision

Gen. Grant received the news of his first election, in 1868, at Galena, Ill. He had stuck pretty close to his home ever since he had been nominated. He was no spellbinder and he knew it. His managers were quite content to have him stay at home, for the general was no politician, and there was no knowing what he might say if they took him about the country on a speechmaking tour. So he read his papers, smoked his cigars and talked politics with his neighbors and the the big political guns who came now and then to see him. He read the papers carefully and was much interested in the campaign in a sort of impersonal way as if it was some friend of his who was running.

At about 10 o'clock on election night Grant went to the home of E. B. Washburne, not far from his own home. Arrangements had been made to hear the election returns there, and wires had been laid connecting the house with the telegraph office. A dozen or more friends and townspeople were at Washburne's, but none of them was of any national interest or importance.

Everyone says Grant was keenly interested. He did not pretend to be indifferent to the result, but he displayed not the slightest excitement. One of the spectators said that he had often seen Grant more excited over a game of cards then he appeared to be over the election returns that night.

Between 1 and 2 o'clock of the morning of Nov. 5 the returns were sufficiently definite to assure the eager group that Grant was to be the next president, and all present congratulated him. He received the congratulations calmly and then started to walk up hill, alone, to his modest home.

Late as it was, a group of some seventy-five or eighty of his neighbors had assembled to congratulate him, for the good news had flown fast about the town. The demanded a speech and the general made a short one, mostly a quotation of his speech accepting the nomination He added: "I feel the responsibilities of the position but I accept them without fear." Then he went into the house, kissed the family all around and went to bed to sleep soundly the sleep of the tired and the victorious.

Grant received the news of his second election in the White House and received it as calmly as he had his first. Meanwhile, Horace Greeley, who had run against him, was receiving his death blow. He had known for weeks that his case was hopeless, but hoped against hope. His wife had died a few weeks before election after a long illness, during which the devoted husband had sat up with her night after night. When the news of his overwhelming defeat came to him he broke down completely. He paid one more visit to the Tribune office, where his condition shocked all who saw him. Then, returning to his home at Chappaqua, N. Y., he took to his bed and died in about ten days—a disappointed, broken-hearted man.

The Two Calm Men of 1876.

Rutherford B. Hayes was at his home in Columbus, Ohio, when the news of the result of the election of 1876 came to him. He had never been very sanguine of election and used to say to his friends, "Well, we have a fighting chance—a fair fighting chance." On election day he kept closely to the house, where a few friends and politicians called in the afternoon and evening. As the returns came in they were taken to him from the telegraph office and carefully read. But the returns were conflicting and uncertain. The result at midnight was still uncertain. Everybody except Hayes was greatly excited over the situation. He remained calm and at midnight declared that he was going to bed.

While he slept peacefully thousands of excited citizens swarmed the streets of Columbus, as they did the streets of almost every big and little town in the United States, and kept up the excitement of a disputed election until daylight. Hayes arose early next morning and received his personal friends, who were anxiously awaiting him. The Democratic morning newspapers announced the election of Tilden and the Republican papers as confidently that of Hayes. In front of Hayes' house a great mob gathered and shouted alternately for Hayes and for Tilden. The excitement was intense, but Hayes did not appear at door or window and gave no sign that he heard the tumult in the street. He alone of all those about him appeared calm and unmoved. It is said that on that day he expressed himself as of the opinion that the Democrats had carried the election, but said that for himself he did not care; for the country and for the issues at stake he did care a great deal.

Samuel J. Tilden awaited the returns at his house in Gramercy Park, New York city. His friends and some of his relatives were with him. The returns, as they began to come in, were encouraging, and at 9 o'clock two friends came in a joyous and triumphant mood to take Tilden to Tammany Hall, where a vast throng had assembled to hear the returns read and where thousands of voices were crying for a speech from the Democratic candidate. Tilden refused to leave his house. He said that he thought he had been elected but he was not sure and would not make a public announcement of the fact until he was.

At 10 o'clock a mob of men and boys assembled in front of the house and amid wild cheers called for the Democratic standard bearer to come out and speak to them. When Tilden appeared on the steps he was greeted with wild enthusiasm. When the tumult died down so that he could be heard he said calmly that he would not make a speech, but that he thanked every one for his loyalty and his patriotic support and would bid them all good-night. The door closed, the crowds marched off singing and cheering, and Tilden, like his opponent out in Columbus, went to bed and to sleep. The subsequent events of that hotly disputed election are matters of history.

Garfield Cautious; Hancock Goes to Bed

James A. Garfield retired to his home in the little town of Mentor, Ohio, to receive the returns of the election of 1880. Only the members of the family were with the Republican standard bearer on election day. It was not until evening that the neighnors began to assemble at the Garfield house and the "big guns" to come down by train from Cleveland. Garfield and Maj. Swain took their places behind a desk and as fast as the dispatches announcing the returns were handed to him, the general opened them and read them aloud to the assembled company.

When a telegram from Senator Blaine was read, saying that Maine had given Garfield a handsome majority over all, one of the general's friends began to talk as if the whole matter were settled. "I have never yet," said Garfield, "allowed myself to say that I was going to be elected until the votes were counted. Even in my congressional district when everybody else was certain I felt that would be forestalling Providence to a certain extent."

It was nearly 2 o'clock in the morning before Garfield felt confident enough of his victory to speak with assurance. Then he said: "The drift of things seems to mean that the people mean to stand by, first, the nationality of the government; second, honest financial legislation, and that they will not disgrace politics by personal abuse." A few minutes later Judge Pardee, a former member of Garfield's old regiment, telegraphed, asking: "Is it safe to jollify?" "Perfectly so," Swain wired back, and presumably the judge took advantage of the permission.

While Garfield and his friends were reading returns and deceiving congratulations at Mentor the Democratic candidate, Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock, was sleeping the sleep of the just in his headquarters on Governor's island, the army post in New York harbor. The people gave Hancock their hearts and their admiration—but not their votes. He was a defeated candidate but he did not know it. It would have made no difference to the old soldier if he had. He would have slept peacefully just the same. He had had about five months of the hardest sort of campaigning, bothering with and being bothered about matters of which he knew little and cared less. On election day he declared that he was worn out, and at 7 o'clock that night he went to bed, telling his wife not to disturb him. "No matter about the election news," he said. "Whatever it is it will keep till morning." So the returns as they arrived at Governor's Island were read by Mrs. Hancock and by the members of the general's staff, and by a few friends and politicians who had come over from New York.

About daylight the general woke up and asked of Mrs. Hancock, "How did the election go?"

Struggling to appear self-controlled, Mrs. Hancock replied: "It has been a complete Waterloo for you."

"That's all right," replied the general. I guess I can stand it"—and he turned over and went to sleep again.

Probably no presidential candidate ever went to bed so early on election day or received the news of his defeat with such real composure.

Blaine Showed His Nervousness.

When the stirring campaign of 1884 came to its close with the morning of election day, James G. Blaine took an early train from Boston, where he had been stopping, and went to his home at Augusta, Maine. His sons, Walker and James G., Jr., were with him. The first thing the senator did was to vote. Then he went to his home and rested so as to be in good physical shape for the evening. He had made arrangements to have the returns repeated to him over his telephone as fast as they were received. It was about 7 o'clock when the first returns were sent in. They were of a doubtful and unsatisfactory character. Blaine was evidently disturbed.

The Blaine house was brightly lighted throughout and a few friends had joined the candidate to hear the returns. The telephone instrument was in a small library, where Mr. Blaine's daughter, and a friend of her's, a young woman from Boston, were sitting. Mrs. Blaine and a companion were in the parlor. Blaine was roaming the house, restless and not talking. The two sons acted as messengers to carry the bulletins to their mother.

As Blaine roamed in and out of the room Mrs. Blaine would either hand him the returns or read them to him. He made little comment, but expressed a great anxiety to hear from New York. His interest centered there to the exclusion of every other place. There he had partaken of the "Belshazzer's feast," given him by the millionaires, and there Burchard had sprung his three Rs. And Blaine needed New York.

Up to 9 o'clock the bulletins from the Empire state were not encouraging, but a little later Lynde Harrison sent a reassuring dispatch saying that New York surely had gone Republican. Then came a dispatch saying that Henry Cabot Lodge had been elected to congress from his Massachusetts district. Things looked brighter. In a few minutes, however, came a dispatch which dashed all of Blaine's hopes. It stated that Cleveland had carried New York.

The record of disaster now began to come in fast and thick. At 9:30 Blaine went to the telephone and, calling up the telegraph operator, sent a dispatch to Republican headquarters asking for their best estimates at that time. Headquarters, with cheerful optimism, had already sent in estimates indicating Blaine's election, and replied that they saw no reason to alter them. At 3 o'clock in the morning the candidate went to bed confident that he had been elected.

Hardly had he done so, however, when reports proving beyond a doubt a great Democratic victory began to come in. Mrs. Blaine was much disturbed and sent her husband's secretary up to his room with the unfavorable news. But Blaine was fast asleep and they did not awaken him. He slept quietly through the night and did not dream of his defeat until 7 o'clock in the morning, when Mrs. Blaine took up to him the latest returns. He still thought he had been elected, and as he had contracted a bad cold in the course of the campaign determined to stay in his room all day and save his voice, which he thought he might require to reply to congratulations.

Others thought, too, that Blaine had been victorious for all day long the telephone was ringing and J. H. Manley was on duty to answer it. To all enthusiasts Manley would say: "Now don't you do one thing don't you make one peep until we are absolutely sure. Then it will be time enough to shout." All day long the household was greatly agitated by conflicting messages. Frederick, the old negro house servant, added his share to the general agitation. He had sat up all night and swore he would neither eat nor sleep until Mr. Blaine was declared elected. Several days later the plumed knight finally acknowledged his defeat calmly but with what bitterness of soul only those who knew him intimately can tell.

Cleveland and Harrison Calm to Indifference.

Grover Cleveland was governor of New York when he defeated Blaine and received the returns in the executive mansion at Albany surrounded by his friends and advisers. As the returns came in favorable to him he did not disguise his personal gratification at the result. He was the calmest of all those around him, however, and as the varying returns came in a person who was present says that he was "neither oppressed by failure nor overpowered by success."

When Harrison ran against Cleveland and defeated him in 1888 President Cleveland received the returns indicating a Republican victory in the White House. Indeed, he received the news of his defeat with a calmness and stoicism which not only astonished his friends but irritated them. As soon as sufficient returns were in to indicate that Harrison had been elected he turned from their consideration to making arrangements for one of his fishing trips.

Out in Indianapolis Mr. Harrison was trusting to private dispatches and to those received by a local paper for his information as to how the battle had gone. For some reason he had said that he did not wish the Associated Press returns sent to him over a private wire. The day was stormy and rainy and only a few friends were assembled at the modest Harrison home. The local paper was over cautious about claiming Harrison's election, and it was not until midnight that it telephoned that it was probably sure and got out an "extra" saying so. But by that time Harrison was abed and asleep. He had gone to bed at 11 o'clock and left word that he was to be disturbed under no circumstances. When he retired the result was in doubt, but the general was pretty sure that he had won from the number of private telegrams of congratulation which came pouring in. Over 5,000 were received that night.

When Harrison, in his turn, was defeated by Cleveland in 1892 he received the returns in the White House and expressed great surprise at the result. He thought that his administration had been satisfactory, times were fairly prosperous, and he could see no reason for his defeat. He managed to assume an air of indifference, however, which those who knew him well knew he was far from feeling.

Mr. Cleveland returns the returns of the election of 1892 in his New York home. A private wire ran into the house and Dr. Bryant, Daniel Lamont, George F. Parker and several members of the Democratic national committee who were present took turns in reading the dispatches as they came in. By 7 o'clock the returns from New York state indicated a Cleveland victory. By 8 o'clock the returns as a whole gave a clear indication that the Democrats had carried the day. Then most of the men at Democratic headquarters began to drop into the Cleveland home as, also, did most of the big Democratic politicians in the city.

The stream of visitors kept up until 11 o'clock and all the while the street in front of Mr. Cleveland's house was becoming more and more crowded with a throng of people who cheered themselves hoarse and shouted the name of their candidate. Cleveland himself, whatever he may have felt, carried an air of calmness—almost indifference. About 11 o'clock, when the returns from the West came in which made his election sure, Cleveland stepped to the door and made a little speech of a minute or so which was rapturously received by the crowd. His object in doing this was to satisfy the crowd so that it would go away. The politicians began to leave about midnight and at 4 o'clock the president-elect went to bed.

How McKinley and Bryan Took the Verdict.

William McKinley was at his home in Canton, Ohio, on election day of 1896 and received the returns in his library over a special wire. There were with him Judge William R. Day, Judge George E. Baldwin, James Boyle, his private secretary and others. The returns began coming in early and looked good to the assembled company. When a dispatch came in of a discouraging nature it was greeted by laughter by McKinley's friends—they were confident of victory and there to hear of it. McKinley was smoking. He had strolled in from the dining room with a cigar in his mouth and he continued to puff calmly as he opened the numerous personal messages which were awaiting his atention. By and by things looked so rosy that he was practically sure of his election and sent for Mrs. McKinley and some friends of hers who were in another room to come into the library and hear the good tidings. By 11 o'clock there was no doubt of the Republican victory. The street in front of the McKinley home had been thronged all day, but now most of the people had gone home. At a little before midnight, however, all the bells in Canton rang out a joyful peal and the citizens assembled in the public square and sang the Doxology.

While McKinley was receiving the joyful news of his election William J. Bryan, at Lincoln, Neb., was receiving the news of his defeat. Bryan was tired out from the effects of the campaign and though he slept most of the afternoon of election day and appeared refreshed when he made his appear-

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Duluth Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed;
Have too much to do,
They tell about it in many aches and pains—
Backache, sideache, headache,
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Duluth citizen tells here a certain cure.

H. G. Hibke, clerk in the Northern Pacific R. R. freight house, and living at Hunter's Park, Duluth, Minn., says: "In a testimonial given by me in 1898, which has been published often in the Duluth papers, I told how Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of a severe attack of kidney complaint, from which I had suffered for a long time. I believe that it was brought on in the first place by exposure to all kinds of weather and the jarring of driving. Backache set in and the pains and aches made stooping and lifting very painful. Whenever I took cold it settled in my back and aggravated the trouble. The kidney secretions became discolored, irregular and contained a sediment. I also had frequent attacks of headaches. However, as I have emphatically declared and will always affirm, Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of all these conditions, and today not a symptom of my former trouble remains."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

DULUTH CHURCH WORKERS PLAN TO TAKE COMPLETE CENSUS OF CITY

Card Index System to be Used in Church Work.

Religious Preference of Every Citizen Will be Learned.

Superior Will Also be Covered on the Same Day.

Duluth is to be visited by a host of Sunday school workers, who expect on Nov. 21 to go out two by two and call at every house in the entire city, and this same house-to-house visitation is to be carried out on the same day by another host of church workers in Superior.

This canvass of the two cities is to be directed by international and state officers in connection with the International Sunday School association—the same association that gives to the world the uniform lesson system and all the auxiliary help for the graded work, and is soon to bring out a full system of uniform graded lessons for the several grades of pupils in the Sunday schools of America.

The two cities are to be favored by the presence and leadership of Hugh Cork of Chcago, the niternatonal superintendent of the house visitation department; Prof. A. M. Locker, general secretary of the Auxiliary Minnesota Sunday School association, and W. J. Semelroth, general secretary of the Auxiliary Wisconsin Sunday School association. These are leaders of long experience in the work, and promise to give people of the city a new vision of the modern aggressive Sunday school work.

Hugh Cork of Chicago, the international superintendent of this department, has had an exceptional experience in directing just such visitations of other large cities, notably: Philadelphia, Buffalo, Pittsburg and others. The testimony from these cities has been that no other movement was ever so productive of good and permanent results as this visitation to every house for the purpose of leaving an invitation to church and Sunday school, and to gather and tabulate a report for the pastors and superintendents of all denominations of information as to the church attendance or church perferences of non-church members. The visitation includes absolutely every religious denomination and sect, including Jewish and Roman Catholics, both of whom have co-operated in other cities.

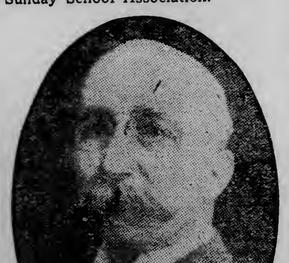

The visitation is accomplished by the thorough organization of a large force of visitors who go two by two, the two persons being of different denominations, and visit the houses along one side of a given street or within a given block, and making a separate card record for each house. Each pair of visitors report back promptly to headquarters, and it is the expectation that by midnight the entire figures will be tabulated. All these are then, of course, separated into files, each lot being the cards showing either membership in or preference for a given denomination. For example, to the Baptist pastors of the city will be handed all the cards showing Baptist membership or Baptist preference, which have been gathered up from the entire city by a force of visitors from all denominations. It will be seen that it is wholly an unselfish movement, that it is in behalf of no particular church, but is for the benefit of all religious denominations working in the city.

A. M. LOCKER,
President of the Minnesota Sunday School Association.

HUGH CORK,
Who Will Have Charge of the Census.

W. J. SEMELROTH,
President of the Wisconsin Sunday School Association.

The Ministers' association and the City Sunday School association are making all the preliminary plans, and appeal to all of the church and Sunday school people of all denominations in the city to be well represented in the first conference with these well-known leaders who are coming and also to be ready to join in the canvass. The movement cannot fail to greatly interest the entire city, nor fail to be of great and lasting benefit to all religious denominations, it is claimed.

It is expected that the demonstration on visitation day, which is to be on Nov. 21, will be of such interest that the foremost leaders in Christian work in several surrounding states will be present upon invitation, to witness the simultaneous canvass of the two cities. The resident and other executive officers of the surrounding auxiliary state Sunday school associations are to be the guests of Duluth and Superior on that day and may possibly remain for visiting and speaking in the churches on the Sunday following, which will be something of a jubilee day. This house-to-house movement was given great impetus by the action of the recent International Sunday School Association convention at Louisville, Ky., and Wisconsin and Minnesota are by this joint plan expecting to set the pace of other cities. It is expected that these two state associations will follow up this initial movement in Duluth and Superior by similar visits in all the other cities of these states.

A Duluth mass meeting will be held at the Pilgrim Congregational church at 3:30 tomorrow to consider plans. It is a union meeting of all the churches, and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend.

"The Passer-By," by Prince Pierre Troubetzkoy—"I and My True Love," by H. A. Mitchell Keays—"Holy Orders," by Marie Corelli—"The Gorgeous Isle," by Gertrude Atherton.

THE PASSER-BY. By Prince Pierre Troubetzkoy. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.50.

Prince Troubetzkoy is entitled to our respectful consideration not only because he is the husband of Amelie Rives, author of "The Quick or the Dead," and other less obsolete romances of passion, but because he himself has written a very clever novel of passion. In the "Passer-by" Mrs. Moore, the beautiful and idle wife of a struggling New York millionaire is the figure about whom the story circles. Her idleness and selfishness have bred in her that form of megalomania which society doctors politely but vaguely call "neurasthenia." Her husband, a plain man, is so busy earning the money needed to make her idleness luxurious that he hasn't time to make love to her, so she is dissatisfied, disgusted and morbid. With a woman in that condition, nursing her baby wrongs into giant strength and stature, something is likely to happen; in this case it is a young Englishman, full of the "patter" of pharisaic and superficial culture, that happens. The reader's suspicions that he is an intelligent snob become confirmed to an irritating extent when, with his nose in the air with disgust at the "vulgarity" about him, he uses his evil arts to seduce this foolish married woman, Silvian Lore, whether the author intended to make him so or not, is an unsufferable and supercilious cad, who gloats over the scenery unveiled by low-necked gowns; also, he describes as "passionate banality" the kind of music that the people love and that he contemns, which is another count in the indictment against him. There is, in this story, a very curious psychological situation which the prince works out admirably. Lore, it seems, is merely a reflection of Kamensky, a Russian, and in his wooing of Mrs. Moore, Lore reflects the thoughts, phrases and even the love of Kamensky; though in his grosser nature the love is changed to a very fleshly kind, something far beneath the nature of the Russian, who turns out to be a sort of spiritual guardian of the woman who treads a perilous path. She is saved, in the outcome, by the discovery of these things, after several narrow escapes that are described with palpitating fervor which gives the story its touches of intense passion of a very earthly sort. When Angela Moore told Lore what she had discovered, "she saw him changed, disfigured, opening and shutting his mouth again and again, but no sound came out of it. His eyes got lustrous, very lustrous, like those of a witty fish in a nightmare. Then he took himself off." Which is quite the most acceptable thing he does in the whole play. We never saw a "witty fish" in a nightmare or out of one, but it is pleasing to imagine what a ridiculous figure the discomfitted creature must have presented when the final blow of defeat was administered. The book is a vivid and diverting picture of New York life, from "society" down to a street car conductor, who, when Kamensky asked him how long a revving car blockade was likely to last, replied, crushingly: "What d'ye take me for—a prophet?" Which is very realistic indeed. It is an unusual book, and cannot fail to interest. Also, it contains a spirited frontispiece in color, contributed by the Princess Troubetzkoy, whom we know better as Amelie Rives.

I AND MY TRUE LOVE. By H. A. Mitchell Keays, author of "The Road to Damascus," "He That Eateth With Me," etc. Boston: Small, Maynard & Co. $1.50.

This thoroughly human and thoroughly satisfying novel might have been happily named "Benny in the Background," for "Benny" is one of the most important people in it, and he does not appear upon the stage until almost the last of the play, when he brings his engaging youth and his appealing wounds upon the scene just in time to give the tale just the proper conclusion. The story is piquant and delightful; quite the best thing Mrs. Mitchell Keays has given us. Kitty, married to a dreaming young author who lets a dashing friend entertain her while he contentedly associates with his visions, divorces her first husband and marries the dashing young friend. She finds, after she has lost her first husband and her baby girl, that she is wedded to a soulless epicure of passion. A point comes when, "after he had left her, she looked at herself in the glass—at the curve of a bosom which ached for the face of a child against it—and then smashed the glass; for she understood, for the first time, that she was no wife, but a mistress." Married? Yes, but still a mistress; there are such things. Then this evil man obligingly dies, and, years later, when her girl baby—whom she has never seen since she parted from her first husband, Iliel Sargent, now a great playwright—has become a very original and innocently lovely young miss of 19, she is induced by Sargent to take her daughter to live with her for a time. This provides a link between the long-divided two, and there is a subtly absorbing development of a new romance for the divorced wife and husband. The daughter comes out amazingly in her new surroundings, alarming her worldly mother with her innocent sophistication. A man old enough to be her father, but a governor and a great man covets the girl, and with "Benny," her sweetheart, in the background, toiling away for her sake in some wilderness survey, the situation between the governor and the girl becomes dangerous. Plotting together to avoid this worldly alliance, Kitty and Iliel find out something both had known all the time, though neither had admitted it—that their old love still lives. Between the governor and "Benny," who comes hero-like upon the scene in the nick of time, stands the girl—her ambition looking to the governor, her heart to Benny. If Benny hadn't come—but then Benny did come. The story treats of divorce from a new angle, and contains much wit, much wisdom, much human interest, and much diversion. Maybe the keynote, if there is one, is in this fragment of dialogue: Sargent—"I suppose it is puerile to make remarks about the inevitable contradictiousness of women?" Kitty—"I suppose it is unnecessary to make remarks about the inevitable obtuseness of men."

HOLY ORDERS. By Marie Corelli. New York: Frederick A. Stokes company. $1.50.

Miss Corelli has a vogue among those whose jaded tastes demand sensations more vivid and intense than the average, and who like to have the colors laid on thickly. To such readers her books have an irresistible appeal, although to gentler folk, those less greedy in their demand for horrors, they often seem harsh, unnatural and even shocking. Those who like Corelli, therefore, will posttively revel in this latest and loudest of her works. It is vested with her characteristic luxuriance of imagination and imagery, with an amplitude of plot, and here and there positive touches of reality—miscalled realism. From Minchin's brewery, in this tale, there spreads a flood of horrors over an English landscape; and from Miss Corelli's pen, in telling the tale, there spreads a flood of horrors in which the reader who loves horrors may bathe if he will.

The theme of it—one of the themes, at least, and the principal one—is the intensely unromantic topic of adulterated beer. We have a rich and respected brewer who drugs men with his adulterated brew and turns them into fiends. We have a village rector, one of those pure and earnest, though often mistaken knights who couch lances against the impregnable, and break not only their lances but their hearts. We have his wife, a brainless, beautiful butterfly, who is killed out of revenge by one of the brutes that grew from Minchin's brew. We have the rector's 2-year-old son displaying precocity that strains the imagination. We have a village drunkard who beats his wife and does infinitely worse things after the drugs in Minchin's brew get a fair hold of him. We have a village trollop, his paramour, who turns later into a London sensation as a rich married beauty.

Besides these amazing folks and this amazing brew, we have a breezy tilt at the press, and an ample view of the author's disgust with the "mongrels who have charge of press, finance and government." We have a view, also, of her ideas about "parish visiting," which come at the conclusion that it is just as impertinent for a rich woman to intrude upon the homes of the poor as it would be for a pauper to push into the home of a plutocrat and tell the folks therein how to live. To exemplify this she has the rector's silly wife stir up a brood of trouble and tragedy by her tactless ministrations at the bedside of a woman crippled by her husband in a drunken frenzy. It is somber, depressing, pessimistic; but it is lurid, vivid, a rich feast of horrors for those who like such diet. It shows us the fearful dregs in the bottom of the adulterated glass, and the horrible brew of misery and death that lurks in them. The only touches of light and hope are given us in the characters of Everton, the rector, and a little, cheerful Catholic priest who is a philosopher and a gentleman.

THE GORGEOUS ISLE. By Gertrude Atherton. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. 90 cents net.

It is not strange that the woman who has done so much to make Alexander Hamilton the hero in modern eyes that he was in his all too brief lifetime should have chosen the island of Nevis, his birthplace in the British West Indies, as the scene of a novel. That, however, is all the Conqueror has to do with the story, except that the hero lives in the house in which Hamilton first saw the light. The time is 1842, in the early Victorian period, when Nevis and its famous hotel were much frequented by London fashion: "That was the heyday of Nevis, a time of luxury and splendor and gaiety unknown on even the most fertile of the other islands." With her teeming fancy unleashed, Miss Atherton gives us a brilliant picture of this seagirthed splendor, as the setting for a romance such as we might expect from a place of which it can be said: 'It is no matter for wonder that the young bloods came from London to admire and loiter and flirt in an enchanted clime that seemed made for naught else.' The heroine of the tale forms a refreshing picture in a day of languishing beauties with "pencilled eyebrows" and "rosebud mouths," when health was a disgrace, a freckle a crime and honest womanly vigor a scandal: "Anne Percy was tanned by the winds of moor and sea, she had a superb, majestic figure, and strode when she took her exercise in a thoroughly unladylike manner. She had not an attribute, not even an affectation, in common with the beauties of Bath house"—hence, after politely admiring the affected and artificial beauties aforesaid, we return with renewed interest to this fresh, virile young figure. Unfortunately, hardheaded readers will not commend her good sense in other matters so highly. Having formed a girlishly romantic ideal from reading the work of a young poet of Nevis, she finds that though he is a wonderful poet, he is obsessed by a violent drink habit, under the influence of which, set going by the injury of a by-gone love affair, he has gone sadly and pretty completely to the dogs. When sober, he is merely a dumpish and faded gallant; when drunk with brandy, he is both glorious poet and sodden rakehell. His muse absolutely refuses to sing without brandy. Out of the meeting of these two comes a romance, and out of the romance comes a striking situation when the poet is possessed by a palpitating poem which he cannot get upon paper without the help of drink, and the woman is possessed by the fearful knowledge that if he drinks he will become, for the time, a beast. To drink is to give birth to a splendid poem and then to sink to the depths. Not to drink is to stifle the poem at the cost of suffering for both. The choice lies with the woman. What does she do? The book tells it. The writing is vivid and absorbing; the volume that contains it is shabby, and there are some quaint and unconventional pictures by C. Coles Phillips.

A LORD OF LANDS. By Ramsey Benson. New York: Henry Holt & Co. $1.50.

An urban slave, turned bucolic Robinson Crusoe, is a pretty fancy; and there is vast and helpful interest in the way the story of it is told. The hero, who tells it, is rather an unusual hero, but this is rather an unusual book. He is a city laborer, trying to feed seven mouths on a slender wage of $50 a month. The coming of the latest needy babe makes him think. The income is stationary but precarious; it may dwindle and it may cease. Yet the needs of the family are constantly increasing; presently they will rise higher than the income. What to do? He tells what he did, and incidentally he tells it as little like a $50-a-month laborer as could be imagined. It is as thorough a skilled literary workman had put his tale into a book for him, or as though a writer born to the use of words had found himself, by unhappy mischance, a wage slave in a vast and heartless city. He tells how he escaped, how he found freedom, health, happiness and independence; how his wife declared, as wives will, that she never would live on a farm; how he changed her mind, how they sought a piece of land and entered upon it; how the obstacles beetling above them were scaled or undermined; and it makes an absorbing and wholesome story. "My message," he says, "is for my people, that vast majority of mankind who have it not in them ever to be rich, who are bound as by an inexorable fate to be forever poor; now, the burden of it is that there is a better place to be poor in than the city, a place where poverty does not necessarily spell misery, and may be made to spell something like comfort." Something of this gives a faint rose tint to the dreams of thousands of burdened and oppressed dwellers in those penitentiaries for the poor called cities. But how, empty-handed, to realize that dream? Listen to this man again: "My message is for the man who is what I was, the man to whom it will hardly occur that opportunity has anything for him." He tells how he did it, and what one man has done another can do. It is a message of hope; and beyond that it is optimistic, humorous and entertaining; good not only for city dwellers who dream of wide, free, open fields, but for those who read purely for diversion.

GILBERT NEAL. By Will N. Harben author of "Mam' Linda," "Abner Daniel," etc. New York: Harper & Bros. $1.50.

Will Harben writes good, swinging, human stories of life in his Georgia villages, and in this latest work he shows increasing depth and power and reality. The tale is full of entertainment and empty of harmful influences. He touches, in this volume, upon a very delicate problem, too: the love of a married man for a young girl. It is a strong, dramatic tale, with never a let-up to the interest from beginning to end. There is Gilbert Neal, a burdened but sturdy young soul with unspotted ideals of duty and with a heart bigger than the instinct of self-interest. There is Tidwell, an eloquent young preacher whose sermons are full of passion and power and whose wretchedly weak heart is full of villainy. There is Tidwell's wife, an earnest, large-souled woman who bears patiently, so long as she may, the heavy burden of the knowledge of her husband's lack of sincerity and his influence for harm. There is Tidwell's sister, inwardly cold, calculating, fleshly and selfish, but outwardly warm, ingenuous and frank—a veritable siren and vampire. There is Tidwell's prospective victim, Neal's sister, a pretty and foolish little girl who weakly receives and reciprocates the preacher's infamous attentions. There is Neal's brother, an arrant scapegrace who turns his brass and effrontery to good account. All these together get into a very pretty mess, and how they get into it and how far they got out of it makes a story which is well worth reading.

THE PANTHER; A Tale of Temptation. By Anne Warner. Boston: Small, Maynard & Co. $1.25.

When you have read a few pages in this remarkable little book, you will most assuredly turn back to the title page with this remark: "Did the author of the 'Susan Clegg' stories write this?" She did, and it is just as strange as it seems. The former work of this author has been capably humorous and entertaining. This queer little tale also is entertaining, but it is weird, mystifying, baffling. It is an allegory, of course; a woman's parallel to Kipling's "They." The "panther" is temptation; at first a little, round, harmless ball of fur, but later, when the woman whom it accompanies fondles it, it grows miraculously until the startling conclusion of the tale. The woman of the story is a strange, impalpable figure, vague and almost spectral. The man is strong, and not the least startling feature of the story is that the panther dogs the woman's footsteps, not the man's. It is most vividly told, and the volume contains some striking pictures by Paul K. M. Thomas.

THE ADOPTING OF ROSA MARIE. By Carroll Watson Rankin. New York: Henry Holt & Co. $1.50.

This good and wholesome story for girls was written as a sequel to "Dandelion Cottage," a former success which is now in its fifth edition. It is especially concerned with the fate and fortunes of a little Indian papoose, around whom revolve many lively incidents, which are related with a sprightly and graceful humor. In "Dandelion Cottage" four young girls get hold of a tumble-down cottage and set up housekeeping in it. They have numerous disadvantages to overcome, and they undergo many amusing and queer experiences. The present volume continues their adventures in a manner that should be to the liking of the young people. Florence Scovel Shinn supplies some good pictures.

ANGEL ESQUIRE. By Edgar Wallace. New York: Henry Holt & Co. $1.50.

Here is an unusual detective story; unusual not only because the detective is unconventional and unusual, and the criminals equally fresh and new, but because the criminals and some who are not criminals have to do some of the detecting as well as the detective. A rich gambler leaves his fortune guarded by a puzzle concealed in a bit of doggerel verse. Two of his associate villains and the daughter of one of his victims are allowed to tackle the puzzle, and the fortune is to go to the one that solves it first. There are many good situations, and the action is lively and absorbing. There is a rug in a hall which covers a pit designed to carry men to their deaths; there is a suit of armor on the stairs which swings automatically a razor-edged axe; there are haunts of criminals in which danger lurks: in short, there are all the stage properties of an old-fashioned detective story, given a fresh and modern and wholly interesting stage setting. One of the neatest things in the tale, in which there is no dull spot, is the story of a small and cowardly criminal, who had lived by stealing doormats and by other similarly enterprising thefts, while he swaggered about in cheap dives claiming to be a member of the "Borough Lot," the gang of really dangerous criminals that has much to do with the story. Spurred by dire necessity he ventures upon burglary for the first time, and by an unhappy chance picks unwittingly upon the headquarters of the "Borough Lot." Finding out, by eavesdropping, what he has done, he almost expires with horror and alarm just as the police raid the place. Thereupon, achieving glory cheaply, he informs the police that he is a member of the "Borough Lot," and goes proudly forth, with his decoration of handcuffs, in the famous company he has admired from a distance.

The greatest charm of this wholesome American humorist is the kindliness that underlies his fun. There is no bitterness in him, and though pathos may tread closely upon the heels of his humor, there is no sting in his wit and no bite in his satire. These are sound, merry, entertaining tales, and the book is good to have on a handy table to be taken up when you have five minutes that you need brightened up.

AN AMERICAN SINGER IN PARIS. By Mrs. Hanson Workman. Cincinnati: The Tribune Printing company. $1.50.

A beautiful American singer, in Paris developing her voice, meets an American millionaire who falls in love with her. He, however, is beloved by a "dark, languorous" foreign beauty whose jealousy leads her to plot the singer's death, first with subtle poison and next by the aid of the deadly "Apaches," dreaded scum of the Paris slums. Naturally this makes rather a melodramatic tale, which is interspersed with intimate revelations of life in the French capital. There is plenty of stir; indeed, it is said on very thickly.

Among the Magazines.

The Woman's Home Companion Thanksgiving number is brimful of good things, and one of the best is Jack London's fact-story written from the South seas, entitled "The High Seat of Abundance." How Mr. London and his wife Charmian were entertained by dusky hosts in the tropics; how they went sailing in a comical little boat, which "a man sails by his weight and his nerve—principally the latter"; how the generous islanders loaded the adventurous couple with baskets and fruits and chickens and all kinds of unpronounceable delicacies—all these things and more in Mr. London's most vivid style make this article worth far more than the price of the magazine for a year. In addition there are more good stories than usual. Alice Brown contributes "The Deserters." Mary Reasen Vorse, a delightful Thanksgiving love story, Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews a story entitled "The Better Treasure," Irving Bacheller has another cricket tale, and Hayden Carruth a humorous story called "Budget's Thanksgiving Turkey." There is an excellent optimistic article by Dr. Woods Hutchinson entitled "Eyes to See," a chat about "Old-Time Political Campaigns" by Rebecca Harding Davis, a Thanksgiving tale by Edward Everett Hale, and illustrations by Jessie Wilcox Smith, F. C. Yohn, Alice Barber Stephens, James Montgomery Flagg, Orson Lowell and Hernan Pfeifer. Among the innumerable other good things in this number should be mentioned "Finding Work in Chicago," the second of a series of experiments conducted in the homeless of various large cities; "Home Owning, and the Family Finances," a straightforward treatment of a vital subject; "Modern French Masters of Music," by William Armstrong, with a programme of French music selected by Madame Chaminade; "Curing by Thinking," an article describing how the principles of the Emmanuel Movement are being employed; and several pages of beautiful Christmas gifts for the household.

The Century in the November issue, begins a group of articles appropriate to the Lincoln centenary year with Frederick Trevor Hill's "The Lincoln-Douglas Debate Fifty Years After," a new account of this famous forensic "seven days' battle." Mr. Hill has preserved the local color of this unique episode in American history, weaving his story from material, much of it unfamiliar, based on the testimony of eye-witnesses and documentary evidence. First of another unusual series of papers is "A Conversation on Music With Paderewski." It is the record, set down by Daniel Gregory Mason, of a free and intimate chat at the great musician's table, touching, among other interesting matters, upon modern French composers and their music. Robert Haven Schauffler begins a series of papers on his impressions of Dantzic, city of romance, with illustrations by the German artist Scherres. Later papers will treat of Berlin, Potsdam, Brunswick, Leipsic, Meissen, Dresden, Hildesheim, and other cities of romantic Germany. A new and notable chapter in Helen Keller's unique autobiographical record is a feature. "My Dreams," a suggestive, interesting, poetical study of the "life larger than our own" of which we catch glimpses in dreams. There are four notable pages in color in the number; and short stories by Edith Wharton, Caspar Day, Edith Rickert, Owen Johnson and James Hopper.

"One Very Merry Widow" is the entirely appropriate title of the story leading the November issue of 10 Story Book. It is written by Frank H. Meloon and is a choice bit of light fiction relating the affairs of a dainty bit of experienced femininity with fourteen men wise in all the ways of the world—excepting the ways of childlike widows. "The Whip," by Rosser W. Cobbe, is a tragic tale of relentless punishment, worthy of the pen of Poe or Maupassant. Don Mark Lemon contributes "My Mother-in-Law's Teeth," a satire worthy the pen of this well-known writer.

Among the special articles in Hampton's Broadway Magazine for November are: "The Wreck of the Home," by Rheta Childe Dorr; "Football," by Porter Emerson Browne; "Story of the Pallid Child and the Crippled Hero," by James Hopper; the second article by Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, giving his "Own Story of the American Navy;" "The Wall Street Nuisance," by Herbert N. Casson; "The Supreme Court and the President," showing the attitude of Taft and Bryan on this subject; "Newest Man-Killing Devices—and the Wireless Age," by Arthur B. Reeve; "Ringing Up Rural America," by Harris Dickson. The fiction is of a high order and the poetry is attractive.

The opening article in the November Scribner, "On the Old Boston Post Road," is by Stanley M. Arthurs, the artist. It recalls with humor and spirit the time before railroads and steamboats, when a journey between Boston and New York meant days in one of the great lumbering tallyhos. The scenes along the way, the changing of many horses, the road-houses that contributed so much to the social and creature comfort of the journey, the rivalry among the competing lines and the drivers, are described in the text and pictured in a series of paintings in color. In the third and last article dealing with the career of Richard Mansfield—these of course are only a very small part of the complete life, which will be shortly published in book form—Mr. Wilstach tells of the actor's great performance of "Cyrano" and of the arduous labor he put into the preparation of that play. It will be a pleasant revelation of the man to read a series of letters in this article written by him to his little son, Gibbs. They are full of tenderness and humorous fancy and reveal a remarkable understanding and sympathy with the child mind. Kenyon Cox contributes a most interesting article about "The Greatness of Raphael" and points out the fact that the best of his works in the Vatican are the greatest examples of decoration in the world. The article is illustrated with reproductions of a number of Raphael's most famous paintings.

"The Firing Line of a National Campaign," by John R. Winchell, the leading article in the November Metropolitan Magazine, is a timely and interesting paper which carries the reader behind the scenes of a great presidential fight and shows him the inner workings of the national committees. "Speed on the Land, On the Sea, and in the Air" is a valuable contribution by Charles H. Cochrane, showing how the world must go faster as its activities broaden. Brander Matthews discusses "The Play and the Plain People," H. N. D. Pierce, United States minister to Norway, writes entertainingly of the strange land to which his diplomatic travels have taken him.

Boys and girls are bound to read something. They will read trash unless given something better that is equally interesting. The Youth's Companion, published at Boston, Mass., seems to fill the bill. There is plenty of adventure in the stories, and the heroes and heroines are of the real kind, finding in the line of duty opportunity for courage and unselfishness. More than 250 such stories will be published in the fifty-two issues of the new volume for 1909. There will be fully as many articles, sketches and reminiscences to impart useful information in the most agreeable way, familiarizing the Companion's readers with the best that is known and thought in the world. Full illustrated announcement of the Companion for 1909 will be sent to any address free with sample copies of the paper.

The Seine, "river of laughter and sighs," is the study of Marie Van Vorst, in her series descriptive of rivers of the world, which opens Harper's Magazine for November. The text is supplemented by the paintings of Andre Castaigne shown in tint. "To the Cold Land of Fire" is Charles W. Furlong's narrative of a hazardous trip of exploration, undertaken for the magazine through Tierra del Fuego, in regions unapproached since the time of Darwin. Norman Duncan tells of a night on the Arabian desert, repeating the stories told him by an unveracious camel driver, and Robert Kennedy Duncan, brother of Norman Duncan, discourses "On the Trend of Chemical Invention." "The Sea and Music" is an uncommon critical study by Lawrence Gilman on the moods of the sea as a motive for composers, and "A Hero of Inkerman" is a battle story told to Robert Shackleton by an old English artillery sergeant. Noteworthy ar. features in this number are the drawings by Edwin A. Abbey, R. A., expositive of Coriolanus, Horatio Walker's paintings, reproduced with a discussion by Charles H. Caffin, and several etchings by Chares Henry White to accompany his spirited argument upon Pittsburg as one of the most picturesque cities of America.

Chemical company will continue inactive, although it had been intended to put the stack into blast the 15th of the present month. The cordwood camps at Dunham, Hinkle and Mellen are affected in similar manner.

Forest fires on the Gogebic range have been dangerous latterly, and vigorous work has been necessary to prevent serious losses. Among others, the Comet mine location was threatened, while south of Bessemer a big force of men from Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Ironton mine was kept busy fighting flames for nearly a week.

mine in this district. The foundations of the new hoist and compressor plant have ben laid and the machinery is being installed, and the construction of the railroad is under way.

The Ojibway's Work.

The Ojibway Mining company has driven its No. 1 shaft down to the 500-foot mark, where the second level will be established. A plat is now being cut and crosscutting to the lode will be in progress this week. At the No. 2 shaft a crosscut was started two weeks ago and should reach the lode within 100 feet. No drifting is now in progress, the company confining its operations to sinking and crosscutting in an endeavor to gain depth as rapidly as possible. About 200 feet of drifting at the first level in the No. 2 shaft disclosed some copper rock, but it is expected that openings lower down will show the metal in greater quantities as indicated by diamond drill borings obtained some time ago. The construction of a central steam hoisting plant is well under way. All necessary mine buildings and dwelling houses have been erected, and there remain only the rock houses to be constructed. The surface equipment of the Ojibway is complete in every particular and would be a credit ot a much older property. There has ben much talk of an assessment to be called this fall, but it is officially announced that such will not be necessary for another year at least.

Stamp Mill for Winona.

Winona is planning the erection of a stamp mill to be owned jointly wtih the King Phillip Copper company. Recent development in ground tributary to Winona's No. 4 shaft discloses copper rock an encouraging nature. A better showing is also noted at greater depth in the No. 3 shaft, but on the whole the ground disclosed to date is low grado, and it will be necessary to open and develop considerable stoping ground to insure a careful selection of rock for the lode is exceedingly bunchy and much of the rock broken down is barren of copper. The No. 3 shaft has reached the thirteenth level and the No. 4 shaft is nearing the ninth level.

The Keweenaw.

Sinking has been resumed below the thirteenth level in the Medora shaft of the Keweenaw Copper company. The company is obtaining very little encouragement in its mill test, though a closer selection of rock is now being made. Developments underground continue with indifferent success, the rock encountered probably not exceeding eighteen pounds of copper mineral per ton of rock milled, which is much the lowest grade of rock mined in this end of the district. The mill is runnig on half time, and treating about 120 tons of rock daily.

Negotiations are in progress for the sale of the old Franklin mine. The property to be disposed of consists of 320 acres of mineral and surface rights and fifty-nine acres constituting the old Franklin mll site. The matter will be brought before the stockholders of the Franklin Mining company for ratification at a special meetnig scheduled for Nov. 26, at which meeting an increase in the capital stock of the company wil also be considered, with a view to acquiring the adjonling lands of the Rhode Island Copper company.

vantageous location for such an opening has been decided upon.

It is almost needless to say that the North Butte management is on terms of the friendliest character with the Amalgamated people. Quite recently it secured a new smelting contract with the Washoe plant, which reduces the net cost of its copper at least 1 cent per pound.

North Butte has today 4,800 shareholders and the list is steadily growing. We are informed that neither Thomas F. Cole, John D. Ryan nor Mr. Carson, all of them very large holders in the North Butte property, disposed of a share of stock on the break last fall to $30 per share. In fact, in the case of Mr. Carson, at least, he added considerably to his holdings during the decline, so great is his confidence in the stability and earning power of his investment.

HOW OUR PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES RECEIVE THE PEOPLE'S DECISION

ance in the evening his usual smile was wanting. He seemed careworn and weary. There were a good many of his friends assembled at the house, and wires had been put into the library and the dining room. Bryan did not remain long down stairs with his friends but went upstairs to his study alone. Such bulletins as were of an encouraging nature Mrs. Bryan carried up to her husband, but later when it was seen that all was lost she left the party down stairs and joined her husband in the study.

It was at his home in Lincoln, also, that Bryan received the news of his second defeat for the presidency in 1900. The house was filled with politicians, personal friends, newspaper men and telegraph operators. Not only the lower floor but the house above as well were given over to the work of receiving the momentous returns. Four wires entered the house. At first Bryan received the returns in his library with his friends. He was in good spirits and apparently confident. After a while he went up stairs to his own room, where he had a private wire, and after sitting for a while reading the returns as the operator handed them to him threw himself on the bed and went to sleep. He said he wanted to make up for some of the sleep he had lost during the campaign. At 11 o'clock, when it was apparent that he had been defeated and the newspaper men wanted to get some statement from him, it was given out that he was sleeping soundly, and that for two hours he had received no news of any kind.

President McKinley went from Washington to his Canton home to vote and to receive the election returns in 1900. Many neighbors and friends assembled at the house on election night and Mrs. McKinley was surrounded by many of her old Canton friends. Direct wires connected the house with Mark Hanna in Cleveland, with Republican national headquarters and with Governor Roosevelt at Oyster Bay. Cortelyou received and read the dispatches and the little company received them with cheers. The first telegram of congratulation came from Joseph H. Manley in New York. "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," it read, "your election is conceded by the Democratic managers."

The people of Canton held high carnival. At midnight a crowd collected in front of the McKinley house and demanded a speech. The president gave them a short one and soon after went to bed. He was calm and confident all through the evening and laughed and joked good naturedly.

Roosevelt Happy; Parker to Bed.

Theodore Roosevelt received the news of his election in 1904 in the White House, after returning from Oyster Bay, whither he had gone to vote. It was following the receipt of what he considered the decisive report that the president walked over to his wife and said: "My dear, I am happy to inform you that I am no longer an accident." A little later he gave out his famous statement taking himself out of the presidential list for 1908.

Meantime Alton B. Parker was receiving the news of his defeat at his home at Esopus, N. Y. The returns were sent to him by telephone and he was alone with his family when he received them. By 6:30 he was convinced that he was defeated. He had never been confident that he would be elected, and when the returns from Poughkeepsie came in showing a majority for Roosevelt he said that settled it. Conditions had been unusually favorable to Judge Parker in Poughkeepsie and when that place went Republican he had no further hope. This is probably the first time that the returns from so small a place convinced a presidential aspirant of his defeat. At 10:30 the judge went to bed.

Are you hoping that your business will break all records this fall? Herald publicity is the most important factor in bringing this about.

ANOTHER WHOLESALE HOUSE FOR LAKE AVENUE

National Biscuit Company Will Build Near the Ferry Bridge—Lake Avenue Will Rival Fifth and Michigan Street—Real Estate Buying is of Permanent Nature.

The announcement that another wholesale house is to go up on Lake avenue is probably the feature of the week in real estate and building circles. John A. Stephenson, manager of the Zenith Investment company, is to erect for the National Biscuit company a building to cost between $9,000 and $10,000 as an addition to the growing list of wholesale houses on the upper end of Minnesota point.

The building will be located on lot 274, Lake avenue, Upper Duluth, near the aerial bridge, and it will be built after the fashion of National Biscuit company buildings all through the country. It will be one story in height, of brick, with ornamented cornice and suited for the needs of a distribution headquarters of a concern of the kind. The building will not be constructed under contract, but the work will be done by day workmen under the supervision of a superintendent. J. J. Wangenstein has prepared the plans for the building.

Real estate men who have come to a realization of the fact that Lake avenue, with its greater territory and greater number of available sites, will soon equal Fifth avenue as a wholesale district and will give Michigan street a close run. It is the only logical territory remaining on the water front in the downtown district. The Marshall-Wells company had the territory all to itself for a long time. Then the Northern Shoe company encroached and now the announcements that the Dewitt-Seitz company is to erect an eight-story building and the National Biscuit company is to erect a distributing depot came within a week of each other.

Incidentally, as Lake avenue assumes its proper place as a wholesale district, the resorts of St. Croix avenue will have to go. Sites for wholesale houses and other big enterprises are scarce in the downtown district and St. Croix avenue sites will soon be in demand. When they are, the proper pressure will undoubtedly be brought to bear on the city council, and the red lights will be forced to remove themselves from the path of progress.

"When people buy for homebuilding and for permanency—when every deal takes a piece of property out of the market, for a lifetime, perhaps, the market is necessarily narrow," said a real estate dealer yesterday afternoon and, in those words, he sized up the situation as it is now in Duluth.

There is nothing speculative about the real estate market. It is as solid as the rock of Gibralter. Not a flicker of shaky, fitful undercurrent can be discerned by anybody. The man, who goes in for a quick turn will not get it, for the people, who are buying, are buying to build homes, to "consume" the property, if such a term is permissable, and when the buying is of that character, speculation is relegated to the extreme rear.

Incidentally, in the opinion of real estate dealers and students of the situation, there can be a turn but one way. That must be for the better. Ever since the panic of 1907, the market has been substantially in the condition it is now. There have been marked appreciations in value in the East end, where property in a small district is coveted by the prospective builders of beautiful homes, and a portion of the West end has enjoyed an increase in values, but for the most part, values are the same now as they were a year ago. The man who is hit hard by rents in panic time, realizes that a home of his own is what he needs and he acts on the realization at the first opportunity. Thus, during the past year, a good deal of money has gone into the real estate market, but almost every cent of it was for solid investment in Duluth homes—a safe and sane place to put surplus coin.

While the real estate market in the remainder of the city is, in Wall street parlance, "quiet, but firm," the East end continues to hold its own as the one boom section of the city. The home builders, with more than modest means, look toward the East end to secure sites for the beautiful homes they have in mind, and holders of vacant property in that district are

COME IN AND SEE US. 501-502 SELLWOOD BUILDING.

ATTRACTIVE BUNGALOW WHICH WOULD COST $3,500 IN DULUTH

There is but one place in the world where a bungalow has any legitimate reason for existence, and that is in a quiet wooded spot, preferably overlooking a broad expanse of water. Surroundings of beautiful evergreen and birch trees, vines climbing over the field stone walls, shrubbery and flowers here and there, are the only harmonious settings for bungalow architecture.

A bungalow as above illustrated is quite inexpensive to build. Its salient feature is the living room, designed after the manner shown in the two views of this room. A large fireplace built of field stone occupies one end, while large triple windows giving light and air is the feature in the gable end. Wall space is plentiful for the furniture this compartment demands.

The front hall is very large and French doors open onto the loggia; the windows run to the floor, making the best of "borrowed" light from the loggia.

This loggia is to be enclosed with screens during the summer months, and with glass in winter, making an attractive outdoor living and sun room.

Opposite the living room through the hall, is the dining room, large and well lighted, and its attractiveness is greatly added to by "craftsman" decorations and furnishings. A pantry is planned between this room and the kitchen, which is provided with pantry table and plenty of cupboard space. The kitchen is made small, well lighted, and ventilated, and sufficient wall space is provided for the necessary fixtures this room demands. An inside cellar entrance is planned opening from the rear entry, a very convenient arrangement.

Opening from the hall is the passage to each chamber, and also the bathroom. Linen shelves will also be found here. The chambers are comparatively large and well lighted and closets are provided for each.

In the front hall is the staircase leading to the second story. On this floor is planned the large balcony overlooking the living room, also a very large chamber with bathroom in connection.

Field stone for the first story window sills and shingles above have been used in this attractive bungalow, giving a rustic effect which will harmonize with the natural surroundings.

The estimated cost of a bungalow as above planned would be $3,500. This includes heating and plumbing, lighting, etc., all complete.

Unusual Chance to Buy a Handsome Home

PREPARING the SITE for the NEW STEEL PLANT

CLEARING GROUND FOR THE BRIDGE ACROSS THE RIVER

GRADING FOR THE NEW ROAD TO THE STEEL PLANT

BOARDING HOUSE FOR WORKMEN ON THE DULUTH SIDE OF THE RIVER

THE NEW ROAD TO THE STEEL PLANT WITH THROUGH WISCONSIN

For the benefit of those who doubt the construction of the steel plant and belt line railroad, The Herald staff photographer has taken a number of views showing the progress that has been made. Since the Steel corporation began operations up the river, there has been a bank panic and the country is now enjoying a presidential election—conditions not apt to encourage large undertakings, but in spite of these unusual handicaps, teh company has expended about $1,500,000 in securing its site, consisting of about 1,500 acres at Spirit lake, its right of ways for the Belt Line railroad, its terminals near South Superior for its yards, its dockage, and terminals on Allouez bay.

All of the work done by the corporation is of the most substantial character and not of the flimsy character "paper schemes" usually are.

The trestle as shown above is as solid a structure as can be built; the rails laid on the Minnesota side as well as the Belt line on the Wisconsin side, as shown above, are of the heaviest and most substantial character; the grading on the right of way for the Belt line on the Wisconsin side is being done in a most solid manner. A view is shown of a piece of right of way near the site of the bridge across the St. Louis river, as well as a view of where clearing has been done for the approaches to the bridge on the Wisconsin side.

The corporation has built a driving road from its terminal grounds near South Superior to the site of its bridge on the St. Louis river, so that one can drive from Duluth right to the Wisconsin side of the bridge.

A view is also shown of the corporation's boarding camp on the Minnesota side. These views certainly look as though the company meant business, and it is rumored in the near future, operations on the Belt line bridges will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

An immense amount of material will be used in the construction of the plant and it will undoubtedly be brought in over the Belt line and across the river.

The right of way is now graded from Saunders on the Great Northern railway to the Wisconsin end of the proposed bridge, just east of New Duluth, which the Steel company will build across the St. Louis river at that point.

Steel is already down a portion of the distance, as shown above.

It is understood that the small bridges and balance of railroad track will be built at once, and thus enable the company to get in material for the St. Louis river bridge. This bridge will cost between $350,000 and $400,000. It will have a fifty-foot draw, and a 125-foot swing on each side.

It will be a double deck, double track bridge, the upper deck for steam railway, and foot passengers, and the lower deck for electric railways and vehicles. It is to be a free bridge.

This bridge connects the Steel plant with eight distinct lines of railroads, viz: Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Wisconsin Central, C. St. P. M. & O., "Soo," D. S. S. & A., Duluth, Missabe & Northern and Duluth & Iron Range railway, making a wonderful belt line.

securing good prices for their holdings. The purchasers of the last few months have been, almost without exception, home and home builders and the proportions of the airy building boom, which is expected to settle on the East end next spring, is assuming greater proportions every week.

Probably the most important deal of the past week was the sale by E. P. Alexander to Henry H. Meyers of the northeast corner of First street and Twenty-fifth avenue east for approximately $7,500. The site is one of the most desirable in the East end, and Mr. Myers will erect a beautiful home. The foundation will probably be put in this fall, and the superstructure will go up next spring.

Two other important deals were made through Stryker, Manley & Buck. The Felix Investment company sold to James W. Sheridan the northeast corner of Twenty-fifth avenue east and Third street, 50x140 feet, for $3,200. Mendenhall & Hoopes represented the purchaser. Mr. Sheridan will probably erect a home also. The other deal was the sale by Henry C. Huot to J. W. Lyder, Jr., of the southeast corner of Twenty-sixth avenue east and Third street, 100x140 feet, for $4,000. Mr. Lyder very probably made the purchase for improvement also.

Another deal made through Stryker, Manley & Buck was the sale by Margaret Arseneau to Thomas E. Blache of the house and lot at 1219 East Second street for $4,300.

Amelia Sherwood has sold to Theophile Dion, lots 15 and 16, block 16, Highland Park addition, being the northeast corner of Fifth street and Nineteenth avenue east, for $1,600.

A. L. Goodman has sold to Hugh J. McClearn, lot 5, block 16, Banning & Kay's subdivision, being a lot on First street, near Twelfth avenue east, for $2,800.

Contractors are figuring on the construction of a residence for Dr. M. B. Cullum on the corner of Twenty-eighth avenue east and Superior street. It will be a frame house of modern construction. Anthony Puck is the architect.

The numerous deals in East end real estate of late has aroused curiosity and every Sunday sees a crowd out in that district looking over the pieces of land figuring in the late deals. Prospective purchasers pace off lots that look good to them, curious people seek out lots, which have brought good prices and figure if they were worth it, and the size of the crowd indicates that there is at least a lively interest in developments in the real estate world, regardless of the actual number of deals.

While the home builders are buying real estate in the city, the settlers are looking to farm lands in Northern Minnesota. The market for farm lands has stability and deals for actual settlement are numerous. Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and other states to the south of Minnesota are furnishing their quota of settlers, who wish to wrestle with the soil in a new territory.

The Isaiah Henry Beadord Farm Land agency sold this week forty acres of land near Holyoke, Carlton county and eighty acres near Rice Lake, 52-14, in St. Louis county. Both sales were to actual settlers.

C. E. Henderson sold this week through Stryker, Manley & Buck to Emil Bjirlin, two lots in East Park division, on the corner of Chestnut street and Michigan avenue, near the Bryant school.

The Fitger Brewing company is preparing to remodel the frame building at the corner of Sixth avenue east and First street into two flats. The contractors are figuring on the contract, which will be about $4,000. Anthony Puck prepared the plans.

Josephine Carlson has sold to A. A. Deslauriers the southerly forty feet of the northerly forty feet of lots 14, 15 and 16, block 108, Portland division, on Seventh avenue east, just south of Fifth street. The consideration was about $1,600.

Joseph E. Cummings has sold to John Jenswold lot 12, block E, London addition, on the south side of London road, between Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth avenues east, for $1,800.

Andrew Olson has sold to Emma Sidona Rothe, lot 14, block 145, Portland division, on the north side of Seventh street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues east, for $2,000.

WHEAT HAS WEAK TONE

Prices Ease Off After a Stagnant Session in America.

Flax is Bid Up Well and Closes Strong in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 24.—Dullness pervaded the wheat market after the opening flurry today, and the cash prices had an easier tone. There was little news, and the options were stagnant during much of the short session.

Reports of damage to the Argentine crop by frost were discounted and the Liverpool cables were weak. Liverpool closed ¼d lower, Budapest ⅝c lower, Berlin ½c lower, Antwerp ⅝c lower and Paris ½c to ¾c lower.

The December wheat closed unchanged in Duluth, a shade lower in Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Louis, ⅝c lower in New York, ⅛c higher in Kansas City and ¼c higher in Winnipeg. The May option closed ⅛c lower in Duluth, a shade higher in Chicago and Kansas City, a shade lower in Minneapolis, ⅜c lower in New York, unchanged in St. Louis and ¼c higher in Winnipeg.

December closed ⅛@¼c higher in Chicago and unchanged in Liverpool. December oats closed ⅜c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—As a result of the unexpected weakness in American markets yesterday, expectations of liberal world's shipments for the week and the continental exports, as indicated by Bradstreet's, the market here was ¼d to ½d lower, with offerings larger. During the early trading the market was dull at the decline, but toward the close covering of shorts on a private report, claiming much damage in the North of Argentina, as a result of the recent frost, caused an advance, and at the close the market was steady, and ¼d to ⅝d up from the opening, but ¼d lower than Friday.

"Corn was dull and unchanged, the market being neglected."

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,165,000 bus., last year 881,000 bus. Shipments 674,000 bus., last year 905,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 265,000 bus., last year 578,000 bus. Shipments 177,000 bus., last year 478,000 bus.

Wheat was quiet during the session in Duluth. December wheat opened unchanged at $1.01¼, advanced to $1.01⅜, and closed at $1.01¼, unchanged from yesterday. May wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.05¼, declined to $1.04⅞, rallied to $1.05¼ and closed there, a loss of ⅛c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¼c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2½c over December for No. 1 northern.

Flax was in fair demand and closed stronger. October flax opened ⅛c lower at $1.23¼, advanced to $1.24¼ and declined by the close to $1.23⅞, a gain of ½c over yesterday. November flax opened ⅛c lower at $1.23¼, advanced to $1.24⅜ and declined to $1.24, a gain of ½c over yesterday. December flax opened ½c higher at $1.22½, advanced to $1.23¼ and closed at $1.23, a gain of ⅝c over yesterday. May flax opened ⅛c higher at $1.27, declined to $1.26⅜, rallied to $1.27⅛ and closed at $1.27, a gain of ¼c over yesterday.

Rye closed 1c off for lower grades and other coarse grains unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wet Weather Has Weakening Effect in Wheat Market.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Wet weather generally in the winter wheat belt had a weakening effect today on the wheat market. Unexpected firmness at Liverpool, however, tended to restrain the would-be sellers, and in consequence prices showed only slight declines. Prices at the start were unchanged to ⅛c higher, with December at 99⅛c to 99⅛@⅜c. Later December sold off to 98⅞c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 736 cars, as against 773 cars last week and 617 cars one year ago.

Sentiment in the pit was bearish all day. The low point for December was reached at 98½@⅝c. There was a little rally late in the day on covering by shorts which caused the market to close steady, with December a shade lower at 99c.

The wet weather had an opposite effect on the corn market from what it had on wheat, sentiment in the pit being bullish owing to prospects of smaller receipts as a result of the rains. Trade, however, was dull. December opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@⅝c higher at 63½c to 63⅝c and sold at 63⅝c. Local receipts were 79 cars, with 22 of contract grade.

Weakness of the cash grain had a depressing effect late in the day and nearly all the early gain was lost. The close was steady, with December ⅛@¼c higher at 63⅜c.

Oats were firm. December opened ⅛c higher at 47⅝c and sold at 47¾c. Local receipts were 103 cars.

Trade in provisions was dull and the market was easy owing to liberal receipts of live hogs at Western packing centers. Prices at the start were unchanged to 5c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Prediction for More Rain an Influence in Wheat Trading.

Minneapolis, Oct. 24.—Rain in the Ohio valley was a weakening influence in wheat. Predictions for more caused selling. The cables were indifferent. Liverpool ½d lower. Minneapolis stocks increased 1,436,071 bushels for the weaker reaching 11,453,924. With further increase of 175,000 bushels for one day well above 12,000,000 is indicated for a week from now.

Receipts here 410 cars against 275; Duluth 240 and 220, Winnipeg 411 and 327. Near the close there was a firmer tendency on week end short covering. December opened $1.01; high, $1.01⅛@1.01⅛; low, $1.00½@1.00⅝; close, $1.01.

Old December closed $1.01⅛; May opened $1.05⅝; high, $1.05⅝; low, $1.04⅞; close, $1.05¼.

Millers bought and there was a steady cash demand early at 2¾c over December for No. 1 Northern. Later sales were 2½c over. No. 2 Northern held steady at an even 2c under No. 1. Close: No. 1 Northern spot, $1.03¼; to arrive, $1.02½@1.02⅝. No. 2 Northern spot, $1.01¼@$1.01⅜; to arrive, $1.01½. No. 3 wheat, 97@$1.00.

Flax—Receipts, 91 cars against 85 last year; shipments, 9.

Prices were on the Duluth November basis, at 1@1¼c under for spot seed. Close, $1.22¾.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,350 tons. The tone is firmer; millers quote bulk bran $17.50@18.

Flour closed a quiet week, all the millers reporting business lighter for the period. The market is steady. There is a favorable outlook, but the ante-election hesitation that is so marked in other trade lines is being felt a little in flour.

HEARD ON THE FLOOR

Antwerp Man Says Argentine Flax Escaped the Frost.

Member of Big German Grain Firm Visits Duluth.

Charles Weisman of Antwerp, Germany, spent the morning on the floor of the board.

Mr. Weisman is the head of a firm which engages heavily in the wheat and flax trade. Mr. Weisman's house is one of the largest handlers of Argentine flax in the world.

This morning, Mr. Weisman stated that he had received private cables to the effect that the Argentine flax crop had not been damaged by frost, as was reported during the week.

G. F. Piper and son, L. H. Piper, are in the city, and during the morning visited the trading room.

Mr. Piper is a member of the Minneapolis firm of Piper, Johnson & Case, and is also a heavy stockholder in the Midland Linseed Oil company, which is a big user of flax seed. Mr. Piper has long been prominently identified with the Northwestern flax market.

GIRL SEIZED BY SHARK.

London Express: Milena Sgambelli, a Delmatian fishergirl, was bathing near Zara with other girls when two sharks rushed into the midst of them.

Milena ran to the beach, on which she found an iron rod. Seizing this, she rushed bodly into the water again, striking at the sharks with the rod in order to save her companions.

She overbalanced herself and fell at full length in the water, when one of the sharks seized her leg in its mouth and bit it off above the knee. Her companions dragged Milena out, but she died from loss of blood.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Market Opened With Little Change and Closed About Steady.

Interest in Automobile Cup Race Diverted Attention From Trading.

New York, Oct. 24.—Dealings in stocks at the opening today were very light and prices changes had little significance. Union Pacific and Amalgamated Copper rose a fraction, and St. Paul declined ⅝. These were the most conspicuous changes.

Business was too small to alter prices much, the market ruling at about the opening prices.

The market closed about steady and dull. Interest in the automobile cup race diverted attention from the stock market and dealings were scanty. American Car, Westinghouse Electric and Louisville & Nashville rose 1. In the general list the small gains were most yielded. Lake Erie and Western preferred sold at a decline of 2½. International Pump preferred 1¼ and Colorado & Southern first preferred and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 1.

New York stock quotations furnished by Fred H. Merritt, 328 West Superior street.

OCTOBER 24, 1908.

Ballaklava is fast becoming one of the biggest mines in the United States. Inside of one year this mine should begin to look pretty much like the North Butte, for the ore bodies should then be opened up so big that the mine should easily show real value up to $10,000,000 or $12,000,000. The big fellows are buying this issue, and one man is now interested heavily that could almost buy the North Butte mine on its present valuation.

Ballaklava is a big success from management to the mine. Ballaklava closed $9.00 Bid today.

Butte-Montana is good as gold at present prices. Never in this city of ours have the people had a chance to get so good a stock for so little money.

We certainly advise the purchase of this issue, for you are getting five times your money's worth in real value. The mine is located alongside of the West Colusa, and near the Minnie Healy mines of Butte, Mont. The stock is trading between 42c to 50c. It is a buy if there ever was one.

Butte & Superior is getting along all right. We understand that the expert who made the last statement regarding the property, has made so many errors that he cannot be depended upon to any great extent. He is not with the Amalgamated any more. Why is he not with them now?

BUTTE-MONTANA AND BUTTE-BALAKLAVA

I have described and written a full description of the position of Butte-Montana's Alex Scott claim, which will appear in the Sunday's issue of the Tribune. In viewing the situation as shown, and the comparisons drawn, I am doing so with a full knowledge of my statements and facts being sure and true, defying the reputation of any mining man in Butte or outside of Butte. There is no fictitious support; the shares are not held by wealthy unprincipled manipulators, but by a number of miners and small business people, who are banking all they have on the future of one of the best mines in Butte, unduly depreciated through causes unknown, but still illegitimately influenced by statements not in accordance with facts. The title is good, the ore bodies are there to speak for themselves, and I advise the strictest investigation of these holdings by calling at my office. There are no liabilities against the mine, and there are advantages without question.

I have read tonight, with astonishment the fact that the Alex Scott is capable of becoming a producer, although not to be compared with the Butte-Balaklava and this gives me the right to assert that the Butte-Balaklava have so far in sinking obtained results wholly disappointing to the officers; that to the present depth of nearly 1,000 feet nothing has been met with of any commercial value; that crosscutting from the 1,000-foot level has yet to be done, then the determination of results are mythical whilst the market value approximates $1,750,000 with no ore, no equipment to speak of, and the future entirely doubtful. Butte-Montana is valued at $400,000 according to the market price, has five acres in the very center of the greatest producers of the Boston-Montana and Amalgamated properties, has ore on many levels, is connected by drifts with the West Colusa, is adjoined by the greatest and largest copper producers in the world, and is without doubt a proposition that one acre of the Alex Scott is worth the entire aereage owned by the Butte-Balaklava.

I must refer to the Tribune's Sunday's issue showing ore reserves, conditions, depths of various shafts, and the Alex Scott claim comparisons need after this explanation little thought, and the Butte-Balaklava will have to show up more merit very quickly to prove an equal to Butte-Montana. I am open to all sorts of conviction; I am informed on Butte mines and also the copper situation as a whole, and advocate still extreme caution, as in spite of the wild statements made by Walker, Henry Clews, and one and all brokers. There is at least held by London controllers over one million tons of copper to keep the market moderate and not allow foolish operators to run away with themselves. In Professor Winchell's evidence given in the Butte-Superior case, he makes the statement that he had seen stopes in the Leonard, West Colusa, Anaconda and original mines revealing veins from 150 to 350 feet wide. Let this bear weight in examining the future of the Butte-Montana's great mine, the Alex Scott.

Don't overlook the fact that most of the ore already found and in small bunches in the Butte-Balaklava is mostly chalophyrite. Has this kind of ore ever developed into a good mine in Butte?

LET NOT VOTERS BE DECEIVED

JOHNSON TO WIN GREAT VICTORY

Will Carry Every District and Plurality of 40,000 is Predicted.

No Candidate for Governor Ever Had Such a Series of Ovations.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor John A. Johnson will be re-elected by a plurality of at least 40,000.

This is the prediction made by conservative men who have carefully canvassed the situation.

The closing week of the campaign opens with the brightest prospects for a splendid victory for the governor. Never has the outlook been better. The governor's strength has steadiiy grown since the opening of the campaign, and now it is confidently claimed that he will carry every congressional district in the state, even the district in which Mr. Jacobson resides being assured by a small plurality.

Governor Johnson's tour of the state has been a series of magnificent ovations. Everywhere he has been met by large and enthusiastic audiences. The halls have been unable to hold the people, and thousands of those who desired to hear him speak have been turned away. Never in the history of the state has any candidate for governor been given such a splendid reception.

Tonight Governor Johnson will speak at Mankato, and the greatest political demonstration ever known in Southern Minnesota is expected. Five special trains from different sections of the Second district will carry to Mankato the people who want to hear the governor. Ten coaches have been chartered by the admirers of Governor Johnson in his home city of St. Peter. The students at Gustavus Adolphus college will attend in a body and will be accompanied by the Lyric Male chorus of thirty voiecs. The only trouble is that there is not a hall in Mankato large enough to hold the crowds that will flock to the city.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON PRAISED BY LEADING REPUBLICAN PAPERS

St. Paul Pioneer Press Editorial, March 28, 1907: Governor Johnson has made an affable governor and has been equal to the demands of every occasion. GOVERNOR JOHN A. JOHNSON,
Who Stands for a Square Deal for St. Louis County.

GOMPERS REPLIES; ATTACKS ROOSEVELT

Labor Leader Puts President Squarely Before Nation as Foe to Union Men.

Washington, Oct. 26.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, today delivered a fierce broadside directed at President Roosevelt, in reply to the president's letter to Senator Knox, after the latter's speech in Philadelphia, last week. In the president's letter Mr. Roosevelt charged Gompers with trying to deliver the vote of American union labor to the Democracy. Mr. Bryan, in subsequent speches sarcastically asserted that Roosevelt had "deposed" Mr. Gompers. In his reply, Gompers says in part:

"It has been my pleasure to have often had the privilege of discussing with President Roosevelt a number of the fundamental questions of right, justice, and moral and social uplift. Included in these discussions were the invasions of personal rights and human liberty by the courts in the injunction abuse. It is true that the president has not always fully agreed with my contentions, but he has never until the

JACOBSON IS FATHER OF TONNAGE TAX ON IRON ORE AND JOHNSON AGAINST IT

Bold Attempt to Mislead the People of the Iron Counties by Tissue of Falsehood and Deceit.

Johnson Has Flatly Promised to Veto Tonnage Tax Bill or Any Measure Harmful to This Section.

Out of the thousands of Republican business and professional men in Duluth, the News Tribune has been able to induce fifty-three to indorse its interpretation of the present situation in the governorship contest. It is very doubtful if a single one of those fifty-three signers of the declaration of deception, published in Sunday morning's News Tribune, would have affixed his name if he had realized what a tissue of falsehood and deceit it is.

Beginning with a great truth, it leads by a chain of half truths and complete falsehoods to a great error.

The one great truth which is the starting point of this remarkable document is that the tonnage tax is bad, and that St. Louis county does not want it. This everybody will admit; and the same thing is true of Itasca county, Aitkin county, Crow Wing county and the many other counties in which iron ore has been discovered.

The monstrous error to which this tangled chain of putty links tends is that the way to avoid the tonnage tax is to vote for Jacobson.

: When the falsehoods that make up the chain of argument are resolved to truths and the chain is made complete and honest, it leads to the unavoidable conclusion that THE WAY TO BEAT THE TONNAGE TAX IS TO BEAT JACOBSON, ITS FATHER, AND TO ELECT JOHNSON, ITS OPPONENT.

Now for a little attention to the several links that compose the chain that leads from truth to falsehood by way of sophistry and deceit. Here are some of the links in that chain:

FIRST: "As time passes and the state needs more money, it will be compelled to get it out of the tonnage tax on iron ore because it cannot get it out of the railroads." All that is necessary to get more taxes out of the railroads is to have the legislature adopt a bill increasing the gross earnings tax from 4 per cent, its present rate, to whatever figure the legislature pleases, and the people will approve that measure. But when such an attempt is made, the corrupt political machine that nominated Jacobson and that is urging his candidacy by deceit and hypocritical sophistries will be found standing squarely in the way, to defend the railroads.

SECOND: "The Democratic platform, on which Governor Johnson hopes to be elected for the third time, declares in express words for a tonnage tax on iron ore, and all over Southern Minnesota he tells the voters how, if elected, he will reduce their taxes by increasing the taxes on iron ore." The Democratic platform declares for the tax amendment, and says that it will open the way for a tonnage tax and other tax measures. The Republican platform, less frank, declares for the tax amendment, and you have the News Tribune's word for it that the tax amendment means nothing but a tonnage tax. Governor Johnson is not telling the voters, "all over Southern Minnesota" or anywhere else, that "if elected he will reduce their taxes by increasing the taxes on iron mines." He said in the range communities and in Duluth just exactly what he has said in every other part of the state: That THE TAX BURDENS OF THE SMALL PROPERTY-OWNER HAVE BEEN EASED BY THE INCREASE ALREADY MADE on the iron properties; and that increase, instead of being made by a ruinous tonnage tax, as Jacobson would have it, was made by raising the assessed valuations of the iron mines so that every citizen of St. Louis county received direct benefit thereby; the tax rates in the iron range communities having been lowered 25 to 40 per cent, while Jacobson's tonnage tax would have increased them 100 to 300 per cent.

THIRD: "Governor Johnson's statement in St. Louis county that he would veto tax measures unjust to this section has been assumed to be a promise to veto a tonnage tax bill. It is nothing of the kind." It is, in fact, far broader than a mere promise to veto a tonnage tax bill.

: It is a flat, emphatic and unequivocal promise to protect the taxpayers of the iron country against ANY KIND OF TAX MEASURE THAT THREATENS THEM WITH HARM, whether it is called a tonnage tax or by any other name that the ingenuity of Jacobson and his fellow-enemies of Northeastern Minnesota may devise. He said that if a measure is passed depriving this section of its full share of taxes, HE WILL VETO IT.

That means that he will not permit the legislature to encroach in any manner, by a tonnage tax or otherwise, upon the rights of the people of the iron country. It could not be broader; it could not be more emphatic; it could not be more to the point. It is conceivable that a measure might be proposed for a form of taxation of the iron mines that would profit the rest of the state and impoverish this part of the state, but that would still not be a tonnage tax measure. Governor Johnson has promised to veto it, whatever its name or form. Every man in the state knows what it means when Johnson tells what he thinks: he means exactly what he says, without quibbling or evasion. He said what he thought about the tonnage tax early enough in the campaign so that everybody in the state might hear it, and it is now being used against him by the Republican press of other parts of the state in glaring headlines, coupled with the promise that if Johnson is against the tonnage tax, Jacobson is for it and will get it. In the four years of his public career no man ever accused John A. Johnson of falsehood or of deception; his word is as good as his bond, and it is that very thing that has made him great, that has made him beloved and respected, and that has given him the confidence of the people. His integrity is his capital.

As to the tonnage tax, it should not be overlooked that in addition to what he him-

Venezuela Supplies Forts With Shells, Expecitng Dutch Attack.

Caracas, Oct. 26.—President Castro, in his answer to the second Netherlands note, has declined to revoke his decree of May 14, prohibiting the transshipment of goods for Venezuelan ports at Curacao, which has been so obnoxious of that island. The president expresses surprise that the Netherlands government should ask for the revocation of this decree after acknowledging Venezuela's right to issue it.

The central branch of the Venezuelan army has prepared for the defense of La Guira. In anticipation of a naval demonstration by Holland before that port Nov. 1, shells have been distributed to all the modern guns installed in the forts on the mountain side above La Guaira.

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT CALLS HASKELL A LIAR

AND THIS IS OFFICIAL

Muskogee, Okla., Oct. 26.—A statement is received at the office of the commissioner of the five civilized tribes from the interior department at Washington with instructions to publish the same for the information of the Osage nation, directly concerned and five civilized tribes, incidentally interested. The statement is an answer to Governor Haskell's recent charges, for the information of the Indians of the Osage nation, and says:

"Governor Haskell's recent open letter to the president charges that the president acted unfairly to the Osage Indians in the matter of fixing the royalty for the lease of their oil lands to the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company.

"Governor Haskell's statements are deliberate falsehoods; nor does he suggest a possible remedy. As his disregard of truth is wilful, no reply will be made to him personally, but President Roosevelt and Secreary Garfield are not willing that the Osage Indians shall not know the truth about these matters, in order that they may not be deceived by Governor Haskell's false statements.

"For this reason they send to the Indians the truth about each of the charges he makes.

"The statement takes up Haskell's charges in detail and analyzes them to show their deliberate untruth."

The statement concludes:

"Haskell attempts, by deliberate and reiterated falsehood to give the false impression that he is championing the interests of the Indians. The department knows of one matter in which he has shown a practical interest in Indian affairs, and this was when he procured plots of valuable township lands from the Indians, the methods of which procurement are declared to be fraudulent in suits filed against him and now pending in courts to recover for the Indians the land which he has thus procured."

KILLS SELF AND WIFE ON WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 26.—Brooding over the alleged infidelity of his wife, Daniel J. Hennessy, a seaman of the United States navy, yesterday shot her dead, in Portsmouth. He then fired a bullet into his own brain. They had been married a year.

Hennessy's home was in New York. He was a prizefighter of some note before entering the navy, being known as "Kid" Hennessy. Yesterday was the anniversary of their wedding.

RECEIVER IS APPOINTED FOR EGG-O-SEE; CAPITAL, $1,000,000

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 26.—Judge Albert Akers has appointed John E. Linehan, secretary and general manager of the Battle Creek Breakfast Food company, limited, manufacturers of Egg-O-See, with general offices in Chicago, as receiver of the property and business of the company. The action was taken on application of B. S. McCoy of Buffalo, N. Y., manager of the Buffalo plant of the company, representing, as stated in the petition, the interests involved.

Mr. Linehan at once furnished the required bond of $200,000, secured by the Illinois Surety company.

The company is a partnership association, organized under the Michigan law, Feb. 18, 1902, capitalized at $1,000,000, with 5,000 shares of preferred and the same number of common stock at $100 par value. The total outstanding shares are 6,315, being 2,684 preferred and 3,630 common. The remainder is unissued treasury stock.

Without mentioning the firm of Cassidy & Gray, Quincy brokers, who went out of business with heavy obligations in September, and with which J. W. Cassidy, one of the largest stockholders of the Egg-O-See company, disclaimed connection, his brother being senior partner, the petition recites that the creditors of the cereal company became alarmed and its credit impaired. A trust deed was then executed by the company to secure bonds for the company to the amount of $400,000, of which the Stecher Lithographing company of Rochester, N. Y., was given a block of $65,000 to secure a pre-existing indebtedness of about $40,000 and such future indebtedness as might be contracted.

The Buffalo mill closed Sept. 20, and the Quincy mill Oct. 2, and "by reason of the cessation of these mills, the good will of the company may become a total loss, and the value of the great amount of advertising lost;" that the outstanding debt of the company now aggregate $350,000, exclusive of the bond issue.

In order to prevent irreparable loss to the stockholders and creditors of the company, the petition asked the appointment of a receiver "to take charge of all the assets of the company, and that, for the purpose of realizing the largest amount of money possible for the company, he should be empowered to take into his possession all things relating to the business conduct of the company.

On this petition, the court's order of receivership was issued directing the Battle Creek Breakfast Food company to appear here in court on March 4, next. In the meanwhile, Receiver Linehan will take charge of the affairs of the company.

The legal proceedings were very quietly instituted and not a dozen persons in Quincy knew of them. A little party took its way to the little neighboring town of Camp Point and there met Judge Akers. In a room of the Omer hotel the transaction occurred that made Linehan receiver for the breakfast food company's property and business. There were present, besides Judge Akers, S. G. Abbott, attorney of Chicago; Theodore Pape, attorney of Quincy; John E. Linehan, B. S. McCoy of Buffalo, and Henry Bastert, a local insurance man, representing the Illinois Surety company of Chicago. The proceedings were brief, and the entire party left immediately. Taking his train, Mr. Linehan talked in a way that suggested that the interests concerned in the company's recent entanglement will be harmonized as speedily as possible and that there will be no more leakages by which an apparently prosperous business can be jeopardized. He said he believed the step that had been taken would prove for the best of all concerned with the enterprise, and had no doubt of harmonizing matters so that the business, which he says now is profitable, will be placed upon an indisputable solid basis. He intends, he said, to trim down extravagances, run the concern judiciously and economically, and save to the stockholders and creditors every dollar of their belongings.

MAN AND BOY PIRATES WHO DRIFTED OVER PACIFIC, HELD

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 26.—Having for his mission the prosecution of a pair of pirates who sailed the South seas in a stolen vessel until they plied her up on a reef, G. G. Alexander, acting attorney general for the Fiji islands, has arrived here en route to Callao, Peru, to secure evidence necessary to the trial. Mr. Alexander brought the first authentic news of the capture and the names of the prisoners, who are now in jail at Suva.

"J. Mortelmans, a Belgian and T. Skerret, a boy, are the men in custody," he said, "and in addition to being held for the piracy of the schooner Neuvre Tigre they must answer for the murder of their captain and mate whom they are believed to have forced to walk the plank.

"The schooner sailed from Callao last November with a crew of four, the captain and mate being Italians. According to a statement made by Skerret, when the schooner was a day or two out from Callao, Mortelmans attacked the two Italians with a meat chopper. They clambered into the rigging. Mortelmans brought a gun from his cabin and shouted to them that if they did not jump overboard he would shoot them. Both men begged but finally both jumped. The schooner was too far away from shore for them to have a chance of reaching land.

"Mortelmans and Skerret then started for the Western Pacific. The name 'White Rose' was substituted. For two or three months they drifted across the Pacific finally bringing up in the Gilbert Orellis group, where the schooner went ashore on a reef on a pampaima lagoon, where she now lies, high and dry. Traders who talked with Mortelmans and Skerret became suspicious and the police were informed."

DRASTIC STEPS WILL BE TAKEN

Repetition of Forest Fires in Michigan to be Prevented.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 26.—Drastic measures will be taken in Northern Michigan to prevent a recurrence of the forest fires which have been sweeping all before them for the past week. Representatives of the state forestry department are busy securing evidence that will lead to the conviction of persons responsible for the trouble, and prosecutions are promised as soon as sufficient information to convict is secured. It is estimated that the loss to lumbermen and farmers in October will reach a million dollars.

In addition to the loss inflicted by fires to the owners of property destroyed, the state will be called upon to pay the men summoned by officials to combat the flames. Unless greater restrictions are placed around those who use fire to clear land, it is feared greater damage will be done in the future.

Charles H. Chapman, representative of the forestry department, has been one of the leaders of the investigation here. His first work was confined to the district around West Neebisch, which was only saved after forty-eight hours of steady fighting in which an engine and members of the fire departments of the two Soo were pressed into service. Mr. Chapman had many narrow escapes. At one time he was entirely surrounded by fire and had it not been for a favorable shift of the wind, he might not have escaped. He sustained several painful burns.

Suits That Show Value Beyond The Price

$25 A most splendid Suit of fine Cheviot or unfinished Worsted, quite plain but thoroughly stylish. Made in 36-inch coat style with large patch pockets. Satin lined and interlined. Colors, brown, wine, slate, navy, green and black. The rightful value would be $29.50.

$35 Several distinct styles in plain and striped Broadcloths wide-wale Chevrons, Worsteds and Serges. Some with the new 40-inch coats. Silk satin or peau de cygne lined and interlined. One style has large colonial pockets set near the coat hem, and a smart artiste tie at the throat. Others are a little more conventional in cut, but all are extremely stylish and perfect in cut and finish. Such suits would ordinarily bring from ten to twelve dollars more.

$45 Under this price we have grouped a certain number of suits, each of which represent an over-amount of style and quality. Regarding some we would say it is hard to make newspaper type bring out the distinction between them and the styles already described, but the moment you cast your eyes on them, the materials, the durable silk-serge lining and the well moulded forms reveal a worth that far exceeds the price.

Street Coats

It is a real pleasure to write about such coats as these. The hardest part of telling about them is to know when to stop. Chosen at random are the following:

A $15.00 COAT is of diagonal cheviot in blue, green, brown, and handsome Scotch mixtures. It is a long coat, cut on semi-loose lines, with strapped seams and pocket laps that are really big. It has deep gusseted sleeve vents and is double breasted. A sensible utility coat of good appearance, at a moderate price.

AT THE SAME PRICE there is also a very smart Princess Prim in heavy mannish mixture. It is cut with a raised waistline and regular coat sleeve and lined to waist.

A $25.00 COAT—one of this season's newest styles. The Beatrice Prentice coat, with high waistline, big satin revers and high band collar, lined throughout with guaranteed satin. Also loose, semi-fitting and snug-fitting styles of fine broadcloth, satin lined throughout.

Grand Marais, Minn., Oct. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The gasoline boat Thor dragged its anchor Monday and was washed up on the beach on the west side of the bay. The occupants of the boat had a thrilling experience, having to put on the life belts and jump into the water. The darkness made it difficult for them to reach the shore. Samuel Bally heard their cries for help and he and his son, William, got out on the old sunken scow in the bay and piloted them in.

COMMITTEE RETURNS.

Congressmen Complete Pulpwood Investigation in Northern Minnesota.

Congressman James R. Mann, William H. Ryan, J. W. Shedd, J. L. Bennett, and John Norris, a representative of the National Newspaper Publishers' association, spent yesterday in Duluth. The members of the congressional party, who are investigating the condition of the spruce forests in the United States with a view of securing some statistics that may aid congress in disposing of the question of whether it is necessary to remove the duty upon pulpwood and print paper, came from Brimson upon the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, where Dempsey's lumber camp was visited and a trip made through the forests.

Congressman Mann is of the opinion that a law defining the size of spruce trees that may be cut, would assist in conserving the supply of these trees. He is of the opinion that such a law is necessary for this state.

The members of the congressional committee have been at Cloquet, along the Northern Minnesota road, and along the Duluth, Missabe & Northern since leaving this city last Tuesday.

The committee will hold a meeting at St. Paul, will return home to vote, and will then resume the investigations in Maine, Pennsylvania and the Adirondack region.

FIND MURDERED MAN.

Edmore, N. D., Oct. 26.—Section hands found the body of a man whose skull had been crushed by some blunt instrument, partly covered with straw and rock, along the Great Northern tracks about a mile and a quarter from here. The man had been dead about six weeks.

The man had evidently been killed some distance away, with robbery as a probable motive, and dragged by his feet to the place where he was found. He was about 45 years old. Near the body was found an Elk River, Minn., paper and it is thought possible that this may be a clue that will unravel the mystery.

Coroner E. W. Gilbertson and Sheriff Belford decided that it was a case of murder. No one could be found who knew the man.

WAIT IN RAIN TO HEAR BRYAN

New Jerseyites Listen to Address in Pelting Downpour.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 26.—With a steady rain pelting down upon them, a large crowd here stood for an hour today waiting for W. J. Bryan to deliver a political address. Mr. Bryan had expected to reach the city early, but through missing a train he was delayed nearly an hour and it was a damp but intensely enthusiastic crowd that greeted him when he arrived.

Mr. Bryan, wrapped in a rain coat and with his slouch hat pulled down on his brow, urged those present to vote for William Hughes, the Democratic candidate for congress in this district, telling them that "when I take my seat in the White House next March I shall need just such congressmen as Mr. Hughes to uphold my policies."

"There could be little real good accomplished, he said, by electing a Democratic president unless there also should be a Democratic congress behind him. Mr. Bryan attacked the policy of the Republican campaign managers in declining to publish campaign contributions until after election, reiterated that he is in favor of election of United States senators by the people, denounced the Republican platform as "standing for nothing" and spoke of the Democratic platform as a declaration of principles which means something and which will be put into practice when he is elected.

The downpour continued throughout the 20 minutes Mr. Bryan was speaking, and at the conclusion of his address his clothing was saturated and little streams were trickling from his wide brimmed hat. As Mr. Bryan and his party climbed into the automobile which was to take them to the depot to get a train back to New York, he was given a rousing cheer.

CHARGES OF INFIDELITY

Mrs. Bertha Clausen Accuses Husband of Immoral Conduct.

Claims Other Women Accompanied Him on Steamer Moore.

Basing her complaint on sensational charges of infidelity and immoral conduct, Mrs. Bertha Clausen filed papers with the clerk of the district court this morning in an action for divorce from her husband, Thomas Clausen. She charges her husband with having had improper relations with other women at different times for the past five years, naming the steamer C. W. Moore, of which he was the captain, as the place where most of the offenses, of which she complains, were committed.

Mrs. Clausen is 44 years old and her husband is 46 years of age. They were married in Egersund, Norway, Nov. 30, 1887. There are three children, the oldest 19 years of age and the youngest 4 years old.

Mrs. Clausen charges that during the seasons of navigation of 1903, 1904 and 1905, her husband was guilty of improper conduct with other women on his boat. She also makes charges involving a woman, whose name is given, the actions alleged having taken place between Feb. 1, 1907, and May 1 of the same year. She charges that between Aug. 1, 1907, and the time of beginning the action, her husband offended in a similar manner and the woman with whom he is alleged to have maintained the relations, is named.

In addition to the charges of infidelity, Mrs. Clausen charges that her husband was guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment of her during two years. On Dec. 1, 1907, she charges that he struck her on the shoulder with his fist.

She also charges that on June 23 of this year, at the instigation of her husband and through false charges made by him, she was examined in probate court and was committed to the insane asylum at Fergus Falls, being released after two days there and subsequently being discharged.

She says her husband has personal property worth about $500 and earns $800 a season as master of the steamboat. She asks for an absolute divorce, the custody of the three children and alimony in an amount such as the court may determine.

SUES VILLAGE OF CHISHOLM

Mrs. Koski Doesn't Want Official Supervisor of Building Plans.

Mrs. Lizzie Koski has filed an action in district court to enjoin the officials of the village of Chisholm from repairing a building as she wishes to and to prevent them from entering on her premises and tearing down the building. She also wants $1,000 damages, claimed to have been sustained by the stopping of the work, on orders from the village attorney.

The building in question was damaged by fire July 13, 1908, and when Mrs. Koski started to repair it, she charges that she was prevented from doing so. The village officials claim that the building was virtually destroyed and its repairing would conform to the erection of a new building. They say that Mrs. Koski's plans did not comply with the provisions of the fire ordinance.

The case was argued before Judge Dibell Saturday and he has it under advisement.

RIVAL BOUGHT FOR MERE SONG

Witness Tells How Powder Trust Swallowed a Competitor.

New York, Oct. 26.—Hearings in the government's suit against the powder trust will be transferred to Wilmington, Del.

The case was resumed today, where it was interrupted by adjournment last week, and Robert S. Waddell, general sales agent for the Associated Powder companies, was recalled to the stand.

Mr. Waddell said that he had a part in awarding contracts and fixing special prices to certain of their companies. He told of once having talked with E. I. Dupont of the Laflin & Rand Co., one of the big competitors, and of Mr. Dupont saying that he would take up the subject of the purchase of the Laflin & Rand Co. Ten days later he said, he received a telegram from Mr. Dupont announcing that the Laflin & Rand Co. had been purchased.

When he next met Dupont he asked him what the purchase price had been, and Dupont replied: "Oh, nothing much; a few bonds, that's all."

Cold Water Sobered Him.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unknown man jumped from the county bridge into Portage lake Friday, his act being witnessed by a number of people. It is said he was under the influence of liquor, but the water sobered him and being able to swim he struck out for shore, which he reached safely. Apparently he was none the worse for his experience.

BREAD LINE PREDICTED

Rev. J. T. Moody Says It Will Probably be Re-Established.

Thinks Labor Conditions Will Not be Any Too Favorable.

"Duluth will have another bread line next winter, according to Rev. J. T. Moody of the Bethel. Rev. Moody thinks labor conditions will be such that many men will be out of work this season, as they were last, and that some step will have to be taken to care for them.

"No matter who is elected, I very much fear the supply of labor will exceed the demand this winter," he said this morning. "There was a good deal of criticism last winter on account of the bread line, but with all that was said against it, it accomplished a vast amount of good, and doubtless saved some men from actual starvation.

"Just as soon as we see the need, the line will be started again the coming winter. Of course, no such step will be taken unless it is considered actually necessary, but I am sure, the way things look now, that it will be necessary. Of course, in any case where the destitute are fed in this manner, there are bound to be a few undeserving cases, but this is no reason why the deserving ones should be allowed to go hungry. Just because two or three men are dishonest, and get free food when they could buy it for themselves, is no reason why 100 men should be starved almost to death. It would be a blot on Duluth's fair name if we refused to feed the hungry."

OVATION IS GIVEN TO KERN

Democratic Nominee Asks Why Republicans Don't Stop Panic.

Franklin, Ind., Oct. 26.—A good-sized crowd greeted Democratic Vice Presidential Nominee Kern and his party Friday. The nominee said he had travelled the country over and had looked into the faces of thousands of people, and they all seemed to him to be anxious for a change in administration.

Mr. Kern spoke of the panic and said the Republicans say they will follow the election of Mr. Bryan and declared that conditions could be no worse than they are now.

"If these Republicans can prevent a panic," exclaimed Mr. Kern, "why in the name of God do they not stop the one that is now on? I saw in New York a few days ago a solid square of men lined up waiting for bread. There are hundreds of thousands of men out of work all over the country. They cannot tell these men that there is no panic in this country now."

When he concluded his speech the crowd surged forward to shake hands with Mr. Kern, and many inquiries were made about the health of his son.

INSANITY TO BE HAIN'S DEFENSE

Case of Slayer of Annis Outlined in the Court.

New York, Oct. 26.—Temporary insanity will be the defense of Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., U. S. A., who killed William F. Annis at the Bayside Yacht club landing last August.

In the supreme court at Flushing, L. I., today Judge Garretson overruled the demurrer entered by counsel for the defense of the case of T. Jenkins Hains, brother of the captain, which set up the claim that indictment was defective in that it charged Jenkins Hains both as principal and accessory before the fact.

Jenkins Hains was then called to the bar and pleaded not guilty. John F. McIntyre, of counsel for the defense, entered a plea of not guilty for Capt. Hains on the ground that at the time of the killing of Annis, Capt. Hains was insane.

District Attorney Darrin offered no objection to the plea and asked that the court fix a date for the beginning of the trial. This Judge Garretson said he preferred to leave that to the judge, who will preside at the November term.

New York, Oct. 26.—Norman E. Mack, chairman of the national Democratic committee, received a telegram from the headquarters of that committee in Chicago today declaring that in addition to his forecast of the Bryan vote the following states are reasonably cerain to cast their electoral vote for Bryan: Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Utah, Oregon and Washington. This telegram is signed by P. A. Hall, vice chairman, John W. Tomlinson, Urey Woodson and Roger C. Sullivan.

Commenting on the president's letter to P. H. Grace of Binghamton, N. Y., Mr. Mack said he guessed the president was trying to keep the minds of the people off their demand to open the books of the administration, especially the Panama books.

"They (the Republicans) do not want a change of administration because if there comes a change the books will be opened and the whole work of the Republican administration of the past twelve years will be shown up," said Mr. Mack.

MORSE'S BIG OVERDRAFT

Wrote Check for $126,000, Had $4,000 in Bank.

Woman Witness Draws Big Crowd to Banker's Trial.

New York, Oct. 26.—A report that Mrs. Katherine Glesbenen-Braker was to be called as a witness in the trial of Charles W. Morse and Alfred H. Curtis, attracted an unusually large attendance at that tiral today.

The first matter taken up was a check for $126,000, drawn by Mr. Morse on Oct. 16. It was testified to by E. B. Wire, ex-cashier of the National Bank of North America, that Mr. Curtis told him on Oct. 13 last, just before the panic, that the bank was all loaned up with little call money outstanding.

On Oct. 5, he said, Otto Heinze & Co. tried to borrow $126,000 from the bank and failed to get it. On Oct. 16, F. Augustus Heinze called to see Mr. Morse, and later a check for $126,000 drawn by Mr. Morse and cashed at the Mercantile National bank, came back to the National Bank of North America. Morse then had a balance of between $3,000 and $4,000 in the bank. Mr. Wire said he reported the overdraft to Mr. Morse's secretary.

It came out on cross-examination that Mr. Morse kept a large amount of collateral in the loan department of the National Bank of North America to protect any checks that unexpectedly came in.

At about that time, the witness said, he had prepared a list of the Morse collateral held by the bank, for the information of Mr. Flagler and other directors.

The value on Oct. 20 of this collateral, the list of which was read to the jury by Mr. Olcott, was $701,140. On the same day Mr. Morse owed the bank $550,000.

The collateral named consisted principally of United Copper stock, American Ice Collateral 4 per cents, trust bonds of the Consolidated Steamship company and also some Mexican coal stock and shares in New York and Maine banks.

Mr. Wire said he signed the reports of the bank to the comptroller of the currency believing they were correct and true, and that he did not know that Mr. Curtis knew any more about them than he did.

Counsel for Mr. Curtis asked if W. F. Havemeyer, ex-president of the bank, did not have loans in the bank in the name of J. A. Smith, his stenographer. The question was ruled out.

FRENCH MARRIAGE LAWS.

Every one who writes on France shows deep concern at the falling birth rate and at the fact that the population is actually decreasing. In twenty-five years, we are told, Germany will have double the population of France, and in fifty years the nation will have disappeared—unless in the meantime it is gobbled up by the powerful and rapidly increasing neighbor. France grows richer every year since there is less and less to divide, while Germany must grow relatively poorer, as natural expansion is checked by her geographical boundaries and Europe's firm adherence to the balance of power.

Above all things, this people is logical. Having become aware of the danger, it has set to work to find the cause. One of these causes is the complexity of marriage in France, writes the Paris correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette. Persons are debarred from entering wedlock, especially persons of the poorer sort, because of its difficulty. Until a year ago the law demanded a formidable array of papers before the young man and woman could be joined together in matrimony. The consent of the parents had to be obtained in writing; there were birth certificates and certificates of residence, and in the case of the man, evidence that he had completed his military service.

If the parents were dead, the affair was even more complicated. Papers had to prove their death and the death of the grandparents. The total documents required were nineteen. In country parishes such documents are fairly easy to procure, as the French peasantry has a way of remaining rooted to the soil from generation to generation, but in the towns it is much more difficult.

Papers had to be sent for from distant parts; there was delay and there was expense. In the case of foreigners there was the added formality of translation, sometimes representing an expenditure of 100 or more francs. This was a grave impediment in the way of very poor persons, an almost impossible obstacle. Some mayors of communes recognized how impossible it was to comply with all the requirements of the law, and connived at irregular attestations.

Moved by this state of things, by the impediment that the law offered to marriage, Abbe Lemire, one of the few priest deputies in the chamber and a man of admirable enthusiasms, brought in a bill a year ago to simplify the formalities. After the age of 30 the consent of the parents is no longer required. This seems a very meager concession to the modern spirit, but it has already worked marvels. The marriage rate is on the upturn, to the tune of 8,000 more marriages in the latter half of 1907, the law being passed in June. The good abbe attempted a still larger reform, but was not successful.

He wished, in imitation of the reform in Belgium, to place marriage within the limits of the common law—that is to say, to enable the person who had attained his majority to contract it without the intervention of his parents. This, however, was too daring a proposition for the chamber, and it stayed short at modifying the formalities for all marriages and absolving the fiances from their parents' consent after the age of 30.

The upward movement in marriage is to be directly traceable to the new legislation, as Dr. Jacques Bertillon, the municipal statistician, points out; it is proved by the immediate advance in the figures after it was promulgated.

Dr. Bertillon pleads for the Belgian method on the ground that it encourages early marriages, reduces the number of illegitimates and aids in the natality returns. Here is an instance, despite the old Latin tag to the contrary, that morals are really affected by laws. As a consequence of the concession here noted, the marriages for 1907 are more numerous than since the two years following the war (a case of retarded marriages), which have hitherto constituted the record, and more numerous proportionate to population than in 1813, when the young man rushed to matrimony to escape conscription. The marriage figures for the second half of 1907 stand at 160,680.

DUAL PERSONALITY.

An interesting case of alternating personality is described in a recent number of the Journal of the American Medical Association. The patient was subject to spells of wandering of which he had no recollection in his normal state.

After one of these he found himself in London, without having any idea how he got there, and passing into another he found himself in a similar plight at the Cape of Good Hope. After that he was free from these attacks for three years, when they again returned, though not of such long duration.

In the intervals he complained of more or less headache, which seemed to be aggravated when his attacks came on. The patient was easily hypnotized and then was able to give an account of his doings while in his secondary condition, of which he normally had no recollection, and after coming out of the hypnotic state he had the same tire and exhaustion as he felt after one of his periods of secondary consciousness.

While hypnotized, however, he was amenable to suggestion, which was not the case in his secondary consciousness. The marked resemblance, however, of his expression, demeanor, etc., in the two conditions was noticeable, and Gayer is inclined to suspect that the hypnotic state is closely analogous to the conditions of the dissociation of the personality in this patient.

The patient attributes the attack to a sandbagging received in 1902, but is of a neuropathic predisposition and had previously suffered from nervous symptoms ("tender spine," left sided hyperesthesia) following an attack of typhoid fever in 1898. He is still under observation and has had no disturbances of consciousness since November, 1907, but is regarded as only improved, the abulia and suggestibility remain, and a return of the dissociation of personality is considered possible.

BRILLIANT MR. WU.

Of the famous Wu Ting Fang, who is said to have become a recent convert to vegetarianism, a Washington correspondent said the other day:

"Vegetarianism may strengthen Mr. Wu's body; his brain requires no tonic. A more brilliant mind doesn't exist. In my last interview with him he rattled off, as you or I would rattle off weather talk, these epigrams:

"'He who expects to find pleasure in vice and boredom in virtue is still a novice in both.'

"'The most timid woman has courage enough to talk scandal.'

"'The rich meet relations in the most distant foreign lands, but the poor man can hardly find them in his own family.'

"'The prison, though locked day and night, is always full.'"

THE TRICK IN IT.

Aurel Batonyi, the noted whip, is writing a book that is, he says, to be in part autobiographical.

"To write a book—at least to write a good book—is no easy matter," Mr. Batonyi informed an interviewer recently. "My work will not be ready for the press anything like as soon as I had expected.

"In all things, in even the simplest things," said Mr. Batonyi, "there's a trick that one must learn. It is so with book writing.

"It is so with horsemanship of all kinds. I remember once in a Hungarian village, seeing two aged farmers dickering over the sale of a horse. Such honest old chaps they looked. Who would have imagined there was any trickiness in either?

"But when one of the farmers called his son out of the inn and said: 'Get on this horse and ride it about,' I heard the youth whisper in the old man's ear:

"'Am I to ride for buying or selling?'"

margin of a few seconds Mr. Bryan today was compelled to make a wild dash in an automobile through mud-covered roads to Paterson, N. J., in order to keep his word with the people of that city given last Saturday morning that he would return and make them a political speech.

The Democratic candidate arose at 6 and thought he could have ample time to get to Jersey City and board the Erie train leaving there at 7:10 o'clock, but in that he was mistaken.

The day was a busy one for Mr. Bryan. His program provided for an address at Yonkers, White Plains, Fort Chester, New Rochelle and Mount Vernon, a reception and dinner at the National Democratic club in this city, and speeches at Cooper union, the palm garden and Madison Square garden.

Mr. Taft had a mid-day engagement in New Haven, but returned to New York this afternoon and delivered several addresses. He will devote the entire week to New York state. In addition to Taft and Bryan hundreds of speakers appealed to the voters throughout the state today. They include candidates for governor, members of Roosevelt's cabinet, United States senators, and plain political spellbinders.

Vice Presidential Candidate Sherman is scheduled for a number of speeches in New York state during the week.

In other states, the greatest activity will be shown in Ohio and Indiana. Vice President Fairbanks and John W. Kern, the Democratic candidate for the vice presidency, will be the leading speakers for the Republican and Democratic parties in Indiana. Both will have the support of widely known campaigners.

In Ohio several members of President Roosevelt's cabinet will speak for Taft and the strong Democratic campaign which has been in progress there for weeks will be continued.

His Eveleth Boadsmen Stood to Lose Considerable.

Goldstein, who appealed his case from the local municipal court, was dismissed. Since the time that the trial was over here Mr. Goldstein has departed for parts unknown, and his two bondsmen, C. J. Erickson and James Phillips, almost strangers to him, were in a position to lose $200 bond money that was put up for Goldstein. W. C. McGillvery had charge of the case in the district court and, as it was dismissed, the bondsmen are no more liable.

VIRGINIA TEAM WORK WAS FINE

Sensational Plays Marked Decisive Victory Over Ely Saturday.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia high school football team scored another decisive victory at the Roosevelt park in this city Saturday when they defeated the Ely high school team 41 to 0. The game was marked by sensational plays in which Melham, Bonner, Eaton and Lindsay starred for Virginia. The team work of Virginia was wonderful and they swept Ely off their feet by their fast work and line plunges. At no time was Virginia's goal in danger and only twice during the game did Ely make their distance. Virginia's forward passing was almost perfect and time after time they worked this play for twenty-five and thirty yard gains. Williams and Roberts put up a strong game for Ely. The line-up was as follows:

Virginia		Ely
Gill	c.	Shaefer
Morrell	g.	Sojborg
Hawkinson	lg.	Johnson
Bonner	rt.	Harris
Lindsay	rt.	Frezona
Butter	re.	Coffey
Hooper	le.	Gonitte-Prisk
Howland	rh.	Capt. Williams
McMeham	lh.	Carlson
Eaton, captain	q.	Hodge
Gronberg	f.	Roberts

Touchdowns were made by Meehan, 1; Bonner, 1; Hovland, 1; Gronberg, 1; goals from touchdowns, Meehan, 4; safety, Williams; time of halves, twenty-five and twenty minutes Referee, Gletvalt, umpire, Dufield; Lineman, Virginia; E. J. Lindsay; Ely, Harris.

In the evening a reception was held in the Roosevelt auditorium for the Ely contingent. A splendid good time was had in dancing and other amusements and lunch was also served to the guests present.

INDEPENDENT TO STAY ON TICKET

Colin McLennan Can Run for Judge of Probate in Itasca.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the matter of the action commenced by H. S. Huson against M. A. Spang, as county auditor, and Colin McLennan to compel the removal of the name of the latter from the ballots, both being candidates for the office of judge of probate, Judge McClenahan has filed his order dismissing the petition.

The question as to whether the word "Independent" represented political principle was not determined as the court held that there was no showing made as to service required to be made on McLennan. It was attempted to be shown by affidavits that McLennan was in hiding so as not to be served, but the court held, in effect, that the affidavits did not show that McLennan was endeavoring to escape, and that the mere insinuation made by the petitioner was not sufficient where positive proof was required of the fact. The county auditor has now sent out almost all the ballots, and it is improbable that further action will be taken.

RAIN STOPS SEWER WORK.

Two Harbors Improvements Temporarily Interfered With.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rainy weather has caused a suspension of work on the Cedar street storm sewer, and other contracts, and badly delayed work at the ore docks. It is reported that efforts are being made to secure a free post office delivery for this city.

The People's Co-operative company contemplate purchasing the H. B. Puent meat market on Poplar street.

Chief Dispatcher G. M. Roberts of the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railway at Knife River, was in town Friday on business.

INCORPORATION DENIED.

Itasca Board Votes Against Calumet Petition.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the board of county commissioners Saturday, the board refused to allow the incorporation of the proposed village of Calumet.

This town was recently started near Marble and the Hill mine and expectations for its future development were held by the promoters of the townsite as most promising. The ground of objection raised was that by the inclusion of the territory surrounding the platted portion, as asked in the petition, much land in the nature of mines in operation, would be improperly made subject to municipal control by the village. It was also urged that it was the purpose, or one of the purposes of the organization of the village to include one or more mines within its limits for obtaining revenue only, without corresponding the benefit to the operators of the mines.

It has not yet been decided by the promoters of the incorporation as to the future course to be pursued. It is likely that mandamus proceedings will be commenced against the board to compel it to incorporate the village, their contention being that when a proper petition in form is presented, the board has no discretion and must grant the petition.

SPARTANS HAVE PROBLEM.

Don't Know What to Do With Their Old Houses.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of Sparta are figuring on which is the best way to dispose of their houses. Some have bought them back from the Steel corporation, to whom they were first sold, and they intend to tear them down and use the lumber in the new Sparta addition to the Gilbert.

A sawmill is to be erected at Sparta, which will be finished in about thirty days. Logs will be hauled to the mill from points around the lake on the ice, and already a contract has been made to saw from 500,000 to 1,000,000 feet of pine for E. Trenholm, one of the settlers on the now famous Cedar Island lake lands. Other lumber is in sight so that the mill will have enough to do. The capacity will be 45,000 feet daily. Twelve men will be needed to operate the mill.

There has been many different prices reported paid on the properties that the Steel corporation bought from the Spartans, but no prices will be given out until the deeds are recorded, and so far no deeds have been recorded.

LOSES CASH AND NOTES

Isador Polaski is Robbed While in Y. M. C. A. Swimming Pool.

Doors Are Locked and Inmates of Building Searched.

Seven dollars cash and two notes, one for $75 and the other for $35, were stolen from the pocket of Isadore Polaski while he was bathing in the swimming tank at the Y. M. C. A. building Saturday evening. The pocketbook containing the money and paper was taken from his clothes, while they were hanging in the room provided for bathers, between the hours of 6:30 and 7 o'clock.

The police and Y. M. C. A. are making every possible effort to locate the thief, but up to the present time all efforts in this direction have failed to bear fruit. A rigid investigation will be continued, however, and it is hoped the thief will be discovered. The investigators are working under a handicap, for so many men were in and out of the room during the hour in question that it is no easy matter to fix the blame on an individual.

Mr. Polaski entered the building shortly after 6 o'clock, and a few minutes later repaired to the dressing room. He took off his clothes, hung them on hooks provided for the purpose, and then stepped out among the bathers at the swimming tank. This was at 6:30 o'clock. He remained in and about the tank for an hour, and then donned his clothes. He missed his pocketbook immediately, and reported the matter to the office force, after convincing himself that the pocketbook had not fallen out on the floor.

The police were immediately notified, and the doors leading into the street closed, orders being issued that no one should be allowed to leave the building until the police had had an opportunity to look into the affair. Detectives Irvine and Schulte were detailed on the case. They were at the Y. M. C. A. in a few minutes after the report was turned in, and conducted a diligent search, going through the clothes of practically everybody in the building at the time, but the missing notes and cash were not found, and there was nothing discovered which seemed to point the finger of suspicion at any individual.

The search was conducted with all possible dispatch, and it was not long before the doors leading to the outer air were again thrown open. The Y. M. C. A. officials naturally keenly regret the incident, and are doing everything they can to find out who was responsible for the theft.

BENA POSTOFFICE LOSES BIG SUM

Yeggmen Make Large Haul in Store in Cass County Town.

Bena, Minn., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yeggmen made a sensational and profitable haul here in the general store of Ernest Fleming Saturday night when they blew the safe getting about $1,000. Of this amount there was $500 in currency, $250 in stamps, the postoffice being located in the store and three $100 checks. There appears to be no clue, the work being that of professionals.

The burglars after robbing the place stole a Great Northern hand car and made off either east or west. One suspect was arrested at Cass Lake yesterday, but there is no evidence against him.

The peculiar part of the deal is that the burglars made a big mistake that that did not wait till Tuesday, when the Indians are to get a payment and Mr. Fleming would have had at least $15,000 in cash in his safe which they could have secured.

The store was entered through a rear window and the safe dynamited. It is believed that there were several in the gang, otherwise a hand car could not have been used.

FIRST JEW IN DULUTH

Moses Polinsky, Resident of City Fifty-Eight Years, Dies.

Had Given Helping Hand to Many of His Race.

Moses Polinsky, the first Jewish resident of Duluth, died last night at his home, 323½ East Fifth street. He was 83 years old, and had lived in the city for fifty-eight years. Old age is said to have been the cause of his death. The old man is survived by two sons and three daughters, all of whom are married. All except one son reside in Duluth.

Mr. Polinsky was probably the best known Jew in Duluth and a had host of genuine friends among his own nationality here, and also among the citizens of Duluth in general, because of the friendliness and good-heartedness he always displayed to the newcomer in the Zenith City. It is said of the old man that never, since his residence here, has he refused to extend a helping hand to a Jew in distress and his charities, while never boasted of, are numerous.

It was characteristic of the deceased that he did not wait to be asked for assistance if he thought it were needed. It was volunteered always when occasion seemed to demand. As he was the first Jew to take up his residence here, Mr. Polinsky naturally had a soft spot in his heart for others of his nationality when they began to turn eyes Duluthward, and he made it a habit to become acquainted with newly-arrived Jews and to lend them every possible assistance. Many a home has been made happy and many business been made a success, through his cheerful efforts.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, 323½ East Fifth street.

CENTENARIAN PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Margaret Walkowiak Was Oldest Resident of Duluth.

Mrs. Margaret Walkowiak, 101 years of age, said to have been the oldest resident in the city, died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Bronikowski, 428 East Ninth street. The deceased was well known among the Polish people of the city, and practically all of them were her friends. She was in good health until a few months ago, when old age resulted in a disease which brought about her death. She retained all her faculties until the last. Her memory was very good.

Mrs. Walkowiak complained early Friday evening of feeling ill and retired. She was found sleeping peacefully later in the night, but in the morning she was dead. Besides her daughter, the deceased is survived by two sons. She had been a resident of Duluth for nearly forty years. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from St. Mary's Polish Catholic church, Third street and Fourth avenue east. Rev. S. A. Iciek will conduct the services. Interment will be in the Polish cemetery.

EX-GOVERNOR JOHN MILLER DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Prominent Duluth Citizen Passes Away After Short Illness.

Was First Executive of State of North Dakota.

JOHN MILLER.

Ex-Governor John Miller died shortly after 8 o'clock this morning at his home, 429 East Second street, of heart failure.

Mr. Miller had been confined to his home for about three weeks, and his death was not unexpected, although it came quite suddenly.

Mr. Miller was one of Duluth's foremost citizens. He was a member of the board of trade, and always took a prominent part in any question of public interest, and was active in many charitable and philanthropic societies.

Mr. Miller was born at Dryden, N. Y., on Oct. 29, 1843, and was educated in the country schools and at the Dryden academy. He spent his boyhood on the farm of his parents near Dryden, and then entered the merchandise business at Dryden, remaining there until 1880. He then moved to Dakota, which was a territory at that time, and became interested in wheat growing on a large scale. He was also engaged in quite an extensive real estate business. He was elected to the Dakota territorial council in 1888, and in 1889 was elected the first governor of the new state of North Dakota. He refused a re-olection.

While Mr. Miller was governor the Louisiana lottery tried to gain a foothold in Dakota, but he opposed it successfully. In 1896 Mr. Miller moved to Duluth and has lived here since that time, being engaged in the grain commission business. He was president of the John Miller Grain company at the time of his death.

Mr. Miller leaves a wife and one daughter, 16 years of age. His niece, Mrs. R. N. Chaffee, also lives in this city.

During the time he has lived in Duluth, Mr. Miller has earned the admiration and respect of all with whom he came in contact. He was looked upon, both by his business associates and Duluth citizens in general, as one of the city's most public-spirited, philanthropic men. He was chairman of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association, and was largely responsible for the movement to erect the magnificent new building in Duluth.

He was a constant member of the Presbyterian church throughout his life, and was a member of the board of trustees of the First Presbyterian church of Duluth at the time of his death. His interest in public matters led him to accept the chairmanship of the courthouse commission, when this commission was formed two years ago, and his faithful services rendered in this capacity have been of great value to St. Louis county. In losing Mr. Miller, Duluth has lost one of her most prominent citizens, and one who spent his life in service gladly and freely to others.

The death of Mr. Miller recalls the famous fight against the Louisiana lottery in North Dakota.

Mr. Miller led the fight against the lottery, and the story is told that a representative of the lottery came into Mr. Miller's office and laid down a suitcase containing $200,000.

"That's yours if you will permit the lottery to enter North Dakota," he said.

"My price is higher than that," said Mr. Miller, and threw him out of the office.

They called him "Honest John" Miller in North Dakota. His fight against the lottery was redoubled after that, and he was the man who was chiefly instrumental in keeping it from gaining a foothold in North Dakota and in the United States.

DEATH COMES TO THOMAS L. HANKS

Popular Duluth Youth Dies at St. Mary's Hospital.

Thomas L. Hanks, 16-year-old son of Judge James A. Hanks, 808 East Third street, died at 7:30 o'clock last night at St. Luke's hospital. The youth had been ill with appendicitis for a week, and his condition had been so critical since last Thursday that death was momentarily expected.

The deceased was well known among the young people of the city and was exceedingly popular. Recently he has been studying law in his father's office.

THOMAS L. HANKS.

A week ago last Saturday he complained of feeling ill. Dr. C. A. Stewart was called and diagnosed the case as appendicitis. The lad was removed to St. Luke's hospital, and was operated on the next day. It seemed that he would recover until Thursday, when there was a turn for the worse.

It is said death would not necessarily have followed had not peritonitis developed before the operation was performed. His father and mother and other members of the family were at the boy's bedside when he died.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon, with services at the First Presbyterian church at 2:30 o'clock.

CHARITIES AND CORRECTION

Seventeenth Annual Meeting Will be Held Soon in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The seventeenth Minnesota state conference of charities and correction will be held here Nov. 14, 15, 16 and 17. The object of the conference is "to discuss the problems of charities and correction, to improve the methods of dealing with dependents and delinquents and to disseminate information relating to these subjects." It is a practical school in these lines of work. It promotes economy in the expenditure of public money while increasing efficiency in the administration of jails, almshouses, lockups, hospitals, asylums, etc., and at the same time undertakes to lessen the need for such institutions by influencing home conditions and broadening the common school course. The conference is of special interest to county commissioners, relief agents, manager of benevolent societies, county and city superintendents of schools, sheriffs, judges of probate, county physicians, and all engaged or interested in charitable or correctional work.

There will be discussions upon how to prevent feeble mindedness, how to prevent insanity, how, through the extension of the juvenile court and otherwise, to prevent crime, how to prevent and cure consumption, the value of social settlements in preventive and constructive work, the economic and social value of health regulations and health officers, and the moral and social strength imparted through right neighborliness. In the county commissioner's section the relation of the new state tax commission to the county board will be brought out.

THE FIRST FREE ORGAN RECITAL

About 300 People Hear Concert at Masonic Temple.

About 300 music lovers listened with great interest to the initial program of the series of informal recitals inaugurated by the Scottish Rite Masons, Sunday.

With the exception of the two numbers by Miss Alice Sjocellius, it was an organ program. Miss Sjocellius chose as her first solo Bach's "My Heart Ever Faithful." The pure, sweet tones of her voice, good stage presence, absence of affectation and charm of manner earned for her a recall and she gave with fine effect the Scotch song "Loch Lomond." For her second number she gave Gounod's "There's a Green Hill Far Away," which was received with such favor that she was obliged to respond to an encore, and gave a "Hymn of Peace," arranged from Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, a delightful selection. A. F. M. Custance played the accompaniments with his usual artistic taste and feeling.

The first organ number was the "Grand Offertoire de St. Cecile," in F minor, a typical organ concert piece in which the several solos were brought out most effectively; the second was operatic, from "Il Trovatore," "The Gipsies' Chorus and Anvil Chorus" forming a pleasing contrast. The selection of old songs, on the organ, brought out "Annie Laurie," "Old Folks at Home" and other tunes which are always favorites. The next number, from Massenet's "Le Cid," "Moorish Rhapsody and Grand March," was perhaps, the most effective number on the organ, the peculiar Oriental effects being well reproduced, and a fine climax being reached in the Grand March.

After the second number, by Miss Sjocelius, Schubert's celebrated "Serenade" was rendered on the organ. This piece would have been more effective had it been treated as a solo instead of varying the stops to represent various voices and echoes. As rendered, however, it showed the range of the organ very plainly. The program closed by the ever popular overture to the opera of "William Tell," the organ lending itself wonderfully to the reproduction of the storm and the other descriptive features of the piece. Those informal recitals, open freely to the public, will be continued each Sunday at 3:30 p. m.

FARGO SENSATION RESUMED.

Hearing of Wealthy Man Accused of Shooting Another.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The adjourned preliminary hearing against John Wyman of this city on the charge of shooting William Dinehart was resumed today. The delay has been caused by the adjournment to make an X-ray examination of Dinehart's head, to locate the bullet. Dinehart accompanied the domestic of John Wyman, a wealthy realty man, home from a show. Wyman asserts he heard a noise in the rear of the residence and thinking it was a burglar he fired a shot. The injured man claims that Wyman came out, started a quarrel, assaulted him and later fired the shot, when Dinehart started to run away. Wyman's attorneys demanded the X-ray examination on the ground that Dinehart's injuries were received in a fall.

NORTH DAKOTA SOAKED.

In the extreme northern part of the state it was in the form of snow, but in the south half I was rain, which is regarder by he farmers as especially beneficial after the long drough. The soil is practically all plowed and in fine condition to receive and store away the falling moisture for another year's crop.

THE TONNAGE TAX ISSUE.

Governor Johnson in his message to the legislature, January, 1907:—"The proposition which some have suggested, that the direct tax should be abolished and a tonnage tax substituted to provide for all revenue, both state and local, is objectionable because of the jeopardy of revenue for local governments during a period of industrial depression or in a year of possible lockouts or strikes. I wish it to be understood that I clearly oppose any system of taxation which will deprive local townships, village, school district or county governments of a liberal, reliable and continuous source of revenue."

Governor Johnson in his Duluth speech, Oct. 14, 1908:—"I wish to add this statement, which I make now and which I am willing to repeat in any town in the state: If I am elected governor and if the legislature should pass a law depriving this or any other section of the state of its full share of taxes for local improvements, I SHALL VETO IT. That is my stand on the tonnage tax."

TOO LATE, MR. JACOBSON!

The News Tribune sprung its Jacobson "bomb" yesterday morning. It was a nice, fat, squshy bomb, made mostly of paste and flour, and it exploded with a subdued, amiable and melancholy report audible fully thirty feet away. It took the form of a diatribe, which is analyzed more fully elsewhere in this paper, signed by fifty-three Republican business and professional men whom we cannot believe understood that they were to be misrepresented as parading Jacobson as a friend of St. Louis county.

Then this morning the News Tribune sprung another bomb. It reported that the Jacobson tour of St. Louis county is to be greatly modified and postponed until Saturday. There is to be no range tour at all. The father of the tonnage tax is not going to visit the communities whose very life he has repeatedly threatened with his vicious tonnage tax schemes, and he is not going to come to Duluth until Saturday. First he was coming Oct. 22. Then he was coming Oct. 28 and 29. Now he is coming, to Duluth only, Oct. 31.

The Herald submits that as to the tonnage tax it makes no difference to the voters of the iron counties what the News Tribune may say about it, what The Herald may say about it, what the estimable gentlemen who signed yesterday's deceptive screed say about it, or what Jacobson may whisper to the people of Duluth about it Saturday night, when it is too late for the rest of the state to hear it. What counts is what Governor Johnson has said about it openly, in the hearing of the entire state, and what Mr. Jacobson's eloquent silence upon it means while he is running upon his tonnage tax record. Jacobson, running upon that record, is a friend of the tonnage tax and an enemy of the iron country; Johnson, standing upon what he has emphatically said, is an enemy of the tonnage tax and a friend of the iron country. A vote for Jacobson is a vote for the tonnage tax; a vote for Johnson is a vote against the tonnage tax.

By the way—the News Tribune still refuses to give a single reason why Jacobson should get a single vote in Northern Minnesota.

GUARANTEEING BANK DEPOSITS.

Never has Mr. Bryan more clearly shown his anxiety to advocate measures that will improve the condition of the average man than in his quick perception of the advantages of the deposit guaranty scheme, and his ready advocacy of that plan.

Ever since he did take up this measure, however, it has been the policy of those opposing him to belittle the plan and to undermine public confidence in it. The fact that many of these opponents, even a majority of them, had gone on record in favor of the plan before it became Democratic doctrine, does not seem to have disturbed them. When their attention is called to the fact that they were advocating the plan very recently, and that now they are opposing it, they either evade the inquiry or say that their "opinions are now matured."

For instance, take the Fowler currency bill. More people advocated the Fowler bill than advocated the Aldrich bill, and this includes bankers and business men, Republicans most of them. Yet the Fowler bill contained a plan for guaranteeing bank deposits, and in advocating his measure Mr. Fowler gave some irreproachable and unanswerable arguments in favor of it. Now, however, he is out on the stump supporting Mr. Taft, and while he makes no attempt to answer his own arguments for the guaranty plan, he is talking against it merely because Mr. Taft is talking against it. He does not make an argument against the plan, however, that he did not answer conclusively in his own speeches in congress last winter.

Mr. Fowler is only one example, and there are many. We believe already quoted the excellent arguments of Senator Nelson of Minnesota, who also had a deposit guaranty plan, and we shall quote him again. So far as he is concerned it is but just to say that he has not stultified himself by repudiating the arguments he made last winter. Most of the bankers of the country declared for the Fowler bill—in fact, the measure, including its provision for a deposit guaranty plan, was originated by the bankers themselves.

When the measure was before the house committee of which Mr. Fowler is chairman, Lyman J. Gage, a financier who is orthodox enough and conservative enough to have been President McKinley's secretary of the treasury, said: "The stumbling block in the bill to almost everybody, at first blush, is the guaranty of deposits. It stumbled me. I fell right down over that. I said never, never; no, that won't do. But I reflected on this. I studied this bill, and I am persuaded that it is just, equitable, wise and right that the creditors of the banks which come under the provisions of this bill should have their deposits guaranteed to them as well as the banks' circulating notes held by the general public."

Mr. Gage, opposed at first blush to the guaranty plan, was enthusiastically for it when his "opinion was matured." How different from those whose opinions were "matured" only when the deposit guaranty plan became Bryan's doctrine!

JACOBSON AND DRAINAGE.

We fear that in explaining his opposition to drainage during his legislative service Mr. Jacobson is not quite so frank as a candidate for governor ought to be.

Charged with having opposed drainage, he says he is for it now—that is he says that in Northern Minnesota, whatever he may say in Southern Minnesota—and that, to quote the Albert Lea Times-Enterprise, one of his most staunch supporters in the southern part of the state, "he voted against an appropriation for drainage purposes in the session of 1899 because it was included in another bill which was made up of several graft schemes, and Jacobson wanted to kill it, which was right."

Now either Mr. Jacobson has as poor an opinion of the intelligence of the people as he expressed when he said that they did not know enough to scratch their ballots, or he is trusting to brazen effrontery to bulldoze through a plain misstatement. His tale is not only improbable, but impossible. He attempts to make people believe that he opposed the drainage appropriation in 1899 because it was part of a sort of omnibus bill covering several other subjects which were "graft measures." Now Mr. Jacobson knows, and we think the people know, that the constitution of Minnesota expressly provides, in Section 27 of Article 4, that "no law shall embrace more than one subject." Therefore a bill made up of several different proposals, whether they were "graft measures" or not, was never entertained at any session of the legislature in the history of the state. Drainage stood upon its own merits and by itself, and it was there for him to approve or condemn. He condemned it, not only in the session of 1899, but in the other sessions when drainage measures were proposed. In 1897, when drainage was being discussed and he was making his usual stand against it, he said: "There is still dry land enough in the state, and it will be time enough to go after swamp land when the people have to swim." We quote the St. Paul Pioneer Press of April 20, 1897.

Mr. Jacobson also asserts, as we gather from the newspapers advocating his candidacy, that he voted in 1901 for the only complete drainage measure ever proposed. As to that, it is necessary only to add that no such measure was proposed or passed in that session, the last of Jacobson's legislative career, and that no comprehensive and adequate system of drainage was ever begun in this state until, in 1905 and 1907, at Governor Johnson's recommendation the legislature passed proper laws and began, for the first time, to make proper appropriations for state drainage.

Settlers who have "had to swim" to get their products to market across the encircling swamp lands, left wet through Jacobson's bitter opposition to drainage, are in a position to appreciate the taunt contained in his public expression upon the subject in 1897. Also, they are in a position to appreciate the benefits that have come to them since Jacobson left the legislature and Johnson became governor.

Jacobson, parading himself as a friend of Northern Minnesota, in view of his legislative record reminds us of the ancient verse:

> Perhaps it was right to dissemble your love,
> But—why did you kick us down stairs?

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Voters should not overlook the four proposed amendments to the state constitution which they will be asked to pass upon at the polls Nov. 3. In the time remaining between now and election it should be possible to make the careful study required to enable every voter to act intelligently upon them.

The first amendment is the so-called "wide open" tax amendment. This was submitted two years ago, and defeated, though a mistake in the election supplies furnished from St. Paul made it appear that it had been adopted; it is now before the state supreme court. In order that there might be no doubt, the friends of the amendment had it submitted to the voters again at this election. This amendment is based upon a theory that better results will be attained when the state secures its entire revenue by indirect methods, leaving each locality to arrange its taxes and assessments as it pleases. It has recently come to light that the theorists who proposed this plan have now abandoned it, and Minnesota should by no means enter upon an experiment which those even who conceived it have ceased advocating. It would open up the way for fraud and injustice, and do away with the present wholesome provision of the constitution that all taxes must be equal. The Herald will have more to say about this vicious amendment later, but it will all be to the effect that it should be overwhelmingly defeated.

The second amendment removes the present constitutional limit upon the state tax rate for good roads, and leaves the levy to the discretion of the legislature. The state needs more roads, and the amendment should be adopted.

The third amendment authorizes the legislature to make the state a trustee for a fund to reimburse farmers for crop losses by hail and wind. Only those who submit to taxation for this purpose are entitled to reimbursement, and nobody need submit to taxation under this plan except voluntarily. There is no harm in the plan, and there may be much good; the amendment should be adopted.

The fourth proposed amendment provides that county superintendents of schools must have educational qualifications such as the legislature may prescribe. At present the constitution prevents the imposition of any qualification whatever for any elective office, except the obvious one that candidates must be legal voters. Clearly, a county superintendent of schools ought to have some education, and ought to know something about teaching. For the good of the public schools, this amendment should be adopted.

The second, third and fourth amendments should be adopted, therefore; and the first should be defeated: and it is more important that the first shall be defeated than that any of the others should be passed. Get copies of the amendments, and study them in all their bearings, voting according to your convictions: but don't forget to vote "No" in the first amendment, that relating to taxation.

Bob Dunn in his Princeton Union says that the re-election of Governor Johnson means more of Frank Day. We are very glad to parallel that with the cheerful information that the election of Jacobson means Bob Dunn behind the throne.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

George Shea, ex-attorney of Virginia, was at the St. Louis yesterday. Mr. Shea is of the opinion that many of the interests of the range and northern part of the state are awaiting the result of the election before a heavy revival of business will occur.

Though Mr. Shea states that there has been a gradual improvement in business conditions upon the range, he says the business men there, as everywhere else in the country, are waiting to see the outcome of the presidential race. Mr. Shea is of the opinion that no matter what the outcome of the election may be, the business of the country will undergo a gradual improvement, and that operations in the northern part of the state, curtailed last year, will be conducted upon a heavier scale this winter.

"There isn't anything particularly new upon the ranges just at the present time," said Mr. Shea. "We are all awaiting the outcome of the election. The state and national election is attracting intense interest all over the range. Laboring men, who have seldom exhibited an interest in the outcome or the issues of the campaign, come or the issues of the campaign, are this year showing a deep concern in the issues that are presented by the two parties. Socialism is stronger among the working men of the range than in any part of the state. I don't believe that the laboring men honestly think that Debs will be elected president, but many of them are going to vote for him.

"I believe that every election has seen a clearer understanding and a more thorough study of the national issues by the ranks of labor. The big independent vote leads to this belief. The laboring man is playing a bigger part in politics today than ever before, in my opinion, and I believe that the vote of labor in the future will continue to grow independent and more discriminating. I am of the opinion that the time has passed when the labor vote of the country will be cast blindly upon most of the national and local questions. The workingman has become educated in this respect, and is already voting upon independent lines.

D. F. Fowler of New York, who is connected with the United States immigration department, was a guest at the Lenox hotel yesterday.

According to a statement of Mr. Fowler, the standard of the immigrants who are coming to this country is constantly being raised. In the opinion of Mr. Fowler, the reason for the increase in moral character and intelligence is that more rigid immigration laws have effectively shut out from our shores much of the riff-raff that heretofore flocked here from the slums of lower Europe.

"The enactment of more rigid immigration laws has resulted in shutting out many of the undesirable foreigners who, under the loose laws of not so very long ago, were enabled to land in this country," said Mr. Fowler. "At the present time not only are the immigration laws of a more rigid nature, but the officials are obliged to exercise more care and scrutiny in the inspection of immigrants. The number of deportations from the country has grown very heavily within the past five or six years. This is due largely to the class of immigrants who, under the old immigration statutes, were allowed to land here. The new laws have, as I have said, shut out a large class of immigrants who had no difficulty in passing the old laws. The deportations from the country may increase for some few years, but in my opinion it will show a decrease after that.

"You see, it is a direct result of the poor class of immigrants who have been in this country for some time. Better men and women are coming to the United States at the present time, and this will have the tendency to decrease the number of deportations.

"You know that a money stringency has at least some good effects upon a country. It invariably cleanses the country of a class of immigrants who are not desirable, in the sense that they never would become permanent residents and never would affiliate their customs and habits with the customs and habits of this country. I refer to the large class of immigrants who left this country during the months of October and November of last fall. They left because the money in this country was less plentiful, and they took thousands of dollars in cash currency from the United States.

"In the face of a stringency only the better class of citizens of a foreign country come to this country. It is safe to say that since the stringency of last fall the class of immigrants has been raised over 10 per cent.

"Our immigration laws have been improved very much by wise legislation, but there is still room for improvement. Experiences of the past have taught us many lessons. We have just begun to study the immigration question seriously, and in the future many of the problems that confront us at the present time will be solved."

THE WEATHER.

After a long period of unbroken drouth, the weather man seems to have introduced another period of unbroken dampness. It has rained most of the time since Saturday, and the weather man says it is good for tonight anyway, and possibly tomorrow, with a continuance of the northeaster breeze. Last night's lowest temperature was 40 degs., and yesterday's highest was 42 degs.

A year ago today it was a little dubious after two weeks of straight fine weather.

The sun rose this morning at 6:42 and sets tonight at 5:02, making 10 hours and 20 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: The barometer continues low over Wisconsin and Minnesota, attended by further rains in those states, the eastern lake region, Iowa, Eastern Nebraska, the Eastern Dakotas, Manitoba and Western Ontario. Light showers also fell over New Mexico, Northeastern Texas, Pennsylvania and New York. Freezing temperatures continue in the Rocky Mountain districts as a result of the stationary high pressure area over Western Montana and Idaho. The barometer also remains high over the North Atlantic districts. The Wisconsin-Minnesota disturbance favors a continuance of rain, cool temperature and moderate easterly winds at the Head of he Lakes tonight and Tuesday."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The only close listener an orator has is himself.

A man wants to have his children well trained if his wife will do it.

It's reasonably safe to plase trust in people who have no chance to betray it.

The less a man knows about making love to a woman the more she can do for him.

A satisfactory thing about your vanity is how sure you are it is only modest appreciation.

Old Hands Give It Up.

New York Correspondence, Baltimore News: Everybody you see tells you that there's going to be some sort of seismic disturbance on election day. There'll be a landslip, if not a landslide. A landslip would not be big enough to do the business for Bryan. Neither would a landslide unless it were a big high-grade man's-size one.

About as honest and reliable and judicial minded a lot of people as one can find at such a time as this are the newspaper men who have been traveling through the country and who land in New York for the last fortnight of the campaign. They are coming in now, after feeling out public opinion all over the country. One of them, who has traveled with Bryan, and with Taft and then trailed both of them, and has been in all the states which are classed in anybody's doubtful list, said:

"I don't like to prophesy. That's well enough for the man who doesn't take chances of having a record pulled on him. But what I write gets printed, and so instead of forecasting I am writing pretty pieces about things as I see them and drawing no conclusions. I'm willing to leave the conclusions for the voters, to draw. You see, I think it's going to be a landslide—but don't say I said that; and yet I'm not sure it's going to be big enough to elect Bryan.

"It will take a revolution to elect Bryan. It means that all the long-standing prejudice against him as a theorist and a visionary and an utterly impractical person must be overcome. Can it be done? I wouldn't have believed it possible when the campaign began. If somebody should show me right now the figures that next year's political almanac will give on this election, I am dead sure I couldn't make an intelligent or convincing analysis of them and tell how and why it was going to happen. But somehow the idea has got into my head that it's going to happen."

That is rather a characteristic talk. These observers of conditions—men who have been through three or four or five campaigns, and who are determined not to be misled by any sympathies—admit they have no confidence in their judgment. A man who on the Saturday night before election four years ago wired his office an exact forecast of the electoral vote and received congratulations on the feat from all over the country—for he even guessed that Missouri would vote for Roosevelt—held up his hands, shook his head and sadly replied to my questions:

"Not any of the glory of the forecaster for me this year! I've been there and seen, and I know I don't know. The people, who think they know are the ones who haven't been to see."

Fat Frying in Indiana.

New York Sun: Open an Indiana newspaper these days and a strong odor of meat and cooking strikes the nostrils. Whenever there is a rally, a "Tom Marshall day," a Jim Watson day," wherever a crowd, Democratic or Republican, is gathered, there Homeric slaughters and gorgings are sure to be. Barbecues by the dozen, sandwiches by the million, frantic sons of famine chasing the hot hamburger and frankfurter wagons, tables "groaning," pretty girls feeding the animals and vexed at their gluttony; if Indiana drinks less she eats more, and free food seems to be the "standard attraction," transcending politics even at political meetings. Even the Hon. Alton Brooks Parker's impassioned oratory doesn't collect or fill the crowds. They cry for grub and get it. It is not sad that such is the case and calls no tear from the sociologist. The bosom of the prosperous can't resist the opportunity of getting something for nothing; for after a satisfactory barbecue one doesn't have to listen to speeches. One can sleep.

Not Before Sister.

The Delineator: Little Francis, 7 years old, was being questioned in the parlor, by his oldest sister's beau as to what constituted his studies at school. "Reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic," promptly replied the little fellow.

"Do you know anything about vulgar fractions," was asked.

"Yes," replied the indignant child; "I know they are something you oughtn't to be talking about before sister!"

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1888.

•••The beautiful stained glass windows of the new Congregational church are now being put in place. These windows were imported from France and are fine specimens of the glass maker's art.

•••The Northern Pacific railroad has reduced the wheat rate from Fargo to Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis to 16 cents per hundred, which means only 10 cents per bushel.

•••Work on the new fire hall at the corner of Third street and First avenue east has been begun. It will cost about $30,000.

•••Hon. Robert G. Evans returned yesterday to Duluth from Cloquet, where he addressed a large and enthusiastic audience. He was unable to speak at Two Harbors last night, and in consequence the meeting was addressed by Hon. T. E. Byrnes.

•••Peter Knott, mate of the Schooner Reed Case, ashore at Portage Entry, wired yesterday that he would have to dismast the schooner to release her. Capt. Simon Murray will be sent to take command of the vessel. The body of the late Capt. Green was sent to Chicago. The Reed Case ran in the stone trade between Portage and Duluth.

•••At Winnipeg last night, Chief Justice Taylor granted another injunction to the Canadian Pacific upon strong affidavits that the new road is being built by the Northern Pacific and not by the Manitoba government. At night half the population of Winnipeg assembled in mass meeting, where the wildest enthusiasm prevailed. Resolutions denouncing the Canadian government and the Canadian Pacific railway, and backing up the local government, were passed. The Canadian Pacific track, where the Red River Valley line desires to cross is barricaded with an immense fence and two dead engines, and President Van Horne has sent word to resist the forces of the Manitoba government to the last with the 500 men at the command of the company. Over 3,000 men have volunteered their services on the other side, and bloodshed is possible.

•••The tug Amethyst, which was tied up to the Duluth Lumber company's dock, was burned last evening. The tug was owned by Cooley, La Vaque & Co. and was chartered by Jeffries Bros. to tow logs from the Nemadji river. She was worth about $2,500 and was insured for $2,150. Two men on board, after vainly trying to subdue the flames, had to jump to the dock to save their lives.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Philadelphia Ledger: "Why did you sell your auto?"

"Cost too much for repairs."

"Wasn't it a good machine?"

"First rate. Never got out of order. But I had to pay for repairing the people it ran over."

Philadelphia Press: "Yes," said the political boss, "we'll have to give Crookley this nomination."

"But," protested the unsophisticated one, "why not Goodley? He's better able to fill the office."

"Perhaps, but Crookley is better able to get it."

Puck: The Bride—I think this looks like a nice, respectable place for us to eat, Jason.

The Groom (in surprise)—But, darn it, Sally, don't you want me to sit at the same table with you?

Browning's Magazine: "She certainly is the most ignorant servant we ever had!"

"Yes. And to think I got her at an intelligence office, too!"

Brooklyn Life: Wyld—I suppose your wife's will is law.

Enpec—Yes, and worst of it is that she can't be bribed not to enforce it.

Life: Old Beau—Williams, are my eyebrows on straight and is my wig properly crumped?

Valet—Yes, sir; but your chest has slipped down a bit.

Kansas City Journal: "My hero has a strong face," remarked the author.

"He needs it," opined the critic. "I notice his face falls every time he meets the heroine."

Pittsburg Post: "Talk about foresight?"

"Well?"

Houston Post: "A woman in New York says, 'much as I love the Stars and Stripes I love the red flag better.' She must be an anarchist."

"Or in love with a railway crossing tender."

Illustrated Bits: Father—Why, when I was your age I didn't have as much money in a month as you spend in a day.

Daughter—Well, dad, don't scold me about it. Why didn't you talk to grandfather?

Chicago Tribune: Baldwin—The doctor says there are more than fifty kinds of headache. Do you believe it?

Rambo—I know it. I've frequently had all of 'em in one morning.

Learning in The Harem.

Chicago News: Turkish women are frequently well educated. Their lives of seclusion encourage study and they pass the long winter evenings in devouring any literature that comes their way. Many are excellent linguists, and Pierre Loti tells that the yare well acquainted with the works of modern thinkers. They are often well versed in ancient classics and they eagerly read modern novels, especially of the morbid, erotic type. These give them a glimpse of the outside world and increase their discontent; they are also intensely envious of their Christian and Jewish sisters.

Many receive instructions from the teachers at the girls' college founded by the sultan for young Turkish women; they are then educated in the same way as an English girl, and it is believed that when the time for their emancipation from harem life arrives they will be found ready and equal to take their share in the world's work.

A Turkish women's paper, with a woman as editor and with women as contributors, has been in existence for several years. It informs its readers that "any contribution thatis in accordance with Mussulman faith and with Ottoman morals will be gratefully received."

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: It keeps some men busy postponing things:

It takes a smooth tongue to sidetrack a bill collector.

Being a young widow gets to be awfully monotonous.

Even our best friends don't do much worrying on our behalf.

Only those who have been up against real misery can fully appreciate happiness.

Sometimes a man accomplishes great things by getting other men to do them for him.

Most men are able to get off smart things—thanks to the lack of adhesiveness in mustard plasters.

After a girl has passed the age of 20 the candles of her birthday cake shed too much light on the affair.

Some men put everything off till tomorrow with the exception of bill collectors, and they put them off indefinitely.

When a young man goes around looking as though he hadn't a friend on earth it is either a case of love or indigestion.

Trouble in the Balkans.

When the Bulgars are a-bulging and the Balkans are a-balking
And the Walloping Wallachians are brandishing their dirks,
And the Merry Montenegrins are grandiloquently talking,
And the Servians are serving Prussic acid to the Turks,
And the Russians are a-rushing to the Theater of Action,
And the Rollicking Roumanians are romping o'er the lea,
While the Austrians are smiling, with a deal of satisfaction,
At the Bosni-Herzegovnians who've happened in to tea.

How I love to watch the War Cloud as is gets an extra head on!
How I love to hear the "trouble, trouble, trouble!" of the drums,
And the wallings of the Prophets for the Day of Armageddon;
It's so thrilling and romantic—and the trouble never comes!

Though the Powers are pow-wowing and the Kaisers are contriving,
Yet we know one party dassen't and the other one's afraid,
There'll be scores of Ultimatums and a bit of bargain-driving,
And then all will be as peaceful as a Temperance Parade.

—ARTHUR GUITERMAN in the New York Times.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore (Rep.): Mr. Johnson has proven that he is big enough to be governor for the whole state and his record shows that his constant aim has been to fulfill the mission. The Ore believes that it were safer to trust the interests of the state to a big man, tried and true, like Mr. Johnson, than to experiment with a chronic politician who seeks an office he is not able to fill with honor and credit to the state, and who is being forced through by the remnant of a political machine that has disgraced the state every time is secured any power. Mr. Johnson has been a success in life and as governor of Minnesota has brought great fame to the state—has done it without any wind-mill, watch-dog or pyrotechnical displays whatsoever.

Virginia Enterprise: Since the Duluth News Tribune of Monday has raised the question of whether or not there were outside deputies brought to the range at the time of the strike last year, the workingmen of the ranges have been doing a little thinking for themselves. And they have rightly come to the conclusion that if there were outside deputies brought onto the range it was not the fault of Governor John A. Johnson, but the fault of Sheriff William J. Bates, who swore them in, and who later made oath to Governor Johnson that so far as he knew all deputies sworn in were bona fide residents of Minnesota.

Aitkin Independent: It's no use. The people of Aitkin county have twice voted for John A. Johnson for governor, and they were not disappointed in him. They will vote for him a third time, knowing well that this talk that he has "stultified" himself is nothing but claptrap. He was nominated against his will. He was nominated because the people want more of his kind of administration, and he will be elected because he is John A. Johnson—that's reason enough.

Crookston Journal: Crookston will join in the verdict which will be rendered by the people of Minnesota on Nov. 3 and when the ballots are counted it will be found that the seal of approval has been placed upon the two matchless administrations of John A. Johnson, with a practical unanimity that has never before been even approximated in this state.

Sherlin Herald: Isn't it remarkable that in commenting upon the gubernatorial candidates the worst the Republican papers can say of Johnson is that he is a Democrat?

Little Falls Herald: The splendid campaign Governor Johnson is making but deepens his hold on minds and hearts of the people. He is conquering partisanship and prejudice and proving to the people of Minnesota that no mistake was made in 1904 and 1906. There has been talk of a defection. We have been unable to find it. Like the million frogs, the defection has always been somewhere else. In our judgment, the prospects are good for a victory, which will set the mark for years to come. Attorney General Young says the interests nominated Jacobson.

Albert Lea Standard: Republicans so esteemed Governor Johnson that they wanted him nominated for president, and if he was big enough and good enough for president, they are bound to agree that he is unequalled for governor. They would not think for a minute of Jacobson in connection with the presidency—well hardly. Besides, if Governor Johnson is elected governor again he will be a popular choice for president in 1912, as sure as you live. And what an honor to Minnesota that would be!

Crookston Journal: The old party whips may growl and show their teeth, they may crack their whips and threaten; it will do no good for the spirit of political independence is abroad in the land and, the result will be the triumphant re-election of John A. Johnson inasmuch as he stands for all that is upright in political life, all that is honest in government and all that is progressive in state development.

In the Future.

Chicago Evening Post: "Yes, we are in the midst of a most exciting campaign," says the native to the visiting stranger.

"I suppose you are holding a great many public meetings," asks the visitor.

"Well, no. We've called them off for the present."

"The marching clubs, I presume, are parading the streets of your large cities and bonfires and torchlight processions make the night like day."

"No. We haven't time for them."

"Haven't time?"

"No. Our prominent men are all working fifteen or eighteen hours a day writing open letters to one another."

self has said, the state board of equalization which he appointed recently voted down a recommendation for a tonnage tax, the vote against it standing nearly three to one.

: This man Jacobson, on the other hand, whom the News Tribune is parading : as a friend of St. Louis county, dares not visit the iron range communities whose : very existence he has threatened with his tonnage tax system of plunder. At : first scheduled for an iron range trip, Oct. 22, his dates were postponed to Oct. : 28 and 29. Now we are informed that owing to the weakness of his voice he : will not be able to address the range people, but will visit Duluth only, Oct. 31, : when whatever he may have to say about matters of interest to this section : cannot reach the ears of the rest of the state. His voice, however, is : still good enough to enable him to address the people of Southwestern Minne- : sota, where he is scheduled for the rest of this week, to advocate his own elec- : tion upon his tonnage tax record. :

FOURTH: "We know what Mr. Johnson will do if he can. His party platform pledges him to a tonnage tax. His speeches outside of St. Louis county demonstrate that he considers himself in honor bound to carry out the pledge of his party." We know what Governor Johnson will do if he can, because he has told us, and his words appear at the head of the editorial columns of this evening's Herald. His platform does not bind him to a tonnage tax; it merely declares for the tax amendment as the Republican platform does, and while it mentions the tonnage tax among other measures that the tax amendment will permit, it does not in any sense declare for that measure or bind anybody to support it. His speeches outside St. Louis county do not demonstrate, as the News Tribune's characteristically deceptive tirade would have you believe, that he will stand for the tonnage tax or for any other unfair measure. IF HIS SPEECHES DID CONTAIN SUCH UTTERANCES, BE SURE THE NEWS TRIBUNE WOULD BE QUOTING FREELY FROM THEM; and it has not, thus far, reported a single speech made by the governor outside of this county.

FIFTH: "His message to the legislature on this subject two years ago, and his attitude at that time when St. Louis county by the most strenuous efforts barely defeated the tonnage tax, are the strongest evidences of his desire to increase the burdens of taxation in this county." These are absolute falsehoods. What Governor Johnson said about the tonnage tax in his message to the legislature is quoted verbatim at the head of the editorial page of this evening's Herald, and nobody reading it can be misled by the News Tribune's distortions of fact.

: As to his attitude during the fight against the tonnage tax two years ago, he : gave such assistance as he could for the protection of the taxpayers of this : county, at the very moment when J. F. Jacobson was lobbying in the legislature : of which he was no longer a member for the very measure against which St. : Louis county was fighting for its life. :

SIXTH: "Mr. Jacobson's platform says nothing concerning a tonnage tax, consequently his party has not pledged him to advocate such a tax as has Mr. Johnson's." Mr. Jacobson's platform, like the Democratic platform, declares for the tax amendment; and we have the News Tribune's often-repeated word for it that the tax amendment means nothing but a tonnage tax. Mr. Jacobson's record is that of an originator of the tonnage tax fight, of the author of several tonnage tax bills, any one of which would have ruined St. Louis county and half the mining towns, and of an advocate in a private capacity of the measure which threatened the iron country two years ago. Jacobson is running "on his record" throughout the state. That record includes his tonnage tax record. He has not said a single word of apology or reassurance: clearly he still stands for the tonnage tax, for if he did not it would be easy to say so, and though The Herald has been demanding of him and of the News Tribune that they produce a fair promise as to what he will do with a tonnage tax bill if the legislature passes it, he has not given the slightest promise of decent treatment, nor has the News Tribune given it for him.

SEVENTH: "In no speech that he has made, so far as we can ascertain, has Jacobson said that he was in favor of a tonnage tax." In no speech that he has made has Jacobson repudiated his vicious tonnage tax record; but in every speech he declares that he "stands upon his record," and his record is that of an agitator for a tonnage tax or for anything else that would cripple this section of the state. On the other hand, Governor Johnson has never declared for nor advocated a tonnage tax, and he has openly said, in the hearing of the entire state, that if such a measure is passed he will veto it.

EIGHTH: "Eleven years ago Mr. Jacobson supported a bill, which did not become a law, imposing a tonnage tax on iron ore which was to be distributed between the state and the various political subdivisions thereof in the same proportions as the taxes upon real estate are distributed."

Twelve years ago Jacobson introduced—the morning paper would have you believe that he merely "supported"—a bill calling for a 5-cent tonnage tax on iron ore, distributed as the News Tribune indicates. That, however, was the only kind of tonnage tax then possible under the constitution; it is possible under the constitution now. But it would have ruined this county and the range communities if it had passed, and that it did not pass was no fault of Jacobson's. An 8-cent bill was introduced by another house member, and Jacobson withdrew his measure in favor of the one calling for a higher tax. It passed the house, but was defeated in the senate.

: The News Tribune would have you believe that that is all there is to Jacob- : son's tonnage tax record. It lies, and it knows it. Six years ago, in the special : session of 1902, Jacobson introduced another similar bill, calling for a 5-cent : tonnage tax. By threats and intimidation, he pounded that bill through the : house in three hours, refusing to give that body a chance to consider it longer : than that. :

Representative Laybourn, now senator, asked for a recess to give State Auditor Dunn a chance to explain why this bill was bad. Mr. Jacobson then moved the previous question, thus shutting off debate and forestalling this attempt to give the house a little more light on the subject than Jacobson was able to give it out of his prejudice-darkened brain. As Mr. Laybourn then said, this move was characteristic, and showed not only the weakness of Jacobson's cause, but the dishonesty of his methods when he was urging anything that promised harm to St. Louis county.

Nor is this all of the Jacobson tonnage tax record. The News Tribune speaks of his introducing a bill for a tonnage tax that would be divided between the state and the localities as though this were a merit. As we have shown, this was the only kind of bill possible under the constitution as it then stood, and it was a very bad kind. When the constitution was amended—on the face of the returns it was amended two years ago, though we know that the amendment was actually defeated and believe that the supreme court will so hold—but when it was apparently amended so as to remove this restriction, most hateful to Jacobson because he always looked upon Northeastern Minnesota as a place to plunder without giving anything in return, Jacobson was no longer a member of the legislature. But when he heard of the tonnage tax bill then pending, which would have robbed this county of millions of dollars of taxes, he could not resist the temptation. He jumped aboard a train, went posthaste to St. Paul, and was thenceforth behind the advocates of the Jefferson-Bjorge tonnage tax bill, giving them advice and urging others to vote for it.

That is Jacobson's tonnage tax record, and in spite of it and in spite of the fact that he has not gone back on an item of it, and that he will not go back on it unless he does in his Duluth speech in the closing days of the campaign when the rest of the state can't hear him, the News Tribune, for purely partisan reasons, is trying to pull the wool over the eyes of the voters of this section by misleading them as to their real interests in this contest. In other words, it is seeking to betray them into electing Jacobson to a place where he will have unprecedented opportunities to pursue the career of plunder which he began during his legislative career.

NINTH: "A vote for Johnson is a vote for a tonnage tax all of which shall go to the state." This is the monstrous error to which, by a train of falsehood, the News Tribune seeks to lead the voters of the iron counties. The fact is that a vote for Johnson, in view of his clean record on the tonnage tax and his present unequivocal stand against it, is a vote against the tonnage tax and a vote of protest against the merciless methods by which J. F. Jacobson and his kind have always sought to plunder this section of the state.

We hope that every voter in the iron counties will read carefully the article signed by the fifty-three names. Then we hope they will read this analysis of the assertions made in it, and after calling to mind all that they know about both of the men and their records, judge for the best interests of themselves, their county and their state.

: A vote for Jacobson is a vote to help those who would plunder you and your : neighbors; it is a vote for Bob Dunn, for Lee Willcuts, for G. G. Hartley, for : Dar Reese, for injustice and depredation. : : A vote for Governor Johnson is a vote for yourself and your neighbors; it is : a vote for clean government, for honest taxation, for fair play and for decency. :

political leader now in public view, but at the same time he is careful and conservative in his methods. He is just like Roosevelt, only a little tamer.

St. Paul Dispatch Editorial, July 1, 1908: He (Governor Johnson) has made a fine chief magistrate to a noble state of the great Northwest.

St. Paul Dispatch Editorialy July 9, 1908: If Minnesota should fail to recognize that Johnson has been an advertisement of incalculable value, both as to opportunity for young men, as to strength of its racial citizenship, and as to the production of brains, even to political finesse as well as to iron and wheat, Minnesota would not be worth much in the esteem of other states. It is wrong to call Governor John's fame spurious or his ability over-estimated, and certainly his amazing personality speaks for itself, and speaks eloquently. * * * And we should consider a Minnesotan craven and disloyal who did not rejoice in the credit the man has brought to his state as its foremost citizen. * * *

Minneapolis Journal Editorial, March 7, 1908: Governor Johnson stands for much that is good in politics, and little that is bad.

Minneapolis Journal Editorial, May 15 1908: A governor is a show citizen. He is "our best foot foremost," so to speak, and almost anybody would rather be represented by one who had the manners of a gentleman, rather than those of a boor.

Minneapolis Journal Editorial, June 13, 1908: He has made a national reputation out of his service as governor of this state. He has come up more rapidly than any public man since Grover Cleveland.

Minneapolis Tribune Editorial, March 1, 1908: Governor Johnson is a rare combination of sweetness and force.

Minneapolis Tribune Editorial, March 16, 1908: The Tribune can see no sense in the notion that Johnson is out of the question for Democratic candidate for governor. * * * Johnson owes everything he has got to the people. They do not bother their heads about the equal distribution of offices among hungry politicians. They put the man they like most where they want him from time to time, equally oblivious of what he has had before, and of what men they care less for want.

Minneapolis Tribune Editorial, June 15, 1908: Governor Johnson's personal character excites admiration, and his public career arouses interest. * * * His reasonable, if not brilliant views on the issues of the day, are very widely known. The people know who he is, talk about him, want to see him and hear him, and are open to any suggestion in relation to his public advancement that appeals to their feelings or reason.

On May 26, the Minneapolis Journal, editorially discussing Governor Johnson's declaration that he would not again, under any circumstances, be a candidate for governor, said: "Whether this declaration would settle the matter of the gubernatorial nomination will DEPEND MORE LARGELY ON THE MINNESOTA DEMOCRACY THAN ON GOVERNOR JOHNSON. IT MAY DRAFT HIM TO RUN AGAIN, NOTWITHSTANDING HIS DECLARATION, WHOSE SINCERITY NEED NOT BE QUESTIONED."

Minneapolis Tribune Editorial June 26, 1908: Governor Johnson's personal charms, his transparent integrity, his sound common sense, his unfailing tact, his power to rise to any situation he is called upon to meet so far have put him ahead of older men of greater mental equipment and training in public life.

Pioneer Press Editorial, Aug. 22, 1908: It must be said of Governor Johnson that the first four years have shown him to be a growing man. He is a good deal more today than the smiling, plausible but callow politician he was when frist introduced as candidate for governor of Minnesota. He has risen to the responsibilities of his position and has met them well.

St. Paul Dispatch Nov. 6, 1907: Upon the occasion of the Art Loan exhibition held in St. Paul last November: "It was good to hear Governor Johnson in his address opening the Art Loan exhibition, not because he is governor of a state that is taking its place among states, but because he revealed explicitly that his conception of this state is not confined to that of a commonwealth of prosperous industries, and his conception of necessities is not limited to 'the need of a more elastic currency.' He sees broader and sees further.

"It was worth something, off here on the edge of things to hear the young governor of the state demand of the future in Minnesota that it be not only industrious and wealthy, but that it be artistic, as the more lasting quality."

Minneapolis Journal Editorial: "The office of governor is occupied at present by a man who has lots of friends, not only in his own party, but among Republicans. They have had no occasion to regret his election, and have not been disappointed in his performances."

Minneapolis Tribune Editorial: "The people of the state are well enough satisfied with the present governor to leave to the politicians all the toil and labor of hunting up a man good enough to beat Johnson."

Minneapolis Tribune Editorial, Dec. 17, 1907: "In many respects Governor Johnson is a kind of a candidate wise men in both parties are seeking. He has the confidence of the people and is not feared by honest business interests. He has acted for reform in public life more than he has talked about it. He seems to have kept his head so far in a trying position. He could unite the party more than any other man."

St. Paul Pioneer Press Editorial: "Everybody who has come in contact with Governor Johnson likes him—or ought to. As a governor he has done nothing discreditable. He has also done some things for which he deserves credit."

FILES APPEAL FROM AWARDS

Thunder Bay Railroad Thinks Damages Were Too Heavy.

The Duluth & Thunder Bay railroad filed an appeal Saturday to the district court from some of the awards made by the commissioners appointed to appraise the land involved in the condemnation proceedings of the road. The company thinks some of the awards are too high, and a reduction is asked.

The road asks a reduction to $250 award of $304 for a right of way along Arthur avenue, Rice's point. It asks that an award of $1,278 for a right of way through block 27, except lots 295 and 300, and block 87, be reduced to $1,000. The officials of the road think that $25,000 would be enough for a right of way along Rice's point near Garfield avenue, on which the appraisers set a value of $42,042.

P. C. Frazee Saturday filed an appeal against the award of $5,375 for property owned by him and condemned for the benefit of the railroad company.

DUMMIES STRIPPED.

Thief Helps Himself to Clothing Displayed in Front of Stores.

A thief Saturday night helped himself to the clothing displayed in front of several Bowery stores, and managed to escape undetected. In front of E. Abelson's place of business was a wooden man togged out with an overcoat. This is at 518 West Superior street. The thief helped himself to the coat and got away without being seen.

On the opposite side of the street, and a little farther west, the thief managed to make a safe getaway with a pair of high-top boots that were displayed in front of Dave Polinsky's store. The boots were valued at $4. Two umbrellas were taken from the stand in front of Ike Barnard's store, next to the Peerless laundry. John Koskin was arrested as a suspect and held for investigation.

POLICEMAN-COWBOY KILL EACH OTHER.

New Orleans, Oct. 26.—News is received here of a double tragedy at Gulf Port, Miss., in which a cowboy belonging to a Wild West show and a Gulf Port policeman lost their lives. While the show was preparing to leave for New Orleans, Lon Seeley, the cowboy, is alleged to have ridden into a crowd of negroes, beating them over the head with the but of his revolver. Policeman Leo Varnadoe started in pursuit of Seeley. Later their bodies were found near the railroad, each bearing a bullet wound and each man's revolver containing one empty shell.

TWO WOMEN ARRESTED IN NIGHT RIDER CASES.

Camp Nemo, Reelfoot Lake, Tenn., Oct. 26.—Forty-four more prisoners, including two women, were brought in last night in connection with the murder at Walnut Log last week of Capt. Quentin Rankin.

JACOBSON'S ATTITUDE TO THE OLD SOLDIER

Candidate Jacobson persists in standing on his record. His position in opposition to all measures calculated to show the state's a ppreciation of the services rendered to the country by the members of the G. A. R. was ever the same.

He even lacks that patriotism which should ever be advanced by persons holding the position of chief executive of a state, as will be seen by a review of the records on the following bills:

February 6, 1895, House Journal 127, H. F., 223: A bill for an act to make the twelfth day of February (Lincoln's birthday) a legal holiday.

Mr. Jacobson voted No on this bill.

April 22, 1889, Page 1238, S. F. 644: A bill for an act to authorize the county commissioners of the several counties of this state to appropriate money to erect a soldiers' monument or memorial hall in the respective counties.

Mr. Jacobson voted No on this bill.

As a member of the committee on appropriations, he voted to report for indefinite postponement on March 26, 1895, H. F. 568 introduced by Mr. Gibbs: A bill for an act to provide transportation for the surviving members of the First and Second regiments of the Minnesota volunteers to the battlefields of Gettysburg and Chickamauga.

April 9, 1897, House Journal, Page 954, H. F. 719: A bill for an act for the relief of George W. Wetherell, a veteran of the late war, who was seriously and permanently injured by being run down by a trolley car while in attendance at the national encampment held in St. Paul last September.

The above was a bill to aid an old soldier, who was injured at the time of the holding of the national encampment in St. Paul in 1896, and who was totally disabled as a result if said accident.

Mr. Jacobson voted and talked bitterly against the passage of the bill.

St. Paul Pioneer Press, April 10, 1897. Mr. Harlstrom's bill appropriating $1,000 for the relief of George W. Wetherell was killed. Mr. Wetherell is an old soldier of Verndale who was run down by an electric car while in attendance upon the national G. A. R. encampment in St. Paul last fall and seriously injured. Mr. Jacobson, Mr. Hicks, Mr. Foss and others said there was no merit in this claim. It would set an exceedingly bad precedent and would open the way to a claim on the state treasury every time any old soldier received any injury under any circumstances. Mr. Hartshorn and Mr. Dahl could not stem the tide of opposition. There was some difference among the members about voting on the measure, but there was finally rounded up 58 in favor and 56 against.

March 25, 1901, House Journal 648, S. F. 53: A bill for the relief of John C. Devereux, be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Minnesota:

Section 1. That there shall be allowed and paid to John C. Devereux out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, in full of all claim he has against the state of Minnesota for services as drillmaster and teacher of a military school at Fort Snelling, between the sixth day of July, 1861, and the fifteenth day of October, 1861—four hundred and ninety-five dollars, being compensation at the rate of $5 per day in fullfillment of a special agreement made by the adjutant general of Minnesota, at the time he entered upon performance of said services.

The bill was passed March 25, 1901, by a vote of 63 to 2, Mr. Jacobson being one of the members voting against the measure. This is in accordance with his whole legislative career in the matter relating to members of the National Guard or veterans of the Civil and Spanish-American wars.

THE BUSY WHIRL OF POLITICS

JAKE "WELCHES" ON TOUR OF IRON RANGE TOWNS

Afraid to State His Position on Tonnage Tax.

Voice Fails for St. Louis County—All Right Down South.

"Send us Johnson, or if you can't send Johnson, persuade 'Jake' to come" wired an enthusiastic Johnson boomer from the southern part of the state, to the Democratic state committee.

The members of the Republican central committee evidently appreciated the truth that underlay the humor in the above remark, and rather than take the chance of lying to evils that they know not of, they decided to let conditions rest as they are in St. Louis county.

The Jacobson tour of the ranges has been called off.

The last grand fiasco is a fitting climax to the campaign of misrepresentation conducted for Jacobson in St. Louis county. The Republican leaders dared not allow Jacobson to come to this county and give his stand upon the tonnage tax question. They preferred to attack Governor Johnson's attitude and distort his clear and defined statement that he was opposed to a tonnage tax, and would veto it if passed. Some 10,000 people heard Governor Johnson make the straightforward statement that if a tonnage tax were passed by the legislature, he would veto it, but in spite of this fact, and in spite of the fact that Jacobson has never defined his stand upon the tonnage tax, but stands on his record, which shows that he introduced two tonnage tax bills into the legislature and supported another one in 1907, party managers are making the tonnage tax a campaign issue.

That is the reason why the Jacobson tour of St. Louis county has been cancelled. The Republican candidate, whose record is well known in St. Louis county, dare not attempt a tour of the ranges following Governor Johnson's triumphal swing around the circuit. Every Johnson meeting was a triumph. On the eve of the campaign a Jacobson fiasco on the ranges would be fatal to his candidacy in this county.

Plans Are Changed.

It was first planned to have the Jacobson tour take place on Oct. 22. But this would have left some two weeks intervening before the close of the campaign. For Jacobson to tour St. Louis county and not express himself as opposed to the tonnage tax would have been suicidal. For him to commit himself as opposed to it would have been fatal to his campaign in the southern part of the state. The trip was postponed until the last moment, and was scheduled to take place on Oct. 28 and 29, when it was believed that it would be too late for the announcement of his position to hurt him in the southern part of the state. But meanwhile the people had become thoroughly aroused to the situation. Governor Johnson's straightforward stand could not be questioned by anybody who heard him speak, except the News Tribune, and the people in St. Louis county and the other northern counties were evidently waiting anxiously for Jacobson to commit himself one way or the other. With the voters on the alert in this manner, he did not dare risk the trip over the range, even on the eve of election. His attitude against Northern Minnesota and its development was too well known in Southern Minnesota for him to take the stand he had to take if he dared invade St. Louis county. So 'Jake' dodged the issue. A St. Louis county triumvirate, Messrs. Bunnell, Hawkins and Halden, made a trip to St. Paul Saturday, and this morning it was announced that the Jacobson tour of Northern Minnesota had been cancelled: that only the Duluth meeting would be held, and that it would take place Saturday, Oct. 31, three days before the election.

But even at the Duluth meeting he will have a chance to finally state his position on the tonnage tax. Governor Johnson did so, and some 10,000 people heard him, in addition to the many thousands who were not able to squeeze themselves into one of the two armory meetings. Duluth people, and range people, are wondering if Jacobson will dare to make himself as clear, in view of the fact that he is running on his record," which is that of continued and consistent opposition to the interests of Northern Minnesota.

The reason given for the calling off of the range trip is the fact that his voice is failing. He has no voice to come to Northern Minnesota and give a fair statement of his position, but he has voice enough left to continue his campaign on his tonnage tax record in Southern Minnesota.

The Jacobson boomers have reduced their plurality estimate from 40,000 to 12,000, and even the News Tribune does not claim more than that figure now. This morning the Jacobson Jokebook published a reduced estimate, claiming 4,000 for Jacobson in the First district. Johnson will carry it by 1,000 votes at least. The Second district was to give Jacobson 3,000. Johnson will get a plurality there as he will in the First. They concede Johnson the Third district by 1,000. He will have 5,000. They concede Johnson the Fourth by 3,000. He will have at least 10,000 in the Fourth. The Fifth is also conceded to Johnson by 5,000. The plurality will be at least 15,000, according to the most conservative estimates. The Sixth is claimed by 1,000. If Johnson doesn't get 4,000 plurality there his friends will be very badly fooled and very much disappointed. They claim the Seventh by 7,000. This district is conceded to Jacobson, but his plurality will not exceed 1,500 if it reaches that figure. The Eighth is claimed by 2,000. This is a good sample of the accuracy of the estimate. Duluth and St. Louis county are in the Eighth. At least 4,000 for Johnson is the lowest estimate that can be truthfully made. The Ninth is claimed for Jacobson by 4,000. If that plurality were given Johnson it would about hit the nail on the head.

Johnson's plurality is estimated at at least 40,000 votes. Some of his friends down in Minneapolis claim he will have 100,000 plurality, but this is considered too optimistic. It will probably be between 40,000 and 50,000. His friends are working to make it larger than it was two years ago, and they won't be satisfied unless they succeed.

LAST WEEK OF CAMPAIGN WILL BE STRENUOUS ONE

Cancelling of Jacobson Tour Disappoints Both Committees.

Senator Clapp Will Undertake to Apologize for "Jake."

In a statement made today Andrew Nelson, chairman of the St. Louis county Democratic committee, charges the News Tribune with endeavoring to spread dissension among the Democrats in an editorial statement this morning.

The editorial referred to, is one charging that the Democrats of this state and this county were not working in harmony, and that because George Fred Williams was a Bryan Democrat, his welcome here by the Johnson Democrats was not a warm one. The editorial further stated that Mr. Nelson referred to "Johnson and bryan" in a tone which showed that the Johnson Democrats of this county were supporting the Commoner enthusiastically.

Continuing in the same strain, the editorial stated that Mr. Williams was aware that he was not welcome by the Johnson men, and for this reason did not assist the Johnson cause in his speech.

Mr. Nelson points out where the statement of the News Tribune, in accordance with many other statements made by it, entirely ignores the facts of the case.

Mr. Nelson states that he did not refer to Bryan or Johnson in any way that would allow such a construction as the News Tribune placed upon his utterance.

Again Mr. Nelson says he was the first man in this state to ask that that Mr. Williams be sent to this city. T. T. Iludson did not request that Mr. Williams be sent to this city until some days after Mr. Nelson's request was sent to the Democratic national committee headquarters at Chicago.

"The only possible motive for the editorial statement of the News Tribune was that it wished to create some dissension," said Mr. Nelson today. "I know that every member of the St. Louis county Democratic committee is working hard and earnestly for William Jennings Bryan. At every meeting I have addressed I have spoken for the national ticket and for the cause of Mr. Bryan. I have worked as hard for the success of the national ticket in this county as I have worked for the success of the state ticket here. I know positively that every member of the committee has worked hard and faithfully for the same cause.

"I don't believe there is a Bryan Democrat in this state who is not working hard for the success of the state ticket in Minnesota, and I am equally positive that there is not a Johnson Democrat who is not working for the success of William Jennings Bryan. There was no basis, in fact, for the statement of the News Tribune. It has tried to create dissension, and I tell the editor of that paper frankly that he has failed in his object. Such efforts as are employed by the News Tribune not only fail far short of accomplishing the desired ends, but they positively make votes for the other side.

"I know that my friends are well aware of what I have tried to do for the Bryan cause in the county, and I merely take this opportunity to state that every member of the county committee is working hard for the success of the Bryan cause. As a matter of fact, we have sent out more Bryan literature and buttons than we have Johnson literature. I think that is all that is required in reply to the statement of the News Tribune."

There is disappointment and chagrin in the headquarters of the Democratic committee this morning. It is caused by the announcement that the Jacobson meeting scheduled for tonight at Ilean state central committee has at the last moment decided to call off the range trip of Jacob F. Jacobson.

The members of the Democratic committee are of the opinion that the appearance upon the range of Jacobson would be a very good thing—for Governor Johnson. The members of the Republican state central committee are evidently of the same turn of mind, hence the cancellation of the range tour of Mr. Jacobson. Democrats here are not willing to accept the statement that Mr. Jacobson's voice was so worn that the trip had to be cancelled.

Reports received this morning at Democratic headquarters, state that the people upon the range had some very embarrassing questions to ask Mr. Jacobson. The questions were ones which would require answering by the Republican candidate, and as Mr. Jacobson's campaign so far has not been an "answering" one, it is probably just as well for Mr. Jacobson that it was decided to call off the range trip.

There was an air of activity at Democratic headquarters this morning. There was some comment and more laughter over the obviously desperate efforts of the morning organ to stave off the inevitable. There was no fear expressed over the effect of the rather bungling efforts of the morning paper to gain a decent following for the Jacobson cause in this county. On the other hand, most of the Democratic committee members look upon the strenuous efforts in the light of a campaign diversion, and predict, the fake petition will be a boomerang.

This is practically the close of the campaign. There will be speeches and meetings upon the eve of the election, but most of the effective work will be accomplished this week.

The Democratic committee has planned a busy week. Not all of the meetings have been planned as yet, but there will be some meeting for every night of the week. More literature will be sent out and the office force at headquarters will be kept working overtime from now until the close of the campaign.

There is an air of gloom over at the Republican headquarters. The decision of the state central committee, that J. F. Jacobson would not be sent to the range and that his Duluth appearance should be postponed two days, is the cause of the gloom. There were two or three grouches at headquarters oday.

The members of the committee are making desperate efforts to counteract the decision of the state committee. Today W. E. Culkin, chairman of the Republican county committee, was busy most of the morning with the long distance telephone. He called up most of the towns where Jacobson was billed to appear and informed them that special rates had been secured for for the Saturday night appearance here of Jacobson and urged the local committee to do everything to pedsuade some o fthe range voters to attend the Jacobson meeting here.

There were several conferences this morning among members of the committee and every effort is being made to conciliate the Republicans upon the range for the calling off of the Jacobson meetings. Senator Clapp has been secured and a meeting at Virginia will probably be arranged for the senator. He will probably speak at Hibbing and one or two other range towns. It is planned to have the senator take the place of the Republican candidate.

Special trains have been arranged for the meeting of Saturday and every effort will be made to pack the armory. The word has been passed along to the local committees of the range towns to take off their coats and work as they have never worked for party success before. They have been informed that it is imperative, for political effect, that the Jacobson meeting compare favorably with the monster Johnson meetings.

BIG MEETING AT FLOODWOOD

Andrew Nelson and A. R. McDonald Speak to 300 Voters.

A very enthusiastic Democratic meeting was held at Floodwood Saturday evening. Andrew Nelson, chairman of the Democratic committee, and A. R. McDonald, editor of the Labor World, were the speakers. There were over 300 voters in attendance, and every mention of Governor Johnson's name brought forth enthusiastic applause.

Mr. Nelson took occasion to explain the tariff question, spoke of the record of the Democratic party in this state for the past four years, and of the progress that had come to the state under the administration of Governor Johnson.

Mr. Nelson went into the tonnage tax question, stating that the governor was not opposed to the interests of the northern part of the state, as some would have the voters suppose, but was an executive who was broad and big enough to seek legislation that would benefit the state as a whole.

The speaker stated that Johnson had never been in favor of a tonnage tax that would deprive local institutions of their just share of the taxes, and that he had never sought to have legislation enacted that was against the interests of the northern part of the state or that would unjustly discriminate against any portion of the state.

A. R. MacDonald went back into history to compare the records and principles of the two parties. He drew the comparison down to the present time and told the audience that the Democratic party was the party of the people, the party that has upheld the interests of the people, and the party that the people must look to for their rights.

Mr. MacDonald paid a glowing tribute to William Jennings Bryan. He said he was the most upright, the most courageous, and the most sincere man in American politics. He predicted the election of the Commoner and the return to the principles of true Democracy and government in the interests of the people.

At Winton, Saturday evening, John Dwan addressed another large and enthusiastic Democratic gathering. Mr. Dwan dealt with both national and state issues. He paid a tribute to both William Jennings Bryan and John A. Johnson; predicted the election of both of the exponents of Democracy, and reviewed the principles of true Democracy and the progress that Minnesota has achieved under four years of "the best executive the state ever had."

Mr. Dwan went into Johnson's record and the legislation that has been accomplished under his regime. He closed with an eulogy of the man Johnson, and predicted his election by a heavy plurality.

BRYAN KISSED AS WIFE SEES

Two Women Embrace Nominee in Waldorf-Astoria.

New York, Oct. 26.—When William J. Bryan entered the Astor gallery at a reception of the Women's Dramatic club at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, he was kissed by two women, in the presence of nearly 700 others, and narrowly escaped the embraces of a third.

Mrs. Bryan was present.

Mr. Bryan displayed some embarrassment.

TAFT IN STATE OF CONNECTICUT

Says Bryan Influenced Prosperity's Return by Being Beaten.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 26.—"The only way Mr. Bryan ever influenced the return of prosperity was being beaten. That is the way he has brought out prosperity every time, and I hope the same method will be continued."

This was William H. Taft's first message to Connecticut today delivered to a crowd which greeted his special train at Stamford on his way to New Haven. The crowd cheered and shouted assurance that the result desired would follow.

At South Norwalk, where another stop was made, the crowd was even larger and waited in the rain to get a glimpse of the candidate. He frankly told them that he had been informed that he was to be shot right through to New Haven as in a pneumatic tube, and this he admitted would have pleased him, as his voice, he feared, was not equal to the ten minute stops being made. Such a crowd, he added, was too tempting and he must talk.

The candidate had another opportunity to speak at Bridgeport, which he embraced briefly. When the Taft special arrived at New Haven, at half past twelve, the candidate was met at the station by an escort, which consisted of the Young Men's Republican club, the Taft club of Yale, which includes many of the student body of that university, and the Wide-awakes, an organization, which marched in Lincoln's campaign.

SENATOR SMITH VERY SANGUINE

Republican Senator Cannot See Anything But Taft in Election.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—"New York is safely Republican, I believe," said Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, who is in Houghton and Calumet today.

Senator Smith has been traveling through the eastern states with Taft. He says New Jersey safely reflects sentiment in New York and that Taft "will carry New Jersey by 50,000. He is doubtful regarding the situation in Indiana. He is certain Taft will make great gains over the ticket four years ago throughout the northwest. He says he is doubtful regarding the Warner-Hemans gubernatorial situation in Michigan, as he has not been around the state much. Michigan is given to Taft by 50,000 by the senator.

PETITION ANOTHER TRICK OF THE NEWS TRIBUNE

Many of Signatures Secured by Misrepresentation.

Signers Thought They Were Merely Opposing Tonnage Tax.

"In signing the article published in Sunday morning's News Tribune, did you understand that you were merely going on record against the proposed tax amendment and the tonnage tax, or did you understand that you were to be represented as vouching for Jacobson's friendship for St. Louis county and advocating his election?"

This question was put today by Herald reporters to a number of those citizens whose names were used by the morning paper yesterday in an article which apparently was a boost for Jacobson from all sides, but which as investigation showed, was merely a ruse worked by the News Tribune, faithful to its character of political charlatan, to cause a boom for the Republican gubernatorial candidate which bursts like a bubble when pricked.

Inquiry among many of the prominent citizens who signed the petition develops the fact that they affixed their signatures to the News Tribune's document thinking that they were merely announcing themselves as opposed to the tonnage tax and the tax amendment, as is almost every man, woman and child in the northern part of the state.

Investigation shows that the paper which was signed by these business and professional men was represented, to some of them at least, as being merely a stand against the tax amendment and the tonnage tax, and was signed by them as such. Nobody was more surprised than they when in Sunday morning's News Tribune they saw themselves represented as vouching for Jacobson and urging his candidacy. Some of these were indignant enough about it to come out and tell their real thoughts regarding it; others preferred to let it go as it is rather than become embroiled further in the political tangle in which the News Tribune, with characteristic trickery, has placed them. Still others, no doubt, signed as Republicans, and in fact admitted that that was the reason. A few are recognized as staunch partisans who would naturally be expected to append their names to a document supporting the Republican candidate. A number who prferred not to be quoted were surprised and indignant that their protest against hostile legislation had been tortured.

Some of them said that they really were not familiar enough with the situation to know that the Democratic and Republican platforms both indorsed the proposed wide open tax amendment.

Some of them were rather sheepish over the way the morning paper "took them in," but said that the damage was done, and thought the best way out of an embarrassing predicament was to let well enough alone and say nothing more about it.

"I did not pay much attention to that petition and merely signed it to show that I was opposed to a tonnage tax, and while I did not like the way the News Tribune treated the matter, I hate to 'welch' now," said one prominent citizen, who refused to have his name used.

"I certainly did not intend to indorse Jacobson for governor when I signed that petition," said Nate Gidding of the firm of J. M. Gidding & Co., this morning. "I did not read every word of the Tribune's document, but I thought is treated only the tonnage tax question without respect to either candidate. I am against the tonnage tax, but I am not going to vote for Jacobson."

Edward Mendenhall, of the Big Duluth Clothing company, said: "We are not in politics, never have been, and the morning paper seems bound to entangle us more or less in the general mixup each year. I asked the Tribune reporter if I had to read the lengthy article he handed to me, and he replied no. He asked me if I was directly opposed to the tonnage tax, and I answered yes. He said that the tax question was the only thing represented in the petition, and asked me, would I sign it, which I did. I had no idea the matter was to come out so broadly in the Sunday issue, else I shouldn't have signed it. Some time ago we got into the same kind of a difficulty when they used a schedule of names that had been used years ago on a proposition altogether different than the one used at the time. We are not in politics, I repeat."

From the statement of the signers this morning, there is no question but that the News-Tribune practiced a barefaced deception in securing the signatures. It was represented that the petition was merely declaring against a tonnage tax, and the signers, or some of them at least, did not know that their indorsement of a fight against the tonnage tax would be twisted and distorted into an indorsement of Jacobson. It is true that there were some on the list—out and out Republicans, and Jacobson men—who signed it with their eyes open, but the majority of them did not. It is in keeping with the campaign methods of the morning paper.

AN AMIABLE LION.

Was Not Much at Fighting, and Dog Whipped Him.

New York Evening World: It was in that same year," continued Uncle Billy, knocking the ashes out of his pipe on the soda cracker box, "that the state of Californy was so full of mount'in lions you couldn't go up an arroyo without stepping on the tail of at least one of them."

"Aw, no!" interrupted August, the clerk (Owgust, he was invariably called,) with an incredulous look at Uncle Billy.

"Aw, yes!" was the fierce retort, in a voice so loud that the windows rattled in their frames. "When I say yes, it's yes, and when I say no, it's no. Do you understand that, Dutchy?"

"No—er—yes," replied the clerk, extinguished as quickly as a candle flame when the snuffer is clapped down on it.

"There was so many mount'in lions that their eyes, shining through the darkness at night, reminded one of an illuminated city," continued Uncle Billy."

Owgust stirred uneasily on the artesian water barrel, but kept silence.

"Hard times had hit the beasts as well as humans," the narrator went on. "Them mountain lions were plum hungry. They were so hungry that their howls of distress were heartending, and after sundown, with your window open toward the mountains, you could hear their tails slap despairingly against the cliffs.

"One night there came to the back door of the shack where me and Ntiobe Smith were quartered the rangliest, boniest mount'in lion I ever clapped eyes on. My partner was frying bacon and the lion smelled it. He sat upon his haunches in the yard, the lion did, and sniffed once or twice. Then he walked forward and scratched on the door, looking through the mosquito nettin' with the saddest eyes I ever see. Standing there, he slowly rubbed his left paw where his waistband would have been if he had one, telling us as plain as day that he would be mighty thankful for a little filling.

"Smith was about to pass it some bacon when I held his hand. We didn't have overmuch bacon in the house, but we did have some cold oatmeal, and I set this out. That lion went through that oatmeal like water through a mill wheel, after which it sat up and begged for more. We had no more oatmeal handy, but I threw it a couple of slices of cantaloupe and some Dutch black bread (what do you call it, Owgust, pumpernickel?), and it was pleased. When it had eaten all I had to spare it began to purr and rub itself against the mosquito netting in the most friendly way.

"May I drop this pipe and break it if that lion left us for a minute after that. It curled right up by the back door and went to sleep. When morning came there it was in the same spot, with its head on its paws, one eye open, and watching the house as if to see that no harm came to us.

"We began to think of a name for him. Smith—his name was really Schmidt, being of German descent—objected when I suggested Gustave, and I certainly wouldn't stand for his calling the animal Kelly, after me. We nearly had a falling out over it, but finally settled that when we were both present it should be referred to as Max. When I was away Smith called it Kelly, and when he was not around I addressed it as 'Du Yustave.' Gustave Max Kelly Du Yustave counded too complicated; so we finally dropped everything but the 'Du,' which was short and simple.

"We taught Gustave how to meet the letter carrier and take the mail in; to take the milk pail out to the pasture in its teeth, and how to retrieve a rubber ball. It got to be quite handy around the house; but it was a long time before visitors grew used to it. Niobe and I at last gave up keeping it in the house any longer; so we built a little coop for it, like a chicken house, with a sliding door to go in and out of. Then we put a few tons of hay in one end of the yard for it to roll on, and generally tried to make life comfortable for it.

"We might have had Gustave yet had it not been for a sad accident. We had it out one day on the end of a rope when it ran into the parson's bulldog, and there was such a mixup as you never saw the like of. At the end of it Gustave was anything but an ornament. The picture he presented was shameful in the extreme, while the dog was not even scratched.

"Gustave was led home and locked in the coop. He looked out at us through the little hole with tears in his eyes, as if he knew he had been a great disappointment, and as we turned back toward the house with heavy hearts we left him sniffing.

Uncle Billy paused to refill his pipe.

"Gentlemen, after that the lion was, never the same. He was no longer light-hearted, but was subject to periods of deep mental and physical depression. He spent whole days in his coop pining away, and grew thinner than we had ever seen him. At last one night he crawled slowly into his coop, and when we came in the morning he was dead—dead of a broken heart."

There was a long, strained silence, while Uncle Billy brushed his eyes with his sleeve.

"What did you do with him then?" asked one at length.

"Noble Smith made him into a stew and we ate him," replied Billy gravely.

"Aw, no," said Owgust unbelievingly.

"Aw, yes," was Uncle Billy's angry retort and Owgust subsided as before.

LIKE HYPNOTISM.

Dr. Jonathan P. Haines of Cleveland was discussing the recent curious discovery that hard times produce a majority of male babies, and good times a majority of female ones.

"So it is among us," said Dr. Haines, "and among savages, where hard times are perennial, male babies always predominant.

"How do I account for it? I can't account for it. Nature must be in some way amenable to hypnotic suggestion."

Dr. Haines smiled.

Suggestion, hypnotic or otherwise, is a wonderful thing," he said. "On a roof garden, one hot afternoon, a man took one of the best seats, and said to the waiter:

"'Bring me a glass of beer, waiter, and something to read.'

"'Would you like to read the bill of fare, sir?' said the waiter.

"The man then gave a liberal order."

HAYES GETS LETTER.

President Acknowledges Receipt of the "Marathon Big Stick."

New York Oct. 26.—Acknowledgment of the receipt of the "Marathon big stick," a black thorn, which J. J. Hayes, winner of the recent Marathon race in England, sent to President Roosevelt, was received yesterday by Hayes in the shape of the following letter from the president:

"The White House, Washington, Oct. 24, 1908.

"My dear Mr. Hayes—I am very much pleased to receive your letter and the 'Big Stick.' Believe me, I prize it and shall always keep it. All good Americans sincerely rejoice at your victory. I felt that it reflected credit upon our people; and we were particularly glad that it should be won by a man who had been emphatically a good citizen, a man who had worked hard and done his duty and yet found time for the sport which is so excellent a help to work. Let me see you whenever you are in my neighborhood, and with all good wishes, believe me, sincerely yours,

Bicycle Record Broken.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 26.—F. L. Kramer, the champion bicycle rider, broke his own world's record for twenty-five miles, unpaced, in competition, at the Vailsburg track yesterday, riding the distance in 57:26 3-5. His previous record made in 1901, was 57:52 3-5. Kramer rode against a field of strong, experienced long distance cyclists and was superior to them at every point.

Frenchman Wins.

Paris, Oct. 26.—The Roosevelt prize for the three-mile running race on the flat at the racing track yesterday afternoon was won by Keyser, a French runner in 15 minutes and 16 seconds. Keyser also won the event in 1906.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

D. C. H. S. WINS FROM EAST

Zenith City Boys Play Minneapolis Off Their Feet.

Show Great Football Form; Every Man on Team a Star.

The Centrals have at last turned the trick, and no longer will Flour City football teams come to Duluth for a week end outing, a good time and a practice game.

It was a bitter awakening the boys from Minneapolis experienced after the first five minutes of play in their game with Duluth at Athletic park Saturday. Friday night it was just a bit too easy, and when any one asked them who was going to win, they just smiled. They go back to Minneapolis to spread the yarn that the Zenith City boys play a pretty fair article of football.

More than 1,000 people braved the miserable weather, and the yelling, wildly enthusiastic, and football crazy mob that attended was rewarded by seeing the prettiest football ever played by a Duluth team.

East Side Outclassed.

Minneapolis was outclassed from the very beginning. At first the rooters had an idea that the Flour City players were not getting into the game, and the captain slapped them all into line, telling them to get into the mix. It wasn't long before the stalwart little capain found out what was wrong, and from that time on Minneapolis had about as much show to win as Washington had to win the American league pennant.

Coach Colton must be given great credit for the way he has whipped the Duluth team into line the past week. With much of the best football material taken away from him, and with weaker men to take their places, he has certainly shown his ability to coach a football team, and slap them into championship shape in the least possible time. Duluth knew more about the game of football than Minneapolis knew there was to know. The interference was perfect; the line was with the exception of a few times, a stone wall; the passing was quick and accurate; the boys played low; they charged with all their might; they worked fast, hard, were in the game every minute, and they played together. Every man was a star in his position, and their double shift play besides working like a charm, was pretty football in the superlative.

Minneapolis Lost.

Minneapolis was lost, utterly lost, when the onslaught of the Centrals began. They couldn't fathom the plays, and they had no idea of where the ball was.

They played hard, consistent football all the time and put up the best fight they were capable of, but they were fighting a hopeless battle, and they realized it. They have no excuses; say the game was fair from start to finish, and are loud in their praises of the Duluth team, which they say, is the best in the state without any doubt.

Field in Bad Shape.

The field was dotted with miniature lakes, and the red mud was of the softest, most disagreeable kind. Play had not hardly commenced before every player was wet to the skin. When the players went down, the water in some places half a foot deep, would splash up as high as six feet in the air, and the spectators suivered for them.

Duluth has not won the championship of the state, however, as West Side defeated North Side Friday afternoon in Minneapolis by a decisive score. This leaves the championship between Central, West Side and Duluth. It is to be hoped, after winning the brilliant victory of Saturday, that the Duluth boys will keep to their training just as regularly as they did before, so as to be able to go the final step, and cinch the title to the state championshop. It is more or less a fault that the high school has never been quite able to overcome, that after one brilliant victory, they got the idea they need no more training, and then they slump. This year they have a team that is perfection itself, and here's hoping they stick to their training long enough to last out the season, and get a clear title to state honors.

The Game.

Duluth won the toss and chose to defend the east goal as a heavy northeast wind was blowing which Crawford figured would interfere with punts. The big captain kicked off to the Minneapolis 5-yard line. Niemo, the Minneapolis fullback, brought it back ten yards. Duluth held for two downs, and he kicked to Cummings in the center of the field who fumbled, and Minneapolis wsa penalized ten yards for off-side play. Cummings went around right end for ten yards, and Duluth was penalized fifteen, after which Cummings took the ball twenty yards in Minneapolis territory. Bowen made fifteen through tackle, and on the next play he made twenty through guard for a touchdown. Crawford missed the goal. It was here that the Duluth rooters went crazy, and it took three policemen and about fifty school officials to keep them from running on the field.

Crawford again showed his ability to boot the pigskin, and it went sailing to East's 2-yard line. They couldn't do anything to the Duluth line, and after a costly fumble Cook fell on the ball. With the ball on the Minneapolis 25-yard line, Niemo dropped back for a kick, which was blocked, and after a series of line plunges, and short end runs, Bowen went through tackle for thirty yards and another touchdown. Cook kicked out to Cummings but the ball went wide. Score: Duluth, 10; Minneapolis, 0.

Drop Kick Failed.

Again Crawford kicked to Minneapolis' 2-yard line, and after a series of poor plays on both sides, Crawford attempted a drop kick from the 25-yard line, which went wild. Minneapolis kicked to Duluth's 20-yard line, and after a series of line plunges the ball was in the middle of the field. It was here that Niemo, one of the Minneapolis star players, sustained an injury to his neck, and had to leave the game. After three line plunges netting about twenty yards, Cook went through center for thirty yards and a touchdown. Crawford kicked goal. Score: Duluth, 16; Minneapolis, 0.

After getting the ball after the kickoff on their own 25-yard line, East Side punted to Boyle in Duluth's territory. It was here that Cummings, aided by perfect interference, ran the ball seventy-five yards for a touchdown. He was called back, however, as it was claimed that Duluth's ends held. Bowen made twenty-five, and Boyle went thirty-five yards for another touchdown. Crawford kicked goal. Score: Duluth, 22; Minneapolis, 0.

Cummings' Long Run.

Cummings got busy directly after Minneapolis had been held for downs, and it was here aided by perfect interference, he made his brilliant run of ninety yards for the final score made during the game. Crawford kicked the goal, and the score was: Duluth, 28; Minneapolis, 0.

Second Half Cut.

Time was called, and a conference was held, and as the Mill city boys were all in, and discouraged beyond words Duluth agreed to cut the time in the second half to ten minutes. After working the ball down the entire field to the Minneapolis 5-yard line, time was called, and the game ended with the above mentioned score.

Now, will the knockers be silent?

Duluth went out to Athletic Park Saturday afternoon, wallowed in the mud for the glory of the school, and won. Won in capital letters. Not a little win, but the biggest kind of a victory over the team that was cracked as the best in the state. They did their work well. The Mill City team was not in the game a minute, and they realized it after the first few downs.

Duluth "had it on 'em," and, wet field or dry, the result would have been the same. Had the teams played under more favorable circumstances, the score would have been at least 50 to nothing. East Side would have been buried under the big end of a one-sided score so deep that it would have been hard to tell the folks at home how it happened.

Duluth deserves its victory. The boys have worked hard. They have had the services of a good coach, and they have followed his instructions. The Duluth team as it stands is the best, without doubt, ever turned out by the Duluth institution of learning.

Everybody is proud of them, and their showing made so far this year. They have everything to be desired; weight, speed, a strong line, a brilliant quarterback, a fast pair of ends, the best backfield in the state, and the spirit that goes to make up a successful football eleven.

In the language of the streets, "the team is there, and you've got to give it to them."

WHITEHEAD WILL MEET JOHNSON

Range Fight Fans Will See Swift Mix Thursday Evening.

Walter Whitehead and Chicago Jack Johnson will meet on the range next Thursday evening.

The fact that these two men have been matched, and the bout is to come off at an early date is extremely pleasing to the fight loving fans of the range towns. Both men are big and fast. They both are confident of winning, and a fast mix is assured.

Johnson is one of the topnotchers of the country, having met some of the fastest boxers in the business, and made good. While Whitehead has not had the advantage of as much experience as has Johnson, the big negro says he will put Johnson away.

BLAINE WILL PLAY DEWEYITES

Time of Their Meeting Will be Arranged This Week.

Blaine and Nelson Dewey will meet on the gridiron this year.

Principal Lynch of the Blaine, and Principal Shong of the Dewey institution will meet some time this week to talk the matter over, and it is likely that the two teams will agree on a date satisfactory to both schools.

Principal Lynch said Sunday that he was very much opposed to a meeting of the two schools at football for the reason that the feeling is so bitter that he is afraid of personal difficulties arising between the individual members of the respective teams. He also said, however, that as the Blaine students were anxious for the meeting, and the team anxious to play the boys from the East end that he would not stand in the way, but would do all he could to help the contest along.

From present indications the meeting will be some time early in November.

Oliver Game Postponed.

The game between the Spaldings and the Olivers of Hibbing which was to have been played Sunday afternoon at Athletic park, was postponed until Nov. 8.

Manager Lavell of the Spalding team in answer to a challange from the Grand Rapids team, says that he is willing to play the team from up state on Nov. 15, all the dates up to that time being filled.

BADLY BATTERED, BUT LEADS MEN TO FRAY

CAPT. HALLENBACK OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Although suffering from injuries received on the gridiron, the head of the Pennsy eleven refused to abstain from Saturday's battle with the midshipmen at Annapolis, and was in the thick of many of the hottest plays.

ELI AGAIN TO FRONT

Yale Seems to Have Strong Team This Year.

All Teams Are Holding Back for Big Games.

New York, Oct. 26.—Secrecy is the order of the day among the big college football teams. Before the middle of November Yale is going to have another great team. They didn't play football at West Point because they didn't have to. When the blue warriors went to battle with the army they saw the familiar faces of Capt. Eddie Dillon of Princeton and Coach Roper and the features of a few other well-known enemies of Yale in the crowd. These experts were at West Point to see what Yale had to offer in the way of new fall styles. They saw nothing more than anyone might have seen ten years ago, before the forward pass and the onside kick was ever heard of.

Yale played straight old-fashioned football and managed to score the only touchdown that was desired in that manner. The Army played as if they didn't dare attempt to score. The cadets were perfectly satisfied to boot the ball into Yale territory and play the game safe. They were fighting for a no-score game.

In the second half the commissioners from the other colleges saw that Yale had some of the strongest lines that old Eli has ever turned out. They saw that Coy was a good kicker, but not always accurate. They saw that Biddle, the center rush, was a very bad passer. He caused Coy to bungle up a kick on several occasions because he passed the ball high above the bulldog's head. They saw that the bulldog was endowed with the same old grit, and that when the chance was offered for a touchdown the backs were strong enough to carry it through.

Yale Hard to Beat.

All of the big teams are going to have trouble beating Yale this season. It looks like the same old story. With Capt. Burch and other stars out, the machine worked almost as well. Not once during the entire game did West Point succeed in making a first down. In kicking, Dean proved to be the best man that the army has had for years, but the entire team depended upon him to keep the ball out of danger.

In Kilpatrick, Yale has developed another Tom Shevlin.

Murphy, the new quarterback, has much to learn. He does everything neatly, but he seems to be lacking in that peculiar quality which marks a man as a natural player. Tad Jones and Eddie Dillon of Princeton are natural players. Murphy made few mistakes, however, and got his signals off without a hitch.

Nadel is another good man at end. He is very fast and an excellent tackler. He gets into every play. Andrus is a stone wall in the line, and the army backs soon found that that it was futile to try to run a play through his position.

Biddle is far from a good center, but he may develop in the next two weeks. His passes were bad, and frequently he caused Coy to make bad kicks by giving him the ball in an awkward position.

The Yale backs—Philbin, Brides and Coy—are all topnotchers. Wheaton, the substitute, is just as good as Philbin, and he will probably be used in many of the games. The development of Brides as a back shows what the Yale coaches can do with a man. Last year he was a line man, but when brought back he proved just as good as a halfback.

The Tigers.

Princeton, in its game with Virginia Polytechnic, failed to include the features of the new game to any extent in their attack, and it is evident that Coach Roper is holding his charges in check for the Dartmouth and Yale contests. Persons who figure the tigers to be a mediocre combination this season will doubtless be surprised when these later games are played as the Princeton eleven has not shown its real form a single time this season.

Harvard played brilliantly against Springfield Training school. Coach Haughton's charges did about as they pleased with the Y. M. C. A. combination, an entire eleven substitutes being played in the second half. Corbett demonstrated his right to the title of the season's find by his shifty open field dashes and his effective defense work. Nourse again showed that he possessed that necessary quality of a good center—following the ball—by recovering the pigskin twice in kicks and once on an intercepted forward pass. Nourse's work has been very satisfactory to the coaches during the last few weeks, and an able successor to Grant, last year's star pivot, has evidently been found. Cutter drove the big crimson eleven with his usual versatility and speed, the men being kept on the jump continually while he ran the eleven. White's line breaking was consistent and effective, and his defensive work was also promising.

A Crimson Star.

As usual, Capt. Burr was the bright spot of the crimson line, the big leader being a power in his position and outdistancing his rival at every exchange of kicks. The Harvard linemen had their opponents in hand at all stages of the game, and charged more uniformly than at any time previous this season. The many plays obtainable from Harvard's noted tandem formation were selected with rare discrimination by Cutter, and a bewildering attack was maintained on the Springfield men. Coach Haughton's eleven appears to be going along just now as smoothly, if not smoother, than any of the big five, and the prospects for a successful season at Cambridge are more rosy than they have been in years.

The much-heralded Brown eleven proved a bitter disappointment in their game against Pennsylvania and failed to exhibit the fast style of football that they had been credited with. It was the red and blue in a walk.

Cornell's exhibition against the strong Colgate eleven was anything but satisfactory to Coach Larkin and his associates. Fumbling, one of Cornell's chief faults of this season, was again noticeable in the Ithacan's play, careless handling of the ball being a feature of the game. Capt. Walder's men, however, disclosed a strong offense in the first half, and the big backs ripped up the Colgate line for many substantial gains. The situation is considered desperate at Cornell, and the men will doubtless be driven from now on to the limit of their physical capabilities in an effort to make a creditable showing in the coming big games.

Hummers Win.

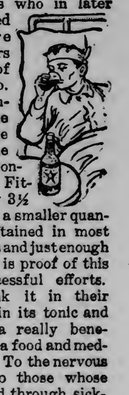

The Junior Hummers defeated the Junior Longfellows Sunday afternoon by a score of 6 to 0. The field was in bad shape and fast play was impossible. The Hummers will meet the Invincibles on the West end grounds next Sunday.

A TEMPERANCE BEER

The Commendable Achievement of a Duluth Brewery.

FOR centuries, beer has been a standard beverage with the best classes of all civilized nations. In this country particularly it has been favored by many of our greatest men including William Penn, Samuel Adams, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison and thousands who in later years have distinguished themselves. For more than twenty-five years it has been the aim of the Fitger Brewing Co. to create a beer containing all the virtues of the old time brew, and at the same time decrease the percentage of alcohol contained. The fact that Fitger's Beer contains only 3½ per cent alcohol, a smaller quantity than is contained in most patent medicines and just enough to aid digestion, is proof of this company's successful efforts. Thousands drink it in their homes and find in its tonic and food qualities a really beneficial beverage—a food and medicine combined. To the nervous and weak or to those whose tissues have been wasted through sickness it affords the proper elements to build up and strengthen the system as well as give delicious refreshment.

Try it in your home.

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS said:—

"Forget not the rights of personal freedom Seek not to enforce upon your brother, by legislative enactment, that virtue which he can possess only by the energy of his own will."

MEETING OF THE BALL FANS

The postponed meetings of the fans interested in Duluth's baseball future, which was to have been held Saturday night, will take place tonight in the offices of A. W. Kuenow in the Torrey building.

The new six-club league, to include Minneapolis and St. Paul, will be thoroughly discussed, and representatives will be selected to attend the meeting of the national baseball commission to be held in Chicago on Nov. 9.

There are many conflicting views concerning baseball in Duluth, and Mr. Kuehnow wants all those who have suggestions to make, to attend the meeting and make them. His object in holding a meeting at this time is to find out just what the fans want. A manager for next year will be chosen.

There are many good men after the playing-manager's job, and they will be presented to the meeting, for its pleasure.

SHOULDER STILL LAME.

The wrestling match which had been arranged between Emil Peterson, heavyweight champion of the Head of the Lakes, for early in November, will be postponed because of injuries sustained by Peterson in his match with John Albrech of Minneapolis, at Eveleth last week.

The champion strained a ligament in his right shoulder, and the injured member has been in such bad shap that he fears he will be unable to wrestle for at least two weeks.

He expects to commence light training this week, and will be in good shape by the time the match comes off. He says that Albrech would have been easy for him had the accident not happened.

S. S. S. FOR BAD BLOOD

When bad blood is caused from an infection of the circulation by the virus of Contagious Blood Poison, it usually shows in the form of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored splotches on the body, swollen glands in the groin, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc. These general symptoms, affecting all parts of the body, show how deeply poisoned the blood becomes, and emphasizes the dangerous character of the trouble. If allowed to remain in the system the disease will finally wreck the health and break down the strongest constitution. No medicine can cure Contagious Blood Poison which does not rid the circulation of every particle of the virus. S. S. S. is the one real and certain cure; it goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, and by removing every trace of the poison, and adding rich, healthful qualities to the blood, forever cures this powerful disorder. S. S. S. is the most reliable of all blood purifiers, and its concentrated ingredients of healthful vegetable extracts and juices especially adapt it to curing this insidious trouble. Write for our home treatment book, which is a valuable aid in the treatment of the different stages of the disease, and ask for any medical advice you wish. No charge for either.

ROOSEVELT DEFENDS TAFT'S LABOR RECORD

GRACE'S LETTER TO THE PRESIDENT

Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Binghamton, N. Y., Oct. 10, 1908.
Theodore Roosevelt, President oof the United States, Washington, D. C.:

Dear Sir—The questions involved in the approaching election must affect the railway employes. On one side the papers and speeches assert that Mr. Taft is the father of injunctions in labor disputes and the enemy of the working man. On the other side it is declared that Mr. Taft has recognized the right of labor and has in fact been and now is friendly to the best interests of organized labor. We are not all clear in our minds as to just what to believe and as to just how to act.

We all have great confidence in you. I am a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, being the financier of Parlor City Lodge No. 30, of Binghamton and in behalf of myself and many of my associate employes I wish to respectfully ask that if you are willing to do so, you give us your views as to how we can best serve our own interests in this connection and why. I trust that this is not an improper request and I hope you can see your way clear to comply with it.

Yours respectfully, P. H. GRACE.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Replying to a letter from P. H. Grace of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, President Roosevelt says:

I thank you for your letter. I need hardly say that I take a particular interest in the men who work for the railroads in this country, and I prize as one of the honors of which I am most proud that I am an honorary member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen.

Throughout my whole term as president, now in its eighth year, I have devoted myself with especial interest to the questions affecting labor. The lasting prosperity of our country rests upon the welfare of the wage worker and the welfare of the tiller of the soil.

No consideration of party feeling or personal friendship would induce me to advise either farmer or working man to do anything that was not for his permanent benefit. With that fact keenly before me, I earnestly advise all working men, but above all as American citizens concerned in the honor and the prosperity of this great free republic, to support Mr. Taft for president; just as I advise all farmers, business men, and men of profession.

I do not believe the wage workers of this country ever had a better friend in the White House than Mr. Taft will prove to be. He has already shown his faith by his deeds. In the matter of the injunctions he issued he was absolutely right, and the principles he laid down in those injunctions have since been accepted by every worthy leader of labor and they are embodied in the principles and practices of all the railroad brotherhoods at the present day.

While on the bench Mr. Taft rendered a service to labor so great that it can hardly be overestimated. This was in the Narramore case against the C., C., C. & St. L. railroad. The plaintiff, while working in the employ of the company had been hurt because the company had not provided the protection which the statute required it to furnish its employes. He got a verdict from the jury. The railroad appealed, and its counsel, Mr. Judson Harmon, argued that the verdict should be set aside because the employe had kept at work, although he knew the railroad had violated the law, and that therefore he had really contracted to take all the chances of being hurt.

This conclusion, to my mind a cruelly iniquitous conclusion, had up to that time been sustained by most of the courts, including the New York state court of appeals. Nevertheless Judge Taft refused to follow the New York state case, stating that the manifest legislative purpose was to protect the employe by positive law, for the very reason that it had proved impossible for him to protect himself by contract and that the entire purpose of the law would be defeated if the employe was allowed by any form of contract to exempt the railroad company from the consequences of its failure to observe the law.

This case has been cited all over the United States by counsel for workmen injured through the failure of their employers to furnish the protection required by the statute for their safety. Judge Taft's decision was that when a law is made applying to a dangerous business, in which 4,000 men are killed and 65,000 men are injured every year, the intention is that the railroads shall obey the law and that it shall not be nullified by judicial construction. Very many judges, unfortunately, failed to follow this reasoning, but other judges, and the law-making bodies as well, have followed it and this great decision marks one of the longest strides taken in the effort to secure for wage workers full protection against and full compensation for injuries received by them in the line of their duty.

Furthermore, I ask you to consider what Mr. Taft has actually done as an aministrator. The Panama canal has come specifically under the direction and control of Mr. Taft, as secretary of war. He has taken a peculiar interest in the men who are digging that canal. He has made it his business to see that their interests are in every way protected; that they have ample reward; that they are well housed, well fed, and so far as in his power lies, that they receive compensation for injuries incurred in the line of their duty.

A special committee, which I appointed to look into the conditions of labor on the isthmus, which included upon it Mr. Samuel B. Donnelly, a labor representative, formerly president of the International Typographical union, has reported to me in effect that Uncle Sam has shown himself to be a model employer on the isthmus, so that, thanks to Mr. Taft, and the care and supervision which he has exercised, the men who work for the government on the isthmus are on the whole better paid, better protected, better cared for than in anp private industrial enterprise in the United States.

As opposed to the entire vagueness of Mr. Bryan's proposals, Mr. Taft stands pledged to continue the definite and constructive program of social reorganization outlined and already entered upon by the present administration, which has never hesitated in specific cases of sufficient importance to interfere for the purpose of securing an adjustment of labor troubles, at the same time conserving the rights of the wage earner.

Mr. Taft's election should be advocated by all who believe in making a far reaching effort toward the betterment in our scheme of social and industrial life. It should also be advocated by all who wish an immediate advance in these social and industrial conditions.

If Mr. Taft is not elected, a period of industrial chaos and business bad times will ensue in which the working men will suffer far more than any other class. They are the people who, more than any other, will pay the penalty. Because of their own material interests I believe that they should support him because he has by his actions over and over again proved himself to be a singularly fearless and effective champion of the rights of labor; and, above all, I feel that they should support him as good American citizens, because he embodies what is best and highest in our American citizenship.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

To Make South Shore Road Its Great Commercial Highway.

Shortest Line Between New England and Western Points.

New York, Oct. 26.—The railroad column of the American says: "Readers of this column have repeatedly asked for information about the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic. There is little or no information to be had except what can be gleaned from a map and from the report of the Canadian Pacific. The Canadian Pacific holds in its treasury 60 per cent of the bonds and 60 per cent of the stock of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic. The Canadian Pacific is not buying or advancing money on dead ones. A great empire is developing in the Canadian Northwest. There are 200,000,000 acres of the finest wheat and cattle lands awaiting settlers.

"The Canadian Northwest is being gridironed with railroads. There is one now projected from Duluth to Dawson City. There are four tracks running from Winnipeg to Lake Superior—the Canadian Northern, the double-track Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk Pacific, now building. But there is only a single-track Canadian railroad between Port Arthur, on Western Lake Superior, and Toronto and Montreal. This is the Canadian Pacific line along the north shore of Lake Superior. The Grand Trunk Pacific is building a line from Winnipeg to Quebec, but that won't be finished for probably ten years, and when it is done it will be hundreds of miles north of the great currents of commerce.

A Shorter Line.

"The Canadian Pacific has now to use the 'Soo' for its overflow traffic between the Canadian Northwest and Ontario and Quebec, and the overflow has become so great that it must doubletrack its line around the north shore of Lake Superior or run around the south shore of the lake, and thus utilize the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic. The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic has far superior grades to the Canadian Pacific. It is a shorter line, 500 miles shorter than the road along the north shore. The fuel bills alone would be less than those on the north shore by $150,000 a year. It is, therefore, patent that the Canadian Pacific will make the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic its great commercial highway between the West and East.

"The 'Soo' line runs south from Moose Jaw to Portal, and in North Dakota switches off and has a branch paralleling the Great Northern toward the Duluth. This branch, when completed to Duluth, will give the Canadian Pacific the shortest route to Spokane and Portland, Or., from any point in New England, or even from New York. In addition to this, the 'Soo' is building another branch from the West to Duluth, and the Canadian Northern has also a Duluth branch nearly completed from the Canadian Northwest.

"The shortest and easiest lines of travel from any points of New England to any points on the Missouri west of Duluth will lie over the Canadian Pacific and the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic when its connections are completed on the west. Those who buy this stock for mere speculation will probably be disappointed. Those who buy it now and stow it away and forget it will wake up some morning and find Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic selling at five or ten times what they paid for it."

AGED MAN CREMATED.

Old Resident of Trail County, N. D., Lost With House.

Hillsboro, N. D., Oct. 26.—The farm house of Arne Evanson and his sister, in Norway township, burned Friday night, and the former lost his life. He was feeble-minded and about 66 years of age. He called to his sister, stating that he smelled smoke. She investigated and found the kitchen to be on fire. She hastened to her brother's room to let him out, but he became confused or frightened and refused to leave the house. Frantic with fear she hurried to a neighbor's residence for help, but when they returned Evanson was dead.

The victim had lived in Traill county for thirty-three years.

HEARST NOW MIXES EX-GOVERNOR STONE AND JUDGES WITH OIL

JUDGES HASTEN TO DENY HAVING OIL TRUST TAINT

Pittsburg, Oct. 26.—Justice John H. Elkin of the Pennsylvania supreme court, whose name was introduced by William R. Hearst in the alleged Standard Oil correspondence, read by the editor at a meeting in New York, denied he ever had received money for improper purposes from John D. Archbold or ever had attempted to influence legislation in behalf of the Standard Oil company. Justice Elkin came were today from his home in Indiana, Pa., to resume his work with the supreme court, which is in session here.

Justice Elkin said that since reading the correspondence he had not had an opportunity of going ovr his files and other data to determine whether the facts stated in the rehbold correspondence were correct.

"You may say for me, however," he added, "that I never received from Archbold, directly or indirectly, money for any improper purpose. Neither have I ever made may attempt to influence legislation in the interests of the Standard Oil company."

Ex-Governor William A. Stone, whom Hearst charged with being influenced by Standard Oil officials in the appointment of judges, made this statement last night:

"The drafts sent to Mr. Elkin, if sent to him, were sent while he was either chairman of the state Republican committee or a member of the finance committee. It was not improper for him to receive contributions for campaign purposes."

Judges J. J. Henderson of Meadville and T. A. Morrison of Smithsport of the superior court of Pennsylvania, denied any knowledge of the letters purporting to have been written by John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company to Governor Stone.

New York, Oct. 26.—William Randolph Hearst has sprung some more sensational oil trust letters affecting politicians, and whether they were stolen from Rockefeller's octopus by a negro or not, they prove mighty interesting. Hearst read them at Saturday night's Independence party rally at Carnegie hall. They follow:

26 Broadway, Dec. 5, 1902.—William A. Stone, governor, Harrisburg, Pa.—My Dear Governor: I am sure you will pardon any seeming presumption on my part in writing you on a subject in which, both personally and on behalf of my company, I am greatly interested. It is to urge the appointment, if at all consistent, of Judge Morrison of McKeen to the supreme bench, vice Mitchell, deceased. Judge Morrison's character for ability and integrity needs no word at my hands, but aside from these great considerations, his familiarity with all the questions in the great industries of oil and gas in the important relations they bear to the interests of the western part of the state makes him especially desirable as a member of the court from that section. Hoping that it may prove possible for you to favorably consider Judge Morrison's appointment, I am, with very high regard, sincerely yours,

JOHN D. ARCHBOLD.

Another to Stone.

26 Broadway, Sept. 5, 1900.—William A. Stone, Harrisburg, Pa.—My Dear Governor: Will you permit me to say that if it seems consistent for you to appoint John Menderson of Meadville, Pa., to the vacancy on the supreme bench caused by the death of Judge Green, it will be a matter of intense personal satisfaction to me. I am sure I need not occupy your time with any argument as to Judge Henderson's fitness, either as to character or legal qualifications. With high regard, I am, very truly yours,

JOHN D. ARCHBOLD.

This One to Elkin.

26 Broadway, Sept. 28, 1899. (Personal).—Hon. John P. Elkin, Attorney General, Harrisburg, Pa.—My Dear Mr. Elkin: Responding to your favor of Sept. 25, it gives me pleasure to inclose you herewith letter of introduction from William Rockefeller to J. W. Weaver to H. McKay Twombley. We hope the letter will be of service. Very truly yours,

JOHN D. ARCHBOLD.

Telegram to Elkin.

March 15, 1900.—John P. Elkin, Indiana, Pa.: Telegram received. Will do as requested.

JOHN D. ARCHBOLD.

Certificate of Deposit.

26 Broadway, March 25, 1900.—John P. Elkin, Indiana, Pa. (Personal)—My Dear General: In accordance with your telegraphic request of today, I beg to inclose you certificate of deposit to your favor for $5,000 in fulfilment of our understanding. Very truly yours,

JOHN D. ARCHBOLD.

Another Certificate.

26 Broadway, Feb. 5, 1900.—My Dear General: In accordance with the request in your telegram, I now beg to inclose you certificate of deposit to your favor for $10,000, kind acknowledgment of which will oblige. Yours very truly,

JOHN D. ARCHBOLD.

To Kill Amendment.

26 Broadway, May 19, 1901.—My Dear General: I inclose copy of measure pending. I am not sure whether in the house or in senate. Being an act to amend an existing statute, as stated, For reasons which seem to us potent, we would greatly like to have this proposed amendment killed. Won't you kindly tell me about it and advise me what you think the chances are? Yours very truly,

JOHN D. ARCHBOLD.

Hearst's Spetech.

In his speech Mr. Hearst said:

"My friends: The Standard Oil company has been largely instrumental in deciding every national election for the past twenty years.

"Mr. Cleveland was supported through such of its important representatives as the Paynes, William C. Whitney and Calvin S. Brice. The servile Sibley showed his doglike devotion to the company by becoming a Democrat in that campaign.

"After the Cleveland regime, the Standard Oil company affiliated with Mr. Hanna and contributed liberally to his political needs.

"When Mr. Hanna died, the Standard Oil people regarded Mr. Roosevelt with considerable disgust and dismay. Their political spy in the lower house, Mr. Sibley, wrote them frequent letters informing them of Mr. Roosevelt's every action and attitude. Mr. Sibley related, as I have read, how valiantly he had told Mr. Roosevelt that no president could afford to antagonize the Standard Oil company or depend merely upon the approval of the rabble.

Roosevelt Alarms Spies.

"Their senatorial spy, Mr. McLaurin, then wrote the company the appalling news that in spite of Mr. Sibley's kind advice, Mr. Roosevelt had threatened to take a fall out of that Standard Oil gang.

"This was not only lese majeste but blasphemy and amid much consternation the Sibleys and McLaurins, the Baileys and Forakers and others of the high priests of the Standard Oil were summoned to No. 26 Broadway for consultation.

"Then the climax came. The administration prosecuted the Standard Oil and a court imposed a fine upon them of $29,000,000. The Standard Oil company there upon went over into the Democratic party promptly and unanimously. They found an old political and business associate in Calvin S. Haskell—and they made him chairman of the Democratic committee on platform, and then treasurer of the Democratic campaign fund.

Now Work Through Haskell.

"Haskell was saturated with kerosene from head to foot. It was not safe to light a match in his vicinity, and when I inadvertently lit one, the gentleman gave an excellent imitation of a blazing rat scampering for the nearest sewer.

"I have struck oil and ignited natural gas in the persons of Senator Foraker, Senator Bailey, Senator McLaurin, Mr. Sibley and Mr. Haskill. I have not done this merely to see them burn, but to light up the political landscape for the people's guidance and the public good. I have considered it my solemn duty to give the citizens of this nation the information I possessed.

"My disclosures are about at an end, but I have an important batch of letters tonight bearing upon a matter close to the heart of all good citizens.

Defies Standard Threats.

"Before reading these letters, I am going to ask my friends in the audience to extend to me a fond farewell. Information has been delicately conveyed to me that if I stop reading letters right now, all will be forgiven, but if I make another damaging disclosure, the whole power of the Standard Oil company will be exercised against me.

"I say farewell to my friends, therefore, because I am going to read the letters. In the first place, I do not like being bluffed. In the second place, I think I am doing a citizen's duty. In the third place, there are a great many matters on the Standard Oil company's books which ought to be brought to light, and I am in hopes that a good, hard fight will bring them to light and will send some of the corrupters of our government to jail."

Had a Close Call.

Mrs. Adda L. Croom, the widely known proprietor of the Croom Hotel, Vaughn, Miss., says: "For several months I suffered with a severe cough, and consumption seemed to have its grip on me, when a friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery. I began taking it, and three bottles effected a complete cure." The fame of this life saving cough and cold remedy, and lung and throat healer is world wide. Sold at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

CANADA LIBERAL PARTY AS VICTOR

Indications Are It Today Renewed Hold Upon Government.

Ottawa, Can., Oct. 26.—Canada is today electing a new parliament. At present the Liberal party, led by Sir Wilfred Laurier, holds control of the government, as it has done for twelve years and nothing has developed during the five weeks' campaign just closed to indicate to the impartial observer that a change is imminent. Most authorities, however, agree that the Liberals will be shorn of some of their strength should they again be returned to power.

There have been notable features in the campaign. Sir Wilfred Laurier made his appeal to the electors to be enabled to complete the work begun under his administration, most notably the building of the national trans-continental railway. He appealed for a renewal of confidence on the ground that his government has given to Canada twelve years of unexampled prosperity, has turned the tide of immigration to this country, has promoted the unity of races in the Dominion and given Canada a new status not only in the empire, but among the nations of the world. The Liberals have stuck closely to the issue thus outlined by their leaders.

L. Borden, the leader of the opposition forces, and his party, have made their fight almost wholly on a question of electoral purity and aministration reform. They have presented to the electors a large number of scandals, ranging from the spoliation of the government domain for the enrichment of friends of the government, down to the acceptance of petty bribes from contractors on public works by government officials.

Premier Laurier has denied the scandals, declaring them too trivial to merit his attention. He has confined himself to a discussion of Canada's growth and development, and its future.

POSTMASTER AT RICE, BENTON COUNTY, CALLED.

Rice, Minn., Oct. 26.—Frank Flint died Friday while sitting in his chair in the postoffice. He was the postmaster here, one of the early pioneers of the state, a prominent G. A. R. man and a well known Mason. He was 64 years old. A year ago he sustained a bad attack, but seemingly recovered his health. He leaves a wife and a large family of grown up sons and daughters. His two youngest children are attending school at St. Cloud.

Dish Cloths.

The careful housekeeper has a drawer in the kitchen, well stocked with dish cloths of various sizes and textures. Cheese cloth, unbleached cotton and heavy linen crash make the most satisfactory ones while pot rings are much in favor for greasy kitchen utensils. To keep dish cloths perfectly clean, soak for ten or twenty minutes each time after the dishes are washed in lukewarm water to which has been added a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder, then scald, rinse and hang in the sunshine or fresh air to dry.

Proposed Amendments —TO THE— Constitution —OF— Minnesota —BY— The Legislature General Session, 1907.

St. Paul, Minn., May 1st, 1908.

Hon. Julius A. Schmahl, Secretary of State—

Sir: As required by Section 25 of the Revised Laws, as amended, I have the honor to furnish you herewith a statement of the purposes and effects of the respective amendments proposed to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota by the Legislature of 1907, and which are to be submitted to the electors of said State at the General Eleotion of 1908.

FIRST PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

The first proposed amendment is contained in Chapter 477 of the Laws of 1907. By this amendment it is sought to repeal Sections one (1), two (2), three (3), four (4) and seventeen (17) of Article nine (9) of the Constitution (the latter section being the amendment to said Article nine (9), adopted in 1896), which sections now read as follows:

"Section 1. All taxes to be raised in this state shall be as nearly equal as may be, and all property on which taxes are to be levied shall have a cash valuation and be equalized and uniform throughout the state: Provided, that the legislature may, by general law or special act, authorize municipal corporations to levy assessments for local improvements upon the property fronting upon such improvements, or upon the property to be benefited by such improvements, or both, without regard to cash valuation, and in such manner as the legislature may prescribe; and provided further, that for the purpose of defraying the expenses of laying water pipes and supplying any city or municipality with water the legislature may, by general or special law, authorize any such city or municipality, having a population of five thousand or more, to levy an annual tax or assessment upon the lineal foot of all lands fronting on any water main or water pipe laid by such city or municipality within corporate limits of said city for supplying water to the citizens thereof without regard to the cash value of such property, and to empower such city to collect any such tax, assessments or fines, or penalties for failure to pay the same, or any fine or penalty for any violation of the rules of such city or municipality in regard to the use of water, or for any water rate due for the same; and provided further, that there may be by law levied and collected a tax upon all inheritances, devises, bequests, legacies and gifts of every kind and description above a fixed and specified sum, of any and all natural persons and corporations. Such tax above such exempted sum may be uniform or it may be graded or progressive, but shall not exceed a maximum tax of five per cent.

"Section 2. The legislature shall provide for an annual tax sufficient to defray the estimated ordinary expenses of the state for each year, and whenever it shall happen that such ordinary expenses of the state for any year shall exceed the income of the state for such year the legislature shall provide for levying a tax for the ensuing year sufficient, with other sources of income, to pay the deficiency of the preceding year, together with the estimated expenses of such ensuing year. But no law levying a tax or making other provisions for the payment of interest or principal of bonds denominated 'Minnesota State Railroad Bonds,' shall take effect or be in force until such law shall have been submitted to a vote of the people of the state, and adopted by a majority of the electors of the state voting upon the same.

"Section 3. Laws shall be passed taxing all moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint stock companies, or otherwise, also all real and personal property, according to its true value in money; but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property used for religious purposes, and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, and personal property to an amount not exceeding in value two hundred dollars for each individual, shall, by general laws, be exempt from taxation.

"Section 4. Laws shall be passed for taxing the notes and bills discounted or purchased, moneys loaned, and all other property, effects, or dues of every description, of all banks and of all bankers, so that all property employed in banking shall always be subject to a taxation equal to that imposed on the property of individuals.

"Section 17. The legislature may impose, or provide for the imposition of, upon the property within this state of any and all owners or operators, whether corporate or individual, or otherwise, of any and all sleeping, parlor and drawing room cars, or any or either of the same, which run in, into or through this state; also upon the property within this state of any and all telegraph and telephone companies, or owners, whose lines are in, or run in, into or through this state; also upon the property within this state of all express companies, or owners, or any or either of the same, doing business in this state; also upon the property within this state of all domestic insurance companies of this state of any kind; also upon the property within this state of any and all foreign insurance companies doing business in this state of any kind; also upon the property within this state of all owners or operators of any and all mines or of mineral ores situated in this state; also upon the property within this state of all boom companies or owners, and of all ship builders or owners doing business in this state or having a port therein (provided, that this act shall not apply to property owned by railroad companies, their lands and other property); and upon the property of either or any of such companies or owners—a tax as uniform as reasonably may be with the taxes imposed upon similar property in said state, or upon the earnings thereof within this state, but may be graded or progressive, or both, and in providing for such tax, or in providing for ascertaining the just and true value of such property, it shall be competent for the legislature in either or all such cases, to impose such tax upon any or all property thereof within this state, and in either case by taking as the basis of such imposition the proportionate business, earnings, mileage or quantity of production or property now or hereafter existing of any such companies, persons or owners, transacted or existing in this state, in relation to the entire business, mileage or quantity of production or property of such companies, persons or owners as aforesaid, or in such other manner, or by such other method as the legislature may determine; but the proceeds of such taxes upon mining property shall be distributed between the state and the various political subdivisions thereof wherein the same is situated, in the same proportion as the proceeds of taxes upon real property are distributed: Provided further, that nothing in this act contained shall operate to authorize the assessment or taxation of any farm land or ordinary business blocks or property owned by any such corporation, person, firm or company except in the manner provided by the ordinary methods of taxation."

and to substitute therefor the following:

"Sec. 1. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property used for religious purposes, and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public prroperty used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200 for each household, individual, or head of a family, as the legislature may determine. But the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

This proposed constitutional amendment was submitted and voted upon at the last election and was declared carried. But a contest was instituted by interested parties, claiming that the amendment was not carried. That contest is now pending in the courts, and it was on that account that the legislature decided to re-submit the amendment to the people, so that however the contest may be decided, the next legislature may have the power granted by the amendment. For the purpose of discussing the effect of the amendment I will assume that the same amendment submitted at the last election did not carry.

The purpose and effect of this amendment would be to greatly enlarge the power of the legislature with reference to the subject of taxation. Section one (1) as it now stands provides that all taxes imposed shall be equal—as near as may be—on all forms of property, and all property upon which a tax is imposed is required to have a CASH VALUATION equalized throughout the state.

Section two (2) as it now stands requires the legislature to levy the necessary taxes annually to defray the expenses of the state. That is the duty of the legislature without any constitutional direction.

Section three (3) as it now stands provides that all real and personal property, including MONEYS, CREDITS and INVESTMENTS IN BONDS AND STOCKS, shall be assessed according to their true value in money.

Section four (4) as it now stands provides that property employed in banking shall be subject to a tax equal to that imposed on other property. This is only a repetition of the requirements of Sections one (1) and three (3), as no rational person would claim that banking capital should be exempt from taxation.

Section seventeen (17) as it now stands is not easy to understand, but it was intended by that section to relieve from the operation of sections one (1) and three (3), above quoted, property of the classes therein enumerated, so that a gross earnings tax could be applied thereto instead of direct taxation.

Owing to the provisions of sections one (1) and three (3) of the present Constitution many amendments were from time to time added so as to permit taxes to be imposed on specific kinds of property otherwise than upon a cash valuation equalized throughout the state. We have among these exceptions railroad gross earnings taxes; municipal frontage taxes; inheritance taxes; and the gross earnings taxes authorized by said section seventeen (17).

Several exemptions from taxation are also provided for, but as these exemptions are not changed by the proposed amendment, I will make no further reference to them.

The amendment which, if adopted, would take the place of all of the sections and amendments above referred to, is simple and plain. No provision of the Constitution is necessary to authorize the imposition of the taxes necessary for the support of the state and its various political subdivisions. The power of taxation is inherent in government. This proposed amendment declares that this inherent power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away; that taxes shall be imposed for public purposes and shall be uniform on the same class of subjects. Should this amendment be adopted all property of every kind in the state would be subject to taxation, according to the method the legislature saw fit to adopt, provided only that the tax was levied for a public purpose and was uniform on the same class of subjects. Under this amendment every tax law we now have on the statute books would continue to be valid, because under this amendment all limitations on the power of the legislature would be taken away.

The adoption of this amendment would, as indicated, repeal the so-called inheritance tax amendment, and the gross earnings tax amendment adopted in 1896, as contained in said Section seventeen (17), but in their place this amendment would give the legislature greater authority. Under this amendment the power to impose inheritance taxes would be unlimited, and any form of gross earnings tax would be valid. The gross earnings tax on railroads would not be affected by this amendment, as the Constitution provides that they cannot be changed without submitting the law making the change to a vote of the people. But with this amendment various new forms of taxation could be imposed, notably an income tax, a tonnage tax on iron ore and a registry tax on mortgages. Under the present Constitution we can impose no tax on mortgages owned by non-residents. A registry tax, which would be valid under this amendment, would reach all mortgages alike. While the Constitution requires all subjects of taxation to have a cash valuation with the tax equalized throughout the state, no proper income tax could be

SECOND PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

The second proposed amendment is contained in Chapter 478 of the Laws of Minnesota for the year 1907. By this amendment it is sought to repeal Section sixteen (16) of Article nine (9) of the Constitution, which section now reads as follows:

"For the purpose of lending aid in the construction and improvement of public highways and bridges, there is hereby created a fund to be known as the 'State Road and Bridge Fund.' Said fund shall include all moneys accruing from the income derived from investments in the internal improvement land fund, or that may hereafter accrue to said fund, and shall also include all funds accruing to any state road and bridge fund, however provided.

"The legislature is authorized to add to such fund for the purpose of constructing or improving roads and bridges of this state, by providing, in its discretion, for an annual tax levy upon the property of this state of not to exceed in any year one-twentieth (1-20) of one (1) mill on all the taxable property within the state.

"The legislature is also authorized to provide for the appointment, by the governor of the state, of a board to be known as the 'State Highway Commission,' consisting of three (3) members, who shall perform such duties as shall be prescribed by law without salary or compensation other than personal expenses.

"Such commission shall have general superintendence of the construction of state roads and bridges and shall use such fund in the construction thereof and distribute the same in the several counties in the state upon an equitable basis. Provided, further, that no county shall receive in any year more than three (3) per cent or less than one-half (½) of one (1) per cent of the total fund thus provided and expended during such year; and provided further, that no more than one-third (1-3) of such fund accruing in any year shall be expended for bridges, and in no case shall more than one-third (1-3) of the cost of construction or improving any road or bridge be paid by the state from such fund."

and to substitute therefor the following:

"Section 16. For the purpose of lending aid in the construction and improvement of public highways and bridges, there is hereby created a fund to be known as the 'State Road and Bridge Fund.' Said fund shall include all moneys accruing from the income derived from investments in the internal improvement land fund, or that may hereafter accrue to said fund, and shall also include all funds accruing to any state road and bridge fund, however provided.

"The legislature is authorized to add to such fund, for the purpose of constructing or improving roads and bridges of this state, by providing, in its discretion, for an annual tax levy upon the property of this state."

The purpose and effect of this amendment is to authorize the legislature to levy upon all the property of the state any amount necessary, in its judgment, for the benefit of the roads and bridges therein, and in so far removes the limitation which now exists in the Constitution, whereby the legislature is prevented from levying for such purpose an exceeding one-twentieth (1-20) of one (1) mill on the taxable property within the state.

This amendment further authorizes the legislature to provide salary and compensation, including personal expenses incurred in the performance of duty by the highway commission, or any other like officer entrusted by law with similar duties.

Finally, this amendment removes the limitation which now exists in the Constitution upon the powers of the highway commission in the distribution of the road and bridge fund of the state thereby authorized, and the amount which the state may pay from such fund toward the cost of constructing or improving any road or bridge, and leaves the whole management of such fund to be provided for by law, as the legislature shall deem wise.

The adoption of this amendment will not interfere with the power of the legislature to create a highway commission and define its powers, nor will it interfere with the appointment and tenure of office of the present commission.

THIRD PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

The third proposed amendment is contained in Chapter 379 of the Laws of Minnesota for the year 1907. By this amendment it is sought to add the following section to Article nine (9) of the Constitution as a new section:

"Section 17. The legislature may provide for the payment by the State of Minnesota of damages to growing crops by hail and wind, or either, and to provide a fund for that purpose, may impose a specific tax upon lands, the owners of which, at their option, have listed the same with county auditors for that purpose, and no payment shall be made of any such damages except from the fund so provided."

The purpose and effect of this amendment is to authorize the legislature to permit the state to become the trustee in the collection and disbursement of a fund for the payment of damages to growing crops by hail or wind, or both. This fund is to be created and maintained by a specific tax upon the lands of such persons ONLY as shall VOLUNTARILY list the same with their respective county auditors for such purpose. There can be no tax for such purpose imposed on the lands of any owner who does not consent thereto. Its adoption will authorize the legislature to direct that the taxing machinery of the state be used to levy and collect the tax necessary to raise such fund, and to provide for the disbursement of the same by the officers of the state, but any payments to be made by the state by reason of damage by hail or wind will have to be made from said fund and from no other. The state would assume no responsibility beyond the amount of such fund, and could not further be rendered liable.

FOURTH PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

The fourth proposed amendment is contained in Chapter 480 of the Laws of Minnesota for the year 1907. By this amendment it is sought to repeal the provisions of Section seven (7) of Article seven (7) of the Constitution, which section now reads as follows:

"Every person who by the provisions of this article shall be entitled to vote at any election shall be eligible to any office which now is, or hereafter shall be, elective by the people in the district wherein he shall have resided thirty days previous to such election, except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, and laws of the United States."

and to substitute therefor the following:

"Every person who by the provisions of this article shall be entitled to vote at any election shall be eligible to any office which now is, or hereafter shall be, elective by the people in the district wherein he shall have resided thirty days previous to such election, except county superintendents of schools, who shall be required to have educational qualifications to be determined by the legislature, and except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, or the Constitution and laws of the United States."

The purpose and effect of this amendment is to authorize the legislature to require educational qualifications, in addition to all the other qualifications now required by law, for any person seeking the office of county superintendent of schools. As the Constitution now stands, any legal voter is eligible to the office of county superintendent of schools.

The foregoing four proposed amendments constitute all the amendments proposed for adoption at the ensuing General Election.

Yours respectfully,
EDWARD T YOUNG,
Attorney General.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WILL PROVE BIG BENEFIT

Federal Drainage of Northern Minnesota Will Work Wonders.

Chief Engineer Meade Completes Red Lake Region Survey.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief Engineer Meade of the United States geological survey, who has had charge of the federal survey of the Red Lake region, has completed his work and Saturday evening departed for Washington, D. C.

Mr. Meade and his assistants will complete the maps of the survey at the national capital in order to have them in readiness for the opening of congress in December.

His two years' work as chief engineer on this survey in his upper country has made Mr. Meade an enthusiastic advocate of federal drainage for the great rich unclaimed territory lying in the basin of the Red lakes and their tributary streams. He is convinced that this region is one of the richest stretches of virgin soil in the whole Union, and that the difficulties of drainage can be more easily overcome than in any oher drainage project that is inviting the attention of the federal authorities at the present time. As the major portion of this territory is now high and dry and as the engineering problems consist largely of the opening of clogged waterways, Mr. Meade is convinced that all the wet lands included within the limits of the survey can be quickly and easily reclaimed.

So confident is he of being returned here next year to superintend the construction of the federal drainage of this land, that he has partially arranged to establish his residence in this city, this point being the most convenient for outfitting and for reaching the proposed drainage systems. It is also as good as settled that a comprehensive system of state drainage will be inaugurated by the state legislature this winter and that it will work in harmony with the federal plans, all looking towards the reclamation of the great rich lowlands of Northern Minnesota.

WOULD ALLOW CONVICTS PAY

Novel Recommendation of Warden at Stillwater State Prison.

Stillwater, Minn., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Suggestions as to the extent and rapid building of the new prison and a recommendation that inmates of the state prison be placed on a wage carning basis, the funds to be applied to the support of wives and children of convicts are among the striking features of the biennial report of Henry Wolfer, warden of the state prison.

In his opening letter the warden states that the binder twine industry at the state prison could pay all the money ever appropriated for the twine plant and still have a profit remaining in the state treasury of $1,247,702.

Of this sum the earnings above expenses the past five years was $500,000. During the past wto years the net earnings of the twine plant amounted to $306,729.87 turned into the state treasury. This was done in coping with unfavorable trade and commercial disadvantages.

During the past season convicts in the twine department worked three hours daily overtime for five months to meet the demand for supplies. The new twine plant to be installed in the new prison next month will make it possible for the output next year to exceed 18,000,000 pounds.

The warden points out that the new farm machinery factory gives promise of being a big success. The test in fields of the Minnesota mower and reaper shows that they are excellent. The amount thus far expended in that department is $17,122. The work of J. H. Downing, superintendent of that department, is highly commended.

Then the warden makes suggestions about the new prison. He advises that the governor, the legislature and the board of control decide in the near future the probable extent of the new prison, then get busy at once to erect it; pointing out the inconvenience and expense of conducting two prisons.

Another suggestion along the line of progressive penology made by the warden is the employment of convicts on a system of wage earnings, the purpose being to give the prisoner an earning interest in his work, thereby encouraging diligence, industry and moral improvement.

He advises that wages of such system be given to the wives and children of prisoners during their incarceration. He thinks such plan would be better than the one tried for some years by which prisoners were given earnings upon discharge with the result that they often squandered the money.

WOULD CONTROL PRICES.

Equity Members of Three States to Meet in Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 26.—(Speciol to The Herald.)—The organizers and officials of the American Society of Equity of both Dakotas and Minnesota, are to meet here tomorrow in an important session. The men behind the movement are planning to secure a sufficient pledge of wheat and flax acreage in the three states to control the price.

Men have been at work in the three states for weeks, and it is understood they have been successful. There are some other important matters to be taken up by the meeting. Incidental to this session, is one of the growers of hard spring wheat to organize a league which shall make an effort to secure proper recognition for the hard wheat and prevent its mixing with soft and cheaper wheats for either export or milling purposes, and thereby lowered the standard, when such mixed grain or flour is sold as hard wheat.

BLEACHED FLOUR CASES ATTRACTING ATTENTION.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 26.—(Speciol to The Herald.)—National interest is aroused in the bleached flour cases now being heard in the district court. The action is practically a year old. Pure Food Commissioner Ladd prepared a bulletin on the effects of bleached flour and the millers sought an injunction to prevent its publication. The court granted a temporary injunction, and at a preliminary hearing last winter made it permanent. Both sides have engaged experts from all over the United States. In addition to the oral testimony, there are depositions from many experts. It is understood the department of agriculture at Washington will secure a transcript of all the testimony and depositions for use in actions to be started later, if the North Dakota commissioner wins out. Both sides express the utmost confidence.

Mr. Crooker was away from home, but Mrs. Crooker was equal to the emergency. She procured a Colt's revolver and fired at the bear. She is uncertain as to whether the shot took effect, but bruin lost no time in taking to the brush with a noticeable limp.

The struggling man was pulled into the boat and carried to shore. Here his friends claimed him, and later turned him over to Deputay Sheriff Anderson

NORTH DAKOTA ANXIOUS.

Decision of Supreme Court in Primary Law Case Awaited.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 26.—The case involving the constitutionality of the senatorial primary law was taken under advisement by the supreme court Saturday afternoon, after two entire days spent by attorneys in the arguments. The decision of the case will probably hinge on the legislative pledge feature of the law which was bitterly attacked by Attorneys Young and Lawrence as void, and on the fact that the primary is carried into the general election thus invading the secrecy of the ballot if there are to be challenges against Democrats who may seek to participate in the senatorial choice.

For Marshall and Johnson, Attorneys Divet and Corliss held that there would be no violation of the general election law in holding the primary in connection with it, and that even if the pledge feature of the law were void, it should not prevent an expression of the people in the matter of the senatorship.

There is much speculation as to the decision of the court which is expected within a few days.

ODD ARTICLES IN MAIL.

Queer Things That Get Lost in the Shuffle.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 26.—A statement of matter found loose in the malls in the Tenth division of the railroad mail service, and turned in to headquarters at St. Paul during the past month, has been received at the Fargo postoffice.

D.; 10-cent piece at Mantador, N. D.; $2—10 and 5 cents at Belfield, N. D.; pencil sharpener at Monango, N. D., package of safety razors from St. Paul and Larimore route; small bell, Fargo and Devils Lake route; package grain sample, Steel, N. D.

The list is a collection of almost everything that one could think of. Following are some of the finds: Four thimbles, fountain pen, hatpin, baseball bat, iron casting, spectacles and case, two pair spectacles, pnotos, Swedish bible, pearl handled pocket knife, part of lamp, package stereopticon pictures, five steel bars, necktie and numerous other articles.

ARRESTED FOR DRUNKENNESS

Rudolph Boeckel is Held on More Serious Charge.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 26.—In the person of Rudolph Boeckel the police believe they have the man who was responsible for the holding up and robbery committed upon W. H. Curry, of New York, on the night of July 5 last. Curry reported to the police that he had been held up at the Northern Pacific bridge at Central avenue and robbed of $62. Every effort was made to apprehend the robber, but no trace of him was secured.

Thursday night the police arrested Boeckel for drunkenness, and when he was searched certain evidence was found that would seem to identify him with the Curry hold-up. He was arraigned in police court, and sent up for ten days on the charge of drunkenness. In the meantime the police will notify Mr. Curry and ask him to come to the city and prosecute the prisoner.

Acid and Alkali In The Stomach

Digests The Food Naturally If In Right Proportion: If Not; Then Dyspepsia.

Acid and alkali make up the liquid known as gastric juice, which digests your food.

If through abuse of the stomach, or weakness of blood or through scores of other causes this gastric juice is not made up correctly of acid and alkali, your stomach cannot digest food.

Such a stomach then acts as a pit where the food lies, ferments, decays, is thrown off at last, either into the intestines or is vomited from the system.

If thrown into the intestines a large proportion of it is taken up and passed into the blood, for the intestines are covered on the inside surfaces with millions of little mouths which are placed there to suck up nourishment for the blood.

You may readily see that if instead of good rich nourishment, there is vile poisonous fermented bile and acid, these same little mouths suck some of it by necessity and pass it into the blood. The blood in turn throws it off and the system is immediately placed in an imperfect state.

The blood is weakened, the tissues lose strength, the skin becomes diseased and man in general suffers in a score of places.

Then again the blood furnishes gastric juice to the stomach, for when the gastric juice is not needed for digestive purposes it goes back to the blood. When food comes into the stomach the nerves along the Alimentary Canal and in the mouth signal the brain for help and the blood immediately furnishes sufficient gastric juice to do the work well and quickly.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go into the stomach, balance the gastric juice, digest the food, are taken up by the blood, purifies it, and when the food comes again to the stomach a natural gastric juice of right proportion greets it and does its work perfectly. After a time these little tablets restore Nature, build up the gastric juice and there is no longer dyspepsia.

Every druggist carries them in stock, price 50c; every druggist and 40,000 physicians will attest their word to the merit of these tablets. RECTOR QUITS CHURCH— STATE LAW-INCORPORATED

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 26.—Dr. Cyrus Townsend Brady of Toledo yesterday announced his resignation as rector of Trinity parish. He goes to Kansas City to the St. George Episcopal church. Dr. Brady, in his letter of resignation, stated that the church was incorporated under the laws of Ohio under the conditions of which he said he could not conscientiously serve the church. Brady's announcement in part says:

"This parish is especially incorporated under the state laws. The position of the rector in such a case is so radically different from the position of the rector under the canon law of the diocese and general convention, by which this parish professes not to be bound, that I cannot continue longer to fill the position.

"Let me add that whether I had received a call elsewhere or not, I should feel compelled to resign from this parish just the same. I beg to assure the congregation that the question between this parish and myself is in no wise personal. It is a question of principle. My action has the approval of many bishops and clergymen, whose advice I have sought."

ANOTHER VICTORY.

Cupid Adds One More to the Season's Record.

Miss Cora Sheelley is going to be married. She is the young lady who used to ask customers whether they would have a domestic or a Key West cigar, at the cigar counter of the Lenox hotel. In the future she will ask her husband whether he will have one or two lumps of sugar in his coffee.

Miss Shelley shyly informed the hotel proprietor that she was going to resign her duties. Then the proprietor suspected the truth. Dan Cupid, invariably a strong hitter in the love league, had scored another home run.

Just to show that she does not believe all the malicious things that have been said in the present campaign, Miss Shelley is going to marry a man who is connected with Standard Oil.

Two of Miss Shelley's predecessors at the puff stand were married recently. Other young women at the Lenox have been succumbing to the shafts of the little god with such frequency that the problem of female help is becoming a desperate one.

Engagement.

The engagement of Miss Katherine Fairchild of Minneapolis and Karl Rochester Coppage has been announced. POSITIVE RESOLUTION

New Vows Should Be to do Good.

It should be understood that good resolutions are usually, if not invariably, against bad habits, none of which we will specify, lest our readers accuse us of being personal, and having one or other of them in mind, says Harper's Bazaar. It is in the nature of good resolutions to require the penitent to be constantly on his guard; and while one may readily remember to do a fine thing or a noble thing, when the chance offers, or the duty thrusts itself upon one (in that offensive way of duties), one is always forgetting not to do the shabby, or low, or disgusting or wicked thing, that one vowed one's self to forbear; and it is there that one hits gravel, as the old moralists say. We note the facts, not with the expectation that the reader will be instantly and fully able to profit by them, but partly for the psychological pleasure that their recognition gives, and partly in the hope or suggesting dimly, remotely, a way out of the vicious circle in which the reason "eddies round and round." It is apparent at this glad hour of the infant year, that we ought to form good resolutions and not put it off till the Fourth of July, or next Christmas. Yet it is just as apparent that if we resolve not to do this or that, we shall pretty surely do it, because we forget, not to. On the other hand, it is again just as apparent that if we resolve to do this or that good thing, we shall now and then do it, because the opportunity offers or insists. The good resolution ought therefore to be positive, and not negative, in its terms. This seems to us the solution, and we commend it to our readers. For ourselves, as we have already hinted, we do not feel the need of so sharp a spur.

DARING COMBINATION

Costumes of the Season Show Many Colors.

Not so very long ago simple colors were the style and only the most subtle and harmonious combinations of shades of the same solor were permissible in the same costume. Today all that is changed. The variety of colors and shades, of texture and finish of materials has become multiplied a thousandfold compared with former years, and there is scarcely and limit to the number of colors that may be combined in the same costume. The most daring combinations, producing an effect of barbaric splendor, are found by the side of the most chaste and subdued combinations. Particularly in colors the variety to be found in the shops is so great that there is no longer an excuse for any woman who does not find exactly the right color best suited to her complexion.

Notwithstanding the fact that colors, even those of the loud and glaring kind, are extremely fashionable this season, there is a great demand for blacks and grays. It may be said that gray is one of the dominant colors of the season. Apropos of gray a word of warning may not be amiss. Gray is undoubtedly a beautiful and pleasing color, but it is not for every woman. Only too often women of middle age, who are colorless, anaemic and have the "washed-out" complexion of invalids, make the mistake of wearing gray. They should never do so. It merely accentuates their lack of color and gives them the appearance of moving corpses, an effect decidedly undesirable. Gray, even the most lifeless and dead, is suitable for young girls who have a great deal of color in skin and hair, or even for middle-aged women of the florid and healthy looking type, but never for the pale and faded women with dark lines under her eyes and wrinkles in her bloodless cheeks.

Blues, browns and greens are extremely popular this season and are to be found in the shops in an endless variety of shades. Of the blues it is characteristic that nearly all the new shades have some green in them. Various shades of a sort of peacock blue are particularly popular and are used extensively for dress material and trimming. But few blues have any tinge of gray. Green serge, which is to be worn a great deal for street costumes this winter has olive tones curiously mixed with the dusky tones of a damson plum. The wistaria tone of purple is the favorite; but the plum shades from red to gray go all through every purple and make it look different shades in different lights.

CURE-ALL.

Hardly Anything That Turpentine Can't Help.

Turpentine is excellent and soothing when applied to scalds and cuts.

It will take ink stains out of muslin when added to soap, and also helps to whiten clothes if added to the water in which they are boiled.

Moths will not come near clothes sprinkled with turpentine; they seem to hate the odor.

A few drops of turpenine sprinkled where cockroaches congregate will exterminate them at once, while it will also drive red and black ants away.

Tan leather boots can be nicely cleaned with turpentine. Pour a few drops on a woolen cloth and rub.

White kid boots can be cleaned by rubbing them well with spirits of turpentine, using a clean white rag; they will first appear quite yellow, but must be dried before the fire and flour rubbed well into them to restore their pristine freshness. When quite dry, carefully wipe the flour off.

Turpentine applied with a bit of flannel will (especially when the stains are deep) restores the whiteness of ivory knife-handles.

Gilt frames can be cleaned by wiping them with a small sponge moistened with oil of turpentine; wet the sponge only just sufficiently to take off the dirt and fly marks, then allow the frames to dry of themselves.

Turpentine is an immense boon for blisters on the hands, while it is also good for corns on the feet.

Turpentine is a simple and safe remedy for unbroken chilblains.

Persons suffering from rheumatism can have a little turpentine put into their bath water.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

Owing to the magnitude of the production, the Mack-Leone company has been compelled to postpone the opening night of "Love and the Law" until tomorrow.

The play is being presented for the first time on any stage, and there are many details which have to be worked out. The Mack-Leone company is planning to make it the biggest and best production given since they have been playing in Duluth, and as Mr. Mack felt he could not do it justice tonight, he decided to postpone the opening until tomorrow evening, when the members of the company will be letter perfect in their parts, and the scenery and stage settings will be complete.

THREW BOTTLE THROUGH WINDOW

Woodsman Was Defending Himself in Saloon Fight.

In a fight in Matlack's saloon, 216 Lake avenue south, John Long, a returned harvester, threw a bottle through a plate glass window. In police court Saturday afternoon he was sentenced to serve fifteen days in the chain gang.

According to the testimony of the witnesses, Long was merely trying to defend himself at the time the fight occured. He had some money in his pocket, and it is claimed that an attempt was made to take it from him. In the mixup that followed Long was outnumbered, and began throwing bottles to make the scrap a little more even. One of them missed Matt Makki at whom it was thrown, and crashed through the window.

He was arrested first on the charge of the malicious destruction of property, but in view of the circumstances of the case, the charge against him was changed to that of plain drunk.

the EVENING STORY

LOVE LAUGHS AT OCEANS

By Harry Lilly.

In a moment, Walter Raleigh had gone mad. At five minutes of 12 he might have passed as a model of intelligence and well-disciplined mentality. At four and a half minutes of 12 he was a maniac, and his luxurious office, chaos.

Up and down he tore, uttering bitter invectives. A priceless antique he crushed under his foot, as he would have crushed a common shell. In his wild parade he struck a pedestal which held a costly bust, which tottered and fell on his foot. With a yell of fury he picked it up and hurled it through the window. He pounced on an envelope, which lay on the floor, and ground it beneath his heel into a filthy pulp; then, with a maudlin cry, picked it up, pressed it to his lips repeatedly, and placed it in the inside pocket of his coat.

The envelope, which had been thrown from the window of a passing carriage was delivered by a gamin who had seen it fall, and who, when he saw the wild man, fled precipitately, without waiting for the expected reward.

The ringing of the 'phone in a measure restored Raleigh to his senses. He ran to it and called up a shipping office.

"Has the Carina sailed yet?" he inquired. The Carina had, but another boat, the Turbina, would sail in half an hour, was the answer he received. Raleigh had read of the Turbina, which had broken the ocean record on her last voyage. If he could board it they might arrive at Liverpool ahead of the Carina, and things might come right yet. But to get to the docks in half an hour, without some special assistance, was an impossibility.

He ran to the safe, extracted a roll of bills, then rushed to the elevator. His partner was just alighting from his automobile as he reached the street.

"I'm going to Europe—will explain by wire—lend me your machine?"

"Certainly, but—" Before his partner could finish the question Raleigh was aboard the car.

"To the docks—like blazes. I'll pay your fine," he told the chauffeur.

The senior partner of Willets & Raleigh stood on the sidewalk and wondered if his associate suddenly had gone mad, that he talked of going to Europe in a machine. On his way up in the elevator he meditated on the advisability of notifying the police, and having Raleigh stopped before he did harm to himself or others. His conscience smote him that he had let him have the machine.

When he entered the office and saw the wreck there he became positive that his partner had lost his reason, and was crossing the room to the 'phone when he noticed a note that was lying on the table. After he had read the note he changed his mind and proceeded to restore order, as far as possible from the chaos around him.

This is what he read:

"Dearest: Our elopement is frustrated. Your messagenger was false. Mama is taking he to Europe, where they will try to force me to marry Lord Mumblethorpe. Do something. The Carina. In despair, Lizzie."

The gangplank of the Turbina was being raised when an automobile tore down the docks at reckless speed. The hatless, disheveled figure it contained jumped out before the machine stopped and was aboard the steamer almost before the spectators were aware of what had happened. As he stepped on the deck a cheer went up from the steamer and the shore.

The chauffeur stood, gazing in bewilderment at a piece of dirty paper in his hand. It was a hundred dollar bill.

"Great Jerusalem! Oh, Hannah! Yo hoo!" he shouted, as he drove away.

A great ship was racing over the furrowed Atlantic toward the rising sun. Three days ago the western world had sunken beneath the horizon. A young girl leaned against the rail and looked, longingly, at the misty west. The incomparable beauty of an ocean sunrise had no joys for her. Her heart, her hope, her all was beyond that mystic line, where sky and ocean met; while each pulsation of the engines was bringing her nearer to despair. She looked upward, for a moment, where the sensitive magical fingers of the "wireless" were reaching out into the intangible ether; then her eyes sought their old focus on the western horizon.

The wireless telegraph was catching here and there a stray current of intelligence, when, suddenly, a message came down the mast which made the operator swear. The Turbina was communicating with Theo., and she was miles ahead. A jealousy existed between the crews of the old greyhound and the new. The next message that the operator received must have been a pleasant one, for it made him smile.

The girl, keeping her tearful watch toward the west, was aroused from her reverie by a footstep at her side. An officer handed her a message. She read it and gasped for breath, then reeled against the rail. She remained in this position for a few minutes, then the few pessengers on deck were astonished to see a stylishly dressed and dignified lady running along the deck, like a hoyden toward the companion way.

She went below and found an elderly gentleman, who had been her companion during the two days that her mother had been confined to her stateroom with the bane of travelers—seasickness.

An earnest conversation was carried on beteween the two, before the girl sent an answer to her message. Then, as the operator performed his magic, he smiled more broadly than ever. Another message was received from the Turbina; another answer was sent; there was a rapid interchange of messages; and the smile on the operator's face settled into a look of perfect happiness. And the girl? She had ceased looking toward the west. During the rest of the voyage she looked to the east. As she went to breakfast she was humming a tune and the brilliant, happy eyes she turned on the pale, aristocratic lady who had left her stateroom for the first time in three days caused that person to compliment her on her appearance, while she consoled a sensative conscience with the thought that the novelty of the voyage was already making her daughter forget what, she termed, her ridiculous love affair.

As the misty shores of Mother England rose, cloud-like, out of the Irish sea, hundreds of anxious eyes were strained to catch the first sight of land. Happy wanderers, returning home wept tears of joy at the sight. Happy tourists, on pleasure bent, felt a shade of sadness steal over them at the sight of the foreign shore. At the thought that in a few hours they should be in a foreign dominion—were now in fact—for the ship on which they sailed was a Brittish vessel, and the Union Jack streamed from her peak. But to two, a lady and her daughter, there came no feeling of sadness as they watched the indistinct blur assume a regular outline.

The undemocratic mother watched, with swelling heart, the land where her ambitions were to be realized and her daughter grafted on the stem of a titled aristocracy. The triumph of her schemes made her act with unusual tenderness toward her child that day.

The daughter hailed, with high spirits and girlish laughter, the land she had thought of in terror, and the sea roses on her cheeks glowed their deepest crimson; the western sunlight in her eyes fairly burned as they stepped across the plank.

A pompous equipage, with armorial bearings and liveried attendants, was in waiting; and the great lord himself came forward to meet them. The mother's face flushed with pleasure as she received his courtly greeting; then she turned in bewilderment. Her daughter had vanished. At this juncture a gentleman, with a lady on his arm, stepped up and, with effrontery, exclaimed in a ringing voice: "Lord Mumblethorpe, allow me to introduce my wife."

"Eh! What!" His lordship fairly staggered.

The mother's face turned gray; she clutched his lordship's arm for support. The bride could not suppress a low laugh of triumph. The groom held up a document for the inspection of all. This is what it contained:

"This certifies that Walter Raleigh of New York, on board the steamship Turbina, and Elizabeth May Stetson of Brooklyn, on board the steamship Carina, were united by us in holy matrimony in mid-ocean by wireless telegraphy, June 26, 1905.

"Signed: Robert T. Rollison, clergyman on board the Turbina. Francis Peel Torway, clergyman on the Carina.

HERE'S A JANITOR EXTRAORDINARY

Has a Keen Sence of Humor—Phonograph His Assistant.

Some janitors of flat buildings are said to be unfeeling persons, with no souls or feelings for fellow humans, but not so with G. Thompson, who has charge of the heat and its auxiliary departments of a flat building on Seventh avenue east, between Third and Fourth streets.

The other day when the tenants, in unison, clamored for more heat Mr. Thompson piled on the coal and then he started the "Is It Hot Enough for You?" record on one of his three phonographs.

Talking machines are a hobby of his and he has no less than three, each one better than the other. His latest purchase in this line is said to be one of the finest instruments of the kind made. He has many records; all filed away in systematic order, with a card sysem index to tell where he can put his finger on any of them and what condition they were in when filed. They comprise both classical and popular numbers. Mr. Thompson often invites the tenants in to hear his phonographs.

BEMIDJI'S DAM IS ABOUT READY

Big Structure on Mississippi River Will Generate Much Power.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The power dam which has been in process of erection at the rapids in the Mississippi river, about eleven miles east of Bemidji, has been completed, and on Nov. 1 the machinery of the plant will be put into operation. The power generated will be used in operating the electric light plant of the Warfield Electric company and other industries here using electric power.

The completion of the dam gives to the Beltrami Electric Light & Power company about 1,100-horse-power, which is sufficient to care for many industries here, outside of the electric light plant and other enterprises needing power.

The installing of the dam and transporting of the power from the rapids to the city is a valuable asset to the city's industries, and means much for the future of the city along manufacturing lines.

The dam is a crib affair, being a rock filled crib. It is substantially built in every respect, and one of the very best in the state.

It is 144 feet long, 72 feet wide and 23 feet high. There is a foot bridge four feet wide across it, and there is also a sluiceway for logs.

There is a fishway, which will allow all kinds of fish to pass freely up and down the river. The complete cost of the structure was in the neighborhood of $75,000.

The water wheel is of the latest improved type and is directly connected to the generator. It is 46 feet long and 6 feet in diameter.

With the present equipment the capacity of the dam is 1,100-horse-power, which can be easily doubled by the addition of more machinery.

By the construction of the dam the water in the Mississippi river between Bemidji and the dam has been raised very appreciably, and there is practically dead water from the outlet of Lake Bemidji to the dam.

The raise in the water makes a fine trip by boat from this city to the dam, and it is a popular trip to many of the local boatmen.

The United States government has reserved the right to place locks for boats in the north side of the dam, when navigation demands it.

John Wade of St. Paul, special agent for the war department, has made personal inspection of the dam a few days ago, and although he would not give out any information as to his official report, it is believed that he will in every way commend it as being strictly in accordance with the plans and specifications which were gotten out by the war department for its construction.

PENNYPACKER IN QUICK DEFENSE

Pennsylvania Ex-Governor Denies Having Dealt With Archbold.

Philadelphia, Oct. 26.—"Considering that I recommended in my inaugural address a tax on oil and coal taken out of this state in order to pay the expenses of the public schools, you can see that it is extremely improbable I received any communications from Standard Oil or from John D. Archbold relative to the appointment of John J. Henderson of Meadville, Pa., as a judge of the superior court of this state, referred to in letters read by William R. Hearst in Brooklyn Saturday night."

This was the reply of ex-Governor Samuel W. Pennybacker, when asked today if Judge Henderson was appointed by him through the intervention of Mr. Archbold or Standard Oil interests. Mr. Pennypacker was not absolutely certain that he had not received any communication from Mr. Archbold, but he said that if any letters or other communications were received, they would be on file at the state capitol at Harrisburg. He said he never saw Archbold, and that it is unlikely that Archbold ever asked him to appoint Judge Henderson.

STILL INSIST ON LOW CAR FARES

Cleveland Traction Officials May Concede Security Grant's Defeat.

Cleveland, Oct. 26.—The hearing of a receivership suit filed against the Municipal Traction company in the federal court Saturday night, was continued until Wednesday on request of the attorneys for the plaintiff.

The Cleveland Frog & Crossing company today entered suit against the Traction company for $21,000. The plaintiff company claims the sum named is due for construction matter furnished to the Municipal company.

A high official of the Municipal Traction company was quoted today as saying that his company was willing to concede the defeat of the security grant and turn back the street railway property to the Cleveland Railway company provided the latter will restore the original 3-cent fare lines to their ex-owners. It was declared that this would be in accordance with a gentleman's agreement entered into when the 3-cent fare lines were taken over.

There are people who remember how the sun looked when in the sweet long ago it used to rise in the morning flooding the world with color and joy and light. There even be those who have in spasms of righteousness risen in the morning themselves in time to have seen the wonderful disc of gold rise from the blue of the lake, sending warning before it came, with soft rose colored clouds of incomparable hue. Such it is to have lived in the good old days. This morning it was hard to discover a single one, who ever remembered having seeing the sun. Life for as long back as they could conveniently remember was one gray, cheerless, drizzling, draggled day. At least, so said all sympathetic souls. But occasionally there was encountered an irritating optimist, who said in reply to a question concerning the sun, "Ever see the sun? Why, of course I've seen the sun. What do you think I am, a relation to the objectionable people in 'ghosts' The sun shone last week."

What's the good of having a disposition like that?

Buckwheat pancakes and tender little sausages, out of which the very life has been roasted, with plenty of almost pure maple syrup and a cup of golden coffee are the only things that make life at all bearable when the sun doesn't shine.

FINALE TO CAMPAIGN

Chris. D. O'Brien to Address West Duluth Democratic Club.

Dinchart and Larson Will Talk to the Republicans.

Chris D. O'Brien of St. Paul, one of Minnesota's most prominent Democrats, will speak Friday evening, under the auspices of the West Duluth Democratic club, at Wade's hall, corner of Ramsey street and Central avenue.

It will be the biggest Democratic rally of the campaign for West Duluth, and will be a suitable finale for the very aggressive campaign the club has carried on for the past few weeks. Few better men could have been chosen to lessen the disappointment that was experienced in West Duluth, when Governor Johnson was unable to speak there on his whirlwind tour of the northern part of the state.

Besides Mr. O'Brien, two other speakers of local prominence have been secured by the club for that evening. They are John Jenswold and Andrew Nelson, chairman of the Democratic county committee. The meeting promises to be one of the liveliest ever held in West Duluth.

Clarence C. Dinehart, candidate for state treasurer, and Attorney O. J. Larson, will speak tonight at Wade's hall, corner of Ramsey street and Central avenue, under the auspices of the West Duluth Republican club. L. A. Barnes will act as chairman.

The meeting tonight will be the climax of the campaign in West Duluth. The club has been holding meetings every Saturday night in the rooms of the West Duluth Commercial club, but for tonight in anticipation of a large crowd they have engaged a hall. They have also made arrangements with the G. A. R. fife and drum corps to attend the rally.

The weekly meetings of the West Duluth Republican club have been big features in the local Republican campaign. The last one of these meetings is scheduled for next Saturday evening, but it is doubtful if it will be held, as the change of the Jacobson date to Saturday may cause the club to re-arrange its plans.

At the last meeting, Saturday evening, when the club was addressed by Hugh McLennan, Paul H. Welch and Charles E. Adams, it was decided to attend the Jacobson meeting at the Armory in a body. At that time it was unknown that the date had been set for Saturday. In case the club does decide to go to the rally in a body, it will be given the position of honor at the head of the torch-light procession. This is owing to the club's prominence and activity in the campaign.

The meeting Saturday evening was well attended, though the weather was unfavorable.

West Duluth Hunter Lands First Honker of the Season.

A 15-pound goose fell before Jean Bouchard's shot gun, Sunday morning at Spirit Lake.

This is the first goose reported to have been shot in this vicinity this fall.

Mr. Bouchard was hunting alone in the marshes near Spirit Lake, early Sunday morning, when a large flock of "honkers" flew over his head. He was taken by surprise, but managed to get in a load of heavy shot on a stray bird that came trailing after the flock. The first shot brought the big fowl to the water with a splash. Besides the goose, Mr. Bouchard brought home four ducks and five rabbits, which he shot in the brush on the Minnesota side.

Contractor Says Courthouse Will be Under Cover by Jan 1.

Rapid Progress Being Made on New County Building;

Andrew Lanquist of Chicago, member of the firm of Lanquist & Illsley, who is in Duluth today in connection with the work on the new courthouse, said this afternoon that he felt safe in saying that the courthouse will be roofed over and entirely enclosed some time between Christmas and New Year's.

"The work is progressing most satisfactorily," said Mr. Lanquist. "We have plenty of material on hand, and should have the building enclosed by the holidays, providing that no unforseen delay arises between now and then. The rainy weather of the past few days has caused a slight delay, but the previous stretch of good weather easily counterbalances this rainy spell."

HERE NEXT DECEMBER

Director of Tuberculosis Exhibit Now Arranging Preliminaries.

Christopher Easton Explains Vital Interest of Average Citizen.

The state traveling tuberculosis exhibit will be in Duluth for ten days early in December, under direction of the state board of health. Christopher Easton, director of the exhibit, is in the city today making preliminary arrangements for the event.

"We hope to have 35,000 people view the exhibit in Duluth," said Mr. Easton this morning. "A campaign of education among the people is the only manner in which we can stamp out the white plague, and the state is now effectively waging such a campaign. The collection will be given a prominent position in an easily-accessible down-town building, and later on will be moved to the western end of the city, so that all may have an opportunity to see it.

"The exhibit is not for medical men; it is for the common people, and is arranged in such a manner that the common people can understand it. It is made up largely of photographs and descriptive matter, showing in what way the disease can best be prevented and controlled. Lecturers of national prominence in the lines of medicine will be brought here to give addresses on the subject, and a world of good should be accomplished in Duluth as a result.

"We will show the people how to organize against the white plague, and how to keep the infection from spreading. It is a subject in which every individual is vitally interested, and every one should take the trouble to manifest this interest by visiting the exhibit. It may be many years before such an opportunity is again presented. Doctors will be brought here from as far east as Connecticut, and local physicians of repute will also deliver lectures.

"Every year 2,000 people die of tuberculosis in Minnesota. We figure that for every death there is at the same time five cases of the disease in existence in the state, so the 2,000 deaths annually means that there are annually 10,000 cases within the borders of Minnesota. If the people will only show interest in the exhibit, and follow out the simple rules laid down for them, the spread of the infection should be practically stopped. It can be gotten under control only through the education and co-operation of the people. This cannot be impressed too strongly upon the mind of the average citizen. Everybody should lend a helping hand."

LYCEUM SWITCH BOBS UP AGAIN

Council Asked to Order the Cross-Over in Again.

The matter of the cross-over street car switch in front of the Lyceum theater will again be before the city council at the meeting this evening. Manager Marshall of the Lyceum this week wrote a letter to Mayor Haven, asking that a fair trial be given the new switch that has been secured by the traction company, and Mayor Haven has referred the communication to the council without recommendation.

The taking out of the cross-over has brought forth a howl of protest from residents in the eastern and western portions of the city, and it is said that every effort will be made to compel the street car people to replace it. They cannot follow out the wishes of the people in this respect until permission has been obtained from the council.

John Bloomquist Asks This Amount for Personal Injuries.

John Bloomquist this morning filed with the clerk of the district court papers in a personal injury case against the Spring Mining company for $15,000, for injuries alleged to have been sustained while working in the Spring mine December last.

In his complaint he says that he was working in the skip when it dropped to the bottom and as a result his right leg was broken and his left leg crushed. He says also that he sustained internal injuries from which he will never recover.

NOVEMBER LIST HEAVY

Over One Hundred Cases Continued From September Term.

District Court Will Resume Sessions Wednesday Morning.

The heavy calendar of the September term of district court promises to be duplicated for the November term. The filings of new cases are heavy, and, according to the compilations made this morning, 106 continued cases will be on the calendar.

The continued cases comprise sixty jury cases, thirty-seven court cases and nine divorce cases. On the calendar for the last term there were seventy-two continued cases, so that a substantial increase in that branch is shown for the coming term.

Tomorrow is the last day for filing notes of issue for the November term, and it is expected there will be a rush on the part of attorneys, who wish to get their cases on the November calendar. The term will open the morning of Nov. 4, and unless the continued list of the term is heavy, the courts will probably be occupied with the calendar right up to the holidays.

The hearing of cases of the September term will be resumed Wednesday morning, with the calling of the case of Bernard Bandler and David Balder, as Bernard Bandler & Son, against L. G. Bradley and C. H. Bradley. It is a suit for $2,725.84, as the balance of a promissory note for $4,790. It was tried at the May term of court and the jury disagreed. Other cases on call for Wednesday are: Executors of estate of Walter H. Singer, deceased, vs. claim of David Hood; Fred Johnson vs. Coolidge-Schussler company; Amanda Lethonen, administratrix, vs. Interstate Iron company; Bernard Bandler & Son vs. Ray W. Higgins, trustee; Clara E. Doyle vs. William R. Hawthorne; W. C. Sherwood vs. C. E. Lovett; Matt De Palo, administrator, vs. Wisconsin Steel company; Fred Engle vs. Joseph Karl; town of Buyck vs. W. A. James et al; Marshall-Wells Hardware company vs. Close Hardware company et al.; Alexander McDougall vs. auditor of St. Louis county, Minn.; Vivian Prince vs. Morris Shteln.

Judge Cant is still at Carlton conducting the term of court there, and he is expected to be engaged there the remainder of this week. Judge Dibell opened the range term at Hibbing this morning. He has twelve cases at Hibbing and three at Virginia, and is expected to finish the trial of them by tomorrow night, so as to be back in Duluth for the opening of court Wednesday morning.

The Butte & Superior vs. John McAlpine case will be called again Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and it is expected to go to the jury Thursday. Nineteen court days have already been consumed with it, and but for its unusual length, no cases would have been carried over to the November term from the September term. As it is, several will go over on account of the two terms overlapping.

MAKE PLANS FOR THE EXHIBIT

Local Committee for Prevention of Tuberculosis Meets.

The traveling tuberculosis exhibit, being shown throughout the state under the auspices of the state board of health will be in Duluth from Dec. 4 to 13, inclusive.

This was decided this morning at the meeting of the executive committee in the rooms of the Commercial club. The committee in addition to setting the date of the big exhibit is considering plans for raising money, and getting people interested in the exhibit. It will be the largest exhibit yet shown in the state, as the collection has been added to lately, and it now is one of the best in the country.

There will be three places where the exhibit will be open to the public, West Duluth, West end and in the business portion of the city, giving every one a chance to visit it. There will be nothing disagreeable about it, it will be rather an exhibit of preventatives.

The doors of the different show places will be open from 10 in the morning until 10 in the evening, and there will be lectures explaining every detail. The exhibit will close with a monster lecture at the Lyceum on the last day of the exhibit.

The show is in charge of Christopher Easton of St. Paul, who is the director for the state, and the following who are on the local committee: T. W. Hugo, A. M. McGregor, Dr. E. L. Twohy, Rev. A. H. Wurtele, Rev. J. T. Moody, Dr. C. W. Moore, Charles Rakowsky, Dr. H. M. Bracken.

French Will Meet.

The next meeting of the French Naturalization club will be held tomorrow evening at 8:30, at the school hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street and it is the desire of the officers to have all the French-speaking men of the city attend and participate.

The club is taking in new members right along, not only in Duluth but throughout St. Louis county.

AMENDMENT UNPOPULAR

Building Ordinance May Come in for Another Mauling.

Older It Gets the Bigger Joke It Becomes.

Duluth's building ordinance, which has developed into a joke locally, because of the mauling it has been subjected to in the past, is due to come before the council again tonight. An amendment is asked, changing the fire limits so a building in the West end may be moved across the street.

Every time any one wants to move a wooden building, or to build a wooden building, or even to repair one, the council is asked to amend the ordinance so the desired change may be made. When a new theater is constructed, or almost any other sort of a building, the city fathers feel reasonably sure that they will be asked to change the ordinance to meet the alleged needs of the occasion and so save the owner a few dollars.

There was a time when the council took such requests seriously and tried to be accommodating. During this period the ordinance was changed so often that the father of the original ordinance would not know it in its present form.

Recently, however, the aldermen have become tired of changing the laws to suit the whim and fancy of small owners and whenever there is a change it is obtained only after a hard fight.

The amendment now asked for is in line with others in the past, but it is said to be stated for a cold turn down. A man who owns a two-story frame structure in the West end, located on Superior street, between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues east, has asked that an amendment be made to the ordinance which will allow the removal of the building across the street. The amendment was given its first reading a week ago and will come up for final disposition tonight.

Great Northern Power Company's Representatives Are in Duluth.

Jay Cooke of Philadelphia, S. Reed Anthony and P. L. Saltonstall of Boston, directors in the Great Northern Power company, are at the Spalding hotel today. The gentlemen will go to Thomson to inspect the plant and will make a report to the board of directors. Mr. Cooke is a well known business man of Philadelphia, being a director of other companies of that city. The other two gentlemen are well known in the business world of Boston.

MAKING DIAMONDS.

How Nature Does It and Why Man Cannot.

All experiments, and they have been many, go to show, if not prove that diamonds are formed by the slow cooling or crystallization of liquefied carbon in an environment of other fused material at intense heat under enormous pressure.

To obtain any effective approach to the heat of the interior of the earth electric furnaces have been invented, which are capable of producing a temperature of 5,500 degs. centigrade and vessels of such strength have been made as to stand a pressure of fifty tons to the square inch. To the nonscientific mind these figures are practically incomprehensible, says the Queen, and the vastness of the first set can only be dimly imagined when one remembers that in the centigrade register the boiling point of water is represented by 100 degs.

As to the second figure, we can vaguely illustrate its meaning by comparing it with the pressure produced in the underground laboratories of nature, which is enough to shake a continent, while the mere excess of the molten material, which is, as it were, boiling over, is sufficient to devastate whole districts and bury entire cities.

The third condition precedent to the making of a diamond is slowness of crystallization, or, in other words, length of time. Sir William Crookes, who has made diamonds, plunged his white hot carbide into cold water, with the result that any crystals produced generally exploded a short time after being liberated from their matrix, even if they did not do so before.

If the scientist cannot wait long enough for the cooling process, the rogue in a hurry to be rich by deceiving people cannot afford to wait. Hence there is no chance of a swindler achieving any real success, for he could not afford to wait long enough for the proper crystallization, even if the other conditions were present.

There are many tests for ascertaining the genuineness of a diamond, some simple and some more difficult of carrying out, such as the use of the cathode rays, under the influence of which paste does not glow as do the real gems. But nature herself has imposed a condition and test which none but the genuine stones can stand.

Her test is simply that of time, and the proof of fraud, which is at once decisive and penal to the artificially made diamond, is simply self-destruction—it explodes and dissolves itself into dust. We have seen that the gem is produced under immense pressure, but as the outside solidifies first and carbon has the abnormal property of expanding instead of contracting on solidification there is generally a condition of strain in the interior of the crystal which sooner or later, but usually very soon, causes the stone to explode.

This occurs indeed not infrequently in nature, when the gems have crystallized under relatively rapid cooling and the diamond soon after its removal from the enveloping matrix, the so-called "blue ground," explodes. This is doubtless the case with the great Cullinan diamond, the largest yet discovered, measuring 4 by 2½ and 2 inches and weighing before cutting nearly one and a half pounds.

It was the half only of an enormous octahedron, which had probably split owing to this internal strain. No one in his senses would purchase a gem which was liable to destroy itself at any moment and no reputable firm would dream of selling jewels which might explode even before the customer got home.

Chemically produced or "scientific" diamonds were first experimented for by J. B. Hannay in or before 1880 and by Sydney Marsden in 1881, who produced black and transparent diamonds; but the first authentic artificial preparation of the diamond is due to the celebrated French chemist M. Moissan, who followed Mr. Marsden's experiments in 1894-1905.

The French savant, however, never succeeded in obtaining transparent diamonds by his process; at least the white crystals yielded to reagents and were probably only carborundum and not pure carbon. These results, although deeply interesting to scientists, have not the least interest to any one else. For one thing the "diamonds" are so small they need a magnifying glass to see them, the largest ever produced being only one-fourth of an inch long.

TIPPING IN BOHEMIA.

London Chronicle: In the city of Prague a tip to the tramway conductor is considered re riguer. The orthodox tip consists of but two heller, or two-tenths of a penny, yet as "strap hanging" is allowed for in considering the carrying capacity of the car the conductors should have got a goodly pocketful of the minimum coin by each day's end.

Tipping, it was ascertained, in another of Bohemia's larger towns, is so fully recognized that the head waiter at a cafe pays a rent for his post, supplies all the journals for the coffee room and looks after the other waiters, and then makes an income larger than that of a university professor—all out of his tips.

After supper at one of the delightful open air cafes of the capital it was found that approximately one should give a half krone (fivepence) to the head waiter who took payment, twopence to the under waiter who brought the viands, and a halfpenny to the boy who brought—and ever brought again as one glass was finished—the beer.

Don't sit and look on while some other man gets all the business in your line. By advertising in this paper you can enjoy the sensation of seeing things move with a rush.

GET BUSY, DOCTOR!

In a recent issue of the American Journal of Clinical Medicine, the editor takes occasion to remind physicians of a number of instances, common to the practice of all, when quick, decisive action is necessary. Among other recommendations, it says:

"Get busy when a patient comes to you with a cough. It may be only a cold, but then a cold may be the precursor of pneumonia, or the cough an early symptom of pulmonary tuberculosis."

To break up a cold quickly and cure any cough that is curable, there is no more effective remedy than the mixture of two ounces of Glycerine with eight ounces of good Whisky and a half-ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure. Take a teaspoonful every four hours. This formula is as inexpensive as it is effective, because the mixture provides a quantity sufficient to last the average family an entire year. Where Whisky is not readily obtainable, five ounces of tincture of Cinchona compound can be used instead with equal effect. It is better to purchase the ingredients separately and prepare the mixture at home.

The genuine Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure is a combination of the active principles of the Pine and Santalwood, retaining the well-known healing properties of those trees. To insure its freshness and purity, it is put up for dispensnig only in half-ounce vials, each vial securely sealed in a round wooden case. Be sure to use the genuine, prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, O.

WHEAT HAS FIRM TONE

The Market is Steady and Closes With Small Gains.

Flax is Very Active Over Wide Range Here—Close Up.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 26.—Wheat values showed slight fractional gains over Saturday at the close of a steady session today. Cables were firm and Argentine shipments were a trifle lighter than expected, so what little news there was kept prices pretty well up, or at least prevented them from going down very far. Once during the last hour, the market eased off below Saturday's close but it recovered sufficiently by the end of the session to show a slight advantage over Saturday.

The visible supply of wheat increased 3,137,000 bus.

Liverpool closed unchanged to ½d higher, Antwerp unchanged, Budapest ⅛c lower and Berlin ½c higher.

The December option closed ⅛c higher in Duluth, Minneapolis and Kansas City, ⅛@¼c higher in Chicago and St. Louis, ⅝c higher in New York and ½c higher in Winnipeg. The May option closed ⅛c higher in Duluth and Minneapolis, a shade up in Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City, ¼c higher in New York and ⅝c higher in Winnipeg.

December corn closed unchanged in Chicago and unchanged in Liverpool. December oats closed ⅛c higher in Chicago.

World's shipments of wheat and corn last week, the week previous and the corresponding week a year ago, are shown as follows:

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat.—Dullness characterized the early dealings at which time offerings were light. The market had a steady undertone although opening values were unchanged. Later, however, support developed on the fact that the world's experts for the week were lighter than expected and private reports from Argentina reflected damage from the recent frost, which caused a few sellers. At mid-day, the market was firm and from ¼d to ⅜d higher than Saturday.

"Corn was dull and neglected. Prices were unchanged from Saturday."

Car receipts at Duluth were 606 against 366 last year, and at Minneapolis 456 against 398 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 1,062 against 764 last year. Chicago received 60 against 103 last year. Winnipeg received 918 against 555 last year.

Wheat was steady within a narrow range today and closed firm. December wheat opened ⅝c higher at $1.01⅛, declined to $1.01¼, rallied to $1.01⅜, went off to $1.01¼, reacted to $1.01⅜, and closed at $1.01⅜, a gain of ⅝c over Saturday. May wheat opened unchanged at $1.05¼, advanced to $1.05½, declined to $1.05 and closed at $1.05⅜, a gain of ⅛c over Saturday.

Durum wheat closed ¼c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2½c over December for No. 1 northern.

Flax was very active over a wide range and closed strong, although losing the high level of the day. October flax opened ⅝c higher at $1.24¼, advanced to $1.25⅝ and closed at $1.25, a gain of 1⅜c over Saturday. November flax opened ⅛c higher at $1.24¼, went as high as $1.26, declined to $1.25⅛ and closed at $1.25¼, a gain of ⅛c over Saturday. December flax opened ⅛c higher at $1.24¼, declined to $1.24 and closed at $1.24⅜, a gain of 1c over Saturday. May flax opened unchanged at $1.27, went to $1.29, declined to $1.28 and closed at $1.28¾, a gain of 1½c.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE.

Duluth December wheat closed ⅛c higher.
Minneapolis December wheat is ⅛c higher.
Chicago December wheat closed ⅛c to ¼c higher.
Liverpool wheat cables were higher.
Duluth November flax closed 1¼c higher.
New York stocks are steady.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Firm Cables' Effect Offset by Continued Rainy Weather.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—The wheat market opened quiet and steady, prices at the start being a shade lower to ⅛c higher compared with Saturday's close. Trade continued quiet during the early part of the session.

Cables were firm, but this influence was offset by the continued talk in the winter wheat belt. December opened at 99c to 99⅛c, sold at 99¼c and then reacted to 99c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,128 cars against 1,196 cars last week and 867 cars a year ago.

Trade was quiet all day an dprice flpctuations were limited to 2½c. Liberal increases in the visible supply of wheat in the United States and Canada caused slight recessions in the price during the last half of the session, December declining to 98⅝c. Later demand by shorts carried prices back to about the opening level. The close was steady with December up ⅛@⅛c at 99⅛@¼c.

Corn opened firm on buying brought out by wet weather, but the market soon eased off because of selling by several leading commission houses. December opened ⅛c to ¼c higher at 63⅝c to 63¾c and sold off to 63⅜c. Local receipts were 96 cars with 33 of contract grade.

Sentiment was rather bearish the last part of the day owing to sharp declines in the price of the cash grain. The close was steady, with December unchanged at 63½c.

Oats were dull and the market was steady, prices at the opening being unchanged to a shade higher compared with the previous close. December opened unchanged at 47½@47⅝c, sold at 47½c and then up to 47⅝c. Local receipts were 227 cars.

An advance in live hogs caused a sharp advance in the provisions market. Prices at the start were 5c to 32½c higher, with pork leading in the advance. Receipts of live hogs at Western packing centers were much less than for the corresponding day a year ago.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Argentine Frost and Liverpool Firmness Prove Sustaining Factors

Minneapolis, Oct. 26.—Spring wheat receipts somewhat larger than expected and dullness in the pit pressed the market, but more frost in Argentina and firmness in Liverpool were sustaining. Duluth receipts of 608 cars against 366 were for two days this year against one last year, but Minneapolis on a one-day comparison ran over with 456 cars against 398 and Winnipeg got 918 against 655.

Minneapolis stocks increased 325,000 bushels for two days. Trade was extremely light all day and range very narrow. December opened $1.01⅛; high $1.01⅛; low, $1.00⅝@⅞; close, $1.01⅛. Old December closed $1.01⅛; May opened, $1.05½; high, $1.05½; low, $1.04⅞@1.05; close, $1.05⅜.

Wheat sold well off the cash tables. No. 1 northern at 2½@2¾c over December. Millers, shippers and elevators bought. GOLF DRIVE OF 395 YARDS.

In an autobiographical sketch at the end of his new book of golf James Braid tells of his longest drive.

"So far as I can recollect," he writes, "it was in 1905, when playing a round at Walton Heath with Mr. Riddell. The course was frostbound and the wind was at our backs when we were playing the fifteenth hole, and I hit my tee shot a distance of 395 yards, carefully calculated afterward.

"Of course you can drive a ball wonderful distances when the turf is frozen, and such a feat as this is no test of one's general capacity, but on the other hand, it was so cold that I could scarcely grip my club, and I feel sure that if I could have held it properly I should that day have driven very much further.

"At the eighteenth hole in the same round I drove to the bunker guarding the green, which was another drive of nearly the same length. As to what distances I have driven under normal conditons I really do not know.

"Once when I was plying a match against Harry Vardon at Hyhte I made a carry which was generally remarked upon at the time as being something very much out of the ordinry, but I do not remember what was the exact length of it."

No competitor will be able to cut very deep into your trade if you make persistent and intelligent use of the advertising columns of The Herald.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Opened Narrow With Light Trading and Closed Heavy.

Business So Dull as to Leave Market Almost Stagnant.

New York, Oct. 26.—A narrow and indecisive movement of prices accompanied the dealings in stocks today, which were only moderate in volume. A rise of a point in Amalagmated Copper was the feature. Westinghouse Electric also gained 1.

Trading was so dull as to leave the market almost stagnant. The undertone however, was firm. Atchison, Illinois Central, Atlantic Coast Line and National Biscuit gained one, American Ice and Pullman and Westinghouse Electric 2½. Bonds were irregular.

Price fluctuations in the noon hour were too narrow to arouse any interest.

The absence of realizing orders and a demand for Union Pacific helped prices to harden. Purchases, however, diminished when the general rise exceeded ½. Union Pacific and Northern Pacific gained 1¼ and Wisconsin Central preferred, American Car and Utah Copper 1. Great Northern Ore Certificates yielded 1.

The market closed heavy and intensely dull. American Smelting lost 1¾, Sloss-Sheffield Steel 2, American Car preferred 1½, and United States Rubber 1. The stagnation of the demand allowed some drop from the top level but the market was in a lethargy. Kansas & Texas preferred declined 1.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Oct. 26.—The cotton market opened steady and unchanged to five points lower, owing to indifferent cables, better weather in the South and the census report showing more cotton ginned to Oct. 18 than had been generally expected. Wall street bulls who had taken profits on the advance of last week, bought actively at the decline, however, claiming that fifty per cent or more of the crop had been ginned and prices rallied. After showing a net advance of three to five points the market reacted two or three points from the best toward midday, but the tone was very steady.

GROUNDHOG FIGHTS SNAKES.

Philadelphia Record: A groundhog on the McGraw farm, near Irwin, fought five immense blacksnakes at the same time, killing two of them, and was in a fair way to slay the other two when McGraw and a farmhand went to the rescue of the little rodent. The groundhog had burrowed beneath the barn, and the snakes endeavored to claim the hole. When McGraw and the farmhand appeared the groundhog was on his haunches nipping at the two remaining snakes. McGraw killed the two snakes and captured the groundhog.

WEST END

REPENTANCE THE TOPIC

Rev. Roderick J. Mooney Preaches a Strong Sermon.

Evening Services in St. Luke's Episcopal Church Are Popular.

The Sunday evening services in St. Luke's Episcopal church, an innovation two weeks ago, are becoming very popular in the West end. Formerly, services were held in St. Luke's in the morning.

Last evening, Rev. Mr. Mooney preached a sermon on "Repentance" to a large congregation. His text was "God Commanded All Men Everywhere to Repent." He spoke, in part, as follows:

"Repentance is one of the fundamental doctrines of Christianity. John, the Baptist preached 'Repent ye, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at Hand.' When Christ came on earth He took up the same strain, 'Repent, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at Hand.' When our Lord sent his disciples to evangelize the world it was with the same message, that men should repent. After the transfiguration of our Beloved Lord, St. Peter met the multitude with the same note. When St. Paul came to Athens his message was 'Now God commanded all men to repent.'

"Before I proceed to discuss what repentance is, let me briefly say what it is not. Repentance is not mere fear; it is not simply feeling; not fasting; not simply correction of sin; not even is it praying about sin; not the breaking away from one sin to begin another.

"Repentance is a turning away from sin. It is right-about-face from sin; turning unto God to get strength to sin no more.

"How lovingly God our Father receives the returning sinner! The Bible tells us He 'blots out the sin.' He casts it into the depths of the sea: Repentance is the well-beaten, yet the royal road to God."

ELMQUIST SPEAKS.

Republican Candidate Talks at Rally in the West End.

Charles E. Elmquist, candidate for state railroad and warehouse commissioner on the Republican ticket, and W. E. Culkin, chairman of the St. Louis county Republican committee, were the principal speakers at a rally held Saturday evening in Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, under the auspices of the Svea Republican club.

Mr. Elmquist talked of both national and state issues. Speaking of the chances of the Republican national ticket, Mr. Elmquist said:

"The sentiment for Taft in Minnesota and the entire United States is growing so fast that nothing Bryan and his cohorts can do will stop it."

Speaking of state issues, Mr. Elmquist recalled the so-called split in the Republican ranks of the state after the Dunn-Collins fight six years ago, and declared that there was no dissatisfaction this year from any member of the state convention when Jacob F. Jacobson was made the gubernatorial nominee.

The attendance was light.

RECEPTION FOR PASTOR.

Rev. Stockland to be Honor Guest at Grace Church Function.

Rev. M. O. Stockland, the new pastor of Grace M. E. church, will be tendered a reception this week, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society.

The society will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. J. W. Preston of West Second street, when plans for the function will be completed. It will probably be held Friday evening at the church.

This is Mr. Stockland's second week as pastor of the church. A reception was to have been held last week, but business called Mr. Stockland out of the city for several days.

Railroad Man Will Wed.

Halmer Hanson, an employe of the Northern Pacific railroad, will be married this evening to Miss Esther Lindbergh of Fosston, Minn. The wedding ceremony will be celebrated at the home of the bride. Mr. Hanson lives at 2012 West Fifth street and is well known to residents of the West End.

West End Shortrails.

Members of St. Agnes Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church are making elaborate preparations for the "Southern dinner" they will give Wednesday, from 11:30 a. m. to 2 p. m., in Elks' hall, up-town. This is an annual affair with the Guild.

At the services in the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church last evening, John S. T. Strum, one of the prominent members of the congregation, who has just returned from abroad, told of his visit to Norway.

Mrs. A. W. Anderson has gone to Wittenburg, Iowa., to visit her sister. Miss Anna Jerpbining and Otto Moberg were married Saturday evening at their new home, 219 Nineteenth avenue west, by Rev. H. K. Madsen, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church. The bridal party comprised Misses Louise and Christina Dralning and Charles Johnson.

The Dorcas society of the Bethany Lutheran church will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Conreid Johnson, on Devonshire street.

Rev. Carl G. Olson, pastor of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, is conducting services today at Alborn. Before returning he will attend meetings at Grand Rapids and Bovey. He is expected back Thursday.

SCORES TO PASS UPON IDENTITY

Alleged Murderer of Six Will Undergo Severe Ordeal.

San Jose, Cal., Oct. 26.—Suspected of being Charles Dunham, the murderer of half a dozen persons, William Hatfield today faced such an ordeal of attempted identification as has been suffered by few men. In this county there are probably 500 persons who were, twelve years ago, sufficiently well acquainted with Dunham to make their opinions of value.

Hatfield will be subjected to the closest scrutiny by a dozen persons each day until the authorities are satisfied.

Such an experience was once before meted out to a suspect named James Crill, a man whose marvelous resemblance to Dunham is yet the subject of comment in this city. Crill was brought here from the Middle West and was detained in jail a week, while scores of intimate acquaintances of Dunham and his six victims came, saw and split evenly upon the subject of his identity. Crill was finally released.

Hatfield differs from Crill in disposition at least. While Crill seemed perfectly content, the new prisoner is not. Upon his arrival he denounced in the strongest terms the action of the officers at Sherman, Tex., where he was arrested, declaring he was tortured with heavy manacles, was insufficiently clothed and detained in custody after the officers had been clearly shown that the prisoner was not the murderer of the McClincey family and employes.

LOEB HURRIES GOMPERS' REPLY

Says Author Whom Labor Leader Quotes, Favors Taft.

Washington, Oct. 26.—When shown the reply of Mr. Gompers, Secretary Loeb authorized the following statement:

"Mr. Gompers quotes from the presidents correspondence with him about George W. Alger's book 'Moral Overstrain.' The president has distributed copies of that book to judges, labor leaders and others and he now honestly wishes that Mr. Gompers would read this same Mr. Alger's magazine article on 'Taft and Labor' printed last month. It is the most effective exposure of Mr. Gompers' position that has been produced. Ever since its appearance the president has been in close touch with Mr. Alger on this whole injunction matter."

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The secretary of the treasury has decided to purchase the property at the southeast corner of Litchfield avenue and Fourth streets, Willmar, Minn., as a site for the new public building to be erected in that city. This property is owned by D. N. Tallman, and the purchase price is $7,500. The proposed federal building will cost $35,500.

ROOSEVELT IS FIFTY

Rulers of the World Send Their Congratulations.

President at Work Early on His Birthday Anniversary.

Washington, Oct. 27.—President Roosevelt became 50 years of age today.

He began his fifty-first year by getting to his desk early, and spending the day hard at work in his office receiving such members of his cabinet as are in town at the regular semi-weekly meeting, and discussing with them matters relating to their departments.

Congratulatory messages poured into the president's office and at the White House all day. Many foreign rulers took advantage of the opportunity to send messages of warm friendship and good will through their diplomatic representatives, who called in person to present them to the president.

WITNESS SAID TO BE MISSING

Is Much Needed in Trial of Alleged Wife Slayer.

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 27.—Before the trial of Theodore S. Whitmore, who is accused of the murder of his wife, Helena, last Christmas, was resumed today a report was circulated that Frederick W. Elliott of Auburndale, Mass., one of the state's important witnesses, was missing.

In the office of Prosecutor Garvin, however, it was stated that while Mr. Elliott had not been in court he is expected.

His importance as a witness lies in his testimony to the effect that after Mrs. Whitmore's death Elliott sent several messages to her relatives purporting to be written by Mrs. Whitmore. It is alleged that Elliott did this at the request of Whitmore.

BAD FOREIGNERS TO BE BARRED

Amoy, Oct. 27.—As a precaution against disturbance during the visit here of the second squadron of the American battleship fleet, invitations to China for the reception to the fleet have been limited to 400.

Many foreigners of bad character are assembled here, but no foreigner will be admitted to the grounds where the receptions are to be held without a pass from the consular representative of his country.

Invitations to the Foo Chow students and naval cadets have been withdrawn.

HEAR BRYAN AT 3 A. M.

Army of Night Toilers at New York City Hall.

Red Fire Burns, Band Plays in Early Morn.

New York, Oct. 27.—For the first time in their history, at such an hour, the gray walls of the old city hall were lighted up by red fire at 3 this morning, when William Jennings Bryan, bareheaded and smiling, was introduced from the steps of the building to a big crowd of night workers gathered there to greet him and hear him speak on the issues of the campaign.

The crowd was composed principally of employes in the big newspaper offices on Park Row, the telegraph offices and the general postoffice across the park, while here and there a yellow "duster" marked a listener from one of the big markets, where work does not cease with darkness. A brass band entertained the crowd with patriotic airs until the arrival of Mr. Bryan and his party, and a number of lesser lights in the political field spoke briefly, but neither the interruptions, nor the arrival or speech of Mr. Bryan himself disturbed the regular patrons of the park benches, scores of whom slept on undisturbed

HEAVY LABORS TELL UPON TAFT

Nominee Declares He Will be Able to Continue, However.

New York, Oct. 27.—William H. Taft left New York this morning for Troy, where he will arrive tonight. During the day he spoke in Yonkers, Tarrytown, Peekskill, Fishkill Landing, Poughkeepsie, Hudson, Schenectady and Cohoes. Taft felt the heavy work of yesterday, but expressed himself as being in fit condition to carry out his itinerary for the rest of the campaign.

MACHINE GUN FOR INFANTRY PROPOSED

Washington, Oct. 27.—Maj. Gen. J. Bell, chief of the general staff of the army, called on the president yesterday and presented a report made to him by Capt. J. H. Parker on experiments for a machine gun service.

GEN. J. FRANKLIN BELL.

He recommended a machine gun company for every regiment of infantry in the army. In his forthcoming message to congress the president probably will recommend that such a service be inaugurated.

"TAKE YOUR BABY," CRIES GIRL AS GROOM TURNS FROM ALTAR

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 27.—A dramatic climax attended the marriage in St. Peter's church of Charles J. Reagan and Miss Mary B. Chadwick, both well known socially.

The decorated and bedowered church was crowded with friends of the happy young couple. Both have a large acquaintance and many relatives.

After the wedding, the bride and bridegroom, accompanied by the bridesmaids and the best man, started slowly down the aisle, keeping pace with the inspiring music of Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The little procession had gone about two-thirds of the distance, when there was a startling diversion. A closely veiled woman, in sombre black, who had been a quiet spectator, rose and, taking up a bright little boy about 4 years old in her arms, stepped out into the bridal pair's path. It was so sudden that both halted in amazement.

"Stop, Charles Reagan," cried the intruder, throwing back her veil. "Stop, you will have to listen to me."

"Miss Sullivan, Miss—" gasped Reagan, his bride echoing faintly, "Miss Sullivan."

"Yes, it's I," she said hoarsely, choking back a sob. "Here he is. Here's your child; take him. You have got to support him. I have cared for him going on four years. Now you have got to take him."

"But you don't mean—" stammered Reagan, who was pale as death.

His bride clung to him as if ready to swoon. Friends crowded around and waited.

Continuing, the woman screamed:

"She—she is your wife—now let her care for your baby—your's and mine. Now take him, take him, the two of you."

She tried to thrust the crying baby into the bridegroom's arms, but friends then interfered and Miss Sullivan was induced to leave the church.

Reagan and his bride went to the young wife's home, but they had little appetite for the wedding breakfast prepared for them. As soon as it could be done, they left the company.

Miss Sullivan still has the child.

THE PEOPLE HAVE A RIGHT TO KNOW

To Messrs. A. L. Ordean, Julius Barnes, C. A. Congdon, W. I. Prince, Ward Ames, Sr., and other signers of the News Tribune's Jacobson manifesto who have not repudiated it:

You appear in the manifesto published in the News Tribune of Sunday morning as vouching for Mr. Jacobson as a friend of the iron country and Duluth. Not having repudiated, as others have done, the interpretation of your signatures to that effect, the people must conclude that you intend to be taken as declaring that Governor Johnson is less a friend of the iron country in the tonnage tax matter than Mr. Jacobson, as that document represents you as declaring.

Now, Governor Johnson has declared himself upon the tonnage tax, and what he said appeared to satisfy the thousands of people in this county who heard it.

On the other hand, Mr. Jacobson, who introduced a tonnage tax bill in 1897, who introduced another in 1902, and who supported a third, in the very form most dangerous to this section, in 1907, has refused to declare himself as to his present attitude on this important subject. We must judge him, in the absence of any declaration by him or for him, as standing upon his record, as he continues to declare elsewhere in the state.

We have been unable to induce Mr. Jacobson, or anybody else for him, to declare his present stand on this matter. Noting the confidence of your declaration that Mr. Jacobson is a friend of this section, we turn, gentlemen, to you and to any or all of you.

WHEN DID MR. JACOBSON TAKE YOU INTO HIS CONFIDENCE? WHAT DID HE SAY TO YOU ABOUT THE TONNAGE TAX?

The people, we submit, have a right to know upon what you base your assertion that he is a friend of this county. In justice to yourselves and to the people you seek to influence, you cannot refuse to enlighten the public upon these two questions. They have a right to know. Mr. Jacobson refuses to tell them, and we turn, in behalf of the people who wish to know their friend from their enemy and to know why one is their friend and the other their enemy, to you, and we know that the people will await your replies with deep concern.

BIG CROWD AT MANKATO

Greatest Political Rally Ever Held in Southern Minnesota.

Mankato, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor John A. Johnson was given a great ovation in Mankato last night. He addressed 2,000 people at the Mankato theater, several hundred at Williams' hall, and another crowd at the A. O. U. W. hall. It was the biggest political rally ever held in Mankato; in fact, in Southern Minnesota. There were delegations from every town in this section of the state, including a large crowd from St. Peter, the governor's home.

The governor delivered the same speech that has won to his support thousands of people in other portions of the state. He was repeatedly applauded. The ladies' meeting was held at A. O. U. W. hall, and there Governor Johnson declared himself in favor of woman suffrage.

T. D. O'Brien of St. Paul was another speaker who won applause, and Attorney Herdale of Minneapolis, who delivered a fine speech. The supporters of Governor Johnson have been aroused to still greater enthusiasm by the demonstration which was an evidence of his great popularity and strength in Southern Minnesota.

MAURETANIA IN AN ACCIDENT

Gangway Breaks and Loss of Lives is Barely Averted.

Queenstown, Oct. 27.—The steamer Mauretania was unable to land her passengers, and most of her mails here last night on account of the heavy sea that was running.

The gangway broke and damaged a large tender, which was obliged to put off from alongside the ship. The Mauretania lowered a whaleboat, which took off the port officials who had boarded the ship and returned with eighteen of the ship's crew who were on board the tender.

Loss of life was narrowly avoided.

HICKS IN COURT; BRIBERY CHARGE

The Indicted Minneapolis School Board Man Goes to Trial.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—William K. Hicks, indicted member of the Minneapolis school board, was placed on trial this morning in the Hennepin county district court.

Hicks was indicted on five counts for the alleged taking of bribes, and the attorneys promise one of the most sensational cases in the history of the Northwest.

A special venire of 100 talesmen has been drawn, but these will probably be exhausted before a jury is secured.

KIDNAPERS FAIL TO GET RANSOM BECAUSE VICTIM MAKES ESCAPE

Mount Vernon, Wash., Oct. 27.—While driving to Mount Vernon last night from his lumber camp, fifteen miles from here, Edward English, a wealthy lumber man of Mount Vernon, was held up and kidnaped by a lone robber, about three miles from town. The robber forced English to make a note payable at a Mount Vernon bank for $5,000, and write the following letter to his wife:

"Mrs. English: Dear Wife—I am held up and kidnaped for $5,000, and I am threatened with having my ears cut off if the money is not forthcoming by tomorrow noon. For God's sake make all haste. Show this to Mr. Hannay and solicit this sum.

"ED ENGLISH."

Hannay is connected with a Mount Vernon bank. The robber, within two miles of town, handed the note and letter to a passing traveler, telling him that English had been injured in a runaway and to take the missive to Mrs. English. This the stranger did. Meanwhile the bandit left his victim tied to a tree, evidently intending to return to him in the morning to see if the ransom was forthcoming.

English, however, managed to break loose from the ropes which bound him and made his way to the home of Henry Day about two miles from Mount Vernon, where he telephoned his wife and Sheriff Harmon of Skagit county. The sheriff at once sent out deputies.

Loss of Power

It Is a Self Evident Fact That the Continual and Protracted Loss of Vital Principle of Life Will Cause a Corresponding Loss of Power to "Do Things."

The man who is continually drawing on his reserve stock of vitality will certainly, sooner or later, suffer from a total collapse—this is inevitable.

When that collapse comes what chance do you think he will have of recovery, when his force of resistance is reduced to the minimum and his system is overworked to the limit? Very little!

The time to start thinking about a cure is not just before overtaxed Nature gives up the struggle altogether, but as soon as the dread symptoms are recognized.

Now let us consider the question of cost—if you were offered in return for an investment of, say, $40, a continual additon to your salary of from $10 to $20 a week, would you not be foolish to refuse? And yet, what enables you to earn any salary at all?—your power to "DO THINGS."

When, whoever can add to a great extent to your power ot DO THINGS IS adding to your salary to the same extent.

By enabling you to throw off the effect of weakening and debilitating excesses, the PROGRESSIVE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION OF NO. 1 W. SUPERIOR STREET IS ACTUALLY ADDING TO YOUR SALARY TWO OR THREE HUNDRED PER CENT WHAT THEY CHARGE YOU FOR THE CURE!

Remember all cases handled by the PROGRESSIVE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION receive a WRITTEN GUARANTEE that a cure will be effected.

BOTH CLAIM INSURANCE

Claiming that the first life insurance certificate obtained by her daughter from the Modern Samaritans was lost and that the second certificate made her the beneficiary, Mrs. Alice M. Kline has filed in district court her answer to the suit of Clifford H. Oppel, her daughter's husband.

Mr. Oppel, by Frances Oppel, his guardian ad litem, filed suit some time ago against the Modern Samaritans for $1,000, claimed to be due on an insurance policy held by his wife, who died June 8 of this year. Mrs. Kline, who also claimed the money under a later certificate, was later substituted as defendant, the money being deposited with the clerk of court to be disposed of as the court might direct. It is still held by the clerk of court and the suit will determine which party has a right to it.

In her answer, Mrs. Kline says that her daughter was married to Clifford H. Oppel Jan. 18, 1908, and lived with him until March 10, 1908, when she was removed to a hospital at West Duluth. On March 25, she was taken from the hospital to her mother's home and her mother subsequently had the care of her.

Mrs. Kline admits that her daughter was given a certificate in the Modern Samaritans on Feb. 24, 1908, and the husband was made beneficiary, but she charges that about May 12, 1908, the certificate was lost and her daughter renounced all rights under it. On May 15, she says, another certificate was issued and under it, she was made beneficiary. She claims that under that certificate, she has the right to the $1,000 insurance on her daughter's life, and she asks that judgment accordingly be entered in her favor.

WIVES SEEK SEPARATION

Sensational charges of infidelity and cruel treatment are made by Mrs. Emma Collins in a suit for divorce filed in district court this morning against her husband, Frank A. Collins. The home of the couple is at 626 St. Peter street, St. Paul.

Mrs. Collins is 25 years old and her husband is 26 years. They were married at Carlton, June 9, 1903, and for about two years, have lived at St. Paul, where Mr. Collins is employed as a railroad switchman. Mrs. Collins charges that her husband consorted with women of loose and immoral character in the vicinity of the railroad yards at St. Paul. She came to Duluth Aug. 14 and began the action for divorce. She asks that she be given a divorce and her maiden name of Emma Rohlf be restored. There are no children.

In a reply to the answer of her husband, Mrs. Bertha Fillatrault reiterates the charges made in the complaint against Albert J. Fillatrault. The reply was filed in district court this morning, but the complaint and answer have not yet been filed. The reply indicates that she brings suit on the grounds that the cruel treatment of her by her husband and his failure to provide food and clothing for herself and her children forced her to leave her homestead and seek a means of livelihood elsewhere. She is now conducting a boarding house at the Gilbert mine location, near Eveleth.

STILL STRANDED IN DULUTH

The brother of Mrs. Minnie Roberts, to whom an appeal has been made for funds to enable his sister to continue her journey to Seattle, Wash., has thus far not responded to the request, and Mrs. Roberts is still in Duluth under the care of a new-found friend.

Judge Middlecoff of the probate court, who first interested himself in the case, has written another letter to the brother at Dike, Tex., explaining the situation and suggesting that he send the desired relief, as his sister is in distress over her condition.

Mrs. Roberts' case is peculiar. She was picked up at the union station about three weeks ago, supposedly insane. It afterwards developed that she had been robbed of all her money and her frantic grief was mistaken by a policeman for the action of an insane person. After being adjudged sane by the probate court, Mrs. Roberts remained in the county jail for a time, as she had no other place to go. In the meantime, her brother was notified of her predicament.

A letter was received from the brother last week, in which he said he would send the money. At about the same time, charitably inclined people interested themselves in the case, and the woman was enabled to leave the jail. She still has no money, however, and is dependent on the friends who took her in charge. It is expected the second appeal will have the desired effect and the money will be forthcoming for her to continue her journey. When she became stranded in Duluth, Mrs. Roberts was en route to Seattle, from where she had journeyed to Ohio to attend the funeral of her mother.

ODDS FAVOR THE GOVERNOR

Johnson Money is Not Covered by Jacobson Supporters.

Odds have swung back to Governor Johnson in the election book prepared by a Superior street grocer and displayed in the window of one of the signers of the News Tribune's list of Jacobson voters.

The odds now favor Johnson 12 to 10, and even money is offered that Johnson will have 5,000 plurality in the state.

Even money is also offered that Johnson will carry the Sixth and Eighth congressional districts. But more tempting odds than this will have to be offered before there will be many takers among the Jacobson supporters. If they would offer to take the Jacobson end of the same bet, the bookmakers might transact a heavier business.

REYNOLDS HERE IN NOVEMBER

Nov. 14 has practically been decided upon as the date for having Dr. H. M. Reynolds of St. Anthony Park, Minn., in Duluth to address the dairymen of this section of the state on matters of general interest to them.

The meeting will be held either in the Commercial club rooms or in the council chambers at the city hall. Dr. Reynolds' talk will be along the lines of the campaign of education which Health Commissioner Patton is conducting to promote a better supply of milk and cream for Duluth. He is an authority on the subject, and is connected with the state experimental farm at St. Anthony Park.

All the dairymen of Duluth will be invited to attend the meeting, and it will be to their advantage to be on hand, for they will be able to get many valuable pointers from the doctor.

STARTED FIRST NATIONAL MEET

Ishpheming, Mich., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following an illness extending over a period of months, Carl Tellefsen, a prominent business man of Marquette county and Upper Michigan, is dead here.

The deceased was well known throughout the Northwest because of his connection with the National Ski association, of which he was the president. He was an enthusiastic lover of the great Scandinavian sport of ski-jumping, and it was largely through his efforts that that winter pastime has attained its remarkable popularity in the Lake Superior region. It was Mr. Tellefsen who arranged the first national ski tournament ever held in the United States, this at Ishpheming some years ago, and because of this he was called the father of the sport in this country.

SUES LUMBER COMPANY.

Petrus Berg filed suit in district court this morning against the Cooldge-Schussler company for $1,000 damages for monopolization of the East Savanna river, a small stream flowing into the St. Louis river, for the floating of logs and for damming the stream so that it overflowed its banks and damaged his crops.

Berg asserts that he is the owner of the southeast quarter of section 10, township 51 north, range 21 west, through which the East Savanna river flows. He claims he had some logs which he wished to cut and float down to the St. Louis river, but the Cooldge-Schussler company has monopolized the river and have put more logs in it above his land than it could carry in the drive. He claims also that the company caused the river to be dammed to increase its depth and that in consequence it overflowed its banks and invaded his land.

The Henricksen Jewelry Co.

"The Leading Jewelers"

The Henricksen Jewelry Co. notice in Sunday morning's paper that a competing jewelry house in the city is making use of a slogan which has, for the past twelve years been used exclusively by themselves:

"The Leading Jewelers"

They wish to draw the attention of the public to this fact to avoid the possibility of confusing the two houses, and also to draw the attention of the competing house to what may be nothing but a typographical error, but which, in any case, will not redounb to the credit of the house.

The Henricksen Jewelry Co., ever since they commenced business in the city, have used the title of and, without doubt, have proven their claim to the title.

As the Henricksen Jewelry Co. proposes to continue to make use of their slogan, they wish to draw the attention of the other house to the fact that to retain their slogan, which is, we believe, "The Fashionable Jewelers," would be considerably more to their advantage than to make use of the Henricksen slogan.

Tuesday Talk

Business is getting better every day.

The long, continued summer retarded the selling of light weight clothes all over the country, but then the people of Duluth know full well that a long winter is just starting.

One strange feature of the market is, that the manufacturers are short of goods and that it will be hard for them to fill duplicate orders. These Easterners were all scared and didn't provide, as usual.

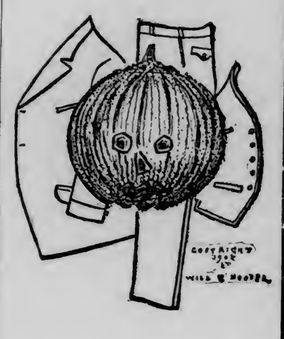

Good thing we put in the usual heavy stock that always does the big business in this metropolitan city.

Many merchants here, too, were afraid of the conditions. But we think—Johnson or Jacobson — Duluth will continue to grow and prosper, and the newspapers will get over their hysterics by next week.

One of our best stocked departments is the Boys' and Children's section. It is a laudable fact that many parents whose finances are not so good this year, will not let their boys go without good, warm clothes.

Another warm corner is the section filled with special garments for the man who toils to maintain his family.

The things he needs, such as lined duck, corduroy and Mackinaw coats, working pants, heavy shoes, Staley underwear, Carhartt gloves, caps, etc., are here in vast selections, and at the fair prices charged by a big modern One-Price-Store, that makes money on the big volume of business and doesn't try to get rich on every single customer.

Did you say you wanted a suit for Halloween?

Well, come in with $15 or $20 and we'll hand you down a garment that's really worth the price.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

A branch of the National Association of Collegiate Alumnae will be organized in Duluth, and an informal meeting of several Duluth women eligible for membership was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. C. A. Congden of 1508 East Superior street. Sixteen years ago a Duluth branch of the association was organized, but of late years little interest has been shown in the association. At present there are many Duluth women eligible for membership, and it is expected that an interested and representative organization may be formed.

At yesterday's meeting a temporary treasurer and secretary was named to fill the office until some formal organization is accomplished, which will be achieved in a few weeks, when a second meeting will be held.

The graduates to the following colleges and universities are eligible for membership in the association: Barnard college, Boston university, Bryn Mawr, University of California, University of Chicago, Cornell university, University of Illinois, University of Kansas, Leland Stanford university, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Universities of Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Northwestern university, Oberlin cllege, Wellesley college, Wesleyan university, Western Reserve university and University of Wisconsin.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD.

Annual Round-up of Society Being Held.

The Needlework Guild was forced to move today before it was settled, and the round-up is now being held at 318 East Superior street, in place of the store room first decided upon. The change of plans caused some delay in the placing of garments, but throughout the afternoon the store room was a busy place, the section presidents being busily engaged in arranging the quantities of new, warm garments which had been sent in.

One of the most interesting contributions of recent years was the gift by one Duluth woman of two little Peter Thompson suits fashioned in the smart style which would bring joy to the heart of any proud young owner.

The gifts this year, judging from the early cintributions, are to be most generous, and the quality of all the garments are most serviceable.

The exhibit will be held tomorrow, any onyone interested in the Guild and its charitable work is invited to call at the rooms to inspect this year's offerings. The annual meeting and election of officers will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, and upon the following day the distribution will take place .

GROWING LARGER.

Number 3 Shoe No Longer Average Size.

It is now declared by one who has given years of extensive study to it that our feet are not only growing larger, but the increase in size is alarming, says an Indianapolis paper. All women, he says, are undergoing this change. In America there is no hiding the fact that women are wearing larger shoes than ever before. Before this became universal, women tried to hide the fact. Now they openly admit to No. 6's and worse. In the South, where the women do not exercise, the average shoe was a No. 1 or 2. Now the Southern women wear No. 3 and 4 without shame. At one of the fashionable shoe shops in this city it is said that No. 7 is a normal shoe for women who are over 21 years old, but the width remains at A and B. Only the fat, short feet call for C and D, and double A no longer needs to be especially made, as it is now so often ordered that it is kept in stock.

ORATORIO SOLOISTS

Chicago Singers Engaged for Christmas Concert.

The soloists, who have been engaged for the Christmas presentation of "The Messiah" by the Duluth Oratorio society will be Mrs. Lucille Tewesbery, soprano; Miss Jennie Johnson, contralto; E. P. Towne, tenor and Gustav Holmquist, basso. The four soloists are of Chicago and are singers of prominence. Mr.Towne was here at the May festival. At that time he was suffering from a cold and he was most anxious to return to sing again before a Duluth audience.

After the regular rehearsal this evening of the Oratorio society an informal social hour will be enjoyed.

"MAN AND SUPERMAN"

Brilliant Lecture in Series Before Club.

"Man and Superman," Bernard Shaw's brilliant comedy was the subject of the concluding evening lecture of the series presented by Dr. N. I. Rubinkam last evening before the members of the Twentieth Century club. The lecture was one of the most enjoyable of the series. The play was discussed in a most interesting manner. "Shaw can say shocking things" said the lecturer," and he can say witty things, but he can also frame a big sentence pregnant with thought which must attract the thoughtful people."

A passage from the unacted third act of the play was read expressing the poet's discontent with the brilliant hell in which he found himself and which was under the sway of a gentlemanly devil, who was tired with the too happy sameness of Heaven. So long as a better condition than that in which he was could be understood there would be no peace except in endeavors to create that higher condition of which he had a vision. So says Bernard Shaw through his hero, John Tanner.

The speech was quoted entire by Dr. Rubinkam as one of the greatest things in literature.

The last lecture to be given by Dr. Rubinkam will be presented tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock when Hauptmann's "The Sunken Bell" will be discussed.

Classes will be organized for any hour to please the members, and already the first members are registered for noon study and during the early evening hours. There will be one leader in charge of the classes, and in addition each class will appoint one of its own members as a teacher under the direction of the leader.

Guest of Honor.

Mrs. Robert Cargill of 2617 Portland avenue, Minneapolis, was hostess at a luncheon yesterday in honor of Mrs. J. C. Carlson of this city, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. M. Gosnell, until the end of the week. Covers were placed for six and the appointments on the table were in green and red. The centerpiece was a mound of feathery ferns, and at each place were red roses. A clever idea was carried out in the illustrated postal cards by an ingenious word play. After the luncheon Mrs. Cargill entertained her guests at the Orpheum theater matinee.

HEART-HUNGER

Of Institutional Children Cannot Be Satisfied.

They have been rescued from so much worse, that is really why society has always felt that it had a right to be complacently self-satisfied over the charities that it supports for them, says Mabel Potter Daggett, in the November Delineator, in writing of the children cared for in the public institutions. Found on a doorstep blanketed with snow of a winter's night, picked up drifting about in the alleys, living from hand to mouth, committed by a kindly court that snatches them from crime to come. So they have arrived by devious courses, but always trailing clouds of tragedy with them. And, however the details vary in their previous condition of suffering, it is usually true that they were hungry and cold and ragged and dirty. A board of directors and an association of mananagers and an annual meeting of trustees took them in—into a fine, tall brick building. In 1,241 institutions throughout the United States, 100,000 such children are gathered today. There they are steam heated and shower-bathed and check-aproned and dining-room-rationed, with bread baked by the hundred loaves and meat brought by the hundred pounds.

But, listen! Still they are hungry and cold—with a hunger that is heart-deep and a chill that strikes to the soul. This is the new revelation that has come through the most advanced sociology. Nineteenth century methods of philanthropy are called sternly to the bar by the Twentieth century. "Why," falters the amazed defendant, "see, I have invested millions of dollars in the beautiful buildings in which I have housed these children!" "But," demands the plaintiff, "are they happy?" And before this charge down go defenses. The institution has done much for the dependent child. But the indictment brought against it is that it cannot do enough. For when it has fed and clothed and warmed him, it has not loved him. There is the difficulty that weaves and interweaves all through its carefully regulated system.

It is the dull stoical indifference engendered by absence of affection that slumbers like dangerous dynamite within the institutional child.

Superintendents and matrons and boards of managers, and trustees, please stand aside! There is one who can laugh at all of your methods. It is she who can sing soft, crooning songs with a little head cradled on her breast; who can answer all foolish questions, like: "Why do the flies walk on the wall?" and "Why isn't the grass purple?" who can kiss all tears away; who can bake cookies like nobody else will ever be able to bake; who is so near the divine in her wonderful nature that she can work miracles in child training where all the institutional specialists fail.

Oh, the sociologists have studied carefully the exhibit in the institutions where these 100,000 children wait. Upstairs and down through miles of polished corridors they have traveled. And, having seen the look that can only be loved away, they have turned to each other with the verdict: "Gentlemen, what the dependent child most needs is a mother."

the EVENING STORY

THE TRAIL OF THE SERPENT

By A. F. Bonney.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Mollie Chapman was a cowman's daughter, very pretty, very tearful and full of resentment as she stood in the doorway of her ranch house home.

"You are just mad at me, Charley Farrell," she cried, "'cause I went riding with Mr. McIntyre."

"I don't just trust these tenderfeet who come browsing around in store clothes," he replied, "for I've seen too many of that kind of cattle, and I think too much of you to give anyone a chance to play low-down mean tricks on you."

"Jealous, ain't you?" she jeered.

"No, not jealous," he said, low and quiet-like, "only, I love you—"

"'I love you, I love you,'" she mocked. "I don't believe you love a thing on earth except yourself and that brute of a pony you ride."

Considering that her love for Nigger was fully as great as his own, the remark showed that she was becoming quite unreasonable, and the man smiled.

"Of course I love Nig, and so do you," he said.

She stared unwinkingly at the distant mountains. "Still, I loce you better than anything else in the world, Mollie. I—"

"Jim Noman told me the same thing only yesterday," she said, with a side glance at his troubled face.

"If I catch that coyote prowling around her," he growled, "I'll attend —"

"Jealous," she laughed.

Realizing that he was getting the worst of it, as men always will in such encounters, and also feeling his hot temper rising, he left her abruptly.

Presently, as she worked, a voice from a near-by window startled her.

"May I come in, Miss Mollie?" it said.

"Why, Mr. McIntyre, where did you come from?"

"Same old place," laconically.

"And what brought you here?" innocently.

"Same old thing—no—I mean—er—the same—"

"Your horse?" ignoring the meaning glances.

"Well, I rode the pony, of course," he laughed, "as I am much too lazy to walk. However, I did not come to see the horse," with a suggestive accent on the "see."

"Want to see dad?" clattering the dishes she was washing.

"Saw him on the way over."

"Maybe you want to see Mr. Farrell? He's down—"

"Charley? Oh he is down at the corall, playing with Nigger. No, Mollie, I came to see you," leaning in at the window and trying to take her hand.

"Me!" with a brazen effort to appear surprised. "What for?"

"I—I just want to see you—you—know I—I—."

Unsophisticated girl that she was, womanly intuition told her that something was lacking, and all the anger and resentment she had felt while quarreling with Farrel flared up blindingly. From the corner of her eye she could see McIntyre pulling at his long, blonde mustache, while he smiled complacently, and his air of easy self-assurance added fuel to her rage. She had felt the fascination of his genial personality, still it might be as Charley had said. She turned on him in blind, unreasoning fury.

"You just want to see me," she stormed. "Well, look at me, with your big, green eyes. Chase McIntyre, and what do you see? Think I'm a fool? Do you think you can come here, where people don't know anything about the world, and make fun of us? Do you think we can't see through your store clothes and boiled shirts, and—and—"

"Mollie! Mollie!" he kept interjecting, while she raged. "What in the world do you mean? Surely, I have never done anything to deserve this, have I, Miss Mollie?"

She was, however, deaf to all he said, weeping stormily in a corner of the room, where she had crowded herself beyond his reach.

"What have I ever done to cause you to talk so to me?"

"Jim Noman says"

"Well, what does that exemplification of reptilian cunning have to say of me?"

"He says," came a snarling voice from behind McIntyre, "that yer a—sneak, trying to get yer iron onto other people's cattle."

McIntyre had turned at the first sound of the man's voice to find himself looking into the muzzle of a pistol. He had been warned of the man's cowardly methods of attack, and realized with a sickening rush of blood to his heart that a word or a move meant instant death, and while his whole nature revolted, he stood quiet, both hands in sight.

"Ye swallows it," sneered Noman, with an exasperating leer, trying to goad the other into the slightest show of hostility. "Don't ye, ye dirty coward?"

Mollie could see the white of McIntyre's cheek growing a dull red, the muscles of his neck swelling tense and hard, then she scrambled through the window.

"Jim Noman, you quit!" she screamed.

McIntyre thrust the girl aside, an act of chivalry which saved his life, for his enemy fired the instant he moved, and while the bullet missed his heart it shattered his arm.

"Don't Jim, don't!" screamed the girl wildly, throwing herself between them, unconscious that she clutched McIntyre's mangled arm, "Oh, don't!" as Noman's gun again flashed to a level.

The man, his lust for blood flaming up fiercely at sight of his helpless enemy, smiled wolfishly, pausing only to be certain of his aim before firing the fatal shot. A spurt of flame and smoke and the girl hid her face in her arms, that she might not see. Then she heard a steady voice.

"Now, you hit the trail, Jim Noman,' and looked up to see the man holding his mangled hand, which he gazed at in horror, with Farrell standing by, smoke still curling from the muzzle of his gun.

"Vamos!" Farrell continued, "and if I sight you again I'll kill you, just the same as I would any other wolf. Leave that alone," as Noman reached for his pistol. "Now, git!"

When Noman was out of sight, Farrel turned to McIntyre.

"Bad hurt, Chase?" he asked.

"Winged, I guess, Charley," he replied. "'Tis not so deep as a well, nor as wide as a church door," he quoted, "but it's a plenty."

Bandaging the wounded arm as best he could, Farrell started to get Nigger to go for the doctor, thirty miles away. When he returned for a final word with his patient he found Mollie just outside the door weeping bitterly.

"Don't cry, little girl," he said, tenderly, his voice dull with concealed pain. "Chase is not much hurt, and will be all right in a pair of moons."

"I did not know you cared so much for him, Mollie," he continued, "or I'd have hit the trail long ago."

"Charley, Charley, don't go."

He looked over his shoulder as he fumbled with the cinch.

"I don't want to, Mollie," he said, "but I ain't never yet run no brand I had no right to, so I guess I'll travel."

"There ain't nobody got no brand on me," she sobbed.

"W-h-a-t?" he said, with dull slowness, as he turned from the pony, which nickered to the girl. "Ain't Mac—" and stopped when he saw McIntyre's face over the girl's shoulder, a new pain in every feature.

"I always gave you credit for having a little horse sense, Charley," he said, a flicker of the old smile on his lips, "but Nigger there knows more than you do. He has been trying to tell you for half an hour that—that—Molly loves you. I'm hurt in more ways than one, old man," he said, his lips twitching, "but take her, and may God bless you both."

When McIntyre recovered from a deadly swoon, Mollie's face was on his pillow, which was wet with her tears.

"I—I—tried to—to—love you, Mr. McIntyre—Chase," she sobbed, "but I found I loved Charley, you see. And—and I am only fit to be a cowman's wife, anyway, you know."

"Yes, Mollie, I know," he said, turning his face to the wall.

SAILORS BREAK TARGET RECORD

Make Fine Showing in Shooting, During Battle Practice.

Manila, Oct. 27.—While the scores and figures of the cruiser and gunboat squadrons made in target and battle practice, which has just been concluded will not be made public until they arrive at the navy department at Washington, it is announced all previous records have been broken. The Rainbow led in the gunboat squadron, exceeding all the scores made by the Wilmington, present holder of the trophy.

In battle practice all the warships improved on the shooting of last year, in spite of the fact that conditions were much more difficult and that the crews knew nothing of the governing conditions until sealed orders from Washington were opened on the practice grounds.

The Helena, Galveston and Rainbow accomplished remarkable results in night firing, some of the records exceeding by 300 per cent anything ever before established.

The order of excellence established, according to scores made in day practices, is as follows: Galveston, Denver, Chattanooga, Cleveland, Wilmington, Concord and Helena. The night firing order stands as follows: Galveston, Chattanooga, Denver, Cleveland, Rainbow, Helena, Wilmington and Concord.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MRS. PLOUGH IS GAGGED

Former St. Paul Woman Has Terrible Experience With Burglar.

Widow of Ex-President of St. Paul & Duluth in Plight.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 27.—Bound gagged and imprisoned in a closet by a burglar, who robbed her of gems worth nearly $1,000, Mrs. Anna Plough, recently of St. Paul, where she was well known in society, passed a night of intense suffering in her apartments in Brooklyn, N. Y., before she was found by her friends.

Mrs. Plough is the widow of A. B. Plough president of the St. Paul & Duluth railroad, before it was purchased by the Northern Pacific. A year ago Mrs. Plough took up her residence permanently in Brooklyn.

She was alone in the apartments of her brother in Brooklyn, when a robber entered, held a revolver to her head, and bound and gagged her. He then searched the room, taking the jewelry and $70 in cash.

All night Mrs. Plough worked to free herself. She finally tore the ropes from her wrists and removed the handkerchief from her mouth. She was too weak to call loud enough to arouse the other occupants of the house, and it was not until the following morning that she was found by persons who heard her groaning.

SOCIAL EVIL WAR WARM.

Fargo Chief and Crittendon Home Women at Variance.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo's war to eliminate the tenderloin has reached the stage where the veracity of Chief of Police Grant and Miss Topping, the woman in charge of the Florence Crittenden home, is at stake. Miss Topping declared in a public address that in conversation with the chief about controlling the district the latter claimed he did not have a man on his force who could not be bought. She made many other sensational charges. The chief says the one regarding the repark about his patrolmen is untrue. The chief contends the police had succeeded in segregating the social evil and driving the women from the uptown blocks and flats, but some reformers in the city dislike the plan and wish to run the women out of town.

COMES MILES TO WED.

West Virginia Girl Travels to Grand Forks to Marry.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is a long journey from Elkins, W. Va., the home of Senator Elkins, father of Miss Elkins, who figures in an international romance, to Grand Forks, but the distance, about 1,500 miles was not too much for the love Miss Julia B. Wimoth bore for Enoch S. Phares of Hannah, N. D., as was evidenced when they were married here Sunday.

The groom is a well known contractor of Hannah. He is a native of West Virginia and the bride is a playmate of his childhood. They were old time lovers and the years of separation but fanned the flame. The bride came the long journey of 1,500 miles to meet her future husband. He was anxious to have the knot tied at once and so Rev. William H. Matthews, pastor of the Presbyterian church was asked to perform the ceremony in Grand Forks. The young couple left the city Monday for their future home in Hannah, where a reception was given and a wedding breakfast served.

MAY EXPLAIN MYSTERY.

Body Found in Mississippi River at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The finding of a body, supposed to be that of August Stahl of Stanley county, North Dakota, in the Mississippi river here, is considered by the police as a partial solution of the mystery attending the death of the man who jumped from the Great Western railroad bridge several weeks ago.

The body was found by Al Armstrong, engineer on the steamer Hiawatha.

In one of the pockets was a bottle of poison. Letters addressed to A. Stahl were found in the clothes. The initials A. S. were tattooed on the arm.

Persons standing on the Robert street bridge some time ago, saw a man leap into the water from the railway bridge. Several men were working on the bank below, but were unable to rescue the man.

TRAIN WRECKERS FOILED.

Section Men Discover Iron Bolt Upon Track.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—While the M. & I. section crew were working south of Tenstrike they discovered a big kingbolt, which had been laid on a rail and very carefully covered with a newspaper, the paper being laid in such a manner that no one would have had a suspicion that there was anything underneath.

The bundle was removed and nothing further was found to obstruct passage on the rails.

There is no suspicion as to who is responsible for the placing of the piece of iron, but it is admitted that a serious wreck might have occurred had not the section men discovered the kingbolt.

EXPECT MUCH LOGGING.

Plenty of Work in Woods This Winter Looked for.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney Charles Scrutchins of Bemidji, who has been here, said the employment agents of Bemidji report that they have orders for more men to work in the lumber camps than they have had for years. It is estimated that twice as many logs will be banked as were cut last winter.

He says work is assured to practically all the men who can be secured and that the prospects of a busy winter has given an impetus to business in the lumber country, where heavy logging means an immense business in all lines.

Last winter was the quietest in the history of Northern Minnesota, and there were more idle men strolling from camp to camp looking for work. The wages were low and the men were dissatisfied, and after working long enough in one place to secure a small stake, would head for some other camp to get better wages. The quest would be in vain, and after awhile they would take another "mooch," as they call it, and this process was kept up till spring, when very few of the men had money enough to get West on, and were broke when they arrived in the cities.

AITKIN MAN GIVEN OFFICE

Will Act as Private Secretary to Congressman Miller.

According to the Aitkin Independent, Ray Hughes, Clarence B. Miller's campaign manager in Aitkin county, is to be Mr. Miller's private secretary when the new congressman takes office. Mr. Miller is out of the city and will not return until Saturday, so the report could not be verified. The story says:

"It leaked out a few days ago that Ray Hughes, who is Clarence B. Miller's campaign manager for Aitkin county, is to be Mr. Miller's private secretary when the latter assumes the duties of congressman, to which office he will be elected in November, as he has no opposition.

"When asked as to the report, Mr. Hughes acknowledged its correctness, but said that as Mr. Miller's term would not begin until March 4 next, he would not assume his duties until that time, and in the meantime it is his purpose to take course in stenography and perfect himself in typewriting.

"During his stay in Washington he will read law, and on his admission to the bar will in all probability again locate in Aitkin to practice that profession."

The Victim of Drink

Drink first destroys ambition; breaks up ties of friendship; it kills and buries love and eventually destroys the family life.

Some of the best men in the world have been victims of drink and if there is not some member in your family that is afflicted with this disease, you are indeed fortunate.

Drink cunningly destroys the will power, and while the drunkard wants to do what you tell him, he wants a thousand times more the drink that he craves. Medical treatment is necessary to destroy the craving, and this Orrine will do.

It destroys the desire for liquor, so that the drink will not be missed, also cures the deranged digestion, weakened nerves and other ill effects of excessive drinking, restoring the patient to perfect health.

The remedy is absolutely harmless, is thoroughly scientific and is so uniformly successful that it is sold with a registered guarantee entitling you to a refund of your money if Orrine fails to effect a cure. Booklet on "How to Cure Drunkenness." Sent free on request in plain sealed wrapper. The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C.

Orrine is in two forms, No. 1 which can be given secretly without the patient's knowledge, No. 2 in pill form for those who wish to be cured. The price of either is $1, mailed on receipt of price in plain sealed package, and both are sold under the guarantee. Orrine is sold by F. W. Kugler & Co., 108 West Superior street, Duluth, Minn.

BABY'S ITCH EASILY CURED.

Infantile Eczema Quickly Relieved by External Use of Oil of Wintergreen Compound.

Infantile eczema, which has baffled the skill of the best physicians for so many years at last seems to be curable—and curable with great ease.

Results of the last two years indicate conclusively that baby's itch, infantile eczema and other skin diseases of children can be very simply cured by the application of a compound composed of oil of wintergreen, thymol and glycerine, as in D. D. D. Prescription.

The Rev. Lewis Steeley of Weatherly, Pa., writes:

"Our baby boy's little face was so dreadfully covered with eczema that blood and water ran from the sores nearly all the time. After using 3½ bottles of D. D. D. Prescription we are so happy to tell you he is entirely cured and the disease has never broken out again. If this letter is in any way a help to other sufferers, you may publish it."

If you have a child which is suffering with this terrible itch, we are sure you will not neglect one hour to give your baby the right kind of relief. We have seen too often how quickly the remedy mentioned above takes the itch away at once and how all the cures seem to be permanent; we have seen this too often to hesitate at all in recommending the remedy for your children.

IMPERIAL UNIVERSAL

The Universal
The Finest Base Burner Made. A Great Heat Giver and Great Fuel Saver.

The heat giving properties of any Base Burner are measured by the amount of radiating surface the stove possesses. In the IMPERIAL UNIVERSAL BASE BURNER, by actual measurement are over 300 square inches more radiating surface than in any other Base Burner. Think of it—of the greater heat-giving possibilities possessed by this Heater. And the Imperial is a Heater constructed along strictly modern lines. The IMPERIAL UNIVERSAL is a three-flue stove—the heat travels down the two descending flues around both sides of the bottom to the extreme front of same, there uniting and returning through the center bottom flue and up the ascending back flue, thus being equally distributed over the entire back and bottom and giving it more direct radiating surface than any other Base Burner. The Hot Air circulating flues are between the descending and ascending back flues, and the heat passes over all four sides of same, which is a feature found only in the IMPERIAL UNIVERSAL and greatly increases the hot air circulation, making it the best floor heater ever made.

The cold air is drawn from the floor and in its upward passage becomes intensely heated, then passes to the upper outside flue back which is pocketed and conducts the heated air to the double heating attachment.

LIENS ON STREET RAILWAY OFFICE

Contractor Claimed Not to Have Been Paid for Supplies.

There are liens on and claims against the new general office building of the Duluth Street Railway company at Twenty-seventh avenue west and Superior street, sufficient to put it almost entirely in the hands of tradespeople, who supplied materials for its construction, if the court establishes their claims and the contractors fails to make good. Each new answer filed in district court in the action of the Standard Salt & Cement company incorporates a claim against Alex Roberts and the Street Railway company and the list totals a tidy sum.

The Standard Salt & Cement company vs Alex Roberts, the Duluth Street Railway company, Lake Superior Quarries company, Scott-Graff Lumber company, Dixon & Lowry, J. O. Porlier & Co., Deetz & Co., and E. G. Wallinder is the title of the case, by which the plaintiff seeks to recover $420.85, claimed to be due as a balance on a bill of $1,078.84 for materials furnished Roberts for the building. The other material dealers also have claims to secure, which they seek to put liens on the building.

Deetz & Co., filed their answer in district court this morning. They put in a counter claim against Roberts, the Street Railway company and everybody else concerned for $658.21, claimed to be due for materials furnished Roberts by them.

HEARST SAYS ARCHBOLD HIDES BEHIND WOMEN

Standard Oil Vice President Wants His Letters Back.

Judge Elkin Enters Specific Denials of the Publisher's Charges.

"DIDN'T—DID; DIDN'T—DID; DIDN'T—DID!"

New York, Oct. 27.—William R. Hearst has issued a reply to Mr. Archbold's statement, in which he says that "the Standard Oil company pays its honest debts by check and when it has recourse to a certificate of deposit, it is because there is a dishonest debt to be paid." Hearst continues:

"Mr. Archbold says now that he sent his secret certificates of deposit to Mr. Elkin as campaign contributions but that with the very letters enclosing the $15,000 of secret certificates sent to Mr. Elkin was a letter asking him to kill an amendment to a bill which no other explanation than "for reasons that seem patent to us."

Mr. Hearst then challenges Mr. Archbold in these words.

"Either deny your letters or admit your letters. If you deny them I will produce the fac-similes. If you admit them you are convicted by your own written words."

Hearst refers to that "McKinley falsehood" and then says:

"You did contribute to Mr. McKinley's campaign, but you did not contribute through Mr. Elkin. You contributed through Mr. Hanna, and I have the letters to prove that."

In conclusion, Hearst says:

"Mr. Archbold finally takes refuge in the usual defense of the caught and cornered coward. He hides behind the skirts of the innocent women of his family."

Mr. Archbold made the following statement yesterday afternoon regarding the letters read by Hearst at the Carnegie hall meeting:

"I am very sure that until Hearst read the letters neither Judge Morrison nor Judge Henderson had any knowledge of my having written Governor Stone in their behalf. Judge Henderson was not appointed by Governor Pennypacker to a superior court judgeship. If, however, any feeble word of mine could have influenced in the slightest degree the selection of those gentlemen for their respective positions I would be very proud of it. The state has had no better servants than they, and I certainly have never asked of them any favor of any kind, either for myself or for the company with which I am connected.

"My letters to General Elkin referring to accompanying drafts related entirely to contributions to the Republican state committee then engaged in the campaign preliminary to the renomination of Mr. McKinley, a subject regarding which I think Hearst would be a little sensitive, for was it not the election and the tragic death of Mr. McKinley that came near costing Hearst his precious neck?

"The statement regarding Judge Haight is in connection with an old libel which has been explained and exposed so many times that it would be a simple weariness to the public to go over it again.

"The intimation by Hearst that he has had any communication from me or any of my associates in connection with the stolen letters, is a lie.

"The only favor which I would ask, or hope ever to ask, of Mr. Hearst, is that he return me the letters handed him by his larcenious 'gentleman friend' which were written from Japan relating to the fatal illness of my daughter in that country."

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 27.—Justice J. P. Elkin of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, who up to this time has made only a general denial of improper relations with John D. Archbold and the Standard Oil company, as inferentially charged by Editor William R. Hearst through the reading of a number of letters to Mr. Elkin at a political meeting in New York Saturday night, has now presented a detailed statement to the Associated Press, explaining the letters, and the matters to which they referred. Justice Elkin stated that he had not been able earlier to consult his files and secure the data necessary. Justice Elkin's statement follows:

"The evident intention of the publication of the four letters read by Mr. Hearst in which my name appears, is to support an inference that the money was sent me to improperly influence legislation, or for some other unworthy purpose.

"The first is a letter of introduction to Mr. Twombly dated Sept. 25, 1899. About that time the New York Central, through its Bears Creek connections contemplated making extensions into my home county, where with some friends I was interested in undeveloped coal lands. We were anxious to get some definite information on the subject, and it was suggested to me that I take up the subject with some official of the railroad system. I did not personally know any person connected with the company and asked Mr. Archbold, whom I had known since he was a struggling young man in Western Pennsylvania, to give me a letter of introduction, which was done. As it turned out afterwards, I did not use the letter, for the reason that the desired information was secured from other sources. I do not know Mr. Twombly personally and never met him.

"The next two letters are dated Feb. 5, 1900 and March 15, 1900 respectively, and from these letters the inference is attempted to be drawn that the money mentioned therein was intended to secure the defeat of certain legislation which was deemed objectionable. The legislature was not in session that year, there were no bills pending, and the inference is manifestly unfounded. The preceding session of the legislature had expired nine months before the letters were written, the members of the succeeding legislature had not even been nominated and those subsequently nominated, were not elected until the following November, eight months afterwards. While the drafts mentioned were forwarded to me, they were not intended for my use. They were contributions for political purposes and were by me immediately turned over to the campaign fund. The money was principally used in helping to liquidate the indebtedness of the state committee, incurred in prior campaigns. My sole connection with this matter was to turn the drafts over for the purpose intended. Not a penny of this money was expended for the benefit or to the advantage of myself. Beginning with the fall of 1895 for a period of five years, I was actively engaged in the management of political affairs, either as state chairman or member of the executive committee. Contributions for campaign purposes were generally addressed to me, but immediately turned over to the treasurer of the campaign fund. In the early months of 1900, there being no legislature in session and no official duties to be performed, I was at home in the practice of my profession and was not engaged in political matters.

"As to the letter of May 9, 1901, upon which reliance is placed to connect all these matters with the suggestion of the improper use of money in influencing legislation, it must not be overlooked that this letter was written eighteen months after the Twombly letter and one year and three months after the other two letters, which could have had no reference to any legislative matter at that time. It was supposed to have been written just before the adjournment of the legislature of 1901, and made inquiry about some pending legislation. The letter as published does not mention the bill referred to nor the proposed legislation objection to. It was a letter of inquiry only, which I assume was received by me, although I do not recall the incident. As attorney general, I receive hundreds of letters from people throughout the commonwealth asking for information and advice about pending legislation and all other political matters I considered it my duty to courteously reply and give such information as I had on the subject about which inquiry was made. And this is all I could have done or did in answer to the letter of Mr. Archbold. He did not ask me to defeat any legislation, nor did I make any attempt to do so."

FITCH NON-COMMITTAL.

South Shore President Not Committing Himself on Minnesota Outlook.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—President W. F. Fitch of the South Shore has been here looking over the progress of work on the new depot that is to cost $25,000.

When asked regarding the railroad situation at the present time, he answered that freight and passenger business both are "very dull, very dull indeed."

"Do you think business will pick up with election over?" he was asked.

"That no one can tell," was the answer, "and all the prophecies are mere guesses."

"That is your opinion, no matter which way the election goes?" he was next asked.

"Yes, nothing but guesses. The railroad situation is little better now than it was two or three months ago and no one can tell what is coming in the way of business."

President Fitch refused to express his political views. When asked regarding the political situation in Minnesota, whether Johnson would have a landslide at the polls next Tuesday or would have a hard fight on his hands, President Fitch said, "I am not interested in politics and have paid little attention to them, even in Minnesota. In fact I have not paid enough attention to the situation there to have even a faint idea of how the election will go."

Mt. Vernon, Ill., Looking for Pied Piper of Hamlin.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Oct. 27.—There is an unusual pest in Mount Vernon. It is a plethora of rats and should the Pied Piper of Hamlin happen this way he would be given a job at overtime prices. Rats have suddenly sprung from somewhere in thousands and are working havoc in grocery stores, feed bins and warehouses. They are caught by the score every night, but the slaughter that is made on the following morning does not seem to diminish the numbers. The cause of the invasion is declared to be due to the dry weather that has dried up all the creeks in the rural districts and the rats have been driven to the city in search of water.

ADMITS AWFUL CHARGE.

Jamestown, N. D., Oct. 27.—After a three hours' session with W. H. Stevenson, or Herbert Steffs, as he is known to the officials of the state penitentiary, State's Attorney George W. Thorp has secured a confession from the prisoner admitting that he attempted the assault on the person of the 5-year-old daughter of A. May of this city, for which crime he was bound over to the district court after pleading not guilty at a preliminary examiantion.

ORDINANCE NOT A JOKE

Council Refuses to Make Another Change in Fire Limits.

Amendments Far Too Numerous--Other Council Business.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Refused to amend fire limit ordinance to accommodate West end property owner.

Decided not to purchase West end police station site.

Adopted amendment to powder ordinance, prohibiting storage of powder in amounts of more than 500 pounds in city limits or within one mile of same.

Lyceum theater cross-over switch put over for one week.

Directed City Engineer McGilvray to report on safety of Garfield avenue viaduct.

Received a request for $5,000 additional appropriation for the city assessor's office to defray the expense incident to a revaluation of the buildings in Duluth.

The council last evening refused to change the fire limits to accommodate R. C. Sloan, who asked that he be allowed to move a wooden building from 1912 West Superior street across the street. Before he could do this a change in the fire limits was necessary, and so the matter was brought to the attention of the council. The ordinance has been changed so many times, for very similar reasons, that it has come to be something of a joke, and the aldermen made up their minds it was about time something was done to put a stop to the practice.

The ordinance committee reported adversely on Alderman Olson's amendment. The national board of underwriters, in a written report, recently stated that the practice of frequently changing the fire limits, as indulged in by many cities, was a serious matter, and should be stopped. The fear was expressed that further change in the ordinance might call for an increase in insurance rates, which already are considered sufficiently high.

There was no opposition last night to the amendment to the powder ordinance, providing that it shall be unlawful to store powder or other explosives in quantities greater than 500 pounds inside the city limits, or within one mile of the city limits. This will call for the removal of the DuPont Powder company houses from their present location on the Pike Lake road, less than one mile from the city limits. There have been several protests registered before the council against the location of these houses, on the ground that they were dangerously close to the homes of several settlers and to a public highway.

Following the adoption of the amendment, a resolution was passed directing the city attorney to proceed against any person or concern now maintaining houses for powder and other explosives within the limits outlined, calling for their immediate removal.

The council decided that as long as there is to be no police station to be erected in the West end for some time to come, it would be unwise to purchase a site for the building now, when the money is needed so badly for other improvements, and the proposition to expend $3,800 in the purchase of a site for the structure was turned down last night, after some debate. Several weeks ago it was decided to purchase the site, and the mayor was instructed to go ahead with negotiations, but after he had orally bound the city to buy the land, it was decided to purchase an auto patrol instead, making an additional station unnecessary for the time being. Then it was a question of whether the city should go back on its word and refuse to buy the site which was in view, or whether it should go ahead, buy the land and hold it for future use. There was a variance of opinion on the proposition among the aldermen.

Alderman Moe advocated the purchase of the site. There was a delegation of West enders on hand to back Alderman Moe in his stand. George Jensen headed the delegation, and said additiona: police protection was needed for the western end of the city. When the motion to purchase the site was put to vote it was lost, the result standing 9 to 7.

The street car cross-over switch in front of the Lyceum theater came up for discussion again, but no action was taken, further than to announce that all sides would be heard Nov. 9. A petition bearing several hundred signatures, asking that the switch be maintained, has been pigeonholed by the council without action, and the committee appointed to look into the matter and report has made no report up to the present time. Manager Marshall of the theater addressed a communication to Mayor Haven this week, setting forth reasons why the switch should be maintained, and the latter was referred to the council, but was not read last night.

The cross-over, it will be remembered, was ordered removed because of objections made by business men in the block on Superior street between Fourth and Fifth avenues west, on the ground that cars going over the switch made too much noise. Last night a delegation of Lakeside residents was on hand to ask that the cross-over be replaced. Henry Nolte spoke in favor of such a move. He said that he had gathered figures which showed that 160,000 people attended the Lyceum every year, and while he was not in a position to say just how many of these patronized the street cars after the show, he believed that by far the biggest proportion of them were dependent upon the cars as a means of transportation home. He explained how a congestion in the car service was inevitable if an attempt were made to operate extra cars after the theater without the switch being in operation, and how long delays would be necessary to home-going people if only the regular car service was in operation.

The matter of allowing the city assessor's department $5,000 for establishing a revaluation of city buildings was referred to the finance committee. Mayor Haven recommended that the allowance be made, urging that it was of the utmost importance to the taxpayers that there should be a revaluation. He said he did not believe the money could be better expended in the interests of the people.

Chief of Police Troyer asked for another man to assist in keeping up the Bertillon system in his department, and the matter was referred to the committee on police for investigation. He said the work at present takes up nearly all the time of Detective Walsh, whose services are urgently needed as a detective, while a man of less experience could do much of the work in connection with the Bertillon system.

City Comptroller McCormick had a communication read stating that the last extension of the assessment for the paving of Fourth street east and west had expired Oct. 16, and as the city and property owners do not want the work done this year he suggested that the time of the assessment be extended to March 6, 1909. His recommendation was carried out.

The council approved the action of the water and light board in awarding the contract for 8,000 feet of lead-covered cable to be used in laying underground wires, to C. E. Melby for $1,200. The request of the city electrician that he be furnished a horse and buggy was turned down.

City Engineer McGilvray was instructed to examine the Garfield avenue viaduct and report on its condition.

The action of the board of public works in awarding a sewer contract on Vernon street from Atlantic avenue to Thirtieth avenue west was approved. J. A. Johnson with a bid of $1,736.75, got the contract. The council also ordered the board of public works to advertise for bids for the extension of the main trunk sewer on Thirty-second avenue west, and to advertise for bids for he construction of a sanitary sewer on Superior street from Sixty-third avenue east to the lake. The third avenue east to the lake. The estimated cost of the improvement is $3,657.20.

According to a communication from the water and light board, the government lighthouse tender Marigold had been ordered to winter in Duluth, and will tie up at the Northwestern Fuel company's dock. The crew desires a supply of city water for drinking and cooking purposes at the regular rates. The council gave the board permission to grant the request.

Upon request of D. M. Robertson, the Public Ownership party was given permission to use the city council chambers next Friday evening.

The claim of Our Saviour's church for $653 damages alleged to have been caused the property by a sewer obstruction, was reported upon adversely by the city attorney. He said he would not oppose a settlement on a basis of $100.

The board of public works was given permission to purchase for $500, a boiler to be used in thawing out sewers and water pipes during the coming winter.

South Dakota Prosperous.

Pierre, S. D., Oct. 27.—The bank deposits of South Dakota furnish evidence that the state is getting rich. The total deposits shown are $67,261,460,53, but of this a little over $6,000,000 is credited to other banks and bankers, and the individual deposits do not reach that figure. The showing is an increase of $9,500,000 in the last year. When the crop deposits are made for this year the individual deposits of the state will be over $100 for each resident.

RENTERS OF PROPERTY FOR IMMORAL PURPOSES SCORED BY W. C. T. U.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 27.—In a resolution passed by the W. C. T. U., in national convention, demand is made that those who rent property for vicious uses be ostracisized by society as well as punished by law.

Regret is expressed for the continual inaction by congress on the Littlefield bill," which was designed to protect prohibition territory against the encroachment of the liquor traffic through the interstate commerce commission, and demand is made that the issuance of international revenue tax receipts in all prohibition territory be continued. The legislatures of the various states are asked to memorialize congress to secure prohibition for the District of Columbia.

Demands are made for a national committee to investigate the effects of liquor traffic upon the moral and industrial affairs of the nation and for an amendment to the Federal Constitution prohibiting polygamy in all sections under the jurisdiction of the United States.

The resolutions protest against the use of the flag as an emblem by the Personal Liberty league because this league "stands for the saloon" and advocates the reading of the "Bible without comment in the public schools;" indorses the juvenile court and criticises the license system in the Panama canal zone.

In her report on franchises Miss Maude McIlven Saunders of Colorado states that nineteen states are planning a suffrage campaign for the coming year. The most encouraging reports, she said, are coming from California, Ohio, Nebraska, Maine, New Jersey and West Virginia.

Not the Heart

It is indigestion. Pains in your side around the region of your heart are not always heart trouble. That is usually Indigestion. Kodol stops Indigestion—

It is the gas arising from undigested food that is distending the stomach, forcing it upward. It presses against the heart valve and causes the pain, shortness of breath and smothery feeling.

What you need, is to get the food in your stomach completely digested and at the earliest opportunity. Kodol will do this. Undigested food forms into hard masses, which often cause intense pain. Every Dyspeptic knows what that suffering is. Kodol relieves it as nothing else will.

In indigestion the stomach membrane is inflamed. It is sensitive. Sometimes it is ulcerated. Hard, undigested food, moving against that tender lining, naturally causes pain.

Just about nine times out of ten, people who complain about having heart disease are mistaken. They have Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Their stomach is overworked. It is run down and tired out and it needs rest. Let Kodol do the work of the stomach for a time.

If you take Kodol occasionally, you will surely be surprised to notice how very quickly the "heart pains" will disappear.

Kodol contains all the properties required to thoroughly digest all kinds of food. It is the only way that you can do it. Try Kodol to day on our guarantee.

Buy a large bottle of Kodol and ask your druggist for the guarantee. If you are not satisfied take the empty bottle back and your druggist will return your money without question or delay. Every druggist knows our guarantee is good.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Company, Chicago, Ill.

The large bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c. bottle.

THE BUSY WHIRL OF POLITICS

"JAKE" WILL GET AT LEAST 209 VOTES IN DULUTH

If You Don't Believe It Read Their Names.

News Tribune Proves He Has That Many Supporters.

Wanted—Voters who will indorse the Hannell-Dunn-Willcuts-Shevlin crowd. No experience or knowledge necessary. With every vote for Jacobson you get your name published in black type on the front page of the News Tribune as a prominent businessman. Apply at any hour of the day or night, at the office of Lee Willcuts, office of collector of customs, Federal building, Duluth.

There's an inducement. That's almost as good a campaign slogan as the Morning Myth's misconception of tax matters. As an extra inducement the News Tribune might offer to publish the photographs of all the Jacobson voters. If necessary a supplement might be published one or two days during the week to contain all the pictures.

A careful canvass of the city by the News Tribune's own staff representatives, and a delegation of party workers from Republican headquarters, has brought to light 158 more Jacobson votes. These added to the fifty-three votes they found on Saturday and published on Sunday morning, make a grand total of 211 votes for Jacobson in the city of Duluth alone.

The ranges haven't been touched yet, either, and there is all the farming district of the county to be heard from. But with diligence and careful searching, more votes for Mr. Jacobson might be found right in Duluth. It is claimed that there are even two Jacobson votes right in the News Tribune office, and these have never been mentioned as yet. The editor himself is said to be a Jacobson man, one of the printers has been heard to declare himself for "Jake." This would make a total of 213 votes in the city. But on the other hand it would be necessary to subtract at least four votes from the list published Sunday, as these four have claimed that their signatures were obtained under misrepresentation. This would make Jacobson's net vote in the city 209, and it's still growing. There will be seven more editions of the Jacobson Jokebook before the polls close. If the present average is maintained, there will be 735 names added to the list, making a grand total of 945 votes for Jacobson right in Duluth. But can the average be maintained? There's the rub. At 105 votes a day it wouldn't take long to exhaust the supply of Jacobson supporters in Duluth.

For tomorrow's list the News Tribune might secure the rest of the Republican county ticket, and the rest of the Republican aldermen and other office holders. This morning's list contained only a fraction of them. For instance only eight members of the state grain inspection department had their names on the list. Surely in a city like Duluth, one of the biggest primary wheat markets in the world, more than eight men are employed in the state grain inspection department. True, they made up for the oversight, in part, by publishing the name of the chief clerk, W. H. Wells, twice on the same list, and the other employes cannot but feel slighted. It is unfair discrimination, and it is plainly up to the News Tribune to make good the oversight—for oversight it must be. If there are more than eight men in that department they are entitled to appear on the Jacobson roll of honor (?).

A delegation of Duluth business men who are just as prominent in civic affairs as those whose names have been published by the morning paper, called at The Herald yesterday afternoon to request that a similar list of Johnson supporters be published, and they pledged themselves to secure at least 1,000 names of prominent business and professional men who are Johnson supporters. But The Herald is not publishing slightly expurgated editions of the directory, or the polling lists, and the oer had to be refused with regret. For a starter the committee would have had the 10,000 people who packed the armory twice at the Johnson meetings here, and then they could have begun their search.

C. W. ERICSON ANOTHER VICTIM

Clothing Merchant Signed Petition Under a Misapprehension.

C. W. Ericson was another of the unfortunate victims of the News Tribune's take petition or open letter, published Sunday morning.

Mr. Ericson could not be reached yesterday for last evening's paper, as he was doing jury duty, but he was called upon last evening by a Herald reporter, and asked if he signed his name with a full knowledge of what the petition contained.

"I did not," said Mr. Ericson, "and the fact has hurt me in a business way. It was represented to me that the paper contained merely a protest against the tonnage tax. I am opposed to the tonnage tax, like all other loyal citizens of the northern part of the state. I did not know that the paper also indorsed Jacobson for governor, or I would not have signed it. It was so long that I did not read it all the way through, and I was given to understand that it was merely a protest against the tonnage tax.

"Friends of Governor Johnson have been coming to me all day, and asking me if I had signed that, and why I did it. It has placed me in a very bad light, and has kept me explaining all day that I signed it under a misapprehension.

"I would be glad if The Herald would publish a statement setting me right before the people, for that story Sunday has not only misrepresented my attitude, but it has hurt me in a business way."

Mr. Ericson and Messrs. Gidding and Mendenhall, who were quoted in last evening's Herald, are three of the signers who have stated publicly that their signatures were secured by misrepresentation. Several others have admitted privately to Herald reporters that such was the case, but would not allow their statements to be quoted, saying they would rather allow matters to drop now that the harm is done.

SUCCESSFUL CLOQUET RALLY

Andrew Nelson and John Jenswold Address a Large Audience.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Democratic rally in this city last evening was attended by about 400 enthusiastic citizens; not only Democrats were out, but every citizen who was interested in the issues of the present campaign, regardless of partisanship, turned out to hear Andrew Nelson, chairman of the St. Louis county Democratic committee, and John Jenswold, Jr., also of Duluth. Despite adverse weather conditions the audience packed the opera house in which the meeting was held.

After a short preliminary address, F. V. Inskeep of this city introduced Mr. Nelson, whose speech was devoted largely to the national and state issues. He stated that, while the Republicans go before the people and say that if Bryan is elected it will mean another panic, two of the three panics that have happened within the last quarter of a century have occurred during Republican rule, during the administration of President Harrison. He referred to the way the resolution for the publicity of campaign funds was killed at the Chicago convention and how readily it was taken up at Denver, which fact clearly showed that the corporations were behind the Republican campaign fund. He dwelt briefly upon the topic that since the people elect the United States congressmen by direct vote, why should they be excluded from the privilege of voting likewise for United States senators. He closed his discussion on national topics with the statement that the only salvation of the country from the great evils that had crept upon the country during Republican rule was the election of Judge Jacob F. Jacobsen and "his record;" his record in the state legislature, when he opposed the drainage of government swamp lands, and even later the survey of such lands, and, in fact, almost everything that was for the welfare of Northern Minnesota. A statement that brought both applause and laughter was that in which he mentioned the convulsions and paroxysms the Duluth News Tribune was going into over the tonnage tax question.

Mr. Jenswold gave the citizens a treat that they will long remember with an oratorical address on political subjects. Besides an appeal to reason on important questions, he mentioned the fact that the people of this country were opposed to the "divine right" of kings which prevails in Europe, but that this is the same thing that is going on in the Republican ranks today; instead of Roosevelt handing the crown to his eldest son, he confers it upon William H. Taft. He scored the injunction plank in the Republican platform which was favored by the large monopolistic corporations.

Although at former elections Cloquet has gone almost solidly Republican, it is expected that the votes cast here next Tuesday will be divided more evenly.

Citizens' Club Meets.

At a meeting of the Citizens' Political club, held in Odd Fellows' hall last night, the national and state Republican ticket was indorsed. The club is a colored organization, and a large number of colored voters were present. Rev. Jonathan Brewer, William Matteson of New York, and A. T. Parke, were the speakers. The members of the club decided to take part in the Jacobson celebration, which is being planned for Saturday evening.

Meeting at Proctor.

E. L. Millar, James A. Wharton and W. J. Bates addressed a Republican meeting at Proctor last night. Mr. Millar discussed the national issues, Mr. Wharton took up some of the issues of the state campaign, while Sheriff Bates confined himself to his own record. At the close of the meeting a Taft-Jacobson club was formed.

PLAYING LONE HAND IN ITS CAMPAIGN OF LIES

Range Papers Refuse to Back the News Tribune.

Even Republican Editors Cannot Swallow Jacobson's Record.

With it's pathetic emblem bearing the motto "Beat Johnson or Bust" nailed to the mast, the News Tribune is practically alone in the leaky boat of its ignorance on tnx matters, on the troubled sea of Northern Minnesota politics.

There is not a friendly sail in sight, and no help seems to be coming even from the range towns, which would be the chief sufferers if a tonnage tax were inflicted.

The editors of the range papers have the manhood and the public spirit to refuse to bow to the Dunn-Shevlin-Jacobson-Willcuts crowd, and many of them who are under ordinary circumstances Republicans, are coming out boldly and indorsing "Our Governor," claiming that they know that he will keep his word when he promises to veto a tonnage tax bill if it were passed by the legislature.

The Jacobson Jokebook is playing a lone hand, and there isn't a trump in it.

The Eveleth News has the following to say of the campaign in its last issue:

"The taxation question was put up to Governor Johnson when he was on the range, and it is equally up to Mr. Jacobson, the Republican candidate, who will be here next Thursday."

Only "Jake" won't be there next Thursday to explain.

"A straw vote in Steele county favors Taft and Johnson. Steel county is probably not alone."

Here are three interesting little clippings from the Virginia Enterprise:

The Duluth Herald continues to ask the Duluth News Tribune to give one logical reason why Jacobson should receive a single vote in Northern Minnesota. And hte News Tribune, which is against Johnson and has little or nothing to say for Jacobson, consistent with its well known policy, continues to neglect the request."

"A straw vote on the morning train on the Missabe Tuesday showed forty-six for Johnson to twenty-four for Jacobson, and forty-five for Taft as against twenty-five for Bryan. And straws are pretty fair indicators of the way the wind blows."

"It is legitimate and right for a man to change his opinion on matters of public import if he sees the error of his past line of reasoning. But there is nothing to date to indicate that J. F. Jacobson has changed his ideas on the tonnage tax, on the state drainage proposition, on on his deep set hatred of anything beneficial to Northern Minnesota. The people of the state have Mr. Jacobson's record as a legislator to assist them in forming an opinion of him, and he still says he is 'running on his record.' He will sit down after the jolt on Nov. 3 and, surveying the wreck, will come to a realization of what some 60,000 of the honest Taft Republicans of Minnesota think of that record."

And the Hibbing Mesaba Ore, which is normally a strong Republican paper, devotes nearly a column on its editorial page to a support of Johnson's attitude, and puts the case up to the voters of Hibbing in a clean cut, concise manner which cannot be met. The editorial is in part as follows:

"Governor Johnson delivered an address in Hibbing on Oct. 13 last, and discussed the tonnage tax question at considerable length. In the course of the discussion the governor promised the people of Hibbing that he would veto any bill that might be passed by the legislature that had for its object 'depriving this or any other section of the state of their full share of revenues for local purposes which they now enjoy.'

"That is surely a clean-cut statement, and it is a statement that is accepted by the majority of the voters of Hibbing—accepted because they have faith in Governor Johnson.

"The Duluth News Tribune, which Hon. J. Adam Bede dubs as the exponent of civic righteousness, says that the governor does not mean what he says, and that he stands for a tonnage tax because the Democratic platform contains such a declaration.

"You are, of course, at liberty to believe the Duluth News Tribune, but it is not a very safe proposition.

"The Ore is one of the many that believes that Governor Johnson is bigger than his party platform, and bigger by distance immeasurable than the Republican candidate for governor, and believes that Governor Johnson will do just as he promised our people.

"The Duluth News Tribune party seems to think the people of the country are foolish enough to believe its statements that Governor Johnson alone has the power to enact and enforce a tonnage tax law. The only power the governor has in the premises is to sign such a law or exercise his right of veto, and Governor Johnson has promised the people of Hibbing that he will veto any such a measure passed by the state legislature.

"The real danger lies in the state legislature, and if a tonnage tax law is enacted it can be charged up to that Republican body.

"Mr. Jacobson, the Republican candidate for governor, was the father of the tonnage tax idea, and he has a lot of narrow-minded men at his beck and call who are listed for the legislature. If such a legislature passes such a bill, as it is more than likely to do, could Mr Jacobson, as governor, refuse to recognize his own child?

"Hardly.

"The Ore is a firm believer in the principals of the Republican party, but it does not believe in, and has no patience with, the machine that has tried to rule the party in Minnesota, and which has bronught it up against repeated disaster.

"And another jolt is coming.

"The interests of the Mesaba range will be safer with Mr. Johnson as governor than they will be with Mr. Jacobson, for the reason that the former has proved that he can be the governor of all the people, while the latter is a rank sensationalist and is but the puppet of a man who cannot be governor himself, but wants the power and the pap that goes with the high office."

SMELTER SENATOR'S FOES DEFEATED

Denver, Colo., Oct. 27.—The supreme court has set aside the order of District Judge George Allen, directing the secretary of state to place the Anti-Guggenheim and Business Mens' tickets on the official ballot for the election of Nov. 3 and rescinded Judge Allen's order committing Secretary of State O'Connor to jail for contempt of court. The rejected tickets were filed by the faction of the Republican party opposed to the leadership of United States Senator Simon Guggenheim.

JOHNSON SURE OF RE-ELECTION

Finds Situation Fully as Good as Two Years Ago.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson is confident of his re-election. Just before leaving yesterday for his final week of campaigning, he gave out this view of the election prospect in Minnesota.

"The situation looks fully as good to me as it did two years ago," was his first statement. In view of his 72,000 plurality two years ago, this certainly indicated confidence.

"It may seem improbable that the condition could be as good as two years ago, but the fact is that in my campaign I have found this year more enthusiasm, larger crowds and greater confidence among my friends than ever. In my three campaigns I have spoken in nearly every county in the state. I have covered a large part of the state this time, and have spoken in many places where I spoke two and four years ago. In every such place I have had a larger audience and a more friendly reception than ever before.

Governor Johnson's throat is in worse shape than it has ever been in a campaign. He attributes this to the length of his speech. He generally talks for an hour and a half, or twice as long as his speech of two years ago, and he often delivers this speech three times a day, or four and a half hours of speaking.

"I have made no change in my speech since I delivered the first one at Montevideo," he said. "I did not commit it to memory, and so do not use just the same language each time, but I cover the same points and have not changed it to suit localities, as some of my Republican friends have stated. I make the same speech in Winona or Mankato that I do in Duluth."

BOTH PULL AT NEW YORK HARD

Taft and Bryan Hurry About Metropolis and Vicinity.

New York, Oct. 27.—Today's political program is one of intense activity throughout New York city and state. Both presidential candidates were here, hurrying from point to point in the city and nearby towns. Mr. Taft started for the outlying suburbs early in the day going first to Yonkers at 9:40 a. m., and then to a series of cities and towns along the Hudson as far up as Troy. Mr. Bryan devoted himself to Greater New York, going to Brooklyn and Long Island city, and later crossing to Jersey City.

Both of the gubernatorial candidates also devoted their attention to New York city. Governor Hughes came down from Albany speaking en route at Catskill and reaching New York this afternoon to fill speaking engagements here, at Long Island city and several suburban points. Lieut. Governor Chanler gave his attention to New York city and Brooklyn.

Attorney General Bonaparte is among the notable speakers to appear tonight, and Mr. Hearst is expected to make another address. Mr. Sherman, Republican vice presidential candidate, will arrive tonight.

HUNDREDS ABSENT FROM THE POLLS

Navy Yard Men Will Not Vote, Due to Federal Order.

Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 27.—Several hundred qualified voters, working men in the Portsmouth navy yards, will not go to the polls on election day in Portsmouth, Newcastle and Kittery, Me., as a result of the government's order preventing civil service employes from holding office in this city or surrounding towns, and forbidding participation in politics.

The order has already been responsible for the resignations of each of the three selectmen of the town of Newcastle, and in that town and Kittery, as well as in this city, the holders of a number of minor positions in the town or city government have been forced to give them up, while in several cases employes have resigned their positions in the yard.

The men affected are for the most part Republicans.

HURRY TO DENY KERN'S CHARGE

Republicans Say They Have Sent No Trust Funds.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Fred W. Upham, assistant treasurer of the Republican campaign fund, when shown John W. Kern's charge, made in Tipton, Ind., today, that $100,000, collected largely from trusts, had been sent into Indiana, said:

"Not a dollar of anybody's money has been sent out of my office to Indiana. If there had been, I would know it, and Mr. Kern's statement is untrue. It's an 'end of the campaign' yarn scarcely worth denying."

Sims Says No, Too.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27.—When shown the story from Tipton today, wherein John W. Kern charged him with handling $100,000 of campaign funds, Fred Sims, secretary of state, said:

"This is absolutely false. I know nothing of a $100,000 campaign fund for Indiana. It is about time for such stories to be circulated, as the Democrats hope to help their cause in this way."

STRANGE DRINK WAS HIS FINISH

Alexander Roberts Discovered a New Quick Jag Combination.

Alexander Roberts, posing as the only original human tank, was sentenced by Judge Cutting in municipal court this morning to ninety days in jail for the theft of $1.65 from the Olympia fruit store, Lake avenue and Superior street.

On the witness stand Roberts calmed he remembered nothing of the theft, and said that at the time the offense was supposed to have been committed he did not know what was happening, because he had partaken liberally of the contents of the bottle containing a mixture of absinthe, gin, sherry, creme de menthe and whisky. Prior to drinks from the bottle he claims to have had three beers, two highballs, a glass of buttermilk and a glass of coca cola.

"I don't remember anything I did on Sunday morning, judge," he explained, after going over the strange and weird mixture of drinks. Despite his strange lapse of memory, the man is said to have appeared perfectly sober when tapping the till.

Roberts is a little Frenchman, 30 years of age. He says he has been in the United States three years. He still has a strong French accent. Sunday morning about 9 o'clock he spied a small cash register that stands outside the Olympia store on the walk, to keep track of the fruit sales. When he thought no one was looking, he pressed one of the levers on the till. It opened to his hand, and he extracted $1.65 and made off down the street.

It happened that C. G. Mars, one of the proprietors of the store, was a witness of the act from inside of the store. He was soon in hot pursuit of the thief, and by virtue of the latter's short legs, was able to overtake him before he had gone a block. Roberts resisted, and there was a lively scrap, the fruit man coming out victorious. He marched down the street with his hand in Roberts' coat collar until they met a policeman, when the Frenchman was turned over to the enforcer of the law.

A KNOCK IS A BOOST

I AM A BOOSTER

Every time you hear a hand-me-down, ready-made man or a tailor knock me, you can put him down as a knocker, and you can tell him that every knock is a boost. Take it from me.

My word is good with the banks in Minneapolis and St. Paul and it's good with all the business men of the Twin Cities as well as in Duluth.

I have never dealt with anybody who wouldn't take my word for most anything, and when I say that I will make to order a suit or an overcoat from genuine Scotch goods for $15, from English goods for $20, and from my own special materials for $20 (that would cost you of any other tailor in Duluth $30, $40 or $50—and you can't buy the quality in any ready-made store at any price) my word ought to be good with you.

It's business with me to make your clothes and to make them satisfactorily, so that you will come again to trade with me and recommend me to your friends, and it ought to be business with you to get as good a value as you can for your money.

I am here with the finest tailor shop west of Chicago and with the most beautiful line of woolen goods that this town has ever seen AND I AM HERE TO STAY. I personally guarantee every suit or overcoat that I make to be of first-class material and the best grade of linings and trimmings. My cutters and tailors are the best of workmen. The clothes that I make are cut and made to your order in the highest of fashion. In one word, I guarantee cloth, linings, trimmings, workmanship, style, fit and finish or your money back.

Yours truly,

HARRY MITCHELL

THE TONNAGE TAX ISSUE.

Governor Johnson in his message to the legislature, January, 1907:—"The proposition which some have suggested, that the direct tax should be abolished and a tonnage tax substituted to provide for all revenue, both state and local, is objectionable because of the jeopardy of revenue for local governments during a period of industrial depression or in a year of possible lockouts or strikes. I wish it to be understood that I clearly oppose any system of taxation which will deprive local townships, village, school district or county governments of a liberal, reliable and continuous source of revenue."

Governor Johnson in his Duluth speech, Oct. 14, 1908:—"I wish to add this statement, which I make now and which I am willing to repeat in any town in the state: If I am elected governor and if the legislature should pass a law depriving this or any other section of the state of its full share of taxes for local improvements, I SHALL VETO IT. That is my stand on the tonnage tax."

JACOBSON---ENEMY OF NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

The News Tribune caps the climax of a ridiculous campaign in behalf of a traditional enemy of Northern Minnesota by making a merit out of the fact that ten years ago Jacobson opposed a measure to rebate the state royalty on iron ore smelted in the state. It produces this as evidence of Jacobson's ardent love for Duluth, and declares that it is upon this that the popular hatred of Jacobson is based.

Also, the morning paper returns, unhappily for its own case, to the drainage question, and repeats the absurd statement that Jacobson only opposed drainage in 1899 because it was part of a blanket bill covering several other measures to which he was opposed. To these lengths has servility to special interests and blind partisanship led the morning paper in its campaign to befool the people of Northern Minnesota into admitting into a place of power a man who will use that power to injure, obstruct and destroy this section. As to drainage, Jacobson opposed it not only in 1899—when, as The Herald showed yesterday, it was not a part of a blanket bill because there never has been a blanket bill in the history of Minnesota and never will be so long as the constitution stands as it does today—but in every session when it has shown itself; and in 1897 he declared that there was plenty of time for drainage when the people of the north country had to swim.

Jacobson's opposition to the encouragement of iron manufacture by the rebating of state royalties was important only in that it showed his bitter hostility to this community; he said that it might be all right, but "he didn't want to see a great monopoly built up at Duluth." Before that he had opposed the Duluth normal school through three sessions, and he also opposed the entire normal school system, a thing of which those who wish that system extended in the future should take notice; he opposed the granting of a bounty of 50 cents a ton on pig iron made in Minnesota; he opposed drainage, as we have shown; he opposed the Duluth naval militia, and extensions of the militia everywhere; he opposed the state sanitarium for consumptives at Walker; he opposed the apportionment of state road money so that St. Louis county would get a fair share; he introduced two tonnage tax bills and supported a third; he introduced a resolution forfeiting the land grant of the Duluth & Iron Range and got it through the house; he opposed the protection and propagation of the forests; he opposed the protection of game and fish; he opposed the wolf bounty that protects the settlers from the ravages of these destructive animals; he opposed apportioning the railroad gross earnings taxes so that Duluth would get its fair proportion: in short, he opposed everything this part of the state needed and supported everything that would hurt it.

A pretty friend of Northern Minnesota, this!

THE TAX AMENDMENT.

The most important duty that will confront every voter in the state of Minnesota when he goes into the polling booth Nov. 3, will be to vote against the proposed tax amendment to the state constitution, the first amendment on the pink ballot.

But one test is needed to determine the correctness of that view. The proposed tax amendment is based upon a new theory of taxation, with which Minnesota is asked to experiment. This theory was proposed some time ago by tax experts, or rather by tax theorists. It is pertinent to the question to ask whether those tax theorists still adhere to their theory.

They do not.

Dr. Frank L. McVey of the Minnesota tax commission, upon his return from a recent gathering of tax experts at Toronto, reported in an interview in the Minneapolis Journal that sentiment on the subject has veered. The theory was that it would be better if the state could get its revenue indirectly, by gross earnings taxes, income taxes, taxes on various kinds of business, taxes on mortgages, etc., leaving the local government to tax and exempt as they please. The tax experts who proposed this theory have retraced their steps, and now favor the continuance of the direct state tax. Clearly, they are now upon a sane and conservative basis; for it would be an evil thing indeed if it came about that the individual taxpayer had no longer any direct interest in the disposition of funds in the state treasury, and that the state had no longer any interest in the proper equalization of local taxation. It would open the way for corruption and extravagance in the state, and for graft in the local governments. With the individual taxpayer no longer interested in what is done with the state's money, Minnesota might become another Pennsylvania; with the state no longer interested in proper local assessments, large interests could influence local taxing officials to relieve them of their proper share of the burden, to the injury of humble owners of small homes and small shops.

The theory upon which the tax amendment is based is thoroughly bad, and those that proposed it have abandoned it; yet Minnesota is still asked to make a hazardous experiment based upon that theory. It should not be misled into doing it.

A CAMPAIGN OF DUPLICITY.

We have all witnessed the attempt of the Duluth News Tribune, the organ of corrupt machine politics and the grinder of axes for special privilege, to mislead the voters of the iron country into believing that J. F. Jacobson can be depended upon to give this section a square deal in the taxation of the iron mines.

It has attempted this in the face of Governor Johnson's repeated declarations that he will veto any measure that is unfair to this section, and in the face of Jacobson's thundering silence on this subject while he is running on his tonnage tax record as the author and supporter of three separate and various tonnage tax bills.

Now the time has come to show the voters of the iron counties what Jacobson's supporters are doing upon this matter elsewhere. In other counties they are more frank than the News Tribune. They are declaring that Johnson is the enemy of the tonnage tax bill and that he ought, therefore, to be defeated; and they are declaring that Jacobson will give the state a tonnage tax bill, and that he ought, therefore, to be elected.

For instance, here is what the Albert Lea Times-Enterprise, one of the strongest and most influential Republican country newspapers of Southern Minnesota, says:

> A definite tax upon every ton of iron ore produced is the plan of the Republicans of the state, and it is ardently supported by Mr. Jacobson but just as zealously opposed by Governor Johnson and by the counties in which the iron mines are situated. With a proper system of taxation under which the railroads, the telegraph companies, the iron mine owners and all others who enjoy through special privileges the undisputed right to exploit the public and the state's resources are compelled to pay into the state treasury as just consideration in return for the privileges they enjoy, THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE WOULD BE RELIEVED FROM THE BURDEN OF STATE TAXATION.

While the News-Tribune, seeking treacherously to betray the people of this section into the hands of their enemies, is trying to befool the people into voting for Jacobson, that is what the Jacobson press is saying elsewhere: that the mines of the iron country will be made to pay THE ENTIRE STATE TAX. That is the kind of a campaign that is being made elsewhere for Jacobson, and Jacobson, by his stand upon his tonnage tax record and his refusal to promise fair play, is accepting that support and binding himself to act accordingly if he is elected.

In other Republican papers out in the state appears a report of the rejection of the tonnage tax plan by the Democratic state board of equalization, used as an argument for Jacobson, the tonnage tax advocate, and against Johnson, the tonnage tax opponent.

In one of the sheets of campaign literature issued by the Republican state central committee there is a bit of doggerel verse, credited to the Redwood Reveille, booming Jacobson, because, among other things:

> The iron ore a tonnage tax should pay—
> It certainly would if Jake had his say.

NEWS TRIBUNE INSULTS THE COMMUNITY.

After having dragged a number of business men and professional men into the mire of its contemptible and treacherous brand of politics, the News Tribune is trying to sosh them around in it, in the hope that it may make them of its own color, and thereby become less lonesome and less loathsome in the eyes of the community.

First it prepared a lying and deceptive screed, playing upon the fact that every man, woman and child in St. Louis county fears the tax amendment and the tonnage tax. Leading some of these gentlemen to believe that the paper was simply a protest against these vicious proposals, it secured signatures and published the whole in such a manner as to lead the public to believe that these men vouch for Jacobson's friendship for St. Louis county, and advocate his election. It is true that some of these gentlemen—all of them are staunch Republicans—signed knowingly; they say so themselves. But others were misled, and placed in a false position; a thing that the News Tribune has often done before.

Now, because The Herald has pointed out the falseness of the News Tribune's conclusions, and because it was not deterred in its duty of doing so by the fact that eminent citizens had appended their names to it, the morning paper complains bitterly that The Herald has insulted these business men. Not so. The News Tribune rendered them deadly insult by dragging them into its brutal and conscienceless style of politics; and it is rubbing the insult in by trying to blame its contemptible misrepresentations upon the Republicans who were led to sign them.

This course is far from furnishing a single reason why Northern Minnesota should give Jacobson a single vote.

JACOBSON LOSES HIS VOICE.

As an excuse for abandoning the Jacobson tour of the iron ranges, the local Jacobson management, through the News Tribune, says that the candidate has lost his voice.

We had begun to suspect as much. For more than a week now we have been trying to get Mr. Jacobson, or the News Tribune for him, to tell where he now stands on the tonnage tax. It was hardly necessary, because he is standing on his tonnage tax record, and is accepting support throughout the state from those who wish the iron mines to pay the entire state tax. But it seemed rather clear, from the fact that the Jacobson meetings have been repeatedly postponed until they have dwindled to one single meeting in Duluth at the very close of the campaign, that his managers intended to have him say something to the people of Duluth then, when it was too late for the rest of the state to hear it. Hence, in the interests of the people of the iron counties, The Herald has been trying to draw out an opinion from Jacobson, while all the state might hear it.

We care nothing about what Mr. Jacobson may whisper to the people of Duluth on the eve of the election.

If he dared not come out openly in the hearing of all the state, as Governor Johnson did, and declare himself against the tonnage tax, as Governor Johnson did, anything he may timidly confide to the people of the iron country at the end of a campaign devoted to seeking votes on his tonnage tax record is worthless.

If he dares not give the iron country a promise of fair play in the hearing of all the state, he dares not protect it against the encroachments of the legislature in plain view of all the state.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

The voters of the range are angry. They are angry over the manner in which they have been thrown down by the Republican state central committee. They are of the opinion that Jacobson and the advisory members of the party, have weighed upon the range appearance of the Republican gubernatorial candidate.

T. J. Sullivan, at the St. Louis last night, made this statement. He stated that the range voters were of the opinion that Mr. Jacobson was afraid to make any statement upon the tonnage tax question, and believing that complete silence upon the issue would be interpreted as it has in many other parts of the state, the men managing the campaign have refused to take any chances with the range voter.

Mr. Sullivan is from Ely, and gives the opinion that the refusal of Jacobson to visit the range has effectively answered the question as to where he stands upon the question of the tonnage tax.

C. M. Atkinson, son of Postmaster Atkinson of Hibbing, who was at the St. Louis last night, states that the labor outlook at that city of mines is very good. According to Mr. Atkinson, the labor condition is very much better right now than it was a year ago. And, if the statement of certain employers of labor is a criterion, the improvement in the labor situation will continue.

Mr. Atkinson says that many of the mine officials are of the belief that labor conditions will continue to improve, no matetr how the national election is decued. This is taken to mean that there will not be a heavy slump in labor conditions after the election, as has been reported in many circles.

There was a rumor repeated in Duluth, to the effect that many of the mines had notices plastered upon them stating that in the event of the election of Bryan, busiiss would decrease greatly and many employes would lose their positions.

Mr. Atkinson says that he has never heard of this, and nobody else in Hibbing has ever heard of it. The days of coercion in politics have passed.

The story, however, recalls the fact that this form of securing the labor vote reached its height in that memorable campaign of 1896. A commercial man at the St. Louis, who for various reasons does not wish his name mentioned, stated last night that in 1896 he was employed by the Marshall Field company of Chicago. The firm employs thousands of men. They were compelled, upon the penalty of losing their positions, to march in the McKinley parade. Some of the employes had the temerity to refuse to march in the Republican procession. They lost their positions. "The cry of impending commercial disaster has lost its sting; our country is getting too big to be wrecked or ruined by one party," said the man who was telling of the incident.

Harry C. Carling, superintendent of Employers' Detective association, who is at the Lenox hotel, has just returned from Chicago and some of the larger eastern cities. Mr. Carling, whose business has much to do with labor conditions, states that right at the present time capital and labor are awaiting the outcome of the present election.

In the opinion of Mr. Carling, labor conditions are simply quiet; there is no actual depression; investors and capitalists are simply waiting.

"Men that I have talked with," said Mr. Carling last night, "are very optimistic concerning the business outlook. While the average business men or the employer of labor will inform you that business conditions are very quiet, in the same breath he will tell you that expansion of business will begin with the election out of the way. They will tell you that it is just the usual let up before election time and that the indications point to gradual improvement.

"Down in Illinois there is a feeling that Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for governor, will be elected. The Yates crowd are knocking Dineen at every opportunity and this has caused dissention in the ranks of the Republican party. There is an intense interest being taken in politics all over the country and in my opinion the commerical pulse of the country will beat slowly until after Nov. 3"

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder

Its superiority is unquestioned
Its fame world-wide
Its use a protection and a guarantee against alum food

The low-grade powders are made from "phosphate alum," or "sodium aluminum sulphate," which is also alum, a mineral acid, and that makes the food unhealthful.

One pound of the imitation (25c.) powders contains five ounces of alum, a mineral poison.

Food baked with alum baking powders is found to contain a portion of the alum unchanged.

The continued use of alum made food impairs digestion, causing dyspepsia. The careful housewife when buying baking powder, will examine the label and take only a brand whose label shows the powder to be made from cream of tartar.

THE WEATHER.

It is a little more dry, but not all the moisture coming to Duluth has been squeezed out yet, according to the weather man. This morning it was cloudy and threatening, and cooler; the weather man says there may be more rain tonight or tomorrow, without much change in temperature. Yesterday's highest was 44 degs., and last night's lowest was 38 degs. A year ago today fine weather prevailed. The sun rose this morning at 6:44 and sets tonight at 5, making 10 hours and 16 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Slight barometer depressions overlie the western lake region and Saskatchewan. During the past twenty-four hours these disturbances caused light rains in the lake region, Upper Mississipi valley, Texas and the Atlantic states. Temperature changes have generally been unimportant, but freezing weather continues throughout the Rocky mountains and eastern slopes as a result of the stationary high pressure area central over Northwestern Wyoming. The combined influence of the Saskatchewan and this region low pressures may cause further light showers at the Head of the Lakes tonight or Wednesday."

Mr. Bryan's First Hit.

William Allen White in Collier's: Twelve years ago at the national Democratic convention at Chicago a young man with a good head of hair and a full, fine, frank youthful face ran down from the speakers' platform and took a sandwich from the hand of a friend behind the speakers' stand, and the young man, flushed and excited with the roar of the great throng in his ears, bit into the bread and said: "Do you think I made a hit?" The cheering of the tumultuous crowd drowned his friend's answer, which is, of course, immaterial, but from that moment until the present that young man has dominated the Democratic party of this nation. It is hardly too strong to say that for twelve years he is and has been the Democratic party of America; and and it is only just to say that the Democratic faith which Mr. Bryan has been preaching all these years is as different a creed from that preached by the Democracy taught during the dozen years before Mr. Bryan's coming, and for a generation before that, as the Republicanism of today differs from that of President Harrison's day.

The marchers were headed by the City band, Chief Marshal Louis Reitz and Assistant Marshals Wisted and Swanson. Among those on the stage at the opera house were M. O. MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Foley Independent: A statesman is one who can comb the wool over the people's eyes for an indefinite period. When the wool rolls away he becomes a has-been.

Madison Independent-Press: As William Henry Eustis used to say "keep sweet." Don't get mad when your neighbor fails to see things just as you see them, as we are not all endowed alike in the matter of seeing and understanding political questions.

St. Peter Herald: The railroads insisted upon the nomination of Judge Mills, and he was nominated. Sufficient reason, certainly, why the people should vote for Bjorge and Mee, candidates for the state railroad and warehouse commission.

Appleton Press: Minnesota has done herself proud in entertaining the two foremost citizens of the United States, Taft and Bryan. However we may differ on questions of policy, the high personal character and manhood of our presidential candidates ought to be an inspiration to our youth to live clean earnest lives.

Willmar Journal: We believe in the primary election law, but with an amendment making it a state's prison offense for a member of one political party to call for a ballot and aid in nominating a candidate for an opposition political party.

Anoka Union (Rep.): A vote for Ira B. Mills for railroad and warehouse commissioner is a vote against your own interest and that of the state. Spot him.

Bob Dunn's Princeton Union: It is rather late in the day for Attorney General Young to apologize for his ill-mannered letter to The Duluth Herald prior to the Republican state convention. But in the "interest of harmony" his explanation goes for the time being.

Sandstone Courier: The Federation of Commercial clubs of the state will ask the next state legislature for an appropriation to help in the advertising of the state. It will undoubtedly be granted as all begin to realize that we are being outdone by other districts. Only about one-half of this state is now under cultivation and the inducements here are second to none but the fact needs to be advertised. Every new settler is an improvement to the state and every effort should be made to attract them.

Madison Independent Press: There is no desire to place any unnecessary burdens on the banks nor do them an injustice but there is a desire to make the deposit of money in a bank safe and that is the motive which stands behind guaranteed deposits and some day it will come in this state.

St. Peter Herald: All of the big labor leaders of the country are supporting Bryan. And this in the face of the fact that Taft has just stumped the country telling what the Republican party has done for the laboring man.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: Not a single Minnesota Republican candidate for congress, except Jim Tawney, but can be counted upon to vote against Joe Cannon for re-election as speaker.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A boy knows more at 20 than he can unlearn between that and 60.

Even when a man picks up money in the street he thinks it's because he has such a head for finance.

The reason a woman has faith in a man is it helps her not to be so miserable over the things she can't trust him in.

There are two kinds of girls sure to be old maids, those from whom every man runs away and those who run after every man.

When a man will confess to his wife that he had a love affair before he was married, she is all the more suspicious about the ones he doesn't tell her of.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

London Bystander: Intelligent Rescuer (to skater who has fallen through)—Steady, old man, steady! Keep cool!

Young's Magazine: Gertrude Coghlan recently told a good one of a very young friend of hers who had been whipped. "Now," said his mother, "tell me why I punished you."

"That's it," said Johnny, "you nearly pound the life out of me and now you don't even know why you did it."

London Telegraph: "When I see what Barlow accomplishes I am forced to admiration," said Bunting. "He has great physical endurance."

"Yes," replied Gangoyle. "That man has the constitution of a debutante."

Judge: Neighbor—I want to ask if you'd mind not using that worm exterminator you've bought for your garden.

Suburbanite—And why not, pray?

Neighbor—Well, you see, I'm planning on keeping chickens.

Chicago Record-Herald: "The easiest way to succeed, my boy, is to give the people what they want."

"No, sir, you are mistaken. The easiest way to succeed is to make the people think they want what you are are giving them."

Boston Transcript: Benny's mother took him on Saturday afternoon to the Natural History rooms on Brooklyn street. When they arrived home Benny blurted out: "Oh, papa, we had a grand time. Mamma and I went to a dead circus."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Is your husband taking much interest in politics this year?"

"No. He won a season pass in a guessing contest to one of the baseball grounds."

Home Magazine: He—Oh, please, Miss Jeanne, do not call me Mr. Durand.

She (coyly)—Oh, but our acquaintance is so short! Why should I not call you that?

He—Why, chiefly because my name is Dupont.

Puck: Dorothy's mother found her with an alarm clock on her foot, and the alarm set for 6 o'clock. "Well, for goodness sake, Dorothy, what mischief are you up to now?"

"Why, mother, I'm not in any mischief; my foot's asleep and I want to wake it up."

Questions of Economy.

A quart of tub oysters costs you 40c. It is half water. You pay 20c for a pint of water, or 80c for a quart of oysters. Rather expensive whichever way you figure.

Isn't it more sensible to pay nearly as much for a pint of "Sealshipt" Oysters—solid meats—as you pay for a quart of watered oysters? "Sealshipt" are firm, fresh, clean—no water—no melted ice—no possible contamination. And the pint of "Sealshipt" will go as far as a quart of watered oysters—to say nothing of the fine, snappy sea-flavor.

"Sealshipt" come packed in a steel container with ice around the container—not in the oysters. We sell "Sealshipt" only, and guarantee them.

by the unusual activity in their out-of-doors sleeping place.

Mr. Bryan was accompanied by National Chairman Norman E. Mack and by Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Mack. Mr. Bryan eulogized the workers of the country and spoke at some length on the various issues of the campaign.

Bryan said that to him the meeting was one of the most interesting of the campaign.

Dignity in Labor.

"There is not only necessity for labor," he declared, "but there is dignity in labor. I believe that the time will yet come when public sentiment will put the badge of disgrace not upon the men who with brain or muscle contribute to their nation's welfare, but upon the men who are willing to spend in idleness the money that some of them have made."

He maintained that the government that rested upon the convictions of the people was the strongest possible government. The people, he said, could govern themselves, and he asserted that the progress was constantly toward a larger participation by the people in their government.

"If," he said, amid great cheering, "I have gained a place in your confidence it is simply because I have taken you into my confidence. If you are willing to trust me, it is only because I have shown my willingness to trust you. I do not say that the people will make no mistakes. What I say is that the people have a right to make their own mistakes and nobody has a God-given right to make them for them. I do not mean to say that I am not liable to mistake. I do say that I do not know of any reason why I should make a mistake against the people or look at questions except from the standpoint of the people."

Raps the Legislature.

Mr. Bryan then took up the issues of the campaign. He discussed publicity of campaign contributions, the tariff, the trusts, panics, etc., and as regards the election of senators by direct vote, he declared that he felt confident "that the people of New York by adopting that plan could not make any worse mistakes than their legislature has done."

In reference to private monopolies, he said:

"We believe it will never be safe to have monopolies until God sends us angels to take care of tehm, and with those in charge we are inclined to believe that they come ot from above but from below."

Taking up the labor question, he detailed the planks of the Denver platform and said he could not understand why Mr. Taft was so bitter against the trial by jury. He hoped the time would come when employers would not threaten their employes, when every employer would recognize that the responsibility of citizenship rested upon the employe as well as upon the employer. His only claim upon the suffrage of the people for election, he said, was that if they believed his election would be good for the country and that they would share in the benefits that that election would bring, he had a right to expect that they would stand for him on election day.

NO PLOT IN MORSE CASE

haustive arguments by counsel for the defense on one side and United States District Attorney Stimson on the other.

This leaves Morse and Curtis to face only the charge of violation of the national banking laws.

The prosecution in the trial of Morse and Curtis having rested its case yesterday, it became today the turn of the defense to have its day in court. That both Mr. Morse and Mr. Curtis would take the stand was taken generally for granted.

Observers of the trial, noting the tilt between ex-Judge Olcott, who is defending Curtis, and ex-Congressman Littlefield, who is in charge of counsel looking after the interests of Morse, regard it as probable that the defense will be split. A joint prosecution, it has been pointed out, does not obviate separate procedures in defense in several particulars, and both separate summings up, consequently, were expected.

GAINS FOR CHIPPEWAS

located about Cass Lake and will, during his visit to Minnesota, look into the affairs of his clients. Under a recent decision of the secretary of the interior a corps of engineers are now engaged in making a resurvey of these swamp lands, and upon this resurvey the department will be guided, ignoring the original field notes of engineers made in 1860.

It is said that a good percentage classified as swamp was dry at the time of the original survey of March, 1860, and the recent decision of the secretary of interior to grant only what is actually swamp on the date of survey is showing large gains for the Indians. Reports up to date from the engineers making the re-examination indicate that between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 worth of timber on land originally classified as swamp and claimed by the state should go to the Indians.

PIG IRON REVIVAL.

vival one of the most interesting contracts ever made having just been closed. The Pittsburg Steel company has contracted with an Ohio furnace for half of its basic iron requirements for a period of five years, the contract calling for delivery at the rate of 6,000 tons a month throughout that period. This involves a total of 300,000 tons, and the price is said to be the actual cost of production plus a profit of 7 per cent to the makers, the price at no time, however, to be more than $17 per ton. The contract becomes operative Nov. 1. The same company has taken 10,000 tons additional for use prior to that time.

At Canton, Ohio, steel company has closed a contract covering its requirements of 6,000 to 12,000 tons of basic for the first half of 1909. In New York a contract for 10,000 tons of basic was closed by an enameling company for use at its Illinois plants, most of it Southern iron at a price said to be close to $13. Birmingham. In the Chicago district actual sales have not been in important amounts, but the aggregate business has been decidedly larger and inquiries for first quarter are encouraging. A general and substantial improvement is looked for after the election.

Railroads in Deals.

Structural steel furnishes the principal interest in the local market. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road has decided to build 2,500 more cars, and has ordered the steel underframes, trucks and other material from the Bettendorf Axle company. The order calls for about 10,000 tons of material. It also brings the total number of cars ordered by this road within a month up to 7,500. It is not probable that the St. Paul has provided nearly all the equipment that will be required for its Pacific coast extension, which is to be completed during the coming year.

Another important local railroad contract is the Chicago & Northwestern's for its terminal track elevation. This will require 24,000 tons of steel, for which the company is asking bids. The company has let the contract for its station to the Fuller interest. The Illinois Central has asked for early shipment on 25,000 tons of rails, for which it contracted some time ago. Several railroads are in the market for locomotives of various types.

Steel Rails.

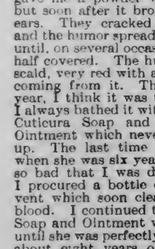

Steel rail orders have not been increased materially. The Reading has ordered 5,000 tons from the Pennsylvania Steel company and a few smaller contracts have been placed. It is understood that the railmakers will all open their books for 1909 orders in the near future. In this connection the statement of President McCrea of the Pennsylvania railroad is of interest. Mr. McCrea is quoted in Pittsburg and Philadelphia as saying that his road would be in the market soon for its rail requirements for the next year, and that the orders would be for about the normal amount. The Pennsylvania's last order for rails was for 55,000 tons for use this year, but the order was not accepted by the mills. As a consequence the road took no new rails in 1908. The road's first order for 142,000 tons for this year was also rejected. In three preceding years, however, the Pennsylvania has used from 128,000 to 163,000 tons of rails yearly, and the cost has averaged about $4,000,000.

Among the orders for building material placed are 5,200 tons for the Ritz-Carlton hotel in New York and 5,000 tons for the Emigrant Savings Bank building in New York. The Iowa Central has contracted for 4,000 tons for the Keithsburg bridge and other orders include 4,000 tons for a viaduct at Denver, 3,000 tons for bridges for the New York Central and several smaller tonnages for buildings in various cities. The total structural to be contracted in the near future in Chicago is about 65,000 tons.

CHILD'S DREADFUL SKIN TROUBLES

Had Sixty Boils when but Six Months Old—Was Annually Attacked by a Humor—It Looked Red Like a Scald and Spread Over Half Her Head—Both Troubles are Cured.

NO PRAISE TOO HIGH FOR THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"When my little Vivian was about six months old, her papa had a boil on his forehead. At that time the child was covered with prickly heat and I suppose in scratching it, her own head became infected for it broke out in boils, one after another. She had about sixty in all and I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her of them entirely. Then, sometime later, her little foot got sore between the toes. Being afraid it was salt rheum, I spoke to our doctor. He gave me a powder which dried it up, but soon after it broke out behind her ears. They cracked half way around and the humor spread up on to her head until, on several occasions, it was nearly half covered. The humor looked like a scald, very red with a sticky, clear fluid coming from it. This occurred every year, I think it was toward the spring. I always bathed it with warm water and Cuticura Soap and applied Cuticura Ointment which never failed to heal it up. The last time it broke out was when she was six years old. It became so bad that I was discouraged. Then I procured a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent which soon cleared it out of her blood. I continued the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment with the Resolvent until she was perfectly well. She is now about eight years old and has never been troubled in the last two years. We also find Cuticura Resolvent a good spring medicine and we are just giving the children Cuticura Resolvent Pills as a tonic. We do not think any one can praise Cuticura Remedies too highly. Mrs. M. A. Schwerin, 674 Spring Wells Ave., Detroit, Mich., Feb. 24, 1908."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. loyally by Laurier, the greater portion of his majority being secured in that province.

Nova Scotia, which returned all Liberal members at the last general election, elected seven Conservatives. R. L. Borden, leader of the Conservatives, was elected in Halifax, where he was defeated four years ago.

Great hopes were felt by the opposition of securing a majority in New Brunswick, but the Liberals scored a sweeping victory, electing eleven members against two for the Conservatives, a Liberal gain of three. William Pugsley, minister of public works, was elected by a large majority in St. John, but his colleague, James Pender, was defeated by the old Conservative member, Dr. John W. Daniel. Henry R. Emerson, former minister of railways, was elected by 1,000 majority in Westmoreland county.

Sifton Elected.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 27.—Late returns from Western Canada show that Clifford Sifton was elected in Brandon by 54 votes; W. A. Templeton was defeated in Victoria, B. C., by five votes; Ralph Smith, Liberal, was elected in Nanaimo, B. C., over Hawthornthwaite, Socialist. In Vancouver and New Westminster the government candidates were defeated, owing to the feeling that the government had not been firm enough in excluding the Orientals. The standing west of the Great Lakes is closer than was first reported, the result being: Liberals, 19; Conservatives, 14. Premier Laurier's majority in parliament will be over fifty.

D. C. Cameron, a millionaire lumberman, who was the Liberal candidate in Winnipeg, was defeated by nearly 2,000 majority by Alexander Haggart, Conservative.

Successful Candidates.

The candidates elected in the Northwest and on the Pacific coast are:

Manitoba—Conservatives: Winnipeg, Haggart; Souris, Chaffner; Portage La Prairie, Meighen; Marquette, Roche; Macdonald, Staples; Lisgar, Sharpe. Liberals: Brandon, Clifford Sifton; Dauphin, T. A. Burrows; Provencher, Molloy; Selkirk, Jackson.

British Columbia — Conservatives: New Westminster, Taylor; Vancouver, Cowan. Liberals: Nanaimo, Ralph Smith.

The ridings in which elections are to be held later are two in Quebec, three in British Columbia, one in Alberta and one in Yukon.

TRIED TO STEAL AN AUTOMOBILE

An Unknown Thief Eloped With A. C. Ribenack's Runabout.

Either some practical joker or some thief stole the automobile of Albert C. Ribenack, one of the proprietors of the Lenox hotel, from the front yard of his residence, 106 South Fifteenth avenue east, shortly after 10 o'clock last night.

Early this morning Mr. Ribenack set out to trace the machine. His machine is fitted with corrugated tires, so that the track was easy to follow. Mr. Ribenack finally found his machine at the corner of Fourteenth avenue east and Third street.

The oil cup of Mr. Ribenack's machine leaks. This is the reason, Mr. Ribenack believes, that the machine was left. He puts only enough oil in the cup to last a single trip. The oil ran out last night, and it is presumed that the joker or thief left the machine when it refused to work.

CHEAPER HAIRCUTS.

Barbers Put the Price Back to Twenty-Five Cents.

The price of a haircut has been reduced to its former level by the barbers union and, at their own option, the proprietors of shops may accept 25 cents for the service of trimming the hair of their patrons. The move was made to allow the other barbers of the city to compete with those who refuse to increase the price of haircuts to 35 cents when that action was taken last year.

It is expected the move of the union will have the effect of getting the shops, which withdrew, back into the union. Those shops continued to pay the union scale of wages and, with the reduction in the price of haircuts, everything is in common again. The proprietors will be called upon to guarantee $16 a week as before. There will be no reduction in the price of shaves.

FALLS FROM ORE DOCK.

Ole Berg Has Narrow Escape From Losing His Life.

Ole Berg of 216 Garfield avenue had a narrow escape from drowning last night about 10 o'clock, when he fell from the Missabe ore dock into the water. He was rescued from the water, but required medical attention for injuries about the head.

Several men saw Berg fall and when he came up the first time, they pulled him out of the water with a hook they found nearby. He was unconscious when taken from the water and was rushed to St. Mary's hospital, where it is said his injuries are not serious and he will recover.

ON THE IRON RANGES

EVELETH EXPECTS SOME GOOD TIMES

Mining Work in That Section This Winter Will be Lively.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—That around Eveleth will be lively this winter is assured especially so since the stripping has been started around the old Adams mine shafts. Where only a few weeks ago there was nothing but a field and a road, there is now a railroad track and a temporary water tank erected for the engines. This stripping which is just being started will make the Adams open pit almost a mile long, as it will connect with the present open pit.

Of the two shovels now at work on the new stripping, the one at the No. 4 shaft is to cut its way through some caves to the No. 1. The other shovel is taking a cut on the old county road side of the dump that was taken out of No. 1 some twelve years ago. The cut will only be twenty-eight feet wide, as it is only being made to allow the tract that is now on the old county road to be thrown over to the new cut. The county road will then be sued for ordinary purposes as before. After the cut is made the shovel will be moved 100 feet north of the old dump, and will strip. The move north will be made to insure the safety of the employes as the stripping will be done on solid ground, while it would otherwise have to work through the caves. There will not be any danger to the men, of any timber underneath giving way, as might happen while working through the caves.

WITNESSES WERE TRYING TO HELP

Sought by Standing Together to Clear Defendant, But They Failed.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The preliminary examination of Guisippi Francialini, an Italian, who was arrested on complaint of Pit Blaketti, who alleges that Guisippi shot him through the lip, was held at municipal court Monday. The witnesses for the state claimed they heard the report of a revolver while the witnesses for the defendant said he was struck with a rock. Upon cross-examination, however, the defendant's witnesses admitted they had agreed before the trial to do their best "to get Guisippe out of the trouble." The court found there was sufficient evidence to believe the defendant guilty of the crime, and he was thereupon bound over to the district court to await the action of the grand jury, without bail.

JACOBSON DODGED THEM.

Range Republicans Disappointed Because He Will Not Come.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local Republicans are disappointed that Jacobson is not coming to the range, as all of them wish to hear his views on the tonnage tax question. Arrangements had already been made for the meeting on Wednesday noon at the Vail hotel, but as Jacobson will not come at all, the local committee has decided to have a big meeting tonight at the Vail hall instead of the Jacobson meeting.

They have secured Senator Moses E. Clapp and Chester A. Congdon to make the principal addresses of the evening, while other speakers will also be called upon. Eczema Cure Surprises Druggists
(From Chicago News.)

Leading druggists have been puzzled to understand why they are selling so much pure citrox lately to the public, as this drug is generally used only in scientific work. An item in The News last week accounts for it, as it told of the discovery that citrox is probably the best known cure for eczema, tetter, salt rheum and other skin diseases The directions, as published in the Doctor's Guide by the original discoverer, are as follows: Dissolve a teaspoonful of pure powdered citrox in two tablespoons hot water, and bathe the diseased part 20 minutes at a time twice a day. Be careful to make the solution fresh each time it is to be used and apply it w m. Only the pure citrox, put up in sealed packages by the chemical works, is fit for medical use. Many interesting cases are reported to the Doctor's Guide by physicians, who say its action is marvelous, stopping the itching at once and drying up the eruption in a short time. The cures are permanent.

Funeral services will be held at the M. E. church Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

FALSE PRETENSE CHARGE IS MADE

Booster for Proposed New Magazine is Under Arrest.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. E. Taylor, representative of a proposed magazine to bear the title "Twin City Thoughts," last night was placed under arrest on a warrant issued on a complaint sworn out by Edward H. Cutter of Noyes Brothers & Cutter, charging Taylor with obtaining money under false pretenses.

For the past several weeks Taylor has been engaged in a canvass of the city obtaining subscriptions and advertising for a magazine which, it was represented, was owned, managed and published by the newspaper men and newspaper writers of St. Paul and Minneapolis papers. Free use of the telephone was made in transacting his business and arranging his interviews using the name of editors of St. Paul papers.

The business men of St. Paul responded promptly and generously and contracts and cash were gathered in a plentiful supply by Mr. Taylor.

James H. Beck, on behalf of the business men of St. Paul, made an examination of Mr. Taylor's representations and credentials and, it is said, found them seriously wanting in character and that he had received more than $1,000 from the business men of the city.

He was brought into police court today.

KERN CHARGES BOODLE FUND

Says $100,000 of Trust Money is for Indiana Republicans.

Tipton, Ind., Oct. 27.—"I am reliably informed and make this specific charge that $100,000 of money largely contributed by trusts and combines was brought into Indiana last Sunday and passed through the hands of Fred Sims, secretary of state."

John W. Kern, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, made the above declaration before a big audience here today.

Mr. Kern said:

"Mr. Sims is an estimable gentleman, and a warm personal friend of mine, but I am compelled to say that it is a sad spectacle to see a public official, who is required to pass every year upon the question as to what amount of taxes shall be levied upon the railroads and other corporations of his state, handling the money that these corporations are called upon to contribute to the campaign fund. The assessing of taxing officer, who, like Mr. Upham of Chicago, or Mr. Sims of Indiana, has the power to raise or lower the taxes of crporations has rare facilities for frying fat out of the corporations whose properties they are required to value.

CHEER FOR FOURTEEN MINUTES, AT BRYAN'S MEETING IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 27.—A demonstration which began when W. J. Bryan entered Madison Square garden last night continued fourteen minutes. It was while Governor Smith was speaking that Bryan came. In an instant a roar of sound from the expectant crowd drowned out Smith's voice and Madison Square garden was in the vortex of another Bryan demonstration. Men leaped to their chairs, and waving flags, cheered for fourteen minutes without cessation. Governor Smith tore loose an American flag from the platform balustrade and waved it vigorously as Mr. Bryan and his escort mounted the platform and took seats at the speaker's table. The crowds in the galleries shook the bunting decorations that hung from the galleries rails and when the band played "America," the crowd sang the national air.

Mr. Bryan stepped to the platform rail without introduction and waited for the demonstration to cease. When quiet was restored and the last noisy partisan had subsided Mr. Bryan began speaking.

Notwithstanding the strain of the campaign, Mr. Bryan's voice was in good condition and he was heard in all parts of the immense hall.

Mr. Bryan said he was to begin the closing week of the campaign in New York city. "I am glad," he said, "to be encouraged by the reports that come from your city and your state. I rejoice in the evidence of a victory so large that the East and the West and the North and the South will claim a part in that victory."

"I expect," he said, amid great cheers, "to be in Washington after March 4."

He pleaded for a Democratic congress to help frame the remedial legislation which the Denver platform demanded, and said that it would be possible to send to the senate measure after measure, "and with a majority of the American people behind us, we can demand that the senate submit to the will of the people expressed at the polls."

Mr. Bryan once again took occasion to urge the election of Mr. Chanler and the entire Democratic state ticket.

"My friends, in asking for your vote for our candidate, I realize that people vote for candidates because of what the candidates stand for, and I want, in a few minutes tonight, to show you what our candidates stand for, for the problems that are before the country, the issues of the national campaign, are issues in every state in this union.

Remedial Legislation.

"I aspire to the presidency. It is not the honor of the office that attracts me. It is not because I shall find great pleasure in distributing patronage. There is one thing that makes that office attractive to me, and that is that the president participates in legislation, and I believe that legislation is needed—remedial legislation. I believe the country is ripe far that legislation.

"I want now, as the campaign is growing to a close, to leave you some thoughts I believe worthy of your consideration before you vote. I charge that the Republican leaders no longer lead the Republican voters; that the Republican leaders no longer represent the rank and file of the Republican party; I charge that these leaders no longer give expression to the conscience and the judgment of those who call themselves Republicans, I believe that our platform better expresses the real desire of a majority of the Republicans of the United States than their desire is expressed in the Republican platform, and that if we could poll the Republicans and get a frank, candid answer to the questions put to them, we would find that a majority of the Republicans would rejoice in the triumph of the policies set forth in the Democratic platform."

He called attention to the departure of the Republican leaders from the ideals of the early Republicans.

"The Republican party has claimed to be the party of morality," he declared; "it has claimed to express the conscience of the nation. I charge that today it misrepresents the moral sentiment of the country and betrays the conscience of the American people. There is a great question of conscience before the American people. It is honesty in politics. You cannot have honest government without honest politics, and the Democratic party is inaugurating a new era in American politics."

"The investigations, the disclosures, the revelations have shown what enormous campaign funds have been secretly collected and corruptedly used, and an awakened people demanded that that should stop; but the Republican senate and house refused to listen to the demand, and a Republican national convention rejected the plank that was aimed at dishonesty in politics. Our committee applied the doctrine of the platform to the present campaign, and has done what no national committee ever did before—it has taken the people into its confidence and laid bare the source of its campaign contributions.

"The Republican national committee refuses to do this. The Republican national committee has promised to let you know after election what contributions have been made to that committee, but the Republican congressional committee has not yet announced that you will ever know what contributions have been made to it.

Will Become Law.

"I submit to you that our plans appeal to the moral sentiment of the country; to the awakened conscience of the nation.

"And, my friends, I want to make this prediction: that whether we win or lose this reform that we are inaugurating, will become the law of this land and the Republican party will be compelled to at last yield to the moral sentiment. If," he said amid tumultuous applause, "there be Republicans here, let me say to them that they may differ with me if they will, but they cannot deny to me the credit that history will give me for helping to give an impulse to honest politics."

The Republican party, Mr. Bryan said, used to claim that it represented the constitutional thought of the country, but, he said, it was not the defender of the Constitution.

"The Republican leaders do not regard constitutional limitations," he argued, "and in this respect the present president and the Republican candidate for president are not exceptions to the rule. President Roosevelt has disregarded constitutional limitations. This government is not a government of one man. This government is framed upon the theory that absolute power is not lodged anywhere except with the people themselves."

The candidate elicited wild enthusiasm when he said that in the West Mr. Taft was running on his amendments to the Chicago platform, while in the East he was running on the original platform.

"In the East," he said, "he is a narcotic. In the West he is a stimulant. In the West he is pledged to reform; in the East is, "sh-sh-sh."

Mr. Bryan closed with a bitter denunciation of the president for, as he said, making himself a dictator. "I aspire to the presidency," he said. "The office was held by Washington and by Jefferson, by Jackson and Lincoln, and if I take it I want to take with those sacred traditions still clinging to it. I do not want it thrown into the arena of politics and made a football between the parties."

Taft On American Passports.

New York Oct. 27.—The auditorium in Metropolitan Saenger hall, Brooklyn, was filled with a Jewish audience, and after five minutes of cheering had been given for Taft, the audience paid a hearty tribute to Oscar Straus, secretary of commerce and labor. Mr. Straus in introducing Mr. Taft, said that he wanted to leave no doubt that the election of Taft would work the greatest benefit to the country.

"Nowhere in America," said Mr. Taft, "is there a greater spirit of freedom and love of country than right here among the people who owe so much to our immigration laws."

The one thought he wished to impress, said Taft, is that by the increase of the navy and army, President Roosevelt had been enabled to exercise a greater influence for peace than any world ruler heretofore.

"Therefore," he continued, "we should progress to the point where no matter in what part of the world an American citizen is, his certificate of citizenship should be all that is required to insure him respect and good treatment. Nothing, if I am elected president, will give me greater pleasure than to devise ways and means to make the American passport respected the world over."

CROOKED DEAL CHARGE DENIED BY SHERMAN

Republican Vice Presidential Nominee Declares Allegation of Sharp Practices to Get Possesion of Millions of Acres is Not True.

New York, Oct. 27.—J. S. Sherman, Republican vice president candidate, today denied that he had been involved in an attempted deal in government timber lands in New Mexico with one Edmund Burke and others, the company which they had formed seeking to obtain possession, through crooked practice at a low figure, of millions of acres of valuable timber, Mr. Sherman's statement is as follows:

"My attention has been called to a sensational article in the New York World making charges against me in connection with the New Mexico Lumber & Development company, a corporation which has not been in existence for some years. A careful reading shows that the charges, so far as I am concerned, have no substance whatever, and as to my connection with the enterprise, the fullest possible investigation and publicity are courted.

"The fact about it briefly is that some years since Mr. Burke presented a business proposition involving the purchase of timber lands in New Mexico, which were not United States property, and the construction of a railroad. There were ten gentlemen, I think, who gave $600 each to form a company and investigate the project. Experts were employed to inspect the property. Some of us investigated the lands so there was no secret about it, and on the other hand the local papers had much to say of it at the time.

"After looking into the matter carefully and at length, we decided that the lands available would not yield a profit on the railroad construction and development. The plan was abandoned, the company dissolved, about half the sum invested was paid back to each of us and our prospective connection with the enterprise was ended.

"Not one foot nor $1 worth of United States property was concerned with it anyway. There was no secrecy about it, and no need for any. I never urged the passage of any such bill as is referred to and the World article does not say that I did. What Mr. Burke or any one else did before or after our investigation of the proposition I do not know, and if he or anybody else attempted any bribery business it was without the knowledge, consent or approval of myself or any of my associates in the investigation.

"My secretary acknowledged the receipt of Mr. Burke's letter of Aug. 9, signing my name as had the right to do in my absence. He showed me Mr. Burke's letter on my return, and knowing there was nothing in the transaction on my part to conceal or apologize for, I paid no more attention to it. The whole affair was purely a legitimate private enterprise, which, as business men, we investigated and turned down half a dozen years ago.

"It may be of interest in this connection to say that later Mr. Burke wrote me, saying he was being pressed to make statements which would be calculated to injure me, and asked me to see him in Chicago on a date when I was billed to speak there. That letter was not even acknowledged, because I had nothing to pay or promise to prevent the disclosure of any public or private act of mine. If he has found a market for the wares, the incident must go along with what I suppose is to be expected in the last week of a campaign."

WAR BETWEEN CLUBS IS FIERCE

Rivalry In Escorting Privileges Causes Row at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 27.—A row which started here some time since over which of the big political clubs in Pittsburg should be selected to act as escort of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth from the Duquesne club to the hall where "Congressman Nick" was to tear the campaign wide open, has grown and grown until it threatens to disrupt the Republican organization in Pittsburg. The famous Americus club, behind whose doors several presidents of the United States have been made, is mad to the core, notwithstanding the fact that it won in the fight as to who should escort "Princess Alice" that night. The old Americus club claims that it is being sidetracked on other affairs of note in favor of the Pittsburg Tariff club, which was turned down on the Alice question and which threatened to kick over the traces entirely unless something good in the way of escorting came its way.

As matters stand now almost every Republican of consequence in Allegheny county belongs to either the Americus club or the Tariff club. The poker games of either one are said to be fine. The Americus club came into the limelight some time since, when two rascally attaches stole the poker game "kitty," or rake off, which amounted to $500 in a game lasting fifty hours. The Tariff club has been making great capital of this to drag in members to their club, where the "kitty" has not yet been stolen.

So when the Americus club went out after the job to escort Alice, claiming it had this right, the Tariff club was on the grounds, and there was a fearful row. It is claimed that even Washington was appealed to by wire to settle this thing.

The Tariff club then went after everything in sight in the shape of escorting business. The Americus, however, gave the opposition an awful swat again when they went to Wheeling to act as escort for Mr. Taft.

It is understood that President Roosevelt has intimated that any split at this tme would be bad. United States Senator Knox is a member of both clubs, and when it was suggested that he get in and do the oil pouring act he laughed and said: "I'm afraid my life insurance companies would cancel on me if I attempted that. There are suicide clauses in all my policies."

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health Is Worth Saving, and Some Duluth People Know How to Save It.

Many Duluth people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Duluth citizen's recommendation:

J. H. Tomlin, lather and contractor of 118 West Palmetto street, Duluth Heights, Duluth, Minn., says: "What I said in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills six years ago, was not only true, but the cure that I described at that time has been permanent, and I am pleased to inform other sufferers of this fact. My case was a severe one, and it clung to me persistently for two years. The backache finally got so bad that I was obliged to lay off from work for days at a time, and I suffered such pains that it hurt to bring the slightest strain on the muscles of the back and loins. The kidney secretions were irregular, and I was unable to rest well at night. All these irregularities yielded promptly to Doan's Kidney Pills, and the result was a permanent cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

METHODISTS FEAR THEY ARE BEING WORKED BY POLITICIANS

New York, Oct. 27.—The Methodist Preachers' association of this city has received President Roosevelt's reply to a letter of inquiry they sent him regarding charges brought to their attention anonymously, and considered by them in secret session last week, against Governor Post of Porto Rico.

It was alleged in these charges that the governor was hostile to church people.

President Roosevelt in his letter told the ministers that the charges referred to an incident of fifteen months ago, but that they were investigated thoroughly at the time by the committee on foreign affairs and were pronounced baseless before the appointment of Governor Post was confirmed by the senate.

Wesley Johnson, who read the letter at the meeting, characterized the revival of the story at this time as having earmarks of a political conspiracy.

KERN SAYS STOP RULE OF A FEW

Quotes La Follette in Saying 100 Men Control Industries.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27.—On a special trolley train, John W. Kern, Democratic candidate for vice president, spent yesterday campaigning in the interest of the Democratic party from Indianapolis to Jeffersonville. Kern returned to Indianapolis last night and immediately went to his home to make ready for his second day's tour of his home state, which today took him almost on a direct line to the northeastern part of the state.

Mr. Kern's arguments at each stop were all along the same lines. He argued that the Republican party was trying to scare the voters into line by crying panic. He declared that every unlawful trust in the United States is for Taft.

"They are wise enough to stand together," said he. "If you would do the same thing some 100 men, as shown by Republican Senator La Follette, would not now be in control of the country's industrial destinies. They would not be threatening you every four years with panic. There are 89,000,000 of you. Will you be controlled by 100?"

Several men of national prominence were with Mr. Kern on his trip. Gen James B. Weaver of Iowa spoke at several points after Mr. Kern had made his remarks.

THEIR WIVES OBJECT.

Why Many Good Men Will Not Enter Politics.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 27.—Charles A. Stix, merchant prince and Republican city council nominee, has a new answer to the question why more men do not go into politics, "Their wives won't let them."

"The public does not show its appreciation of public servants who do good work," said Mr. Stix today. "The newspapers are largely to blame in the matter. They should commend as well as condemn.

"Well, what is the result? Many women are very sensitive to any criticism of their husbands and when an effort is made to get their husbands to run for office they begin to get worried.

"They recall this and that man who has gone into politics and who never had any good said of him, and maybe has been severely criticised and they beg their husbands to keep out of it. And many a good man is kept in that way from running for office.

"The public and the paper should not neglect to praise the public servants who do their duty well. They should follow the same principles as a business man who, when one of his employes does good work, tells him so, and perhaps gives him a better position."

HOUSEHOLD WORK

To be Done by Firms Organized for That Purpose.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Alice Peloubet Norton, assistant professor of household administration in the University of Chicago, suggested to the Illinois club women at East St. Louis that the time is coming when household work will be done by business firms organized for that purpose.

The hope that she held out for the solution of the servant girl problem was that companies would be formed to furnish trained persons to do all the different branches of housework for long or short periods, and do the work according to business usages.

She said she thought such companies would go far toward solving the question. The club women listened with apparent approbation. Mrs. Norton's subject was "Home Economics and the New Education." The new education, she said, sought to teach the child what makes it most useful and omitted that which does not deal with present day conditons.

I Cured My Rupture

I Will Show You How To Cure Yours FREE!

I was practically helpless and bedridden for many years from a double rupture. I wore innumerable different kinds of trusses and appliances. Some of them were tortures, some positively dangerous, and none would hold the rupture in its proper place. The doctors told me I could not expect to have it entirely healed unless I would consent to a surgical operation. I fooled them all, however, and cured myself completely and permanently by a simple method which I discovered. Anyone can use it, and I will gladly send the cure free by mail to anyone who writes for it. Fill out the coupon below and mail it to me today. I will send the cure by return mail, postpaid.

FINE RECIPE HELPS MANY

Relieves Old Severe Cases of Rheumatism as If by Magic.

Acts Promptly on Kidneys and Bladder and Should be Given Trial.

Cut this out and put in some safe place, for it is valuable and worth more than anything else in the world if you should have an attack of rheumatism or bladder trouble or any derangement of the kidneys whatever.

The prescription is simple and can be made up by anyone at home. The ingredients can be had at any good prescription pharmacy, and all that is necessary is to shake them well in a bottle.

Here it is: Fluid extract dandelion, one-half ounce, compound Kargon, one ounce, compound syrup of sarsaparilla three ounces.

Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. A few doses is said to relieve almost any case of bladder trouble, frequent urination, pain and scalding, weakness and backache, pain above the kidneys, etc. It is now claimed to be the method of curing chronic rheumatism, because of its direct and positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It gives them life and power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, relieving the worst forms of Rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles. The extract dandelion acts upon the stomach and liver and is used also extensively for relieving constipation and indigestion. Compound sarsaparilla cleans and enriches the blood. There is nothing better than Kargon Compound for the kidneys.

This prescription is safe to use at any time.

REPUBLICAN CLUB MAY HEAR TAFT

Suggested That Phonograph Take the Stump in West Duluth.

If it can be so arranged, between now and election day, without interfering with the schedule of the West Duluth Republican club, the members of that club will be given an opportunity to hear Republican Nominee William H. Taft speak on the issues of this campaign, not in person, but through the medium of a talking machine.

A number of the members of the club this morning listened to several records reproducing parts of speeches made by both Taft and Bryan, and were very forcibly impressed with the idea of securing a phonograph and several campaign records to be used at one af their meetings. However, there was some doubt if it could be managed, as the time is growing short and their program between now and Nov. 3 is pretty well filled up.

The matter will be suggested to the committee on speakers, and if it can be arranged, "canned speeches" will be served to West Duluth Republicans before the end of the campaign.

TAX MERELY MENTIONED.

Question of Interest to This County Given Little Attention.

Clarence C. Dinehart, Republican candidate for re-election to the office of state treasurer, addressed the West Duluth Republican club at Wade's hall in West Duluth last night. L. A. Barnes introduced Mr. Dinehart, and O. J. Larson made a short address.

Mr. Dinehart reviewed the record of the Republican party from the election of Abraham Lincoln to the regime of Theodore Roosevelt. He answered the question of "Shall the people rule?" by stating in his speech that the people had always ruled under the administration of the Republican party.

Devoting his attention to the state campaign, Mr. Dinehart stated that if Johnson were elected, Minnesota would be placed in the columns of the doubtful states. He pleaded that such a thing should not be allowed to come about.

He admitted that he could not say anything against Governor Johnson, but stated that Mr. Jacobson was a rugged, upright man, with the courage of his convictions and a man who was eminently qualified to fill the position of governor. Mr. Dinehart put in a word for the Republican county candidates. He urged their election, "so that they could asssist in the work of state government."

Mr. Dinehart gave some of the Jacobson measures as a reason why he should receive the votes of the people. Very little mention was given to the tonnage tax issue, which is the one question that the voters of this county want answered. The speaker contented himself with devoting time to Jacobson's record, evading the question of where the Republican candidate stands today.

SAYS OIL POOL FIZZLED OUT

Alleging that the Sierra Nevada Oil land syndicate never materialized and the pool was a fizzle, Emma W. Forbes has brought suit in district court against John E. Merritt to recover $500 she claims to have paid him. Her complaint was filed with the clerk of the district court this morning.

The plaintiff claims that on Dec. 27, 1902, she paid John E. Merritt $500, for which she was to receive 10,000 shares of stock in the Sierra Nevada Oil company, equal to one share of stock in the Sierra Nevada Oil land pool or syndicate, which was represented to her as being in process of organization.

She claims that she has several times demanded the stock, but Mr. Merritt has failed to deliver it. She says that to the best of her information and belief the company was never organized and the syndicate never purchased any oil lands. She asks judgment for $500 and interest from Dec. 27, 1902.

DRUGGIST INVOLVED

Wholesale House Takes Over Fred Kugler's Drug Store.

Fred W .Kugler, "your druggist," is involved in financial difficulties, and his store, at 108 West Superior street, has been taken over by Thomas E. Ludington, trustee, and acting for the wholesale drug house of Noyes Bros. & Cutler, St. Paul.

Mr. Kugler has left the city, and the Kugler pharmacy is in charge of Mr. Baldwin of Minneapolis, an agent of the trustee.

Mr. Baldwin stated this morning that Mr. Kugler left Duluth rather suddenly Sunday night, and that he did not know his present address. Inquiry at the Kugler residence, 1831 Dingwall street, developed the fact that Mr. Kugler did not take his family with him when he shook the dust of Superior street from his feet.

At the Kugler residence it was stated that it was not known where Mr. Kugler had gone, and the inquirer was referred to those in charge at the store.

When told that the storekeeper professed ignorance as to Mr. Kugler's whereabouts, it was stated that Mr. Kugler was on his way to Cleveland, on business.

"Mr. Ludington of Noyes Bros. & Cutler has taken over the store," said Mr. Baldwin this morning, "and Reynolds & McClearn, attorneys for the trustee, are looking after the claims of the creditors. There is no doubt that the creditors will be paid in full."

Mr. Baldwin stated that the personnel of the staff of employes remains unchanged, and that business will go right on as usual.

What Mr. Kugler's plans for the future are has not been made known yet.

Senator Clapp Will Fill Jacobson's Cancelled Engagements.

Republican Managers Are Making Desperate Effort to Retrieve Themselves.

At the Republican headquarters the announcement was made that Senator Moses E. Clapp would speak at Proctor this afternoon, Eveleth tonight, Virginia Wednesday and at Ely Thursday. The Republican committee is making a strenuous effort to cover up the Jacobson "welch," and the senator was rushed into the range district at the last moment.

"We are going to give the people of the range a rousing talk by Senator Clapp," was the statement of W. E. Culkin, chairman of the Republican committee, this morning. "He will speak at most of the range towns, and will give the voters the principles of the state platform."

The date of the Duluth Heights meeting has been changed. This seems to be a program of changes and postponements upon the part of the Republican state and county managers. The Duluth Heights meeting was scheduled for Friday evening. The date of the meeting has been changed to Wednesday evening, and some of the speakers will also be changed.

The work of preparing for the twice postponed Jacobson meeting is going on apace. Desperate efforts are being made to "pack" the armory Saturday evening. The voters upon the range are being begged to forget the fact that Jacobson refused to make the range trip, and come in a body to the Duluth meeting.

Daily conferences are being held among the members of the Republican county committee. They realize the bungle that has been made, and they are endeavoring to correct the mistake as much as possible. The wires to the range were kept hot this morning, and the long-distance telephone was used generously to impress upon the committee workers of the range towns the necessity of having a large delegation of range shouters in Duluth next Saturday evening.

The Republican county machine is working overtime. It has received instructions from "down below" that, at all cost, the range voters must "be made to understand."

Carlton county has sent in the distress call. It needs speakers to bolster up the wavering spirit. Voters in that county have grave doubts that Jacob F. Jacobson is the friend of the northeastern part of the state, and during this week and the eve of the election, an effort will be made to bring every pressure to bear upon the "unreasonable voters" of the neighboring county. The enthusiastic reception of the Democratic speakers in Carlton, and the applause that has greeted every mention of Johnson's name, has aroused the Republican committeemen of this county to the fact that Carlton is going for Johnson together with St. Louis county, and speakers are being secured for the Carlton invasion.

It was a busy day at Democratic headquarters. There were numerous callers from out of the city, besides five or six city officials who dropped in to see how everying was going.

This week is the most strenuous in the history of the campaign. Additional meetings have been announced for this week. There will be a meeting at Rowley hall Thursday evening. The speakers have not as yet been chosen. Moose Lake and Barnum will each have a meeting during the present week. The Moose Lake meeting will be held in the afternoon, the meeting at Barnum taking place the same evening, Thursday. John Jenswold will be one of the speakers at both Barnum and Moose Lake. Andred Nelson will probably be the other.

An effort is being made to arrange a meeting for Grand Rapids. If the necessary arrangements can be made, Martin Hughes and ex-senator C. O. Baldwin will be the speakers. Hermantown will have a meeting Saturday evening.

According to the report of a man who was in Proctor last night there were exactly 100 people at the Republican meeting. Of these fifty were voters and of these fifty voters thirty-five it is said, were Democrats.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—"Love and the Law."
BIJOU—Vaudeville.

"LOVE AND THE LAW."

First Performance of New Play on Any Stage, at Lyceum.

The Mack-Leone players are now in readiness for the premier production of Ferdinand Gottachalk's political play. "Love and the Law," which takes place at the Lyceum this evening. It was originally intended that the first production should take place last night, but the work incidental to preparing the piece for the public could not be completed in time to permit of a finished performance yesterday, so Mr. Mack decided to defer the "first night" until Tuesday.

Tonight is to be a sure-enough "first night," as "Love and the Law" has never yet been given in public. Mr. Gottachalk, the author, adapted the play from the late Guy Wetmore Caryl's novel, "The Lieutenant Governor." As for this evening's interpretation, the Mack-Leone players and their scenic artists and stage carpenters have been hard at work for a long time, making preparations.

Mr. Gottachalk, Eugene Walter, author of "Paid in Full and "The Wolf," and Archibald Selwyn, the play broker, are expected here to witness tonight's performance.

"Love and the Law" will be the all-week attraction at the Lyceum.

THE MUSICAL FIVE.

Splendid Act Heads Strong Bill at the Bijou.

The "Musical Five" give the feature act on the vaudeville program at the Bijou this week. Musically, the five are in a class by themselves, and their performance is by far the best in a bill which averages very well with those the Bijou has been offering to the theater-going public for the last few months.

The "Musical Five" comprises four young men and one young woman. Their numbers are well chosen and caught the fancy of last evening's audience. Edward V. Meyer gives a very good flute solo. John Birch, a portean artist, made a big hit last evening. He gives a burlesque of the leap-for-life style of drama, all by himself that is very funny. He is billed as "The Man With Hats," and his act is well worth seeing.

Blocksom and Burns are well known funmakers, and while they have nothing particularly new to offer in the way of stunts, they get away with the time alloted to them on the program in good style, and supply fifteen-minutes of laughter.

The cherished Yankee skit is done very nicely by Holmes & Holliston. Mr. Holmes gives an imitation of the late James A. Herne in "Shore Acres." Herbert Cyril, the English comedian and monologist, will never ignite his cherished Thames with his present act, but he fills in well enough. Isadore Silver sings "The Days of 49," and the moving pictures conclude a very attractive bill.

Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs quickly, strengthens the lungs and expels colds. Get the genuine in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

A deep, well laid plot of Superior sportsmen has come to light.

The baseball fans from across the pond were trying to steal the Chicago-Detroit championship game, and really nearly succeeded in smuggling into their own little town one of the world's championship games. Think of that, and Duluth fans didn't know a thing about it.

They offered $20,000 for one of the games to be played in Superior, but their telegram didn't reach Chicago in time, and President Murphy lost it in the confusion of the moment.

Duluth people are wondering, where they would have had the game played, but then it is said that Mr. Kuehnow would have let them have Athletic park.

The following is a letter from Mr. Murphy of the Chicago club patting the Superiorites on the back, and calling them "real sports."

"Chicago, Oct 24.—Mr. Fred Russell, Superior, Wis.:

"Dear Sir—I did not see your telegram when it was received, offering $20,000 and the entire gate receipts for one of the National league championship games, but I ran across it today and wish to acknowledge the receipt of it. Of course, it would now be too late to accept such an offer, even if it were possible, but I wish to say that Superior baseball fans are real sportsmen and the offer certainly shows them as men who are not afraid to take a chance. With kindest regards, I am, yours very truly,

"CHARLES W. MURPHY,
"President."

This letter will be preserved, it is said, as a "souvenir of something they didn't get," and incidentally to show any "scoffers" that Superior is really a regular baseball town.

Fix Date Today.

Principal Lynch of the Blaine school, and Principal Shong of the Nelson-Dewey, do not care for any more postponements, and will, therefore, get together today and arrange the Blaine-Nelson-Dewey football date.

They were to have met Monday, but owing to a misunderstanding they didn't meet at the appointed time and place. They promise to find one another today.

Troubles Cause Suicide.

New Salem, N. D., Oct. 27.—A man by the name of S. Skarpohl committed suicide in a room at the Dakota hotel by taking carbolic acid. As near as the fact can be learned he had been brooding over some trouble that he had had. He has a sister living at Almont by the name of Mrs. Elngeberg Ellefson.

SURROUNDED BY WOLVES.

Two Unarmed Campers Spend Unpleasant Night.

Aitkin, Minn., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—While on a timber estimating cruise in 140-25, Cass county, a few nights ago, Martin Watson and Fred Blair spent a few uncomfortable hours, their camp being surrounded by a pack of twenty-five wolves who made the night hideous with their howling and snarling. Both men were unarmed, and it was only through keeping up a brisk fire that the wolves were kept at bay, slinking off into the wooods with the approach of day. In the township immediately to he north of this locality a day or two later William Carroll, a camp watchman, found the carcasses of two wolves which had been gored and trampled, evidently in a combat with a moose.

WELL-KNOWN INVENTOR.

Ole Johnson, Who Died Here, Was Prominent in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Ole Johnson, well known as an inventor, who died suddenly in a Duluth hotel Saturday, arrived here Sunday night. The funeral will be held from Our Saviors Lutheran church probably Wednesday or as soon as a daughter can arrive from California.

Mr. Johnson suffered from heart trouble for years. He left Milwaukee Wednesday for Duluth on business. The first intimation the family received of any trouble was a telephone message from Duluth saying that he had suddenly passed away.

Mr. Johnson was 54 years of age. He was born in Norway. He has been a resident of Milwaukee for the last twenty-eight years. He is the inventor of some of the most improved coal handling machinery now in use and held a number of valuable patents. He was also a contractor and built many of the large coal docks in this city.

Mr. Johnson is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. C. L. Shove, Berkeley, Cal., and two sons, John and Louis, who reside in this city. The daughter is on her way from California to attend the funeral.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

COMPARING THE RESULTS

Eckersall Says Western Teams Will Have to Go Some.

Gives Chicago the Advantage Over Minnesota in Big Game.

By Walter H. Eckersall.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Three of the greatest games in football annals were played last Saturday in the East. Never in the history of the college game have six great teams struggled on the same day for supremacy, without definite result in any of the contests. The battles were among the hardest ever fought on the gridiron, and it will take some time for the players to recover from the battering.

The Pennsylvania-Indian game probably was the best of the three. These old rivals struggled for seventy minutes in the fiercest combat of recent years. Before the game Pennsylvania ruled the favorite, but this did not dampen the spirits of the Redmen, for they went at their adversaries with that old Indian pluck and determination, rushing the Quakers off their feet most of the time, and several times dangerously threatening the goal only to lose the ball on a fumble or poor try at goal.

As was the case in recent years the Indians did not get the jump on their opponents, for the Quakers scored early in the game by a fierce attack directed at the tackles. Their defense was also strong. The Indians, not to be dismayed, came back in the second half, tied up the score, and came close to winning the battle several times. Had Thorpe, the great place kicker, been in any kind of form he would have made at least one of his attempts, but the big halfback had been in the hospital several days before the game and was not in shape to play, much less make the field goals against a team of the caliber of Pennsylvania.

The game showed that the Western teams, Michigan and Minnesota, which meet Pennsylvania and the Indians, respectively, later in the season, must make gigantic strides to entertain hope of beating the Eastern teams.

Western Teams.

In the West the showing of Northwestern in its first game was the cause of much rejoicing. The Purple should have a successful season, and this can be brought about by hard work and coaching.

Michigan was forced to extend itself to win from Ohio state. The grand playing of Allerdice, the veteran halfback, brought about the victory. The Wolverines' play was ragged and they allowed the fake kick to be worked on them for a score. Michigan meets Vanderbilt next Saturday at Ann Arbor in what should be a great battle.

Chicago and Minnesota will clash on Saturday in a game which will go a long ways toward deciding the western championship. Already a record-breaking crowd is promised. The Gopher football fans will come down in hundreds to root for their favorites, in the hope of taking the western championship back to Minneapolis.

The game will be a battle between teams playing the old and and the new game. Chicago's style is the best exponent of the new rules, while Minnesota clings to the old tactics. The Gophers have a powerful line which should make their plays strong, especially those through the line or tackle. Chicago will depend upon speed, agility and ability to manipulate the forward pass.

In kicking, one of the most important departments of the present game, the maroons will have a great advantage, as Steffens should outkick by several yards, the best attempts of McGovern, the Gopher booter. It is hardly likely that Chicago will be able to gain consistently, and punting will be their strongest game.

WANT AMATEUR HOCKEY LEAGUE

Canadian Ice Sport Enthusiasts Would Abolish Salaried Players.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—A certain element among Canadian followers of hockey is studying the possibilities of bringing the ice sport back to its strictly amateur status of several years ago. There is a strong undercurrent of feeling among lovers of the game that the old method should be followed of not having salaried players on the teams of the Eastern Canadian Hockey league. Those desirous for the restoration of amateurism contend that the game was cleaner than before professionalism developed, and that the frequent "roughhouse" tactics of the present day playing in local rinks is something that was almost never indulged in when the players were on the ice through pure love of chasing the puck and not with the expectation of getting a weekly salary.

Those in favor of doing away with professional hockey are confident that the public is eager for a league composed of teams of amateur standing only. Rough work has been so prevalent at games in the Dominion during the last few years that the attendance has fallen off, but the prospect of the certainty of seeing a fast, clever game free from ungentlemanly play would win back these admirers. The believers in amateur play have much to contend with in their efforts to bar professionals, for opposition is so strong that the amateur game would find it difficult to displace the professional game from the firm footing which the latter holds in Canada today. Just as long as the clubs have good financial backing professionalism will be extant in this section of the country.

The Canadian clubs already have their lines out for players, and reports of generous sums for stick manipulators of reputation are frequently brought up. One player, who did exceptionally fine work in the local rinks last year, is said to have been signed for this season by at least four clubs. The skater himself has made a denial in each instance, but admits that his ability may be contracted for when a big enough sum has been mentioned. One report is that he has been offered $2,000 to play for the season with one Canadian team. With such sums being offered for players it may be seen that efforts to put the game on an amateur standing will not meet with huge success.

The fact that several clubs in the United States are negotiating with players only serves to strengthen the opposition for the return of amateur playig in Canadian league circles. Pittsburg and several cities in the Michigan copper country have scouts in Canada ready to drink in the cream of the hockey world.

CHICAGO TEAM BADLY BATTERED

Coach Stagg Does Not Yet Know Who Will Play.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Coach Stagg today began the final preparations for the Gopher game next Saturday and without knowing the line of the team he will send against the northern foe. The director finds himself in a decidedly embarrassing position on account of the maroon eleven's disorganized condition almost on the eve of the important battle.

The maroon situation resolved itself into a puzzle when Coach Stagg received word yesterday that Schott, the regular fullback and Ehrhorn, the varsity right guard, showed no improvement and in all probability would not be able to get into the Minnesota game. Both of the hospital subjects seem to be down and out and the coach will have to perform a miracle in the art of shifting his players if he is to patch the eleven into the same state of efficiency seen in the previous games.

BADGER TEAM IS IMPROVING

Will be Strongest Eleven Turned Out in Six Years.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 27.—Although Wisconsin had no football game Saturday Barry kept his men busy all the time teaching them new plays, making changes in the line-up, and injecting vigor into the team. As a result of the hard work last week and that which is following, the first half of this, it is believed that Barry will have ready for Marquette when they come to Madison next Saturday, a team which will be much more of a finished product than any which has appeared on the Wisconsin gridiron since the reform played havoc with football.

BOWLERS WILL HOLD CONGRESS

Pittsburg Gets Ninth Annual Tournament of American League.

Pittsburg, Oct. 27.—The ninth international tournament of the American bowling congress will be held at Duquesne garden next February. All the bowlers in Western Pennsylvania are awakening to the fact that this tournament is going to be the greatest ever held and desire to get in on the same, from a feeling of spirit and pride as well as chance at the prize melon of over $40,000 that will be offered.

Every shooter figures that he can get in this party and this is possible, provided they roll up to their regular home average. At no international tournament held under the auspices of the American bowling congress during the past eight years have the favorites in any of the three events ever won the championship.

Star aggregations have been obliged to step back and allow some good, well-balanced home aggregation to take down first money, such as the Bonds of Columbus, who won at Cincinnati last year, pushing out of first place the crack star team of Tosettis of Chicago, composed of the best rollers the western city could produce. Every bowler in Pennsylvania, from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, has it in mind to come to this tournament, especially the teams in towns within a radius of 100 miles of Pittsburg.

GANS TO FIGHT MURPHY.

Jim Buckley Declares Scrap Will be on the Square.

New York, Oct. 27.—Joe Gans has been signed to meet Tommy Murphy before the new Polo Athletic club, in this city, the latter part of this month. If the bout is on its merits it would occasion no great surprise to see Gans dispose of "Harlem Tommy." The negro fighter, when in condition, has only one peer. He is Battling Nelson, and in a short bout even Nelson would be made to appear like a novice before the "old master" of the ring, providing, of course, that everything connected with the match was "up and above board."

The fact that Gans has again taken Al Herford as his manager makes New York enthusiasts suspicious. Had Gans come on unattended and arranged matches with boys here, New York "fans" would have thought more of him.

Jim Buckley, who has signed up Gans and Murphy, and a referee and promoter of boxing whose record is untarnished, declares that the contest will be a square one. "At the least sign of either boy 'laying down,'" says Buckley, "I will order them out of the ring and each member will be refunded his admittance fee."

DULUTH INTERESTED.

Many Will Go to Chicago for Saturday's Football Game.

There is much interest in Duluth on the outcome of the Minnesota-Chicago football game, to be played in Chicago next Saturday, and many are planning on taking the trip to the Windy City to see the big contest of the year.

There has been no rate made by the railronds, and there is but little likelihood that there will be. The crowd will not be as large as in former years, but a number of the college men and football enthusiasts will make the trip.

Kid Lee Knocked Out.

Springfield, Ohio, Oct. 27.—Jack Morgan of Indianapolis knocked out "Kid" Lee of Havre, Mont., here, last night in the tenth round of a scheduled 15-round bout. Both men were severely punished. Lee took the count after a right uppercut to the jaw in a clinch. Lee is in a serious condition and is attended by two physicians.

THE DATE IS CHANGED

Superior Will Meet Duluth at Football on Nov. 7.

St. Paul to Meet Locals at the Athletic Park Saturday.

St. Paul Central next Saturday and then—Superior.

The date has been changed. Superior was to have played with Duluth Sept. 14, but as the Duluth boys would have had to go nearly two weeks without a game, the Superior team consented to play on Nov. 7.

This game will in all probability close the present football season so far as the Centrals are concerned.

Outside of the championship games with the big Twin City schools the Blaine game is the big local game of the year.

Last year on a day as miserable as last Saturday the Duluth rooters chartered a train, and took nearly 2,000 people to the other side of the bay, where they tramped through the mud, fought for colors and rooted to their hearts' content. This year Superior plays in Duluth and Superior people will be out in force.

The rivalry between these two teams is of the keenest.

St. Paul Central, the fastest team in the Sainty city, will be here for a mix with the locals Saturday, and the enthusiasts will witness another fast preparatory school game.

These lads from St. Paul are usually a light team, but they are fast, and always manage to worry their opponents, whoever they may be.

The Duluth team is in good shape after its hard game of Saturday, and the boys held light signal practice in the curling rink last night. Cummings has an abscess on his hand, and this may keep the star halfback out of the game.

Coach Colton has many men he can fit into the place for the game Saturday, and the rooters will be satisfied if Cummings can get into the game with Superior a week from Saturday, and repeat his perforance of last week.

Whether or not they get a game in Minneapolis for Nov. 26, the Duluth team with all its expenses paid by the Athletic association, will go down to witness the big Carlisle-Minnesota game. Manager Phillips is trying to arrange a date with Nye Side, but if it fails to materialize, the boys will go down as guests of the association. The whole school feels that they have it coming after their brilliant showing made so far this year.

BETTORS ARE FREED IN RACE TRACK CASE.

New York, Oct. 27.—Solomon Lichtenstein, Orlando A. Jones and five other lesser known frequenters of the race tracks, were discharged from custody, and the charge of violating the anti-gambling laws was dismissed by Magistrate Giesmar of Brooklyn. The magistrate sai dthe disgusting features of bookmaking are having a stand, posting odds, exchange of money and making records in such a way as to conduct a public gambling business. The accused, he said, walked about talking to people to obtain bets. They also bet with others ,thus acting as both layers and backers. This, the magistrate said, was not bookmaking.

WHEAT HAS GOOD BULGE

Bullish Argentine News and Foreign Demand Cause Strength.

Flax is Up More Than a Point at the Close Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 27.—Wheat started off with a rush this morning and remained a point or so over yesterday's close throughout a busy session.

The strength was largely on reports of damage to the Argentine crop and a firm foreign demand. Duluth exporters worked a considerable amount of wheat during the short session. (The Duluth market closed at noon in tribute to the late John Miller.) Foreigners took about all the wheat which was offered over night.

Bradstreet's reported an increase of 4,630,000 bus in the world's visible supply of wheat. In the United States and Canada there was an increase of 3,130,000 bus, and afloat and in Europe, an increase of 1,500,000 bus.

Liverpool closed ⅝d to 11¼d higher, Antwerp unchanged, Berlin ⅜c lower and Budapest ⅜c higher.

The December option closed 1⅛c higher in Duluth and New York, 1@1⅛c higher in Chicago, ⅞@1c higher in Minneapolis, ¾c higher in St. Louis, ⅞@⅞c higher in Kansas City and 1c higher in Winnipeg. The May option closed 1⅛ higher in Duluth, New York and Kansas City, 1@1⅛c higher in Chicago and Minneapolis, 1c higher in St. Louis and ⅞c higher in Winnipeg.

December corn closed ¼@¾c higher in Chicago and ½d to ½d higher in Liverpool. December oats closed ¼c higher in Chicago.

Bloomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat: As a result of the firmer American cables and the reports of severe damage to the Argentine crop, shorts in the market were extremely nervous and their covering sent prices ¾d higher at the opening. During the early trading, there was a further gain of ½d to ⅝d. Spot markets were ½d higher, cargo offerings in nearby positions were very light and receipts small. The distant months were strongly supported, but during the later session December eased off in longs, liquidating due to a poor inquiry for cargoes. At midday, the market was firm and about ⅞d higher, with December ½d higher than yesterday.

"Corn was steady and unchanged to ¼d higher, and January gaining a further ⅛d during the morning. Strength was due to the firmness of American offerings."

Clearances, wheat and flour, aggregated 616,000 bus.

Clearances of corn were 250 bus.

Wheat was active in the Duluth market. December wheat opened ⅛c higher at $1.01⅞, advanced to $1.02⅝ and ranged between that and $1.02⅝, during the rest of the session, closing at $1.02⅝, a gain of 1⅛c over yesterday. May wheat opened ⅝c higher at $1.06, advanced to $1.06⅝, declined to $1.06 and closed 1⅛c higher than yesterday at $1.06½.

Durum wheat closed ⅜c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2½c over December for No. 1 northern.

Flax was very active, and closed more than a point up here. October flax opened ⅝c higher at $1.25¾, went to $1.26¼, and closed at $1.26⅛, a gain of 1½c over yesterday. November flax opened ¼c higher at $1.25⅛, went as high as $1.26⅝, and closed at $1.26½, a gain of 1¼c over yesterday. December flax opened ¼c higher at $1.24⅛, went to $1.25½, and closed at $1.25⅜, a gain of 1⅜c over yesterday. May flax opened ¼c higher at $1.28⅛, went to $1.30, and closed there, a gain of 1⅜c over yesterday.

Oats closed ¼c higher, and barley 1c higher.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE.

Duluth December wheat closed 1⅛c higher.
Minneapolis December wheat is ⅞c to 1c higher.
Chicago December wheat closed 1c to 1⅛c higher.
Liverpool wheat cables were higher.
Duluth November flax closed 1¼c higher.
New York stocks are quiet, breaking at close.
Boston copper stocks are firm.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Demand Due to Falling Off in Northwest Movement.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Shorts and commission houses were active bidders for wheat at the start today and, as a result, initial quotations showed gains of ⅝@½c to ⅞@1c compared with the previous close. The demand was due to a marked falling off in the movement in the Northwest, and to an advance at Liverpool due chiefly, it was said, to fresh reports of damage to the Argentina crop. Offerings were light and the advance was well maintained. December opened at 99⅝c to $1.00⅛ and for a time held within that range at almost the top figure. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 604 cars against 933 cars last week, and 822 cars a year ago.

The market was strong throughout the entire session, prices holding about 1c above yesterday's closing figures. The high point for December was $1.00¼@⅜. The close was strong, with December up 1@1⅛c at $1.00¼.

Trade in corn was rather quiet and the market was firm. Wet weather and the strength of wheat were the principal influences. December opened ⅛c to ¼c higher at 63⅜ to 1/32¾c and sold at 63¾@⅞c. Local receipts were 139 cars, with 21 of contract grade.

A firm tone prevailed the remainder of the day, talk of the poor condition of the new crop helping to strengthen the market. The top for December was 63⅞c. The close was firm, with December up ¼@⅜c at 63¾@⅞c.

Oats were firm because of the advance in wheat, but the volume of trade was small. Prices at the start were unchanged to ⅛@⅜c higher, with December at 47⅜c. Later December touched 47¾@⅞c. Local receipts were 224 cars.

Provisions opened steady on small receipts of live hogs, but weakened as a result of moderate profit-taking. At the start prices were unchanged to 5c higher.

Close: Wheat—December, $1.00¼; May, $1.03½@⅝; July, 98⅜c. Corn—October, 68½c; December, 63¾@⅞c; May, 63c; July, 62½c. Oats—December, 48c; May, 49⅞@50c; July, 45⅝c. Cash wheat No. 2 red, $1.01½@1.02; No. 3 red, $1.00¾@1.01¼; 2 hard, $1.01½@1.02; No. 3 hard, $1.00¾@1.01¼; No. 3 spring, 97c@$1.04. THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Free Selling Near the Close is All Absorbed.

Minneapolis, Oct. 27.—Liverpool opened strong and was ¾@⅞d higher on second cables. This imparted strength here. Argentine advices were unfavorable and one message from Smythe of Liverpool to Barnes of Duluth estimated twenty per cent to total damage. The market was up 1¼c early in the day. Minneapolis got 236 cars against 136 Winnipeg 426 and 340; Duluth 253 for one day against 579 for two days last year. Minneapolis elevator stocks increased 500,000 bushels for three days. There was free selling near the close, but the market absorbed it and closed only fractionally down from high. December opened $1.01¾; high $1.02⅝; low $1.01⅝; close $1.02@1.02⅛. Old December closed $1.02½. May wheat opened $1.05⅞@1.06⅛; high $1.06⅜; low $1.05⅞; close $1.06⅜.

No. 1 Northern brought 2¾@3c over in the cash market and No. 2 brought ⅜@⅝c over. The demand was excellent, millers shippers and elevators are coming after it. Near the close there were sales to arrive at 3c over. Close No. 1 Northern spot, $1.04½; to arrive, $1.04½; No. 2 Northen spot, $1.02½@¾; to arrive, $1.02½; No. 3 wheat, 98@$1.01. No. 3 yellow corn, 74¾@75¼c. No. 3 white oats, 45¾c; No. 2 rye, 69¾@71¼c.

Barley receipts 55 cars against 69 cars; shipments, 50. The market was steady, all prices about the same as yesterday. Close, 486@56c.

Flax receipts, 69 cars against 40; shipments, 6. Most of it sold at $1.25. Close, $1.25¼.

Millstuff shipments, 1,676 tons. Millers quote bran in bulk steady at $17.50@18.00.

Flour is firm, but sales are moderate and millers say shipping directions are not coming as freely as they would like. Shipments, 44,152 barrels. First patents, $5.25@5.50; second patents, $5.00@5.25; first clears, $3.90@4.00; second clears, $2.90@3.20.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Trading Apathetic Towards the Close, Which Was Easy.

Union Pacific's Firmness Was Feature of the Market.

New York, Oct. 27.—Quite uniform advances of a small fraction were shown by the opening prices of stocks today, and the dealings were in only moderate volume, Union Pacific, Reading and American Smelting ran up large fractions within the first few minutes of the trading.

The improvement in prices led to a more general demand, which embraced all of the active issues, and a number of minor stocks. Advances reached a point in some cases, but the substantial gains were mostly confined to the usual leaders. St. Paul, Northern Pacific, Rock Island preferred, American Smelting and Utah Copper advance 1, Union Pacific, 1¼, Reading 1⅜ and New York Air Brake 2½.

The tone showed some hesitation around the high prices, reflected in declines rather than reaction. The market held near the top. Northwestern and Baltimore & Ohio preferred gained 1 and Virginia Iron 4. American Woolen declined 1. Bonds were firm.

Union Pacific's firmness was a feature. The stock touched 171⅝, but there was scarcely any interest shown in the rest of the list.

Slight declines resulted from the cessation of buying, but losses were made up subsequently. The vibration was very slight. Minneapolis & St. Louis and American Car improved 1, Great Northern ore certificates 1¼, American Smelting 1⅛ and Lackawanna 7 points. Consolidated Gas sagged 1.

The market closed easy. The trading was extremely apathetic, but prices were firmly held until just at the last. Sloss-Sheffield Steel rose 4½, the preferred 2¾, Denver & Rio Grande preferred 2, Republic Steel preferred 1¼, and Kansas City Southern a point. Northern Pacific yielded a point from the best.

New York stock quotations furnished by Fred H. Merritt, 328 West Superior street.

SUPERIOR NEWS

SHOT WOLF IN THE CITY

The slaughtering of wolves has recently been carried on, on such a large scale in Douglas county, that it promises to make a place for itself among the county's established industries. It is a very remunerative business, when at its best, for the hides of animals bring $20 apiece, $10 from the state and $10 from the county.

During the past week in Douglas county, seventeen wolves have been killed, and the bounty received. No less than thirty-five prowlers of the forest have fallen victims to guns, traps and poison so far this month, and for each bounties have been collected.

Things have come to such a pass in "Old Town," that even the postmen have lately taken to shooting wolves as a past time. Yesterday afternoon Clyde Richmond, a mail carrier, whose route lies in the South end, punctured the hide of a full grown brute with a rifle ball, and he didn't have to go out of the city's limits to do it, either.

Proceeds May be $11,000.

The Sacred Heart fair given for the benefit of the Sacred Heart Pro-Cathedral of Superior is said to have been a great financial success. The fair lasted ten days, ending last Saturday. Although there have been no official figures given out, there have been many estimates of the amount of money taken in at the church affair, the highest being $11,000.

Bids for Tank.

The committee of the county asylum opened bids yesterday for the construction of a steel tower ninety feet high with a cypress water tank on top. No awards were made.

Graduated From University.

Miss Ethel Thomas and Miss Lydia Fadner have had graduate degrees conferred upon them by the University of Wilsconsin. The degree of bachelor of arts was conferred upon Miss Thomas, and Miss Fadner is now a bachelor of philosophy.

Witnesses Disagree.

In the personal injury case of little 4-year old Helen Larsen, daughter of Halvor Larsen, against the Duluth-Superior Traction company, witnesses gave contradictory evidence yesterday. It is a $20,000 case. The girl lost her foot by being run over by a car on June 19. The father testifies that he was sitting on the porch when the accident occurred and that he ran to her assistance and carried her into the house. Motorman Reed testifies that he was the one who carried the girl into the house, and that none of the family were about at the time.

Sold Liquor Sunday.

Charged with violating the Sunday closing ordinance, Isador Breiek, was yesterday in the municipal court found guilty and fined $50. John Nagle, a saloon keeper at 426 Tower avenue, alleged to have sold liquor last Sunday, was arraigned and his trial set for Thursday morning. He furnished $100 for his appearance at the trial.

Learoot to Speak.

I. L. Lenroot will address the Douglas county Republicans Friday evening at Maryland hall.

Big Game Preserve.

Henry Clay Pierce, a member of the Waters-Pierce Oil company is adding to his immense land holdings on the Brule river. The latest addition is seventy-four acres, the south half of the northwest quarter of 31-46-10. The deed was filed yesterday with the register. The grantor is J. S. Halliday of Boone, Iowa.

SAYS GOETHALS IS BLAMELESS

Washington, Oct. 27.—Inspector General Garlington of the army in a report made public today exonerated Chairman Goethals of the Isthmian canal commission of the charges made by President Brothers of the Balanced Crane Cable company of New York, who claimed that unfair treatment was accorded him in the award for furnishing and erecting cable ways at Gatun, on the Isthmus.

Gen. Garlington holds that there was no collusion, that the award was made in good faith, and recommends that the contract with the Lidgerwood company be proceeded with.

The report says the device of the Brothers company was not suitable for work at the Gatun plant.

THREE MURDERS; SOLDIERS OUT

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 27.—Mexican rurales have been ordered to the mining camp of Inde, state of Durango, Mex., in consequence of three atrocious murders in that vicinity, for which the police have failed to fix responsibility.

Barney Towns, an American man, was recently killed beside a road and his body dragged into the bushes, where it lay several days.

Francisco Arriola, a wealthy planter, was found murdered in the same region, and the body of Senor Cruz Candarilla was also found.

The rurales have been ordered to hunt down a notorious bandit, said to be in that locality.

HUSBAND SEES WIFE KILL SELF

Newark, N. J., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Charles M. Stebbins, wife of the manager of the Pure Oil company, shot herself last night in her apartments in the Continental hotel, and died today. In a letter addressed to Benjamin E. Stebbins, a brother-in-law, she expressed her love for him and asked him to care for her small daughter, now with his mother. The husband saw her shoot herself, and says he attributes her act to excessive use of drugs.

MRS. BRYAN ALSO A SPEECHMAKER

New York, Oct. 27.—Mrs. William J. Bryan made her first speech of the campaign at a reception tendered her by the Women's Democratic club. When called on to speak she rose without hesitation and said:

"I might have felt confused but for the rule that exists in our family that during campaign time Mr. Bryan is to do all the talking. While I can make no extended remarks, there are two things which I may first bring you the greetings of Democrats from the other parts of the country, and although a woman usually conceals her age, I shall take you into my confidence and tell you that twenty-five years ago I concluded there was not room in one household for two ambitions, like mine and Mr. Bryan's. I have therefore merged my own in his and out of this has grown a very close association."

Breaks Arm Pitching Ball.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Oct. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore Lesperance, a 18-year-old boy, living at Niagara, on the Wisconsin side of the Menominee river, is suffering from a fractured arm, the injury to which was sustained in a most unusual manner. While the youngster was in the act of pitching a baseball, the limb snapped in two just above the elbow.

Cow Visits Theater.

A mild eyed, peaceful cow caused some excitement on East Superior street this morning.

The animal had broken loose from its tether and wandered into the business section of the city. It stepped into the lobby of the Bijou theater, admired the pictures, took a look in the door of the Bijou barber shop and after investigating the contents of a tea store and a tailor shop, trotted along Superior street and down First avenue east toward the lake with two boys in hot pursuit.

Murderer Escapes.

Eureka, Cal., Oct. 27.—Denney Hazel, who was to have been sentenced on Thursday for the murder of Joseph Silva, last night escaped from jail, leaving E. I. Dudley, the jailor, locked in his cell.

Hazel was standing behind the cell door in the darkness when Dudley led a squad of trusties into the cell. As the jailor stepped in Hazel stepped out and turned the key in the lock. A posse of twenty men is in pursuit.

OCTOBER 27, 1908.

The market looks good along the line. Think we can look forward to much better prices on many of the curbs. Ballaklava holds strong from $8.87 to $9.00. All that is needed to drive this stock to the $20.00 mark is good news from the 1,000-foot level.

Superior & Pittsburg is also very strong and this one should sell much higher.

Green is more active today and advances with the rest of the list.

Globe was a little more active today and think it should advance to $7.00 very soon.

Butte-Montana is a great deal bigger proposition than many of us realize. Mr. William Farrish reports that it should develop to be the equal in value of any property of the same area in the district.

This is a big statement, for some of the biggest mines in Butte have no more ground than this one. It is one of the best buys on the board. The stock will be worth a lot of money as soon as work begins at the mine, which should only be a short time from now.

After election things should move along fast, for we start in at the right time of the year for a big advance in good stocks. Give us your business.

SUPERIOR NEWS

STEAMERS CRASH; LOSS IS $4,000

The Venezuela Suffers in Collision With the Peters.

Sheboygan, Wis., Oct. 27.—The steamer Peters of Michigan City collided with the steamer Venezuela in coming into the harbor this morning, doing damage to the steamer Venezuela to the extent of $4,000. The collision was due to the misunderstanding of signals.

Slight damage was done to the Peters also. The Venezuela was unloading salt at the Port Huron docks when the accident occurred.

THE MEACHAM IS IN BAD SHAPE

Three Large Holes in Bow—Boat is Hard Aground.

Calumet, Oct. 27.—Capt. Joseph Kidd of Duluth is here to take charge of the wrecking of the steamer Meacham, which is on a reef three miles off from shore west of here. There are three large holes in the boat, and it is expected that much difficulty will be experienced in getting her afloat. The lake is now calm, so that the work of finding out just how badly she is pounded will be, in some degrees, made easier.

The schooner Marvin is on her way to Superior, where she will go to drydock for repairs. The Lizzie A. Law is going to pieces on Traverse Island, and nothing can now save her. The Scranton is still aground off Isabelle Island. She is not badly damaged, and will be released tomorrow.

COAL SHIPMENTS FALL OFF BADLY

Business Up to Oct. 1 Shows Decrease of 1,475,201 Tons.

Cleveland, Oct. 27.—Coal shipments to Lake Superior up to Oct. 1 show a loss of 1,475,201 tons, compared with the same time last year. Most of the decrease was in soft coal, but the movement of anthracite was not as heavy as it was in 1907. This year the fleet carried 7,113,709 tons of coal through the Soo canal up to Oct. 1, and last year the shipments for the same time were 8,588,910 tons. Shipments to Lake Michigan ports are also behind last season.

There is not much change in the condition of the freight market. There is little more inquiry for grain tonnage, but in most cases small carriers for side ports are wanted. Cargoes are not any more plentiful in the ore and coal trades.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—The grain market has shown more signs of activity in the last two days than for the last month. The following charters were reported: Wheat—City of London, City of Berlin, Buffalo, rate 1 cent. Corn—Bulgaria, Midland, Ont., rate not given. New corn is coming into the market and a freer movement is promised for November.

CLOSING OF DRAW.

Minnesota Span Will Not be Used After Nov. 1.

The reconstruction of one of the bridge piers, under license of the secretary of war, renders it necessary to close the Minnesota draw span to navigation on and after Nov. 1 for the remainder of the present season of navigation. All vessels having to pass through St. Louis bay will therefore make use ot the Wisconsin channel and draw span. Docks located on the north side of St. Louis bay between the bridge and the ore docks may be reached by way of the Wisconsin channel, the cross channel and the north channel, during the remainder of this season.

A Jeweler's Experience.
C. R. Kluger, the jeweler, 1060 Virginia avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trougle that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed. Sold by all druggists.
